May 21st.—I am at length returned from my journey, with which I have been much satisfied, because I think you will have reason to be so. After we had conversed some time on the great and very late news of the evacuation of Boston by your enemies, as a new mark of the wisdom of your operations, our friend (whose name I have promised not to reveal) said, the King of England does not forget himself, nevertheless, as you see; and he showed me in a Gazette a prohibitory edict, very severe, of the Empress Queen of Hungary, against all exportation of arms and munitions from her States for America. I had already seen it, and I told him so. But what you do not know, said he, is, that the King has demanded this of the Empress, by a letter written with his own hand. I gave him to understand that I hoped this Court would not be so partial. You shall know, he replied, for you will comprehend it. As to your first demand, the mediation of the King cannot take place whilst the Colonies are subjects of the King of England, who, besides, would not accept it. As to your second demand, the King is a true Knight: his word is sacred; he has given it to the English to live in peace with them; he will hold to it. While France is not at war with the English, he will not ally himself against them with the Colonies, and will not furnish aids to the latter. But, on the other hand, for the same reason, the Americans have the same protection and liberty as all other English to resort to France, to export thence merchandise, arms, and munitions of war, without however forming magazines of them in France, which is not permitted by any nation. Besides, added he, the Colonies have no need that either France or Spain should enter into this war. Commerce alone will furnish to the Americans all that they want to defend themselves. I am of his opinion. I think, even, it will be more advantageous to you, and to France also, that she should not be hasty to declare openly for you. Once more, gentlemen, your union, your constant love of liberty, your fortitude in turning from all that looks like luxury, and in despising it; your hatred of tyranny and despotism, which are the sad fruits of luxury; in fine, all your republican virtues, will render you superior to your enemies, and invincible even without allies. These, however, will not be wanting, be assured; for it cannot be thought that with what is passing in your part of the world, ours can long remain at peace. The time will come when your friends will show themselves, and when your alliance will not only be accepted, but sought. Meanwhile you have struck a great and wise blow in driving your enemies from Boston. They publish that they have evacuated the place with profound political motives; the publick laughs at this pretence.

I forgot to mention to you that the person in question offered to reimburse to me the expenses of my journey, and that I answered they were already paid; on which he requested me to tell him at least in what he could do me a favour. I answered, that he was doing me such in rendering great services to the Americans. Finally, he desired me to correspond from time to time with him. I engaged to do it, and shall not fail. Thus it depends only on you, gentlemen, to render this correspondence more and more interesting. On my part, I will be vigilant to profit by all events that can make any change in Europe. Those which happen in America will require, without doubt, that you give me frequently new instructions and orders, provided always with letters of credence, or at least with one that will serve for the time, as you judge proper. I know to whom to address myself to ask for intelligence at the Court of France, and to have an answer in a few days.

June 6th.—Here you have a copy of a letter from London, dated May 21. You know well from whom it is. I have sent to him under the envelop the two letters which Mr. Story had left with me, and I added a cypher, which he has already used with success.

"Everything is safe. I shall write you fully next week by our friend Story. One Hortalez will apply to you on business that concerns our friends. He has your address. Be so good as to assist him."

I expect these gentlemen with impatience, and shall do all that depends on me for your service and theirs.

I trust you will always answer me speedily, and inform me if my letters reach you. I will send you once more a general copy of my preceding letters to supply the loss of one or both, in case the vessels that carry them are lost or are taken.

When I promised the Minister, with whom I had an interview on your affairs, not to name him to you, it is only until you expressly require that I make him known to you; for in that case you may know him when you will.

In about eight days I shall leave Utrecht for a country house within seven leagues of the Hague, where I expect to pass the summer.

I have the honour to be, &c.,

DUMAS.

To the Committee of Secret Correspondence.

LOUDOUN COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, May 14, 1775.

Richard Morlan being summoned to appear before this Committee, for speaking words inimical to the liberties of America, and tending to discourage a Minute-man from returning to his duty; and also publickly declaring he would not muster, and if fined would oppose the collection of the fine with his gun; the charges being proved against him, and he heard in his defence, the Committee think proper to hold the said Morlan up to the publick as an enemy to their rights and liberties; and have ordered that this Resolution be published in the Virginia Gazette.

CHRISTOPHER GREENUP, Clerk.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO GERARD HOPKINS, JUN.
[No. 156.] Annapolis, May 14, 1776.

SIR: The Council of Safety are desirous of knowing what publick arms are at Baltimore Town, in the magazine, in the hands of the manufacturers, and elsewhere; and request you would immediately send them down, if there be twenty or upwards, that a distribution may be made amongst the Independent Companies. We want but few arms now, including those we have here, to arm all the companies completely. We are, &c.

To Gerard Hopkins, Jun.

R. H. HARRISON TO COLONEL TUPPER.

New-York, May 14, 1776.

SIR: His Excellency received yours of the 13th instant, and it is his desire that you take every possible means to prevent an intercourse and communication with the ship-of-war, and to hurry the fitting of the other boats.

As to dislodging the people at the Light-House, he does not mean to advise an attempt, unless you are morally certain that it will be attended with success. A miscarriage would damp the spirits of the men at the first set-out, be held disgraceful, and the experiment in such case be considered as a departure from the plan and design you went on.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

R. H. HARRISON.

To Lieutenant-Colonel Benjamin Tupper.

CHRISTOPHER SMITH TO ROBERT BENSON.

Long-Island, Jamaica, May 14, 1776.

SIR: Observing in yesterday's newspaper a resolve from the Congress, ordering every person who has withdrawn himself from the city, since the 1st of June last, to return without delay; as I do not know (though I have not been without having some of my family here for this two years past) whether I may not be included among those who have withdrawn, (at the same time I would inform you that, through the infirmity of my body, I have been excused any duty in the city for this eighteen years past,) I would request, if I am not included among those who have withdrawn, that the Congress will be pleased to grant me a certificate, that I may show it to the Committee of this town, that I am excluded from said resolve; but if I am not, I will return to the city when desired; which am to beg you will be pleased to return me answer.

I am, with respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

CHRISTOPHER SMITH.

To Mr. Robert Benson.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort Constitution, May 14, 1776.

SIR: I arrived here the 9th instant, but did not take the command till to-day, as Colonel Nicoll did not think himself relieved before.

These garrisons are, at present, in a most deplorable situation, as your Excellency may observe by the enclosed returns. We are also much in want of an Infirmary, as the sick and well are obliged to huddle together in the same rooms. The Commissioners desired me to mention this matter to your Excellency as worthy of attention.

The fortifications intended here, with a few improvements, will render them almost impregnable, and impassable, if a boom was thrown across the river opposite them, which I think very practicable, as the river at this place is no more than five hundred yards, its depth eighteen fathoms, the tide not so rapid as at New-York, and a very bold shore. Two whaleboats, with oars, at each post, are much wanted, to render the communication more easy. I fancy they might now be bought cheap at New-York, as they cannot be employed in the fishery; also, a boat to transport stores from one post to another.

Colonel Nicoll tells me he represented to your Excellency the necessity of an allowance of rum for the men upon fatigue at this post, and that your reply was that they should be allowed a gill per man. An order from your Excellency to the Commissary-General would procure us a supply of that necessary article; on working parties its efficacy is well known. The whole garrison are upon duty every day at this post, and continue on fatigue nine hours a day. This garrison has been supplied with fresh provisions only once within the month—I fear an omission in the Commissary; if continued much longer will infallibly introduce the scurvy here.

I fear I tire you; but thought it my duty to give your Excellency an exact account of the state of these garrisons, that if anything unfortunate should happen, my reputation should not lay open to censure. Some tents will be necessary here, about twenty. I send this by Lieutenant Smith, who will receive any orders your Excellency shall think proper to favour me with. When I begin to think of our wants, they occur so fast that I fear I shall never have done. The Committee have supplied us with no money yet.

I remain, with all respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON,

Lieutenant-Colonel commanding at these Garrisons.

To His Excellency General Washington.

WILLIAM ELLSWORTH TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Kingston, May 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Whereas a resolve of Congress, bearing date the 3d of April last past, ordering the discharge of Azor Betts and John Blackner out of our jail, provided they would comply with the directions mentioned in the said resolve: The resolve was delivered to the Committee of Kingston, by the hands of Blackner's wife. The Committee, after reading the resolve, concluded to discharge the prisoners mentioned in said resolve, although the Committee had no particular orders so to do; but did discharge them on this express condition, that the prisoners should go down to New-York, and appear before the Committee of Safety or the Provincial Congress, and acquaint either of the Houses aforementioned in what manner and how they were discharged. The Committee also promised the prisoners that the Committee would write a letter to the Committee of Safety or Provincial Congress, on what condition the Committee had discharged the prisoners. On which condition the prisoners promised to go down to New-York, and appear before the Congress; but Mr. Blackner, instead of complying with his promise made to the Committee of Kingston, has endeavoured by various pretences to elude his promise, and trifle with the Committee, to serve his own sinister views; and in order to give a plausible pretence for his staying here, the Committee have information that Blackner has written a letter to the Provincial Congress that the Committee detained him here, and would not let him have his liberty. The Committee are highly affronted that the Committee should be charged with detaining him, when the Committee, out of mere compassion, released him on the condition above-mentioned. He, as a base fellow, deceived us, and charges the Committee with a notorious falsehood; therefore the Committee have now ordered him to go down and appear before the Congress, to make him comply with his promise to the Committee, and the order of the Committee; and if the Congress think he deserves more compliments, they shall rest the matter with the Congress; and remain your humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM ELLSWORTH, Chairman.

BRYAN LEFFERTY TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Esopus, May 14, 1776.

SIR: By my repeated applications to you, I fear that I trespass on the goodness of a person to whom I am an utter stranger; and the only excuse I can plead in justification of writing so often is, that of unjust treatment, and the natural disposition of mankind to apply where there grievances may be redressed. On the 21st of January last one of the Committee for the County of Tryon (where I formerly resided) called on me to go a few miles to a house where part of the Committee were then sitting, and at the same time informed me that I was one of the six persons who were nominated as hostages or prisoners to go to Lancaster or Reading, in Pennsylvania, and that I must be in Albany on the Saturday following. Soon after my arrival there, I made repeated applications to General Schuyler to know my crime, conscious to myself that no part of my conduct could be pointed out in which I had in the least deviated from the resolves of the honourable the Continental Congress; to which applications I never got any satisfactory answers. I then begged to be sent to Philadelphia, or permitted to go myself. For the performance of my arrival there, I offered any security he would require, nay, I offered to give the Colonel, the Major, and the greatest part of the officers belonging to the New-Jersey Battalion, likewise Colonel William Allen, of the Pennsylvania troops, and many others; but every proposal I made was rejected. On the 7th of April I was sent from Albany to this place, where, immediately after my arrival, I was locked up in the common jail, in a room that the moment before was occupied by a criminal, and no person, not even Mrs. Lefferty, or a servant, was admitted in. I only beg the privileges of a fair trial; nothing I wish for more than that of being heard; if found guilty let me be punished. I will suffer then without murmuring; but, on the contrary, if innocent, I am certain every gentleman of feeling will join in opinion with me that I am injured. I solemnly declare that as yet no crime has been alleged against me, neither can there be any touching the publick cause. The bearer is waiting; therefore beg you will excuse the scrawl, and incorrectness. I shall rely entirely on your goodness. I have not the least doubt but you will act in such manner as will afford me relief.

I am, with respect, your Honour's most obedient, humble servant,

BRYAN LEFFERTY.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esquire.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Saratoga, May 14, 1776.

SIR: General Sullivan will order you to proceed to Johnstown, with a detachment of the regiment under your command. On your arrival there, you will take up your quarters at the house of Gilbert Tree, innholder, and give notice to the Highlanders, who live in the vicinity of the town, to repair to it; and when any number are collected there, you will send off their baggage, infirm women and children, in wagons; for which you will apply to the Committee of Tryon County, or some of them.

You will make an exact list of the men, women, and children, distinguishing those under five years old, and those from five and under twelve, from those beyond that age; copy of which you will transmit to me.

You will give the strictest order that no abuse be given to the persons of these people, and that all their effects be secured in such a manner that the most trifling part of their property may not be destroyed.

After having secured the Highlanders, you will let Sir John Johnson know that you have a letter from me, which you are ordered to deliver in person, and beg his attendance to receive it. If he comes as soon as you have delivered the letter, and he has read it, you are immediately to make him close prisoner, and carefully guard him, that he may not have the least opportunity of escape. When you have done this you are to repair to his house, taking him with you; and after having placed proper sentinels to prevent any person belonging to the family from carrying out papers, you are to examine his papers in his own presence, and in the presence of William Duer, Esq., who accompanies you, and with whom I wish you to consult when any difficulty arises.

If you find any papers relative to any intended operations against the cause of America, or any letters from British Governours, or officers or agents of the Ministry, you will make a list of such papers and letters, copy whereof you will deliver to Sir John Johnson, and another, together with such papers and letters, you will transmit to me.

You and Mr. Duer will both give your words of honour that you will discover to no persons whatever the contents of any papers or letters which are of a private nature, and which do not affect the cause of America.

Although Sir John Johnson is to be closely guarded, he is by no means to experience the least ill-treatment in his own person, or those of his family; and you are to be particularly careful that none of the men under your command, or any person whatever, destroy or take away the most trifling part of his property, except arms and ammunition, which you are to secure, and bring down with you, and deliver to Mr. Philip Van Rensselaer, Storekeeper, with a charge to keep them safe until further orders from me.

In securing Sir John Johnson, and in searching his house, I wish the least tumult possible; and, to that end, you are not to suffer a private soldier to enter it, unless by your immediate order.

You will constantly keep strong guards, and a good look-out, that you may not experience a surprise, both in marching up, whilst you remain there, and on your return. Having secured Sir John Johnson, and brought him to Albany, you are there to cause him to be guarded with the same attention, and to send me notice of his arrival.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER, Major-General.

To Colonel Dayton.

COLONEL WAYNE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, May 14, 1776.

SIR: In obedience to your Excellency's commands, I have waited on the General, and find sufficient of arms for the remainder of my battalion; for which I obtained an order, and expect they will be put into proper repair by the time Lieutenant-Colonel Johnston arrives with the troops, except bayonet-scabbards, which cannot be procured for want of leather. I also have the pleasure to inform your Excellency that some hundred stand more may be had here, which, with a little improvement, will be fit for service.

The day after to-morrow I march with the detachment of my battalion, now on the spot; the other part of the brigade are either gone or go to-morrow with General Sullivan.

I shall always be glad to receive, and ready to obey, any orders your Excellency may please to favour me with, and to serve you with the best service of, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

ANTHONY WAYNE.

To General Washington.

P. S. We have disagreeable intelligence from Canada, the particulars of which I doubt not but you are acquainted with before now. We keep it as secret as possible.

GENERAL THOMPSON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Chamblly, May 14, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I arrived at this place yesterday evening, and shall immediately set off down the Sorel. Colonel Patterson's Regiment is ordered to Montreal; Colonel Greaton's and part of Colonel Bond's are gone down the Sorel river; and Colonel Poor's is behind at Ticonderoga, for want of provisions to bring them on. Colonel Baldwin, with the carpenters and smiths, I expect hourly.

The news of this country you will have at large from Dr. Franklin, whom I met above St. John's yesterday.

I cannot help being a little surprised at the confused manner in which our Army retreated from before Quebeck, and still more to hear that it is intended to abandon the country as far as the mouth of the Sorel. The last part of my intelligence I cannot think is true, and still expect to find General Thomas with part of the Army at Richelieu. That grand pass, and all the country above it, we surely can keep possession of. I shall warmly recommend the fortifying Point Deschambault, and hope it will be gone into; and I think there is nothing to prevent our doing it.

The confused state of this country is past description; but matters will be soon settled; and I am sure that if we are supplied with powder, provisions, and intrenching tools, all will be well.

I expect to be at the mouth of the Sorel river this evening, and shall write your Excellency from General Thomas's camp.

I am your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

WILLIAM THOMPSON.

To General Washington.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, May 14, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I this moment received from General Schuyler the enclosed melancholy account from Canada. In consequence of which, I am ordered to tarry with my brigade until the provisions are sent over; so that my departure from this place, which was to take place to-morrow, will not happen. All the brigade, except Dayton and Wayne's, are gone on. Dayton was to have marched to-morrow morning, and Wayne, with his part of a regiment, on the next day. I am anxious to go forward, but cannot go beyond my orders; nor dare I attempt to return to York. I must content myself to remain in the centre of security till our provisions are passed over the Lake, when, perhaps, it will be too late to assist our distressed friends in Canada. I shall do everything in my power to assist in forwarding the provisions, and shall follow them as soon as possible.

I enclose your Excellency a copy of General Schuyler's letter to me, which must be my direction till I have some directions from your Excellency. In the interim, I am, with much esteem, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Fort George, May 13, 1776.

DEAR SIR: You will see by the enclosed (which after perusal you will seal and instantly forward) the dreadful situation of our troops in Canada. Agreeable to the request of the Commissioners, I have ordered your brigade to halt, as you will see by the orders which Captain Wendall carries. I wish you to march such of your brigade as may still be at Albany, except about two hundred men, to any convenient place a few miles on this side, where they may supply themselves with fuel, to save the immoderate expense their stay at Albany will occasion.

Pray visit the corps that are gone on, and give all the assistance possible to forward the provisions.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Sullivan.

P. S. As many of the intrenching tools are at Half-Moon or Stillwater, I wish the troops that have left Albany could be employed in repairing the roads.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, Monday, May 13, 1776—six o'clock, P. M.

DEAR SIR: This moment Colonel Weisenfels and Mr. Mercer arrived here with the melancholy intelligence contained in the enclosed copies of letters from the honourable the Commissioners of Congress in Canada, and General Arnold. I must of necessity comply with their request of halting the troops, otherwise those in Canada, under their present circumstances, must starve.

This event will cause such an alteration in the arrangement I have made, that I must haste to the communication below, not daring to confide so important a measure as the bringing on the provisions from Albany to any person.

Be assured, my dear General, that I shall do everything in my power to prevent the disaster a scarcity of provisions would occasion in Canada.

I am your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. Mr. Mercer is a merchant from Quebeck. He will soon be with your Excellency, and give you a minute detail. Pray order up lead, and provisions of the meat kind.

COMMISSIONERS TO CANADA TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Montreal, May 10, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Colonel Campbell arrived here early this morning from Quebeck. He informs that five ships of war arrived there last Monday, (the 6th,) about sunrise, viz: two large ships, two frigates, and a tender. The enemy made a sally on Monday, between ten and eleven o'clock, in a body supposed not to be less than a thousand. Our forces were so dispersed that not more than two hundred could be collected at Head-Quarters. In this situation, a retreat was inevitable, and made in the utmost precipitation and confusion, with the loss of our cannon on the batteries, provisions, five hundred stand of small-arms, and a batteau load of powder, going down with Colonel Allen. Colonel Campbell believes the loss of men inconsiderable, except the sick in the respective hospitals, amounting in the whole to about two hundred, so ill as not to be removed, who have fallen into the enemy's hands.

Our Army are now on their way to the mouth of the Sorel, where they propose to make a stand. Colonel Greaton's battalion is arrived there, and we expect the residue of the brigade, under the command of General Thompson, is arrived before this at St. Johns. From the present appearance of things, it is very probable we shall lie under the necessity of abandoning Canada, at least all except that part which lies on the Sorel. We may certainly keep possession of St. Johns until the enemy can bring up against that post a superior force, and an artillery to besiege it.

A further reinforcement will only increase our distress. An immediate supply of provisions from over the Lakes is absolutely necessary for the preservation of the troops already in this Province, as we shall be obliged to evacuate all this country, except that part of it already mentioned. No provisions can be drawn from Canada; the subsistence, therefore, of our Army will entirely depend on the supplies it can receive, and that immediately, from Ticonderoga.

We need not mention the propriety of immediately fitting out the vessels at that place to bring over provisions, and the sending off batteaus, and constructing more, for drawing the troops out of Canada, should we be constrained by superior force to take that measure, and in the interim to bring provisions. It is probable a considerable part of the batteaus now on the St. Lawrence will be destroyed, or fall into the enemy's hands. We mention this circumstance to show the necessity of constructing more.

We can form no opinion of the force brought into Quebeck by the enemy. Colonel Campbell mentions that the information received at our camp before Quebeck was, that fifteen sail of ships were in the river, though only five were come up, as before-mentioned.

We received your favour of the 2d instant, directed to B. F.

We are, with great respect and regard, dear sir, your most obedient humble servants,

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN,

SAMUEL CHASE,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.To General Schuyler.

COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS

[Read May 18, 1776.]

Montreal, May 10, 1776.

SIR: By Colonel Campbell, who arrived here early this morning from Quebeck, we are informed that two men-of-war, two frigates, and one tender, arrived there early on Monday, the 6th instant. About eleven o'clock the enemy sallied out, to the number, as is supposed, of one thousand men. Our forces were so dispersed at different posts that not more than two hundred could be collected together at Head-Quarters. This small force could not resist the enemy. All our cannon, five hundred muskets, and about two hundred sick, unable to come off, have fallen into their hands. The retreat, or rather flight, was made with the utmost precipitation and confusion; however, Colonel Campbell informs us that he imagines we have lost very few men except the sick above mentioned. General Thomas was last Thursday evening at Deschambault. At a council of war it was determined, by eleven to three, to retreat to the mouth of the Sorel. This day General Arnold goes down there; and if he can get information of the enemy's real strength, and it should be found inconsiderable, perhaps a council of war, on reconsideration, may think proper to march the Army back to Deschambault, which is now strengthened by Colonels Greaton's, Burrell's, and St. Clair's Regiments.

Besides the above losses, one batteau, loaded with powder, supposed to contain thirty barrels, and an armed vessel, which the crew were obliged to abandon, were intercepted by one of the enemy's frigates. We are afraid it will not be in our power to render our country any further services in this Colony. If our Army should maintain possession of any considerable part of this country, it will be absolutely necessary to keep some power to control the military.

With our respects to yourself and the Congress, we have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servants,

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN,
SAMUEL CHASE,
CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

To the Hon. John Hancock.

GENERAL THOMAS TO COMMISSIONERS.

Head-Quarters, Point Deschambault, May 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Immediately on my arrival at the camp before Quebeck, which was on the 1st instant, I examined into the state of the Army, and found, by the returns, there were one thousand nine hundred men, only one thousand of whom were fit for duty, including officers; the rest were invalids, chiefly with the small-pox. Three hundred of those effective were soldiers whose enlistments expired the 15th ultimo, many of whom refused duty, and all were very importunate to return home. There were several posts to be supported with this small number, at such distances from each other that not more than three hundred men could be rallied to the relief of any one, should it be attacked by the whole force of the enemy, by means of rivers and other obstructions. In all our magazines there were but about one hundred and fifty pounds of powder, and six days provisions. The French inhabitants were much disaffected, so that supplies of any kind were obtained with great difficulty from them.

Considering these and many other disagreeable circumstances, I thought it expedient to call a council of war; and the council, consisting of Brigadier-General Wooster and all the Field Officers in camp, after mature deliberation, were unanimously of opinion, that as, upon the first arrival of any reinforcement to the enemy, all communication by the river would inevitably be cut off by their armed vessels, it was absolutely necessary, for the safety of the invalids, immediately to remove them in batteaus to the Three Rivers; and to collect the artillery and other stores, in order to remove them and the Army farther up the river, as soon as it could conveniently be done, for the purpose of securing some important posts, where there would be a prospect of resisting with success. This was on the 5th instant, and in the evening of the same day I received certain intelligence of fifteen ships being forty leagues below Quebeck, making up the river. Early next morning five of them appeared in sight, and the wind and tide being favourable, they soon arrived before the city. We were employed at this time in carrying the sick, artillery, &c., on board the batteaus; the enemy, in landing their troops, and, as the event shows, in preparing to make a sally. Our movements were retarded by the change the arrival of these vessels had produced in the dispositions of the inhabitants; for they would neither furnish us with teams nor in any way afford us assistance, but kept themselves concealed.

About one o'clock a considerable body of the enemy attacked our sentinels and main-guard, in consequence of which I instantly ordered the troops under arms, and detached a party to support the main-guard, which was now coming off in good order. By the best judgment I could make, the enemy were one thousand strong, formed into two divisions, in columns six deep, supported with a train of six pieces of cannon. The most that we could collect at this time on the plains to oppose them did not exceed one-quarter of that number, with only one field-piece.

This being our situation, by advice of the Field Officers present I gave orders for the Army to march up the river to this place, where the greater part came up this day. On my arrival I without delay called a council of war; a copy of the determinations of which I have enclosed, as I have of that held in camp before Quebeck. The result of this council is, as you will see, to advance still farther up the river, and is founded on many reasons, some of which I will suggest: The ships of war were hastening forward with all possible despatch, and had already got up as far as Jacques Cartier; we had no cannon to prevent their passing the falls of Richelieu; and if cannon could have been procured, we had no ball, and not more provision than would subsist the Army for two or three days. We should therefore be under the same disadvantages at Point Deschambault as before Quebeck. They could run above us with their men-of-war and cutters, intercept all our resources, and oblige us to decamp.*

I am, very respectfully, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN THOMAS.

To the Honourable Committee of Congress.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Montreal, May 10, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: By this express you will receive from the honourable Commissioners particular information of the arrival of a number of men-of-war, transports, and a reinforcement of troops, at Quebeck, on Monday, the 6th instant. The same afternoon a considerable body of the enemy attacked our encampment, where we were not able to collect a force sufficient to withstand them. Of course a most precipitate and confused retreat ensued, with the loss of all our cannon, ammunition, &c., &c. The store of provisions, and, it is thought, about two hundred of the sick, fell into the enemy's hands; also, a tender and gondola, with some few batteaus. At a council of war, held at Deschambault, it was concluded to retreat to the river Sorel, and there make a stand. I propose setting out this afternoon for that place, where, I make no doubt, we shall have particular advice of the enemy's strength and movements. If practicable I shall urge the repossessing ourselves of Deschambault. Without that post is secured, I am of opinion it will not be practicable, if advisable, to keep possession of this part of the country, as our resources of provisions will, in a great measure, be cut off, and with half the number of men necessary to defend this part of the country, we can make a stand at Isle aux Noix, and effectually secure that pass and our own Colonies, if this can be reconciled with the repeated promises of Congress to our friends in this country. With the troops coming on, it will be necessary to forward all the provisions possible.

We have this morning procured about three hundred barrels of flour, and have some expectations of procuring one hundred of pork, which will be forwarded this evening or in the morning to our Army. The gondola, heavy cannon, and mortars, which came last, are safe. I make no doubt you will take such measures as the exigency of our affairs require. Every information will be forwarded you as early as possible.

*NEW-YORK, May 23, 1776.—By an express from our Army in Canada, who left it on the 9th instant, at Point Deschambault, about sixty miles above Quebeck, we are informed of the following further particulars relating to the situation of our affairs in Canada, viz: That the small-pox being in our Army at Quebeck, occasioned so many of them to be sick, and the rest so dispersed at different posts for the convenience of quarters, as that there were but about two hundred effective men at Head-Quarters, where there was no intrenchment, nor breast-work, nor proper tools to erect any, and but about six days' provisions; that at a council of war it was determined to leave the place in two or three days; and that General Wooster, with his own baggage, Captain Mott, and many others, had set out on the return a day or two before the enemy's ships and vessels (said to be seven in all) appeared in sight. That it was supposed General Carleton had notice, by spies or deserters, of the resolution to abandon the siege, and the situation of our camp; and, on that information, concluded on the sally which was made on the 6th, (the same morning the ships came up,) with about twelve hundred men and six field-pieces. That, by the dress of the men, they were supposed not to be regulars, but the people from the town; that, on the unexpected appearance of the ships and this force, our people quitted the place with precipitation and confusion, leaving their provision, baggage, cannon, about two hundred sick, and everything else behind them. That the cannon consisted of two twenty-four-pounders and two twelve-pounders, several six and four-pounders, some mortars, cohorns, howitzers, all of brass, with some iron pieces of various sizes. That it was thought that one hundred of the sick went off with the small-pox on them, and that they were generally the better for going out; also, that most of our people from the out-posts escaped and got together. That there was no firing on either side, but that, as our people proceeded up the river on shore, the men-of-war followed, till near the Point Deschambault, where our people made a stand, and the ships went down the river. That, on account of the scarcity of provisions, and to avoid sickness, General Thomas kept with him but about five hundred men, intending to proceed up or down, according to his strength and accommodations; and that the Canadians, in general, were well disposed in our favour. Great numbers of our troops, with provisions, ammunition, &c., were on the way, having been retarded by the badness of the roads, which had been for some time impassable, and prevented the arrival of recruits and necessities; but that a powerful Army, well appointed and provided, will, this campaign, probably retrieve our affairs, and crown our important enterprise in that country with success.

I am, with great respect and esteem, dear General, your obedient and humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To General Schuyler.

GENERAL THOMAS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, Point Deschambault, May 8, 1776.

SIR: Immediately on my arrival at the camp before Quebeck, which was on the 1st instant, I examined into the state of the Army, and found by the returns there were one thousand nine hundred men. Of this number, only a thousand were fit for duty, officers included; the remainder were invalids, chiefly confined with the small-pox. Three hundred of the effective were soldiers whose enlistments expired on the 15th ultimo, many of whom peremptorily refused duty, and all were very importunate to return home; and two hundred others, engaged for the year, had received the infection of the small-pox by inoculation, and would in a short time be in the Hospitals. Several posts were necessary to be supported by the small number able to do duty, at such distances from each other that, by means of rivers and other obstructions, not more than three hundred men could be rallied to the relief of any one post, should it be attacked by the whole force of the enemy. In all our magazines there were but one hundred and fifty pounds of powder, nor more than six days' provisions; the French inhabitants (as I hinted in my last) much disaffected, so that supplies of any kind were obtained with great difficulty from them.

Considering these and many other disagreeable circumstances, I thought it expedient to call a council of war; and the council, consisting of Brigadier-General Wooster and all the Field Officers in camp, after mature deliberation, were unanimously of opinion that as, upon the first arrival of any reinforcement to the enemy, all communication by the river would inevitably be cut off by their armed vessels, it was absolutely necessary for the safety of the invalids immediately to remove them to the Three Rivers, and to collect the artillery and other stores, in order to move them and the Army further up the river as soon as it could conveniently be done, to secure some posts where there would be a prospect of resisting with success. This was on the 5th instant, and in the evening of the same day I received certain intelligence of fifteen ships being forty leagues below Quebeck. Early the next morning five of them appeared in sight, and the wind and tide being favourable, they soon arrived before the city. We were at this time employed in carrying the sick on board the batteaus, removing the artillery, &c.; the enemy, in landing their troops, and, as the event shows, in preparing to make a sally. Our movements were retarded by the change the arrival of these vessels produced in the inhabitants, for they would neither furnish us with teams nor afford us the least assistance, but kept themselves concealed.

About one o'clock a considerable body of the enemy attacked our sentries and main-guard, in consequence of which I instantly ordered the troops under arms, and detached a party to support the main-guard, which was now coming off in good order. By the best judgment I could make, the enemy were a thousand strong, formed into two divisions, in columns six deep. The most that we could collect at this time on the plains did not exceed a quarter of that number, with one field-piece; whereas the enemy were supported with a train of six pieces of cannon.

No intrenchments had been thrown up, nor any lines formed which would serve for a cover; we had no place of retreat, if we had been overpowered with numbers; and a defeat would have been decisive against the whole Army in this encampment, and victory would have given us no considerable advantages, as the enemy might securely have retreated to their garrison, and their shipping entirely commanded the river. This being our situation, rather than contend on so unequal ground, with so little probability of reaping emolument by the contest, by advice of the Field Officers present I gave orders for the Army to march up the river as far as this place, where the greater part came yesterday. On my arrival, I without delay called a council of war, a copy of the determinations of which I have enclosed, as I have of that held in camp before Quebeck. The result of this council was, as your Excellency will see, to advance still farther up the river, and was founded on several reasons, some of which I will suggest: The ships of war were hastening forward with all possible despatch, and had already got up to Jacques Cartier, between two or three leagues distant from hence; we had no cannon to prevent their passing the falls of Richelieu, (the only advantageous post to fortify for this purpose;) our provisions would not more than subsist the Army for two or three days; we should, therefore, labour under the same disadvantages at Deschambault as before Quebeck; the men-of-war would run up the river, intercept all our resources, and soon oblige us to decamp. I shall, however, send the invalids forward, and remain here myself with about five hundred men, until I receive advices from Montreal, whether such supplies can be despatched immediately as will enable me to defend this post. The cannon in the batteaus were taken; and near two tons of powder, which General Schuyler had forwarded by Lieutenant-Colonel Allen, were unfortunately intercepted by a frigate before it reached the camp.

I hope my conduct in these transactions will meet with your Excellency's approbation. I have kept the importance of the cause in view, and acted according to the best of my understanding. I do not mean to reflect on any gentleman who has had the command in this department; but, in my ideas of war, as there was nothing which promised success in the issue, it would have been highly proper to have made this movement some weeks past.

I am, with great respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

JOHN THOMAS.

To His Excellency General Washington.

Camp before Quebeck, ss.

At a Council of War, held at Head-Quarters, May 5th, 1776—Present:

Major-General Thomas, President.

Members.

Brigadier-General Wooster ,	Lieutenant-Colonel Irvine ,
Colonel Campbell ,	Lieutenant-Colonel Brown ,
Colonel Maxwell ,	Lieutenant-Colonel Wait ,
Colonel Porter ,	Lieutenant-Colonel Shreve ,
Colonel Nicholson ,	Major Morris ,
Colonel Elmore ,	Major Lockwood .

Agreed unanimously, That, considering the strength of the garrisons of Quebeck and the considerable force that is probably in it; considering also the state of the Continental Army before the city, not exceeding two thousand in number, a great proportion of which being confined with the small-pox, it is not prudent to attempt the city by escalade.

Agreed unanimously, That it is necessary for the safety of the invalids in camp, that they be removed immediately to the Three Rivers.

Agreed unanimously, That the cannon at Point Levi and other posts be embarked in the boats as soon as possible, and removed to some tenable place up the river.

A true copy. Attest:

JOSEPH THOMAS, Secretary.

Camp at Deschambault, ss.

At a Council of War, held at Head-Quarters, May 7th, 1776—Present:

Major-General Thomas, President.

Members.

Brig General Wooster .	No.	Lieut. Colonel Brown .	No.
Colonel Burrell .	No.	Lieut. Colonel Antill .	Yea.
Colonel Campbell .	No.	Lieut. Colonel Allen .	Yea.
Colonel Elmore .	No.	Lieut. Col. Williams .	Yea.
Colonel Livingston .	No.	Major Morris .	No.
Lieut. Colonel Irvine .	No.	Major Sedgwick .	No.
Lieut. Colonel Shreve .	No.	Major Ray .	No.
Lieut. Colonel Buel .	No.

* Question proposed by the President:

Is it prudent for the Army in its present situation to attempt to make a stand at this place?

Carried in the negative.

2. What place will be proper for the Army to take post at?

Agreed unanimously, That the Army take post at some convenient place near the mouth of the Sorel.

A true copy. Attest:

JOSEPH THOMAS, Secretary.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE CAMP AT THE MOUTH OF THE SOREL, DATED MAY 14, 1776.

We have here Generals Wooster, Arnold, the Prussian General, [Woedtke,] and about fifteen hundred good troops. Two battalions are just arrived from Cambridge, and one gone to Montreal. Colonel Poor and his battalion are expected every minute, with General Thompson. Here is to be our grand stand. We are now fortifying, but the main body is not yet come up from Deschambault. There are six battalions more on their way to this place. This fortification is at the mouth of the Sorel, on the river St. Lawrence, where our provisions and stores come down into Canada. As soon as the six battalions arrive, I hope we shall be able to drive them faster than they drove us.

JONATHAN STURGES TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fairfield, May 14, 1776.

SIR: A letter has lately been received from Captain Harding, commander of the brig Defence, one of our Colony armed vessels, that he hath taken a small sloop in the Sound with ten Tories on board, who, on examination, confessed they were bound to Long-Island, in order to join the Ministerial troops. They are in custody, and expected in town soon. At the time they were taken some of the party gave the Captain information that there was a large number at Reading, a town adjoining this, who were in the combination. Upon the receipt of Captain Harding's letter, a party was despatched immediately to Reading, who have brought in ten of the persons named as being in the plot, and more are expected from other places. The circumstances attending this affair are not yet fully known, as those who have already been brought in have not had an examination; but we think we know enough to convince us that a horrid plot is laid by the Tories to destroy the people of the country, to co-operate with our enemies in every measure to reduce us, and that Long-Island is appointed for headquarters. We have thought it our duty to give this information, and beg leave to propose to your Excellency whether a body of the Army under your command, sent on to the Island, to spread over the whole, and break up the gang, would not be of publick service. Should your Excellency think proper to adopt this, or a like measure, our people would readily join to assist; and, upon notice of the time when, and the place where, they should land on the Island, to prevent their escape eastward, would land one hundred or more men, and also place guards on our shore at different places. We are alarmed, and engaged to do everything necessary, but submit the whole to your wise conduct; and are, with great truth and regard, your Excellency's most humble servants.

Signed by the desire and in behalf of a number of the Committee of Inspection and other gentlemen, per

JONATHAN STURGES.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq., in New-York.

List of Tories gone from the Main to LONG-ISLAND, enclosed by JONATHAN STURGES to General WASHINGTON, MAY, 1776.

Joseph Bates, of Reading.	Ezekiel Jenning, Fairfield.
Abel Seely, do.	Jonathan Knapp, Reading.
Aaron Lyon, do.	Prince Hawse, do.
John Cardwell, Fairfield.	Peter Fairchild, do., proposed
Lewis Bennett, do.	for Captain.
Ezekiel Lyon, Reading.	Stephen Lacey, Reading.
Daniel Lyon, 3d, Fairfield.	Thomas Turney, Jun., Fairfield.

The above from information.

JONATHAN STURGES.

R. DERBY, JUN., TO THOMAS CUSHING.

Salem, May 14, 1776.

SIR: The honourable the Council, some time since, did me the honour to appoint me one of a Committee for building armed vessels; and agreeable to my directions, I have had one of said vessels completed more than three weeks ago, which vessel might now have been on a cruise against our unnatural enemies, had I been furnished with cannon and other necessary implements. I think it is of importance that no more ~~one~~ should be lost; and if your Honour is of the same opinion, I beg you will assist the bearer, one of the Lieutenants of the Tyrannicide, in procuring cannon for said vessel. Commodore Manly, last evening from Boston, informs me that he saw a considerable number of six-pound cannon with only one trunnion off, which is of very little consequence, as they can soon be repaired.

I have ordered the bearer, and with your leave he will tarry and see these guns put on board a boat for this place, where I have the carriages, provisions, &c., &c., for said vessel ready; six-pound shot and twelve swivel guns are also wanted, and some pistols, if to be obtained.

The plan on which these vessels were ordered to be constructed is by no means agreeable to me. I have made some little alterations in the one now completed, and have taken the freedom, in the one I am now building, to make many more: such as increasing the length six feet, two inches more dead rising, and six inches more beam. This vessel will soon be completed, and it is time even now to begin to procure materials for fixing her. I have rigging enough, but duck will be wanted. Nothing on my part shall be wanted, if it can be avoided.

Please excuse my inaccuracies, as I have written very hastily, and believe me to be, sir, your very humble servant,

R. DERBY, JUN.

To the Honourable T. Cushing, Esq.

P. S. I have not had an opportunity to see the Committee, and hope the alterations I have made, without their consent, will be overlooked, as I had no other motive in doing it but making the vessel more fit for publick service as a cruiser.

GENERAL CARLETON TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE.

Quebeck, May 14, 1776.

MY LORD: After this town had been closely invested by the Rebels for five months, and had defeated all their attempts, the Surprise frigate, Isis, and sloop Martin, came into the basin the 6th instant. As soon as that part of the Twenty-Ninth they had on board, with their Marines, (in all about two hundred,) were landed, they, with the greatest part of the garrison, by this time much improved and in high spirits, marched out of the ports of St. Louis and St. Johns, to see what those mighty boasters were about. They were found very busy in their preparations for a retreat. A few shots being exchanged, the line marched forward, and the plains were soon cleared of those plunderers; all their artillery, military stores, scaling-ladders, petards, &c., &c., were abandoned. The Surprise, Martin, and a Province armed vessel, went up the river, when they also quitted the Gaspé and the armed schooner Mary. The rear of the Rebels have halted at Deschambault; and the Surprise, with the other two vessels, are a little upon this side of the falls of Richelieu.

This ended our siege and blockade; during which, the mixed garrison of soldiers, sailors, British and Canadian Militia, with the artificers from Halifax and Newfoundland, showed great zeal and patience, under very severe duty and uncommon vigilance, indispensable in a place liable to be stormed, besides great labour necessary to render such attempts less practicable. Notwithstanding the inclement season, they preserved good health, and their spirits increased every day. A copy of my letter to General Howe will inform your Lordship of our situation to the defeat of the Rebels upon the 31st of December.

For three months after, they confined their operations to the preventing all supplies from coming to town, and in burning our suburbs and shipping. The latter have almost all escaped; but the greatest part of the suburbs of St. Roque and St. Johns have been burnt; the remainder was brought into town for fuel, which was much wanted.

The beginning of February, the Rebels again attempted to enter into a correspondence by a flag of truce, encouraged to it, I suppose, by a permission granted for the prisoners' baggage to enter the town; but as they were told immediately to withdraw, unless they came to implore the King's mercy, they have not since returned.

March 25th, the advance guard of a party raised by Mr. Beaujeu, to relieve the town, was defeated; the rest dispersed. The 31st, it was discovered that the Rebel prisoners had formed a plot to escape, to seize the guard of St. Johns gate, and let in Mr. Arnold; which was effectually disappointed.

The 4th of April, the Rebels opened a battery of four guns and one howitzer from the opposite side of the river St. Lawrence; and the 22d, another of two guns and one howitzer from the opposite side of the river St. Charles. These were also intended to burn the town and shipping; from both they fired red hot balls. The 23d, they attempted throwing some shells into town from a battery on the heights opposite to Port St. Louis. All these batteries were much damaged by our artillery.

May 3d, about ten o'clock at night, a fire-ship attempted to run into the Cul-du-Sac, where the greatest part of our shipping were laid up; but this also proved abortive, and she burned to the water's edge without doing us the least injury. It is supposed they intended a general assault, had they succeeded in setting fire to the ships and lower town.

I cannot conclude this letter without doing justice to Lieutenant-Colonel Maclean, who has been indefatigably zealous in the King's service, and to his regiment, wherein he has collected a number of experienced good officers, who have been very useful. Colonel Hamilton, Captain of his Majesty's ship Lizard, who commanded the battalion of seamen, his officers and men, discharged their duty with great alacrity and spirit. The same thing must be acknowledged of the masters, inferior officers, and seamen, belonging to his Majesty's transports and merchantmen, detained here last fall; only one seaman deserted the whole time. The Militia, British and Canadian, behaved with a steadiness and resolution that could hardly have been expected from men unused to arms. Judges and other officers of Government, as well as merchants, cheerfully submitted to every inconvenience to preserve the town; the whole, indeed, upon the occasion, showed a spirit and perseverance that do them great honour.

The Forty-Seventh, from Halifax, and the greatest part of the Twenty-Ninth, are since arrived.

Major Caldwell, who commanded the British Militia all winter, as Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, and is bearer of these despatches to your Lordship, has proved himself a faithful subject of his Majesty, and an active diligent officer. He, and indeed almost every loyal subject, are very considerable sufferers by the present hostile invasion.

I am, &c., &c.

GUY CARLETON.

To Lord George Germaine.

Admiralty Office, June 11, 1776.

By letters from Captain Douglas, of his Majesty's ship the Isis, dated Quebeck, the 8th and 15th of May, received yesterday by Captain Hamilton, late of the Lizard, who arrived from thence in his Majesty's sloop the Hunter, it appears that the Isis, which sailed from Portland on the 11th of March, having succours on board for the relief of the place, made the Island of St. Peter's on the 11th of April; that he had from thence, with the greatest difficulty, made his way, pressing the ship, by force of sail, for fifty or sixty leagues through large fields of thick ice; that on the 21st of April, when he got clear of the ice, he made the Island of Anticostie, and the same evening entered the river St. Lawrence; that on the 30th, he anchored in a snow-storm near the Pilgrim Islands, and from thence, as the storm cleared up, observed successive smokes from cape to cape, towards Quebeck; and that, after various obstacles from fogs, calms, or contrary winds, he arrived, on the 3d of May, near Isle-aux-Coudres, where he was joined by his Majesty's ship the Surprise, and Martin sloop, which sailed on the 20th of March from Plymouth, having likewise succours on board.

Captain Douglas adds, that having secured here all the French pilots, and every hour becoming more and more precious, he gave orders on the 5th of May, to Captain Linzee, of the Surprise, to make the best of his way, and gave notice to Governour Carleton of the approaching relief. Captain Linzee arrived in view of the town at six o'clock the next morning; and after answering the private signals from the garrison, came to an anchor in the basin of Quebeck, between the Rebel battery on Point Levi and the lower town, where the Isis and Martin came to an anchor also, very soon after, and the several detachments they had on board were immediately landed.

Captain Douglas further observes, that the General, wisely availing himself of the different impressions which the arrival of the ships had made on the minds of the Rebels, marched out to give them battle, but that they as instantly retreated; on which Captain Douglas ordered Captain Linzee and Captain Harvey, of the Martin sloop, with a Province armed vessel, to proceed up the river as far as the Rapids, in hopes to annoy them in their retreat; which was attended with good effect, as it hindered the parties on the opposite sides of the river from joining in their flight towards Montreal. He represents their flight to have been very precipitate, as they left not only their cannon undischarged, their ammunition, scaling-ladders, intrenching tools, and provisions, but even many of them their muskets.

The Surprise and Martin were further successful in taking an armed schooner belonging to the Rebels, carrying four six-pounders and six three-pounders; but the men escaped into the woods. They also recovered his Majesty's schooner the Gaspé, which, in the last winter, had fallen into the hands of the Rebels, and had been sunk by them, but was soon weighed, and found to be not materially damaged.

It also appears from Captain Douglas's letters, that on the 8th of May his Majesty's ship Niger arrived with three transports, having on board the Forty-Seventh Regiment from Halifax; and that on the 10th, Captain Lutwidge, of his Majesty's ship the Triton, arrived with the Lord Howe and Bute, transports, having troops on board, together with the British Queen, Agnes, and Beaver, victuallers, from England.

Captain Douglas speaks highly in commendation of the Captains and officers of the ships employed to carry succours, for their perseverance and exertion in the many difficulties they had to encounter in the passage through the Gulf, and in every other part of the service.

GENERAL LEWIS TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 27, 1776.]

Williamsburgh, May 15, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: On receiving the commission I am honoured with from the honourable the Continental Congress, I made no doubt of an Aid-de-Camp being allowed a Brigadier, therefore brought one into the service; and whatever may be the consequences as to pay, I find myself under the necessity of keeping him in that necessary employ, as it is not possible for me to do without such assistance, he acting as Secretary as well as otherways, even when General Lee is present; and much more so must it be when the command devolves on me, which is frequently the case. At present, General Lee is on his way to North-Carolina; his return (depending on the motions of the enemy) uncertain. The Continental troops in this Colony are now under my command. I wish not to add a farthing needless expense to the service, but hope that this expense will be considered by the honourable Congress as necessary and unavoidable, as is really the case, and will be allowed.

The Committee of Safety will send by the next post a proper return of the officers.

I am, with great respect, your most obedient and very humble servant,

ANDREW LEWIS, Brigadier-General.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., &c.

To CHARLES PATTESON and JOHN CABELL, Gentlemen, Delegates for the County of BUCKINGHAM, in VIRGINIA, now in General Convention:

The Address and Instructions of the Freeholders of the said County.

GENTLEMEN: As you were elected and deputed by us to fill the most difficult and important place that the Representatives of this County were ever appointed to act in, we cannot, in justice to ourselves and posterity, forbear to give some instructions concerning the discharge of your great trust. In this we have the example of many, but would not tie you down in a manner too strict and positive. Though a general confidence in your honesty and wisdom may be required, yet, in some great and leading questions, it may not be unnecessary to take the sense of your constituents. We give you ours in the plainest, easiest, and best method it can be collected. If it does not agree with the general opinion, we trust at least it will be pardonable. Actuated by a warm and sincere regard for the interests and rights of mankind, and a deep sense of our present situation, we wish to think and proceed aright in affairs of such great consequence; and are willing, therefore, to submit our opinions to the candid judgment of the publick.

The unhappy dispute between Great Britain and these United Colonies seems now to have arrived at a crisis, from whence events ought to take place which, at the beginning, we believe, were in contemplation of but a few, and even by them viewed at a much greater distance. When dissensions first arose, we felt our hearts warmly attached to the King of Great Britain and the Royal family; but now, the case is much altered. At that time, we wished to look upon the Ministry and Parliament as the only fountains from which the bitter waters flowed, and considered the King as deceived and misguided by his counsellors; and were, therefore, led to think that he might, in a proper time, open his eyes, and become a mediator between his contending subjects. The measures, however, still pursued against America, leave no room to expect such an interposition, from motives of goodness and affection; or with concessions, which may be justly required. Our enemies denounce our ruin, from the whole tenor of their conduct; and the King's Speeches and Addresses, Resolutions, and Acts of the Parliament, are evidently concerted to carry their great and favourite point. Prospects of a reconciliation have opened themselves to some, but they, we fear, were only the ignorant, credulous, and unwary; and, even to them, they must ere this, have closed with more threatening appearances. The gracious receipt of a Continental Petition, and the bare mention of Commissioners, have been severally construed good marks of reconciliation and peace, by those who too fondly hoped what was generally desired.

When the British Parliament assumed an absolute power over us, and attempted to exercise that power, an opposition was formed in the United Colonies the most pacifick which could be adopted with any probability of success, in the last resort, should our enemies persist in their measures, and endeavour to drive us into submission by force. This opposition became a great offence in their eyes; our Petitions were treated with contempt, our actions termed rebellious, and arms used to subdue us. As the Colonies seemed determined, from the first, to maintain their rights, and the rights of a free people, they were obliged to oppose force with force; and, for the effectual purpose thereof, as occasions required, to take into their own hands the legislative, executive, and judicial powers of Government. This was a necessary consequence, and no settled and permanent opposition could be made without it. They violated the faith of Charters, the principles of the Constitution, and attempted to destroy our legal as well as natural rights. We could do nothing without forming at least a temporary Government of our own, by laying aside that part and dispensing with those forms of the old Constitution which were incompatible with our safety or success. They have broken through positive laws and express acts of Assembly, as well as the ties which unite man to man in general affection; by which means they have become felons and enemies under those laws. In the struggle, the lives of hundreds have been destroyed; flourishing towns burnt down and demolished; property seized and taken, secretly and openly; thousands reduced from easy and affluent circumstances to poverty and distress; and all the horrors of an expensive and dreadful war experienced. We have opposed with arms, and persevered in our measures, with a resolution to maintain our rights, and regarded no law heretofore made but as it was found consistent with such a laudable design. Both sides grow every day more and more incensed, from circumstances which always arise in such contests; and the general confidence, so necessary to the support of every kind of Government, seems entirely annihilated, without a prospect of reunion of affections sufficient to restore it. It becomes daily more out of their power, and further from their inclination, to put us on the footing where we stood at the close of the last war, or repair the great damages we have sustained; which, if they should ever confess their error, and desire to close with us on the terms we have hitherto offered, they must, in justice and reason, agree ought to be done.

Besides, the welfare of ourselves and future generations obliges us to turn matters over in every point of view, and consider what has been the issue of contests most similar to our own. As virtue or publick spirit cannot be thoroughly lost in any country, but must survive in the breasts of many individuals, so it would be too sanguine to imagine that any country is without some men of ambitious and selfish views; who, taking the advantage of favourable opportunities, and an unsettled state, turn the scale too much to their own side, and destroy the liberty, or fix the chains of their country. This evil, we find, generally arises in, or after, civil broils, when the people have no established Government, or are led, from a sense of danger, or unlimited confidence, to give themselves up blindly to their leaders. This misfortune, we hope, will never happen among us; nor do we believe that, at this time, there are any of influence or inclination to effect or desire it. However, it is better to prevent evils than have them to remedy; and no precaution can be too great for the attainment of every valuable end to mankind. When things are fixed in a point beyond the present, many advantages may probably accrue. We, therefore, your constituents, recommend to, and instruct you, as far as your voices will contribute, to cause a total and final separation from Great Britain to take place as soon as possible; or, as we conceive this great point will not come within your immediate province, that, as far as in your power, you cause such instructions to be given to the Delegates from this Colony to the Continental Congress; that you weigh well the importance of the matter, and endeavour to lodge power in the hands of those whose honesty, wisdom, and love for their country, will direct them to use it for the publick good; that, as far as your voices are admitted, you cause a free and happy Constitution to be established, with a renunciation of the old, and so much thereof as has been found inconvenient and oppressive; and that you endeavour to fix a publick jealousy in this Constitution, as an essential principle of its support.

In the present unsettled state of affairs, when the Government erected among us is confessed on all hands to be only temporary, for the immediate purpose of opposing the arbitrary strides of Great Britain, and effecting a reconciliation with the mother country, when the contest is between subject and subject, with the established power of peace and war at the head of our enemies, and our professions and actions tend only to bring about a reconciliation, we have not the least room to believe that any foreign nation will espouse our cause in an open and avowed manner; but when we lay aside these considerations, and bid the last adieu, some foreign powers may, for their own interest, lend an assisting hand, settle a trade, and enable us to discharge the great burdens of the war, which otherwise may become intolerable. Here again we would direct you, as far as relates to your province, to beware of any other than commercial alliances with foreigners, and to keep their armies off your shores, if possible. We ask for a full representation, free and frequent elections, and that no standing armies whatever should be kept up in times of peace.

We trust you will use your utmost care and circumspection at this trying crisis, that as America is the last part of the world which has contended for her liberty, so she may be the most free and happy. She has many advantages, which others, in nearly her circumstances, have not known; arising from her situation and strength, and the experience of all before to profit by. View well the defects in other Governments, and consider the visible causes which reduced them from freedom to slavery, or raised them from slavery to liberty; and learn by these examples. It was by a revolution, and the choice of the people, that the present Royal family was seated on the throne of Great Britain, and we conceive the Supreme Being hath left it in our power to choose what Government we please for our civil and religious happiness; and when that becomes defective, or deviates from the end of its institution, and cannot be corrected, that the people may form themselves into another, avoiding the defects of the former. This we would now wish to have effected, as soon as the general consent approves, and the wisdom of our councils will admit; that we may, as far as possible, keep up our primary object, and not lose ourselves in hankering after a reconciliation with Great Britain. Good Government alone, and the prosperity of mankind, can be in the divine intention. We pray, therefore, that, under the superintending providence of the Ruler of the Universe, a Government may be established in America, the most free, happy, and permanent, that human wisdom can contrive, and the perfection of man maintain.

Published by order of the Committee:

ROLFE ELDRIDGE, Clerk.

VIRGINIA CONVENTION TO MARYLAND CONVENTION.

Virginia, May 22, 1776.

I am honoured with the commands of the General Convention of this Colony, to transmit you the enclosed resolutions, which they have thought it indispensably necessary to enter into at this important crisis; requesting you will communicate their contents to the Convention of your Colony, for their consideration.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient servant,
EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

To the President of the honourable Convention of Maryland.

Virginia, in Convention, Wednesday, May 15, 1776.

Present one hundred and twelve Members.

Forasmuch as all the endeavours of the United Colonies, by the most decent representations and petitions to the King and Parliament of Great Britain, to restore peace and security to America under the British Government, and a reunion with that people upon just and liberal terms, instead of a redress of grievances, have produced from an imperious and vindictive Administration increased insult, oppression, and a vigorous attempt to effect our total destruction. By a late act, all these Colonies are declared to be in rebellion, and out of the protection of the British crown; our properties subject to confiscation; our people, when captivated, compelled to join in the murder and plunder of their relations and countrymen; and all former rapine and oppression of Americans declared legal and just. Fleets and Armies are raised, and the aid of foreign troops engaged to assist these destructive purposes. The King's representative in this Colony hath not only withheld all the powers of Government from operating for our safety, but, having retired on board an armed ship, is carrying on a piratical and savage war against us, tempting our slaves, by every artifice, to resort to him, and training and employing them against their masters.

In this state of extreme danger we have no alternative left but an abject submission to the will of those overbearing tyrants, or a total separation from the Crown and Government of Great Britain, uniting and exerting all the strength of America for defence, and forming alliances with foreign powers for commerce and aid in war.

Wherefore, appealing to the Searcher of hearts for the sincerity of former declarations, expressing our desire to preserve the connection with that nation, and that we are driven from that inclination by their wicked counsels, and the eternal laws of self-preservation:

Resolved, unanimously, That the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress be instructed to propose to that respectable body to declare the United Colonies free and independent States; absolved from all allegiance to, or dependence upon, the Crown or Parliament of Great Britain; and that they give the assent of this Colony to such declaration, and to whatever measures may be thought proper and necessary by the Congress for forming foreign alliances, and a confederation of the Colonies, at such time and in the manner as to them shall seem best. Provided, that the power of forming Government for and the regulations of the internal concerns of the Colony, be left to the respective Colonial Legislatures.

Resolved, unanimously, That a Committee be appointed to prepare a Declaration of Rights, and such a plan of Government as will be most likely to maintain peace and order in this Colony, and secure substantial and equal liberty to the people.*

EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

EXTRACTS FROM THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONVENTION OF MARYLAND, HELD AT THE CITY OF ANNAPOLIS, MAY 15, 1776.

Whereas it is necessary that the peace and good order of this Province should be maintained as much as possible, and it appearing to this Convention that sundry officers, appointed for that purpose, have refused to take upon them the respective trusts to which they have been appointed, alleging scruples to take the usual oaths to Government, during the unhappy differences with Great Britain:

Resolved, That the said oaths be dispensed with during the said differences; and that the persons already appointed, or who may hereafter be appointed, do qualify themselves for their trust, by taking the respective oaths of office to which they are or may be appointed. And all persons concerned either in administering or taking the said oaths of office, independent of the said oaths to the Government, may rest assured that proper measures shall be taken, upon the settlement of those differences, (an event we most ardently wish for,) to indemnify them against any penalties directed by any laws to be inflicted on persons acting as aforesaid, without having first taken the said oaths.

May 21.—On reading a second time, and considering the resolution of Congress of the 15th day of this instant, transmitted to this Convention by the Deputies attending for this Province in Congress, by express:

Resolved, unanimously, That the people of this Province have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police of this Province.

Resolved, unanimously, That it is the opinion of this Convention, that this Convention hath ample power to draw the whole force of this Province into action against the armed force that is or may be employed to carry into execution the several unconstitutional and oppressive acts of the British Parliament for laying taxes in America, to enforce the collection of those taxes, and for altering and changing the constitution and internal police of some of the United Colonies.

Resolved, unanimously, That this Province has hitherto exerted itself, and will, upon all occasions, continue to exert itself with cheerfulness and alacrity in the common cause, agreeable to the faith pledged to the union of the Colonies; and if it shall appear to this Province necessary to enter into further compact with the other Colonies, for the preservation of the constitutional rights of America, this Province will enter into such further engagements for the purpose.

Resolved, unanimously, That this Convention, by a resolution of the 15th day of this instant, hath made sufficient provision to prevent a necessity for any person within this Province now taking the oaths for the support of Government under the Crown of Great Britain; and that it is the opinion of this Convention that it is necessary that the exercise of every kind of authority under the said Crown should be now totally suppressed in this Province, and all the powers of Government exerted under the authority of the people.

Resolved, That the Honourable Matthew Tilghman, Esq., and Thomas Johnson, Junior, Robert Alexander, Samuel Chase, Robert Goldsborough, William Paca, Thomas Stone, *WILLIAMSBURG, May 11, 1776.—On Wednesday last the honourable Convention of this Colony came to the unanimous resolution of giving instruction to our Delegates in Congress, at Philadelphia, to propose a final separation of these Colonies from Great Britain, by declaring them free and independent States. The day following the troops in this city, with the train of artillery, were drawn up, and went through their firings and various other military manœuvres, with the greatest exactness; a Continental union flag was displayed upon the Capitol, and in the evening many of the inhabitants illuminated their houses.

Yesterday, being the day appointed by the honourable the Continental Congress for a day of Fasting and Prayer throughout the thirteen United Colonies, the Reverend Thomas Price delivered an excellent sermon in this city, to a very crowded audience, from these words: "Hearken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and thou King Jehoshaphat; thus saith the Lord unto you: Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not yours, but God's." 2 Chronicles, chapter xx, verse 15.—Va. Gaz.

and John Rogers, Esquires, Deputies now re-elected, by ballot, to represent this Province in Congress, be, and they, or any three or more of them, are empowered to represent this Province in Congress, until the end of the next session of Convention, as fully as they might, until the end of this session of Convention, have done the same under their former appointment.

Resolved, unanimously, That as this Convention is firmly persuaded that a reunion with Great Britain on constitutional principles would most effectually secure the rights and liberties, and increase the strength and promote the happiness of the whole empire, objects which this Province has ever had in view, the said Deputies are bound and directed to govern themselves by the instructions given to them by this Convention in its session in December last, in the same manner as if the said instructions were particularly repeated.

In Convention, held at Annapolis, in Maryland, 2
January 12, 1776. 5

To the Honourable Matthew Tilghman, Esq., Thomas Johnson, Jun., Robert Goldsborough, William Paca, Samuel Chase, Thomas Stone, Robert Alexander, and John Rogers, Esquires.

The Convention, taking into their most serious consideration the present state of the unhappy dispute between Great Britain and the United Colonies, think it proper to deliver you their sentiments, and to instruct you in certain points relative to your conduct in Congress as Representatives of this Province.

The experience we and our ancestors have had of the mildness and equity of the English Constitution, under which we have grown up to and enjoyed a state of felicity not exceeded among any people we know of, until the grounds of the present controversy were laid by the Ministry and Parliament of Great Britain, has most strongly endeared to us that form of Government from whence these blessings have been derived, and makes us ardently wish for a reconciliation with the mother country, upon terms that may ensure to these Colonies an equal and permanent freedom.

To this constitution we are attached, not merely by habit, but by principle, being in our judgment persuaded it is of all known systems best calculated to secure the liberty of the subject, to guard against despotism on the one hand, and licentiousness on the other.

Impressed with these sentiments, we warmly recommend to you to keep constantly in your view the avowed end and purpose for which these Colonies originally associated, the redress of American grievances, and securing the rights of the Colonists.

As upon the attainment of these great objects we shall think it our greatest happiness to be thus firmly united to Great Britain, we think proper to instruct you that, should any proposition be happily made by the Crown or Parliament that may lead to, or lay a rational and probable ground for reconciliation, you use your utmost endeavours to cultivate and improve it into a happy settlement and lasting amity; taking care to secure the Colonies against the exercise of the right assumed by Parliament to tax them, and to alter and change the Charters, Constitutions, and internal policy, without their consent—powers incompatible with the essential securities of the colonists.

We further instruct you, that you do not, without the previous knowledge and approbation of the Convention of this Province, assent to any proposition to declare these Colonies independent of the Crown of Great Britain, nor to any proposition for making or entering into alliance with any foreign Power, nor to any union or confederation of these Colonies which may necessarily lead to a separation from the mother country, unless in your judgment, or in the judgment of any four of you, or of a majority of the whole of you, if all shall be then attending in Congress, it shall be thought absolutely necessary for the preservation of the liberties of the United Colonies; and should a majority of the Colonies in Congress, against such your judgment, resolve to declare these Colonies independent of the Crown of Great Britain, or to make or enter into alliance with any foreign Power, or into any union or confederation of these Colonies, which may necessarily lead to a separation from the mother country, then we instruct you immediately to call the Convention of this Province, and repair thereto with such proposition and resolve, and lay the same before the said Convention for their consideration; and this Convention will not hold this Province bound by such majority in Congress, until the representative body of the Province in Convention assent thereto.

Desirous, as we are, of peace with Great Britain upon safe and honourable terms, we wish you, nevertheless, and instruct you, to join the other Colonies in such military operations as may be judged proper and necessary for the common defence, until such a peace can be happily obtained.

At the same time that we assure you we have an entire confidence in your abilities and integrity in the discharge of the great trust reposed in you, we must observe to you, as our opinion, that in the relation of constituent and Representative, one principal security of the former is the right he holds of being fully informed of the conduct of the latter. We can conceive no case to exist in which it would be of more importance to exercise this right than the present, nor any in which we can suppose the Representative would more willingly acquiesce in the exercise of it. We therefore instruct you, that you move for and endeavour to obtain a resolve of Congress, that the votes given by the Colonies on every question agitated in Congress shall appear upon the Journals thereof; and if such resolve be obtained, that you, at the expense of this Province, procure copies of the said Journals, except such parts of them as relate to military operations, and measures taken to procure arms and ammunition, and from time to time lay the same before the Conventions of this Province, showing the part you, as Representatives of the Province, take in such questions.

And we further instruct you to move for and endeavour to obtain a resolve of Congress, that no person who holds any military command in the Continental, or any Provincial regular forces, or marine service, nor any person who holds or enjoys any office of profit under the Continental Congress, or under any Government assumed since the present controversy with Great Britain began, or which shall hereafter be assumed, or who directly or indirectly receives the profits, or any part of the profits, of such command or office, shall, during the time of his holding or receiving the same, be eligible to sit in Congress.

WILLIAM RICHARDSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

May 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: As Mr. John Stevens, Second Lieutenant of Captain Joseph Richardson's company, has resigned his commission, and Doctor Zebdial Potter, Ensign of the same company, being appointed Surgeon of the Fourteenth Battalion of Militia, it is necessary to fill those vacancies; I therefore hope commissions will issue to Thomas Wynn Loockerman, as Second Lieutenant, and to Alexander Waddell, as Ensign; who are entitled thereto by rotation. I shall take care to return the former commissions by first opportunity.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

WILLIAM RICHARDSON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN SMITH.

[No. 157.]

Annapolis, May 15, 1776.

SIR: Captain Campbell has applied to our Board to exchange two pieces of cannon for two pieces of cannon belonging to the Province, four-pounders. Those he has are too long for the service he is going on. If his cannon are good of the kind, and will answer the publick service, we are willing to make the exchange, and desire you would let Captain Campbell have two of the four-pounders now at the Battery. We are, &c.

To Captain Nathaniel Smith.

ADDRESS OF THE REV. MR. MAGAW TO COLONEL HASLETT'S CONTINENTAL BATTALION, DELIVERED ON THE PARADE AT DOVER, IN DELAWARE.

FRIENDS AND COUNTRYMEN: Wherever virtue, wisdom, and publick spirit prevail among a people, that people will be great and prosperous; wherever an opposite character and conduct do obtain, they must decline and sink to insignificance. We are told by the voice of inspiration, that "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." The first it was that led the master states of the world to all their glory; it was the latter that afterwards degraded and pulled them down.

On this great Continent, at a time especially when our circumstances and situation are extremely critical, when we have a multiplicity of the weightiest matters to deliberate upon and execute for our safety and that of posterity, all ranks and degrees of men should be supremely attentive to the rectitude of their principles, and purity of their manners. And, unquestionably, this virtuous circumspection, this strict regard to what is excellent and praiseworthy, ought ever to be found among those who expressly undertake, who solemnly engage to be the defenders of their country's privileges and rights. Such men I have now the honour to address. You love your country I venture to affirm; and you are not strangers to the full meaning of that venerable word. A Roman orator and patriot of celebrated fame, mentioning the subject, expresses himself thus: "Our parents are dear; our children are dear; our relatives; our near acquaintance; but our country comprehends every endearment, and the tender ties and charities of all; for which, what good man would hesitate to dare to die, if thereby he could do her service?"* And doth not the great St. Paul's declaration breathe a like patriotick spirit: "None of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself."

It is really grand, it is solemnly pleasing, to behold at a perilous, alarming conjuncture, so many stepping forward voluntarily, as thousands and thousands in these United Colonies have done, prepared to face any dangers, ready to encounter any difficulties, rather than the free should become enslaved, or the once happy be reduced to wretchedness. Of this publick-spirited number, you form a part, respected brethren. Be strong, therefore; persevere; advance with the fortitude, the magnanimity of men and Christians.

There cannot be the shadow of a doubt but that you will behave well in the brave department you have chosen, if your bosoms glow with piety to God, and are filled with fervent benevolence towards your fellow-men; if you have entered into the service of your country upon principle, possessed of a commanding reverence for a Divine overruling Providence, a generous sense of the rights of mankind, a liberal regard for freedom, and an earnest desire after the establishment of peace; for these are the principles of our American system of policy and American operations; this is the foundation upon which we profess to stand.

If the persons intrusted with the illustrious cause of the publick (both those who have to plan and determine in council, and those who are to execute in the field) be men of probity and goodness, there will be every reason to believe we shall be successful. A good cause deserves good advocates. It would be a pity, and in some degree dangerous too, that even one unprincipled man should enter the lists under the banner of liberty, or pretend to be a guardian of that Heaven-descended maid. Such had better have sought some other service they are fitter for.

Perhaps never were freemen, or patriots, or warriors, or heroes, called forth for nobler purposes than we have now in prospect. We are contending for no other prize than that we may continue to be free; that the fruits of our honest labour may be our own; that we may be delivered from the hands of those who would oppress us; that our civil and religious happiness may be secured; and that we may be able to transmit these blessings, on a firm foundation, to our children, and generations after.

It is not in rebellion; it is not in violation of the spirit of laws, or contempt of the Constitution; it is not in the rage of anarchy, or wildness of ambition, that we arise and join with such amazing unanimity. No; ye illustrious shades of our pious ancestors, and ye martyrs of whatever age or clime, who have shed your tears and your blood for dying freedom! ye cloud of witnesses, with which we are encompassed about! we declare, as in your presence, and we declare to this whole earth, that such are not our aims; that our publick measures result from a dreadful necessity; that America hath resisted purely on the footing of self-preservation.

It is evident, then, that in the present conflict we have very much at stake. There is not an individual in all these * Cari sunt parentes, cari liberi, propinqui, familiares: sed omnes omnium caritates patria una complexa est: pro quâ quis bonus dubitet mortem appetere, si ei sit profuturus?—Cic.

Provinces but is deeply interested in the events that lie before us. None should be remiss, indifferent lookers-on. The spheres of action are various; the field is large. Some have one part of duty to perform, and some another; and, withal, harmony, union, firmness, must be supported inviolably. A great deal depends especially on those who bear the military character; their station is in the front of danger; but it is a station that cannot be maintained usefully and honourably without much preparatory exercise, strict subordination, the love of order, and a noble persevering courage.

You, brave men, know what is the peculiar department of a soldier. But this department by no means exempts him from any Christian duty; neither does it give him a dispensation in favour of any vice. He is under obligations equal to those of other men, to shun that which is evil and to follow that which is good. You are Christian soldiers; do not behave in any instance unworthy of the character.

By the terms of your enlistment you are protectors of liberty; and by profession you are Christ's freemen. Don't be the destroyers of liberty, by turning it into licentiousness; nor the slaves of Satan by doing his works. In everything estimable and of good report, your officers, we make no doubt, will be your patterns and nobly lead the way.

The gentlemen who have command will show that they deserve it. They should be distinguished for martial accomplishments and for unblemished morals. They will, as frequently as possible, be present with their men, directing, forming, animating, encouraging them; herein following the steps of the immortal Wolfe and brave Montgomery. They know that they are neither to trifle with the publick safety nor with themselves; that an army can never be fit for real service unless it be well disciplined and virtuous; that there cannot be good discipline and virtue without unrelaxing assiduity in the officers; and that a bright example in them carries with it the noblest kind of authority. Indeed, every officer should study to have the vigilance, sobriety, and wisdom of a General; and every private should behave like an officer.

Of you, gentlemen of this battalion, your country entertains such honourable expectations. When or wheresoever you shall be called to encounter dangers, we are confident dangers will not terrify you; you will enter the battle, should this be your lot, with the boldness of Christian heroes, having on the breastplate of righteousness and the helmet of salvation.

RECOMMENDATION BY THE CONGRESS TO ESTABLISH GOVERNMENTS IN THE SEVERAL COLONIES.

In Congress, May 15, 1776.

Whereas his Britannick Majesty, in conjunction with the Lords and Commons of Great Britain, has, by a late act of Parliament, excluded the inhabitants of these United Colonies from the protection of his Crown: And whereas no answer whatever to the humble petitions of the Colonies for redress of grievances and reconciliation with Great Britain has been, or is likely to be, given; but the whole force of that Kingdom, aided by foreign mercenaries, is to be exerted for the destruction of the good people of these Colonies: And whereas it appears absolutely irreconcilable to reason and good conscience for the people of these Colonies now to take the oaths and affirmations necessary for the support of any Government under the Crown of Great Britain; and it is necessary that the exercise of every kind of authority under the said Crown should be totally suppressed, and all the powers of Government exerted under the authority of the people of the Colonies, for the preservation of internal peace, virtue, and good order, as well as for the defence of their lives, liberties, and properties, against the hostile invasions and cruel depredations of their enemies: Therefore

Resolved, That it be recommended to the respective Assemblies and Conventions of the United Colonies, where no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been hitherto established, to adopt such Government as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the People, best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular and America in general.

By order of Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

STEPHEN HOPKINS TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Philadelphia, May 15, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 7th May I have received, and the papers enclosed in it. I observe that you have avoided giving me a direct answer to my queries concerning dependence or independence. However, the copy of the act of Assembly which you have sent me, together with our instructions, leave me little room to doubt what is the opinion of the Colony I came from. I suppose that it will not be long before the Congress will throw off all connection, as well in name as in substance, with Great Britain, as one thing after another seems gradually to lead them to such a step, they having, within a few days, passed a resolve earnestly recommending to all the Colonies who at present are not under a perfect form of Government, to take up and form such, each Colony for themselves, which I make no doubt most of them will very soon do.

I have now the pleasure to inform you that Congress, on Saturday last, passed a resolve for taking into Continental pay the two Rhode-Island Battalions, which resolve I herewith enclose.

A letter from General Washington to Congress, warmly recommending it to them to take this step respecting the Colony of Rhode-Island, had great influence in procuring it to be done. I could therefore wish the Colony in a handsome manner to acknowledge this favour, and to return thanks to the General for his good offices in their behalf.

The affair which you mention respecting Block-Island, I shall take the first opportunity to lay before Congress, and obtain their direction concerning it. I am very glad you have given me a colleague, and am well pleased with the gentleman whom you have appointed. I am very glad to hear that the Colony appeared so very unanimous in the late election; congratulate you in your choice to the office of Government, and wish that every part of the Colony would forget and totally banish every kind of jealousy and discord from amongst them. This is a time when the very great danger that all America is exposed to, should make everybody sensible that the most firm union in all its parts should be carefully studied and effected.

I herewith send you commissions for all the officers in your two regiments, which, I hope, you will cause to be filled up so as to give the greatest satisfaction. As the Field Officers will be appointed, or at least approved by Congress, I could wish that you will transmit to me the names of such gentlemen as you may think most capable to fill those offices.

I am, with great respect, yours and the Colony's very humble servant,

STEPHEN HOPKINS.

To Nicholas Cooke, Esq.

NEW-JERSEY COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

In Committee of Safety, New-Jersey,
Trenton, May 15, 1776.

Whereas unanimity among all ranks of people is, at this time of imminent danger, most essential to the peace, safety and defence of this Colony; and whereas this Committee have been informed that sundry persons, in divers parts of this Province, paying no respect to the General Association recommended to the inhabitants thereof, or to their own welfare, are attempting to raise mobs and riots, with a view, as this Committee is informed, to fix prices to several commodities, much under what they can either be manufactured at or imported for, though greatly wanted, and at this critical juncture very difficult to be procured, particularly Salt, Wool, and coarse Linens; and as such conduct can have no other tendency but to create divisions amongst us, and deter those who are willing from risking their property in order to procure those necessary articles, whereby they will become still scarcer, and the poor sort of people in the end greatly suffer; this Committee find themselves under the necessity of declaring, that as it is their duty, so they are determined, as far as in them lies, to protect every peaceable inhabitant of this Province in the secure possession of his property, as well as the free enjoyment of every civil privilege that he is entitled to from the community, from all riots or riotous attempts whatever: In order thereto, this Committee do request that all Committees of Observation, Magistrates, and other officers, as well civil as military, in this Colony, will exert themselves, and be particularly careful to suppress all attempts to raise any mobs or riots in the parts they reside in, and to preserve the peace of society. This Committee do at the same time request that all persons who may have any of those necessary articles to dispose of, (and those who have large quantities are desired to do it,) will consider the poor people in this time of general calamity, and not exact extravagant prices, especially on such as have been procured at low rates, more particularly the article of Salt.

This Committee being informed that sundry ill-disposed persons within this Colony have engrossed considerable sums of Gold and Silver Specie, and are attempting to dispose of the same for Paper currency, (particularly Continental,) at more than the value that has been heretofore fixed on Gold and Silver Coin made current in this Province; and as such a practice must have an immediate tendency to depreciate the value of Paper currency, it is hereby

Resolved, That no person possessed of Gold or Silver Coin within this Province shall receive a greater value therefor in Paper currency, than such denomination of Coins have been accustomed to pass for in this Colony, under penalty of being considered as an enemy to the liberties of America, and treated accordingly.

By order of the Committee:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.JOHN DENNIS, Secretary.

Attest:

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 16. Referred to Mr. Livingston, Mr. Jefferson, and Mr. J. Adams.]

New-York, May 15, 1776.

SIR: Since my last of the 11th instant, which I had the honour to address you, nothing of moment or importance has occurred; and the principal design of this is to communicate to Congress the intelligence I received last night from General Schuyler, by a letter of the 10th, respecting the progress of our troops in getting towards Canada, not doubting of their impatience and anxiety to hear of it, and of everything relating to the expedition. For their more particular information and satisfaction I have done myself the pleasure to extract the substance of his letter on this head, which is as follows:

"That General Thompson, with the last of his brigade, in the morning of Tuesday se'nnight embarked at Fort George, and in the evening of the next day General Sullivan arrived at Albany; that he had ordered an additional number of carpenters to assist in building boats, who, finishing eight every day, would have one hundred and ten complete by the 21st, before which he was fearful the last of General Sullivan's brigade could not embark; that they would carry thirty men each, besides the baggage, ammunition, and intrenching tools; that he has given most pointed orders to restrain the licentiousness of the troops, which was disgraceful and very injurious in those gone on heretofore, in abusing the inhabitants and batteamen, and that he had ordered Captain Romans from Canada for trial at Albany, there being sundry complaints lodged against him. He also informs, that the sixty barrels of powder had arrived and would be forwarded that day; that the first regiment of General Sullivan's brigade marched that morning, and that the intrenching tools, and about six hundred barrels of pork, were also gone on; that he cannot possibly send more than half of the three hundred thousand dollars into Canada, being greatly in debt on the publick account, and the creditors exceedingly clamorous and importunate for payment; which sum he hopes will be sufficient till the Canadians agree to take our paper currency, to which they are much averse, and of which he is exceeding doubtful; that he had got the chain and would forward it that day to General Arnold, with orders to fix it at the rapids of Richelieu. He adds, that he had reviewed General Sullivan's brigade in presence of about two hundred Indians, who were greatly pleased with the order and regularity of the troops, and surprised at the number, which the Tories had industriously propagated consisted only of three companies, and that they were kept always walking the streets to induce them to believe their number was much greater than it really was."

I have enclosed a copy of General Schuyler's instructions to James Price, Esquire, Deputy Commissary-General, for the regulation of his conduct in that department, which I received last night, and which General Schuyler requested me to forward you. I also beg leave to lay before Congress a copy of a letter from Samuel Stringer, Director of one of the Hospitals, purporting an application for an increase of Surgeons' mates, &c., an estimate of which is also enclosed, and submit it to them what number must be sent from hence or got elsewhere. It is highly probable that many more will be wanted in Canada, than what are already there, on account of the late augmentation of the Army; but I thought it most advisable to make his requisition known to Congress, and to take their order and direction upon it. As to the medicines, I shall speak to Doctor Morgan (not yet arrived) as soon as he comes, and order him to forward such as may be necessary, and can possibly be spared.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of much esteem and regard, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the President of Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, May 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I received your favours of the 3d and 4th instant, and was happy to hear of the safe arrival of the Commissioners from Congress at St. Johns, and that so many batteaus with troops had passed there the 29th ultimo. In this, I hope, the Army before Quebeck is considerably augmented. I am too well convinced there was great occasion for it. As to money, the state of our chest would not have justified a loan or supply, if Congress had not furnished you with what you received by Colonel Reed, having seldom more than will satisfy pressing claims against myself. As to pork, I refer you to my letter of the 3d instant, and can only add that the Commissary has assured me he will do all in his power to forward a supply.

In respect to the trial of Captain Romans, or any other that it may be expedient to bring to justice, I think it highly necessary; and though it may not be altogether so formal and regular, yet I shall most readily dispense with ceremonies where it will promote the publick good. I have made inquiry into our stores of lead, and find that I have it in my power to spare you about five tons, which shall be sent with the nails as soon as they can be collected, the Quartermaster having persons out in different places trying to procure them. I suppose whatever can be got will be forwarded to-morrow or next day, with the utmost expedition, as you seem to be so much in want from your letter of the 11th instant.

Your favours of the 10th came to hand last night, with their several enclosures, for which I return you my thanks; and, agreeable to your request by this morning's post, I transmitted to Congress a copy of your orders to Mr. Price, with the several letters for them. The letter from the Commissioners, which you were kind enough to leave open for my perusal, describes matters and the situation of our affairs in Canada in so striking a light, that nothing less than the most wise and vigorous exertions of Congress and the Army there can promise success to our schemes and plans in that quarter. What might have been effected last year without much difficulty, has become an arduous and important work. However, I hope all things will yet go well.

I am exceedingly glad that so large a number of Indians was present at the review of General Sullivan's brigade. They, probably, from the appearance of so many armed men, somewhat instructed in discipline, may have received some favourable impressions of our strength; sufficient to counter-operate all the ingenious and insidious arts of toryism. When those arrive which you mention, I shall take proper notice of them, and have necessary provision made for their entertainment.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Philip Schuyler..

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO DOCTOR STRINGER.

New-York, May 15, 1776.

SIR: I received your letter of the 10th instant, last night, by Mr. Bennett, and this morning transmitted a copy of it, and of the estimate, to Congress for their order and direction, so far as relates to the Seniors, Mates, &c. As to the medicines, when Doctor Morgan arrives, I shall direct him to send you immediately such a supply as can be spared.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Doctor Samuel Stringer.

GARRET ABEEL TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Committee-Chamber, New-York, May 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your order of the 11th instant, we have taken into consideration his Excellency General Washington's letter to your honourable House; and have, in consequence thereof, sent a sub-Committee to examine the state of the houses occupied by the troops in one Ward, and shall continue so to do until all the houses are inspected. When that is done, should be glad to know by what means those houses are to be cleaned, and how the expense is to be defrayed.

The sub-Committees will inform your House what condition they find the houses in, which will enable you to give direction and advice in what manner they are to be repaired and cleaned. We would just suggest that we think the Barrackmaster would be a proper person to be appointed to superintend this business of cleaning and repairs, as it is impossible for this Committee, as there is much business before them and so few of their members in town, to give their attendance respecting cleaning and repairs. All which is submitted to the wisdom of your honourable House.

By order of the General Committee:

GARRET ABEEL, Deputy Chairman.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress.

CAPTAIN HARDING TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Fairfield, May 15, 1776.

SIR: Agreeable to order, I now transmit to your Honour an account of my proceedings since my last letter, written while at Fairfield. Since which I have enlarged my number to about one hundred, and expect soon to have my complement of men. I proceeded with the brig under my command from Black-Rock Harbour, westward; and on the 12th instant espied a small sloop attempting to cross the Sound, which I brought alongside, and, on examination, found eight persons on board, who pretended they were going to New-York for shad; but on more strict inquiry, found, to my satisfaction, they were Tories from the town of Reading, in Fairfield County, bound to Long-Island, to join Peter Fairchild, a noted Tory, who had fled to the Island before. One of the eight was Samuel Hawley, whose declaration is enclosed; the contents of which declaration are a profound secret, not communicated even to my officers, choosing rather to leave the matter to your Honour's wise direction, considering the character of a respectable gentleman who seems to be slightly pointed at.

Upon discovering that Peter Fairchild was on the Island, I ordered Lieutenant Smedley, with a number of men, to proceed to the Island in the small sloop, in order to apprehend Fairchild; but upon Mr. Hawley's disclosing the whole scene, I hoisted a signal for Lieutenant Smedley to return, which he did immediately, and we arrived here this day; since which have despatched my orders several ways, and have brought in seven Tories more, whose names were given me by one of the eight taken on board the sloop, and expect some of the leading persons will soon be apprehended. I have ordered a small sloop to be taken into the Government service, and Lieutenant Smedley, with forty men under him, to take the sloop and proceed directly to Long-Island in pursuit of Fairchild, with directions to take one of the eight Tories taken in the little sloop, who knows the place where Fairchild is lodged, and had appointed to join him there, who is to write to Fairchild and acquaint him of his arrival; which, if it is hoped, will afford Lieutenant Smedley a favourable opportunity to seize him. I have taken this step from a full conviction of the great expediency, and even necessity of the measure, and by the advice of Jonathan Sturges, Esquire, whom I have consulted on the occasion. In the beforementioned manœuvre I had an opportunity to open sundry letters passing the Sound, which have improved, but made no material discoveries. I send this to your Honour by my Clerk, and pray a copy of this by him, as I am so hurried as not to have time to copy. Shall proceed to New-London, with a view more thoroughly to fit the brig, and procure such things as are necessary for a cruise, unless your Honour should order me otherwise. It is my opinion it will be highly serviceable to employ several small cruisers in the Sound, especially at the westward, to prevent the collection of Tories on the Island, and to prevent the escape of those who are collected there, as, it is hoped, an attempt will be made soon to seize the whole body of them.

I pray your Honour's direction for my future conduct, which I shall endeavour punctually to observe, and shall make it my great study to serve the common cause to the utmost of my power.

I am, with great truth and regard, your Honour's most obedient, humble servant,

SETH HARDING.

To His Honour Governour Trumbull, Esquire.

Fairfield, May 15, 1776.

SIR: The declaration of Samuel Hawley, enclosed in Captain Harding's letter, to which we beg leave more particularly to refer your Honour, contains the most minute account we have yet been able to get of a horrid plot formed by the Tories to co-operate with our enemies to destroy the country. This Mr. Hawley, whom Captain Harding has encouraged to expect favour, as far as is consistent with the publick safety, is an inhabitant of Reading, of good estate, and appears to be a candid, sensible man, was frank and open in his declaration, seems to be very penitent and willing to submit to anything that shall be imposed on him. He disclosed the affair voluntarily, without any compulsion, and altogether freely, and seems to rejoice that he is stopped in his course, and appears to be much relieved from the distress of mind the Tories generally labour under. If he might have your Honour's or the honourable Assembly's favour to be improved as a witness, would submit to such bond for his appearance before your Honour, the Superior Court, or any other court, for his good behaviour and abiding on his own plantation, as your Honour shall order. From the opportunity we have had to become acquainted with his temper and disposition, we think we may venture to recommend him to your Honour's favour, so far at least as to be under bonds for his appearance and good behaviour until the Superior Court, then to give evidence.

Captain Harding thinks himself bound in honour to make this representation to your Honour; and we think we can freely join, as we trust something effectual will be done now to root out the gang, so that we do not apprehend danger from Mr. Hawley, should he prove to be false in the end, which we can by no means believe. We submit the matter to your Honour's wise conduct; and are, with great truth and regard, your Honour's most obedient, humble servants,

JONATHAN STURGES,
SETH HARDING.

LITCHFIELD COUNTY (CONNECTICUT) COMMITTEE.

Litchfield County, Colony of Connecticut, }
May 15, 1776. }

At a meeting of the Committees of Inspection of the several Towns in said County, Reuben Smith, Esq., Chairman:

Among other things laid before said meeting, the method of electing Members of the Continental Congress was thought worthy of their consideration; and although as Committees of Inspection they do not pretend to take up the matter, yet, considered as individuals, they conceive they have an undoubted right to express their sentiments relative thereto. And as the mode of electing Members of the Continental Congress is a subject of very great importance at this critical juncture, it is to be wished that the sentiments of the freemen and respectable inhabitants of this Colony may be known on that head. We hope that our making publick in this way the sentiments of this County, so far as we are able to collect them, will at least have no ill tendency.

We were more particularly led to the consideration of this matter from a piece which lately appeared in the Connecticut Courant, entitled, "Articles of Confederation of the several United Colonies," wherein, among other things, it was proposed "That the Delegates for the several United Colonies should be chosen by the several Provincial Assemblies or Conventions;" which method, we humbly conceive, is not agreeable to the freedom of the times, to the Constitution of this Colony, nor the reason or nature of things. We mean not to enter largely upon the subject, but would just observe in brief, that although our Assembly are chosen by the freemen, yet they being only representatives, cannot communicate that representative authority to others; this would be delegating authority which was never communicated to them, which we conceive to be an absurdity. We therefore beg leave to observe to the publick, that although we have most heartily acquiesced in the mode of electing the members of Congress hitherto practised in this Colony, and have most assured confidence in the wisdom, virtue, and patriotism of the honourable General Assembly, who have with so much facility devised such salutary measures for our common safety during the late and present exigencies of the times; nor do we pretend to say but that it may be best, for the present, to proceed in the same method until such time as the limits of the Continental authority are more precisely ascertained; yet we believe that as a just and equal representation is the greatest security any free people can have for the enjoyment of their just rights, so it is the inherent birthright of every member of society to have his voice in the choice of those into whose hands he commits the power of governing and directing for the good of the community at large. The more complex any form of Government is, the more danger there is that, in some future period of time, the component parts, which may be of different natures, will, in the end, operate to the total subversion of the Constitution; the more simple, therefore, the less danger. And as an equal representation, in which consists the essence of sound polity and good Government, cannot long take place where the freemen at large have not their voice in the choice of their representatives, it appears to us indispensably necessary that the members of the Congress be annually elected by the impartial, unbiased, uncorrupted voice of the freemen at large.

Thus we have hinted at what appears to us reasonable respecting the subject above-mentioned, without presuming to prescribe the manner in which the exercise of this right of election ought to take place, hoping prescriptions of that kind will in due time be made by some one or other of those venerable bodies of men intrusted with the publick weal of the United Colonies at the present day.

We conclude with recommending the consideration of the premises to our free brethren of this Colony, that the most salutary measures to perpetuate our freedom may finally be adopted.

A true copy. Attest:

LYNDE LORD, Clerk.

AARON HOBART TO RICHARD DEVENS.

Abington, May 15, 1776.

SIR: I received yours, by your son, of the 14th instant. I can make the shot immediately, and will send them to Weymouth, for the boats do go, and they may be sent to the Castle or to Boston next week.

I have all the discouragement and misfortune in casting the cannon. Something has attended the failure, which I refer you to your son for intelligence. As to the pots, I have sent five hundred and thirty to Roxbury, to Major Ruggles and Mr. Partridge; the remainder are at the furnace. The shot are already cast at Bridgewater. I am in want of some cash, and should be glad you would send me one hundred pounds by Mr. Robert Herrington.

Your most obedient and humble servant,

AARON HOBART.

To Mr. Richard Devens.

N. B. Bar iron, I have five tons by me at your furnace, at five and a half dollars per hundred weight.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1776.

SIR: I do myself the honour to enclose you several resolutions passed by the Congress, to which I beg leave to refer you.

The Congress being of opinion that it is necessary, as well for your health as the publick service, that you should embrace the earliest opportunity of coming to Philadelphia, have directed me to write to you, and request that you will repair to Philadelphia as soon as you can conveniently, in order to consult with Congress upon such measures as may be necessary for the carrying on the ensuing campaign. I hope the situation of the great affairs with which you are intrusted will admit your making this excursion, which I apprehend may be serviceable to your health; in which case, I request the favour that you will please to honour me with your and your lady's company at my house, where I have a bed at your service during your continuance here, and where every endeavour of mine and Mrs. Hancock's shall be exerted to make your abode agreeable. I reside in an airy, open part of the city, in Arch and Fourth streets. If this should be agreeable to you, it would afford me much pleasure.

I am to inform you that the Congress have this day appointed Horatio Gates, Esq., a Major-General, and Thomas Mifflin, Esq., a Brigadier-General, in the Continental Army. A commission for the former gentleman I transmit by this opportunity. I have delivered one to Mr. Mifflin here.

I could wish, if consistent with the service, it might be agreeable to you to direct those two gentlemen to repair to Boston; but I would not urge a matter which entirely rests with you. I know, however, your disposition will prompt you to make as agreeable an arrangement as possible.

I have the honour to be, with respectful sentiments and esteem, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington, at New-York.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL GATES.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1776.

SIR: The very great services you have performed for America, by introducing order and discipline into the Army of the United Colonies, as well as your zeal and ardour in the American cause, have induced Congress to promote you to the rank of a Major-General in the American Army. I do myself the pleasure to enclose your commission, and have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Major-General Gates, New-York.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: By the best intelligence from Europe, it appears that the British nation have proceeded to the last extremity, and have actually taken into pay a number of foreign troops, who, in all probability, are on their passage to America at this very time. The transactions of the Ministry are so much hid from view, that we are left to wander in the field of conjecture; and it is entirely to accident we are indebted for any little information we may receive with regard to their designs against us. This uncertainty, however, I hope will have the proper effect. It should stimulate the Colonies to greater diligence and vigour, in preparing to ward off the blow, as our enemies may, for anything we know, be at our very door. In this situation of affairs, it is highly necessary that the town of Boston should receive a reinforcement, to prevent it from falling again into the hands of such miscreants as have just been driven out of it. The Congress, therefore, considering the small number of troops in that place, and the impossibility of detaching any from the Continental Army, which has lately been much weakened by the two brigades, consisting of ten regiments, ordered into Canada, have come to the enclosed resolutions, which I am commanded to transmit you, being fully assured that you will do everything in your power to carry the same into effect as speedily as possible. I enclose to you, also, blank commissions for the Captains and subalterns of the two regiments to be raised in Massachusetts Colony, to be filled up with the names of the persons you may please to appoint.

With respect to the Field Officers, I have it in command to request you will please to recommend to Congress, as early as possible, the names of persons you judge proper for those offices, in order that they may be appointed and commissioned by the Congress. As soon as I have the honour to receive your recommendations, I will lay them before Congress, and immediately upon their determination, transmit you the commissions filled up accordingly.

I have the honour to be, with every respectful sentiment and much esteem, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable Assembly of Massachusetts-Bay.

P. S. The Congress have been pleased to appoint Horatio Gates, Esq., to be a Major-General, and Thomas Mifflin, Esq., to be a Brigadier-General, in the Continental Army. I have written to General Washington, to request him, if agreeable, that those gentlemen may take the command in Boston.

I am prevented enclosing a resolve by means of the Secretary, with the Journal, being out of town. It is a resolution for the liberation of Dr. Church, in his present infirm, dangerous state. He is to be sent by Governour Trumbull to the Assembly of Massachusetts, and they are requested to take bail in one thousand pounds, lawful money, for his appearance hereafter, before a proper court authorized to try him. I a few days ago delivered a copy of the resolve to the Doctor's brother; will transmit one to you by tomorrow's post.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONVENTION.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: You will perceive by the enclosed resolve of Congress, which I am commanded to transmit you, that they have directed another battalion to be raised in your Colony on Continental pay. The Army under General Washington has been so extremely weakened, by detaching ten regiments into Canada, on a most important service, that it has become apparently necessary for the security of the Eastern Governments to increase the number of troops in that quarter. The Congress have accordingly resolved that two regiments be raised in Massachusetts-Bay, one in New-Hampshire, and one in Connecticut, for the service of the United Colonies. They have also been pleased to appoint Horatio Gates, Esquire, a Major-General, and Thomas Mifflin, Esquire, a Brigadier-General in the Continental Army.

Your zeal and ardour in the American cause will, I am persuaded, induce you to carry the enclosed resolve into effect, with all the expedition which your own situation and the publick good so evidently require.

I enclose you, also, blank commissions for the Captains and subalterns of the regiment to be raised in your Colony, to be filled up with the names of the persons you may please to appoint. With respect to the Field Officers, I have it in command to request you will please to recommend to Congress as early as possible the names of persons you judge proper for those offices, in order that they may be appointed and commissioned by the Congress. As soon as I have the honour to receive your recommendations, I will lay them before Congress, and immediately upon their determination transmit you the commissions, filled up accordingly.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable the Convention of New-Hampshire.

[Same to the Honourable the Assembly of Connecticut.]

GEORGE MORGAN TO LEWIS MORRIS.

[Read May 27, 1776. Referred to the Standing Committee on Indian Affairs.]

Pittsburgh, May 16, 1776.

DEAR SIR: My letter to the Commissioners for Indian Affairs, dated the 3d instant, I enclosed to you by Mrs. Connolly, who is on a visit to her husband. The man who accompanied her will set out on his return here about the time you receive this. I therefore flatter myself with hearing from you by him; and, if you can, do let Mrs. Morgan know of the opportunity. I enclose her letter in yours, directed, "On the publick service," with your name on the outside. This will ensure their coming safe.

In a few weeks you may expect full intelligence, as I have sent to all the towns, Detroit and Niagara, at the risk, too, of paying all the expenses myself. This is a critical time, and unless the Commissioners can attend to their department, or I have full powers, you will hear of things going very wrong. Mr. Butler's continuing to tell the Indians he is the agent, confuses them, and makes all concerned appear ridiculous.

Isaac Still, the Interpreter, died a few days after I left him. His widow and son arrived here the 7th instant. On the road Captain White-Eyes's little horse, which I understood you bought for him from Mr. Speare, was claimed and taken from Still's son by a Moses Watson, of Ligonier. What can be done in this matter?

Captain Arbuckle, with a company of Virginia forces, departed from hence yesterday for the mouth of the Great Kenhawa, where they are to rebuild the fort, and to remain till further orders from the Convention. I thought it necessary to send an Indian with them, and a proper message on the occasion to the Delawares and Shawnees, accompanied by one of his officers, which I am sure will have a good effect.

Things are not right with the Northern Indians, particularly with the Senecas. I have now two Indians at Niagara, attending the treaty there, and no doubt proper persons are employed from the Northern Department for the same purpose; so that you cannot fail of receiving early intelligence of the designs of our enemies there, which, as I surmise, are against Pittsburgh. I have told Captain Nevil so, that he may be prepared. My reasons are, first, their force is sufficient, provided they can gain over the Indians; second, they have water-carriage all the way, except eight miles; third, there is scarcely powder west of the mountains sufficient for every man to prime his gun, and only two hundred pounds in the fort here; fourth, they cannot be strangers to our situation; and fifth, it is an object well worthy their enterprise. As this is mere suspicion in me, from their having lately reconnoitred the carrying place, and from the practicability of the scheme, I venture only to intimate it to you. Had I discretionary powers I would do several things to defeat such a plan if formed, which I cannot now do; nor indeed hardly anything except at the risk of bearing the expense myself. I have, therefore, taken the liberty to point out some necessary particulars for the Commissioners or Congress to instruct me in.

Between the 10th and 15th of June three or four of the Shawnee Chiefs, and as many of the Delawares, will be here, and I expect three Chiefs of the Senecas. I shall therefore depend on you to have the bearer, Mr. Boreman, despatched so as to arrive here by the 15th at farthest, with my instructions, and the time fixed for the treaty, as it is of very great consequence.

I likewise flatter myself that Mr. Butler will have advice from the Commissioners not to interfere further in my department, or that I shall have leave to return home after I forward the grand belt, which you may rely on I will do, unless obstacles are designedly thrown in my way, and that you will see Deputies here from the Anabache confederacy in consequence thereof, desiring to take hold (as they express themselves) of the chain of friendship.

Yesterday I gave information to the Committee here of a certain Molloy, one of Captain Campbell's soldiers, lately confined at Philadelphia, who arrived here the 10th instant, with a message from Dr. Connolly to Mr. McKee, to forward certain orders and intelligence to Detroit. The man is secured, and the County Committee will meet next Tuesday, when all their proceedings therein shall be sent to you. I need not tell you how I obtained this intelligence, nor must it be mentioned. Mr. McKee is to be examined by the Committee.

I beg you will make my compliments to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, to your sister, to Mr. and Mrs. Shee, and all the family.

I am, dear sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE MORGAN.

To Lewis Morris, Esquire.

P. S. I have acquainted Mr. Butler of this opportunity several days past. He is now at Hanna's Town, so that I suppose he does not write.

ROBERT MORRIS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed letters will discover to your Excellency that the Congress have ordered two hundred and forty-four muskets to be forwarded from Rhode-Island to New-York for the Continental service; and as it is probable you may think proper to give some directions about the mode of getting them safe down, we trouble you with these open letters, that you may have an opportunity of forwarding them, and of adding thereto what you may think necessary.

We have the honour to be your Excellency's obedient, humble servants.

By order of the Secret Committee:

ROBERT MORRIS, Chairman.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, May 16, 1776.

The Committee having already made known to the inhabitants of this city the pressing occasion there is for a large quantity of Lead, to be employed in the defence of this country, and requested them to spare for the publick use the various species of Leaden Weights in their respective families, the Committee, as the most easy and expeditious method of procuring such Lead, have appointed Thomas Nevell, Frazer Kinsley, William Colliday, and John Darcy, to go round the city, and receive it at the several houses, they paying at the rate of six pence per pound, as formerly specified, it being understood that clock-weights are not at present comprehended among them, as the iron weights to replace them are not yet made.

It is expected that every virtuous citizen will immediately and cheerfully comply with this requisition; but if any persons should be so lost to all sense of the publick good as to refuse, a list of their names is directed to be returned to this Committee.

Extract from the Minutes:

WILLIAM GOVETT, Secretary.

COLONEL TUPPER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Sloop Hester, off Amboy, May 16, 1776.

SIR: Ever since the evening date of my last report I have been employed in detecting some persons who have lately been on board the men-of-war, in a small sloop which I have taken into custody, and shall wait your Excellency's orders for a further disposition of her. I have also taken, and sent by Lieutenant Humphreys, who brings this, one Mrs. Darbage, who went on board. She has absolutely refused to give any account, or answer any questions, both to the Committee of the town as well as to myself, and says she will do the same to your Excellency; but it is my opinion a little smell of the black-hole will set her tongue at liberty. It is the opinion of our friends in this town that she is able to bring out a number of rascals and villains in sundry towns nigh here.

There is something unaccountable to me, as well as of the Committee here, respecting the conduct of the Committee of Brunswick, where one John Hartwick resides, who conveyed the woman on board, and carried fresh meat, hams, &c. I sent a party to apprehend him, but he could not be found until the officers pledged their honours that no violence should be offered. The Committee met, examined him, and resolved that, as he had got on shore, it was more proper he should be tried by their own Provincial Congress than by military law; took bonds for his appearance, and set him at liberty. As a good correspondence with the Committees is so necessary, (which I have endeavoured and obtained here and elsewhere,) I judged (however I may be mistaken) that it would not be prudent for me to arrest him until I had acquainted your Excellency with the circumstances; your further orders will be obeyed to a tittle. It is thought that he is detained, lest by examination he should bring out some pretended friends in disguise; he owns he saw Person, — Langdon and his brother, who live on Long-Island, near Hog-Island, on board one of the ships, as he (said Hartwick) was on board both.

I have sent a number of limes, which I found in the care of one Thomas Stevens, a late collector, who is very insolent, but I can get no evidence against him unless the lady's tongue should be set at liberty, and I could find no owner for them and thought no person could be more deserving of them than your Excellency. I have kept a few to drink your Excellency's health.

I am instantly removing my station to Princess-Bay; shall send the whale-boats to cruise in the Narrows. The Tories here begin to hang their heads like bulrushes, and the friends to America have taken great courage and act more vigorous since my arrival; hope soon, by God's blessing, to be able to bring them to terms, as well as many other of your Excellency's enemies. I have got a good rattan, and, unless I am forbid by your Excellency, if they insult me as a Continental officer, as some of them have done, rather than trouble your Excellency with such villains, I will pay them off at the small end of my rattan.

As I conceive that as soon as I can complete the number of whale-boats, &c., as was proposed, it will be necessary to send part of the armament to cruise on Long-Island shore; and as I conceive that the vessel which we sent up the Sound after them waits only for a wind to return, that when the wind is fair, should be glad of your Excellency's approbation to post my vessels in the best manner I can, and return to New-York to man and direct the said boats, &c.

I cannot discover any alteration of the situation of the ships at the Hook.

I am your Excellency's most obliged and obedient humble servant,

BENJAMIN TUPPER,
Lieutenant-Colonel 21st Regiment.

To His Excellency General Washington.

Thursday, 10 o'clock A. M.

P. S. As Captain Grige Cregier, of the schooner Putnam, who is gone to York to procure some necessaries, was with the Committee at Brunswick, your Excellency can inquire of him further of the matter.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO JONATHAN STURGES.

New-York, May 16, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 14th, with an account of the apprehending of sundry Tories by order of your Committee, and the taking of others by Captain Harding, is now before me. Your zeal and activity upon this occasion is truly commendable, and with great pleasure I will lend any aid in my power that shall be thought within the line of my department to root out or secure such abominable pests of society; but as you have neither pointed out the names or places of abode of the persons alluded to by your informants on Long-Island, I must beg the favour of a more explicit description from you; and, in the mean while, will set on foot a proper inquiry into this matter of some gentlemen here acquainted with the Island, and concert some plan for defeating the designs which you think are in agitation.

I shall add no more at present, than that I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Jonathan Sturges, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Suffolk.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

New-York, May 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The honourable Continental Congress having come to sundry resolutions respecting the cannon and stores in and about Boston, and the mode to be observed for paying the Militia lately called in for the defence of the lines before Boston, I do myself the honour to transmit you copies thereof, lest they may not have come to hand. I would observe that I think it will be of advantage to you to make your arrangements of the cannon originally belonging to the Colony and those presented it by Congress, and not to count on those brought from Ticonderoga, and which are left, though Congress are willing to lend them; for it is more than probable that they may be wanted elsewhere, and if they should, it will derange your order and lay you under the necessity of providing others and carriages at a time that may be inconvenient, and when they may be made useful.

I am, gentlemen, with great respect and esteem, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable the Council and Representatives of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

New-York, May 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The honourable Continental Congress having lately come to some resolutions respecting the cannon and other stores in Boston, which interest your Colony, and the mode to be observed for paying the Militia lately called on for the defence of the lines before Boston, I do myself the honour to transmit you copies thereof lest they may not have been otherwise forwarded; and am, gentlemen, with great esteem and regard, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Committee of Safety, New-Hampshire.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO GENERAL WARD.

New-York, May 16, 1776.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 9th instant, and to inform you that the report respecting the regiments being kept on Bunker-Hill and Dorchester-Heights was currently and confidently told here; but not with the injurious motives you seem to apprehend, but as arising from a misinterpretation of his orders, which you imagined confined them there. The matter being thus related, he conceived it highly necessary that you should be made acquainted that such was not his design, though his instructions should seem to warrant their being continued there, and exempted from duty.

His Excellency congratulates you on the success of Captain Tucker, and is hopeful more of the vessels employed for the Ministerial Army will be picked up. They will, in some small degree, compensate for the damage done by seizing those belonging to us.

Last night four hundred thousand dollars arrived here, part of which are for the Army at Boston. By the Honourable John Hancock's letter accompanying them, he is to write his Excellency by to-morrow's post of the disposition of them, with orders to the Paymaster.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

ROBERT H. HARRISON.

To General Ward, Boston.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Committee-Chamber, New-York, May 16, 1776.

Whereas the honourable Continental Congress have appointed, and earnestly recommend, "That the 17th instant (being to-morrow) be observed by the United Colonies as a day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer; that we may, with united hearts, confess and bewail our manifold sins and transgressions against God, and, by a sincere repentance and amendment of life, as a People, appease his righteous displeasure against us, humbly imploring his assistance to frustrate the cruel purposes of our unnatural enemies, and by inclining their hearts to justice and peace, prevent the further effusion of human blood; but if, continuing deaf to the voice of reason and humanity, and inflexibly bent on desolation and war, they constrain us to repel their hostile invasions by open resistance, that it may please the Lord of Hosts, the God of Armies, to animate our Officers and Soldiers with invincible fortitude, to guard and protect them in the day of battle, and to crown the Continental arms, by sea and land, with victory and success; that he may bless all our Representatives in General Congress, Provincial Congress, Conventions and Committees; preserve and strengthen their union, give wisdom and stability to their councils, and direct the most efficient measures for establishing the rights of America on the most honourable and permanent basis; that he would be graciously pleased to bless all the people in these Colonies with health and plenty, and grant that a spirit of incorruptible patriotism and of pure and undefiled religion may universally prevail, and that this Continent may speedily be restored to the blessings of peace and liberty, and enabled to transmit them inviolate to the latest posterity:" It is therefore expected that all the inhabitants of this City and County do, on the morrow, abstain from all and every kind of servile labour, business, and employment, and attend upon Divine service in publick, which will be performed in all the Churches in this City; that no persons (but such as are in the Continental service, whose business may require it) will be permitted to cross the ferries, ride or walk out of town, or about the streets, for amusement or diversion; and that all parents and masters will be careful to restrain their children and servants from playing and straggling about this City on the ensuing day, which ought to be, and we trust will be, kept as the most solemn day this devoted Continent has ever yet beheld.

A true copy from the Minutes. Published by order of the Committee.

JOSEPH WINTER, Secretary.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, May 16, 1776.

MY DEAR GENERAL: I this moment returned from Stillwater, where I have been to give some directions about conveying the provisions forward to our troops in Canada. Immediately upon the receipt of the letters which I forwarded to your Excellency I drafted a number of men for the batteaus from the regiments here, being well convinced that the men appointed for that purpose would not in a year carry forward provisions enough to last our troops a month. I sent off all the batteaus to Half-Moon, (the night the express arrived,) well loaded with pork. Our men, though unacquainted with the river, carried up the batteaus and returned again early in the morning. I had them immediately loaded and sent off again. When I had ordered them constantly to make two trips in twenty-four hours, I thought best to proceed up the river to see whether it went from thence without being delayed by the indolence of such rascally batteau-men and wagoners as we are cursed with in this city. When I arrived at Half-Moon (about twelve miles from hence) early on the 15th instant, to my surprise I found three hundred barrels (which I had sent forward) lying on the beach, without any teams to carry them to Stillwater, about twelve miles farther. I inquired for the Wagonmaster, and was informed he was at his own house about six miles off. I immediately wrote him of the necessity of his exerting himself at this time. I heard of some wagons ready to enter the service at New-City. I immediately ordered the Commissary there to send for and employ them. I then proceeded the same day to Stillwater; there I found some batteaus setting off with one oar and a paddle; some indeed had neither; some of them making one trip to Saratoga-Falls in a day, and some but one in two days, though the distance is but sixteen miles, and the water not half so rapid as between this and Half-Moon. I immediately drafted a number of watermen from Colonel Winds's Regiment for the batteaus, ordered a party to make proper oars and paddles, and, with the assistance of the overseer there, contrived matters so that two trips may be made in twenty-four hours, at least double the number they have heretofore made. I wrote an account of the steps I had taken to General Schuyler, and on my return this day was happy to find the wagoners formerly employed in the service exerting themselves well, with a number of new ones, who had joined them, in a manner really astonishing. I met in twelve miles riding one hundred and thirty barrels of pork, in wagons, many of which were doubtless at Stillwater by twelve o'clock, and I doubt not double the number will go on to-morrow, and I shall do everything in my power to increase the number from day to day till the provisions are gone, when I hope to follow with all possible expedition to assist our friends in Canada. I laid the matter before the Committee here, who were kind enough to collect a number of strong wagons to go through to Lake George, without any water carriage at all. I find now that we have sent off a great part of our pork, and in two days more we shall have none to send unless it arrives from New-York. Your Excellency will give such directions about this matter as you may think proper.

Assure yourself, my dear General, that nothing shall be wanting on my part to forward the business here; and believe me to be, with the most profound respect, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, May 16, 1776—10 o'clock A. M.

MY DEAR GENERAL: This moment Captain Goforth

arrived, with sundry letters and papers to me, copies of all which I do myself the honour to enclose to your Excellency.

The distress our Army is in from their variety of wants is truly affecting, and gives me the most poignant anxiety. Some of the enclosed papers observe that General Thompson's brigade carried only ten days' provision with them; but this is happily a mistake, for they carried from three to five barrels of pork in each batteau, with all the flour that was at the post, insomuch that Colonel Wynkoop had to send an express-boat here for pork and flour for his garrison. On the 13th, I sent off one hundred and twenty barrels of pork, with orders to have it forwarded without delay. Colonel Wynkoop writes me that one hundred and fifteen barrels of it left Ticonderago on the 14th, and it will probably reach St. Johns to-day.

Immediately on receiving the intelligence of our distress in Canada, I flew to the communication below; sent on part of Reed's Regiment, the front of which I met (on the fifth day after their leaving Albany) twenty-three miles below this; those I sent on, being picked men, arrived here the same evening, being the 14th, and yesterday they crossed this Lake with one hundred and nine barrels of pork; twelve barrels more are gone off this morning, and one hundred and seventy barrels, with half the remainder of Reed's Regiment, will move to-morrow; and the next day I hope to send an equal quantity, and after that, about fifty barrels a day along with the troops ordered to move on Saturday next from the several places where they were halted.

When I met Colonel Reed's Regiment, I had their heavy baggage taken out of the batteaus, and loaded them with pork, acquainting the officers and men with the distress our people laboured under in Canada for want of provisions; but as I could not stay to see the boats off, being obliged to push further down the river to the other places of embarkation, no sooner was my back turned when the officers threw the provisions out of the batteaus, and reloaded their baggage; by which means I have forty-eight barrels of pork less than I had ordered. At this outrage and infamous conduct I must, however, wink, lest the service should be still more retarded.

I hope a considerable quantity of pork is coming; if there is, one hundred and fifty barrels will be sent off daily from here after the 21st instant. I shall be quite out of nails on Tuesday; I hope a supply is on the way up. Intrenching tools of every kind will be wanting. More powder, lead, and cannon-ball, and guns for the vessels on Lake Champlain; rigging, sail-cloth, and sailmakers, to be sent up.

I have received further proofs of the hostile intentions of Sir John Johnson, and have sent orders to have him apprehended, and all the Highlanders to be removed; but as this is a matter that might give umbrage to the Indians, I have referred the expediency of it to the Commissioners of Indian Affairs and the Committee of Albany, who, if they approve, will deliver the orders, otherwise not.

I am obliged to be so continually on horseback to see that everything is kept in train, that I have little time to write; I shall, however, not let a single opportunity slip to advise your Excellency of every information I receive, by which means Congress will be informed of all.

The misfortunes we experience would in all probability have been prevented, had the Connecticut Troops not quitted Canada so early as they did last year, or had it been possible for Congress to have complied with my repeated solicitations to send troops.

Although I believe we shall lose Canada, which will be attended with many disagreeable consequences, yet I am not under the least apprehensions that they will be able to penetrate into this Province.

I am, with every wish for your Excellency's health and happiness, dear sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Montreal, May 11, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: By the bearer you will receive letters from the honourable Commissioners, advising you of our situation and prospects in respect to provisions, &c. You will also have enclosed a copy of a letter from General

Thomas to me, dated at Deschambault, by which you will see the distressed and critical situation of our Army, which I can hardly flatter myself will be better, at least for some time. Indeed, we have everything to fear if the enemy's reinforcements are as considerable as we have reason to think, and they improve their advantage. I tremble for the fate of our scattered, sick, starved, and distressed Army, as well as for our friends in this country, many of whom will lose their all if we are obliged to evacuate it. Salted provisions are not in this country, very little fresh, and that miserably poor; our whole dependence is on you. More troops will add to our distress, unless they are supplied with provisions, which must be forwarded on to us immediately, or we shall not be able to continue in the country, or return home. I shall set out for the Army in two hours, and proceed from the Sorel with the gondola and heavy cannon, if there should be any prospect of maintaining our post at Deschambault, of which I expect to be able to judge better when I arrive at the Sorel. You may depend that everything in my power will be done to keep possession of this country, which has cost us so much blood and expense.

I am, with my best wishes, very respectfully, dear General, your most obedient, humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To General Schuyler.

P. S. Flour can be procured in this country, provided we keep possession of this part of it. A magazine will be immediately established at St. Johns to secure our retreat.

B. A.

COMMISSIONERS TO CANADA TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Montreal, May 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The enclosed intelligence came to hand at two o'clock this morning. It is impossible to procure any pork in this Colony; there is none but what came over the Lakes. A schooner sails this afternoon for Deschambault with three hundred and fifty barrels of flour and about ten barrels of pork, which is the whole to be procured here. After the arrival of the brigade under General Thompson, we compute there will be about five thousand troops in Canada. We understand this brigade brings only ten days' provisions with them.

Mr. Price thinks he can procure a sufficient quantity of wheat with the bills of exchange (three thousand pounds sterling) lodged with him by Congress; and Mr. Bondfield, with the specie lent us by that company, will endeavour to purchase some beef, but the quantity is very uncertain, and the quality will be very indifferent. Some peas may be bought, but no other vegetables of any kind can be expected.

General Arnold leaves us this afternoon to go down to Deschambault; we cannot flatter ourselves with the keeping possession of that post. The cannon which you sent, and our powder (about five tons) are at the mouth of the Sorel. We think it impracticable, indeed, without maintaining our ground at Jacques Cartier, we believe it impossible. If the enemy's frigates should pass the falls of Richelieu, and a fair wind alone is necessary, our Army will be cut off from provisions and a retreat by water. Retreat by land will not only be very difficult, but very dangerous, if pursued by the enemy. We are unable to express our apprehensions of the distress our Army must soon be reduced to from the want of provisions, and the small-pox. If further reinforcements are sent without pork to victual the whole Army, our soldiers must perish or feed on each other. Even plunder, the last resource of strong necessity, will not relieve their wants. We do not see the propriety of sending more troops before you hear from us. We have undoubtedly a sufficient number to maintain St. Johns and the Ile aux Noix. You will be pleased to communicate the present situation of affairs, and forward the enclosed papers, to Congress.

We wish you a speedy restoration of your health, and every blessing of this life; and remain, with the most perfect esteem and regard, dear sir, your very affectionate and obedient servants,

SAMUEL CHASE,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

To General P. Schuyler.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

MESSRS. CARROLL AND CHASE TO DR. FRANKLIN.

Montreal, May 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: We are fully sensible of the great risk of taking post at Deschambault. We have suggested in writing the difficulties and reasons which have occurred to us against that measure, to General Arnold. Our Army's remaining at Deschambault will depend in great measure on the strength of the enemy's land forces, and their activity and diligence in following up the blow they have already given our small shattered Army. Before this, no doubt General Thomas has received some information of the enemy's numbers and of their motions. We are inclined to think a retreat will be made, first to St. Johns and then to the Ile aux Noix. Our letter to General Schuyler will give you all the information we have in our power to give respecting the possibility of subsisting our Army in Canada.

We are of opinion that General Sullivan's brigade ought to be stopped at Fort George till General Schuyler can send over with them a sufficient supply of pork, not only for the subsistence of that brigade, but of the rest of the Army in Canada. Flour we are in hopes of procuring in sufficient quantities to support the Army at least for four months, provided we can keep possession of the country adjacent to the river Sorel for the space of three weeks. We sincerely wish the perfect re-establishment of your health. Our stay at this place is uncertain. We shall be cautious to retreat in time to St. Johns. We understand there is but a very small garrison there, and exceedingly negligent; no sentries posted in the night. This information we had from Mr. Price, who was an eye witness of this negligence. Do speak to Colonel Hazen about it.

We are, with great esteem, dear sir, your affectionate humble servants,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

SAMUEL CHASE.

To Benjamin Franklin, Esq.

GENERAL THOMAS TO GENERAL ARNOLD.

Head-Quarters, Point Deschambault, May 8, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I this moment received yours of the 6th instant, mentioning an augmentation of troops, floating batteries, supplies of provisions, &c., which, if I can be assured of in a few days, I shall make a stand here with a small number of men. I have but two days' provision, and will bring them to half allowance, and remain on the ground myself till I can hear from you.

I send this by express, hoping he will not be detained one hour. Time will not allow me to give you the particular reason of my being here, but must refer you to the honourable Commissioners of Congress.

I am, respectfully, dear sir, your obedient and very humble servant,

J. THOMAS.

To General Arnold.

P. S. Powder is wanting.

COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Montreal, May 16, 1776.

DEAR SIR: We take the liberty to recommend to the particular notice of Congress Major Dubois; his services entitle him to promotion; and we hope an officer of his merit will be remembered in the first promotion.

We are, sir, with respect, your obedient servants,

SAMUEL CHASE,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

The Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

CAPTAIN HARDING TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Fairfield, 12 o'clock, A. M., May 16, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: Enclosed I send you the confessions of Charles McNiell, John McKey, and Daniel Baldwin, and a duplicate of the first, as the original was taken somewhat hastily. It is really astonishing to see with what seeming coolness they were made. It is needless to observe anything about them, as each contains a very full declaration of whatever seemed to respect the declarants; but nothing could be extracted from them further than as appears by their confessions. Hope your Honours will excuse me for desiring the original of each to be sent back, as their names were subscribed by their own hands, and may be useful on their trials, which will come on in a few days. I was present with the Committee at each examination; and, with advice and assistance of them, have been able to forward the plan of sending a vessel on a cruise to the Island. She set out this morning with a fair wind, and I am in hopes she will soon return with her desired cargo.

I have, with advice of the Committee, sent fresh orders to Newtown, from whence I am in expectation of receiving some persons of no small consequence.

Nothing further has transpired concerning an eminent character in this Colony, who was mentioned in my last. I have communicated the affair to nobody but Mr. Stoddard, who has been helpful to me as scribe in my very great hurry. As he is a young gentleman with whom I have had an intimate acquaintance since here, I doubt not but I may rely upon him, as I believe him a man of integrity and honour, for which I refer you to Mr. Burr, and also to Captain Smedley, of the Defence. Am hopeful your Honour will be tender in exposing that certain great character, as I have found nothing as yet so conclusive against him, as I am under strong apprehensions I shall in a few days. Hawley's confession was perfectly voluntary, (as indeed were the rest,) being frequently cautioned by Mr. Sturges and myself not to say anything but that to which he could make oath, and especially avoid traducing the reputation of any innocent man. I am fully convinced a little perseverance will develop a scheme of the blackest dye, and make notorious a catalogue which once would have exceeded all credibility.

The brig Defence is so well known in this part of the Sound, that I apprehend it would have been in vain to have sent her out on the present affairs. Accordingly, with the advice of the Committee, took the sloop Discovery into service, gave the command of her to Captain Smedley, subalterns were appointed from among respectable gentlemen of this town, and manned her with forty of my own people. Hope your Honour will excuse the liberty on this pressing emergency. Should imagine it would be of consequence, by some small cruisers, to cut off entirely the communication between the main and the island, unless sufficient certificates for a passport were first obtained from Magistrates or the Committee; however, submit the whole to your Honour's judgment. In the mean time, as your Honour in Council was pleased to vote that I should have orders to cruise on the high-seas for a while, hope I may not be disappointed. I await your Honour's further commands, and shall cheerfully fulfil them with my best abilities. As my own desire was, I joined Commodore Hopkins at New-London, after the enemy had left the coast. I obtained leave to pursue your Honour's first orders; have touched at several places, and have now near a hundred men; should have been now ready to proceed on a cruise to sea had not these new affairs turned up. Notwithstanding I mentioned my desires of going to sea, am, however, all submission to future orders.

The enclosed letter to Colonel Cook has been opened by some of our friends, that by means of this carriage it might come to your Honour's knowledge. Colonel Cook will know the well-intended design, as it was done by advice of his good friends. Am desired to forward it, which I accordingly do. When I arrived at this place, found the Committee industriously employed in examining Tories. As I imagined matters were not fully ripe, I desired them to suspend their examination till next Tuesday, at which time hope to have something particular from your Honour. Shall communicate everything of consequence, as occasion may require.

In the mean time have the honour to be, with great respect, your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

SETH HARDING.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

By the Honourable JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Governour of the ENGLISH Colony of CONNECTICUT, in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION FOR AN EMBARGO.

Whereas the General Assembly, at their session in May instant, passed an Act that no Rum, Sugar, Molasses, Salt, or other West-India goods, shall be exported out of this Colony, by land or water, on or before the first day of November next, under the same penalties and forfeitures as are already expressed in and by one statute of this Colony, entitled "An Act to enable the Governour to lay an embargo, and for rendering the same, when laid, effectual," or shall be otherwise punished by forfeiting the value of such goods so put on board, shipped, or exported; and that all offenders shall be proceeded against in like manner and form as in and by said statute is provided; and that his Honour the Governour be desired forthwith to issue his Proclamation prohibiting such exportation accordingly: Provided, nevertheless, That any West-India goods necessary for the use of the Continental Army, upon application made to his Honour the Governour, by the Continental Congress, or his Excellency General Washington, may be permitted to be exported by the license of his Honour, anything in said act notwithstanding.

I therefore do hereby strictly enjoin and require all persons within this Colony that they carefully, circumspectly, and strictly observe, obey, and conform themselves to the act aforesaid, in every particular, upon the pains and penalties thereof.

Given under my hand, in the Council Chamber, in Hartford, the 16th day of May, Anno Domini 1776.

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

REV. JAMES LYON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, May 16, 1776.

SIR: Notwithstanding the favourable reception of a former letter, and the obliging answer it procured, which I gratefully acknowledge, I feel unwilling a second time to trouble your Excellency, or interrupt the interesting business which continually engages your attention, though only for a moment. But my zeal for the safety and honour of my country, and an opinion that every individual of this new and rising state ought to exert himself to the utmost during our present struggle, must be my sole apology for seeming once more to step aside from the peaceful and salutary paths in which my profession naturally leads me.

To be as little tedious as possible, I shall venture to give your Excellency my sentiments of the necessity and importance of an immediate expedition against Nova-Scotia, in as few words as I can.

If our late intelligence from Great Britain can be relied on, I apprehend none of our troops in Canada can be spared, whether Quebeck is or is not in our hands. Nova-Scotia has heard of our intention to reduce that Province as soon as we can call Quebeck our own, and that the troops now in Canada are to be sent against them; consequently they are now in profound peace. No ships of war are now in the bay of Fundy, except the Martin, stationed at Annapolis, nor have the King's troops taken much pains to fortify Halifax as yet. But as soon as they hear of the reduction of Quebeck, they will immediately make themselves as strong as possible. Nova-Scotia will not readily be given up, and if Annapolis and St. Johns river are strongly fortified, the eastern part of this Colony, as far as Penobscot, will be ruined; it is almost ruined already, and should Machias break up, which lies about ten leagues from the boundary line of Nova-Scotia, an infant and once flourishing country, of upwards of one hundred miles in extent, will probably be deserted, and become again a wilderness or a prey to enemies.

Now the whole Province may possibly be taken by surprise, if proper secrecy can be observed. Nine-tenths of the inhabitants, who amount to twelve or fourteen thousand souls, wish for nothing more, and would join us instantly. A few pieces of cannon, which might easily be conveyed across the country, either by land or water, properly planted on a hill nearly opposite the town of Halifax, would soon demolish the town and navy-yard, and destroy or drive the shipping away. Some variation from the plan already laid before your Excellency would doubtless be necessary. Five thousand men would not be too many to ensure success.

If this is the proper time to strike a decisive blow in that quarter, the importance of an immediate expedition is self-evident, and victory will add to the other Colonies a territory of great extent and immense value.

I have meddled thus far. I have, I trust, done my duty. I now, with the greatest deference and pleasure, submit the matter to your Excellency and the honourable Congress, to whom I glory in being subject.

I am, very respectfully, your Excellency's most humble and obedient servant,

JAMES LYON.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq., &c.

P. S. Would not a rising sun with this inscription, Jussu Dei surgo, appear well on the standard of some Colony?

NORTHAMPTON (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Northampton, May 16, 1776.

HONoured SIR: In compliance with a resolve of Congress, of February 28th, we take the liberty to mention the circumstances of the prisoners sent hither for confinement, and our conduct towards them.

Twenty officers in the British Navy, the greater part Midshipmen, were confined to this town on their parole not to go beyond the bounds of it. The complaints of the inhabitants, that they went abroad unseasonably in the night, to the disturbance of the people, induced us to resolve that they should not be from their lodgings after nine o'clock in the evening, though several of them have since declared they were not properly notified of it. About the 20th of March, from an apprehension that some of them might be inclined to make their escape, a mutual parole, drawn up by one of their own number, and at that time known only to themselves, was proposed to each of them to sign, in which the subscribers, after reciting the above apprehensions, reciprocally engaged to each other that they would not leave the place of their confinement without the knowledge and consent of the majority. All of them signed the above-mentioned paper except Messieurs Stanhope, Gregory, Webb, Robbinson, Curtis, and Atkinson. Soon after, the Committee was informed by some of the people with whom they lived that a design of escape was certainly in contemplation among the prisoners; but as they were closely connected among themselves, it was impossible to learn who in particular entertained the design; and being often out on horseback late in the evening, and sometimes absent through the night, the Committee thought it necessary, about the middle of April, to direct them for the present not to be from their lodgings after sunset. In the evening of the 27th of April, Mr. Stanhope and Mr. Gregory absconded. They were pursued and retaken at Middletown, in Connecticut, and brought back to this place on the first of this month, and committed to jail. When they were examined the next day before the Committee, Mr. Stanhope declared that any restrictions laid on him by the Committee would discharge him from every obligation to observe his parole; and that the order not to be out after sunset, or even after nine o'clock, would justify his going away. Mr. Gregory excused himself on similar principles. They were recommitted, and are now in close confinement. In the night of the 30th of April, Mr. Robbinson also absconded, and has not yet been retaken. On the 1st of this month Mr. Webb (of whom there had been strong suspicion) was desired to attend upon the Committee. One of his fellow-officers declared he had heard him say that he did not think his parole binding. Another testified that Mr. Webb had told him he would make his escape if he had an opportunity. The Committee also confined him in jail. As the other gentlemen did not appear to be privy to their companions' going off, and had only heard them express themselves in general terms, our conduct towards them is not altered.

We should be happy to know the sentiments of Congress touching the matters above-mentioned; and it would be perfectly agreeable to us if any other place should be chosen where those in jail could be confined in a manner less disagreeable to them. However, we shall, with the greatest punctuality, observe any instructions we may receive.

A number of the prisoners confined to this town were taken by the Continental forces, and were sent to our care by General Washington. The people with whom they are lodged, and who have furnished them with clothing, are impatient to know where they must apply for a reward. We should be particularly obliged to the Congress if they would give us the information.

We have enclosed an account of the expense occasioned by the above-mentioned prisoners who broke their parole,

(all of whom were ordered to this place by General Washington;) the charges we think as low as the services mentioned could be hired for.

I am, sir, in the name and behalf of the Committee of Inspection for the town of Northampton, your most obedient, and most humble servant,

JOSEPH HAWLEY, Chairman.

To the Honourable the President of the American Congress, in Philadelphia.

Northampton, April 29, 1776.

The following prisoners, lately officers in the British Navy, who had given their parole of honour not to depart from the bounds of the town of Northampton without leave from the Commander-in-Chief, did, in the evening of the 27th instant, abscond and runaway, viz: Henry Edwin Stanhope, twenty-four years of age, has lightish eyes, hair, and complexion, pitted with the small-pox, has a large nose, and is about five feet six inches in height. Also, George Gregory, twenty-four years old, with light-coloured short hair, light complexion and thin favoured, about five feet eight inches high. They took away a young stone horse, almost black, with a white face and hog mane, and an old roan gelding, both good horses. It is hoped the greatest vigilance will be exerted to apprehend the said prisoners, who, in return for the indulgence shown them, have basely violated their word of honour. Five dollars, and all necessary charges, will be paid for apprehending and securing either of them.

Per order of the Committee of Northampton:

ROBERT BRECK, Chairman.

N. B. The Printers in this and the neighbouring Colonies are desired to insert the above in the several papers.

H. E. STANHOPE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 11, 1776. Referred to the Committee on Prisoners.]

Northampton Jail, May 11, 1776.

SIR: I am very sorry my situation is such as to oblige me to apply to you as a prisoner. I can remember a time when I could have esteemed you a friend and acquaintance; you no doubt will recollect it, in 1769, when I frequently had the pleasure of paying my respects to you in Boston; however, not to trespass too much on your time, I must beg to inform you that the purport of this letter is to seek a redress of grievances from you and the gentlemen of Congress, (though you in particular,) from whose kind desire of having lenity shown prisoners I have every reason to expect it.

My parole to Governour Cooke, of Rhode-Island, in whose Government I was taken, restricted me to the township of Northampton, without any clause whatever as to the time of my going out or coming in. My situation seemed by no means agreeable to the inhabitants, who, as I am induced to suppose, though have no positive proof, encouraged our common sailors to attack us; by which means I nearly lost my life, having been assaulted three times by people whom I had never before seen; and upon application to Major Hawley for redress by civil law, was informed that we were not entitled to the benefit of it, as prisoners. However, some time after the Committee published an advertisement,* signifying, to the best of my understanding, that we had been fighting among each other, (making no distinction between officers and privates;) whereas you will observe it was an attack upon us, and, I wish I need not (as before) add, was encouraged; for who can suppose that men whom I had never before seen or heard of, should attack me, merely for the sake of beating me. But these are points which cannot be better determined than by a man of Mr. Hancock's understanding and abilities; and for the future the aggressor should be punished. Likewise, if we insulted anybody in town, let them bring their evidence; they should have ample satisfaction. After this, the Committee resolved that we should be at our apartments by nine o'clock. This was never made known to me. Being at the house of one of the Committee some minutes after that time, to visit some of my fellow-sufferers, he brought a stick with him, and threatened, if I did not instantly depart, he would kick me out, which he put in execution; upon which the Committee made another resolve, confining us to our apartments at sundown, and one of their body said he hoped somebody would not attend to it, as then the whole would be put in jail. These were encroachments, which, from the tenor of my parole, I by no means thought myself obliged to comply with; and well knowing if I refused I should be committed a close prisoner to jail, and fearing lest somebody should neglect to comply with this last resolve, and to avoid the miserable abode of felons, I absconded, and, unfortunately for me, was retaken, and committed close prisoner to jail, without even the liberty of a yard to walk in—an instance of cruelty never before practised to any officers, prisoners of war, in any civilized nation, much less to the only son of the heir to one of the first earldoms in the British realm; add to this my cloak and utensils, which are seized from me.

* A copy of which I should have enclosed but cannot procure it.

It rests, then, with you, sir, to release me from my place of confinement; and as I have a very near relation and many friends in Hartford, I beg you will please to direct that town for my confinement. And should you be pleased to put me on the parole that the prisoners there are, I shall most strictly comply, and shall be happy in acknowledging my sincerest thanks for my enlargement to Mr. Hancock, and the honourable members of the Continental Congress.

In hopes of obtaining your consent to my request, I have the honour to subscribe myself your most obedient, humble servant,

H. E. STANHOPE.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

It would not be doing justice to General Washington, were I to omit mentioning his friendship to me, instanced in part of two letters I received from his Excellency, which indicate to me the Committee's encroachment on us.

"CAMBRIDGE, January 4, 1776.—His Excellency hopes that the gentlemen whom the fortune of war has thrown into our hands are treated with civility and respect; it is his desire your captivity may be made as light to you as possible."

"CAMBRIDGE, March 12, 1776.—If you can mention anything to render your situation more comfortable, except being set at liberty, it will immediately meet with his concurrence."

Both signed, Stephen Moylan.

E. E. WEBB TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 11, 1776. Referred to the Committee on Prisoners]

Northampton Jail, May 12, 1776.

SIR: Having been falsely accused before the Committee of this place, and, as they are pleased to say, convicted before them of declaring that the parole which I had given was not binding, &c., they have thought proper to confine me here a close prisoner, notwithstanding I have remained from the 22d of November, 1775, being the day of my first arrival at this place, to the 1st of May, 1776, the day of my commitment, without ever attempting to escape from the same. I must beg leave to assure you, sir, that the opportunities which I have had for making my escape since my being so unfortunate as to fall a captive into the Americans' hands have been many, and nothing could have prevented me from making the attempt but the strong ties which were, as I thought, brought on me by the parole I had given.

I should esteem it as a particular favour if you would take this matter into your consideration, which, with your determination, will entirely raise me in my thoughts on my present situation, as I must beg leave to say to Congress that I think it rather enforced by the hand of tyranny than of justice,

I am, sir, with the greatest respect, your most obedient humble servant,

E. E. WEBB.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of the Honourable Continental Congress.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Court at St. James's, the 17th day of May, 1776, Present: The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas the time limited by his Majesty's order in Council, of the 21st of February last, for prohibiting the exporting out of this kingdom, or carrying coastwise, Gunpowder, Saltpetre, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, will expire on the 23d of this instant, May; and whereas it is judged expedient that the said prohibition should be continued for some time longer, except in those cases where (for the benefit and advantage of trade, and for the use and defence of ships trading to foreign parts, and of the transports and victualling vessels employed in his Majesty's service) his Majesty, by his several orders in Council, of the 13th and 27th of October, and of the 6th and 22d of November, 1775, and of the 5th and 19th of February last, has thought proper to permit and allow the exportation of, and carrying coastwise, Gunpowder, Saltpetre, Arms and Ammunition, under certain conditions and restrictions mentioned in the said orders: His Majesty doth, therefore, by and with the advice of his Privy Council, hereby order, require, prohibit, and command, that no person or persons whomsoever, except the Master-General, Lieutenant-General, or principal officers of the Ordnance for his Majesty's service, do, at any time during the space of three months, (to commence from the said 23d day of this instant, May), presume to transport into any parts out of this kingdom, or carry coastwise, any Gunpowder, Saltpetre, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, or ship or lade any Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, on board any ship or vessel, in order to transporting the same beyond the seas, or carrying the same coastwise, except in the cases comprised within the aforementioned orders in Council of the 13th and 27th of October, and the 6th and 22d of November, 1775, and of the 5th and 19th of February last, without leave or permission in that behalf first obtained from his Majesty or his Privy Council, upon pain of incurring and suffering the respective forfeitures and penalties inflicted by an Act passed in the twenty-ninth year of his late Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to empower his Majesty to prohibit the exportation of Saltpetre, and to enforce the law for empowering his Majesty to prohibit the exportation of Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms and Ammunition; and also to empower his Majesty to restrain the carrying coastwise of Saltpetre, Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition." And the Lords Commissioners of his Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High-Admiral of Great Britain, the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, the Master-General of the Ordnance, and his Majesty's Secretary at War, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

STEPHEN COTTRELL.

LETTER FROM JOHN ADAMS TO MRS. ADAMS.

Philadelphia, May 17, 1776.

I have this morning heard Mr. Duffield, upon the signs of the times. He ran a parallel between the case of Israel and that of America, and between the conduct of Pharaoh and that of George. Jealousy, that the Israelites would throw off the government of Egypt, made him issue his edict, that the midwives should cast the children into the river; and the other edict, that the men should make a large revenue of bricks without straw. He concluded that the course of events indicated strongly the design of Providence that we should be separated from Great Britain, &c.

Is it not a saying of Moses, "Who am I, that I should go in and out before this great people?" When I consider the great events which are passed, and those greater which are rapidly advancing, and that I may have been instrumental in touching some springs and turning some small wheels, which have had and will have such effects, I feel an awe upon my mind which is not easily described. Great Britain has at last driven America to the last step: a complete separation from her; a total, absolute independence, not only of her Parliament, but of her Crown, for such is the amount of the resolve of the 15th. Confederation among ourselves, or alliances with foreign nations, are not necessary to a perfect separation from Britain; that is effected by extinguishing all authority under the Crown, Parliament, and nation, as the resolution for instituting Governments has done, to all intents and purposes. Confederation will be necessary for our internal concord, and alliances may be so for our external defence.

I have reason to believe that no Colony, which shall assume a Government under the people, will give it up. There is something very unnatural and odious in a Government a thousand leagues off. A whole Government of our own choice, managed by persons whom we love, revere, and can confide in, has charms in it for which men will fight. Two young gentlemen from South-Carolina, in this city, who were in Charlestown when their new Constitution was promulgated, and when their new Governour, and Council, and Assembly, walked out in procession, attended by the Guards, company of Cadets, Light-Horse, &c., told me that they were beheld by the people with transports and tears of joy. The people gazed at them with a kind of rapture. They both told me, that the reflection that these were gentlemen whom they all loved, esteemed, and revered; gentlemen of their own choice, whom they could trust, and whom they could displace if any of them should behave amiss, affected them so that they could not help crying. They say their people will never give up this Government. One of these gentlemen is a relation of yours, a Mr. Smith, son of Mr. Thomas Smith. I shall give him this letter or another to you.

A privateer, fitted out here by Colonel Roberdeau and Major Bayard, since our resolve for privateering, I am this moment informed has taken a valuable prize. This is encouragement at the beginning.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE TO MESHECH WEARE.

Philadelphia, May 17, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed resolution of Congress should have gone yesterday, but I had sent off my letter before I discovered the omission. Congress have reserved to themselves the appointment of Field Officers, but they are nominated by the Assembly, Convention, or Committee of the Colony where the regiments are raised. It will therefore be necessary that the names of the Field Officers should be transmitted here, in order that the commissions may be filled up. The President will forward to you blank commissions for the other officers.

When I think of the number of arms and men gone from the Eastern Colonies, I cannot help feeling for their situation, if a powerful attack should be made there; but I doubt not proper steps are taken to furnish arms. I think every person who can do anything towards making arms should be employed in that business. Britain will no doubt exert her utmost efforts for our destruction; but if they are repulsed in the manner I expect this campaign, I am very confident they never will attempt another. This summer will, in all probability, be the warmest America ever saw. May the Supreme Government of the Universe protect and defend us, guide our counsels, and prosper our arms.

I am, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

WILLIAM WHIPPLE.

To the Honourable Meshech Weare, Esq.

P. S. May 18.—Colonel Bartlett arrived last evening very much fatigued.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, May 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I this morning received your favour of the 13th instant, with its enclosures, conveying intelligence of the melancholy situation of our affairs in Canada, and am not without my fears, I confess, that the prospect we had of possessing that country, of such importance in the present controversy, is almost over, or at least that it will be effected with much more difficulty and effusion of blood than were necessary, had our exertions been timely applied. However, we must not despair; a manly and spirited opposition can only ensure success, and prevent the enemy from improving the advantage they have obtained. I have forwarded the letters to Congress, and their answer to you and the honourable Commissioners I will transmit you as soon as they come to hand.

I am fully sensible that this unfortunate event has greatly deranged our schemes, and will involve you in difficulties only to be obviated by your zeal and assiduity, which I am well satisfied will not be wanting in this or any other instances, where the good of your country requires them.

Notwithstanding the most diligent pains, but a small part of the nails you wrote for is yet collected; nor will there be a possibility of getting half the quantity. The Quartermaster expects that they will be here to-day, when they will be instantly forwarded with the five tons of lead.

I am, sir, with sentiments of much esteem and regard,
your most humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

P. S. The nails are embarked; twenty-seven and a half casks. You have the amount and quality enclosed with Thomas Warner's receipts, and also for five tons of lead.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

New-York, May 17, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 14th instant I received this morning, and am exceedingly sorry for the sad reverse of fortune in our affairs in Canada. They are rather alarming, but I still hope our vigorous exertions will be attended with success, notwithstanding the present unpromising appearances, and that we shall yet acquire and maintain possession of that country, so important to us in the present contest.

I have transmitted the intelligence to Congress, with your orders from General Schuyler, whose direction you must follow until I send you their determination, or my commands to the contrary.

I am, dear sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Sullivan.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, May 17, 1776.

SIR: As I have no doubt of the willingness of the Militia of this city to join in its defence against the attempts of the enemies of America, it is highly necessary, in order to avoid confusion in the time of any alarm, that the posts of the several regiments of Militia be fixed on in conjunction with those of the Continental Army, and that they be allotted to the brigades most convenient to their several situations; and as I am now arranging that part of the business of the Army, it will, I presume, be proper that directions be given to the commanding officers of the several corps to take the stations that I shall assign, and to obey the orders they may, in time of danger, receive from me or the Brigadier-Generals of the Continental Army. The like measure will be equally necessary with regard to the Militia of Kings County, and part of Queens County, on Long-Island, and also the Militia of Staten-Island; and I am persuaded that the mention of a matter so obviously necessary, will be sufficient to induce the Congress of this Province to give such directions as are proper on this occasion.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable the President of the Convention of New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PHILIP VAN RENSSELAER.

New-York, May 17, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour of the 6th instant, and am of opinion, as you have not a sufficient number of armourers at Albany to repair the whole of the arms in your possession, that whatever more you have than can be repaired in a convenient time, had better be sent immediately to the armourers here. This will save much time, which would be lost were the armourers to go from hence and return again.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Philip Van Rensselaer, Esq., Commissary of Military Stores, Albany.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 18, 1776. Referred to Mr. William Livingston, Mr. Jefferson, Mr. J. Adams, Mr. R. Morris, Mr. Duane, Mr. R. H. Lee, Mr. Rutledge, and Mr. R. Livingston.]

New-York, May 17, 1776.

SIR: I this moment received, by express from General Schuyler of the 13th instant, an account of the melancholy prospect and reverse of our affairs in Canada; and presuming that the letters which accompany this will give Congress full information on the subject, I shall only add, that General Schuyler, in pursuance of orders from the honourable Commissioners, has directed Brigadier-General Sullivan to halt his brigade; as a further reinforcement, on account of the scarcity of provisions, would not relieve, but contribute greatly to distress our troops already in Canada. Before he received these orders, all the brigade, except Dayton's and Wayne's Regiments, had left Albany; but I suppose he will be able to stop their march.

By my letter of the 15th, Congress will perceive the quantity of pork already gone from hence; and the Commissary has assured me that he will forward a further supply as soon as it can possibly be collected. I had also directed five tons of lead to be sent General Schuyler, for the Canada expedition, before I received this unfortunate account, which was as much as could be spared for the present, our stock being inconsiderable in proportion to the demand we may reasonably expect for it; and shall do everything in my power to relieve our affairs from their present distressed and melancholy situation in that quarter, which occur to me and appear necessary.

I am also to acknowledge the receipt of your favours of the 10th and 13th instant, with their several enclosures; the money accompanying the letter came to the Paymaster's hands safe.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of the greatest regard, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, &c.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 12, 1776.

(Parole, Madrid.)

(Countersign, Paris.)

The Carpenters, Boat-Builders, and Painters, who were selected for the publick service this morning by Major-General Putnam, are to parade to-morrow morning, at sunrise, in the street opposite to General Putnam's, where they will receive his orders.

Corporal John Crossby, of Captain Ledyard's Company, in Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried at a late General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Huntington was President, for "desertion." The Court find the prisoner guilty of the charge, and do sentence him to be reduced to a private, and mulcted one month's pay. The General approves the above sentence, and orders it to take place immediately.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 13, 1776.

(Parole, Holland.)

(Countersign, Martinico.)

Major-General Putnam, with the Brigadiers-General Spencer and Lord Stirling, to examine and make report of the proper places to be fixed upon for the particular alarm posts of each Regiment.

Colonel Webb's and Colonel Nixon's Regiments to be mustered Wednesday morning, at eight o'clock, upon their regimental parades, in the front of their encampment.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 14, 1776.

(Parole, St. Eustatia.)

(Countersign, Amboy.)

Christian Mazure, of Captain Wyllly's Company, in Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried at a late General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Huntington was President, for "desertion." The Court find the prisoner guilty of the charge, and do sentence him to receive twenty lashes on his bare back.

John McFarling, of Captain Sharpe's Company, in Colonel Dayton's Regiment, tried by the above General Court-Martial for "desertion," is acquitted by the Court.

John Cooper, of Captain Varick's Company, in Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried by the above Court-Martial for "mutiny." The Court finding the prisoner guilty of the charge, do sentence him to receive fifteen lashes on the bare back, for said offence.

James McDonald, of Captain Horton's Company, in Colonel Ritzema's Regiment, tried by the above General Court-Martial for "threatening the life of Lieutenant Young and others of the said Company," is found guilty by the Court, and sentenced to be confined eight days on bread and water, for said offence.

The General approves the foregoing sentences, and orders them to be put in execution to-morrow morning, at guard mounting.

One Colonel and one Quartermaster from each Brigade, to attend a Committee from the Congress of this city, to-morrow morning, at seven o'clock, to take cognizance of the damage done to certain houses where the troops have been quartered. The Chairman of the Committee will meet the Colonels at the Exchange, at the time appointed.

The General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Huntington was President, is dissolved.

A General Court-Martial of the Line, consisting of one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, one Major, and ten Captains, to sit to-morrow morning, at ten o'clock, to try all such prisoners as shall be brought before them. All evidences and persons concerned to attend the Court.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 15, 1776.

(Parole, Barre.)

(Countersign, Dublin.)

The Continental Congress having ordered Friday, the 17th instant, to be observed as a day of "Fasting, Humiliation, and Prayer, humbly to supplicate the mercy of Almighty God, that it would please him to pardon all our manifold sins and transgressions, and to prosper the arms of the United Colonies, and finally establish the peace and freedom of America, upon a solid and lasting foundation:" the General commands all officers and soldiers to pay strict obedience to the orders of the Continental Congress, and by their unfeigned and pious observance of their religious duties, incline the Lord and Giver of victory to prosper our arms.

The Regiment of Artillery to be mustered Sunday morning, at eight o'clock, upon the Common, where the Commissary-General of Musters will attend.

The Company of Artillery commanded by Captain Hamilton, to be mustered at ten o'clock, next Sunday morning, upon the Common, near the Laboratory.

Lieutenant Howe and Ensign Kennedy, of Colonel Ward's Regiment, with the same Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers who were employed by the orders of the 8th instant in cutting pickets, are to parade at General Putnam's quarters, to-morrow morning, at sunrise, with four days' provisions ready dressed, to go upon the same duty as before.

The officers of all guards are to make their reports to the Colonel of the picket, by nine o'clock in the morning. The Colonel of the picket to make a report of all those reports collected in one, to the Brigadier of the day, at ten o'clock precisely.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 16, 1776.

(Parole, Annapolis.)

(Countersign, Calvert.)

Robert Hanson Harrison, Esquire, is appointed Secretary to the Commander-in-Chief, in the room of Joseph Reed, Esquire, whose private concerns will not permit him to continue in that office.

Any orders delivered by Caleb Gibbs and George Lewis, Esqs., (officers of the General's guard,) are to be attended to in the same manner as if sent by an Aid-de-Camp.

The Congress having given directions for the discharge of the Militia and the Minute-men in this District, the battalion of the Militia of this City are dismissed accordingly, and have the General's thanks for their masterly manner of executing the work on Bayard's Hill.

Some errors having happened in drawing the pay of the Quartermasters of several Regiments, the mistakes are to be rectified and they allowed their dues.

As the troops are to be exempt from all duties of fatigue to-morrow, the Regiments are to parade on their regimental parades, and to be marched from thence a little before ten, to hear divine service from their respective Chaplains.

For the future there is to be no expense of ammunition at the interment of any officer or soldier of the Continental Army, unless expressly ordered by the Commander-in-Chief.

Uriah Chamberlain, of Captain Hamilton's Company of Artillery, tried at a late General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Huntington was President, for "desertion." The Court find the prisoner guilty of the charge, and do sentence him to receive thirty-nine lashes on the bare back, for said offence. The General approves the above sentence, and orders it to be put in execution, on Saturday morning next, at guard mounting.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 17, 1776.

(Parole, Newcastle.)

(Countersign, Wilmington.)

Captain Wolverton's Company, of New-Jersey, is to join General Greene's Brigade. The Captain to take his orders from the General respecting his post.

An exact return of the pikes to be made without delay, and of the state of the arms in each Regiment and Corps, specifying the number of each kind wanting to complete.

The damage done to Mr. ——— house yesterday, by the bursting of one of the cannon, to be repaired by the carpenters in the Continental pay.

COLONEL RITZEMA TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Saturday, May 17, 1776.

SIR: The late Committee of Safety for this Colony deferred the appointment of a Surgeon to my regiment till such time as it should be known whether Doctor Woodruff, who was Surgeon to the garrison of St. Johns, was provided for in Canada or not. This gentleman, I am informed, is now appointed senior surgeon to the General Hospital in Canada, and of course is provided for. As the regiment stands much in need of a Surgeon, and Doctor Ledger, mate of Colonel McDougall's, stands well recommended by Doctor Bard as a proper person for a Surgeon to a regiment, I shall be glad the Congress will be pleased to take this into their consideration; and if Doctor Ledger shall be found properly qualified, that he be appointed Surgeon to the Third Regiment.

Gentlemen, I want arms; I have no more than one hundred and ten muskets in the regiment. How fatal this is to the discipline of the corps, and of what disservice to the country, you are too well convinced of to need my enforcing it. For God's sake exert yourselves in arming my regiment; I have a fine body of men, and have vanity enough to think if I had arms in a few weeks to be able to vie with any regiment in the Continental service.

You will pardon me in mentioning another matter: three or four of my Captains have not as yet received the billeting and subsistence money for their companies. The sub-Committee, appointed for the settling this matter, from the want of money, could not effect it. This causes some uneasiness, and I think merits attention. The regularly paying of a corps contributes as much as anything to the regularity of it.

I am, gentlemen, with respect, your very humble servant,
RUDOLPHUS RITZEMA.

To the President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Albany, May 17, 1776.

SIR: In your march from this to Tryon County, and at that place, every method must be used to prevent the soldiers from firing their pieces, insulting the inhabitants, or doing any act of rudeness whatever. A strict silence must be observed by the men at all times. When you are arrived and have seized Sir John Johnson, you are to seize the following persons, or either of them which you may find at his house, namely: James Grey, John Munroe, Thomas Swords, Captain McAlpine, Hugh Munro, Mr. Clyde of Stillwater, Isaac Mann of Stillwater, or either of his sons, Joseph Anderson, or Samuel Anderson.

Your men are frequently to be cautioned against offering any insult or abuse to the Indians, as one act of rudeness in a soldier might involve America in a dangerous war with a savage enemy.

Sir, I am your humble servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN, Brigadier-General.

To Colonel Dayton.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED MONTREAL, MAY 17, 1776.

I wrote you last from Deschambault, where we remained four or five days on a very short allowance, and left it with half an allowance of flour, and no pork, to serve the men to Trois Rivières, two good days' march. It has since been concluded on to keep no detachment for the present below the Sorel, as the Army have been living from hand to mouth for some time past, the supplies of provisions from the other side of the Lakes being but small, and very little to be procured without force, or paying hard money for it. The common people in general, though they will probably take the stronger side, do, I have no doubt from all the observations I have made, wish well to us and our cause, and would be very glad we should succeed. Forty or fifty men of the Eighteenth Regiment, commanded by Captain Foster, joined by three hundred Indians and two hundred and fifty Canadians, had (hearing, it is supposed, that this place was in a defenceless situation) come down within twelve miles of this, having made prisoners of a Major Sherburne and three hundred of our men on their way thither; but being informed that a reinforcement was arrived, they retreated. General Arnold is in pursuit of them with nine hundred men, four hundred of whom he has sent to endeavour to cut off their retreat, while he pursues them with the utmost expedition with the remainder. Provisions, as I mentioned before, are so very scarce that we are absolutely obliged to seize flour and wheat, pledging the faith of the United Colonies for the payment of the market price. General Thomas is very ill with the small-pox at Chambly, taken in the natural way. There are five instead of three hundred of our people made prisoners. There is a report that General Arnold has beat the enemy, but no account is yet arrived from himself.

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, May 17, 1776.

SIR: I have the pleasure to inform your Excellency that the armed schooner Franklin, Captain Mugford, this day took and brought into this harbour a large ship from Cork. Several other armed schooners were in company. A bill of lading I have enclosed, by which you will see that she is a very valuable prize. She carried four three-pounders, and is about three hundred tons burden. She came out the 4th of April, with nine sail of transports, under convoy of a frigate. I cannot learn any important intelligence by her; the master says there are but about one hundred soldiers on board these transports, and that they are laden with provisions and warlike stores for the King's troops.

I am your Excellency's obedient, humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

To General Washington.

* COLONY OF THE MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, ESSEX, ss. A libel is filed before me against the ship named the Hope, burden about two hundred and eighty tons, commanded by Alexander Lumsdale, which vessel is said to have been improved in carrying supplies to the fleet and army employed against the United Colonies, and taken and brought into the County of Suffolk. And the Court erected to try and condemn all vessels that shall be found infesting the sea-coast of America, and brought into either of the Counties of Suffolk, Middlesex, or Essex, will be held at Boston, on Friday, the 21st day of June, 1776, at the hour of ten in the forenoon, to try the justice of the said capture; of which this notice is given, pursuant to the laws of the Colony aforesaid, that the owners of said ship, or any persons concerned therein, may appear and show cause, if any they have, why the said ship, with her cargo and appurtenances, should not be condemned.

TIMOTHY PICKERING, Jun., Judge of said Court.

COLONY OF THE MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, Middle District, ss. Libels are filed before me in behalf of the officers, marines, and mariners, of the Continental armed vessels Hancock, Lee, Lynch, Warren, and Franklin, against the ship named the Lord Howe, of about two hundred tons burden, commanded by one Robert Parke; against the brigantine named the Annabella, of about one hundred and eighty tons burden, commanded by one Hugh Walker; and against the ship named the George, of about two hundred and twenty tons burden, commanded by one Archibald Bog.

Another libel is filed before me, in behalf of the officers, marines, and mariners, of the Continental armed vessels Lee, Warren, and Lynch, against the ship named the Anne, of about two hundred and twenty-three tons burden, commanded by one John Denniston, which ships and brigantine are said to have been taken carrying supplies to the fleet and Army employed against the United Colonies, and armed soldiers infesting the sea-coast of America, and brought into the Counties of Suffolk and Essex.

Another libel is filed before me, in behalf of John Adams, commander of the armed sloop called the Chance, and his company of marines and mariners, and the owners of the same sloop, against the ship named the Lady Juliana, of about two hundred and forty tons burden, commanded by one Christopher Stephenson, and taken and brought into the County of Essex; which ship, her cargo, and appurtenances, are said to have been, at the time of the capture, the property of, and owned by divers inhabitants of the Island of Great Britain.

And for the trial of these captures, the Maritime Court for the Middle District of the Massachusetts-Bay will be held at the Court-House in Boston, on Tuesday, the 23d day of July, 1776, at the hour of ten in the forenoon; of which this notice is given, pursuant to the laws of the Colony aforesaid, that the owners of the vessels taken as aforesaid, or any persons concerned, may appear and show cause (if any they have) why the same vessels, or any of them, and their cargoes and appurtenances, should not be condemned.

TIMOTHY PICKERING, Jun., Judge of said Court.

NOTE.—Persons claiming the whole, or any part or share, either as owners or captors, of any vessels taken and libelled, must, by law, file their claims before the Judge of the Court five days before the day set for the trial, or they will be forever barred therefrom.

GENERAL WARD TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Boston, May 17, 1776.

SIR: I have the pleasure to inform you that Captain Mugford, in the Continental armed schooner Franklin, this day took and brought into this harbour a ship from Cork, about three hundred tons burden, laden chiefly with ordnance stores. A bill of lading I have enclosed. She carried four three-pounders. The master informs that nine sail of transports came out with this ship, under convoy of a frigate, all laden with provisions and ordnance stores for the King's troops, which they supposed were in Boston. I cannot learn any important intelligence by the people on board this ship; she sailed from Cork the 4th of April.

Wishing you and all the Members of Congress the Divine direction, I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,
ARTEMAS WARD.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

Boston, May 20, 1776.

Early last Friday morning the Franklin schooner, one of the Continental cruisers, commanded by Captain James Mugford, of Marblehead, fell in with one of the enemy's transport-ships from Cork, bound directly into this harbour, the Captain not knowing that the place had been evacuated by the British fleet and army. Notwithstanding she appeared to be an armed ship, and was in sight of the enemy's men of war lying in Nantasket, Captain Mugford resolutely bore down upon her, and took her without opposition. She mounted six carriage-guns, a number of swivels, and had on board eighteen men. The Franklin, at that time, had only twenty-one men. Captain Mugford determining to bring her into this harbour, the inhabitants, on leaving their respective places of worship after the forenoon's service, (it being the day of the Continental fast,) had the pleasure of seeing the most valuable prize taken since the commencement of the war, entering the harbour. But it being ebb-tide, she ran ashore in Pulling-Point gut, where she lay till the ensuing night. As her cargo was of almost inestimable value to these Colonies, it was thought prudent to bring up to town the greatest part of it in boats; and a large number being immediately despatched, the same was soon safely landed and properly deposited.

The ship is about three hundred tons burden, Alexander Lumsdale master. She had five weeks' passage, and sailed from Cork in company with twelve or thirteen other transports, all bound to this place, from which she parted a few days before she was taken. The others, it is concluded, hearing of the evacuation of the town from one of their cruisers, steered for Halifax. The Captain brings no material advices.

The following is an inventory of the cargo of the above-mentioned prize ship, taken and brought in here last Friday, viz:

Carbines, with bayonets, scabbards, and steel ram-
mers, - - - - -	1000
Carbine cartouch-boxes, - - - - -	1000
Slings, - - - - -	1000
Spare travelling carriages, 24-pounder, heavy, - -	1
Do. do. 12 do. light, - - - - -	4
Traversing handspikes, for do., - - - - -	8
Handsaws, - - - - -	84
Sand-bags, bushel, 5000; half bushel, 5000, - -	10000
Mantelets of cured hides, - - - - -	100
Broad-axes, - - - - -	144
Hand hammers, - - - - -	50
Grindstones, with troughs, - - - - -	15
Felling-axes, - - - - -	300
Hand-hatchets, - - - - -	500
Hand-bills, - - - - -	500
Barrows, wheel, 268; hand, 150, - - - - -	418
Spades, common, 1000; ditching, 250, - - - -	1250
Shovels, shod, 750; iron, 250, - - - - -	1000
Carpenters' tools, sets, - - - - -	6

Handsaws, whet and set, 6; tennant do., 6; turning do., 6; broad-axes, helved, 6; adzes, helved, 6; penmauls, helved, 6; hammers, claw, 6, riveting, 6; chissels, broad-helved 6, scribing 6, heading 12, paring 6, firmer 36, mortice 24, and large 12; gouges, helved, firmer 36, pecking 6, and trunnion 12; pierces or pads, stocks and springs, 6; bitts for do. 72; draw borers, helved, 24; pairs of pincers, 6; iron squares, 6; brass chalk-line, rolls, 6; chalkline, knots, 12; iron compasses, pairs, 6; engineers' augurs, (8 to a set) sets 6; thrifts for do., 48; two feet rules, 6; black lead-pencils, dozens, 6; stones, rub 6, rag 6, Turkey oil 6; rasps, 12; saw-sets, 6; files for do., 18; gimlets, sorted, 124, large spike, 12; glue, 12 pounds; copper glue-pots, 6; fish skins, 6; mallets, 6; betties, or small iron crows, 6; planes of all sorts, 132; Hambro' line, skains, 50; spikes, from five to eight and a half-inch, 29 cwt. 3 qr.; nails, 24-penny, 35,500; pick-axes with helves, 500; hammers with helves, sledge, 25; augurs with thrifts, 75.

Rope, tarred, from 2 to 4½ inch, coils - - - -	5
Ditto, white, from 1½ to 3½ inch, coils - - - -	4
Powder, copper hooped, whole barrels - - - -	1500

Office of Ordnance, November 4, 1775.

The enemy, on board the men of war below, intolerably vexed and chagrined that the above ship should be taken and unloaded in their open view, formed a design of wreaking their vengeance on the gallant Captain Mugford, who took her. The Sunday following Captain Mugford, in company with Captain Cunningham, in the Lady Washington, a small privateer armed with swivels, blunderbusses, and muskets, fell down, in order to go out in the bay. The enemy observed their sailing, and fitted out a fleet of boats for the purpose of surprising and taking them in the night; and the Franklin's running aground in the gut, gave them a good opportunity for executing their plan. The Lady Washington came to anchor near Captain Mugford; and between nine and ten o'clock he discovered a number of boats, which he hailed, and received for answer that they were from Boston. He ordered them to keep off, or he would fire upon them. They begged him for God's sake not to fire, for they were going on board him. Captain Mugford instantly fired, and was followed by all his men; and cutting his cable, brought his broadside to bear, when he discharged his cannon, loaded with musket-ball, directly in upon them. Before the cannon could be charged a second time, two or three boats were alongside, each of them supposed to have as many men on board as the Franklin, which were only twenty-one, including officers. By the best accounts there were not less than thirteen boats in all, many of them armed with swivels, and having on board, at the lowest computation, two hundred men. Captain Mugford and his men plied those alongside so closely with fire-arms and spears, and with such intrepidity, activity, and success, that two boats were soon sunk, and all the men either killed or drowned. But while the heroick Mugford, with outstretched arms, was righteously dealing death and destruction to our base and unnatural enemies, he received a fatal ball in his body, which, in a few minutes, put a period to a life from which, had it been spared, his oppressed country would undoubtedly have reaped very eminent advantages. After our brave men had maintained this unequal contest for about half an hour, the enemy thought proper to retire. The carnage among them must have been great; for, besides the two boat-loads killed and drowned, many were doubtless killed and wounded on board the others. Great execution was done by the spears. One man, with that weapon, is positive of having killed nine of the enemy.

The number of boats which attacked the Franklin was about eight or nine. The remainder, to the number of four or five, at the same time attacked Captain Cunningham, in the Lady Washington, who then had on board only six men besides himself. This brave little company gave the boats such a warm reception that the enemy were soon glad to give over the contest, after suffering, it is thought, considerable loss.

The body of one of the marines killed in the above engagement, and one of the enemy's thirteen-oared barges, have been taken up at Chelsea. The remains of Captain Mugford have been carried to Marblehead for interment. No other life on our part was lost.

COLONEL PALMER TO THOMAS CUSHING.

Braintree, May 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Yesterday a party of the enemy landed upon Pettick's Island, at or near the Sheep's Pen, and travelled about upon it a considerable time; if these companies had had the whale-boats, it is not likely the enemy would have ventured so far. I find that a considerable number of inhabitants of Hull are returned, and boats from the ships have been observed to go thither; no doubt can be made but that intelligence and provisions are conveyed in that channel, and for want of whale-boats we cannot prevent it. It would be better to burn the town than permit such communication; but a party of perhaps fifty or one hundred men might prevent it and protect the inhabitants. They certainly know that the whale-boats are taken off from hence, or they would not venture to look after our fishing-canoes so far up the harbour, when we were so near to our guards upon Hough's Neck. The Committee of War will doubtless consider the matter.

By intelligence from our guards, our armed vessels this morning took a ship and brig a little without the Light-House, some say only a ship. I saw Dawson endeavour to go out at the time of the firing, but wind and tide being against, he could not go out. The like has taken place several times before, and is evidence to me that the enemy do not think it safe to ride outside the Light-House. Just before their great fleet left Nantasket Harbour several of them anchored below the Light-House, but soon returned; similar instances I can give, which fully evince that they do not think it safe to anchor so low down.

* It may be well to consider whether, if they are driven from their present station, they may not attempt to lodge in Marblehead Harbour, or some other within the Capes. It ought also to be considered how they may be dislodged from the heights of Hull and the Islands, should they possess them, and also how they will dislodge us, should we have possession of the heights.

I am, &c.,

J. PALMER.

To the Honourable Thomas Cushing, Esquire, Chairman of the Committee of War.

LETTER ADDRESSED TO THE FRONTIER INHABITANTS BY MR. STUART, BRITISH SUPERINTENDENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS IN THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT, DELIVERED 18TH OF MAY, 1776.

Some time ago Mr. Cameron and myself wrote you a letter by Mr. Thomas, and enclosed you the talk we had with the Indians respecting the purchase which, it is reported, you lately made of them for the rivers Wattaugah and No-lachucky, &c. We are since informed that you are under great apprehensions of the Indians doing mischief; but it is not the design of his Majesty to set his friends and allies, the Indians, on his liege subjects. Therefore, whoever of you are willing to join his Majesty's forces as soon as they arrive at the Cherokee nation, by repairing to the King's standard, shall find protection, and their families and estates be secure from all danger whatever. Yet, that his Majesty's officers may be certain which of you are willing to take up arms in defence of the King's just rights, I have thought fit to recommend to every one of you that is desirous of preventing inevitable ruin to himself and family, immediately to subscribe a written paper, acknowledging their allegiance to his Majesty King George, and that they are ready and willing, whenever called upon, to appear in arms in defence of the British rights in America; which paper, as soon as it is signed, send to me by some safe hand.

Should any of the inhabitants be desirous of knowing how they are to be kept free from every kind of insult or danger, inform them that his Majesty will immediately land an army in West-Florida, and march them through the Creek nation to the Chickasaws, where five hundred warriors from each nation are to join them, then come by the Cherokees, (who have also promised their assistance,) and then take possession of the frontiers of North-Carolina and Virginia, at the same time that his Majesty's forces make a diversion on the sea-coasts of those Provinces.

If any of the inhabitants have cattle, pack-horses, or flour to spare, by applying to us they shall have a good price for them, as soon as his Majesty's troops are embodied.

I am, gentlemen, &c.,

HENRY STUART, Deputy Superintendent.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

TO THE PUBLICK.

Whereas many misrepresentations have been circulated respecting the quantity of ammunition, and other circumstances relating to the condition of the galleys at the time of the late engagement; the officers on that service, in justice to their reputation, conceive themselves called upon to give a true account thereof.

The number of cartridges on board at the commencement of the action, on the 8th instant, amounted on an average to twenty-eight rounds only, when filled up fit for service, which was expended in many of the boats, and only a round or two left in others, at the time the Roebuck got aground; otherwise we have every reason to believe we should have made a prize of her, as we had above an hour's daylight when we were obliged to retreat for want of ammunition. Soon after this, we received a small supply, partly of loose powder, amounting to eight rounds only, and deficient of cartridges to put it in, which we judged insufficient to renew the attack with.

On the 9th we received a second supply, which made up forty-five rounds, including the former eight, but not till long after the Roebuck was got off, which she effected before daylight. Soon after receiving this we began the second attack, under the disadvantage of being obliged, in the time of the action, to cut up blankets, jackets, trousers, stockings, &c., to supply the defect of cartridges; and, for want of wads, some were necessitated to cut up cables, and take the oakum out of the netting. This supply was also expended about sunset, after a very close engagement, when some retreated to look for fresh supplies; and meeting with a barge, three of us got seven rounds therefrom and returned to the attack, which was continued till the enemy was below Newcastle. Next morning she dropped to Reedy Island. We continued watching them three days, in which time we received a further supply of powder; but as many of the boats were then without shot, and others had but very few, we were still ill provided either for attack or defence.

We have, on former occasions, from first entering on the duty, experienced many distresses, both for service and accommodation, which we have borne with a soldierlike patience, under the hopes that future regulations would relieve us therefrom.

We are the publick's most obedient humble servants,

HENRY DOUGHERTY,	ALEXANDER HENDERSON,
JOHN RICE,	THOMAS MOORE,
JOHN HAMILTON,	NATHAN BOYCE,
JAMES MONTGOMERY,	HUGH MONTGOMERY,
JAMES BLAIR,	THOMAS HOUSTON.

RICHARD EYERS,

Lieut. BENJAMIN THOMPSON, commanding the Experiment.

Lieut. ROBERT HUME, commanding the Ranger.

To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met.

The Address of the Committee of Inspection for the County of PHILADELPHIA.

We esteem ourselves in no small degree happy that we have the satisfaction, in this very critical conjuncture, of expressing our sentiments to the constitutional Representative body of this Province.

With the deepest concern, we have lately observed that the ground on which our opposition to the arbitrary and oppressive measures of the British Ministry was first made is so totally changed. Instead of our joining hand and heart in forwarding a reconciliation with our parent State, on constitutional principles, which is the object we ought ever to have kept in view, as the only termination of our disputes which can possibly give us happiness and security; a system has been adopted by some persons in the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, which tends immediately to the subversion of our Constitution.

When we recollect the declaration of Congress, that they "mean not to destroy the Union which has so long happily subsisted, and which they sincerely wish to be restored;" when we think of the known instructions given to the Delegates of the several Provinces, as well as to those of our own, we are alarmed at the prospect of a disunion, which must attend the prosecution of a scheme that will, in the end, not only set Province against Province, but (more dreadful to think of) foment civil discords in each.

Should our inveterate enemies be so long lost to all sense of justice and humanity as to persist in their infernal plan of despotism; should they drive us by their violence to that last shift, a Declaration of Independence, every one will then be convinced of the necessity of such a measure, and we shall be as one man, so united and strengthened by the conviction as to bid defiance to all their attempts.

The inhabitants of this County, in their own native land, in defence of the freedom which is their birthright, and which they have ever enjoyed until the late violation of it, for the protection of their property (acquired solely by the industry of their forefathers and themselves) against violence actually offered, first took up arms, and mean not to lay them down until hostilities shall cease on the part of the aggressors, and all danger of their being renewed shall be removed.

They have, with the greatest alacrity, given a considerable part of their time to qualify themselves in military matters, and are well assured that they will be behind none in their endeavours to put an end to the oppression of their country; but it was, at the same time, with a determined resolution to support and defend their Constitution against all oppressions and innovations whatsoever.

These we know to be the sentiments of the people under whose authority we act, as well as our own; and, as such, we should be highly wanting in duty to ourselves and our constituents were we to neglect laying them before you.

We are not insensible of the difficulties which attend your situation; but trust you will proceed in the weighty affairs now under your consideration with unanimity and firmness, still looking forward to a happy, permanent termination of our calamities, in constitutional reconciliation with our own ancient friends. To forget injuries, and to forgive those who have offended, is as conducive to happiness as conformable to the rules of virtue; and we make no doubt the most salutary events must result from measures formed and conducted on such principles.

What we have to offer and advise is, that you will most religiously adhere to the instructions given to our Delegates in Congress. We consider them our greatest security. And we further most seriously entreat that you will, to the utmost of your power, oppose the changing or altering, in any the least part, our invaluable Constitution, under which we have experienced every happiness, and in support of which there is nothing just or reasonable which we would not willingly undertake.

Signed by order of the Committee:

W. HAMILTON, Chairman.

Philadelphia County Committee, May 18, 1776.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE OF INSPECTION AND OBSERVATION.

Philadelphia, May 18, 1776.

Whereas a quantity of Salt, supposed to be about four thousand bushels, belonging to Joshua Fisher & Sons, imported in December, 1774, contrary to the Continental Association, was then stored under the care of the Committee of Inspection and Observation for the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, and now remains unsold, the said Joshua Fisher & Sons having refused to sell it according to the recommendations of Congress, and still continue contumaciously so to do; and the said Joshua Fisher & Sons, by their letter, dated the 8th of this month, directed to this Committee, and received the 11th of the same, have proposed that if the same be delivered to them without any conditions whatsoever, they will retail it in small quantities to the consumer at three shillings per bushel; this Committee being well informed that the aforesaid proposal was spread through the country before it was made to the Committee, and was calculated to involve them in difficulties, and has a tendency to induce the people to believe that the Committee have some further views in detaining the Salt in their possession: The Committee think it their duty to remind the publick that Thomas Fisher and Samuel Fisher, of the house of Joshua Fisher & Sons, have been adjudged and advertised as enemies to their country, and incapable of all trade and intercourse with the people of these Colonies; and therefore that the Salt cannot be delivered to them, nor, if it were in their possession, could it be purchased of them by any friend to American liberty. The Committee at the same time assure the publick that they have under their consideration a mode of disposing of the said Salt, so as to serve the publick in the most effectual manner, without doing the least injustice to the said Joshua Fisher & Sons.

Published by order of the Committee:

SAMUEL C. MORRIS, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA COUNTY COMMITTEE.

In Committee, May 18, 1776.

Resolved, That it be, and is hereby, recommended to the Colonels of this County to make immediate returns of the Associators in their several Battalions, agreeable to the resolve of the House of Assembly.

Resolved, That it be, and is hereby, recommended to the Townships in this County, where persons have been chosen to receive the Arms of Non-Associators, to make their returns to this Committee at the next meeting, in order that proper persons (as enjoined by the House of Assembly) may be appointed to collect the Arms in those Townships where none have been chosen.

Extract from the Minutes:

ENOCH EDWARDS, Secretary.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Trenton, May 18, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I am to acknowledge your favour of the 24th ultimo, then ask pardon for not answering sooner; at the same time take the liberty to inform you that our Committee of Safety only came into the following regulations on the 15th instant: That one-fourth of the Militia of the several Counties be detached by lot, to stand as Minutemen for two months, to be well armed and accoutred, to march at a minute's warning, on any alarm, to the several places of rendezvous, viz: County of Bergen, to Paulus Hook; Counties of Essex, Morris and Sussex, at Elizabethtown and Newark; Middlesex and Somerset, at Woodbridge; Hunterdon, at New-Brunswick; and the Counties of Monmouth and Burlington, at Perth Amboy; at which several places they are to expect general orders; for which purpose I have given Brigadier-General Dickerson the resolution at large, that he may give orders to the Colonels in the several Counties. And as the Militia of this Colony are firmly attached to the great cause of American freedom, I have the firmest reliance on the most cheerful compliance; and have the honour to be, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

SAMUEL TUCKER.

To General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 21, 1776. Referred to Messrs. J. Adams, W. Livingston, Jefferson, R. H. Lee, and Sherman.]

New-York, May 18, 1776.

SIR: I do myself the honour to transmit to you the enclosed letters and papers I received this morning in the state they now are, which contain sundry matters of intelligence of the most interesting nature. As the consideration of them may lead to important consequences, and the adoption of several measures in the military line, I have thought it advisable for General Gates to attend Congress; he will follow to-morrow, and satisfy and explain to them some points they may wish to be informed of in the course of their deliberations, not having an opportunity at this time to submit my thoughts to them upon these interesting accounts.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esquire, President of Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

New-York, May 18, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: In great haste I write you a few lines to cover the enclosed: they came in the manner you see them, and as explained in Captain Langdon's letter to me of May 10.

I hesitated some time in determining whether I could, with propriety, select them from the rest, considering in what manner they came to my hands; but as there are some things in each which may serve to irritate, I concluded it best to send not only the one directed to you, but the other also, (to Doctor Franklin,) under cover to you, as you may communicate and secrete such parts as you like. I have no time to add the necessity of vigorous exertions; they are too obvious to need any stimulus from me.

Adieu, my dear sir; I am, most affectionately, your obedient

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

P. S. Upon second thought, knowing that Doctor Franklin is in Canada, I send you a copy only of the letter to him, (which I take to be from Doctor Lee,) and the original to the Doctor.

JOHN LANGDON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

[Read May 21, 1776.]

Portsmouth, New-Hampshire, May 10, 1776.

SIR: This will be handed you by George Merchant, who says he is one of the riflemen that went from Cambridge under General Arnold to attack Quebeck; was taken prisoner crossing the river at that place, sent to England in irons, has just returned by way of Halifax, from whence he made his escape, with some others, in a small boat. He arrived at Old-York yesterday, when he informed the Committee of that place of his having letters from England, which he had concealed in the waistband of his breeches. They thought fit to open the letters, and sent them on to the Committee of this place, who have directed me to despatch the man with the letters to Congress, after having called on you in the way there; I have, therefore, furnished him with necessities, and given strict directions to proceed with all possible despatch to Head-Quarters at New-York, as express to your Excellency, with the enclosed letters; and as they contain matters of importance, no doubt you will think proper to forward them to Congress. This man informs us that the troops at Halifax are in a most deplorable condition for want of provision; this is confirmed by several others who have escaped from thence and arrived at this place within these few days.*

I am, with the greatest respect, your most obedient servant,

JOHN LANGDON.

To General Washington.

DOCTOR FOSTER TO GENERAL GATES.

New-York, May 18, 1776.

SIR: According to your orders, I have inquired after the small-pox, and find that Lieutenant-Colonel Johnson Moulton, Captain Samuel Draper, Doctor John Hart, and Lieutenant Benjamin Brown, (all of Colonel Prescott's Regiment,) were inoculated on the 11th instant at the house of one Fisher, in Stone street; they were inoculated by one Bates; they know not where he lives, but I believe * WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA, June 14, 1776.—George Merchant, a private in Captain Morgan's Company of Riflemen of Virginia, who went to Canada with Colonel Arnold last fall, was taken prisoner soon after landing on the plains of Abraham, and, after being confined several days in irons, was sent to England to be hanged; but meeting with friends in London, he was set at liberty, and sent to Bristol, from whence he got a passage, on the 24th of March, in a schooner, to Halifax, where he tarried ten days, when he, with several masters of vessels that had been taken by the Ministerial cruisers, hired a small fishing schooner to bring them to Newbury, but, by reason of contrary winds, put into Old-York, in New-Hampshire, where he landed and pushed for Boston, and was sent express from thence to General Washington, and by him to the Continental Congress, and arrived here on Monday evening. By him we have the following important advices:

Extract of a letter from an eminent gentleman in London to his friend in America, dated FEBRUARY 7.—“Lord Howe is appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Fleet. The commander at land is not yet determined. Lord Cornwallis is now ready to sail from Cork with three thousand men for Virginia to meet General Clinton. The plan is to march through that Colony and attack Philadelphia by land, if impracticable by sea. They reckon, upon paper, to have an army of thirty thousand, mostly Germans, in America, by June. Burgoyne is to retake Canada with ten thousand men; if the passage over the Blue-Ridge is fortified, that way will be impracticable. If offers of settlement, &c., are prepared, to fling into the camp, in German, when the Germans arrive, it must have a great effect. They trust to the slaves, but more to the Scotch, among you. The Generals talked of are Amherst, Count La Lippe, or Harvey; the last is most probable. A General of the first abilities has offered to go over, if I could assure him of being received by the Congress. If the Ministerial efforts do not succeed this campaign, it is over with them.”

the woman of the house can tell if she was disposed; they are not yet attacked with the symptoms, and may, in my opinion, be safely removed.

I am, with much respect, your most humble servant,

ISAAC FOSTER,

Surgeon in the Hospital.

To the Honourable Horatio Gates, Esq.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, May 18, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I cannot but esteem it my duty to inform your Excellency of the horrid abuse to the publick by keeping up the two regiments of Van Schaick and Wynkoop. Those regiments are said to be in this quarter; but, upon the strictest inquiry, can be found nowhere. Colonel Van Schaick is here himself, but has never furnished a man for guard or any other duty since my arrival. I have been applied to by Lieutenant-Colonel Cortlandt, of Wynkoop's Regiment, for pay for two companies. I inquired where they were. He said, in Tryon County, to keep the Tories in awe: he at the same time told me that they had not now, nor have they ever had, any arms or ammunition. I suppose they have been employed on their farms all the year, and I believe that is the case with the principal part of the two regiments. I called on Colonel Cortlandt for a return, which, being incomplete, I returned it to him again. I found in some companies not a man present fit for duty, or sick present, in some there were eleven, in others less. I desired him to make out the number on command and where, which he is now about, a copy of which return I shall forward to your Excellency. I should take the same steps with Colonel Van Schaick's, but am ordered to march, as we have conveyed forward a sufficiency of provisions for the relief of our Army in Canada; my brigade is now on their march for the Lake. Stark and Reed, I suppose, will pass Lake George to-morrow; Winds the day after; Irvine and Wayne on Tuesday or Wednesday. Colonel Dayton, with three hundred of his men, set off yesterday for Tryon County, and will not return under six days. I shall leave orders for him to follow on as soon as possible with that detachment and the rest of his regiment, which I have ordered to remain here till his return to assist in forwarding the provisions, &c.

Every kind of abuse is practised here that men long versed in villany could devise. I found at Stillwater a number of barrels of pork that the wagoners had tapped and drawn off the pickle to lighten their teams. This pork must inevitably be ruined before it can reach Canada. As General Schuyler was absent, I ordered the Commissary not to receive any such from the wagoners, and the Commissary at Half-Moon not to receive out of the boats any, or deliver out such to the wagoners. I ordered the wagoners not to receive any such, as it would eventually be thrown on their hands. I then directed the Commissary here not to send any barrels forward that had lost the pickle, which would be only taking up batteaus and wagons to carry provisions which, when brought to Canada, could not be eaten. By this step I hope to prevent any further fraud in the wagoners, who, it is said, learned this piece of skill in the last war, for which some of them were well flogged, and I hope some of them may share the same fate again.

The application I made to the Committee here for teams to pass on loaded to Lake George is of great advantage, for it makes an addition of near two hundred barrels a day more than we could have forwarded by water-carriage, which will afford an ample supply to our Army, unless the stores here should be exhausted, which will soon be the case if we are not supplied from below. I hope that matter will be thought of and remedied in season.

Dear General, I am, (in extreme haste,) with much respect, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To His Excellency General Washington.

BROTHERS: I hope you are all well, and that we are met together to smoke our pipes like friends.

BROTHERS: We would go to Philadelphia, to the Congress; we have no shoes to walk upon; we hope the General will find a sloop to carry us over the water to Amboy, and in wagons to Philadelphia, and find us a dram in the morning and in the evening, and provisions; we would be very glad if the General would do so much for us.

BROTHERS: We were at the great meeting at Albany with General Schuyler, who told us we might go to Boston, New-York, or Philadelphia, and see the country. We have heard that the British troops are drove from Boston; this we know by two of the Mohawks, who were at Boston; and now we choose to go to Philadelphia; if the General will find us a sloop, we will go on Monday.

BROTHERS: Don't let us suffer as we did on the way from Albany, where we could not get any liquors, and had nothing but salt meat; we are quite tired of salt meat. If we could have fresh meat on the way to Philadelphia, we should be very glad; we like a little liquor in the morning and in the evening.

BROTHERS: One thing we would beg of you: the young warriors like to be dressed, we should be very glad if you would let us have a little paint. Brothers, this is all we have to say at this time.

BROTHERS: General Schuyler gave us leave to see the country; if the General will let us see the works this afternoon, we should be very glad.

TOOGHSQUAWTEE, Onondaga.
SAWCOOAHNREE, Onondaga.
CAWROHEEAWGEE, Tuscarora.
DANIEL CAWNAHRAWGENEEYATEE, Oneida.
JACOB REEDS, Oneida.
SAHNOWANEE, Mohawk.
PHILLIP UNITY, Anenarisongh.

COLONEL WINDS TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Stillwater, May 18, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: Am sorry to inform you that the regiment I have the honour to command is entirely destitute of medicines, and now on its march to a place where it will perhaps be very difficult to get a supply. Doctor Burnett, the Surgeon for the regiment, procured a quantity for its use at his own expense, for which I am apprehensive he charged rather high, and therefore humbly request that a supply may be sent us as soon as possible.

It is with the utmost reluctance that I must inform you that Doctor Burnett is by no means attentive to his duty as Surgeon of the regiment: at a favourable computation, I can safely say he has not been, for near two months past, more than one-half of the time with us, and as he has no person to assist him as mate, it makes our situation on this account very distressing. The lives and health of the persons under my care, as well as the interest of the cause in which I am engaged, constrain me to petition that the honourable Congress will appoint some other person to serve in that department.

I have the honour to be, honourable sir, your obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM WINDS, Colonel.

To John Hancock, Esq.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO CAPTAIN HARDING.

Hartford, May 18, 1776.

SIR: I have received your favours of the 15th and 16th instant, communicating alarming intelligence of a most unnatural and traitorous combination among the inhabitants of this Colony. Possessed of and enjoying the most valuable and important privileges, to betray them all into the hands of our cruel oppressors, is shocking and astonishing conduct, and evinces the deep degeneracy and wickedness of which mankind is capable. Have laid your communication before my Council. They are equally shocked at this horrid baseness, and will with me be ready to come into any proper measures to defeat and suppress this wicked conspiracy, to the utmost of our power; and, in the mean time, approve and applaud your zeal and activity to discover and apprehend any persons concerned in this blackest treason; and do advise and direct that you continue your care and exertions to find out and take up any persons carrying on, or aiding these wicked and malicious designs; and for these purposes, that you continue cruising in the Sound for the present, and to give me every information you can obtain of anything wherein the publick good and safety are concerned, and of your farther proceedings from time to time.

I am, sir,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To Captain Seth Harding.

VALENTINE RATHBUN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Richmond, Berkshire County, May 17, 1776.

Will it please your Excellency to consider that it is of the last, utmost importance to the cause, that the Militia be furnished with ammunition without loss of time.

Signed by order of eleven Committees in conjunction, by VALENTINE RATHBUN, Chairman.

To His Excellency General Washington, Esquire.

Information taken on oath, the 18th of MAY, 1776, against McDONALD, who was sent by the Congress of NEW-YORK to view the Lead Mines in NEW-CANAAN.

George Hinsdale told this informer that said McDonald was a friend to Government, and did, when at New-Canaan, profess to be a friend to Government, and that the Tories there had frequent intercourse with him in said matters; that George Hinsdale told this informer that Brown, who inlisted Captain Harman Vosburg's Clerk, was a Lieutenant in the Thirteenth Regiment of the King's Troops, and was sent out as a spy, and said there were thirty-five more officers sent into the County for the same purpose; and that said Hinsdale told the informer that said Brown had inlisted his complement of men in the country, that he had engaged four hundred men in Newton, in Connecticut, one hundred in New-Milford, and a number in Canaan, in Connecticut. That Silas Howard, Ensign to said Vosburg, said that it would be the making of every one that would inlist, although their wages was forty shillings per month. Said Hinsdale told the informer that said Howard said that the four battalions raised in New-York were to act with the King's troops. Said Hinsdale also said that said Howard said he told David Van Schaack, of Kinderhook, that they were suspected by the Whigs; said David replied that the plan is so deeply laid in Congress and Committees, that they could not overthrow it if they should. Said Howard told this informer that if the company comes to action, they were to follow said Brown, and let the Captain go. Said Hinsdale told this informer that said Howard and one Osborn told this informer, that said Brown told them, they must not think it strange if he were to be missing, for he must sometimes be gone, and they must pursue the plan he had led them into; and said Hinsdale told this informer that said Brown said General Schuyler was a true man for the King, but Washington was a Rebel. Said Hinsdale told this informer that the friends to Government told him that said Brown had stolen a horse to go to Hartford, in Connecticut, in order that Esquire Savage might see Major Skene; that said Brown was pursued by Esquire Savage for that purpose, and taken and brought back to Albany, and there confined for a time, all which was a cover for said Brown; and said Brown is supposed to be at Johnstown. The informer says that the said Howard and Hinsdale told him, that the company under said Vosburg were to be supplied by General Schuyler with arms and ammunition for the service. By another informer, that said Hinsdale told him that said Brown did send to a deserter that deserted out of one of the King's ships, and lived in New-Canaan, and gave a writing under his hand as an officer of his Majesty in the Thirteenth Regiment, that he should have the King's pardon if he would inlist, on which said deserter did inlist. Said Howard told this informer on his querying whether said Brown was not a traitor, that he was not, for he landed at Philadelphia, and was there taken and carried before a Committee, and they could find nothing against him; that when he was in Albany, that Brown did meet some one person in the street, from Philadelphia, whom Brown knew, and was afraid he should be discovered, and did immediately get among his friends, and give them all his papers, so that if he should be taken he might not be known. This informer said that there are about forty-seven Tories in New-Canaan, and about eighty in New-Britain, and that some of the officers of the Militia are of the number. This informer said that the Tories are so hardened in principle, that they cannot swear false, therefore will not stick to take any oath enjoined them by any Committee. Captain Barret Diar, of King's District, told this informer, that he dreamed, at a time not long first there would be a great convulsion in affairs; and in the compass of an hour after it begun things would turn right about, and all the forts would be in possession of the Tories, and the Whigs disarmed and secured, and also a number of sloops got up the river to Albany, to cut off communication from shore to shore; and that the same would be in Connecticut river. This informer saith, that Israel Osborn, Jun., of Captain Vosburg's company, did, a few days since, ask him what he thought of these things; to which he replied, he did not know. Said Osborn said there would be a damned struggle which should have the arms, the Whigs or Tories, before they left Albany. That George Hinsdale told this informer that Lemuel Buck, of New-Milford, said he had seen some one of the members of the Congress of New-York, who told said Buck they were the greater part friends to Government, and did freely confer with the Captain of the man-of-war, and communicated things to him. That George Hinsdale told him one Rowley said that General Schuyler had a commission from the King, and has had it some months. This informer said that Esquire Savage, of King's District, told him he had been a journey to Connecticut to Major Skene; and was in Woodbury, and found there was a vast number of Tories there, and through the country. Saith he saw Esquire Van Schaack, of Kinderhook, a few days ago, who said, he had done troubling himself about the matter, the damned Tories would all be hanged soon. This is the way of speech made use of by friends to Government. This informer saith, that the said Brown did say that it was absolutely necessary to have the names of the friends to Government taken, and that said Brown did take the names of such in these parts.

The above deposition was taken before eleven Committees, sitting in Richmond, in the County of Berkshire, per VALENTINE RATHBUN, Chairman.

The reason the deponent's name is secreted, is, because he supposed he was in danger.

Berkshire, May 19, 1776.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LONDON TO A GENTLEMAN
IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED MAY 19, 1776.

Should America this spring declare independence, it is most certain that France and many other Powers of Europe will give her immediate assistance, if applied to; which no Power will attempt to do while the Americans style themselves subjects of the King of Great Britain. The Ministry are fully sensible of this; therefore, by cajoling and making friends in some of the Southern Colonies, they hope to create divisions, and prevent such a decisive step being taken this year; and, by the operations of the present campaign, they expect to be so successful as to make it too hazardous for foreign Powers to interfere. The commission which Lord Howe carries over is, in fact, nothing more than to receive the submission of the Colonies, but he is instructed to talk much of a reconciliation on honourable terms. This, it is thought, with the aid of secret influence, (for which he has unlimited power,) especially with those Colonies that at present seem most averse to independence, will create divisions in Congress, and among the people at large, so as to prevent a further success of their operations this year. Indeed, the Ministry are more alarmed at the apprehension of America declaring herself independent than anything else, because they have been given to understand, by most of the Powers of Europe, particularly by France and Prussia, that in such a case they shall think themselves entirely at liberty to act as best suits themselves. But the truth is, the King is so determined on the unconditional subjugation of America, (the present Court phrase,) that it is certain he will risk the utter ruin of the whole Empire, rather than not succeed in what he has set his heart so much upon.

ALLAN McDONALD TO THE PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

[Communicated to Congress by John Nixon. Read May 21, 1776.]
Reading, Pennsylvania, May 19, 1776.

SIR: When lately at Philadelphia, I represented to the honourable Congress the disagreeable situation we were in since our arrival or confinement in this place, and which, without any additional charges to them, might be made more comfortable and satisfactory to us. Agreeable to our parole to General Schuyler, we waited on the Committee of the place next morning after our coming to it, and then signed a fresh parole, as the gentlemen had received no instructions relative to us. They returned us to the tavern till the further pleasure of Congress should be known, and for which we waited with great anxiety, when, at last, Mr. Hollar informed us that he was ordered to provide lodgings for us, and that, in consequence, he had ordered beds, chairs, tables, &c., to be got ready. We were much surprised when he told us last day that his instructions were confined to the articles mentioned, with the addition of pots only; when surely many more are necessary to furnish houses; and yet we asked nothing but what we could not absolutely dispense with, as we appeal to himself, the bearer hereof. It is true, he told us he would lay the matter before you, and act agreeable to your further directions, and which we hope you will be pleased to give him on receipt, not only in regard to the lodgings, but our subsistence. It has been surmised that, without authority, we were to be allowed two dollars a week only, as given the gentlemen of the regulars. Surely there is a very material distinction to be made. Those have their agents to draw upon, and are allowed to sell their drafts, and without which, it is not presumable the two dollars could support them in rank and character; and yet this is the very case with us. We have nothing to expect or depend upon but the allowance of Congress; and if I may beg a little of your attention to the capitulation, you will, I hope, with us be of opinion that this is secured to us; and the sense we had of our own inability was the very reason why we insisted in it so much with General Schuyler. Were it otherwise, your own sentiments and feelings, as gentlemen, would induce you to it. It is not only this, but support for our families that we were made to expect. As the General had no discretionary power, he would only promise his good offices with Congress as to this request, still signifying a confidence of its being complied with upon a fair representation; but as it is optional to you to grant or refuse this part, it is submitted to your good humanity, as is your giving despatch to the request of this letter, and determining whether we are to be removed to the lodgings taken for us, or continue in the tavern, as at present, which, without bringing you advantage, distresses much me and others. And I am, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

ALLAN McDONALD.

To John Nixon, President of the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 21, 1776.]

New-York, May 19, 1776.

SIR: This will be handed you by General Gates, who sets out to-day for Congress agreeable to my letter of yesterday. I have committed to him the heads of sundry matters to lay before Congress for their consideration, which, from the interesting intelligence contained in my last, appear to me of the utmost importance, and to demand their most early and serious attention. Sensible that I have omitted to set down many things necessary, and which probably when deliberating they will wish to be acquainted with, and not conceiving myself at liberty to depart my post, though to attend them, without their previous approbation, I have requested General Gates to subjoin such hints of his own as he may apprehend material. His military experience and intimate acquaintance with the situation of our affairs will enable him to give Congress the fullest satisfaction about the measures necessary to be adopted at this alarming crisis, and, with his zeal and attachment to the cause of America, have a claim to their notice and favours. When Congress shall have come to a determination on the subject of this letter, and such parts of my former letters as have not been determined on, you will be pleased to honour me with the result.

I am, sir, with sentiments of the greatest regard and esteem, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the President of Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, May 19, 1776.

SIR: Having reason to believe, from intelligence lately received, that the time is not far distant when the arrival of a considerable armament may be expected, I must again repeat my applications on the subject of arms, and entreat your honourable body to use their utmost exertions that a supply may be obtained for the regiments of this Colony, which, in general, are extremely deficient, some of them almost destitute. I trust your own feelings will readily suggest I have sufficient cause of anxiety and concern upon this occasion, and will furnish an apology for my so often troubling you. I have tried, I have pursued every measure my judgment led to, without being able to procure a sufficient quantity; nor have I any power to apply to but you, from which I can promise myself the least prospect of success. I would also take the liberty of praying your endeavours to procure a quantity of intrenching tools, viz: spades and shovels, as our operations go on much slower than they would if we had more of them, which, at a crisis like this, is exceedingly alarming, when the utmost labour and industry will not more than complete the necessary works of defence by the time the enemy may attempt an invasion. The Quartermaster assures me that he has taken every possible method in his power to get them, but without success; which is the reason of my requesting an exertion of your interest.

I am, &amp;c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the President of the New-York Convention.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO GENERAL WARD.

New-York, May 19, 1776.

SIR: His Excellency received your favour of the 12th instant, with the accounts from England, containing intelligence of an important nature, which were immediately forwarded to Congress.

His Excellency desires that you will remain at Boston, and use your best endeavours to carry on the works for the defence of the town and harbour with all possible despatch, until you are relieved; which, he imagines, will not be long first, as he has had advice that Congress have made a late appointment of some General officers, and design that two shall repair to Boston. He also desires that you will give orders to the several Colonels to recruit their regiments to the establishment as fast as possible. For every good man enlisted, who shall pass muster, the officer who shall recruit will be allowed one dollar and a third. This, he hopes, will excite a spirit of industry in the officers, and which he wishes you to inform them of.

I am, sir, very respectfully, yours, &amp;c.

To Major-General Ward, Boston.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO COLONEL LIVINGSTON.

New-York, May 19, 1776.

SIR: His Excellency received your favour of the 14th instant, with its enclosures, and is sorry the garrisons under your command are in the disagreeable situation you mention.

In respect to arms, it is not in his power to give you any relief at this time, not being able to supply the deficiency in the regiments here, particularly those of this Colony, which are almost destitute.

As to an infirmary, he wishes and desires that you and the Surgeon will contrive some place for the sick, that they may be separated from the well, lest some injurious consequences follow from their being together.

He intends going up ere long if nothing occurs to prevent him, or will send a person to view the fortifications, and see what improvements may be made tending to make them more defensible.

There are not a sufficient number of boats here for the demands; some more are expected, and when they come, if they can possibly be spared, your requisition will be complied with.

The Deputy Commissary has been spoken to, and ordered to supply the garrisons with rum and fresh provisions immediately.

His Excellency is at a loss to know what money it is the Committee have not supplied you with, or on what account they are to do it. It will be necessary, on your applications to him for that article, to transmit an account stated, showing how or for what it is due, to found a warrant upon.

I am, sir, yours, &amp;c.

R. H. HARRISON.

To Lieutenant-Colonel Henry B. Livingston, Third New-York.

P. S. There are no tents just at this time; the Quartermaster will be ordered to procure them as soon as he can.

WILLIAM PALFREY TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 21, 1776.]

New-York, May 19, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed I send you my weekly account, from the 12th to the 18th instant inclusive. I have not yet received the direction of Congress respecting the payment of the troops at Boston. You will oblige me by favouring me with it as soon as possible.

I also enclose you a copy of a letter I have just received from a particular friend of mine at Bristol, (not Mr. Cruger,) the contents of which appear, to me of so important a nature that I think it my duty to transmit the same to you to be laid before the honourable Congress. The gentleman who wrote it is a man of character and note in Bristol, particularly connected with Alderman Bull, and a warm friend to America.

I am, with the utmost respect, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

WILLIAM PALFREY.

To John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

Bristol, February 16, 1776.

DEAR SIR: It gave me pleasure to hear of your safe arrival in America. On the receipt of your letter, your friend,* agreeable to your request, gave me early information. I fully expected to have received a line from you direct; but the situation of affairs may probably have prevented; or if you have written, it may have been intercepted and detained, as I have reason to believe several of my letters have met with the like fate. I could not suffer this opportunity to escape me, as it is most likely the communication will be soon entirely at an end. By accident I saw one of your papers, in which your appointment was announced; and have since made several inquiries respecting you, but without effect.

The bearer of this will, I hope, deliver it into your own hands, and furnish you with a full account of his reception here. Happily for him, it was very different from his expectations. Colonel Allen, and the prisoners with him, who were brought over with Brook Watson, remained some time at Pendennis Castle, in Cornwall. Administration were embarrassed. They have at length ordered them back in the Solitary man-of-war. She has arrived, from whence she goes direct to Boston. The people of Dublin collected upwards of one hundred pounds for their relief, and it was sent to Cork for them. Our friends in London attended to their case while here, and would have exerted every nerve to effect their release had they not been so unexpectedly removed. The people are in sentiment nearly as when you left England. Party divisions have been carried to a much greater height, through the conduct of Government in obtaining a set of fulsome addresses approving of the American war. The effect these were expected to have on the publick at large was entirely counteracted by the vigorous exertions of many of our friends, who obtained in England an equal number of petitions of a conciliatory nature. This is now generally subsiding, as Scotland has completed her number.

My opinion is the same as when I had the pleasure of conversing with you. The power of the Crown is so great, and the corruption of the people so general, that nothing can be expected on this side the water. The salvation of American freedom and the restoration of our Constitution, strange as it may seem, depend on your success. Hitherto you have had a variety of circumstances concurring in your favour, and I hope the approaching summer will open upon you every cheering prospect. The heavens have fought on your side. Many transports have been disabled and wrecked at home. This campaign will determine the contest, and it behooves you to be prepared for the different divisions of troops that are ordered against you. Lord Cornwallis is at Cork, with three thousand troops, and nearly ready to sail; he is designed for Virginia, to meet General Clinton. The intention is, to march through that country and attack Philadelphia. Ministry declare they shall have an army in America by June consisting of thirty thousand men, but most of them will be Germans. They have not yet procured the sanction of Parliament. The business is, however, considered as done, and the uniform compliance of that abandoned Assembly does not justify a doubt respecting it. Lord George Germaine (formerly Sackville) is Minister for the American Department. Lord Howe is appointed chief commander of the fleet. Shulldham is to be recalled. Lord North as yet keeps his ground; though it is strongly suspected that, at the end of this session, he will resign the helm to another pilot, and the Minden hero will probably be the man. The conduct of Lord Dunmore is generally reprobated, and we wish the Virginians could lay their hands on him. By the Sampson, Captain Coupar, from New-York, we have advices as late as the 10th January, though no confirmation of the surrender of Quebeck. That event must, we think, long since have taken place, and measures are concerted by Government accordingly. Burgoyne is to command the Tories designed to retake Canada—ten thousand are said to be the number. These particulars you may depend on. The recruiting parties in the different parts of the country meet with but little success. The bulk of the people are averse to war; and though such numbers of the merchant ships are laid up, it is with great difficulty seamen can be procured to man the frigates. At this hour a press is very generally expected. To victual the transports the more readily, an embargo is laid on all provisions from Ireland except to England and the Plantations in the West-Indies. The Irish are displeased, and the Protestants there, to a man almost, except the dependants of Government, are favourers of America.

*Mr. Parker from London.

As very few ships arrive but to Government, we are imperfectly informed of your transactions. The Gazette of London, (become as infamous as the Gazette of Brussels,) when it gives any intelligence it is so mutilated that the shadow of the fact only remains. When any event of importance happens in your favour it would be very material and advantageous if a circumstantial account was immediately transmitted. When you succeed, the people are in triumph and the Ministerial advocates are depressed and silent.

Colonel Boyd is again in London. I hear he came through your camp, and that on your making a discovery of him, he hastily departed. Many Americans are here; some dumb, others sanguine in the common cause; others, to their eternal disgrace, advocates for the Ministry. I send you some of the latest newspapers, and also some Irish ones, with which a friend has just obliged me.

Are there no opportunities of your conveying a line with safety? Through Philadelphia or New-York I should imagine it might easily be accomplished. Our friend Wilkes is a candidate for the Chamberlainship, in the gift of the Livery. Alderman Bull is in a poor state of health; a warmer friend America cannot boast, though I fear he will soon be removed to a more peaceful state. The cause has been the object to which he has sacrificed. Lee, the elder, is an Alderman; he behaves with spirit. Sayer has brought his action against Lord Rochford for false imprisonment. You heard, I doubt not, of that childish plot. Nothing has disgraced the judgment of Administration so much, except their blundering American conduct. The Somerset man-of-war is just arrived; what news she brings we cannot yet learn. We are often amused with the reports of disunion among the Provincials. These reports answer the purpose of a day, but nothing further. Men who have taken up arms in so glorious a cause will sacrifice to each other, and not permit anything to operate to the prejudice of the common good. Union cannot too strongly and frequently be inculcated; all depends upon it.

Having stood forth in defence of the common rights of mankind and the freedom of your country, may Heaven protect you; and that your life may be prolonged to enjoy in domestick tranquillity the blessings which result from an establishment of peace, is the wish of, dear sir,

P. S. Lord Cornwallis sailed from Cork with Sir Peter Parker's squadron last Monday, the 12th instant. A vessel arrived here yesterday and brought us this intelligence. No confirmation of Quebeck's surrender yet.

Bristol, February 18, 1776.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON TO JOHN MCKESSON.

Fort Constitution, May 19, 1776.

SIR: As you expected on my arrival at this post that Colonel Nicoll would have given up the command, and look upon himself as properly relieved by a Continental officer; also as many of the gentlemen of the Committee were then of opinion that it would be too great an expense to keep us both here, I must beg leave to inform you that Colonel Nicoll does not think my orders from General Washington, nor your letter to him, a sufficient reason for leaving the command of these forts in my hands. I have made no dispute about the matter, but have issued all necessary orders in his name, having first (as I thought it most prudent) obtained his approbation of them, though I cannot by any means say I approve of his keeping the command, as he knows it to be disapproved of by the gentlemen in Committee. He left this place about four days ago. I then wrote to General Washington that I had taken the command, and made my returns, acquainting him with our situation; but he has since returned.

We are furnished with no arms yet from the Committees of Ulster and Dutchess, but expect an answer every moment. A storehouse for provisions, and an infirmary, are much wanted here. Our store will not hold provisions enough for six hundred men one month. It has in it now two hundred and fifty barrels; two-thirds of them are provisions belonging to Mr. W. Livingston, and cannot be dealt out at all, as they are not purchased by the contractors for these garrisons. These two hundred and fifty barrels take up the whole store. The Commissioners see the necessity of both these buildings, but do not care to undertake them without orders. Our barracks are quite too confined even for the small number of men here; should a greater number of troops be thought necessary we should be much distressed for want of room. The officers are now obliged to huddle in with the men, sick and well all together. It is quite impossible to keep up a proper decorum, as all distinction is lost, while they are, from their situation, under the necessity of being intimate.

Major Schuyler will do himself the honour to present this to you. I wish he could be continued with us, as our officers are quite uninformed; he is very intelligent, and might be of great service to me in the management of these posts.

Our men are getting the scurvy very fast, owing to their not having been furnished with fresh provisions, through the carelessness of the contractor's commissary at this place. Fifty-eight arms are just now arrived from the Committee of Dutchess County; most of them are out of repair and useless. We are now in such a situation that I should dread the consequences of our being attacked by one hundred well-armed men. From the situation of these posts one would imagine them too important to be left at the mercy of our enemies. An exact map would convince that should the enemy get possession they would not easily be driven out again. We are much in want of money to pay our men and officers.

As we have no Quartermaster to our regiment, I must beg leave to recommend to that office Nehemiah Carpenter, now at Fort Montgomery; he is honest, industrious, and a good accountant, and, in my opinion, qualified for that post. I have put him on duty as Quartermaster till the pleasure of the Committee be known; he begins to officiate the 13th instant.

A Sergeant-Major would be very useful to the regiment. They do not know that any provision is made for one in this establishment. I have also, as the barracks were very filthy, prevailed on a Sergeant to do the duty of Barrackmaster—by no means a useless office. If you should think as I do with respect to this matter, you would oblige me if you would propose a provision for him.

I remain your most obedient humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON.

To Mr. John McKesson, New-York.

N. B. Money and rum for the men are much wanted here; an allowance of the latter has always been made to men on fatigue.

COLONEL DAYTON TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Johnstown, May 19, 1776.

SIR: I arrived at this town about five o'clock this day, and immediately sent Major Barber, and one of the Committee of Tryon County, with a letter to Sir John Johnson, informing him that I had arrived with a body of troops to guard the Highlanders to Albany, and desired that he would fix a time for their assembling. When these gentlemen came to Johnson Hall they were informed by Lady Johnson that Sir John Johnson had received General Schuyler's letter by the express; that he had consulted the Highlanders upon the contents, and that they had unanimously resolved not to deliver themselves as prisoners, but to go another way, and that Sir John Johnson had determined to go with them. She added, that if they were pursued they were determined to make an opposition, and had it in their power, in some measure. As this makes a total alteration in our expedition, I have thought advisable to send you immediate notice by express, to receive further orders in this matter. I have likewise despatched an express to the German-Flats, in order to alarm the people, and to know whether Sir John Johnson has taken that route.

The Commissioners who went to inform the Indians of the march of our troops have returned from the Castle, and acquaint us that the old Sachems are peaceable and well-affected; but about thirty Indians, who are attached to Sir John, have just marched, armed, to Johnson Hall. Whether they are gone to assist Sir John, (who may possibly not be gone from his house,) or whether to join a body of other people, I cannot say.

Whilst I am writing this, another party, of twenty-five Indians, have passed another way into the town. In this situation of affairs I have thought it advisable to take every precaution to prevent surprise, till I hear further from you. To-morrow morning I shall send proper persons into the settlement, to see whether the Highlanders are in reality gone off; and to discover, if possible, what force Sir John can collect. If you think proper to pursue any vigorous measures in order to apprehend these persons, we shall immediately want a further supply of provisions and powder, &c.

ELIAS DAYTON.

To the Hon. John Sullivan, at Albany.

LIEUTENANT JOHN PAUL JONES TO JOSEPH HEWES.

On Board the Sloop Providence, New-York, }
May 19, 1776. }

SIR: I had the honour of writing you the history of our cruise in the fleet from the Capes of Delaware till our arrival at New-London, on the 14th ultimo, enclosing an inventory of all the stores taken at New-Providence, &c. The letter contained a particular account of the action with the Glasgow, in an extract from the Alfred's log-book; also, some free thoughts on certain characters in the fleet, &c.; it was enclosed to Mr. Sproat, and, by ill-luck, fell into hands not the most agreeable on its way to the post office, from which circumstance I much fear it hath miscarried; for I have just now parted from Captain Lenox, and though he is late from Philadelphia, he hath no account of any letters from me to his uncle, Mr. Sproat. I now enclose you the minutes of two court-martials held on board the Alfred, the evidences at large excepted; these minutes have not yet been seen in print. In consequence of the last trial I was ordered to take the command of this vessel, the 10th current. I arrived here yesterday afternoon, in thirty-six hours from Rhode-Island, with a return of upwards of one hundred men, besides officers, which General Washington lent to the fleet at New-London. I left the Andrew Doria and Cabot at Rhode-Island, ready to sail together on a four-weeks' cruise. What will become of the Alfred and Columbus heaven only knows. The seamen have been so sickly since the fleet returned to the continent, that it will be impossible to man them both without others can be entered. I have landed General Washington's soldiers, and shall now apply to shipping men, if any can be obtained; but it appears the seamen, almost to a man, had entered into the army before the fleet was set on foot; and I am well informed that there are four or five thousand seamen now in the land service. The unfortunate engagement with the Glasgow seems to be a general reflection on the officers of the fleet; but a little reflection will set the matter in a true light; for no officer under a superior, who doth not stand charged by that superior for cowardice or misconduct, can be blamed on any occasion whatever. For my own part, I wish a general inquiry might be made respecting the abilities of officers in all stations, and then the country would not be cheated. I may be wrong, but, in my opinion, a Commander in the Navy ought to be a man of strong and well-connected sense, with a tolerable education; a gentleman as well as a seaman, both in theory and practice; for want of learning, and rude ungente manners, are by no means the characteristic of an officer. I have been led into this subject on feeling myself hurt as an individual by the censures that have been indiscriminately thrown out; for although my station confined me to the Alfred's lower gun-deck, where I commanded during the action, and though the Commodore's letter, which has been published, says "all the officers in the Alfred behaved well," yet still the publick blame me, among others, for not taking the enemy.

I declined the command of this sloop at Philadelphia; nor would I now have accepted it, had it not been for the rude unhappy temper of my late commander. I now reflect with pleasure that I had philosophy sufficient to avoid quarrelling with him, and that I had even his blessing at parting. May he soon become of an even, affable disposition, and may he find pleasure in communicating happiness around him.

There is little confidence to be placed in reports, otherwise the Lieutenants of the fleet might have reason to be uneasy when they are told that the several Committees have orders to appoint all the officers for the new ships, except only the Captains. I cannot think they will be so far overlooked who have at first stepped forth, and shown at least a willingness; nor can I suppose that my own conduct in the service will, in the esteem of the Congress, subject me to be superseded in favour of a younger officer, especially one who is said not to understand navigation—I mean the Lieutenant of the Cabot, who was put in command of the Fly, at Reedy-Island, after I had declined it. I was then told that no new commission would be given, and I considered her as a paltry message-boat, fit to be commanded by a midshipman. But on my appointment to the Providence, I was indeed astonished to find my seniority questioned; the Commodore told me he must refer to the Congress. I have received no new commission. I wish the matter in dispute may first be cleared up; I will cheerfully abide by whatever you think is right; at the same time I am ready at any time to have my pretensions inquired into by men who are judges. When I applied for a Lieutenantancy, I hoped in that rank to gain much useful knowledge from men of more experience than myself. I was, however, mistaken, for instead of gaining information, I was obliged to inform others. I formed an exercise, and trained the men so well to the use of the great guns in the Alfred, that they went through the motions of broadsides and rounds as exactly as soldiers generally perform the manual exercise. When I have got what men are to be had here, I am ordered back to Providence, for further instructions. The sloop must be hove down and considerably repaired and refitted before she can proceed properly on any cruise.

I should esteem myself happy in being sent for to Philadelphia, to act under the more immediate direction of the Congress, especially in one of the new ships. I must rely on your interest herein. The largest, and I think by far the best of the frigates, was launched the day after I left Providence; but, from what I can learn, neither of them will equal the Philadelphia ships. The Columbus was heaving down, and the Alfred was hauling in to the wharf the day I sailed.

I send this by the Commodore's steward, who hath leave to visit his wife at Philadelphia, and will call on you on his return, in a day or two. I expect that he will overtake me here if I succeed in entering men; but if I should be gone he will follow me to Rhode-Island and Providence. May I hope for the honour of a letter from you by his hands; it will most singularly oblige me, and greatly add to the favours already conferred on, sir, your much obliged and very humble servant,

JOHN P. JONES.

N. B. If you have not received my last I will send a copy if desired.

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, May 19, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 13th instant is just come to hand, enclosing Colonel Varnum's petition, by which I perceive he makes a charge against me, because I did not redeliver, as he is pleased to call it, some men upon request of one Captain Lane.

The case was this, if I remember aright: Lane came to me and said he had supplied a man with money to enlist men for Colonel Varnum's Regiment, and that he had enlisted fifteen or sixteen men, and had received his orders to join said regiment at Prospect-Hill; but before the men arrived, the regiment had marched for New-York, and the men had enlisted into Colonel Phinney's Regiment. He desired that I would order them to join Colonel Varnum's Regiment. I asked him for the enlistment, that I might know who the men were, and have the proper proof of their having enlisted into Colonel Varnum's Regiment. He replied, he had not got any; they were destroyed; but did not say who destroyed them. I then asked him if he was like to lose the money. He said somebody (but who I don't remember) would give him the money again, but he would not take it. I then told him he had better take it, and look out better next time. I think there would have been no propriety in my ordering that or any other number to join Colonel Varnum's Regiment, without first having proper evidence of their first enlisting into the same.

It is somewhat surprising the gentleman should take it upon him to make a charge against me for not doing that which, by his own charge, it appears I had no right to do, by law or reason. As to Lieutenant Merrel's conduct in the matter, I shall make inquiry into it as soon as may be. If I find him faulty, as alleged in the petition, I shall give information thereof to your Excellency.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

To General Washington.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED HALIFAX, NOVA-SCOTIA, MAY 19, 1776.

On Thursday last arrived here the Greyhound man-of-war, Captain Dickson, in six weeks from Cork, with nine victuallers under convoy; and the same day sailed the Rose, Captain Wallace.

On Friday arrived the Savage sloop-of-war, Captain Bromedge, from New-York, with despatches for Admiral Shulldham and General Howe.

Sunday last arrived the Argo transport, with Colonel Enoch Markham and three companies of the Forty-Sixth Regiment.

Captain Nordberg, of the Sixtieth Regiment, who commanded at Fort George, is arrived there, having escaped from the Provincials.

A ship freighted with sundry articles, being a donation from London for the Army, is safely arrived here.

A regiment is raising here, to be called the Loyal Nova-Scotia Volunteers; and General Howe has issued a proclamation, offering a free pardon to all deserters who will surrender before the 24th of June, and enter into the said corps.

A special Court of Sessions was held here the 10th instant, to settle the price of provisions, as on account of the arrival of the troops every advantage had been taken of the fullness of the town, and the great demand for every article thereof. The order of Sessions runs thus: That all butchers and others selling dead meat shall expose the same publickly for sale, and shall not ask or demand for the best prime pieces of beef, pork, mutton, lamb, and veal, more than a shilling currency the pound, avoirdupois, and the coarser parts in proportion; fowls, dead or alive, not exceeding two shillings each, and chickens in proportion; hares or rabbits, one shilling six pence each; tame ducks, two shillings each; wild ducks, one shilling six pence each; partridges one shilling three pence each. The above prices are in currency only.

We have now two ships of one hundred and forty tons each, with their cargoes, consisting of Russia bar-iron, ditto hemp, ditto sail-cloth, and ditto linen, on sale, which were taken from the Americans, and were condemned in our Admiralty Court. Everything is very quiet here; they are throwing up new works, and making the place more tenable than it was; and an expedition is concerting, but I believe they wait the succours from England before they mean to put it in execution.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

Provisions, as you see by the above, are very dear; twenty years ago we bought here all the same articles for one-fourth of the present prices; even the common sort of soap is sold at one shilling a pound.

SOUTH-CAROLINA—CHERAWS DISTRICT.

At a Court of General Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer, Assize and General Jail Delivery, begun to be holden in and for the said District, at Long-Bluff, in the Colony aforesaid, on Monday, the 20th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six: The Presentments of the Grand Jury of and for the said District:

I. When a people, born and bred in a land of freedom and virtue, uncorrupted by those refinements which effeminate and debase the mind, manly and generous in their sentiments, bold and hardy in their nature, and actuated by every principle of liberality, from too sad experience are convinced of the wicked schemes of their treacherous rulers to fetter them with the chains of servitude, and rob them of every noble and desirable privilege which distinguishes them as freemen,—justice, humanity, and the immutable laws of God, justify and support them in revoking those sacred trusts which are so impiously violated, and placing them in such hands as are most likely to execute them in the manner and for the important ends for which they were first given.

II. The good people of this Colony, with the rest of her sister Colonies, confiding in the justice and merited protection of the King and Parliament of Great Britain, ever signalized themselves by every mark of duty and affection towards them, and esteemed such a bond of union and harmony as the greatest happiness. But when that protection was wantonly withdrawn, and every mark of cruelty and oppression substituted; when tyranny, violence, and injustice, took the place of equity, mildness, and affection; and bloodshed, murder, robbery, conflagration, and the most deadly persecution, stamped the malignity of her intentions; self-preservation, and a regard to our own welfare and security, became a consideration both important and necessary. The Parliament and Ministry of Great Britain, by their wanton and undeserved persecutions, have reduced this Colony to a state of separation from her, unsought for and undesired by them: a separation which now proves its own utility, as the only lasting means of future happiness and safety. What every one once dreaded as the greatest misery, they now unexpectedly find their greatest advantage. Amidst all her sufferings, and manifold injuries which have been done her, this Colony was ever ready, with her sister Colonies, to ask for that reconciliation which showed every mark of forgiveness and promise of future harmony. But how were they treated? Each token of submission was aggravated into usurpation; humble petitions styled insults; and every dutiful desire of accommodation treated with the most implacable contempt. Cast off, persecuted, defamed, given up as a prey to every violence and injury, a righteous and much injured people have at length appealed to God! and, trusting to his divine justice and their own virtuous perseverance, taken the only and last means of securing their own honour, safety, and happiness.

III. We now feel every joyful and comfortable hope that a people could desire in the present Constitution and form of Government established in this Colony; a Constitution founded on the strictest principles of justice and humanity, where the rights and happiness of the whole, the poor and the rich, are equally secured; and to secure and defend which, it is the particular interest of every individual who regards his own safety and advantage.

IV. When we consider the publick officers of our present form of Government now appointed, as well as the method and duration of their appointment, we cannot but declare our entire satisfaction and comfort; as well in the characters of such men, who are justly esteemed for every virtue, as their well-known abilities to execute the important trusts which they now hold.

V. Under these convictions, and filled with these hopes, we cannot but most earnestly recommend it to every man, as essential to his own liberty and happiness, as well as that of his posterity, to secure and defend with his life and fortune a form of Government so just, so equitable, and promising; to inculcate its principles to their children, and hand it down to them unviolated, that the latest posterity may enjoy the virtuous fruits of that work, which the integrity and fortitude of the present age had, at the expense of their blood and treasure, at length happily effected.

VI. We cannot but declare how great the pleasure, the harmony, and political union which now exists in this District, affords; and having no grievances to complain of, only beg leave to recommend that a new Jury list be made for this District, the present being insufficient.

And lastly, we beg leave to return our most sincere thanks to Mr. Justice Matthews, for his spirited and patriotic charge; at the same time requesting that these our presentments be printed in the publick papers.

PHILIP PLEDGER, Foreman.

ABEL EDWARDS,	BENJAMIN JAMES,
JOHN HEUSTES,	MAGNUS CORGELL,
CHARLES MACCALL,	THOMAS BINGHAM,
JOHN WILD,	PETER KOLB,
THOMAS LIDE,	BENJAMIN ROGERS,
MARTIN DEWITT,	THOMAS ELLEBREE,
JOHN MIKELL,	MOSES SPRIGHT.

To the Honourable the Convention of the Province of MARYLAND, now sitting:

The Memorial of HENRY RIDGELY, of ELKRIDGE, in ANNE ARUNDEL County, most humbly sheweth:

That your memorialist did early in life quit a domestick happiness to commence soldier, and had the honour of commanding a company of Rangers on the western frontiers of this Province, soon after the defeat of General Braddock, in the year 1775, at which time the cruel savages were laying waste the country and murdering the inhabitants; and that your memorialist's conduct and behaviour in that service was approved of by Colonel Sharpe, then Governour of Maryland; and on your memorialist quitting the ranging service, was promoted to the command of the Elkridge troop of Horse, which station he filled many years, to the entire satisfaction of his Field Officers; whereupon the late Governour Sharpe promoted him to be a Major of the County aforesaid, in the year 1761, and he was continued as such until the year 1773, when the present Governour Eden raised your memorialist to the office of Lieutenant-Colonel in said County.

Your memorialist further begs leave to inform your Honours, that after perusing the proceedings of the Convention held in the latter part of the year 1774, he was one of the first men in the Elkridge District that requested a meeting of the people, to form themselves into a company of Militia, which was accordingly done, and Mr. John Burgess chosen Captain, your memorialist having declined that honour, although unanimously offered to him, knowing he could be of more service to the cause in assisting in the formation of other companies; and accordingly, in the month of June last, your memorialist went into the neighbourhood of Mr. Thomas Dorsey, who had been six months unsuccessfully striving to raise a company, and after advertising a meeting of the inhabitants, a number of them met, and would have chosen your memorialist Captain, but were prevailed upon by him to choose Mr. Thomas Dorsey their Captain, who appeared exceedingly desirous of the command. Your memorialist conceives that, agreeable to the resolves of the late Convention, he is exempt from serving in the Militia as a private, or in any other station lower than he hath heretofore filled. Nevertheless, as the honourable Convention did not distinguish between the officers commissioned under the legal, or old form of Government, and those under the authority of the Convention, your memorialist did enroll himself as a private in Captain Tootle's company, although at the distance of twenty miles from his habitation, rather than be harassed by the Committee of Observation, composed entirely of Militia officers except one man, and to avoid the indignity of being commanded by the first officer of the Elkridge battalion, who most shamefully and cowardly quitted his post when under your memorialist's command twenty-one years ago.

Your memorialist hath nothing more to ask of your Honours than a candid consideration of this memorial, and pass a resolve for his exemption from further duty as a militiaman; at the same time he most solemnly assures your Honours that he doth not desire or intend to withdraw himself from the service of his native country, but, on the contrary, will stand forth, as far as in his power lies, (as a volunteer or independent,) with the stoutest champion for American liberty. In full expectation of a favourable issue, the above is most cheerfully submitted to the consideration of your honourable House, by your memorialist,

H. RIDGELY.

Elkridge, May 20, 1776.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEE TO MARYLAND CONVENTION.

In Committee, Baltimore, May 20, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We are favoured with your letter of the 15th, enclosing a copy of a certain Purnall Johnson's petition to your honourable House, and your resolve thereon; in answer to which we beg leave to inform you, that we are possessed of no facts relative to any disputes on Mr. Johnson's account; and so far from having questioned the justice thereof, we have never yet seen, nor has he ever yet laid it before us.

This Committee sometime ago sent down to the Council of Safety a state of a certain Alexander McGee's case, and wished to know their further directions on it. We understand the affair has been laid before your honourable House; if so, be pleased to inform us of your determination thereon, as the man is still under guard, in care of the commanding officer of the regular troops here, who is anxious to have him discharged, or to receive your particular instructions concerning him.

We are, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servants,

JOHN SMITH, Chairman pro tem.

JOHN CRADOCK,	THOMAS SOLLERS,
THOMAS HARRISON,	THOMAS GIST,
JOHN E. HOWARD,	WILLIAM WILKINSON,
JOHN BOYD,	T. GRIEST.
JAMES CALHOUN,

To Charles Carroll, Esquire, Barrister.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN NICHOLSON. [No. 158.]

Annapolis, May 20, 1776.

SIR: We have received information that there are no vessels of war below except the Otter and Eilbeck, and that most of the tenders are gone to the Carolina coast, to protect the transports on their arrival there; in consequence of which we have ordered down the brigs Fortune and Rogers, and the schooner Ninety-Two, with valuable cargoes of bread, flour, &c., and require you will give them what assistance you can in getting out, if you see a probability of their running through; but if, from any certain intelligence which you may receive, you should think it most likely they may fall into the hands of the enemy if they proceed, we would have you immediately order them to return to Baltimore. It is a matter of great consequence to the Province to have these vessels get safe out, if possible; and we would have them conveyed down as low as you think you can venture with safety to yourself.

We are, &c.

To Captain James Nicholson.

P. S. Order the boat which will deliver you this to speak the vessels on their way down the bay, and let them know where to join you.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL LEE.

Philadelphia, May 20, 1776.

SIR: By the enclosed resolves of Congress, which I have the honour of transmitting, you will perceive that your several letters have been received, and that the Congress have fully expressed their sense with regard to the subject of them.

The Congress highly approve of your vigilance and attention to the important duties of your Department. You may rest assured they will always co-operate with you in all your laudable schemes to establish the liberties of the United Colonies; an event which, I trust, by the blessing of God, we shall be able finally to accomplish, in spite of all the efforts of our enemies against us. I shall only add, that I am commanded by Congress to direct you to carry the enclosed resolves into execution as speedily as possible.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Major-General Lee, Virginia.

MR. GERRY TO MR. WARREN.

Philadelphia, May 20, 1776.

I enclose you a Virginia paper, just come in, by which you will see the spirit of another County in that Colony, exhibited in their instructions for Independency.

In this Colony (Pennsylvania) the spirit of the people is great, if a judgment is to be formed by appearances. They are well convinced of the injury their Assembly has done to the Continent, by their instructions to their Delegates. It was these instructions which induced the Middle Colonies, and some of the Southern, to backward every measure which had the appearance of Independency. To them is owing the delay of Congress in agitating questions of the greatest importance, which long ere now must have terminated in a separation from Great Britain. To them is owing the disadvantages we now experience, for want of a full supply of every necessary for carrying on the war. Alliances might have been formed, and a diversion been given to the enemy's arms in Europe or the West-Indies, had these instructions never appeared. But they had their effect; and while we endeavour to recover the Continent from the ill consequences of such feeble politicks, we ought to show the cause of such miserable policy. It appears to me that the eyes of every unbeliever are now open; that all are sensible of the perfidy of Great Britain, and are convinced there is no medium between unqualified submission and actual Independency. The Colonies are determined on the latter. A final declaration is approaching with great rapidity. May the all-wise Disposer of events so direct our affairs that they may terminate in the salvation of these afflicted Colonies.

Amidst all our difficulties, you would be highly diverted to see the situation of our "moderate gentlemen." They have been more apprehensive of evils than any others, as we have frequently observed, and they have now the mortification to find that their measures for avoiding have but served to increase them. I sometimes think that Providence permitted them to clog the affairs of the Colonies, that they may become in some degree desperate, and thus introduce into the circle of determined men those timid beings, whose constitution never admits of their defending freedom on the noblest principles, and are afterwards obliged to meet danger by the same motives that induced them to shun it. They are coming over to us; but I am sorry their counter-influence so long prevented us from adopting the only means by which we could supply ourselves with the necessities for defence.

Philadelphia, May 20, 1776.

At a meeting at the State-House, of a very large number of the inhabitants of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, upon due notification, Major John Bayard, as Chairman of the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties, informed the people that the meeting was called at the request of a considerable number of respectable citizens; whereupon, Colonel Daniel Roberdeau was appointed to and seated in the chair. And it was moved that the resolve of Congress, of the 15th instant, be read; whereupon it was read in the following words:

"In Congress, May 15, 1776.

"Whereas his Britannick Majesty, in conjunction with the Lords and Commons of Great Britain, has, by a late act of Parliament, excluded the inhabitants of these United Colonies from the protection of his Crown: And whereas no answer whatever to the humble Petitions of the Colonies for redress of grievances and reconciliation with Great Britain, has been or is likely to be given, but the whole force of that kingdom, aided by foreign mercenaries, is to be exerted for the destruction of the good people of these Colonies: And whereas it appears absolutely irreconcilable to reason and good conscience for the people of these Colonies now to take the oaths and affirmations necessary for the support of any Government under the Crown of Great Britain; and it is necessary that the exercise of any kind of authority under the said Crown should be totally suppressed, and all the powers of Government exerted under the authority of the people of the Colonies, for the preservation of internal peace, virtue, and good order, as well as for the defence of their lives, liberties, and properties, against the hostile invasions and cruel depredations of their enemies:

"Therefore Resolved, That it be recommended to the respective Assemblies and Conventions of the United Colonies, where no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been hitherto established, to adopt such Government as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the people, best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general.

"By order of Congress:

"JOHN HANCOCK, President."

The people, in testimony of their warmest approbation, gave three cheers.

Moved, That the Instructions given by the House of Assembly to their Delegates in Congress be read.

And the same were read accordingly, as follow:

"November 9, 1775.

"GENTLEMEN: The trust reposed in you is of such a nature, and the modes of executing it may be so diversified in the course of your deliberations, that it is scarcely possible to give you particular instructions respecting it. We therefore, in general, direct that you, or any four of you, meet in Congress the Delegates of the several Colonies now assembled in this city, and any such Delegates as may meet at Congress next year; that you consult together on the present critical and alarming state of publick affairs; that you exert your utmost endeavours to agree upon, and recommend such measures as you shall judge to afford the best prospect of obtaining redress of American grievances, and restoring that union and harmony between Great Britain and the Colonies, so essential to the welfare and happiness of both countries.

"Though the oppressive measures of the British Parliament and Administration have compelled us to resist their violence by force of arms, yet we strictly enjoin you that you, in behalf of this Colony, dissent from and utterly reject any propositions, should such be made, that may cause or lead to a separation from our mother country, or a change of the form of this Government.

"You are directed to make report of your proceedings to this House.

"Signed by order of the House:

"JOHN MORTON, Speaker."

Colonel Thomas McKean informed that the Committee of the City and Liberties, apprehending the dangerous tendency of the said Instructions, had presented a memorial to the honourable House of Assembly, praying that they might be rescinded; and that the House, taking the said memorial into their consideration, did, as the last act of that body in their late sessions, determine not to alter the said Instructions.

Upon motion, Resolved unanimously, That it is the opinion of this meeting that the said Instructions have a dangerous tendency to withdraw this Province from that happy union with the other Colonies, which we consider both as our glory and protection.

On motion, Resolved unanimously, That the present House of Assembly was not elected for the purpose of forming a new Government.

On motion, Resolved, (with one dissenting voice only,) That the present House of Assembly, not having the authority of the people for that purpose, cannot proceed thereon without assuming arbitrary power.

Resolved unanimously, That a Protest be immediately entered by the people of this City and Liberties, against the powers of the said House to carry the said resolve of Congress into execution.

A Protest being produced and read, the same was unanimously approved.

It being moved, and the question thereupon put, Whether the present Government is competent to the exigencies of our affairs? The same was carried in the negative unapmously.

Resolved unanimously, That a Provincial Convention ought to be chosen by the people, for the express purpose of carrying the said resolve of Congress into execution.

As some difficulties may arise respecting the mode of electing Members for the said Convention: Therefore

Resolved unanimously, That the Committee of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia be directed to send the aforementioned resolve of Congress to the several Committees throughout the Province, and to call together a number from the Committee of each County, to hold a Provincial Conference, in order to determine upon the number of which the Convention for framing a new Government shall be composed, and the manner in which they shall be elected.

The Protest of divers of the Inhabitants of this Province, in behalf of themselves and others.

To the Honourable the Representatives of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA:

GENTLEMEN: We, the inhabitants of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, in behalf of ourselves and others, the inhabitants of Pennsylvania, conceive it our duty to represent unto this House as followeth:

That whereas the honourable Continental Congress hath, by a resolve bearing date the 15th instant, recommended the taking up and establishing new Governments throughout all the United Colonies, under the "authority of the people;" and as the chartered power of this House is derived from our mortal enemy the King of Great Britain, and the members thereof were elected by such persons only as were either in real or supposed allegiance to the said King, to the exclusion of many worthy inhabitants whom the aforesaid resolve of Congress hath now rendered electors; and as this House, in its present state, is in immediate intercourse with a Governour bearing the said King's commission, and who is his sworn representative, holding, and by oath obliged to hold, official correspondence with the Ministers of the said King, and is not within the reach of any act of ours to be absolved therefrom: We, therefore, in this solemn manner, in behalf of ourselves and others, do hereby renounce and protest against the authority and qualification of this House for framing a new Government.

As we mean not to enter into any altercation with this House, we shall forbear enumerating the particular inconsistencies of its former conduct, and content ourselves with declaring that, as a body of men, bound by oaths of allegiance to our enemy, and influenced, as many of its members are, either by connections with or pecuniary employments under the Proprietary of this Province, who is likewise the said King's representative, it is, to all good intents and purposes, disqualified to take into consideration the late resolve of Congress, and, as a House, is not within the description mentioned in the said resolve, as an "Assembly under the authority of the people" only; and because, likewise, that we have very alarming apprehensions that a new Government, modelled by persons so inconsistently circumstanced, would be the means of subjecting ourselves and our posterity to greater grievances than any we have hitherto experienced.

In thus protesting against the authority of this House for framing a new Government, we mean not to object against its exercising the proper powers it has hitherto been accustomed to use, for the safety and convenience of the Province, until such a time as a new Constitution, originating from and founded on "the authority of the people," shall be finally settled by a Provincial Convention, to be elected for that purpose, and until the proper officers and representatives of the people shall be chosen agreeable thereto, and qualified to succeed this House; for which purpose an application will be made to the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, (whose services, on all occasions, hath been applied to the support of the rights of the people,) for calling a Conference of Committees of the several Counties of this Province, agreeable to the powers it is already invested with for that purpose; which said Conference of Committees shall issue out summonses for electing, by ballot, a Provincial Convention, consisting of at least one hundred members, for the purpose of carrying the said resolve of Congress into execution, as we are fully convinced that our safety and happiness, next to the immediate providence of God, depend on our complying with and supporting firmly the said resolve of Congress, that thereby the union of the Colonies may be preserved inviolate.

Resolved unanimously, That the Chairman be directed to sign and present the said Protest to the honourable House of Assembly.

Resolved unanimously, That we will support the measures now adopted at all hazards, be the consequences what they may.

The thanks of the City and Liberties being presented, by a unanimous vote, to Colonel Roberdeau, for his impartiality and faithful discharge of his trust as Chairman, he was pleased to reply, that he acknowledged the honour done him, and that he esteemed it more than if conferred by a Prince.

The thanks of the City and Liberties were also presented, by a unanimous vote, to their Committee of Inspection and Observation, for their zeal, fidelity, and steady attention to the duties of their important station; and Colonel Thomas McKean, as Chairman of that Committee, accepted and politely acknowledged the same.

The meeting was conducted with the utmost decorum and harmony.

DANIEL ROBERDEAU, Chairman.

The Protest, agreeable to the resolve, was the same day presented to the Speaker of the honourable House of Assembly.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE TO THE COMMITTEES OF THE SEVERAL COUNTIES IN THE PROVINCE.

Philadelphia, May 21, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have, in a former letter to you, referred to the Instructions given by the Assembly of this Province to their Delegates, and they are published in the votes of the House; you will, therefore, not be surprised to hear that the Delegates of Pennsylvania did not give their voice in Congress on the question "for establishing Governments throughout the Continent on the authority of the people;" but, by declining to vote on this momentous occasion, did, as far as was in their power, withdraw the Province from this union of the Colonies both in council and action.

By the enclosed papers you will perceive the City and Liberties have been convened, and have expressed their sense on the said resolve of Congress. We judge the number of people met on this occasion exceeded four thousand, and consisted of that class of men which are most to be depended on in times of danger. A change of such importance as that now proposed is not brought about without some contest, arising from the opposition of interests, and the force of prejudice in favour of old and established forms. The Associators will have to contend, in the present instance, against the Proprietaries and all their dependants, influenced by self-interest and holding lucrative offices under them, with all whom they can influence, joined by all the avowed as well as secret enemies of the cause of American freedom. It will, however, be absolutely necessary for us to unite with firmness, and pursue our measures with a steady perseverance, which will undoubtedly carry us through every difficulty that may arise.

This Committee have thought the object before us of such consequence to the safety and happiness of the Province as to induce us to send some of our Committee and fellow-citizens into each County, to incite such of the good people as are friends to liberty, and determined to oppose the cruelty and injustice of Great Britain, to a spirited and manly exertion of their undoubted rights and privileges in the present favourable opportunity of establishing them forever. We have judged this the more necessary, as we are informed the party we have already mentioned as our opponents will be indefatigable in their endeavours to frustrate, by falsehood and every other means in their power, every attempt which shall be made to emancipate the people of this Province from the bondage in which they have been long held.

To point out the necessity, in our present alarming situation with respect to Great Britain, of establishing a form of Government capable of exerting, in the most effectual manner, the whole strength of this Province, in conjunction with the other Colonies, for the common defence, by cold reasoning on the subject, would be to affront your feelings as men. The insults and barbarity of our enemies are unequalled, and the supineness of our Government can only be pardoned in consideration of the fatal obligations of allegiance, which they seem to hold themselves bound to by their sacred oaths—a supineness which, being continued, will involve us in distresses too great to be borne, and make our last struggles for liberty but the convulsive efforts of expiring life. From a free Government established on “the authority of the people,” and having their interest alone in view, we may reasonably expect the manly and effectual exertion of that strength which God hath given us for our defence, and on which, next to the Providence of Almighty God, will depend the future peace, liberty, and safety of the whole people.

We have seen, and some of us have felt, the melancholy effects arising from the opposing interests of the Proprietary and the people. Who can recollect the horrors of the late Indian war, and not shudder at the idea it brings to his mind? Fire, sword, desolation, and death in the most infernal forms, will be presented to our view; parents and children weltering in their blood; infants torn with savage brutality from their mothers’ wombs, and made the food of dogs!!! Objects yet more terrible than these will press upon our reluctant minds—objects which our fond affection for the softer sex forbid our recollection! Little does it avail to inquire who was most to blame, the Proprietary or the people then in power; it is plain, beyond the possibility of a doubt, that the horrid ravages of that dreadful war were long permitted to spread through this devoted Province, by means of the unjust claims of haughty and “absolute Proprietaries.” To rid yourselves forever of their tyranny is now in your power: if you embrace it, your descendants will glory in their ancestors; if you neglect it, you will entail slavery on your posterity, and they will justly execrate your memory as unworthy of a parent’s name. Liberty and slavery is before you; take, then, your choice. For us, we are determined to be free, and invite you to partake with us of that freedom which all are entitled to. If you wish this Province to be restored to their rank in the Continental Union, we recommend to you to nominate such a number of your Committee as you may think proper, to meet, throughout the Province, Deputies from the other Committees, in Philadelphia, on Tuesday, the 18th day of next month, in order to agree upon and direct the mode of electing members for a Provincial Convention, to be held at such time and place as the said conference of Committees may appoint, for the express purpose of forming and establishing a new Government, “on the authority of the people” only, and for the security of their peace, liberty, and safety, according to the enclosed recommendation of the honourable Continental Congress.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants.

TO THE PUBLICK IN ALL PARTS OF THE PROVINCE.

FRIENDS AND FELLOW-COUNTRYMEN: The question which will come before you is short and easy; we know not how it may have been disguised or misrepresented to you by designing persons, but to prevent your being deceived we tell you concisely, until we can prepare the matter fully for you, that you either are or will be called upon to declare whether you will support the Union of the Colonies in opposition to the instructions of the House of Assembly, or whether you will support the Assembly against the Union of the Colonies. We have declared for the former, and we will, at the hazard of our lives, support the Union; for if the Union be broken, every Province on the continent will be upon us. We have been open in our affairs; the sense of this city hath been publicly taken, and we will not be belied by Tories. We protest against private machinations, and we shall consider the authors of such as enemies, and treat them accordingly. Let the men come forth who are endeavouring privately to undermine the Union; we will seek to find them out; we dare them to it at their peril.

Seven thousand, who appeared at the State-House, and have sworn to support the Union.

P. S. Our situation makes us a kind of sentinels for the safety of the Province; and, to prevent our friends from being deceived by specious impositions, we give this open notice as an instance of our good will to them.

Philadelphia, May 23, 1776.

The following Remonstrance to the honourable the House of Assembly, which was yesterday agreed to at a meeting of a respectable number of the inhabitants of this City and Liberties, and is now signing by them, is earnestly recommended to the inhabitants of the different Counties of the Province, that in this, or some similar manner, they may express their sentiments upon the Protest referred to:

To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in Assembly met:

The Address and Remonstrance of the subscribers, Inhabitants of the City and Liberties of PHILADELPHIA:

Whereas to our great affliction we find that a paper has been presented to the House, styled “The Protest of divers inhabitants of this Province,” said to be “in behalf of themselves and others,” the purport of which is to subvert and change the Constitution of this Government, upon sundry allegations which we cannot conceive to be well founded: And whereas we think it an indispensable duty to ourselves and our posterity, to claim and support our birthright in the Charter and wise laws of Pennsylvania, either consented to by ourselves or delivered down to us by our ancestors, as far as may be possible without injury to the publick cause of America during the present distressed situation of our affairs: We do therefore remonstrate against the said Protest, for the following reasons:

First. Because it holds up the resolve of the Congress of the 15th instant as an absolute injunction for the “taking up and establishing new Governments throughout all the United Colonies, under the authority of the people;” whereas the said resolve is only a conditional recommendation “to the respective Assemblies and Conventions of the United Colonies, where no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been established, to adopt such Governments as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the people, best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general.” And here it is obvious to remark, that in this and every other resolve of Congress where “Assemblies and Conventions” are referred to, it must be intended (and the practice has been accordingly) that wherever Assemblies exist, and can meet as the ancient constitutional bodies, in their respective Colonies, the publick business is to be carried on by them, and by Conventions only in those urgent cases where arbitrary Governours, by prorogations and dissolutions, prevent the Representatives of the people from sitting to deliberate on their own affairs, or have subverted the Constitutions by abdicating their offices, and levying war against these Colonies; that the Assembly of this Province cannot be prorogued or dissolved; that they have been exceeded by no Province in their noble exertions in the common cause of liberty; that by the resolve of Congress, who have never interfered in the domestick police of the Colonies, the Representatives of the people are left as the sole judges whether their Governments be “sufficient for the exigencies of their affairs,” or not; that our courts of law are open, justice has been administered with due attention to our circumstances, and large sums of money issued, the credit of which might be shaken, and numberless confusions ensue, from innovations hastily or unnecessarily made.

Secondly. We remonstrate against the said Protest, as setting on foot a measure which tends to disunion, and must damp the zeal of multitudes of the good people of Pennsylvania in the common cause, who, having a high veneration for their civil and religious rights as secured by our Charter, never conceived, when they engaged, among other things, for the support of the Charter-rights of another Colony, that they would be called upon to make a sacrifice of their own Charter; nor can we now see anything in our situation which requires such an unequal sacrifice, while other Colonies, particularly Connecticut and Rhode-Island, the authority of whose Assemblies is the same way derived by Charter as ours, continue their ancient forms of Government by these bodies, without Conventions; that whatever temporary alteration in forms the urgency of affairs or the authority of the people can be conceived to justify or render expedient, that authority is fully vested in our Representatives in Assembly freely and annually chosen. Six parts in seven of your body are, by our inestimable Charter, vested with the power of determining in this matter; we look to you as intrusted with the conservation of our rights, and are firmly of opinion that your constituents in general will cheerfully be governed by whatever your wisdom may ordain in the present exigency, humbly recommending it to you always to keep in mind that in times of confusion every change should be cautiously adopted, and only such made as are absolutely necessary. In which particulars the Province of South-Carolina, when impelled by necessity, has set a laudable example, regulating themselves with a view towards, and only until, "an accommodation of the unhappy differences between Great Britain and America can be obtained," an event which, "though traduced and treated as Rebels," they still profess earnestly to desire.

May 22, 1776.

AMWELL (HUNTERDON COUNTY, NEW-JERSEY) COMMITTEE.

Amwell Committee, May 20, 1776.

Ordered, That the following be inserted in the Pennsylvania Journal:

"Cornelius Williamson, of Amwell, in the County of Hunterdon, and Province of New-Jersey, having been cited, and appeared several times before the Committee of the Township aforesaid, for uttering expressions approving of Ministerial oppression against America, and using his endeavours to discourage his neighbours and acquaintance from opposing such oppression, although he had some time ago given in an acknowledgment of such conduct, and promised amendment to the late Committee of Amwell aforesaid, yet he appears to be the same man as before; therefore, the Committee unanimously agreed to publish the said Cornelius Williamson to the world as an enemy to the liberties of America; and from henceforth we will break off all dealings with him. Let him enjoy his own sentiments at home, where it is hoped no person will visit him, neither allow him to come into their company; but, in all respects, be shunned and avoided as an enemy to his country, and unworthy the blessings of freedom. Let him live as Cain did, forsaken by mankind."

Extract from the Minutes:

JASPER SMITH, Secretary.

NEWARK (NEW-JERSEY) COMMITTEE.

Committee-Chamber, Newark, May 20, 1776.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the inhabitants of this Township, that they do not kill nor eat any Lamb or Sheep of any kind from this day until the 1st day of August next, nor sell them to any person whom they shall have reason to suspect designs to kill them within the said time; and that, on proof being made to this Committee of any person or persons contravening the above recommendation, the delinquent or delinquents shall be held up to the publick as enemies to their country, and all persons prohibited from having any dealings or correspondence with them.

Ordered, That the above Resolve be published in the New-York publick Newspapers.

Extract from the Minutes:

SAMUEL HAYES, Secretary.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 21, 1776.]

New-York, May 20, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 16th, with several resolutions of Congress therein enclosed, I had not the honour to receive till last night. Before the receipt, I did not think myself at liberty to wait on Congress, although I wished to do it, and therefore the more readily consented to General Gates's attendance, as I knew there were many matters which could be better explained in a personal interview than in whole volumes of letters. He accordingly set out for Philadelphia yesterday morning, and must have been too far advanced on his journey (as he proposed expedition) to be overtaken. I shall, if I can settle some matters which are in agitation with the Provincial Congress here,* follow to-morrow or next

* IN PROVINCIAL CONGRESS, NEW-YORK, May 18, 1776.

Ordered, That Mr. Scott, Mr. Morris, Colonel Remsen, Mr. Cuyler, and Mr. Wickham, or any three or more of them, be a Secret Committee on behalf of this Congress, to confer and advise with the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Forces in this Colony on all such matters relative to the execution of his office as he shall choose to mention or communicate to them.

Extract from the Minutes:

ROBERT BENSON, Secretary.

day; and therefore, with every sentiment of regard, attachment and gratitude to Congress for their kind attention to the means which they think may be conducive to my health, and with particular thanks to you for the politeness of your invitation to your house, conclude, dear sir, your most obedient and obliged humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 18, 1776.

(Parole, Brest.)

(Countersign, Lee.)

Lieutenant Grover, of the Second Regiment, (commanded by Colonel James Reed,) having been tried by a General Court-Martial, for "insulting Captain Wilkinson, disobeying his orders, and abusive language," was found guilty of the charge, and yet mulcted of half a month's pay only, a punishment so exceedingly disproportioned to the offence that the General resolved to lay the whole proceeding before the Congress, and know whether they inclined to continue an officer in their service who had misbehaved in so capital a point. But Lieutenant Grover appearing to be thoroughly convinced of the error of his conduct, and having promised strict obedience to the orders of his Captain, and other superior officers for the time to come, the General (before any determination of Congress could be had upon the matter) ordered him to be released, and to join his Regiment; but has it now in command from Congress to signify to the Army that no promotion upon vacancies shall take place merely by succession, without their authority; inasmuch as they have reserved, and will exercise, the power of giving commissions to persons of merit, regardless of any claim by succession. Of this all officers are desired to take notice, as it may serve on the one hand to prevent the dissatisfaction which have but too frequently arisen from an idea that all promotions should be confined to Regiments, and go in regular succession; and because, on the other hand, it opens a large field for the rewarding of merit, which ought, and is hoped will be a powerful incitement to the brave and active to signalize themselves in the noble cause they are engaged in. This determination of Congress the Adjutant-General is to communicate to the officers commanding in different Departments, that it may be published to the different Regiments and Corps under their respective commands.

The General has the pleasure to inform the Recruiting Officers of the Regiments that came from the Eastward (no allowance having been heretofore made them) that, upon a representation of their case, Congress have been pleased to allow a dollar and one-third of a dollar for each good and able-bodied man that shall be recruited for the purpose of completing the several Regiments, as a compensation for their trouble and expense; and that the same allowance will be made those officers who have heretofore enlisted men, upon the new establishment, excluding all boys, and such men as were enlisted in camp out of the old Regiments. The several officers which have been employed in this service are to settle this matter, under these exceptions, with their several Colonels or Commanders, and to give in rolls of the men's names by them respectively enlisted. The utmost care and exactness is recommended to the officers claiming this allowance, as proof will be required, agreeable to the above direction.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 19, 1776.

(Parole, Albany.)

(Countersign, Schuyler.)

The Brigadier-Generals are desired to make their respective Brigades perfectly acquainted with the alarm-posts, which have been reported to the Commander-in-Chief. But in case of an alarm, the respective Regiments are to draw up opposite to their encampments or quarters, until they receive orders to repair to the alarm-posts above referred to. The following signals are to give the alarm to all the troops (as well Regulars as Militia) and the inhabitants of the city, viz: In the day time two cannon to be fired from the rampart at Fort George, and a flag hoisted from the top of General Washington's Head-Quarters. In the night time, two cannon fired as above from Fort George, and two lighted lanterns hoisted from the top of Head-Quarters, as aforesaid.

The Colonels and Officers commanding Corps are immediately to have their men completed with twenty-four rounds of powder and ball, properly and completely made up into cartridges, six rounds of which each man is to have in his pouch or cartridge-box, for ordering duty; the remaining eighteen are to be wrapped up tight in a cloth or coarse paper, and marked with the name of the soldier to whom they belong, and carefully packed into an empty powder-barrel. The Captains or Officers commanding Companies are to see that this is done, and to take into his own possession the barrel, with the cartridges so packed, and to have them delivered to the men as occasion may require; and whatsoever soldier shall be found wasting or embezzling his ammunition, shall not only be made to pay for it, but be punished for so base and shameful a neglect and disobedience of orders.

Notwithstanding the care and pains that have been taken to provide good arms for the troops, on examination they are found to be in the most shocking situation. The Colonels, or Commanding Officers of the Regiments, are requested to get the arms belonging to their Regiments put in good order as soon as possible, the work to be executed at the Continental armory or elsewhere, so as to have them repaired in the most expeditious manner. Every man to be furnished with a good bayonet; but all that have had bayonets heretofore, and have lost them, to pay for the new ones. Wherever a soldier is known to have injured his gun on purpose, or suffered it to be injured by negligence, to be chargeable with the repairs. An account to be rendered of the expense of those repairs, and, after deducting what each individual ought to pay, a warrant will be given the Commanding Officer of the Regiments for the discharge of the same.

All repairs that are done to the arms hereafter, except unavoidable accidents, to be paid by the men, and stopped out of their wages by the Commanding Officer of the Regiment; an account to be rendered to him by the Captains or Commanding Officers of Companies.

Captain Joseph Butler, of Colonel Nixon's Regiment, is to be furnished with a copy of the accusation lodged against him by Lieutenant Silas Walker, and both are to attend the next General Court-Martial with their evidences.

The lads lately picked out of Colonel Nixon's and Colonel Webb's Regiments, are to be immediately discharged, and their accounts settled and paid. In order the better to enable them to return to their respective homes, ten days' provision and pay is to be allowed them from this day.

John Lewis, of Captain Hardenbergh's Company, in Colonel Ritzema's Regiment, tried by a late General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Ritzema was President, "for insulting and striking Lieutenant Cole, of Colonel Wyll's Regiment, when on command." The Court find the prisoner guilty of the charge, and a breach of the seventh article of the Continental Rules and Regulations, and do sentence him to be whipped thirty-nine lashes for said offences.

The General approves of the above sentence, and orders it to be put in execution to-morrow morning, at guard-mounting.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 20, 1776.

(Parole, Brunswick.)

(Countersign, White.)

The sentries at all the batteries where cannon are placed, are to be increased to the number the Brigadier finds necessary; and they are all to be doubled at night. They are not to suffer any person whatever (excepting the rounds, or officer of the guard) to go into the batteries at night; nor is any person whatever (but the Generals, or Field Officers of the Army, and officers and men of the Artillery, who have not business there) to be permitted, even in the day time, to go on the platforms in the batteries, or to approach the cannon, or to meddle with the rammers, sponges, or any of the artillery stores placed there. The officers of every guard are to see that their men are particularly alert in executing this order.

No person whatever belonging to the Army is to be inoculated for the small-pox. Those who have already undergone that operation, or who may be seized with symptoms of that disorder, are immediately to be removed to the Hospital provided for that purpose, on Montresor's Island. Any disobedience to this order will be most severely punished, as it is, at present, of the utmost importance that the spreading of that distemper in the Army and city, should be prevented.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 21, 1776.

(Parole, Camden.)

(Countersign, Liberty.)

That no confusion may ensue when the troops are called into action, the General has ordered that all the posts of the lines, redoubts, and batteries, be so fixed and regulated as that every officer and soldier may know his place and duty; which will be explained to them by the Brigadiers-General, according to the orders of yesterday. And further, to confirm the order and discipline of the guards of the Army, the General orders that the officers and men who are to mount guard do parade by half past six o'clock, where they are, by their Adjutants, in the presence of a Field Officer, to be reviewed and their arms and ammunition to be examined, according to the orders of the 19th instant; which last mentioned officers are to see that their ammunition and accoutrements are complete, and the men dressed in a soldierlike manner. The Adjutants are then to march them to the parade of the Brigade, and to deliver them over to the Major of their respective Brigades, who is very minutely to inspect and see that the guards are complete in the particulars above-mentioned. The Brigade-Majors are then to march them to the grand parade on the Common, in the Artillery Park, and from thence the several out-guards are to be relieved. On the grand parade, the Brigadier, with the Field Officers of the day, will attend to see the guards paraded and marched to their several destinations. The Brigade-Major of the day is also to attend on the grand parade, and make up the guards before he repairs to Head-Quarters, for the purpose of reporting the same, and to receive any orders from the Commander-in-Chief to the Brigadier-General of the day, and to the other Brigadiers of the line. The Brigadier-General of the day will give his orders on the parade to the Field Officers of the day, at what time he would have them go the visiting and grand rounds. At reveille-beating, which is to be at the dawn of day, all the guards are to be under arms at their proper posts, and visited by the Field Officers of the picket, (who are all esteemed Field Officers of the day,) who are to see that the guards are properly placed, and that everything is in good order for defence, in case of an attack. The Brigadier-General will, on the parade, assign to each Field Officer of the day the posts he is to visit for this purpose.

The Artillery guard is to parade at the same time and place. The Matrosses and Gunners necessary to be constant at each battery are, with their proper implements, to march off from the grand parade at the head of the guards to be stationed at the respective batteries.

The Field Officer who goes the grand rounds is to visit the camp-guards, as well as the guards stationed in the town and at the batteries. The other two Field Officers of the day are to do the like, at such hours of the night as will be assigned them by the Brigadier of the day.

By the present demand for flints by some of the troops, the General has reason to apprehend that due care has not been taken of those lately delivered to the soldiers, who have had no occasion to make an extraordinary use of them. And it is well known that a good flint, well screwed in, will stand the firing of sixty rounds, after which, it may still be repaired. It is therefore presumed that the men have either lost their flints through negligence, or abused them by that worst of practices—snapping their pieces continually, which not only spoils their lock, softens the hammer, and destroys the flint, but frequently causes the death of many a man, by the gun being unknowingly loaded. The officers are therefore required to pay a very strict attention to this particular, and have their men's flints examined when they review their ammunition; for men being surprised with bad flints in their guns may be attended with fatal consequences. The officers are also desired to be careful that, when their men turn out to exercise, their flints be taken out and a wooden snapper screwed into their gun, until their exercise be over, when the flint is again to be well screwed in, and their arms immediately put in proper fighting order, after which no man is, on any account, to snap his piece. One flint per man will be delivered to the troops, and it is expected more care will be taken of them than has been done heretofore.

The sentries in Fort George and on the Battery are to keep a sharp look-out towards the Narrows, Staten-Island, Red-Hook, &c., to observe if any signals are given from thence, and acquaint the officer of the guard immediately therewith. The officers and men are strictly enjoined to keep close to their quarters; no excuse will be admitted from either for a neglect of it; and the rolls are frequently to be called over.

General Return of the Army of the UNITED COLONIES, commanded by His Excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esq., General and Commander-in-Chief; Head-Quarters at NEW-YORK, May 19, 1776.

REGIMENTS.	OFFICERS PRESENT.												RANK AND FILE.					Wanting to complete.	Since last Return.
	Commissioned.						Staff.			Non-commissioned.						Inlisted.	Dead.		Discharged.	Deserted.
	Colonels.	Lieutenant-Colonels.	Majors.	Captains.	First Lieutenants.	Second Lieutenants.	Ensigns.	Chaplains.	Adjutants.	Quartermasters.	Surgeons.	Mates.	Sergeants.	Drums and Fifes.	Present, fit for duty.	Sick, present.	Sick, absent.	On Command.	On Furlough.	Total.	Sergeants.	Drums and Fifes.	Privates.
Colonel Hand's.....	1	1	1	3	4	2	6	1	1	1	1	15	6	428	13	20	36	10	507	-	-	-
Colonel Learned's.....	1	1	1	8	8	7	8	1	1	1	1	32	15	323	29	31	127	-	510	-	-	130
Colonel Nixon's.....	1	1	1	7	8	6	6	1	1	1	1	32	14	340	22	37	41	3	443	-	-	197
Colonel Prescott's.....	1	1	1	8	8	3	7	-	1	1	1	29	15	360	36	13	11	-	420	1	1	220
Colonel Varnum's.....	1	1	1	6	7	5	3	1	1	1	1	28	15	317	13	9	75	-	414	-	1	226
Colonel Parsons's.....	1	1	1	8	8	8	7	-	1	1	1	32	16	466	44	32	25	1	568	-	-	72
Colonel Hitchcock's.....	1	1	1	6	8	7	7	1	1	1	1	29	16	328	14	12	49	-	403	1	-	237
Colonel Little's.....	1	1	1	7	8	8	7	1	1	1	1	31	16	350	21	13	92	-	476	-	-	164
Colonel Reed's.....	1	1	1	8	6	8	8	-	1	1	1	30	15	410	41	21	70	1	543	1	1	97
Colonel Huntington's.....	1	1	-	8	7	8	8	1	1	1	1	26	15	437	37	25	44	8	551	1	-	89
Colonel Webb's.....	1	1	1	6	6	6	8	-	1	1	1	29	12	422	44	17	58	11	552	-	4	82
Colonel Arnold's.....	1	1	1	8	5	6	7	1	1	1	1	28	16	371	37	15	68	3	494	-	-	146
Colonel Ward's.....	1	-	-	5	8	7	6	1	1	1	-	30	13	364	43	9	92	-	508	1	3	132
Colonel Wyllis's.....	1	1	1	7	7	7	8	1	1	1	1	28	14	412	60	24	38	5	539	-	-	101
Colonel Bailey's.....	1	1	1	7	8	7	7	1	1	1	1	31	15	432	22	16	79	-	549	-	1	91
Colonel Baldwin's.....	1	1	1	5	5	5	5	1	1	1	1	20	10	314	34	7	143	-	498	1	2	142
Colonel McDougall's.....	1	1	-	4	5	5	6	-	1	1	1	25	14	244	29	1	53	1	328	7	2	312
Colonel Ritzema's.....	1	-	-	8	7	7	6	-	1	1	1	29	16	399	38	1	8	18	464	-	-	176
Total.....	14	16	13	119	123	112	120	11	18	17	15	14	504	253	6,717	577	303	1,109	61	8,767	13	15	2,614

EDWARD FLEMING, Deputy Adjutant-General.

Return of the Regiment of Artillery in the service of the United Colonies, commanded by HENRY KNOX, Esq., May 19, 1776.

	Colonel.	Lieutenant-Colonel.	Major.	Captains.	First Lieutenants.	Second Lieutenants.	Chaplain.	Adjutant.	Quartermaster.	Surgeon.	Mate.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Bombardiers.	Gunners.	Drums and Fifes.	Matrosses.	Total.
Present, fit for duty.....	1	1	1	7	7	6	15	1	1	1	1	22	18	35	36	17	175	345
Sick, present...	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	1	2	-	-	11	14
Sick, absent.....	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	3	-	-	5	8
On command...	-	-	-	2	2	4	5	-	-	-	-	7	11	19	13	4	91	158
On furlough.....	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	2	2
Total.....	1	1	1	9	9	10	20	1	1	1	1	29	30	54	54	21	284	527

Two Cadets exclusive of the above.
EDWARD FLEMING, Dep. Adj. General.

COLONEL JAMES CLINTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.
Fort Constitution, May 20, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I have, according to your directions, sought for an armourer and found one, who I have sent down to buy some tools, if it meets with your Excellency's approbation. He asks, if he finds his own tools, ten shillings per day; and for an apprentice lad that works with him, four shillings per day. We have also in this garrison four men in one of the companies of my regiment, who work at the same trade, and wish to be employed, as Colonel Livingston tells me, whom I must beg leave to refer your Excellency to for particulars relative to them, or anything else that I may happen to forget.

The Commissioners I have had together and discharged, except two, who I could wish to keep with me until we are furnished with an engineer. We are much cramped for room in quarters, for which reason I should think it necessary, if the Militia are sent here, to have a supply of tents for my regiment, if more cannot be spared.

I enclose a general return of both garrisons, a billeting-roll of two companies of my regiment, a pay-roll of five companies of the same, a return of ordnance, &c., and ordnance stores at both forts, and a return of the artificers and others employed at both forts, by the Commissioners, and the wages allowed them. The most of them, if not all, are necessary in their places.

I am your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,
JAMES CLINTON, Colonel.
To General Washington.

WHITEHEAD HICKS TO JOHN MCKESSON.
Jamaica, (Long-Island,) May 20, 1776.

SIR: Since the 1st instant, I have moved up here with my family; since which, I find the Provincial Congress or Committee of Safety have passed an order for all persons, between sixteen and fifty years of age, to return to the city, and none to be absent more than twenty-four hours without leave from their Colonel. As by the rules and orders of the Congress regulating the Militia, Judges of the Supreme Court and Clerks of Courts (of which I am both a Judge and a Clerk) are excused from military duty, I think that order does not extend to include me, as it is plain, by its confining it to persons between sixteen and fifty years old, it meant only such as were liable to military duty. However, to prevent any disputes upon that head, I should be obliged to you if you would have it explained, and write to me by the bearer.

I am, sir, your humble servant, WHITEHEAD HICKS.
To John McKesson, Esq., New-York.

PETRUS SCHOONMAKER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.
Rochester, Ulster County, May 21, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: As your honourable Board has been pleased to appoint me Captain of the First Company of Militia of the Township of Rochester, in said County, in the regiment whereof Levi Pawling is Colonel; and by a resolve of your honourable Board, the Committee of the County is appointed to arrange the companies of every regiment in the County; to arrange the companies of every regiment in the County; and as the arrangement of the regiment of Colonel Pauling was brought before the County Committee on Monday, the 13th day of May instant, and by their arrangement they have made Jacob Hasbrouck First Captain, Frederick Schoonmaker Second Captain, Andrew Bevier Third Captain, and myself the Fourth; wherein I find myself and my subalterns and company wronged, for the following reasons:

1st. Because if any preference should be allowed to former commissions, I should be at least Second Captain in the regiment, and Frederick Schoonmaker First, as the said Captain Schoonmaker was First Lieutenant under Captain Andrew De Witt, of Marbletown, who was then the youngest Captain in the regiment, and I was Second Lieutenant under Captain Jacob Hoornebeck, who was then the oldest Captain in the regiment, and no other subaltern officers are in the regiment promoted to Captains.

2dly. If no preference is allowed to former commissions, then I humbly conceive the rank of the Captains must either be allowed from the time of our several elections as Captains, or from the day of qualifying, or from the companies. From the date of the commissions it cannot, as the same are of equal date; and if from the time of the several elections, then Jacob Hasbrouck will be First Captain in the said regiment, as being voted in the beginning of June, 1775, and I Second, as being elected in the latter end of the said month of June, and Frederick Schoonmaker was elected in September, and Andrew Bevier in the latter end of September or beginning of October; which again brings me Second Captain.

3dly. If from the time of qualifying before the Chairman of the Committee, then Frederick Schoonmaker is first, I second, Andrew Bevier third, Joakim Schoonmaker fourth, and Jacob Hasbrouck fifth Captain.

4thly. If from the companies, then I have the command of the oldest company in the regiment, and one of the first formed companies in the County; and as Captain Andrew Bevier never was an officer, civil or military, before, and his commission is for the Second Company of the town of Rochester, and mine for the First of the said town as aforesaid; and said Captain Bevier being now placed in the regiment before me, gives such an affront and uneasiness among the men of my company that the greater part of them absolutely say they will not stand in a lower rank in the regiment than Captain Bevier's company, and such as is due to them.

Wherefore, gentlemen, I must appeal from the arrangement of the County Committee to your honourable Board, humbly praying that your honourable Board, in your wisdom, will be pleased to ascertain and settle the rank of my company in the said regiment, according to your own rules and discipline, and I shall rest myself satisfied therein; for I humbly conceive the above arrangement of the County Committee is unjust, against right and reason, and therefore I must coincide with my company not to comply therewith; and although I count it a great honour to myself to serve the continent as one of your officers, yet I am determined not to serve as an officer under my proper rank. Wherefore I do send you enclosed my commission, and do humbly pray that if your honourable Board, in your wisdom, do not choose to alter the above arrangements, or to proceed thereon, that you will then please to appoint another Captain in my place; for I will rather serve as a common soldier than an officer in a confused and displeased company.

So, gentlemen, I rely myself on your wisdom, and will wait on your directions; and beg leave to subscribe myself your most obedient and most humble servant,

PETRUS SCHOONMAKER.

To the New-York Congress.

P. S. The above four reasons I am willing to prove, at any time, with the two Colonels (Pauling and Hoornebeck) of the regiment.

MEMORIAL FROM A NUMBER OF THE MEMBERS OF ASSEMBLY OF RHODE-ISLAND.

[Read May 29, 1776.]

To the most Honourable the Delegates of the United Colonies, in Congress assembled, at PHILADELPHIA:

In the absence of the Governour and Deputy-Governour, Commodore Eseck Hopkins hath applied to us for the redelivery of twenty pieces of cannon which he had landed in this Colony. We have thought it absolutely necessary to detain them until your Honours shall be made acquainted with the circumstances of the Colony, not doubting but that, upon mature consideration, it will be thought best for the common interest to permit them to remain here. We beg the most favourable construction of this measure, and assure your Honours that no persons living are more sensible of the necessity of establishing the authority of Congress, nor more ready to pay obedience to it.

Your Honours have doubtless frequently with pain reflected upon the unhappy state of the town of Newport, which was entirely defenceless, surrounded by a powerful naval armament, and daily threatened with and in danger of immediate destruction; for it was incontestably in the power of the British fleet to destroy it at pleasure. In this situation, it is not at all strange that near a third part of the inhabitants removed, and that a majority of the remainder were induced to temporize, and even to assume an appearance rather unfriendly to the United Colonies. To this situation, alone, is the former conduct of Newport to be attributed, and not to want of spirit or love of their country. In this state of affairs, the British fleet quitted the harbour, and Commodore Hopkins most providentially arrived with twenty-six cannon and some shot, which he offered to the town. The inhabitants, elated with the prospect of having the means of defence, assembled in a full town-meeting, and unanimously voted to work upon the necessary fortifications, and to defend the town; and immediately entered upon it with vigour. This decisive resolution gave every friend to the United Colonies a new spring, as many of us looked upon Newport as worse than lost to the common cause. Three considerable works have been erected. These cannon have been with great expedition mounted upon carriages, and placed upon the platforms, and the town of Newport is now capable of being defended against all the frigates in the British Navy. Fortifications are also making at Bristol Ferry, and on the east side of Rhode-Island, which, when completed, will effectually secure a communication with the continent, and enable us to defend that most valuable island.

We were happy in the idea of having put a total stop to supplying the enemy, of destroying the very seeds of disaffection in the Colony, and of being a united people. We looked upon the saving the town of Newport, the commanding the harbour—in which, from its easiness of access, vessels from sea may find a quick protection under the cannon of the forts, and which will at all times afford a safe asylum to the Continental ships, and to privateers and their prizes, as well as to other vessels, and which, by means of the works now erected, may pass in and out in spite of all the British fleet—as objects of very great importance to the common cause. But our pleasing prospects are greatly interrupted by the order to deliver twenty of these cannon to Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, to be transported to Philadelphia. From the face of it, which is directed to the Commodore, and in his absence to Mr. Tillinghast, it appeared clearly to us that your Honours thought the cannon were barely landed here, and had no idea of their being fitted with carriages, and planted in forts erected purposely for their reception.

We beg leave to refer you, for a general state of the Colony, to the memorial from the Assembly, which is now before your Honours, and is in no degree exaggerated, by which you will be able to judge of the exposed situation of the Colony, of its great exertions for the common as well as our own defence, and of the utter impossibility of our defending ourselves; to which we would add, that there are now in the Colony, exclusive of those brought by the Commodore, but twenty-four pieces of heavy cannon, being twenty-four and eighteen-pounders. The Assembly had contracted with the owners of furnace Hope for sixty more; but the Commodore having brought twenty-six heavy cannon into the Colony, the Assembly consented that the cannon for the Continental ships should be first made, as the owners of the furnace could not possibly supply both departments in season; so that we have yet had but four eighteen-pounders from them, nor can the others be made under a long time, unless a stop be put to those making for the ships.

We are informed by the Commodore that he landed thirty-six heavy cannon at New-London, which, from its situation, can be defended with one quarter of the number required for the defence of the bay, town, and harbour of Newport. And when the difference of the towns of Newport and New-London, in point of number of inhabitants, and value in point of importance to the United Colonies, and in the abilities of the two Colonies, of which they are part, to defend them, are considered, we think it will not admit a doubt from which place the twenty cannon wanted are to be removed.

We beg leave, also, to mention to your Honours some of the probable consequences of depriving us of those cannon. All the disaffected, all the lukewarm, and all the timid, cry out that this Colony hath been totally neglected by Congress, while every other Colony that is exposed is defended by Continental troops, which the most hearty in the common cause cannot deny. This, with the dangerous situation of the town of Newport, the capital of the Colony, containing upwards of thirteen hundred dwelling-houses, and between nine and ten thousand souls, hath produced a very great division, and was near overthrowing that Administration which had so greatly exerted the force of the Colony. The blow, however, was averted, and the most seasonable arrival of these cannon, with the decisive resolution of the town of Newport, hath given union, spirit, and vigour, to the Colony. Take them from us, and we cannot answer for the event; the town of Newport and the island of Rhode-Island are lost. A small part of that army now at Halifax may, in their way to the westward, effect their destruction without being detained three days. It will be impossible for the inhabitants to defend themselves; they will not even attempt it. There is danger that those people who are so desirous of reconciliation with Great Britain upon any terms, will gain the ascendancy, and of the Colony's being lost to America. Leave us the cannon, and we can save Newport, which hath been induced, in consequence of their arrival, to take such steps as must bring upon them the British arms, and who will be most cruelly treated in being deprived of them; we can keep possession of Rhode-Island, which is of great consequence to the inhabitants and trade of Taunton and Swansey rivers; and we shall be a united people, ready, with our lives and fortunes, to support the measures of Congress.

We submit this representation to your Honours, which will be delivered to you by John Collins, Esq., the First Assistant in this Colony, to whom we beg leave to refer you for further information, not in the least doubting that, upon full inquiry and deliberation, your Honours will consent that the cannon remain here until we can be otherwise supplied.

Signed, by order and in behalf of such members of the General Assembly as could conveniently be convened, by HENRY WARD, Secretary.

Providence, May 20, 1776.

CAPTAIN HARDING TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Fairfield, May 20, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: I received your favour of the 18th, wherein your Honour has been pleased to order me to cruise in the Sound until further orders, after I had taken the small sloop that was carrying the Tories to Long-Island. I have fixed her with two swivels, and put thirty men on board, to go to the Island in search after some Tory deserters that we heard lodged at such a place, which we went to and returned without making any new discoveries. After which I fixed out another small sloop, called the Discovery, to cruise to the westward, which has since returned. I am now about fixing out another small sloop that was taken from a Tory, that I have called the Life-Guard, to be commanded by Mr. Smedley, to cruise to the westward. As I have occasion of many necessities for the brig before she can be fit for duty, I shall return to New-London, and there prepare her for a cruise; and after that return back to the westward and cruise, except I receive further orders from your Honour. The unnatural combination betwixt the Tories daily grows more and more open, and I shall shortly send your Honour some new discoveries that I have already made; they are first examined by me, which will detain me here two or three days. I have cited the Committee, and shall resign them to the Committee. After I arrive at New-London, if I have a convenient opportunity, shall wait upon your Honour and Assembly.

I am, dear sir, your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

SETH HARDING.

To His Excellency Governour Trumbull.

WILLIAM WATSON TO COLONEL MOYLAN.

Plymouth, April 20, 1776.

SIR: In obedience to his Excellency's commands of the 11th ultimo, I would acquaint you that the Norfolk and the Happy-Return, prizes taken by Commodore Manly, and brought into this port, are condemned. If his Excellency will please soon to appoint a day for the sale of these prizes, it may be of service to the publick, as many articles on board them are wanted for the use of the American Navy. The other two taken by Captain Coit, and those two taken by Major Tupper, and carried into Dartmouth, have not yet had their trial; Coit's by reason of my not having received the papers which were taken with them, and which were sent to Head-Quarters; Tupper's by reason of his not attending the Court with the papers relating to them. The Court is adjourned to 15th May, by which time I shall endeavour to get every necessary preparation ready, and in the mean time must ask the favour of you to let me know where the papers taken with Coit's two prizes are lodged, that I may procure them seasonably.

I am, sir, most respectfully, your very humble servant,

WILLIAM WATSON.

To Stephen Moylan, Esquire, Secretary to General Washington, New-York.

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, May 20, 1776.

SIR: I am to inform your Excellency that yesterday afternoon Captain Mugford, in the armed schooner Franklin, fell down in order to go out on a cruise, but got aground near Point Shirley, in the evening. Major Frazer's little armed schooner went down at the same time with the Franklin, and anchored not far from her. About midnight a number of sail and other boats from the men of war attacked the two armed schooners; the people on board Major Frazer's cut their cable and came up; Captain Mugford was very fiercely attacked by twelve or thirteen boats full of men, but he and his men exerted themselves with remarkable bravery, beat off the enemy, sunk several of their boats, and killed a number of their men; it is supposed they lost sixty or seventy. The intrepid Captain Mugford fell a little before the enemy left his schooner; he was run through with a lance while he was cutting off the hands of the pirates as they were attempting to board him; and it is said that with his own hands he cut off five pairs of theirs; no other man was either killed or wounded on board the Franklin. These are all the particulars which I have been able to collect, as but one man has yet come up from the schooner this morning.

I am your Excellency's obedient, humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

To General Washington.

P. S. Mr. Mugford was not commissioned Captain of the Franklin, but Master; and as the other officers had left the schooner, he took the command.

VOTE OF WATERTOWN, MASSACHUSETTS, ON INDEPENDENCE.

Monday, May 20, 1776.

Monday last the Freeholders and other inhabitants of this Town, being duly warned and legally assembled at the Meeting-House, made choice of Jonathan Brown and Samuel Fisk, Esquires, to represent them in the Great and General Court or Assembly of this Colony, to be convened at said Meeting-House, on Wednesday next. After which, on the question, "Whether that, if the honourable Congress should, for the safety of the said Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, they, the said inhabitants, will solemnly engage, with their lives and fortunes, to support them in the measure?"

It passed unanimously in the affirmative.

Walpole, Norfolk County, May 20, 1776.

Assembled the Town, and voted unanimously, That if the honourable Continental Congress should declare these Colonies independent of Great Britain, they would support them in the measure with their lives and fortunes.

Medway, Norfolk County, May 22, 1776.

At a legal meeting of the inhabitants of the Town of Medway, on the 22d of May, 1776:

Resolved, by a vote, That if the honourable Continental Congress should, for the safety of the Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, they will support them in the measure with their lives and fortunes.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, May 21, 1776.

SIR: As I imagine this will meet you on the road to this place, I waive making any mention of publick matters, except that it is the wish of Congress you would, if consistent with the good of the service, order one battalion from New-York to be posted at Amboy, in the Jerseys, agreeable to the enclosed resolve.

General Gates arrived this morning; soon after which I was honoured with your favour by post, which I laid before Congress; and as they expect you so soon here, I imagine they will defer consulting General Gates, and wait your arrival.

Your favour of the 20th instant I received this morning, and cannot help expressing the very great pleasure it would afford both Mrs. Hancock and myself to have the happiness of accommodating you during your stay in this city. As the house I live in is large and roomy, it will be entirely in your power to live in that manner you should wish. Mrs. Washington may be as retired as she pleases while under inoculation, and Mrs. Hancock will esteem it an honour to have Mrs. Washington inoculated in her house; and as I am informed Mr. Randolph has not any lady about his house to take the necessary care of Mrs. Washington, I flatter myself she will be as well attended in my family. In short, sir, I must take the freedom to repeat my wish that you would be pleased to condescend to dwell under my roof. I assure you, sir, I will do all in my power to render your stay agreeable, and my house shall be entirely at your disposal. I must, however, submit this to your determination, and only add that you will peculiarly gratify Mrs. Hancock and myself in affording me an opportunity of convincing you of this truth, that I am, with every sentiment of regard for you and your connexions, and with much esteem, dear sir, your faithful and most obedient and humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK.

To His Excellency General Washington.

Fessenden is complaining for the want of money; I have advanced him sixteen dollars, which you will please to order him to account for.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, May 21, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Congress having been pleased to request my attendance at Philadelphia, to advise with them on the situation of affairs, and being about to set out immediately, I judged it necessary to give Major-General Putnam instructions similar to those I have the honour to enclose you, for the regulation of his conduct in case you come to any determination respecting the Tories here and on Long-Island, and should have occasion for military assistance to carry it into execution.

I have the honour to be, with great esteem, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Provincial Congress.

INSTRUCTIONS TO GENERAL PUTNAM.

SIR: I have reason to believe that the Provincial Congress of this Colony have in contemplation a scheme for seizing the principal Tories and disaffected persons on Long-Island, in this City, and the country round about, and that, to carry the scheme into execution, they will be obliged to have recourse to the military power for assistance. If this should be the case, you are hereby required, during my absence, to afford every aid which the said Congress, or their said Committee, shall apply for.

I need not recommend secrecy to you, as the success, you must be assured, will depend abundantly upon the precaution and the despatch with which the measure, when once adopted, is executed. General Greene will, though not in person, perhaps, have a principal share in ordering the detachments from his brigade on Long-Island; of course he will be a proper person to let into the whole plan. I would, therefore, when application is made by Congress, have you and him concert measures with such gentlemen as this body shall please to appoint, and order the execution with as much secrecy and despatch as possible, and, at the same time, with the utmost decency and good order.

Given under my hand at Head-Quarters, in the City of New-York, the 21st day of May, 1776.

To Major-General Putnam.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL PUTNAM.

SIR: The Congress having been pleased to signify a desire that I should repair to Philadelphia, in order to advise and consult with them on the present posture of affairs, and as I am on the point of setting out accordingly, I have to desire that you will cause the different works now in agitation to be carried on with the utmost expedition. To this end I have written to the Provincial Congress of this Colony for tools, and have hopes of obtaining them. Apply, therefore, accordingly, taking an exact account of what you receive.

The works upon Long-Island should be completed as expeditiously as possible; so should those in and about this town, and upon Governour's Island. If new works can be carried on without detriment to the old, (for want of tools,) I would have that intended at Paulus Hook set about immediately, as I conceive it to be of importance. In like manner I would have that at the Narrows begun, provided Colonel Knox, after his arrangement of the artillery, should find that there are any fit pieces of cannon to be spared for it; otherwise, as I have no longer any dependance upon cannon from Admiral Hopkins, it would be useless.

The barriers of those streets leading from the water, are not to be meddled with; and where they have been pulled down are to be repaired, and nearer the water, if more advantageous.

As it does not appear to me improbable that the enemy may attempt to run past our batteries in and about the town, and land between them and the woody grounds above Mr. Scott's, I would have you employ as many men as you can in throwing up flushes at proper places and distances within that space, in order to give opposition in landing; but if there are not tools enough to carry on the other more essential works and these at the same instant, you are not to neglect the first, but esteem this as a secondary consideration only.

Delay not a moment's time to have the signals fixed for the purpose of communicating an alarm upon the first appearance of the enemy. Let them be placed in such a manner, and at such distances, as to be easily discovered, day or night. If this was continued upon the Long-Island shore for some distance, good consequences might result from it, as nothing can be attended with more signal advantages than having timely notice of the enemy's approach, whilst nothing can add more to the disgrace of an officer than to be surprised; for this reason, I have to beg that the same vigilance and precaution may be used as if the enemy were actually within sight, as a brisk wind and flowing tide will soon produce them when they are once on the coast. The officers and men, therefore, should be constantly at their quarters, the guards alert, and everything in readiness for immediate action.

As I have great reason to fear that the fortifications in the Highlands are in a bad situation, and the garrisons, on account of arms, worse, I would have you send Brigadier Lord Stirling, with Colonel Putnam, (and Colonel Knox, if he can be spared,) up there, to see, report, and direct such alterations as shall be judged necessary for putting them into a fit and proper posture of defence.

Open any letters which may come directed to me upon publick service whilst I am absent; and if any very interesting advices should be contained therein, either from the eastward or northward, forward them on to Philadelphia, after regulating your conduct thereby.

I must again beg that your particular attention be turned to our powder magazines, to see that that valuable article is properly placed and secured. I also beg that no time or means be neglected to make as many cartridges as possible.

Given under my hand at Head-Quarters, in the City of New-York, this 21st day of May, 1776.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Putnam, New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, May 21, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I have enclosed for your perusal copies of two informations and a letter I received on Saturday last from the Committee of King's District, by the hands of a Martin Bebee, who says he is their clerk, and was sent express. From these you will readily discover the diabolical and insidious arts and schemes carrying on by the Tories and friends to Government to raise distrust, disjunction, and division among us.

Having the utmost confidence in your integrity, and the most incontestable proof of your great attachment to our common country and its interest, I could not but look upon the charges against you with an eye of disbelief and sentiments of detestation and abhorrence; nor should I have troubled you with the matter, had I not been informed that copies were sent to different Committees and to Governour Trumbull, which I conceived would get abroad, and that you, should you find that I had been furnished with them, would consider my suppressing them as an evidence of my belief, or at least of my doubts, of the charges.

The confidence and assurance I have of the injustice and infamy of the charges against the Convention, obliged me also to lay the matter before them, lest my not doing it should be construed a distrust by them of their zeal, and promote the views of the Tories, who, to excite disorder and confusion, judge it essential to involve those in high departments in a share of the plot, which is not unlikely to be true in some parts; believing that our internal enemies have many projects in contemplation to subvert our liberties.

Before I conclude, I would mention that some officers called upon me a few days ago, having your permit to go to Pennsylvania, and settle some affairs there. This license, when there is really business, is certainly countenanced by humanity and generosity, but nevertheless should not be indulged, and I hope will not be granted in future, as it gives them an opportunity of getting intelligence of our operations, of forming opinions of our strength, the places proper for attack, and settling a channel of correspondence with the disaffected, by which our enemies may and will be furnished with full accounts of our designs, and everything that can promote their service and injure ours. There is but little reason to believe, nay, we are certain, they will not conduct themselves upon principles of the strictest honour for the favours done them, but will, when in their power, exercise every matter that can operate to our prejudice.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

New-York, Tuesday, May 21, 1776, }
Past 12 at night. }

DEAR GENERAL: Captain William Goforth arrived here about an hour since with the enclosed letters, express from Canada, which I mean to forward on to Amboy very early in the morning, and beg your Excellency's particular answer in regard to what you would have forwarded from this place. Captain Goforth commanded the schooner in the river St. Lawrence; he says that not more than one hundred men are taken prisoners, and these all sick; the frigate gave him chase; he crowded all sail possible, but found it in vain; he then quitted with his crew, save a son of Colonel McDougall's, and one more, who were so obstinate they would not leave the vessel, and were taken prisoners. He further says that he did not see a single man land from the ships that came up, nor does he believe the enemy sallied out on our troops; of this he is confident, that not a gun was fired but between the frigate and himself. The troops from the Island of Orleans, Point-Levi, and all out-guards, had got safe off, and joined General Thomas.

Misfortune on misfortune. A vessel from France arrived yesterday on the back of Long-Island, and came to anchor, loaded with twelve tons of powder, five hundred small arms, and dry goods. The English Captain, with a boat's crew, came on shore for assistance to land his goods; soon after, the French Captain, who was on board, saw a small sloop to leward beating up to him; it is supposed he thought them friends; he immediately weighed anchor and bore down for them, when, unluckily, it proved to be one of the Asia's tenders, who took and carried her into the Hook. I have seen the Captain; he was owned by Mr. Brown, of Providence; she was seen coming into the Hook this morning, in company with the tender, so that there can be no doubt of the truth of it.

The Committee this evening applied to let the armed periaugur cruise off the back of the Island, to protect a number of vessels which are hourly expected in with arms and ammunition. She is a very swift sailer and draws but little water, and probably may be of great service to us in this way; this request I shall comply with, unless otherwise ordered by your Excellency.

I have the honour to be your Excellency's most obedient and very humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL GREENE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Long-Island, May 21, 1776.

DEAR SIR: From the last accounts from Great Britain it appears absolutely necessary that there should be an augmentation of the American forces, in consequence of which, I suppose, there will be several promotions. As I have no desire of quitting the service, I hope the Congress will take no measure that will lay me under the disagreeable necessity of doing it. I have ever found myself exceeding happy under your Excellency's command. I wish my ability to deserve was equal to my inclination to merit. How far I have succeeded in my endeavours I submit to your Excellency's better judgment. I hope I shall never be more fond of promotion than studious to merit it. Modesty will forever forbid me to apply to that House for any favours. I consider myself immediately under your Excellency's protection, and look up to you for justice. Every man feels himself wounded when he finds himself neglected; and that in proportion as he is conscious of endeavouring to merit attention. I shall be satisfied with any measures that the Congress shall take that have not a direct tendency to degrade me in the publick estimation. A measure of that sort would sink me in my own esteem and render me spiritless and uneasy in my situation, and consequently unfit for the service. I wish for nothing more than justice, either upon a principle of merit or rank, and will at all times rest satisfied when your Excellency tells me I ought to be. I feel myself strongly attached to the cause, to the Continental Congress, and to your Excellency's person; and I should consider it a great misfortune to be deprived of an opportunity of taking an active part in the support of the one and in the promotion of the other. But should anything take place contrary to my wishes, which might furnish me with a sufficient reason for quitting the service, yet I will not do it until the danger and difficulties appear less than at present.

Believe me to be, with the highest respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

NATHANAEL GREENE.

To His Excellency General Washington.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort Constitution, May 21, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I am induced to trouble your Excellency with this letter, lest you should be deceived by the information I gave you with respect to the depth of the river opposite to this fort, which was very erroneous, owing entirely to want of recollection in the gentleman from whom I had my information. He had taken its depth, but had forgotten it. I have since sounded it over and found it to be twenty-eight, thirty-one, and thirty-two fathoms opposite our two northernmost batteries. Over against our southernmost, (which is now ready to mount ten guns,) and three-fourths of a mile from it, it begins to shoal from eighteen to eleven fathoms in the channel; it then remains at eleven, twelve, and thirteen, till near Fort Montgomery; opposite to it, on this side the creek, called Pooplopen's Kill, it deepens again to eighteen fathoms; just over the creek, to the southward, it is twenty-two fathoms, and in the mouth of it thirty-one. Near the shoal water mentioned, on the west side the river, is an eminence that commands a long reach, both up and down the river; if it should be thought necessary to boom across, I think it much more practicable there than in any other part of the Highlands.

Since my last, Colonel Nicoll has returned and taken the command. The day before yesterday, I received from the Committee of Dutchess County fifty-eight stand of arms, but they are so much out of repair that they are quite useless. I have put them in store here, till we can get an armourer.

Major Schuyler, of our regiment, will do himself the honour to present you this letter. I could wish him to be continued here, as he is a young officer and wants instruction. He is intelligent, and I believe will make a good officer after a little study and experience.

I remain, sir, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON, Lieutenant-Colonel.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq., New-York.

JONATHAN TRUMBULL, JUN., (DEPUTY PAYMASTER-GENERAL)
TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 31, 1776.]

Albany, May 21, 1776.

SIR: Some time ago I communicated, by letter to the Delegates from the Colony of Connecticut, the distressed circumstances of the Army in this department for want of money. The number of troops destined this way has since been so greatly augmented that, notwithstanding the small pittance of fifty thousand dollars per Doctor Franklin, and three hundred thousand received through General Washington's hands, we find ourselves extremely deficient still. Great inconveniences have arisen, and greater still I fear will be incurred, unless we are speedily supplied with a quantum equal to our necessities. I need not say to Congress that money is the sinews of war. The service has been greatly impeded, more especially in Canada, for want of sufficient sums, particularly in specie, to answer the necessary demands of the Army.

I have communicated to Doctor Franklin our circumstances. May I also beg leave to refer to my letters to the Delegates from Connecticut and to Mr. Hooper? Large arrears are still due, and gentlemen may judge what sum must be necessary for the current pay of the troops and their subsistence. May I entreat that we may be supplied with not a small sum, and that as soon as possible. After sending but a scanty supply to my Assistant in Canada, I am now left with but about thirty thousand dollars; from this stock I am obliged not only to satisfy the demands arising in this quarter, but also to pay the troops returning from Canada, and answer almost daily drafts from the Assistant Paymaster there, which, for want of money, he is obliged to refer to my chest. Suffer me to say that a Paymaster without money, is but a ridiculous animal.

I must beg pardon for my troubling you on this head. I suppose it not my duty to request Congress for money, but my anxiety is such that I cannot refrain, although I should be guilty of an impropriety.

I am, with great esteem and respect, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, May 21, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I was last evening honoured with your Excellency's favour of the 15th instant. I have sent to Canada half of the money transmitted me by Colonel Gilman; thirty thousand dollars of the other half is gone to Connecticut, where we still owe about seventy thousand; the remainder is nearly expended in paying debts long since accrued; and the calls for daily expenses are very considerable. I hope Congress will remit a further sum, without which it will be difficult to carry on any service.

Since Monday morning last I have forwarded from this post six hundred and sixty-three barrels of pork, in fifty-one batteaus, and about fifty barrels of flour, besides a small quantity for the little garrison at Ticonderoga, and fourteen days' provisions for the troops which carried the above, which were Reed's and Stark's Regiments, the last of which left me this morning. The first of the provisions above-mentioned I have reason to think reached St. Johns on Friday, and the far greater part, I believe, is there now. Stark's Regiment carried only seventy-seven barrels, being all I had. About two hundred barrels of pork and eighty of flour are since arrived, and will be sent off on Wednesday, with the third regiment of General Sullivan's brigade, which I expect in to-morrow. I have now batteaus sufficient to move three of the four remaining regiments, and on Wednesday evening I shall have enough for the last of the brigade, and by that time the nails now here will all be expended, but shall probably ere then receive those your Excellency ordered from New-York, with which I propose to build about forty batteaus more, twenty to be employed on Lake George and the others on Lake Champlain, in transporting provisions, for I dare not trust to the large vessels, (which may be detained by contrary winds, or by getting aground,) until the Army has six weeks' allowance beforehand.

Yesterday there was no pork left at Albany. I suppose about four hundred barrels are on the way up, with an equal quantity of flour. I propose sending on a considerable quantity of flour, lest if further misfortunes should happen to us, we might be under the necessity of retiring altogether out of Canada.

I have ordered Colonel Dayton, with three hundred men, into Tryon County, to bring away the Highlanders and their families, and to make Sir John Johnson a close prisoner, who, regardless of his parole, has secretly combined with other Tories to levy troops and cut off the communication, and two of the informants agree that they intended to assassinate me and my family, and destroy my buildings. The orders I have given on this occasion I shall do myself the honour to transmit to your Excellency the first moment I can spare. Indeed, I ought to send you every order I issue, but I am really so much pressed by business that I have not been more than about six hours in bed, unless indisposed, in any one night since the beginning of April.

I have not had a line from Canada since my last to you. I am informed that our troops were still at Deschambault about the middle of last week; that the Canadians about the Sorel wish that we may keep the country, though they complain loudly, and with too much reason, of the ill treatment they have received from many of our troops that marched into Canada last winter.

Bennett informs me that a report prevails in the western parts of Connecticut that I was to head some of the regiments raised in this Colony, join the Tories, and fall upon the country; that the people were ordered to collect on the occasion; and that affidavits to support this report had been taken and sent to your Excellency. I hope the scoundrels may be secured and held up to public contempt. Ungrateful villains! to attempt to destroy a man's reputation who, having lighted the candle at both ends, is rapidly bringing on old age, by fatigues that nothing but a wish to be instrumental in procuring liberty to my country would make me undergo. Adieu, my dear General.

I am, with the warmest sentiments, ever most sincerely your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

LEVI HOLLINGSWORTH TO PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

[Received May 28, 1776. Read in Congress May 29, 1776.]

New-London, May 21, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We came to this place on Saturday evening, where we learned that Commodore Hopkins was at Newport, in the Fly, therefore delivered the order of Congress to Daniel Tillinghast, Esq., as directed; who advised us to proceed to Newport, where we should meet the Commodore. Sunday evening; we delivered him the orders. He informs us he left thirty-four of the cannon, mostly heavy, at New-London, and brought only twelve twenty-four pounders, and twelve nine pounders to Newport, which he delivered to the Governour of the Colony and took his receipt for them. We came up to this place with him yesterday. Governour Cooke had left town before we got here, and will not be at home for some time. Commodore Hopkins hath applied to the Governour's Council for the cannon, that he might be enabled to comply with the requisition of the Congress; but they have refused to deliver them until they have a hearing in Congress, and send a gentleman (John Collins, Esq.) to represent their situation, in hopes the cannon for Philadelphia will be ordered to be sent from New-London.

Commodore Hopkins will give us an order for twenty cannon on Governour Trumbull, with which we shall proceed to Connecticut, and make a demand of them; though we fear with as little success as at this place. We shall, if refused, return to Newport, and wait your further orders, which we expect as soon as possible. Please to excuse haste. We should have been more full, but the post hath waited near two hours, and is very impatient.

Your most obedient and humble servants,

LEVI HOLLINGSWORTH,
THOMAS RICHARDSON.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety for Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia.

NATHANIEL SHAW TO ADMIRAL HOPKINS.

New-London, May 21, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed is an account of what I have advanced the people belonging to the fleet for necessities which they could not do without, amounting to eighteen pounds fifteen shillings and eleven pence; also fifty dollars, which I have delivered to Sargeant Hamilton and John McNeal, second mate of the sloop Providence, to pay their expenses on the road, and which sum they are to account with you for. I thought it best to send them off, for they are now fit to do duty, and they cannot bear to be idle.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

NATHANIEL SHAW, JUN.

To Admiral Hopkins.

CAPTAIN BIDDLE TO ADMIRAL HOPKINS.

On board the Andrew Doria, May 21, 1776.

SIR: The night after we left Newport, being chased by a vessel we took to be the Cerberus, the Cabot ran a more direct course for Nantucket shoals than I thought safe to do, by which means we have lost company with her. This morning we took a sloop from Sattertudas to Liverpool, in Nova-Scotia. Mr. Brown, my third mate, to whom I have given charge of her, will give you what further information you may want to know.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant, N. BIDDLE.

To the Hon. Esek Hopkins, Esq., in Providence.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO NATHANIEL SHAW.

Providence, May 21, 1776.

SIR: You know when I left the guns at New-London I told you, that if the Congress sent for them they must have them; which you then said must be complied with; and as there is now an express order, without reserve, for twenty of the heaviest cannon to be sent to Philadelphia, I expect, if Governour Trumbull is not at New-London, you will immediately deliver them to Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, who are sent to receive them, as the failure may be attended with fatal consequences.

I am, sir, your humble servant, ESEK HOPKINS.

To Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, Merchant, New-London.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Providence, May 21, 1776.

SIR: On receipt of this you will deliver to the bearers, Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, twenty of the heaviest cannon, a proportion of the trucks, and as many large balls as can be spared, which I left at New-London, I having received an order of Congress for the same, in order to be sent immediately to Philadelphia, for the defence of that city.

I am, your humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., or, in his absence, to Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, Merchant at New-London.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Providence, May 21, 1776.

SIR: I this day received yours, and observe the contents. As to the order of Congress to deliver the cannon to you, there was a discretionary power in me to stop as many as I thought would be for the benefit of the fleet; and as I am still careening the fleet, I think it not safe to part with the cannon before the ships are in a posture of defence. I yesterday received an order of Congress to deliver to Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, in order to be sent to Philadelphia for the defence of that city, twenty of the heaviest cannon which I brought from New-Providence; and as the largest of the cannon were left at New-London, I have accordingly given them an order on you for the same; and make no doubt, as it is an express order of Congress, you will deliver the same without delay.

I am, with great respect, your Honour's most obedient, humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour of Connecticut.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO WALTER SPOONER.

Providence, May 21, 1776.

SIR: You will, on receipt of this, deliver to Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, the bomb brig or schooner, as they may think best, if they have occasion for them; and if you can collect any of the hands that belong to the fleet, you must get them on board and take charge of the vessel yourself, and follow such directions as you shall receive from them.

ESEK HOPKINS, Commander-in-Chief.

To Mr. Walter Spooner, at Newport.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO JOHN COLLINS.

Providence, May 21, 1776.

SIR: When you arrive at Philadelphia, please to get directions to me, from Congress or the Naval Committee, what I shall do with the negro slaves taken in the bomb brig, and what I shall do with the New-Providence sloop which I took to bring the guns to New-London; and let the Congress know that it will not be in my power to man the fleet without their orders for shipping men out of the Army.

I am yours, &c.,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To Mr. John Collins.

NEW-SALEM (HAMPSHIRE COUNTY) MASSACHUSETTS.

At a meeting of the inhabitants of New-Salem, lawfully warned and regularly assembled, on the 21st day of May, 1776:

Put a vote, whether they, the people, will stand by the Congress with their lives and fortunes, if they set up for Independency.

It passed in the affirmative unanimously.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM COLONEL WOODFORD TO GENERAL LEWIS, DATED NORFOLK, MAY 22, 1776.

The vigilance of my guards has occasioned the enemy to abandon their lines at Portsmouth. This, and some fire-rafts I was preparing, has likewise occasioned the fleet to go off. They have thrown over their salt, burnt the most indifferent of their small craft, and are all now below Craney-Island, except four ships, which are opposite the distillery, but under way likewise. One of the Fourteenth Regiment and five sailors have deserted; they inform me they have the small-pox. I have given very particular orders to avoid this evil, if it be true. They all concur in the same story, and likewise that the fleet is bound for Cape-Fear; but I doubt whether my Lord does not intend a secret expedition to some other part of the Colony. I received the enclosed letter, and a list of prisoners, from Lord Dunmore, and have sent orders to the guard at Portsmouth to destroy the enemy's works.

"Ship Dunmore, May 22, 1776.

"SIR: Enclosed is a list of prisoners on parole, who ought to have returned last Sunday. I therefore think proper to inform you that, if you do not order them to return to me on or before the 26th instant, I shall most certainly not only not grant the same indulgence to any that shall hereafter fall into my hands, but punish every man of them as they deserve, if ever they fall into my hands again.

"I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

"DUNMORE.

"To the Commanding-Officer on shore."

"List of Prisoners on parole, who ought to have returned on board the Dunmore, the 19th of May, 1776: James Nimmo, John Nimmo, Jonathan Woodhouse, John Woodhouse, ——— Robertson, ——— Fountain, Cantwell Garrison, Tully Boony, ——— Hagley, ——— Thompson, ——— King, ——— Roberts, ——— Taylor."

GEORGE MORGAN TO LEWIS MORRIS.

Pittsburgh, May 22, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I had the pleasure to write to you by Mr. Boreman, the 17th instant, to which I refer you for intelligence relative to Indian affairs. Since then nothing new has occurred, except the enclosed messages from the Shawnee, which be pleased to deliver to the Commissioners; and as I expect four of the Shawnee Chiefs here by the 10th or 15th of June at farthest, and as many of the Delawares, with several of the Six Nations, if the treaty at Niagara is over, permit me to beg you will hasten Mr. Boreman back by that time.

The gentleman by whom this goes as far as Connecocheague, is on horseback, waiting for it. Please to send Mrs. Morgan word of my being well, and give my love to all Mr. Lawrence's family.

I am, with respect, dear sir, your most obedient servant,
GEORGE MORGAN.

To Lewis Morris, Esq., in Congress.

P. S. When you write to me, be pleased to mention the dates of the letters you receive from me.

MESSAGES FROM THE SHAWNEES.

Lower Shawnee-Town, April 24, 1776.

The Hard Man and several other Chiefs called me into Council, and spoke as follows:

TO THE CONGRESS AT PHILADELPHIA:

BROTHERS: Here are now present two of our chiefs, who were at the Great Council last fall at Pittsburgh, when you told us to sit still and to live in peace. We listened to you, and think of nothing else; nor do we desire anything else; and as the road between us has been opened and lately cleared, we desire it may remain open and clear for our young men and yours to pass and repass whenever they please. And as you desired us last fall, at the Great Council, not to let go the chain of friendship, but to hold it fast, even though one or two foolish young men may do what is wrong, so we now desire you to be strong and do the same, and that you will not listen to foolish stories, as you desire we will not.

BROTHERS: As it was your desire that we should restore the prisoners we had among us, we have spent the greatest part of the winter in getting them together, and have sent them to Pittsburgh, from whence we daily expect our people who went to conduct them there. We have not had time to think of anything else. We expect they will bring us some news from you; but if they do not, we shall continue to sit still, until we hear from you again.

BROTHERS OF VIRGINIA: You told us to send you all your flesh and blood. All that we could catch we have sent to you; but some have run away, and others we have since collected. We will deliver them all up when they are called for. You told us last fall to expect to see you at Pittsburgh this spring, where you would finish an everlasting peace with us. This we still look for, and wait to hear from you.

BROTHERS OF THE UNITED COLONIES: We hear bad reports often, but we will believe nothing but what comes from the Congress.

After I had left the towns and came about twelve miles, the White Fish sent a messenger after me to go back, which I did, April 26th, 1776. The Chiefs then took me to the Council, and desired me to write down their following Message to the Congress:

BROTHERS: The White Fish, one of our head chiefs, is just returned from the Wyandot town, where there were several nations met in Council, and we all determined to sit still and not to meddle in your quarrel. We will only look at you, Brothers. We shall be glad if you send no army to Detroit, nor suffer any to cross the Ohio; for the commandant at Detroit tells us the same that you did, viz: to sit still and not to intermeddle in the quarrel between you. You may rest satisfied we will sit still and mind our hunting.

BROTHERS: Two of our grandfathers, the Delawares, arrived here this day from the Wabache. They tell us the Indians there have heard from you, through the Cherokee Council, and are desirous to take hold of your chain of friendship, and to listen to none but you, and particularly as you have assured us that none of your people shall cross the Ohio, or settle on any of our lands. This declaration gives pleasure to us all, and we desire you to be strong in it. We expect to hear from you, and, till then, shall sit still.

Certified by me at Pittsburgh, the 19th day of May, 1776.

WILLIAM WILSON.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEES OF INSPECTION AND OBSERVATION IN THE SEVERAL COUNTIES OF PENNSYLVANIA.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, }
May 22, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: We are under frequent necessity of addressing you upon subjects of publick concern, of which the present is not the most important. It is upon occasion of the uneasiness and dissatisfaction that we are told have prevailed in some parts of the country on account of the high prices to which many of the imported articles of merchandise, and some necessities of life, have advanced. But before we proceed further, it is proper to declare our opinion that the scarcity productive of these high prices is not an artificial but a real one, proceeding from the late absolute prohibitions of one important branch of our trade, and the risk and danger which have attended every other. From whatever source a general discontent arises, it cannot fail, in this critical season of our affairs, to have the worst consequences; but in our capacity as guardians, in some measure, of the publick welfare, it would give us infinite satisfaction if the evil in question, which will be removed with better times, could be referred to its true cause—the peculiar situation in which this country is placed, rather than to a general inclination in individual traders to rapaciousness and extortion. If even it should be supposed that avarice has no small share in producing this complaint, this, although highly blameable, should be patiently submitted to; for at what time, or in what country, have there not been some sordid minds, ready to prey upon the publick necessities? Such disposition to extortion may, indeed, be but too common; we find it prevails where at least one of the motives to it mentioned above cannot be pretended: we have seen one of the articles of our own produce—flax, lately raised in price to twice its former value. We know not where a remedy can be applied, for a knowledge of human nature should teach us that so inordinate and crafty a vice as avarice has ways to elude all the force and restraints of authority; and truly, in such cases, the interposition of power would some times produce more mischievous consequences than the evil it affected to cure.

We lament as the greatest misfortune any cause that has a tendency to sow discord among us, and promote dissension, at a time when nothing short of the closest union can save us from destruction; we lament that clamours should be excited where they cannot but be unavailable; we would rather our countrymen should consider whether the real, although temporary, inconvenience they now feel may not, by care and industry, be converted into as real and permanent benefits; it may, if rightly improved, teach us the arts of supplying our own wants by our own hands. Had it not been for the excessive dearness of foreign linens, probably we should not have the present prospect of relief in that article which the abundant quantities of flaxseed lately sown afford us. Happily, there are few wants which this country cannot of itself supply; if we look about us, every farm can afford some substitute for almost every necessary article that is now imported; these need not be pointed out, being well known.

These are the sentiments which alone can produce a cheerful acquiescence under the present circumstances of our affairs, and a determined spirit of exertion to resist the efforts of tyranny; such sentiments we expect will be inculcated by all men of understanding and influence in their respective neighbourhoods; and such, we make no doubt, from your publick duty, as well as from your patriotism and well-known attachment to the common cause, you will lose no opportunity whatever to exercise.

We are, gentlemen, your very humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

GEORGE CLYMER, Chairman.

BUCKS COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Bucks County, May 22, 1776.

Resolved, That the inhabitants of those Townships in this County who have not already elected persons to take up the Arms of Non-Associators, agreeable to a late resolve of the Assembly of this Province, be requested to meet on Saturday, the 8th of June next, and choose three persons for that purpose; and that the members of this Board who inhabit in such Townships will advertise this resolve at some of the most publick places in their Townships, with the hour and place of meeting; and it is recommended that the persons who shall be so chosen, together with those chosen already, join in Districts, to execute the said resolve of Assembly, in the following order, viz: Bristol, Falls, Middletown, Newtown, Lower-Makefield, Upper-Makefield, Milford, Haycock, Richland, Bensalem, Southampton, Northampton, Wrightstown, Buckingham, Solesbury, New-Britain, Rockhill, Hillstown, Warminster, Warwick, Warrington, Plumstead, Bedminster, Tinnicum, Springfield, Nockamixon, Durham.

By order of the Committee:

JOSEPH HART, Chairman.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL PUTNAM.

Amboy, May 22, 1776.

SIR: Your letter of the last night, with the despatches from Canada, came to my hands at Woodbridge this morning. I wish that the information given you by Captain Goforth, respecting the number of prisoners taken, may prove true. What he told you about the enemy's not having sallied out differs widely from General Thomas's account of that affair.

You will please to give every assistance which General Schuyler requires that may be in your power; and lest you may not have kept a copy of his letter, I will transcribe that paragraph which contains his demands: "Intrenching tools of every kind will be wanted, more powder, lead, and cannon ball, and guns for the vessels on Lake Champlain; rigging, sailcloth, and sailmakers to be sent up."

For intrenching tools, rigging, sailcloth, and sailmakers, I would have you apply immediately to the Provincial Congress, who will probably be able to procure them for you; some of the members mentioned to me that they could procure a quantity of tools, of which you will send off as many as you can spare; you must take care not to leave yourself destitute. I sent five tons of lead forward which General Schuyler knew not of; however, I would have you examine what quantity there is in store, and, if you can spare it, send up two tons more. As to the cannon-ball and guns, you will consult with Colonel Knox, who must judge what sort of each is necessary, and send them up with the other articles. I have already spoken to the Commissary-General to send off as much salt provisions as he could, but you must urge him on this head, as they are in very great want and have no other place to depend on but what goes from New-York; he must lay in all he can get to supply the quantity which he sends up, for he must take care to keep up his stock.

It was a misfortune indeed that the vessel with powder and arms should fall into the enemy's hands. Let the Committee, by all means, have the periaugur to cruise off the back of the Island; the sooner she is out the better, as more vessels with those articles may be daily expected.

I am, with great regard, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Putnam.

P. S. Please to forward the enclosed by the first express, or the post, which goes to Albany. Send two tons of powder, which will serve until we can find a further supply.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Amboy, May 22, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Congress having been pleased to request my attendance at Philadelphia, to advise with them on the situation of our affairs, and of such measures as may be necessary to adopt for this campaign, I had got thus far on my journey when I called to view the ground, and such places on Statens-Island contiguous to it as may be proper for works of defence, when your favour of the 16th instant, with its several enclosures, came to hand.

I am exceedingly concerned for the distress of our troops in Canada; and, as I informed you heretofore, have been very importunate with the Commissary to forward all the provisions in his power; in consequence of which he has sent a great deal on, and I shall repeat my orders, and enjoin him to continue his supplies as largely and expeditiously as possible.

I wrote you on the 17th instant, and am hopeful the twenty-seven and a half casks of nails, which were all that could be got, with the five tons of lead, then sent, will have reached you or got to Albany, from whence they will be forwarded; and in a letter to General Putnam have directed him to examine our stock of the latter, and to furnish you with a further quantity if it can be spared; at Philadelphia I will try to get a supply; I have also directed him to send you two tons more of powder, and such intrenching tools as can possibly be spared, or procured from the Convention in consequence of an application I made two or three days since; we are deficient in these, not having a sufficiency to carry on the works for the defence of New-York with the expedition I wish, or the exigency of the times demands. In respect to cannon-shot and guns for the vessels on the Lake, I have requested him to consult with Colonel Knox, and with the Convention about sailcloth, &c., and if any of them can be spared or procured, that they be immediately sent to you.

Our situation respecting the Indians is delicate and embarrassing; they are attached to Johnson, who is our enemy. Policy and prudence, on the one hand, suggest the necessity of seizing him, and every friend of Government; on the other, if he is apprehended, there will be danger of incurring their resentment. I hope the Committee will conduct the matter in the least exceptionable manner, and in that way that shall most advance the publick good.

I observe by the minutes of the Council of War, General Thomas's letter, and that of Messrs. Carroll and Chase to Doctor Franklin, that our troops cannot make a stand at Deschambault, as I had hoped; I wish it were practicable, for most certainly the lower down the river we can maintain our post the more important will be the advantages resulting from it, considering all the country below us as lost, and that there may be some prospect of gaining that above, from whence we might draw supplies in some degree, and have the friendship and assistance of the inhabitants. It is certain we should make a stand as low down as we can, so as not to have a retreat cut off in case of necessity, or an opportunity of receiving provisions; but, unacquainted as I am with the country, I cannot undertake to say where it should be. Not doubting and hoping that everything for the best will be done, I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

CAPTAIN ROGERS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Sloop Montgomery, Little Egg-Harbour, May 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We yesterday put in here to wood and fill up our water, which are now about, and shall sail again tomorrow, wind and weather permitting. On the 5th instant we brought to a schooner, Captain Casey, from Saltatudas, bound for Rhode-Island, who informed me that on the 1st of May, in latitude thirty-six degrees thirty minutes, longitude seventy-one degrees, he saw eight sail of ships standing to the northward, but what they were he could not tell. The 6th of May we were cruising off Montauk; we saw a sail in the offing, and gave chase; she stood from us; the day being thick and hazy, we came in about a league of her, when we discovered that, although she seemed to be running from us with topgallant-sails set, her courses were hauled up, and staysails all down; the weather clearing a little off, we saw she was a ship-of-war; we then gave over chase and hove to, as we were between her and the land. But no sooner than she saw that we gave over chase, she gave chase to us, and followed us round Montauk; we hauled close aboard of a reef that lies within Montauk; she then gave over chase, and stood out again. From a Block-Island fishing-boat that I spoke, I was informed that there was a ship of twenty-eight guns, and a brig of fourteen guns, cruising off there; that they had been on shore on the Island and filled water, about the 20th or 21st of April. We have not been into any of the inlets on the back of Long-Island; but we sounded one with the boat, and found thirteen feet water over the bar at about half ebb. The 18th we were off Sandy-Hook; saw but two ships in the bay; they did not send anything out after us, which we expected they would. I expected to find the schooner Putnam on this coast, but have not seen or heard anything of her; we have not seen a sail of any kind since we left cruising off Montauk but the ships we saw in at Sandy-Hook. When we go out again, expect to cruise towards Cape-May. Our ship's company are all well and hearty. I remain, &c.,

WILLIAM ROGERS,

Captain of the armed sloop Montgomery.To the Provincial Congress of the City of New-York.

LEVI PAWLING TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Marbletown, May 19, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received a return, a few days ago, from the Chairman of the Committee for the town of Rochester, setting forth that Zachariah Rosekrans, late Ensign in Captain Joakim Schoonmaker's Company, had resigned, and that the Committee had ordered an election for choosing another Ensign for said company, which was done, and that Moses Depue, Jun., was duly elected by the company for the office aforesaid; I therefore desire that the said Moses Depue, Jun., may be commissioned to be an Ensign in the said Captain Joakim Schoonmaker's Company; and your compliance, gentlemen, will oblige your very humble servant,

LEVI PAWLING.

CAPTAIN ROSEKRANS AND OTHERS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Fort Montgomery, May 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer hereof, Captain Uriah Drake, having signified to us, the subscribers, that in case it might be the resolution of the Continental or Provincial Congress to raise any more forces in this Province for the standing Army this season, he was desirous of obtaining a warrant for the purpose of raising a company; we, therefore, hereby certify that we have been acquainted with him near two months at this post, and have taken notice of his conduct with respect to the discipline and manners of the little company of Minute-men he has commanded here, and think him a worthy, good officer, very deserving of a warrant for raising a company, if necessary. We are, &c.,

THOMAS PALMER.

JAMES ROSEKRANS, Captain.

ELI PARSONS, Lieutenant.

ABRAHAM SWARTWOUT, Captain.

JOHN BELKNAP, Captain.

HENRY PAWLING, Lieutenant.

DAVID HUNTER, Ensign.

JOSEPH BALDING, Ensign.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

P. S. We are also of opinion that William Ervin, for First Lieutenant, Joshua Myrick, Second Lieutenant, and James Ervin, Ensign, are very suitable and worthy men to fill up the offices aforesaid, in case Captain Drake should obtain a warrant.

THOMAS PALMER.

JAMES ROSEKRANS, Captain.

ABRAHAM SWARTWOUT, Captain.

JOHN BELKNAP, Captain.

ELI PARSONS, Lieutenant.

HENRY PAWLING, Lieutenant.

DAVID HUNTER, Ensign.

JOSEPH BALDING, Ensign.

SIMEON TRYON, Lieutenant.

ZACHARIAS HASBROUCK, Lieut.

THOMAS LEE, Lieutenant.

DANIEL LAWRENCE, Lieutenant.

NEHEMIAH CARPENTER, Q. M.

WILLIAM ELLSWORTH TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Kingston, May 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: As per enclosed, the Committee sends you two copies of the examinations of James and Lemuel Monger, concerning the counterfeiting and passing bills of credit of the Continental emission, Provincial Congress emission, and Connecticut emission. In the examination is a full confession of what they have made and done. The originals we have thought proper to keep until further order respecting the matter from the Continental Congress or the Provincial Congress. If the gentlemen think proper, please to report the same to the Continental Congress, that the Committee of Kingston may know what to do therein; and in the mean time should be glad to receive the advice of the Provincial Congress what to do.

Mr. Godfrey Haines, who was sent here, has made his escape from us last week. He happened to fall sick while in jail, and made application to us to come out of close confinement, and to have the liberty of the house until he got better; and before we imagined that he would attempt it, he made his escape.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM ELLSWORTH, Chairman.

To the President of the honourable Provincial Congress, or in the recess, to the Chairman of the Committee of Safety in the City of New-York.

Whereas Lemuel Monger, of Fredericksburgh Precinct, in Dutchess County, being apprehended by virtue of a precept of the Committee of Rumbout's Precinct, directed to Lieutenant Henry Wyckhoff, bearing date the 11th day of May, 1776, and brought before the Committee of Safety and Observation of the town of Kingston on Monday, the 13th day of May, 1776, by their order, and received by this Committee of Kingston; they proceeded to examine said Monger touching and concerning the counterfeiting bills of credit of the Continental emission.

Lemuel Monger saith: That about the 1st day of April last, said Lemuel Monger received forty shillings lawful of the Connecticut bills of credit, of his brother, James Monger, in order to change it at Caleb Frost's, for one six-shilling lawful of the Connecticut emission, and other bills of the Continental emission of small denomination, each one dollar; but does not know that there were any of a greater denomination; and understood, by broad hints his brother James Monger gave him, (the said Lemuel Monger), that he knew he (the said James Monger) wanted the small bills of different emissions in order to counterfeit them. Soon after, the said James Monger came to the house of the examinant, and told the examinant he would go over the North River, in Ulster County, to one Jacob Degremore, to discharge one forty pound note which the said Lemuel Monger, the examinant, owed the said Degremore; and, also, one other note of fifteen pounds, which the examinant owed to one James King, for which James Monger was to have one half of the examinant's farm, to pay off the above-mentioned note of forty pounds.

And the examinant further saith that he, the examinant, knew that the money his brother James Monger paid to Jacob Degremore was counterfeit money, except four pounds; and after James Monger returned from Degremore's, told the examinant that he had paid said Degremore three bills of the Continental emission, three bills of thirty dollars each, (being counterfeited,) and returned three bills to the examinant, to wit: one twenty dollar bill, one ten dollar bill of the Province emission, and one forty shilling bill of Connecticut emission, all three counterfeit. The said James Monger told the examinant that there was no danger in passing the above-mentioned bills, because there was not mentioned on the bills that it was death to counterfeit the bills of the Continental emission. Some time after the examinant had received of James Monger, he, the examinant, went to Poughkeepsie, and offered the counterfeit bills to John Giles, to discharge a note of fifteen pounds which the examinant owed to James King. John Giles refused to receive the money of the examinant, and told the examinant that the bills were counterfeit. The examinant took said counterfeit bills, and returned them again unto his brother, James Monger. And further saith not.

LEMUEL MONGER.

A true copy of the original:

WILLIAM ELLSWORTH, Chairman.

The Examination of James Monger, taken before the Committee of Safety and Observation of the town of Kingston, in Ulster County, the 13th day of May, 1776, touching counterfeit money of the Continental emission, and of the Connecticut emission.

The examinant, James Monger, saith: That in January last he had a lawsuit with the widow Rachel Seryn, and being involved into difficulties occasioned by that lawsuit, and not knowing how to extricate himself thereof, began to consider about it, and concluded and determined to counterfeit money; and was possessed of one two-dollar bill of the Continental emission, and made a ten-dollar bill of it, and passed it away to Mr. Philip Van Cortlandt some time in January last; and also counterfeited a bill, one of the Connecticut emission, and passed the same to Samuel Peters, Esq., some time in February last; and also counterfeited another bill of Connecticut emission, and passed it to John Teller in April last; and also another bill, which he passed to Caleb Frost, of forty shillings, which he counterfeited some time in April last; which several acts of passing the money counterfeited by me, encouraged and animated me to continue the business; and for that purpose procured several bills of the Continental emission, of the smallest denomination, to carry on the trade or business of counterfeiting, and also of the Connecticut emission, for the same purpose; and in April last, counterfeited several bills of small denomination, and offered my brother, Lemuel Monger, to pay his debts with the counterfeit money to Jacob Degremore; for which purpose I agreed with my brother to go over the North River, in Ulster County, to discharge a debt which my brother owed to Jacob Degremore; and accordingly went and paid Jacob Degremore three thirty-dollar bills, all counterfeited by me, and got my brother's note, and returned home by the way of Warwick; and when I came home, I went to my brother and gave him three counterfeit bills, to wit: one of twenty dollars, one of ten dollars, and one of forty shillings, Connecticut, in order to discharge a debt my brother Lemuel Monger owed to James King, of fifteen pounds, which was in lawyer John Giles's hands, at Poughkeepsie; and my brother, some time after he had received the last above-mentioned bills from me, went to Poughkeepsie, to John Giles the lawyer, and offered to pass the counterfeit bills he had from me to Mr. John Giles, which Mr. Giles refused to take; and returned home again, and redelivered the counterfeit bills to me; and further saith not.

JAMES MONGER.

A true copy of the original:

WILLIAM ELLSWORTH, Chairman.

JOEL MATTHEWS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Windsor, May 22, 1776.

Agreeable to the order of the honourable Provincial Congress of New-York, the Committees of Safety for the Counties of Cumberland and Gloucester, appointed a Committee of three out of the Committee of Safety of each County, for a Committee to nominate a Brigadier-General and a Brigade Major. In consequence of which, the Committee so chosen previously notified the Committee of Charlotte County, by a letter directed to the Chairman thereof, of the time and place of meeting, but had no return.

Your Honour's obedient and humble servant,

JOEL MATTHEWS.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress.

At a meeting of the Committees of the Counties of Cumberland and Gloucester, appointed to nominate a Brigadier-General and a Brigade Major, at Windsor, on Wednesday, the 22d day of May, 1776: made choice of Colonel Joseph Marsh as Chairman, and Major Joel Matthews Clerk; then proceeded and made choice of Colonel Jacob Bayley as Brigadier-General, and Simon Stevens, Esq., as Brigade Major, of said Counties.

Voted, That the Return of the above nominations be sent by Colonel Marsh to the honourable Provincial Congress, who is authorized to represent this Committee at Congress.

A true copy from the Minutes. By order:

JOSEPH MARSH, Chairman.

JOEL MATTHEWS, Clerk.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT OF GOVERNOUR SKENE'S EXAMINATION, ETC.

To the Honourable the Governour and the Council of the Colony of CONNECTICUT, convened at HARTFORD.

May it please your Honours:

Pursuant to your Honours' orders and directions given us, two of the Committee, taking with them a constable, went immediately to Governour Skene's lodgings, found the door of his room locked, and said Skene not at home; and leaving one of said Committee to guard the room, the others proceeded after Governour Skene; found him returning home from this side of the river, and brought him before the Committee. He was asked if he had carried on any correspondence with those who were enemies to America. He answered, that the engagements he had laid himself under by his parole, he had sacredly kept; that he had no papers but what concerned his private affairs, which had passed the inspection of the Congress; that he had the keys in his pocket, and was willing to show us his papers; that if he had any obnoxious papers, we might depend on it we should not find them; and if we accused him, he was an Englishman, and we must prove it.

He was asked if he knew beforehand anything of his negro being about to be chosen Governour by the negroes, and whether he had directly or indirectly any hand in bringing it to pass. He answered, that he did not know anything of it except some words that passed between William Williamson and his negro a day or two before, which he took to be jocose; and that he had no hand in bringing it to pass, directly nor indirectly. He was asked if he did not give his negro money to make a treat, &c., for the negroes. He answered, that he gave his negro a half-joe to keep election with; and that he was not at Mr. Knox's on Friday evening, after the election, when they had their treat, and that he knew nothing about it; that on Friday, he heard that the negroes had chosen his negro their Governour; he feared it would excite jealousies, and avoided speaking to him for fear of suspicion; and declared upon his honour that he had no papers about him.

Then the negro was examined, who told us that one Harper, a negro fellow, first mentioned to him about his being Governour; that he did say, that if the negroes would choose him Governour, he would give a treat of twenty dollars; and that it had cost him five-and-twenty dollars. He declared that none of the regular officers or soldiers ever said anything to him about it; that there was no plot nor scheme; that what he said and did was of his own head merely, as a piece of diversion, and that he meant no harm to the country; that he had never seen an election; understood they chose a Governour every year, so he thought he would set up for it. He was asked where he got the twenty-five dollars. He said he had them of his own earnings, got by going in a vessel upon the lakes, where he had certain perquisites which brought him in a great many dollars, which he was allowed to keep. He said he had a paper which Governour Cuff gave him, appointing him Governour, which was at home in his coat pocket, and was willing to show it.

One of the Committee kept Governour Skene's room all night. Next morning, Colonel Wadsworth and Captain Wadsworth went over with him, unlocked his door, and found his trunk of papers gone; of which said Skene seemed to be ignorant. Upon which they searched the other rooms, and the garret, and did not find it. Presently Williams searched a hole in the garret, behind the chimney, and there found the trunk; brought and gave it to Governour Skene, who made strange of it, and said he supposed that his negro, upon the alarm they had the other day, thinking that his papers were about to be searched, had hid the trunk. The Committee searched the papers, which Governour Skene very frankly offered, and no letters were found, except one found among his clothes from Hugh Wallace, of New-York, dated August 2, 1775; also found one lying on the table, from said Wallace, dated December 21, 1775, superscribed To Mr. Joseph Webb, Weathersfield, which we herewith lay before your Honours, with the paper appointing his negro Governour,* which was written by Nearn, a Regular sergeant, that keeps at William Lord's.

We examined Skene's negro further: how many trunks his master had that he kept papers in. He said one. Asked him of what colour it was, and which he described rightly. We asked him how he came to hide it. He constantly denied he ever did. We asked him how his master came by the paper Cuff gave him. He declared he left it in his pocket, and knew not how he came by it.

We examined Nearn, the sergeant, who declared that he wrote it at Cuff's desire; had no design, but thought of it as a piece of fun. We examined Cuff, who gave the same account with Nearn. We asked Cuff who advised him to resign his Governourship to Skene's negro. He said a good many people—some of our own and some of the Regulars; but remembered none in particular by name.

We had sundry of our own negroes under examination. It appeared that there was no election of Skene's negro but by Cuff's appointment aforesaid; and that they spoke against it, and declared they would not have a Tory for a Governour. It appears that the negroes had an entertainment and a dance at Mr. Knox's, on Friday night, after the election, and that the reckoning was about fifty shillings, which our negroes were not allowed to pay any part. Major French told us that the day before the election, he dined with Governour Skene, when it was mentioned that Jack was to be chosen Governour. Governour Skene told him he would give him a half-joe, and Major French he would give him two dollars; and Mr. Dermott told us that he gave him two dollars to make a treat with; and that when the reckoning was called for, they, (viz: Major French and Mr. Dermott) interposed, and would not suffer our negroes to pay anything; told Jack to pay it, and accordingly the reckoning was paid, and our negroes excused from paying anything.

All which is humbly submitted to your Honours, by your Honours' most obedient, humble servants, the Committee.

Per order:

JESSE ROOT, Chairman.

May 22, A. D. 1776.

New-York, August 2, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I have been told you met some very unexpected difficulties in fixing your residence in Connecticut; have to be obliged to go to a place, and not allowed to stay there. I hope, before this, your quarters are settled to your mind, and that you have the pleasure of Major Skene's company. We are here much in the state you left us, and I * HARTFORD, May 11, 1776.—I, Governour Cuff, of the negroes, in the Province of Connecticut, do resign my Governmentship to John Anderson, negor-man to Governour Skene; and I hop that you will obey him as you have done me for this teen years past. When Colonel Willis negor died, I was the next; but being weak and unfit for that office, do resign the said Governourship to John Anderson.

I, John Anderson, having the honour to be appointed Governour over you, I will do my utmost endevore to serve you in every respect; and I hope you will obey me accordingly.

JOHN ANDERSON,

Governour over the Niegors in Connecticut.

Witnesses present:

The late Governour CUFF , Hartford .	POMP WILLIS.
QUACKON.	JOHN JONES.
PETTER WADSWORTH.	FRIDAY.
JITOCES.

see no hopes of any settlement of matters, and think affairs look worse daily. Many faults on both sides, though they are both too proud and stout to acknowledge them; but they must both come down before matters can be fixed on a just and permanent footing—an event most sincerely to be wished. You know I am no politician, having other matters to attend to; but it is a severe trial on me to see a country that was thriving beyond the most sanguine hopes of its best friends, and to which our trade has helped not a little to contribute; ourselves getting good and profitable business, by exporting our produce; in our trade, bringing in large quantities of gold, which we have done for four years past, more than ever was done by private traders in America, and a good prospect of the same business continuing,—now, to see all overturned and stopped, and the country going to destruction; for though I hope and believe we shall mend our Constitution (indeed, we had none before) by this dispute, yet it will put the country ten years back, and load us with taxes. But no more of this dismal tale. I have nothing new to write you. The June mail is hourly expected; but we cannot expect anything by that way, the Parliament not sitting, and the Ministry will not move without them of late. From Boston, I fear bad news from that quarter.

I shall be glad to hear from you; and am, dear sir, your affectionate friend and servant,

HUGH WALLACE.

To Governour Skene, Hartford.

New-York, December 21, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I received the favour of yours of the 18th. I am extremely obliged to you for your attention to G. S. Your humanity and good disposition must fix you high in the esteem of all good men. Yours W. S.—I have not seen lately his friend; he sailed for Boston a few days ago, and was in good health.

Be so good as to make my compliments to G. S., and any gentleman of my acquaintance that comes within your knowledge. We have no news here. The October packet has not yet arrived. I find that is the last regular packet we are to expect.

I am, dear sir, your most obedient servant,

HUGH WALLACE.

To J. Webb, Weathersfield, Connecticut.

To the Sheriff of the County of FAIRFIELD, his Deputy, or either Constable of READING, in said County, greeting:

Whereas the General Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut, at their present sessions in Hartford, the second Thursday of May, 1776, and now sitting, made and passed the following order and resolve, viz:

“Whereas information has been given to this Assembly that Captain Daniel Hill, Lieutenant Peter Lyon, and Ensign Samuel Hawley, all of the Eleventh Company in the Fourth Regiment in this Colony, under the command of Gold Selleck Silliman, Esquire, Colonel of said regiment, have, instead of forwarding, as it was their duty to do, endeavoured to obstruct and embarrass, and have, in fact, neglected and refused to obey certain orders given out to said officers by said Colonel, in pursuance of orders from his Honour the Governour, the Captain-General, sometime in March last, for the purpose of inlisting or detaching a certain number in said company to march for New-York; which orders said officers have severally contemptuously disobeyed, and greatly obstructed the execution thereof. Whereupon this Assembly order and direct that a precept be issued forth by the Secretary of this Colony immediately, to arrest the bodies of them, the said Daniel Hill, Peter Lyon, and Samuel Hawley, respectively, and them have before this Assembly, to answer to the said information, and further dealt with as to justice appertains; and that Colonel Silliman, with other proper evidences, be also cited to appear, as of record appears.”

These are, therefore, to require you forthwith to apprehend the said Daniel Hill, Peter Lyon, and Samuel Hawley, and them have before this Assembly, to answer in the premises, and be dealt with as to justice appertains; and you are to summon Colonel Gold Selleck Silliman, of said Fairfield, in the said County of Fairfield, and to evidence relative to the matters above alleged. Hereof you are not to fail, and make due return.

GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary.

Dated at Hartford, May, 1776.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, May 22, 1776.

SIR: I sent the Providence last Thursday with all the soldiers which belonged to your Army that could then be collected. Since, I sent three by Captain Williams, and there are some sick now here, which shall send as soon as they are well. Some few, I believe, are deserted, or gone by land.

The Cabot and Andrew Doria both sailed last Sunday morning, on a cruise to the eastward. The Columbus hope to send soon. The others, I am afraid, cannot get away for want of men. As the men on board the fleet continue very sickly, it makes it difficult to get men; and were it not for that impediment, the sailors are mostly taken up in the several armies and other ways, so that it will be with great difficulty the fleet here can be manned. The two new ships are launched, and will be soon ready if men can be had.

I received orders to send to Philadelphia a number of cannon, which, if complied with, will give great uneasiness in this part of the country.

I am, with great regard, your most humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To His Excellency General Washington.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 31, 1776. Referred to the Committee on the Instructions given to Commodore Hopkins.]

Providence, May 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: When I arrived at New-London I delivered thirty-six guns, and all the other stores but twenty-six guns and some trucks, which were then on board the Alfred, Columbus, and Cabot; and as I could not get ballast in room of the guns, brought them here, and delivered to Governour Cooke, which he put into the fort to prevent the return of the King's ships, which I consented to on condition they should be subject to order of Congress. Three days past I received your orders to deliver twenty to the city of Philadelphia Committee. I came up here, and found that Governour Cooke had gone a long journey. I then called such of his Council and members of Assembly as could be got together, laid the order of Congress before them, and desired they would deliver the guns. The Council determined they could not be delivered before you were acquainted with the present circumstances of the Government, which they have sent one of their members, Mr. John Collins, to represent to you. I then gave the Committee an order on Governour Trumbull for twenty of the guns left at New-London, and I hope he will deliver them, as they may be better spared there than here, as the consequence of moving the cannon from here would be the blocking up of the fleet in this river, or such part of them as are now here.

The sickness that has attended the fleet since we left New-Providence still continues in a great measure, and has rendered the fleet useless, as near one-half the whole number are sick and unfit for duty. Eight days past I sent the Providence to New-York to carry the sailors to General Washington, which I borrowed of him to bring the fleet round here. The Cabot and Andrew Doria are cleaned, and manned with upwards of two hundred men, and sailed last Sunday morning by the Light-House on a cruise; and as I put a number of hands out of the Alfred on board the Andrew Doria, it has left her almost without hands, and the most I now expect is, to fit and send the Columbus and Providence on a cruise in about ten days, which will leave the Alfred without any hands more than the officers, the sickness discouraging new hands from entering. The brigs carried near four months' provisions with them, and have procured near the same for the other vessels which I have, and shall draw on your Treasurer for. I am likewise obliged to furnish the officers and people with some money, and the Hospital bill will be a large sum.

I think it would be for the publick advantage, and should be extremely glad if you would send or appoint some agent to transact the business here, and also of the prizes. Should also be glad you would direct what is to be done with the sloop which I took at New-Providence to bring the guns and stores. As no other person in that Island suffered one shilling, it would be hard the owner should not have his vessel, or be paid for her. Hope you will also give me directions what I shall do with the slaves taken in the armed vessels, for my giving them without salvage would disaffect the officers and people, without your orders so to do.

The reason of my leaving the Alfred to be the last vessel fitted out is, she is tender-sided, and the most unfit vessel in the fleet for service, and her mainmast has a nine-pound shot through it, and cannot get another easily in this place; although it is fished in the best manner we could do it, I am still in doubt whether it will bear hard crowding on. Upon the whole, all the chance I have of manning the Alfred is, when the Assembly sits to get orders from them to ship sailors out of their Army at Newport. If that fails, she and the new ships built here will hardly get manned, without you give orders for sailors to be shipped out of the Army.

Enclosed you have copies of the sentence of two Court-Martials, on the Captains of the Columbus and Providence, the latter of which I have confirmed, the other shall wait your directions for; and as for the rest of Captain Hazard's conduct, I could have looked it over; but as he was found guilty in the affair of the Glasgow, I could not pass it by.

I am, with great respect, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esquire, President of the Congress at Philadelphia.

Proceedings of a Court-Martial on ABRAHAM WHIPPLE, Commander of the COLUMBUS.

At a Court-Martial, held on board the Alfred, at Providence, in the Colony of Rhode-Island, on the 6th day of May, 1776, by order of Esek Hopkins, Esquire, Commander-in-Chief of the American Fleet, and at the desire of Abraham Whipple, Esquire, Commander of the ship Columbus, for an inquiry into his, the said Whipple's conduct, on the 7th of April last in an engagement with the Glasgow ship-of-war; Present:

Captain Dudley Saltonstall, President.

Members.

Capt. Nicholas Biddle ,	Lieut. Hoysteed Hacker ,
Capt. John Hazard ,	Lieut. Elisha Hinman ,
Capt. Samuel Nicholas ,	Lieut. Jonathan Maltbie ,
Capt. John Welch ,	Lieut. Matthew Parke ,
Lieut. John Paul Jones ,	Lieut. Henry Daton .
Lieut. Rhodes Arnold ,

Abraham Whipple, Esquire, aforesaid, appeared before this Court, and says his character stands aspersed for cowardice on board the Columbus, the 7th of April last, in an engagement with the Glasgow ship-of-war; therefore, desires to be heard touching the same. Whereupon this Court proceeds to hear him; who sets forth in his declaration, that for want of wind, and by means of the Glasgow's firing stern guns, together with his firing bow guns, and now and then a broadside, he was unable to make his attack closer than he did.

This Court, having heard sundry evidences, who were present in different vessels during the engagement with the Glasgow, respecting the matter now before us, are of opinion, that the said Whipple's conduct, on said 7th of April, was agreeable to what he hath set forth in his foregoing declaration, and that his mode of attack on the Glasgow, in our opinion, proceeded from error of judgment, and not from cowardice.

DUDLEY SALTONSTALL,	RHODES ARNOLD,
NICHOLAS BIDDLE,	HOYSTEED HACKER,
JOHN HAZARD,	ELISHA HINMAN,
SAMUEL NICHOLAS,	JONATHAN MALTBIE,
JOHN WELCH,	MATTHEW PARKE,
JOHN P. JONES,	HENRY DATON.

A true copy of file:

DUDLEY SALTONSTALL.

The above is a true copy:

SAMUEL LYON, Secretary.

Proceedings of a Court-Martial on JOHN HAZARD, Commander of the Sloop PROVIDENCE.

At a Court-Martial, held on board the Alfred, at Providence, in the Colony of Rhode-Island, on the 8th day of May, 1776, by order of Esek Hopkins, Esquire, Commander-in-Chief of the American Fleet, for the trial of John Hazard, Esquire, Commander of the sloop Providence, in the Continental service, for misconduct; Present:

Captain Dudley Saltonstall, President.

Members.

Capt. Abraham Whipple, Lieut. Hoysteed Hacker,
Capt. Nicholas Biddle, Lieut. Elisha Hinman,
Capt. Samuel Nicholas, Lieut. Jonathan Maltbie,
Capt. John Welch, Lieut. Matthew Parke,
Lieut. John Paul Jones, Lieut. Henry Daton.
Lieut. Rhodes Arnold,

Captain Hazard, aforesaid, being brought before this Court a prisoner, on the complaint of a number of officers belonging to the sloop Providence, aforesaid, bearing date May 6, 1776, setting forth a number of crimes and misdemeanours against him, as per complaint on file, which will appear at large: The charge being read in the hearing of the prisoner, and the question being put to him, Whether he was guilty or not guilty? He answered, not guilty; and desired he might be heard. Upon which this Court proceeded to hear him, and, on trying the merits of the case, find him guilty, as follows:

Question 1st. Whether the prisoner was guilty of breach of orders at Reedy-Island, in not delivering a certain parcel of wood which the Commander-in-Chief had directed to be put on board the sloop Fly?

Passed in the affirmative unanimously.

Question 2d. Whether the prisoner was guilty of neglect of duty on the night the fleet engaged the Glasgow, in not preparing for action before the engagement began, he having timely information?

Passed in the affirmative unanimously.

Question 3d. Whether the prisoner was guilty of embezzling part of the vessel's stores?

Passed in the affirmative unanimously.

Question 4th. Whether the prisoner was guilty of breach of orders going up Providence river the 26th April last?

Passed in the affirmative unanimously.

In consequence of the foregoing trial, this Court are unanimous in their opinion, that the prisoner, John Hazard, Esq., has rendered himself unworthy of holding his commission in the Navy of the United Colonies of North America, and adjudge him accordingly.

D. SALTONSTALL, President,	RHODES ARNOLD,
ABRAHAM WHIPPLE,	HOYSTEED HACKER,
NICHOLAS BIDDLE,	ELISHA HINMAN,
SAMUEL NICHOLAS,	JONATHAN MALTBIÉ,
JOHN WELCH,	MATTHEW PARKE,
JOHN PAUL JONES,	HENRY DATON.

A true copy from the file:

DUDLEY SALTONSTALL, President.

Having this day received and examined the above sentence of the Court-Martial pronounced against Captain John Hazard, do hereby ratify and confirm the same, and order that the said Hazard forthwith surrender his commission to the President of the said Court.

ESEK HOPKINS, Commander-in-Chief.
Providence, May 9, 1776.

The above is a true copy:

SAMUEL LYON, Secretary.

JAMES WARREN TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Plymouth, May 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have, agreeable to the order of Court, purchased a sloop to observe the motions of the enemy and give intelligence. You may, if you please, call her the Swift. Captain Wigglesworth, the bearer of this, I have appointed to the command of her. He now waits on you for your orders, and to get some powder and other ammunition, and perhaps a few articles which cannot be obtained here. You will please to give him despatch, as I propose to have everything ready for him to go to sea as soon as he returns.

I am, with great respect, your most humble servant,

JAMES WARREN.

ORDERS TO GENERAL FOLSOM.

Colony of New-Hampshire, in Committee of Safety, }
May 22, 1776. }

To NATHANIEL FOLSOM, General of the Militia in the Colony of NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

Whereas you were lately directed by this Committee to warn the Militia in several of the Counties in this Colony, to hold themselves in readiness to march on the shortest notice to relieve any place in this Colony that should be attacked by our enemies; and inasmuch as there may be a sudden descent made on our sea-coast, you are hereby directed and authorized, on notice of any such descent or attack, immediately to order the Militia to march to such place, and repair there yourself with all speed, and take the command of all the forces of this Colony raised for the defence thereof, as well as the Militia, giving them such orders and directions as you may judge best to repel the enemy.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO MRS. CONNOLLY.

Philadelphia, May 23, 1776.

MADAM: I laid before Congress your application for a passport to proceed to Pittsburgh, and am now to acquaint you that, under the present situation of affairs, they could not comply with your request; and further, they have judged it necessary that you should for the present remain in this city; and, agreeable to their order, I am to inform you that they expect you do not depart this city without the permission of Congress. You will, therefore, abide here until you hear further from me.

I am, madam, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Mrs. Connolly.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO ABRAHAM LIVINGSTON.

Philadelphia, May 23, 1776.

SIR: The Congress having been pleased to accept your resignation of the contract for supplying the forces in the Colony of New-York, I am extremely happy in conveying to you the sense they entertain of your conduct on the occasion.

In thus voluntarily resigning so profitable a contract, it is their opinion, which I am commanded to signify to you, that you have exhibited an example of publick spirit. The generous and disinterested virtue you have shown will undoubtedly entitle you hereafter to the notice of Congress. Should any appointment worthy of your acceptance come before them, I shall do all in my power to have it bestowed on a gentleman who has reflected the highest honour upon himself by an unsolicited sacrifice of private interest to publick order and economy.

I have the honour to be, with great esteem, sir, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Mr. Abraham Livingston, at New-York.

JOHN McDONALD TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

May 23, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: After exploring the mines both in Orange and Dutchess Counties, brought the full reports to your honourable House on the 26th April, 1776. The day thereafter some of the members desired me to wait on the gathering of as many members as might be sufficient to make a full and complete House, to determine upon the matter; and that I would be rewarded for the attendance; and thereby have been kept in suspense from time to time, waiting for the Board's further instructions relative to lead-mines. Now expect that the Board will clear me of all reasonable demands, as I am a poor man, with a small family, and illy able to lose much time.

Gentlemen, if my reports should meet with your approbation, and thereon it should be resolved to proceed to open said mines, it would be necessary to be furnished with a sufficient instruction; and therein to be authorized to dig for mines in any part of the Colony, or the neighbouring Colonies, according to information; further, to be empowered to call for any assistance that can be afforded by any Committee, where occasion offers, concerning the business, in case any gentleman would not gratify to break his land, to explore mines for the publick service. With the greatest submission I beg the favour of you to let me know if I may depend on the mining employment, or if I must look for business where Providence may provide me. I expect your good morals and acquaintance with the disappointment I met with by the request of Colland Chandler, in this County, (which rendered me under all the disadvantages of a stranger,) will excuse my freedom in giving this trouble.

And, with the greatest submission and good wishes to your undertakings, I am your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN McDONALD, Miner.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fredericksburgh, Dutchess County, May 23, 1776.

SIR: Having leave from General Schuyler last March to come down and settle some property I had at this place, he directed me to the County Committee for further leave; but not finding my affairs as I expected, I waited on the Committee and applied to them for a pass to go to the Jerseys or Pennsylvania, where most of the gentlemen that were taken prisoners in Canada were already sent. Their answer was, that they could not take it on themselves to send me anywhere but back again to Albany, without General Schuyler's directions.

I have written General Schuyler twice, acquainting him of their ordering me back again, and begging that he would be pleased to let me know where I was to go; but received no answer, though I wrote a month ago. As this is my situation, I will take it as a particular favour to have your Excellency's directions, and an order for carriages for myself and baggage, as none will otherwise be provided for me.

I would be glad to have the indulgence of going to the Jerseys, as I am well known in that place; likewise, as I have a large family of a wife and six children, which could be sent the most of the way by water-carriage.

I am, sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

DUNCAN CAMPBELL,
Ensign and Q. M. to Twenty-Sixth Regiment, and prisoner of war.

To His Excellency General Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the Continental forces.

CAPTAIN VARICK TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, May 23, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Agreeable to General Schuyler's directions to me, I send down (under charge of Lieutenant Van Waggenen) Lieutenant Schalch and Dr. Gill, of the Royal Artillery, made prisoners at St. Johns, to be disposed of as your Excellency shall be pleased to direct. They are on their parole.

I also send down Mr. John MacDonell, one of the Scotch gentlemen made prisoners at Johnstown, Tryon County, in January last. He has the General's permit to go to Reading, in Pennsylvania, and join the other gentlemen made prisoners with him. The conduct of the two former gentlemen during a short stay at Schenectady has proved unexceptionable.

By the General's order I also enclose an account of moneys paid by him or by his order to Mr. Elijah Bennett, Post-rider. General Schuyler requests that Bennett may be charged with the amount.

I am your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

RICHARD VARICK.

To His Excellency General Washington.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO NATHANIEL SHAW.

Providence, May 23, 1776.

SIR: Please to send me, by Captain Saltonstall, as good an account of the guns and stores left in your hands as you can get; and likewise, should be glad you will send me an account of your schooner's cargo, which Captain Biddle retook, as the officers blame me for delivering her until she was tried. Should be glad to satisfy them that they will receive no injury by that step.

I congratulate you on being appointed by the Congress agent for the fleet, and all prizes sent into your Government, which I have received an account of; expect you will act as such, whether you have received the order or not, and get the three prizes libelled and condemned as soon as possible. And as to your schooner, I make no doubt but you will satisfy the officers and people without a trial.

I now have the gentlemen here from the Committee of Safety of Philadelphia, but I expect they will not be able to get more cannon here than they did or I expected they would at New-London. What will be the event of their not succeeding, I cannot at present tell. I am well convinced their sending them away will be of very ill consequences to the continent, and their not going will have no other bad effect but on me, who had better suffer than the community.

I am, with great respect, your friend and humble servant,
ESEK HOPKINS.

To Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, Jun., Merchant at New-London.

ADMIRAL HOPKINS TO CAPTAIN SALTONSTALL.

Providence, May 23, 1776.

SIR: Please to get an exact account of the number and weight of the cannon, mortars, shells, shot, and stores, left at New-London; and also get an account of Mr. Spooner, of all the provisions and stores delivered out of the several prizes to the fleet, and the particular vessels they were delivered to; and also an account of him of the schooner's cargo delivered to Mr. Shaw, and also Mr. Shaw's account of what they sold for, and an account also of the balance of what powder Mr. Shaw now has in his hands that was landed out of the fleet; and also take some care of the men belonging to the fleet, and send such here as are capable of duty.

Yours, &c.,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To Dudley Saltonstall, Esquire.

BILLERICA (MIDDLESEX COUNTY) MASSACHUSETTS.

At a legal Town-meeting of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of Billerica, upon an adjournment, May 23d, 1776, Doctor Timothy Danforth Moderator:

The question was put, Whether said town will, in conformity to a resolve of the honourable House of Representatives of this Colony, advise our Representatives that if the honourable Congress shall, for the safety of the Colonies, declare them independent of Great Britain, they, the inhabitants, will engage with their lives and fortunes to support them in the measure?

It passed unanimously in the affirmative.

INSTRUCTIONS OF THE TOWN OF BOSTON TO THEIR REPRESENTATIVES.

On Thursday, May 23d, 1776, the Freeholders and other inhabitants of the town of Boston, qualified as the law directs, met at the old brick Meeting-House, in order to choose their Representatives for the ensuing General Assembly, when they made choice of the following gentlemen, viz: William Phillips, John Pitts, John Brown, William Cooper, Benjamin Austin, Oliver Wendell, Nathaniel Appleton, David Jeffries, Joseph Gardner, and Arnold Welles, Esquires, Mr. Caleb Davis, and Mr. William Powell.

Mr. Welles and Mr. Powell having declined the service, Mr. Samuel Allyn, Otis and Mr. Henry Hill, chosen in their room.

The Town then gave their Representatives the following Instructions, viz:

GENTLEMEN: At a time when, in all probability, the whole United Colonies of America are upon the verge of a glorious Revolution, and when, consequently, the most important questions that were ever agitated before the Representative body of this Colony, touching its internal police, will demand your attention, your constituents think it necessary to instruct you in several matters what part to act, that the path of your duty may be plain before you.

We have seen the humble petitions of these Colonies to the King of Great Britain repeatedly rejected with disdain. For the prayer of peace, he has tendered the sword; for liberty, chains; and for safety, death. He has licensed the instruments of his hostile oppressions to rob us of our property, to burn our houses, and to spill our blood. He has invited every barbarous nation whom he could hope to influence, to assist him in prosecuting these inhuman purposes. The Prince, therefore, in support of whose Crown and dignity, not many years since, we would most cheerfully have expended life and fortune, we are now constrained to consider as the worst of tyrants. Loyalty to him is now treason to our country. We have seen his venal Parliament so basely prostituted to his designs, that they have never hesitated to enforce his arbitrary requisitions with the most sanguinary laws. We have seen the people of Great Britain so lost to every sense of virtue and honour, as to pass over the most pathetick and earnest appeals to their justice with an unfeeling indifference. The hopes we placed on their exertions have long since failed. In short, we are convinced that it is the fixed and settled determination of the King, Ministry, and Parliament of that Island, to conquer and subjugate the Colonies, and that the people there have no disposition to oppose them.

A reconciliation with them appears to us to be as dangerous as it is absurd. A spirit of resentment once raised, it is not easy to appease. The recollection of past injuries will perpetually keep alive the flame of jealousy, which will stimulate to new impositions on the one side, and consequent resistance on the other; and the whole body-politick will be constantly subject to civil commotions. We therefore think it absolutely impracticable for these Colonies to be ever again subject to or dependant upon Great Britain, without endangering the very existence of the state. Placing, however, unbounded confidence in the supreme councils of the Congress, we are determined to wait, most patiently to wait, till their wisdom shall dictate the necessity of making a Declaration of Independence. Nor should we have ventured to express our sentiments upon this subject, but from the presumption that the Congress would choose to feel themselves supported by the people of each Colony, before they adopt a resolution so interesting to the whole. The inhabitants of this town, therefore, unanimously instruct and direct you that, at the approaching session of the General Assembly, you use your endeavours that the Delegates of this Colony at the Congress be advised that, in case the Congress should think it necessary for the safety of the United Colonies to declare them independent of Great Britain, the inhabitants of this Colony, with their lives and the remnant of their fortunes, will cheerfully support them in the measure.

Touching the internal police of this Colony, it is essentially necessary, in order to preserve harmony among ourselves, that the constituent body be satisfied that they are fairly and fully represented. The right to legislate is originally in every member of the community, which right is always exercised in the infancy of a state. But when the inhabitants are become numerous, it is not only inconvenient, but impracticable for all to meet in one assembly; and hence arose the necessity and practice of legislating by a few, freely chosen by the many. When this choice is free, and the representation equal, it is the people's fault if they are not happy. We therefore instruct you to devise some means to obtain an equal representation of the people of this Colony in the Legislature. But care should be taken that the Assembly be not unwieldy; for this would be an approach to the evil meant to be cured by representation. The largest bodies of men do not always despatch business with the greatest expedition, nor conduct it in the wisest manner.

It is essential to liberty that the legislative, judicial, and executive powers of Government be, as nearly as possible, independent of, and separate from each other; for where they are united in the same person or number of persons, there would be wanting that mutual check which is the principal security against the making of arbitrary laws, and a wanton exercise of power in the execution of them. It is also of the highest importance that every person in a judiciary department employ the greatest part of his time and attention in the duties of his office. We therefore further instruct you to procure the enacting such law or laws as shall make it incompatible for the same person to hold a seat in the legislative and executive departments of Government, at one and the same time; that shall render the Judges, in every judicatory through the Colony, dependant, not on the uncertain tenure of caprice or pleasure, but on an unimpeachable deportment in the important duties of their station, for their continuance in office; and to prevent the multiplicity of offices in the same person; that such salaries be settled upon them as will place them above the necessity of stooping to any indirect or collateral means for subsistence. We wish to avoid a profusion of the publick moneys on the one hand, and the danger of sacrificing our liberties to a spirit of parsimony on the other. Not doubting of your zeal and abilities in the common cause of our country, we leave your discretion to promote such exertions, in promoting any military operations, as the exigencies of our publick affairs may require. And in the same confidence of your fervour and attachment to the publick weal, we readily submit all other matters of publick moment, that may require your consideration, to your own wisdom and discretion.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Philadelphia, May 24, 1776.

SIR: In obedience to a resolve of Congress, I herewith transmit the sum of sixteen hundred and sixty-two pounds one shilling and three pence, in three bags, which I have committed to the charge of Captain Graydon, of the Pennsylvania forces, in the Continental service. This is all the hard money that was in the Treasury.

Enclosed you have the resolves of Congress with regard to our affairs in Canada. At present I am so extremely hurried that I have only time to add, that the money voted by Congress to be sent to you shall be forwarded in a few days.

General Washington arrived here yesterday, in good health, the Congress having requested his attendance to consult him on the operations of the approaching campaign.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Major-General Schuyler, Albany.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA.

Philadelphia, May 24, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: By the enclosed resolves of Congress, which I do myself the honour of transmitting, you will perceive that every step has been taken to procure hard money that could be devised.

I have forwarded to General Schuyler, by this conveyance, the sum of sixteen hundred and sixty-two pounds one shilling and three pence, in hard money, which was all that was in the Treasury.

General Washington arrived here yesterday afternoon in good health, the Congress having requested his attendance in order to consult him on the operations of the approaching campaign, and such other matters as should be necessary.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Hon. Benjamin Franklin, Samuel Chase, and Charles Carroll, Commissioners in Canada.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL THOMAS.

Philadelphia, May 24, 1776.

SIR: You will perceive by the enclosed resolutions of Congress, which I do myself the honour of transmitting, and to which I beg leave to refer your attention, that Canada, in their opinion, is an object of the last importance to the welfare of the United Colonies.

Should our troops retire before the enemy, and entirely evacuate that Province, it is not in human wisdom to foretell the consequences. In this case the loss of Canada will not be all; the whole frontiers of the New-England and New-York Governments will be exposed, not only to the ravages of the Indians, but also of the British forces, not less savage and barbarous in the prosecution of the present war. In this view of the matter, it is needless to employ arguments to excite you to the greatest vigour and diligence on this occasion.

The Congress having tried every method to collect hard money for the Army in Canada, without success, are determined not to relinquish the expedition or give it up. They have therefore resolved to supply our troops there with provisions and clothing from the other Colonies, if they cannot be had in that country; of which resolution I sent this morning an account to General Schuyler, accompanied with several other resolutions, with regard to the situation of affairs in that quarter. Upon the whole, it seems, from the latest intelligence, that nothing but the greatest exertions of capacity and vigour will ever retrieve our misfortunes in Canada. The eyes of the Continent are upon you. Display, therefore, I entreat you, for your own honour and the good of your country, those military qualities which you certainly possess. There are still laurels to be acquired in Canada, which I have the most pleasing hope are reserved for you, as the command of the expedition is now given to you.

I have nothing further to add, but that I am commanded by Congress to direct you will carry the enclosed resolves into execution as speedily as possible.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Major-General Thomas, Canada.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Philadelphia, May 24, 1776.

SIR: I did myself the honour of writing to you this morning, and at the same time transmitted all the hard money that was in the Treasury, amounting to sixteen hundred and sixty-two pounds one shilling and three pence, which I hope you will duly receive.

The Congress have this day come to the enclosed resolutions, which I am commanded to forward to you by express, as containing matters of the highest importance to the welfare of these United Colonies. It must no doubt have occurred to you, sir, that should our enemies get possession of any one Province, which may not only supply them with provisions, &c., but from which they may harass the adjacent country, the preservation of American liberty would be rendered thereby much more difficult and precarious. It is this circumstance which at present gives perhaps a greater weight to the war in Canada than in any other part of America, as the danger of our enemies' getting footing there is much greater. The consequences, too, in case they succeed in that Province would be much more fatal, as we may expect, if that event takes place, to have all the Canadians and Indians join against us.

It is not conceivable in my mind that there was ever a time or situation that called for more vigorous and decisive measures than the present in Canada. Our enemies seem determined to prosecute their plans against us with the greatest violence; while their schemes are kept so enveloped in darkness that there is no possibility of finding them out. This much only we may be sure of: that they will aim the most deadly blows at our devoted country. It is our duty, therefore, to shield and protect her from all evil, but especially in those parts where she is the most vulnerable. Whether or not the Province of Canada is this part I shall leave it to you to determine.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Major-General Schuyler, Albany.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL THOMAS.

Philadelphia, May 24, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour of the 8th instant, with its enclosures, confirming the melancholy intelligence I had before heard of your having been obliged to raise the siege of Quebeck, and to make a precipitate retreat, with the loss of the cannon in the batteaus, and interception of the powder going from General Schuyler. This unfortunate affair has given a sad shock to our schemes in that quarter, and blasted the hope we entertained of reducing that fortress and the whole of Canada to our possession.

From your representation, things must have been found in great disorder, and such as to have made a retreat almost inevitable. But, nevertheless, it is hoped you will be able to make a good stand yet, and, by that means, secure a large or all the upper part of the country. That being a matter of the utmost importance in the present contest, it is my wish and that of Congress, that you take an advantageous post as far down the river as possible, so as not to preclude you from a retreat, if it should be ever necessary, or from getting proper supplies of provisions. The lower down you can maintain a stand the more advantageous will it be, as all the country above will most probably take part with us, and from which we may draw some assistance and support, and considering all below as entirely within the power of the enemy, and of course, in their favour.

This misfortune must be repaired, if possible, by our more vigorous exertions; and trusting that nothing will be wanting on your part or in your power to advance our country's cause, I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Thomas.

*Memorial from the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties of PHILADELPHIA.**

[Read May 25, 1776, and ordered to lie on the table.]

To the Honourable Congress of the United Colonies of NORTH-AMERICA:

The Memorial of the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties of PHILADELPHIA, respectfully sheweth:

That they beheld, with great affliction, the Assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania withdraw from its union with the other Colonies, in consequence of their Instructions to their Delegates upon the resolve of the Congress of the 15th instant, "for suppressing all authority derived from the Crown of Great Britain in the United Colonies."

That they consider the safety, liberty, and future welfare of this Colony as inseparably connected with its union with the other Colonies.

That they have always esteemed their chief happiness to consist in the faithful execution of such of the resolves of Congress as tended to maintain the said Union.

That in consequence of the defection of the Delegates appointed by the Assembly of Pennsylvania from the union with the other Colonies, they apprehend an appeal was made to the people.

That, in consequence of a request of a large majority of the inhabitants of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, on the 20th instant, the Committee have issued letters (by virtue of a power given them in a Provincial Convention held at Philadelphia, January, 1775) for calling a conference of the Committees of the Province, in order to collect the sense of the inhabitants upon the aforesaid resolve of Congress, and if possible to bring about a reunion of the Province with the other Colonies, by calling a Provincial Convention, in order to form a Government for that purpose.

That they have heard with great surprise that the Assembly of this Province are about to present a Memorial to your honourable body, in consequence of a Remonstrance delivered to them from a number of the inhabitants of the City of Philadelphia, in which they are said to request an explanation of your resolve of the 15th instant.

That the Remonstrance on which this Memorial is founded strikes directly at the union of the Colonies, by praying for the continuance of a Government in this Province which is supported in its Executive parts entirely by a Governour and officers who hold all their power under the authority of the King of Great Britain.

That the said Remonstrance has been obtained by unfair representations and indefatigable industry; and is signed chiefly by those people who hold offices under the Crown, or persons connected with them, or by those who have uniformly opposed every measure adopted by the Congress, (Petitions to the King only excepted,) or by those who have published testimonies manifestly injurious to many of those steps that have been taken in this Province in support of the Union and defence of the Colonies.

* A copy to be delivered to Mr. R. Morris, who requests the same in behalf of the Assembly of Pennsylvania.

That the Committee are determined, as far as lieth in their power, to comply with the resolve of the Congress of the 15th instant, in the manner before-mentioned; and they declare that the present Assembly of this Province was not chosen, nor is it invested with powers, to carry the said resolve into execution.

That the unwillingness of the House to appeal to the voice of the people, and the pains they have taken to prevail upon the Congress to interfere in our "domestick police," betrays a fear that, in refusing to comply with the resolve of Congress, they will act contrary to the inclinations of a majority of their constituents.

That a majority of the present Assembly do not possess the confidence of the people. That the Province is not fully nor equally represented in it. That it is composed of men who hold offices under the Crown of Great Britain. That they have deputed the power, which was deputed solely to them, to persons who had not the sanction of the voice of the people for legislative purposes; and we have reason to believe that a majority of them have been dragged into a compliance with most of the resolutions of Congress from the fear of a Provincial Convention.

From a Government formed by men marked with such inconsistencies, prejudices, and arbitrary views, we have as much to fear as from the unlimited exertions of that power which has declared itself possessed of a right to tax us without our consent, and to bind us in all cases whatsoever.

The Committee have too much confidence in the wisdom of your body to believe that, when informed of the true situation of this Province, you meant to include the Assembly thereof in your recommendation to Assemblies to form new Governments. The origin and present tenure of your power can never suffer you to forget that it was by making names yield to things, and forms to substantial justice, that you acquired the confidence of America and the admiration of the world.

They beg that the Congress would not be deceived by misrepresentations. The Committee declare solemnly that they have no design or wish to alter those parts of the Charter and laws of the Province which secure to every man the enjoyment of his property, liberty, and the sacred rights of conscience. They wish only to make such alterations in them as relate to the mode of representation in the Province, and such as render the consent of the King of Great Britain and his Governour necessary to give efficacy and execution to our laws; and this they conceive to be no less necessary to the safety and happiness of our Colony in particular than to America in general.

The situation of our Province, it is true, requires vigour and harmony in the direction of both civil and military affairs; but these can never be obtained when a people no longer confide in their rulers. The Committee fear no calamities from disunion in the Province, but thus publicly charge the feebleness of all our counsels to our union with men of narrow and interested views. The strength of a country in the time of war consists in the number of its fighting men. The constituents of this Committee, who are composed chiefly of this class of men, have declared that they will support the union of this Province with the other Colonies at every hazard; and they have the pleasure of hearing that similar determinations prevail in most of the battalions of the Province.

Signed by order of the Committee:

THOMAS MCKEAN, Chairman.

Committee-Chamber, Philadelphia, May 24, 1776.

JAMES MEASE TO ROBERT MORRIS.

[Read May 25, 1776.]

Philadelphia, May 24, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I beg the favour of you to apply to Congress for a draft of twenty thousand dollars, for the use of the battalions, the last I had being expended. I should be glad to know whether it will not be proper to lay in a stock of shoes, hats, and stockings, for the use of the troops. If any are likely to be wanted next fall or winter, it would be much the most advantageous to prosecute the purchase now, when there is but little demand. If it is delayed until they may be actually wanted, they will rise greatly in price, and

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

I fear scarce be got at all. Both leather and wool becomes every day dearer; and, upon any sudden demand, the materials made of them will rise exceedingly.

I am, with infinite respect, dear sir, yours,

JAMES MEASE.

To Robert Morris, Esq.

NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

Northumberland County, May 24, 1776.

At a meeting of the Committee of Inspection and Observation for said County, Captain John Hambright in the Chair.

Agreeable to notice given at the last meeting, John Aurant attended to answer the complaint of Samuel Maclay and Benjamin Alison, Esqs., in behalf of themselves and other Magistrates, relative to several charges set forth in a Memorial to the honourable House of Assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania at their last sitting, when a proved copy of said Memorial was read to said Aurant. He could not prove any material assertion contained in his Memorial, but, on the contrary, acknowledged some of them to be false, and others misrepresented by the translator he employed.

On said day appeared George Wolfe and Thomas Sutherland, agreeable to notice give them, to answer the complaints of said Samuel Maclay and Benjamin Alison, Esqs., for that they, in conjunction with others hereafter mentioned, some of whom are not known to this Committee, and others whose names are known, (thought too insignificant to be taken notice of,) did, as a Committee, sign and present a Memorial to the honourable the Continental Congress, containing several charges against the Magistrates of this County. When a proven copy of said Memorial was read to them, they acknowledged the authenticity of the same, but said they were not prepared to prove any of the allegations therein contained, as their papers were in the hands of the Assembly; but when they were offered copies of all their papers, said they could produce testimony, but would not, until they were present or before authority, lest they should be bribed; upon which they were allowed to produce their evidences, if any they had, on Thursday, the 30th instant, to prove their assertions against the Magistrates of the County aforesaid, or any of them; when, they not appearing, the Committee, upon due consideration of what they had heard, entered into the following Resolves:

Resolved, That the above-named George Wolfe and Thomas Sutherland, with William Leech, George Overier, Matthias Hess, Thomas Price, and John George Conrad, signing their names as a Committee of this County, is a gross imposition upon the honourable the Continental Congress, and the publick in general, as they never were in the Committee of this County.

Resolved, That as none of the allegations contained in the Memorials of John Aurant, or the above-mentioned fictitious Committee, have been proven, saving that a few guns were either lost or broken last winter, which we consider as a trifling inconvenience, the owners (upon proving the value) having sufficient security for them, and many of them have been proved, and others acknowledged by the parties to be false, we look upon them as unjust, absurd, and malicious.

Resolved, There is but one Committee of Inspection, Observation and Correspondence, in this County, in which each Township is equally represented.

Resolved, That the above be advertised in the publick papers, to prevent the like imposition for the future.

Signed for and in behalf of the Committee.

JOHN HAMBRIGHT, Chairman.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 24, 1776.

SIR: I received yours of 22d from Amboy, and waited immediately on the Provincial Congress: they gave me the enclosed invoice of articles they had forwarded on for Albany. Most of the articles General Schuyler wrote for I have already shipped, and will this day proceed up the river. Colonel Knox has sent two conductors to King's Bridge, to pick out twelve cannon suitable for the vessels, and have them ready by the time the vessel gets up.

Last evening came to hand by Mr. Cobbit, the enclosed letter and invoice from General Ward, which I thought proper to keep by me till this morning, as Mr. Cobbit had an exact copy of it with him; many of the articles Colonel Knox says he wants very much for the Artillery.

The Commissary has shipped from this place seventeen hundred barrels of pork for Albany, since the 5th of April. Three large vessels are hourly expected in from Connecticut, loaded with pork, part of which he says shall be forwarded on for Albany immediately on its arrival.

We have no lead to spare in this place. Colonel Knox informs me there is a great plenty at Boston. I have sent express to General Ward for two tons to be sent immediately on; likewise Colonel Putnam's demand, which I now enclose.

The express is just setting off for Albany; by him I shall advise General Schuyler of what I have sent forward to him. We are completing our works as fast as possible. Shall endeavour to comply with all your orders.

I am, with respect and esteem, your Excellency's most obedient, most humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. I have just received advice that Captain McKay and his servant both deserted from Hartford last Sunday evening; it is suspected he is gone for Canada.

Invoice of Articles forwarded to ALBANY.

Blocks complete for two Vessels on Lake Champlain, and for two Periaugurs:

171 feet of Blocks, 4 Serving Mallets, 5 dozen of Pearl Trucks; amount £25 16 9.

Rigging mentioned in a letter of Captain Varick, as requested by General Schuyler:

	Cwt.	qr.	lb.
6 coils Spun Yarn, - - - - -	7	2	26
2 Jib-Stays, 6½ inches, 16 fathoms, 3 2 6	3	2	6
200 fathoms 2-inch Rope, in 4 coils, 3 0 1	3	0	1
200 fathoms 2½-inch Rope, in 2 coils, 3 1 19	3	1	19
100 fathoms 3-inch Rope, in 1 coil, 2 2 24	2	2	24
2 coils Ratline, - - - - -	1	1	10
3½ inch Stays, - - - - -	1	0	7
	22	3	10
1 dozen white Hamberline; 12 dozen Marline and Houseline - - - - -
5 pieces, 192½ yards, English Duck; amount £28 18 3.

The above articles were desired by a letter from Captain Varick, by General Schuyler's order. That letter was dated 2d May, and the whole went to Albany in a vessel, which sailed from New-York on the morning of the 12th May, directed to Walter Livingston, Esq.

The Congress have not any Lead, and know not how to obtain it, but what remains in and on the dwelling-houses.

Colonel Malcolm has Rigging; Holland Duck, at £9, and Raven's Duck, are in town, and may be purchased if wanted.

Colonel Putnam's (Engineer) demand from the invoice of goods lately taken, and carried into Boston:

Sand-bags, the whole; Mantelets of cured Hides, 100; Broad-Axes, 100; Hand-Hammers, 50; Grind-Stones, 15; Hand-Hatchets, 500; Felling-Axes, 300; Hand-Bills, 500; Spades, 1000; Shovels, 500; Carpenters' Tools, the whole the invoice contains.

Plan for General PUTNAM's consideration, to employ the Armed Vessels under his command, and which will prevent the King's Ships being supplied with fresh Provision by the enemies of AMERICA; likewise being very useful to protect the vessels bound here with Ammunition, and distress those bound here with Stores from GREAT BRITAIN and WEST-INDIA ISLANDS, which are now on their way for this Port.

First. Colonel Tupper, commanding the sloop Hector, with a number of whale-boats, to protect the western shore, from Amboy down to Sandy-Hook.

Second. The armed schooner Mifflin, with four whale-boats, to attend Barren Island and Hog-Island Inlet, near Rockaway.

Third. The armed sloop General Schuyler, with two whale-boats, to attend the Inlet at Fire-Island, where vessels of ten feet water may go in, and which lies near about the middle of the south side of Long-Island.

Fourth. The armed schooner General Putnam to proceed down to Shrewsbury Inlet, Shark River, and Cranberry Inlet, even down to Egg-Harbour, on the western shore, near one hundred and forty miles range from Sandy-Hook; which will protect the western coast, and having several inlets to run the vessel in, in case they are overmatched; and which will be very useful to the vessels now expected there with ammunition.

General Putnam, in concurrence with the Committee and Colonel Tupper, approves of the within plan.

S. B. WEBB, A. D. C.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, May 24, 1776.

SIR: It has been represented to me by Colonel Knox, commanding officer of the Continental Artillery, that there is an old house almost in ruins, so situated that in case it should take fire it would greatly endanger the great laboratory at the new Bridewell, in the Common, where a very large proportion of the fixed ammunition of the Army is now lodged; and that the danger is greatly increased by the house being possessed by some paupers, who have fire in the house frequently at night as well as by day. The property of the house is of so little value, and of so little use, that there can be no inducement to keep it at so great a risk. I must therefore hope the Congress will take proper measures for its removal.

I am your most humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To the President of the Congress at New-York.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, May 24, 1776.

DEAR SIR: On the 22d I was honoured with your Excellency's favour of the 17th instant; and the same evening the nails and lead arrived here; thirty-one boxes of the latter I gave in charge to Colonel Winds, who left this with his regiment yesterday morning; the remainder is gone with General Sullivan, who sailed hence with Irvine's and Wayne's at eight this morning. Dayton's is not returned from Tryon County; nor have I heard what is doing there. I have batteaus sufficient to move him, but shall construct fifty more, to be employed on Lake George and Lake Champlain, in transporting provisions, &c., for the Army.

I enclose your Excellency an estimate of the men necessary to be employed in transporting and guarding the provisions between Albany and Canada; but if flour can be procured there, nearly one-half of the number of men mentioned for the batteau service may be dispensed with, when a considerable stock is laid in, but even then I shall not have numbers sufficient, with Van Schaick's and Wynkoop's, to clear Wood Creek, cut the roads, repair Ticonderoga, and do the variety of work necessary in this quarter. I must therefore beg for a reinforcement.

Two Mohawk Indians came on the 21st to the landing, at the north end of Lake George, and after inquiring what news, and where the commanding officer at Ticonderoga kept, they said they were going to see him; but they soon took another route to the westward. We suppose these to be some of the Indians who went with Sir John Johnson. We have small scouting parties out; but if we should discover them, we are unable to send after them, as we have so few men here.

Mr. McNeil, who left St. Johns on Friday last, informs me that the Eighth Regiment and a number of Indians were coming down the St. Lawrence, and that a reinforcement was ordered to Colonel Bedel, who is at the Cedars; and that Warner's Green-Mountain Boys were also to go up there.

As Ticonderoga is to be repaired, an Engineer will be wanted, and none is to be procured here.

Not having received a line from Mr. Price to advise me of what flour can be procured in Canada, I have thought it expedient, lest the Army should suffer, to order up a quantity. About three hundred barrels are gone on since the 13th instant, and eleven hundred and ninety-one of pork, one hundred and fifteen of which reached St. Johns on the 17th in the morning, and I believe about a like quantity arrived there on each of the four succeeding days, so that all my fears of the Army's starving are vanished.

I have this afternoon experienced a very severe fit of the ague. I was in hopes it had taken its farewell for this season. I shall vigorously attack it with the bark, and hope to eradicate it by that means.

If such a number of British and foreign troops are destined for Canada as is said, more of ours will be wanted there, and very soon too.

I am, most respectfully, dear sir, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

An estimate of the number of Men necessary to transport Provisions for ten thousand men from ALBANY to CANADA, specifying the manner in which it is conveyed.

	Bbls.
Ten thousand weight of Pork, is - - - - -	50
Ten thousand weight of Flour, - - - - -	55
Add for Sundries, - - - - -	15

To leave Albany each day, - - - - - 120

At Albany the provision is put into batteaus capable of carrying thirteen barrels, when Hudson River has plenty of water; but henceforward only ten barrels will be carried in each batteau. Thus it will take twelve batteaus; but I have stationed fourteen between Albany and Half-Moon , (which are about ten miles apart,) to make up for rainy days and accidents; each of these batteaus are navigated by three men, - - - - -	42
From Half-Moon it is conveyed in wagons to Stillwater ; the distance twelve miles.
From Stillwater it is conveyed to Saratoga , twelve miles further in fourteen boats, - - - - -	42
From thence it is conveyed two miles by land to McNeil's , and four batteaus receive it there and convey it to Fort Miller , which is about three and a half miles, - - - - -	12
Here is a land carriage of half a mile above the Falls; thence it is carried in fourteen batteaus, and the river being rapid and incommoded with rifts or small falls, each boat must have four men, the distance about eight miles, - - - - -	56
From Fort Edward it is carried to Fort George by land, distance fifteen miles. On Lake George we have a flat-bottomed boat with sails, which will carry about two hundred barrels; and allowing five days for a trip, she carries at the rate of forty barrels a day, and is navigated by - - - - -	8
Eleven batteaus carrying thirty barrels each, and navigated by seven men, making a trip in four days, convey at the rate of about eighty-two barrels, (the length of the Lake thirty-six miles,) - - - - -	77
From the north end of Fort George it is conveyed one and a half mile by land to Lake Champlain , where it is put in one batteau, making four trips a day, and carried to Ticonderoga , the distance about one and a half mile, - - - - -
On Lake Champlain we have two schooners, a sloop and a row-galley, which may carry about six hundred barrels, and make a voyage to St. Johns (about one hundred and twenty miles) in ten days, which is at the rate of sixty barrels a day, navigated by sailors, assisted by about - - - - -	30
For the remaining sixty barrels per day, it will take twenty batteaus, carrying thirty barrels each, making a voyage in ten days, navigated by eight men each, - - - - -	160
	434
Allow for sick, lame, and lazy, - - - - -	66
	500

A guard at Half-Moon of privates, - - - - -	12
A guard at Stillwater of privates, - - - - -	12
A guard at Saratoga of privates, - - - - -	24
A guard at McNeil's of privates, - - - - -	12
A guard at Fort Miller of privates, - - - - -	12
A guard at Fort Edward of privates, - - - - -	24
A guard at the landing at the north end of Fort George , and at the north side of the Carrying-place, - - - - -	48
A guard at Crown Point , - - - - -	24
Fort George should not by any means have a garrison less than - - - - -	200
Ticonderoga should have a like number, - - - - -	200

For opening Wood Creek and repairing roads, - - 232

1300

Colonel Van Schaick's Regiment by last return, -	425
Colonel Wynkoop's Regiment, supposed at most to be	300
Hired batteauxmen, - - - - -	100
	825

If no flour is to be sent, it will reduce the number of men to be employed in batteaus to about two hundred and fifty. If, therefore, about two hundred and fifty men were sent to these posts, it would suffice.

CAPTAIN WILKINSON TO GENERAL GREENE.

La Chine, May 24, 1776—12 o'clock at night, }
about 12 miles from Montreal. }

MY DEAR SIR: We are now in a sweet situation: a part of the garrison at Detroit, in conjunction with Indians and Canadians, to the amount of one thousand men, have made themselves masters of Colonel Beattie's Regiment, who were stationed about nine miles from this place among the Cedars, and have cut off our friend Major Sherburne, with one hundred and forty men, who were detached to relieve the regiment, which defended itself in a little fort. The Major, with that courage which marks his character, pushed his way, after an engagement of four hours, into the fort, and was afterwards obliged to yield for want of ammunition and provision; since which time, General Arnold, with a handful of men, have been throwing up a breastwork here, in order to stop the enemy's progress; and had, indeed, meditated a plan of attacking them. But alas, so astonishingly are matters conducted in this quarter that, notwithstanding the General's most pressing solicitations, and the length of time since he took possession of this post, we cannot now muster more than four hundred and fifty men, whilst the proximity and movements of the enemy assure us that we shall be attacked within six hours. Their drums were heard this evening at our camp, and a man of mine was shot through the thigh within half a mile of it by an Indian, who took off a prisoner. But the morning dawns—that morn big with the fate of a few, a handful of brave fellows. I shall do my part; but remember, if I fall, I am sacrificed. May God bless you equal to your merits. Vale.

JAMES WILKINSON.

COLONEL SMALLWOOD TO MARYLAND CONVENTION.

Annapolis, May 25, 1776.

SIR: Being conscious that you and the honourable Convention at this time are much engaged in publick business of much consequence, it is with reluctance that I am obliged to address you on business of less importance; but am persuaded, as it will not trespass much on your time, and that it will appear necessary, hope this will, in some measure, excuse the application at this busy period. I find leather breeches and stockings are with much difficulty procured; and those, in all probability, not to be had in such quantities as will be wanting by the fall, when they will be absolutely necessary. This, perhaps, might be remedied by allowing the soldiers breeches and splatterdashes in one piece, made of osnaburghs, which would not only be uniform with the hunting shirts, but a good substitute for leather breeches and stockings, and would enable those who have been furnished, to lay them up for the winter. The soldiery would willingly purchase one pair, if the Convention would allow another, which would enable them to be clean and comfortable.

I am, with much regard, sir, your very obedient, humble servant,

W. SMALLWOOD.

To Thomas Johnson, Esq.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO NORTH-CAROLINA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

[No. 159.]

Annapolis, May 25, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We are informed by Mr. Hugh Young, that five hundred weight of powder, belonging to this Province, arrived at Newbern, in North-Carolina, from St. Eustatia, shipped by Captain Abraham Vanbibber, on board of Captain Luce. You will probably want the powder, therefore we have given him no orders for its removal, but will exchange, if you think proper, for the same quantity, to be delivered us by your Delegates at Philadelphia.

We are, &c.

To the Committee of Safety of North-Carolina.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAINS SAND, RIDLEY, AND MAWBRAY.

[No. 160.]

Annapolis, May 25, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This Board have been requested by the Convention to countermand your orders for sailing. You are therefore not to move from your station till you have further directions; or if you have moved, you are to return into the river Patapasco. We are, &c.

To Captains Sand, Ridley, and Mawbray.

FROM THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, May 25, 1776.

SIR: As the Congress have desired the battalions of Associators in and near the City and Liberties to have their battalions drawn out as early as they can on Monday morning, and propose with the Generals now in town to attend the review at nine o'clock, I have it in command to order you to draw out such of the Continental troops as have arms, and form them in battalion with the Associators aforesaid.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Commanding Officer of the Continental Troops in Philadelphia.

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) ASSOCIATORS.

At a meeting of the Associators belonging to the Second Battalion, and others, inhabitants of the County of Northampton, near to Lawrence Good's Plantation, in Whitehall Township, May 27, 1776—consisting of about nine hundred men.

Major Philip Boehm being unanimously chosen, was seated in the chair.

The Resolve of Congress of the 15th instant being read, was unanimously approved of.

The Protest of the 20th instant, of divers inhabitants of this Province in behalf of themselves and others, to the honourable the Representatives of Pennsylvania, being read, was unanimously approved.

It being moved, and the question thereupon put, Whether the present Government is competent to the exigencies of our affairs? The same was carried in the negative unanimously.

Resolved, unanimously, That a Provincial Convention ought to be chosen by the people, for the express purpose of carrying the said Resolve of Congress into execution.

Resolved, unanimously, That a reasonable number of the Committee of Northampton County be appointed (by the Committee) to meet a number from the other County Committees, at Philadelphia, the 18th day of next month, to hold a Provincial Conference, in order to determine upon the number of which the Convention for framing a new Government shall be composed, and the manner in which they shall be elected.

Resolved, unanimously, That the Chairman be directed to sign these Resolves on behalf of this present assembly.

Resolved, unanimously, That we will support the measures now adopted at all hazards, be the consequences what they may.

PHILIP BOEHM, Chairman.

MEETING OF COMMITTEE OF PRIVATES.

The Committee of Privates of Colonel Bartram Galbraith's Battalion having received the Circular Letter from the Committee of Privates of this City and Liberties, with the copy of the Protest entered into, the Proceedings of the publick meeting held on the 20th ultimo, and the alarm, after due and mature deliberation on the aforesaid papers, unanimously entered into the following Resolutions:

“Elizabethtown, May 27, 1776.

“Resolved, unanimously, That we join with you, gentlemen, in your Protest, and the late Resolve of Congress for totally suppressing all power and authority derived from the Crown of Great Britain, and the contents of the above-mentioned papers.

“Resolved, unanimously, That we will support you in the measures you have now adopted at all hazards, be the consequences what they may, as our views and interests are the same with yours.

JOHN JAMISON, Sen., President.

To the Committee of Privates, Philadelphia.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Committee-Chamber, May 25, 1776.

Whereas information has been given to this Committee, that a report is circulating greatly to the prejudice of John Alsop, Esq., respecting the sale of some Tea, and his refusing Continental Money for the same:

Resolved, That Mr. Duncomb and Mr. Berrian wait upon Mr. Alsop and acquaint him therewith.

Mr. Duncomb and Mr. Berrian having waited upon him, report, That Mr. Alsop is desirous to be called before this Committee, requesting, at the same time, that Colonel Lott and Mr. Van Alstyne (from whom the report was said to have originated) might be ordered to attend also.

Colonel Lott attending this Committee, says: That Mr. Alsop told Mr. Van Alstyne that he could not sell his Tea for less than six shillings per pound, being a company concern. Mr. Van Alstyne replied, What can I get, then, by retailing it again? Mr. Alsop then answered, that he could not tell, but that he had been told some persons charged for bags and twine. That Mr. Alsop said he would be glad to receive one shilling and three pence, hard money, for the Tea, to pay a debt contracted by Congress in Canada. Mr. Lott told him he had about three hundred pounds in New-York and Jersey. Mr. Alsop answered, he would rather take Continental, as that would pass better at Philadelphia.

Mr. Van Alstyne attended this Committee, and says: That he went with Colonel Lott to Mr. Alsop to purchase Tea. That Mr. Alsop told him it was six shillings per pound, half hard money; that he wanted to procure hard money for the Congress, to discharge a debt contracted in Canada; that the examiner asked Mr. Alsop how he could sell the Tea for six shillings, if he paid six shillings for it. That Mr. Alsop made answer, that he might sell the Tea for six shillings, and charge for the bags.

Mr. Alsop being sent for, attended, and confessed the truth of Mr. Lott's evidence, but does not remember that he told Mr. Van Alstyne he might sell the Tea for six shillings, and charge for the bags, as mentioned in Mr. Van Alstyne's information, but might have said he heard it was done; and if he had said so, it was not right, and he was sorry for it.

The Committee taking the above matters into consideration, and debates arising thereon, the following questions were put:

1. Whether Mr. Alsop has violated the Resolve of Congress in the sale of Tea? Carried in the negative.

2. Whether Mr. Alsop has violated the Resolve of Congress in asking hard money on the sale of Tea? Carried in the negative.

Mr. Aher then moved, seconded by Mr. Harper, That the Minutes of this Committee should be published.

Debates arising thereon, and the question being put, was carried in the negative.

Friday, June 7, 1776.

Whereas several persons who have been called before this Committee for violating the Resolves of Congress in the sale of Tea, and depreciating the Continental Paper currency, alleged in their justification the example and recommendation of John Alsop, Esq., a member of the Continental Congress:

Resolved, therefore, That the Minutes of this Committee relative to the inquiry made into Mr. Alsop's conduct, be handed up to the Provincial Congress.

Extract from the Minutes:

JOSH. WINTER, Secretary.

WILLIAM SMITH TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Manor of St. George, May 25, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee of Brookhaven, Manor of St. George, and Patentship of Meritches, met the 23d instant. A number of evidences being sworn, it appeared manifest to the meeting that there was a communication from Winthrop's Patent and the ships of war lying at the Hook; it appeared also one Gyer, a skipper, had carried off a number of men—at least eight or ten—last Saturday night, the most of them from Connecticut or Westchester, who had been skulking in the woods a considerable time before they went off. There are missing from that patent at least three or four persons, who are supposed to be gone with them—in particular, one Fountain, a gunsmith. Gyer has been several trips out at the Inlet, and when returned gave no satisfactory account to those who asked him where he had been, and, it is thought, has carried people to the men-of-war before, as people have come from the main shore to Stony-Brook, and then gone through the woods to Winthrop's Patent: men have been seen with arms who were unknown to the inhabitants, and have given so great uneasiness to the people that they have called on the Minute-men and Militia for assistance: there have been fifteen Minute-men stationed there since last Monday. It is suspected, besides men, they get from that quarter water, oysters, and clams, which are there in the greatest plenty. As the Minute-men are such persons who are carrying on business in the farming way, and cannot leave home without almost, if not quite, ruining themselves and families, I was ordered by letter to lay the affair before the Congress, not doubting (if they thought proper) they would report the same to the Commander-in-Chief. It was thought by the Committee that a small armed vessel stationed at or near the Inlet (where the sounding is, as I am informed, from eight to twelve feet) would answer the purpose best. People in these parts are much alarmed, especially since we now know that they have on board the men-of-war those who are thoroughly acquainted with the navigation of the South Bay. Pray let us hear from you soon. This Committee have collected between forty and fifty guns for the use of troops, which are much better than I could expect, and will soon be repaired. The greatest sticklers for Ministerial measures step toward the Continental as fast as could be expected in this quarter.

Gentlemen, I am, with the greatest respect, your very humble servant,

WILLIAM SMITH.

To the Provincial Congress now sitting in New-York.

At a meeting of the Joint Committee of Brookhaven, Manor of St. George, and Patentship of Meritches, convened on the 13th of May, 1776, John Woodhull, Esquire, in the chair, and twenty Members present: Sundry evidences being called to discover the secret plots and misconduct of sundry evil-minded persons:

Mr. Daniel Nash, being sworn, deposeth, That he heard Andrew Patchin say, as he was going home from the general training, the Congress goes on as they ought not to do, and damned the Congress in all their unlawful proceedings, and used much more unfriendly discourse.

Mr. Nathaniel Finch, being sworn, deposeth, That he heard Andrew Patchin damn the Congress, and used them with very abusive language, and was a mind that all present (being a considerable number) should agree with him to resist and oppose the Congress, and all military officers, and others holding commissions under the Congress; he particularly damned Colonel William Floyd, saying he came home from the Congress on purpose to make disturbance, and the devil would have him, for he would go to hell for what he had done, and so would Captain Nathan Rose and Lieutenant William Baker, and persuaded all present to agree to go to no more trainings, saying neither he nor any of his should, and said all those who would not so agree were worse than Infidels.

At another meeting of the Committee aforesaid, convened on the 23d of May, 1776, John Woodhull, Chairman, and sixteen Members present:

Mr. Joseph Ruland, being sworn, deposeth, That he being with his vessel, a few days past, in the South Bay, against Hempstead, and being on shore, a man (to him a stranger) offered him (the said Ruland) nine dollars to carry him (the said stranger) on board the ship Dutchess of Gordon, to see Governour Tryon; and that said stranger inquired of him (the said Ruland) if he knew one Nathan Gyer, of Blue-Point; and so deponent answered Yes; upon which said stranger asked him if there were not some men with said Gyer, and if said Gyer had not carried them on board the ships of war, saying those men were his, belonging to his company, which he said was then full; to which said Ruland answered, That there was a considerable number of men (said to be from Connecticut) in the neighbourhood of said Gyer, and he believed Gyer had carried them off in his boat, but he did not know where.

Mr. Henry Hulse, Junior, being sworn, deposeth, That he was an apprentice to Stephen Fountain, who was gone from home, and carried with him his gun and powder, and had sent him (the deponent) home to his father's, to stay until times were settled; and that a number of New-England people had staid in that neighbourhood, being to him strangers, who were often in private conference, in private places, with said Fountain, and would not let him (the deponent) come near them, nor hear what they said; and that they are now all gone, he supposeth, in company with Stephen Fountain.

Mr. Seth Scribner, being sworn, deposeth, That Lazarus Gyer (son of Nathan Gyer) came to his house and staid all night with his brother, Ebenezer Scribner, and were much together in private, and that now they are both missing, and that a number of others are gone also, namely, Eliakim Jones, Stephen Fountain, Jonathan Baker, Junior, Joseph Scribner, Andrew Patchin, and others, but he knows not where, and says that if there were any private plots among them, they would not, he supposeth, let him know of it.

Mr. John Smith, of Winthrop's Patent, deposeth, That Nathan Gyer and his wife told him (the said John Smith) that Captain Jonathan Baker had urged said Gyer to go off speedily with his vessel, lest he should be taken; and that said Baker told said Gyer he came to him on purpose to hurry him (the said Gyer) off, lest a mob (meaning a party of Minute-men sent by the Committee) would catch him, this being the last time said Gyer went from Blue-Point with his vessel; and that the time before, he (the said Gyer) told the deponent that said Baker, as a Committee-man, gave him (the said Gyer) liberty to go out with his vessel, and hurried him away, saying Humphrey Avery, one of the members of this Committee, had a warrant from this Committee for him (the said Gyer).

Mr. Daniel Davis, Junior, being sworn, deposeth, That he was, not long since, at the south side of the Island, in company with Captain Jonathan Baker, whom he heard say he must go up and see the Tories; and, being in discourse, one word brought on another, until Captain Jonathan Baker said, with a resolute voice and in a disaffected manner, that if the Congress threw off dependance upon Great Britain, he would oppose them, and swore, by the living God who made him, he would beat up for volunteers to raise a company to oppose the Congress in that case, and would do it if they quartered or cut him in inch pieces for so doing.

At another meeting of the said Committee, assembled on the 4th of June, 1776, fifteen Members being present, and Josiah Smith being chosen Chairman pro tempore:

Mr. Ananias Smith, being sworn, deposeth, That Captain Jonathan Baker, in discourse with him, owned he gave

Nathan Gyer liberty to go out with his vessel the last time but one, and that said Gyer and his wife told him so too; and that when said Gyer was getting ready to go the last time, he (the deponent) was very uneasy, having heard very credibly that several strangers were in the place, whom he feared said Gyer had agreed to carry on board the ships of war, and went to Mr. Humphrey Avery to have the vessel of said Gyer prevented from going out; which not being likely to be effected, he, to be further satisfied, went and watched the shore until about nine or ten o'clock in the evening, when he saw the boat of Captain Jonathan Baker go from Daniel Nash's Landing, (whom he expected had harboured these Tory strangers,) full of men, (as he took it,) and went round until against the house of Nathan Gyer, and alongside of said Gyer's vessel, which he thinks they went on board of, and thereupon heard a gun fired on board said vessel, which he supposeth was a token for said Gyer and others to know they were got on board, and for them to come also. And said deponent saith, that the wife of said Gyer told him since that her husband, with two strangers, and others, went out of the house to go on board the same time the said gun was fired; and that, in justification of her husband, she said that Captain Jonathan Baker, one of the Committee, had given her husband leave and liberty to go this last time with his vessel and passengers; and the deponent declares, that from the foregoing, and the manner and situation in which he saw the boat of Captain Jonathan Baker next morning, and many other circumstances which were to him very strong and convincing, he judges, and does verily believe, that Captain Jonathan Baker lent his boat for that purpose. And the said Ananias Smith doth further declare, that he is a neighbour to Captain Jonathan Baker, and hath daily observed his language, manner of deportment, and general conduct, and doth seriously believe, from what he has seen of him, and from his general character, that he hath, for months past, spent the chief of his time in promoting of and carrying on a correspondence with our common enemies, and helping such amongst us to go on board the King's ships of war, and daily busy in promoting disaffection amongst the inhabitants to the cause of America, and entirely believes him to be our inveterate enemy; and hath heard him say there was no order in this Committee, (of which he was a member,) nor ever had been.

Ephraim Marvin, Adjutant, being sworn, deposeth, That being sent by this Committee to Rockaway, to see whose guns were on board the vessel of Nathan Gyer when taken there by the Riflemen, and to apprehend Captain Jonathan Baker, and others, and give orders to others to apprehend and secure them, if hereafter to be found, the deponent saith, that on his way thither he saw the horse of said Baker tied behind the house of Daniel Hart, and the deponent being alone, and apprehending said Hart would rescue said Baker from him (the deponent) should he attempt to imprison him, therefore the deponent went forward without discovering himself until he came to the Riflemen at Rockaway, who let him go on board the vessel of Nathan Gyer, which they had there taken with Nathan Gyer, Lazarus Gyer, and Ebenezer Scribner on board; and the Riflemen showed him a number of guns taken on board, from which they conjectured others had escaped from on board before they had taken the vessel; and the deponent saith, that upon examining and viewing the guns, he saw the guns belonging to and commonly used by Jonathan Baker aforesaid and Stephen Fountain, also the guns of Eliakim Jones and Joseph Scribner, and a number of other guns that he did not know, one of which was a Holland gun, with the upper side of the barrel flat from the lock to near the muzzle, and another that was a short musket with a brass round the stock below the lock. And the said deponent saith, that with three Riflemen, he went in pursuit of said Baker; and coming near the house of James Morris, he saw said Baker start from the fore door, and run, as he supposeth, through the house, and from the back door northward towards the woods, but was caught by the Rifle Sergeant. And the said deponent declares that, from the best circumstances he could learn, said Baker and Fountain, and all the above-named men, with many others, had been on board the vessel of Nathan Gyer—in her to have a passage to the ships of war in the King's service.

Upon Adjutant Marvin's declaring that the gun of Captain Jonathan Baker was amongst those taken on board the vessel of Nathan Gyer, Captain Baker said he did not know how it came there, and that this was the first he knew or had heard of his gun's being from home, and said it was then in his house. Upon which it was alleged, that before the sailing of Gyer's vessel, he had told Jehiel Weed (not now present) that he was going across his corn, and saw crows pulling it up, and went into the house for his gun, and it was gone, but who took her he did not know nor could not find out, but wished he could, saying he would not take ten dollars for it; which allegation said Baker offered to declare was false, and that said Weed, if present, would say so too, and so settle the truth of the dispute.

Mr. Josiah Saturly was called and sworn, and deposeth, That being at the house of Justice Samuel Tobey, on the 23d of May, 1776, he heard Captain Jonathan Baker there tell Jehiel Weed that he was going, the other day, across his corn, and seeing the crows pulling it up, went into the house to get his gun, and it was gone, but who took it he said he did not know, but wished he did, saying he would not take ten dollars for it.

Mr. Samuel Saturly saith, after being sworn, That he was also present, and heard the same discourse of Captain Jonathan Baker, as above related by Josiah Saturly.

Ensign Benjamin Woodhull, being sworn, deposeth, That William Albertson, of Metchaboniack, on his return from Queen's County, told the deponent that he there met Captain Jonathan Baker, who, after other discourse, asked said Albertson if he knew Ludlee, the boatman, at Metchaboniack, and if he would hire said Ludlee and his periaugur for the use of some gentlemen belonging towards the west end of Long-Island; and that said Albertson said he told said Baker he did not think Ludlee would be hired with his boat, as the times were very difficult; and that said Baker said, tell him to apply to me, and I will insure her; this being after the vessel of Nathan Gyer was taken at Rockaway.

Mr. Garret Degroat, being sworn, deposeth, That while he was a soldier he had, with Francis Bartoe, the care of Captain Jonathan Baker, being ordered to keep him in custody; and soon after taken, said Baker, upon coming to the fire in the house of Justice Samuel Tobey, he saw said Baker pull a paper out of his pocket, saying it was not a letter he had received from the men of war; and the deponent seeming to hesitate or scruple the truth of his word, thereupon the said Baker offered to let said deponent read it, but as the deponent reached out his hand to receive it to read, said Baker flung it into the fire, saying, You shall not read it, for it is only a letter I received from Mr. William Smith; and the deponent saith that the writing was large and black, but saith he did not know the handwriting, neither did he read a word of it.

Mr. Francis Bartoe, being sworn, saith he only, besides Garret Degroat, was present when Captain Baker burnt the letter or paper as related by said Garret Degroat, and that he (the said Bartoe) was not very near to nor in reach of said Baker when he burnt said letter, nor observed whether it was large or small writing, nor whether there was much or little of it, but saw it burn.

Mr. Philip Akely, being sworn, deposeth, That his son, John Akely, is from home, he knows not where nor what after, and hath not seen him since Friday last; he says his son seldom goes much abroad, and that the last time he was from home before now, he was not gone more than six days, if so long; and that his son's gun is a short musket, with a brass round the stock below the lock, and agrees with the description Adjutant Marvin gave of one he saw amongst those taken on board the vessel of Nathan Gyer, and the last time he saw it or knew of it was some time past, when it was carried to the shop of Stephen Fountain to be repaired.

Mr. Stephen Akely, being sworn, deposeth, That Benjamin Smith has been much abroad lately, and that the last time he came home he had been gone several days, and he understands he is gone again, and says it was reported he went to go on board the ships of war; he saith the gun of this Benjamin Smith (son of John Smith) is such an one as Adjutant Marvin described on board the vessel of Nathan Gyer when taken, having the upper side of the barrel flat from the lock to near the muzzle, and is what is called a Holland gun.

Alexander Smith doth declare the same.

Lieutenant William Clarke, being sworn, deposeth, That from all appearances and circumstances, and what he could learn, Stephen Fountain went on board the vessel of Nathan Gyer for a passage to the ships of war as an enemy to his country.

Mrs. Hannah Hawkins, being sworn, deposeth, That Captain Jonathan Baker came to their house when her husband was gone abroad, and she was telling him that she was very uneasy about the times, and amongst other things, she asked him, Supposing there are Tories amongst us when the King's troops shall come, how will they get to them? To which he answered, That one hundred and forty had asked him that question already; he also said, Tell your husband to come and see me, and do you come also; he also said, He advised all the Tories to obey all orders of the Committee, and sign all their papers whatever, and by all means be still at present; she saith that she, at that time, did not think he meant any harm.

Mr. Robert Homan, being sworn, deposeth, That Captain Jonathan Baker came to his house, and asked him if he would not come down with Mr. Samuel Conkling, and help take the guard of Minute-men stationed at Blue-Point, saying it was a poor notion of the Committee to send them there; and said that as they were young men that did not know their duty, he believed a few old men would take their guns from them all.

Mr. Matthew Beall, being sworn, deposeth, That the common report of Captain Jonathan Baker is, that he is an unfriendly person to the common cause of America; yet saith he doth not know him to be an enemy, yet he does verily believe him one, from circumstances he hath observed in his deportment, and the manner of his spending his time amongst others who bear the same unfriendly character.

Mr. Humphrey Avery, being sworn, deposeth, That he knows nothing of Captain Jonathan Baker of his own absolute knowledge that does positively prove him an enemy to his country, but that he hath observed many circumstances in his behaviour that hath given him (the deponent) strong suspicion that he is an enemy to his country, and is so deemed by common report; he saith that he heard said Baker say there was no order in the Committee, and despised their conduct.

This may certify, that the thirteen foregoing pages consists of true copies of the evidence of the twenty-two aforementioned witnesses, who were all regularly sworn and examined before the Joint Committee of Brookhaven, Manor of Saint George, and Patentship of Meriches, and the evidence of each witness recorded upon the Record of said Committee; and that at the examination of each of said witnesses, the sum and substance of what each declared was then so carefully recorded as that, upon distinctly reading to each witness what was recorded as his or her evidence, each of them declared that the Record so read was truth, and agreeable to their respective meanings.

Attest:

EBENEZER DAYTON,
Clerk of the said Committee.

June 14, 1776.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Albany Committee-Chamber, May 25, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: We enclose you a copy of a letter from the Committee of Tryon, and our answer thereto; from which you will perceive that we have promised them your answer, with which we beg to be favoured for that purpose as soon as convenient, or that you would forward it to them, as you think proper.

We are, sir, with much esteem, your most obedient, humble servants,

ABRAHAM YATES, Jun., Chairman.

To General Schuyler.

German Flats, May 23, 1776.

SIR: This is to acquaint you that we did stop all the batteaus from here to Stamwix, and found the chief part of them is for supply for the garrison, as they are loaded with loaf-sugar, green tea, shoes, soap, spirits, wine, brown sugar, &c., and such articles are no Indian supply; but by this they have a very small trifle of wampurn, which is likely for Indian affairs, but only for a scheme, under the pretext that they may pass with the rest; and we shall leave it to your judgment whether we shall let the fort be supplied as our enemies, or we shall do the best for the country; and we expect a speedy answer what to do in so critical an affair.

And remain, with all respect, your most obedient, humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

FREDERICK FOX.

To the Commissioners of Indian Affairs.

—
MR. ROBERT YATES:

SIR: Please to deliver the within letter to the Committee of Albany, and desire their advice to the Committee of German Flats, and you will oblige, sir, your most humble servant,

VOLKERT P. DOUW.

—
Albany Committee-Chamber, May 25, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have received your favour of the 23d instant. By the passes the traders have obtained, they were only to carry merchandise to trade with the Indians. You have therefore done well to stop them, as they had with them necessaries for the supply of the garrison. Your representation of this matter we shall transmit to General Schuyler immediately; however, we are of opinion, in case they leave the necessaries for the garrison, that you may let them pass with such merchandise as is manifestly intended for trade with the Indians. The moment we receive the General's answer, we shall transmit it to you for your further guide.

True copies. Attest:

MATTHEW VISSCHER, Secretary.

To the Committee, German Flats.

ELDAD TAYLOR TO BENJAMIN LINCOLN.

Westfield, May 25, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: As soon as I received the publick moneys for the troops at Canada, I proceeded on my journey, arrived safe at Westfield, and this week I continued my journey through the green-woods to Barrenton, where I intended to strengthen my guard; but hearing that General Schuyler was not at Albany, but was gone up to the Lake, I doubted of the propriety of delivering the money to any other person, as my order was to deliver it to Mr. Schuyler and take duplicate receipts of it; and travelling now appearing more dangerous than common, I immediately sent for Colonel Mark Hopkins and Doctor Whiting, to advise with. Mr. Hopkins came to see me soon, from whom I received the intelligence of a most hellish plot laid against the Province, as was supposed; which the Committees of the whole County of Berkshire were then and had been some days sitting to search into, and to see what further discoveries might be made. Two persons, who had been in the Army, were in the plot—one was a Sergeant and the other an Ensign. The manner of their leaving the Army I must omit for brevity's sake; but they say, on examination, as I was informed by Colonel Hopkins, that they heard one Brown, an officer, say that there were but two persons in the York Congress but what were Tories, and they had communication with the Asia; and that the York forces were to be stationed, as many as possible, in a line of forts from Montreal to York, on Hudson's River, to cut off our communication with the Southern Governments as soon as matters were ripe, and the Ministerial troops were advanced up Canada River. The said evidences further say that most of the towns on Hudson's River were in the combination, and then the King's ships might proceed up said river with safety.

How far this intelligence may be depended upon I cannot say, but there appears to be much secret riding in the night amongst the Tories. The upper part of Berkshire has set up a night-watch. The said watch took up McKay, that broke his parole and absconded from Hartford, with one John Graves, from Pittsfield, who went to Hartford, as was supposed, and went through Westfield in the night and through the woods, as pilot to McKay. They sent them to Hartford. John Johnson and the Albany Tories,

Ransler and others, have fled to the westward, supposed to gather the Indians, and go down the St. Lawrence River and meet the King's forces.

Upon mature consideration, with advice of Doctor Whiting, I proceeded no farther with the money, but committed it into the care of Colonel Hopkins, until I might have advice from the Council whether to proceed and deliver the money to any other person besides Mr. Schuyler, as there are Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Trumbull in Albany. If I must proceed to the Lake, I must have a strong guard. I wait with hopes of speedy instructions and orders what to do. It gives me pain to have the care of so much money.

Query. Whether it is advisable to send the money until a further discovery or examination into the hellish plot be made, though I doubt not but the money is much wanted with the soldiers.

With the highest regard, sir, I am your Honour's most humble servant,

ELDAD TAYLOR.

To the Hon. Benjamin Lincoln, or the Hon. Joseph Palmer, at Watertown or Boston.

To the Honourable Council and the Great and General Court of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in NEW-ENGLAND:

These may inform your Honours, that whereas Stephen Parker went from Machias, with letters of recommendation from the Chairman of the Committee, to procure, if possible, provisions for Machias aforesaid; and being then in great want, he proceeded to Philadelphia, as he informs, and proves by letters brought, without any success; and on his return back, being at Nantucket, he met with one Mr. Timothy Fitch, with whom he says he agreed to send provisions to Machias and take lumber therefor, in case that liberty could be obtained for the said Fitch to send the lumber from Machias to the West-Indies. On account of which he, the said Parker, says that he sent from Nantucket to Watertown in order to obtain liberty of your Honours to trade to the West-Indies, but was advised not to mention it; and then he, the said Parker, returned back to Nantucket, and engaged to take a brig belonging to the said Fitch and proceed with her to Cape Passue, in the Province of Nova-Scotia, and there to sell off the provisions and buy a load of fish for the said brig, and procure a Nova-Scotia register; which, he says, he went to Halifax and obtained, and then ordered the said brig to proceed to Jamaica. But as there was some dispute about provisions being carried out of Nantucket without a permit from some of the Committees on the continent, said Parker applied, as we have been informed, to the Committee of Falmouth for a permit, which was granted accordingly, for the said Parker to bring provisions to Machias aforesaid, and then he proceeded to Cape Passue as aforesaid, and dealt as aforesaid, without, as he saith, any intent of bringing the said provisions to Machias, except his commissions on the cargo, which he has actually brought in the whole or in part.

And for the aforesaid reasons we have thought proper to take the said Parker's notes of hand, which he had by him, into our possession, and them safe to keep for security that he should not depart this place until your Honours' pleasure is known; and therefore we take this opportunity to inform your Honours of our proceedings, and hope your Honours will give us further directions, as you, in your wisdom, shall think best for the peace and welfare of the United Colonies. The securities taken amount to one hundred and eighty-seven pounds fifteen shillings and nine pence. We thought best to inform your Honours, and not to send the person without it is required; and we shall be always ready and will cheerfully obey your Honours' commands; and any advice your Honours may think fit to give us will be gratefully acknowledged by your humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM TUPPER, Clerk.

Machias, May 25, A. D. 1776.

Whitehall, June 24, 1776.

The following letter from General Carleton to Lord George Germaine, was this morning received by Lieutenant

Fooks, of his Majesty's ship Lizard, arrived from Quebeck in the Hope transport:

On board the Maria, opposite St. Ann's, May 25, 1776.

MY LORD: I have this moment received an account from Captain Forster, that he, with a detachment of the Eighth Regiment, some Canadians, and a number of Indians, had taken, the 19th instant, a fort at the Cedars, two pieces of cannon, and three hundred and ninety Rebels, prisoners at discretion. The day following, a party of one hundred and twenty Rebels crossed from the Island of Montreal to Kinchin; those were attacked by Messrs. Lorimer and Mongtany, defeated and taken.

The small force that is already arrived is drawing nearer to the Rebels, to see if any assistance can be given to the King's good subjects above, who have begun rather sooner than I could have wished. The Rebels are still numerous in the Province, and talk of large reinforcements.

I am, &c.,

GUY CARLETON.

Lieutenant Fooks sailed from Quebeck on the afternoon of the 26th of May, and gives an account that before his departure some Indians had arrived from the party at the Cedars, about eight leagues from Montreal, who informed him that the Indians of the Western Confederacy were in motion to join the King's troops, and that a very large body of them were within three days' march of the Cedars. He adds, that the same night he left Quebeck he met the transports with the British Regiments from Ireland, under convoy of the Carrysfort and Pearl, and had no doubt of their arriving at Quebeck the next morning; and that, on his arrival at the Isle of Coudre on the 28th, he found the transports with the Brunswick troops, under convoy of the Juno and Blonde, at anchor, waiting the return of tide, in order to proceed up to Quebeck, the wind being then unfavourable; but that Lieutenant-General Burgoyne was gone before in the Surprise frigate, and probably would land at Quebeck on the evening of the 26th.

EDMUND PENDLETON TO MARYLAND CONVENTION.

Williamsburgh, May 26, 1776.

SIR: On Wednesday last Lord Dunmore and the fleet at Norfolk quitted that station and fell down into Hampton Roads, where they remained till yesterday evening, when they got under way, apparently intending out to sea; but this morning were discovered by our look-outs to have turned up the bay, and had passed the mouth of York River. I this moment received the intelligence, and thought it might be useful to communicate it to you by express, that you might not mistake it for some other armament. We have reason to believe they are much in want of provisions, and also that they are but weakly manned, as they burnt several small vessels before they left Norfolk, and three of a large size just before they quitted the road.

The Roebuck is returned from Delaware, and is with this fleet.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient,

EDMUND PENDLETON.

To the Hon. the President of the Convention of Maryland.

THOMAS DORSEY TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

May 26, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: When I was at Annapolis a few days past, there was a memorial lodged with the Convention by Mr. Henry Ridgely, reflecting greatly on my honour. I returned home to get acquainted with the charge, that I might have the charger summoned to support his assertion; the Convention rising before I could return, I apprehend the business will lay before your Honours. It is of such a nature that I hope it will not pass unnoticed by your Honours. If the charge alleged should be fixed, I shall expect to be treated with ignominy and dishonour. The charge is infamous. You will be pleased to let me know when it will be taken under consideration, that I may prepare to defend myself. The sooner your Honours will bring it to issue, the more thankful I shall be. I shall be greatly obliged for a copy of the memorial.

I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

THOMAS DORSEY.

To the Honourable Council of Safety of Maryland.

GEORGE BRENT TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

May 26, 1776.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: As I conceive it will be of the highest importance to the safety and welfare of the people in Skipton District, that a small quantity of powder and lead be lodged there, in case of an Indian war, and as it is most probable the same may happen this summer from our ill success against Quebeck, I beg that two hundred pounds of powder, and a proportional quantity of lead, may be sent to the Committee of that District, to be in readiness for the above-mentioned contingency.

I am, honourable gentlemen, your obedient servant,
GEORGE BRENT.

To the Honourable Council of Safety of Maryland.

FROM THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, May 26, 1776.

SIR: To prevent any mistake in consequence of my letter to you of yesterday's date, I am to inform you that the Battalions of Associators are to form distinct from your Corps, and to be solely commanded by their own officers. This you will please to notice, and post your troops in the field in such order as not to interfere with the disposition of the city troops.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Officer commanding the Continental Troops in Philadelphia.

CAPTAIN HAMILTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, May 26, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I take the liberty to request your attention to a few particulars, which will be of considerable importance to the future progress of the company under my command; and I shall be much obliged to you for as speedy a determination concerning them as you can conveniently give.

The most material is respecting the pay. Our company, by their articles, are to be subject to the same regulations, and to receive the same pay, as the Continental Artillery. Hitherto I have conformed to the standard laid down in the Journal of the Congress, published the 10th May, 1775; but I am well informed that, by some later regulation, the pay of the Artillery has been augmented, and now stands according to the following rates:

Captain, -	£10 13 4	Bombardiers, -	£3 1 4
Captain-Lieut.,	8 0 0	Gunners, -	3 0 0
Lieuts., each, -	7 6 8	Matrosses, -	2 17 4
Sergeants, -	3 6 8	Drummers and	} 3 0 0
Corporals, -	3 1 4	Fifers, -

By comparing these with my pay-rolls you will discover a considerable difference; and I doubt not you will be easily sensible that such a difference should not exist.

I am not personally interested in having an augmentation agreeable to the above rates, because my own pay will remain the same that it now is; but I make this application on behalf of the company, as I am fully convinced such a disadvantageous distinction will have a very pernicious effect on the minds and behaviour of the men. They do the same duty with the other companies, and think themselves entitled to the same pay. They have been already comparing accounts, and many marks of discontent have lately appeared on this score. As to the circumstance of our being confined to the defence of the Colony, it will have little or no weight; for there are but few in the company who would not as willingly leave the Colony, on any necessary expedition, as stay in it, and they will not therefore think it reasonable to have their pay curtailed on such a consideration.

Captain Beauman, I understand, enlisted all his men on the above terms; and this makes it very difficult for me to get a single recruit; for men will naturally go to those who pay them best. On this account, I should wish to be immediately authorized to offer the same pay to all who may incline to enlist.

The next thing I should wish to know is, whether I might be allowed any actual expenses that might attend the enlistment of men, should I send into the country for that purpose. The expense would not be great, and it would enable me to complete my company at once, and bring it the sooner into proper order and discipline.

Also, I should be glad to be informed if my company is to be allowed the frock, which is given to the other troops as a bounty. This frock will be extremely serviceable in summer, while the men are on fatigue, and would put it in their power to save their uniform much longer.

I am, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your most obedient servant,

A. HAMILTON, Captain.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, May 26, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Since my last of the 24th, I have received sundry letters from Canada, of which the enclosed are copies.

The five batteaus sent with provisions on the 14th, arrived at St. Johns on the 17th, as I have already observed to your Excellency in my last. I have now three hundred barrels of pork here, part of which will go in the large boat, which I momentarily expect; but I cannot send any in batteaus for want of men, nor can Colonel Wynkoop (to whom I sent for two companies) supply any without stopping all there. I have sent for troops to Albany, but do not expect to procure many.

Mr. Deane, who left Montreal on Thursday last, informs me that a part of the Eighth Regiment, with about one hundred and seventy Indians, had actually arrived near the Cedars; that the Caughnawagas are friendly, but refuse to take up arms in our favour.

I wish it could be so managed that the Indians, on their visit to your Excellency, were detained as long as possible, and by some means or other induced to go to Philadelphia and other places, that they might serve as a kind of hostages for the peaceable demeanour of the others.

Yesterday, I received the enclosed from Colonel Dayton. From the declaration of Lady Johnson, that we shall soon hear where he is, I suspect he is only gone towards Oswego, to meet with Major Hamilton, who, I find, from an intercepted letter to one of our prisoners, was to fall on the Colony in that quarter. This has induced me to order Colonel Dayton to remain in Tryon County until further orders, although he is much wanted in Canada. Your Excellency will please to signify your pleasure on this measure.

The two last corps of General Sullivan's Brigade have thrown all the communication on Hudson's River in the greatest confusion. They took the wagons stationed at the different carrying-places, and consequently stopped the transportation in batteaus; and all this directly contrary to clear and explicit orders given them before I left Albany, and in spite of the Quartermasters and Commissaries, who showed and read my orders. This infamous manœuvre has greatly retarded the provisions in their way up. I am fully determined to suspend the next officer that shall offend, until the pleasure of Congress is known. I know this to be a stretch of power, but necessity will oblige me to it.

I am, dear General, with the most respectful sentiments, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington, &c.

COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Montreal, May 16, 1776.

DEAR SIR: We are favoured with yours of the 7th instant. The Army here is suffering for want of provisions, particularly pork. None, or next to none, is to be procured in Canada. For God's sake send off pork, or our troops will be greatly distressed for want of provisions, and may mutiny and desert to the enemy.

The enclosed letters from General Arnold will give you the latest intelligence we have received from below. General Thompson and Colonel St. Clair sailed from this place yesterday for the mouth of the Sorel; which place we hope he reached last night. They intended to proceed to Deschambault immediately. We hope we shall be able to maintain that post, if Carleton has no more forces than mentioned in Arnold's letters, from the intelligence given by Mr. Bonfield.

We have been alarmed this morning with the approach of some Indians and soldiers from Detroit and the upper garrisons, with a design to attack our post at the Cedars. We have detached one hundred and fifty men, commanded by Major Sherburne, to reinforce that garrison, already consisting of three hundred effective men. We do not believe there is much to fear from that quarter.

For God's sake send powder and pork. You know we lost twenty barrels of the powder which lately came over the Lakes.

We are, with great esteem and sincere regard, dear sir, your most humble servants,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

SAMUEL CHASE.

To the Honourable Philip Schuyler, Esq.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO THE COMMISSIONERS.

Sorel, May 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I wrote you the 12th instant by express; since which I have purchased twenty-seven hundred bushels of wheat of Captain Cuthbert, at four shillings and six pence, lawful money, payable in our paper bills, bills of exchange, or an order on Congress, whichever shall be the most agreeable to you. It is now sending to the mills. I have also received two hundred bags of flour from below, and expect a quantity more every moment; also, three tons of flour, which I had engaged before I left Montreal. I make no doubt, in a few days, of collecting a magazine of flour sufficient for ten thousand men for three months.

A Commissary that I sent out to purchase provisions, returned yesterday with twenty oxen. I have put the people to half an allowance of meat, and added to their bread. I make no doubt of supporting the Army until provisions can come over the Lakes.

Mr. Bonfield, a gentleman of character, arrived here yesterday. He left Sully on Thursday last, and Deschambault on Saturday morning, where General Thomas was with only nine hundred men. Colonel Maxwell was at Jacques Cartier; but the number of men with him, Mr. Bonfield could not tell. Mr. Bonfield saw a number of the Regular officers and inhabitants of Quebeck before he left Sully, who acquainted him that on Monday, the 6th instant, arrived at Quebeck one sloop-of-war of fourteen guns, one twenty and one fifty-gun ship, from England, with two companies of the Twenty-Seventh Regiment, and one company of Marines, which were immediately landed, who, with the garrison that came out the same afternoon, made a body of one thousand men, commanded by General Carleton, from whom our people made a most precipitate retreat, without ever firing a gun.

On the 8th, arrived a frigate of thirty guns, and a large Indiaman, with five hundred men from Halifax, part of General Howe's Army, the whole of which were on their passage for Quebeck; and six thousand Hessians, it is said, are on their way from England. If the latter is true, we shall doubtless have our hands full. Colonel Allen is come out in the ship from England, in irons, it is given out, to receive his trial for rebellion, and to be executed here.

I am sorry to inform you that all the carriages, except five, which came with the heavy cannon, were sent down as they came over the Lakes, and fell into the enemy's hands. I have written Colonel Hazen to put others in hand immediately, to replace them. We are making every possible disposition of defence in our power, and I make no doubt of securing this post in a few days. None of the enemy's ships have been able to ascend the Richelieu as yet. I make no doubt Mr. Price will take effectual measures to supply with provisions the garrisons of Montreal, Chambly, St. Johns, and the Cedars. Enclosed you have a letter to Mr. Evans, which fell into my hands, which contains a piece of intelligence worth noticing.

I should be glad to know your sentiments in regard to inoculation as early as possible. Will it not be best, considering the impossibility of preventing the spreading of the small-pox, to inoculate five hundred or a thousand men immediately, and send them to Montreal, and as many more every five days, until the whole receive it, which will prevent our Army being distressed hereafter; and I make no doubt we shall have more effective men in four weeks than by endeavouring to prevent the disorder spreading—a period so near that the enemy will not, with any considerable force, be able to reach this place by that time.

A Quartermaster-General and Commissary are much wanted here. I have so much on hand that I can hardly get one minute to write. You will be kind enough to excuse haste and incoherency, and believe me, with the greatest respect and esteem, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To the Honourable the Commissioners.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO THE COMMISSIONERS.

Sorel, May 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Bonfield further acquaints me that General Carleton was to set out on Friday, from Quebeck, to attack General Thomas; of which he acquainted the latter, who was determined to make a stand, and was preparing to receive him. I have sent down from this ten batteaus. I expect to hear from him every minute, and shall give you the earliest intelligence. When I arrived here, found Major Nicholson gone past to St. Johns, with intention of going home. I immediately wrote the commanding officer there to confine him until your pleasure was known. General Wooster left this place yesterday for Chambly.

I am, respectfully, gentlemen, your humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To the Honourable the Commissioners.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO SAMUEL CHASE.

Sorel, May 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I wrote you the 13th, by Captain Stoddard, and this morning by Corporal Eustis; since which I have received your agreeable favour of yesterday, for which I am much obliged to you, as well as for your kind offer of a mutual and unreserved communication of sentiments; which confidence I shall esteem an honour done me, and make no doubt it will be conducive of the publick service to keep up a friendly correspondence among the officers.

I am glad you have discovered the sentiments of the inhabitants of Montreal, which will furnish an opportunity of taking proper measures with them. I wish they may be coerced, as I am convinced they are in general our bitter enemies. Your appointment of Captain Wool is very pleasing to me; he is a spirited good officer. I yesterday repeated the order you gave Colonel Hazen, in respect of carriages. As Colonel Clinton goes home, I am glad Patterson is sent for; I believe he will give satisfaction. I had ordered six batteaus to Montreal, and will send four more. I fancy General Thompson is with you by this time. I hope you will not detain him, as he is much wanted here.

By a letter I enclosed you yesterday, you will find, if the intelligence can be depended on, that Colonel Bedel is in very little danger at his post. I am sorry to say one great object of your commission in Canada seems at a distance. Your presence, however, is absolutely necessary, and I am rejoiced to hear your determination of staying. I think it is of the last importance to complete our gondolas as soon as possible, and to erect some batteries here, and make not the least doubt of Mr. Chase's utmost exertion in the publick cause, in which we are all embarked.

The information you have received, in respect to Captain Cuthbert, is, I believe, in part true, but has originated from a private pique, and much exaggerated. You will observe I have bought his wheat from him, which he readily sold me, at the same time complained most bitterly of being threatened with the loss of his life by the same Don you mention, who, I believe, is a very bad man. Many persons in the country are seeking for private revenge under pretence of concern for the publick safety.

Mr. Conrad Gregory has voluntarily furnished us with a considerable quantity of flour. Boats are now gone for it. He appears friendly, though I believe him and Cuthbert are both Prerogative-men. I shall keep a good look-out upon them. I received a letter from Colonel Williams, acquainting me that some soldiers, returning from camp, had plundered Mr. Gregory's house, and with difficulty even prevented from burning it. They are suicides, and will be made an example of.

I believe I know your sentiments in respect to provisions, and shall not let the Army suffer. I am fully of opinion with you in regard to persons holding criminal correspondence with our enemies, and shall treat them accordingly. The proclamation you hint I think is both just and reasonable, and the only resource we have left to maintain an Army in this country. I think the places you mention for magazines proper, and in addition beg leave to mention St. Johns as the principal.

I have had in contemplation the collecting all the wheat on the Sorel; but my attention has been and is still taken off here. I have sent Lieutenant-Colonel Shreve and fifty men to Bertier, and proposed to send two hundred men before I received your favour. I hope General Sullivan will arrive soon. Mr. Romans's conduct, by all accounts, has been very extraordinary.

Blankets and coarse linens are exceedingly wanted. Most of our men, returned from below, are naked. Will it not be advisable and justifiable to seize on all such goods in Montreal as we are in absolute necessity for, and pay them the value? Government has set us many precedents, and necessity will doubtless justify retaliation. This I submit to your better judgment; and am, with my hearty respects to the ladies and Mr. Carroll, (when he arrives,) and with great respect, esteem, and good wishes, dear sir, your obedient humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To the Honourable Samuel Chase, Esq.

P. S. Colonel Campbell is much wanted here. I have been obliged to appoint a Deputy Quartermaster-General in his room, pro tem.

B. A.

COLONEL DAYTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Johnstown, May 24, 1776.

SIR: In my letter sent yesterday, by the Rev. Mr. Caldwell, I informed you of my intentions of possessing Johnson-Hall. A guard and sentries are so placed as to intercept effectually any communication with any part of the country. Previous to this, I sent an officer with a letter to Lady Johnson, informing her of my design, and requesting all the keys, in order to examine Sir John's papers. Colonel White, Major Barber, and myself, waited upon her shortly after. She immediately produced all the keys, with a considerable number of papers. The letters were carefully perused in presence of herself, and a few selected, copies of which I transmit you by this express, retaining the originals in my own hands until I shall have the pleasure of seeing or conveying them more safely to you. The house, also, was examined in every part. Since Mr. Caldwell left this place, I am more assured that Sir John, with his party, marched from these settlements on Monday last, for Niagara or Canada. Lady Johnson assures me he is on his road to Niagara, and that we soon shall hear where he is. As the guards and sentries around the Hall must increase the pain of her situation, I have requested her to remove to Albany, where, as I understand, she has several friends. To this she seems averse, but for what reasons I know not; and I would therefore be glad to receive your directions on this head also.

In consequence of an express despatched to Colonel Harkaman, I understand he has collected his Militia, in order to prevent Sir John's escaping through that part of the country.

I am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

ELIAS DAYTON.

To General Schuyler.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, May 26, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Since my letter of this morning, Mr. Livingston, my Aid-de-Camp, whom I sent to Albany to hasten up to this place whatever of Van Schaick's and Wynkoop's Regiments might be there more than were wanted to man the batteaus employed in transporting provisions, is returned here, and informs me that the men of both those regiments at that place are not sufficient to man the batteaus. This information is corroborated by a letter from my Secretary, and gives me great uneasiness, lest our Army in Canada should again be under difficulties for want of the necessary supplies.

By the enclosed return your Excellency will see that I have only ninety-one rank and file fit for duty; twenty-eight of these are constantly employed in the batteaus that bring the timber for building others; eight in the large boat, and ten in various other services; so that I have only forty-five left for duty, and all raw and undisciplined—a force so trifling that it leaves us exposed to the insults of any very inconsiderable party, who may destroy our boats and buildings, and thereby greatly distress, if not totally render useless, our Army in Canada. Permit me, therefore, to beg your Excellency to order me a reinforcement the soonest possible; and should I find myself hereafter in a situation to dispense with them, Colonel Van Schaick will then be immediately sent into Canada.

I forgot to mention to your Excellency that the small note I enclosed you this morning I received with the other papers, but do not know whether intended for the Commissioners or for me; if for me, I am not in a condition to comply with it, as I have not a person here who understands the construction of gondolas. I wrote for such persons to the Congress in the course of last winter; but if I had proper persons here, it would be needless to build them, as the waters in a few days, if not already, are too low to get vessels of that construction down the falls of Chambly.

I shall try to procure batteaumen at Albany and its vicinity; they are cheaper at eleven dollars and a quarter per month, than soldiers with the additional pay of one shilling per day, because they are more to be depended on.

Please to order up some flints, with directions to have them forwarded to this place without delay.

I am so weakened by the ague, which still continues to torment me, that I cannot bear the fatigue of visiting the communication to Albany, where I am much wanted.

I am, dear sir, most sincerely, your Excellency's obedient and humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

Return of the Garrison at FORT GEORGE, May 26, 1776.

COMPANIES.	Captains.	Lieutenants.	Ensign.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Drums & Fife.	Privates.	Total.
Capt. Finck's, Van Schaick's Regiment.....	1	1	1	3	3	2	26	37
Capt. Wendell's, Wynkoop's Regiment.....	1	-	-	2	2	1	21	27
Capt. Van Vechten's, Wynkoop's Regiment.....	1	1	-	2	4	-	27	35
Lieutenant Cook's Recruits.....	-	-	-	1	1	-	17	19
Total.....	3	2	1	8	10	3	91	118

All effectives. The above is extracted from the returns of the several Commanding Officers of the Companies now stationed at Fort George, by JOHN LANSING, Jun.

MARK HOPKINS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Great Barrington, May 26, 1776.

SIR: A Convention of the Committees of Berkshire and the parts adjacent, have lately, by two expresses, communicated to your Excellency their suspicion of a plot being formed for the destruction of these United Colonies, by a combination of a number of persons among ourselves for that purpose, with the evidence upon which that suspicion was principally grounded. Amongst other persons accused, General Schuyler was one, whose important station would give him peculiar advantages to distress us, by withholding support from the Army in Canada, if he were inimically disposed. The said Convention, therefore, took all those methods they could devise to find out the sentiments of the General; and it is with the greatest pleasure we are now able to acquaint your Excellency that said Convention are satisfied that their suspicions respecting him were wholly groundless. That there has been a plan forming among our enemies in the Colonies, is beyond doubt, and we hope the whole will soon be brought to light; but that some wicked and designing men have greatly magnified it, and falsely asserted divers persons of distinction and merit to be concerned in it, in order to influence the timid and ignorant and promote jealousies amongst us, is indisputable. The Committees of this town, Sheffield and Canaan, thought it their duty to acquaint your Excellency with the above, as perhaps it might have some influence upon your orders or conduct relating to those matters, and they have ordered me to inform you accordingly. This goes by express.

By order of said Committees, I am your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

MARK HOPKINS.

To General Washington.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

In Committee, Baltimore, May 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Captain John Sterrett's Company of Militia being appointed an Independent Company, and Captain George Wells's Company, consisting chiefly of ship carpenters employed in working on the Continental frigate, having petitioned to be formed into an Artillery Company, which we presume will be granted, we think proper to add to the Baltimore-Town Battalion, Captain Thomas Rutter's and Captain Frederick Deams's Companies of Militia, as the most convenient to join the same; and their situation is such that they cannot with propriety join any other Battalion.

By order of the Committee:

SAMUEL PURVIANCE, JUN., Chairman.

Frederick Deams, Captain; Absalom Price, First Lieutenant; George Campbell, Second Lieutenant; John Demit, Ensign, and 79 Privates.

N. B. Captain Rutter has already received commissions for himself and his officers.

These are to certify to the honourable Council of Safety, that the following Returns have been made to this Committee of Companies of Militia in Baltimore County, viz:

One Company in Baltimore-Town, containing 76, who have elected William Buchanan, Captain; John Smith, First Lieutenant; Robert Alexander, Second Lieutenant; George Woolsey, Ensign.

One Company in Baltimore-Town, containing 82, who have elected John Sterrett, Captain; Bennet Eichelberger, First Lieutenant; Hugh Young, Second Lieutenant; Daniel Bowly, Ensign.

One Company in Baltimore-Town, containing 65, who have elected Henry Sheap, Captain; Brittingham Dickenson, First Lieutenant; Robert Moore, Second Lieutenant; Caleb Shields, Ensign.

One Company in Baltimore-Town, containing 58, who have elected William Galbraith, Captain; James Toole, First Lieutenant; John Deaver, Second Lieutenant; Joseph Gehe, Ensign.

One Company in Baltimore-Town, containing 71, who have elected William Richardson, Captain; John McCabe, First Lieutenant; George Sewell Douglass, Second Lieutenant; Fergus McIlhoy, Ensign.

One Company of Artillery, in Baltimore-Town, containing 66, who have elected George Wells, Captain; James Morgan, First Lieutenant; John Hayman, Second Lieutenant; James Foster, Third Lieutenant.

The above Companies, together with Captain Zachariah McCubbin's and Captain James Cox's, who have received commissions, we recommend to be formed into a Battalion.

We are, gentlemen, your most humble servants,

WM. LUX, Deputy Chair.	WILLIAM BUCHANAN,
THOMAS HARRISON,	THOMAS SOLLERS,
JOHN BOYD,	WILLIAM AISQUITH,
JOHN E. HOWARD,	JOHN STERRETT,
JAMES CALHOUN,	JOHN SMITH.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

WILLIAM PALFREY TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read May 29, 1776.]

New-York, May 27, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed I send you a weekly return of the state of my office, from the 19th to the 25th of May, inclusive.

As I wish to have my accounts examined and audited once a month, I should esteem it as a particular favour if the honourable Congress would either appoint proper persons here for the purpose, or direct General Washington to do it. In my humble opinion, the best mode would be for three or more persons to be appointed by warrant from the General, who should examine the accounts, compare the vouchers, count the remaining cash, and certify the same on the back of the warrants.

I have the honour to be, with the utmost respect, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

WILLIAM PALFREY, Paymaster-General.

To John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 27, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: Nothing material has happened since I last wrote you. The articles General Schuyler wrote for are all forwarded; they went from this last Saturday in a vessel bound to Albany.

Lord Stirling, Colonel Putnam, and one officer from the train, went from this up the North River yesterday. I could not think it prudent to send Colonel Knox, as he was much wanted here. The lead General Schuyler wrote for was not to be had.

I have written General Ward for the following articles which were taken in the last prize, viz: Sand-bags, 10,000; mantelets of cured hides, 100; broad-axes, 100; hand-hammers, 50; hand-hatchets, 500; felling-axes, 300; hand-bills, 500; spades, 1,000; shovels, 500; powder, 25 tons; one half of the spikes and nails; the whole of the carpenters' tools; all the carbines, complete; and two tons of lead out of the old stock.

Captain Putnam I have sent on express to forward the above articles with all possible despatch. My proceedings in this matter I hope may be approved of by your Excellency, as I thought it absolutely necessary for the good of the service.

Last night an express arrived from Canada, with a letter from General Schuyler, dated Fort George, May 21st, which mentions he had forwarded on all the provisions then on hand; and a letter from General Thompson, dated Chambly, May 14th, which says matters are in a very confused state. He mentions Colonel Greaton's and part of Colonel Bond's Regiments had gone forward; Colonel Patterson's at Montreal; Colonel Poor's at Ticonderoga, waiting for provisions. He expected to go down the Sorel and join General Thomas that evening. These letters I should forward you, but expect your Excellency in town this day or to-morrow. Have detained the express till your arrival.

I am, with esteem and respect, your Excellency's most obedient and very humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To His Excellency General Washington.

JONATHAN LAWRENCE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Newtown, May 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: On complaint of Waters Smith, Esquire, Captain Nathaniel Woodard, and several others of the inhabitants of this town, against John Moore, Jun., of a fresh insult offered to the United Colonies, by hoisting a large flag, or suffering the same to be hoisted, on his grounds in imitation of a King's standard, the Committee ordered him to be taken into custody, and brought before them; and as he has not given sufficient satisfaction, the Committee thought proper to order him safely conducted to your honourable Board, and in the care of Captain Abraham Remsen, for further examination.

By order of the Committee:

JONATHAN LAWRENCE, Chairman.

N. B. The flag which was taken we have sent by Captain Remsen.

AARON STOCKHOLM TO NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

New-York, May 27, 1776.

SIR: Be it known, that we, the subscribers, being present at a funeral yesterday, did hear the following persons, viz: Peter McLean, Samuel Galsworthy, Francis De La Roche, and a young man in military clothing, who appeared to be an acquaintance of said Galsworthy, make expressions which we thought highly dangerous to the cause of liberty. McLean in particular said that persons who did not at present take up arms in the cause of the country were used worse than any persons had ever been used in Rome, or any other Romish dominions.

Francis De La Roche said that he wished King George might rule glorious and victorious over us. We made mention that persons who were inimical to the cause of America should be shipped off. McLean made an answer that we must be very nimble about it, for very soon we would not have power to do it. The others made expressions equally dangerous, the particulars of which we will be able to tell if called upon.

AARON STOCKHOLM,
SAMUEL PRINCE,
JOHN BOGART,
THOMAS GARDNER.

To the Chairman, or Deputy Chairman of the General Committee of New-York.

Referred to the honourable Congress of this Colony by the General Committee of this city, who conceive they have not power sufficient to proceed against the aforesaid offenders.

By order of the Committee :

JOSH. WINTER, Secretary.

COLONEL THOMAS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

White-Plains, May 27, 1776.

SIR: Mr. Elijah Hunter informs me that he had encouragement from the Committee of Safety for a Captaincy of a Grenadier Company in my Regiment, provided he could enlist a sufficient number, and had my approbation.

Mr. Hunter has shown me a roll of fifty non-commissioned officers and privates, who have entered themselves as Grenadiers; and it is with pleasure I can recommend him as a proper person for Captain, and Richard Sackett for First Lieutenant, Silas Miles for Second Lieutenant, and Jeremiah Lounsberry for Ensign. Would therefore be much obliged to the honourable Congress (if they approve of the officers and of having a Grenadier Company in my Regiment) to give orders for their commissions being speedily made out.

I am your very humble servant,

THOMAS THOMAS.

To the President of the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York.

TO THE HONOURABLE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF THE COLONY OF NEW-YORK.

GENTLEMEN: The subscribers being desirous (as much as in them lies) to promote the military spirit in this Colony so very necessary at this alarming crisis, have, with the entire approbation of Colonel Jesse Woodhull, (the commanding officer of the regiment to which they belong,) formed themselves into a body for a company of Light-Horse, subject to such rules and regulations as now are or may hereafter be made by the honourable Continental Congress, or this or any future Congress of this Province, for regulating the Militia within this Colony; and have also, under the inspection of two members of the Committee, elected a set of officers to command them. They therefore humbly request that commissions may be made out for their officers as soon as possible, in order that they may know what to depend on with regard to furnishing themselves with the necessary apparatus for a complete company of Light-Horse; and as in duty bound they will ever pray.

James Seely,	Thaddeus Seely,	James Sayres,
Philip Miller,	Timothy Little,	William Heard,
Samuel Bartlet,	Jonathan Brooks, Jun.,	Azariah Martin,
Stephen Gilbert,	John Brooks,	Samuel Seely,
Joshua Hulse,	Jonathan Sayre,	Gideon Salmon,
Phineas Heard,	Benjamin Hulse,	Israel Seely,
Luther Conkling,	Daniel Reve,	Charles Howell,
Samuel Tuthill,	Nehemiah Clark,	Jonathan Dubois,
William Beardley,	Daniel Harrison,	Stephen Howell,
Peter Hubert,	Silas Pearson, Jun.,	John Seely,
Hezekiah Watkins,	Isaac Van Duzer,	Moses Carpenter,
Joseph Conkling,	Benjamin Harlaw,	Nathaniel Woodhull,
Matthew Wickham,	Ebenezer Woodhull,	Andrew Lightbody.
William Seely,

Blooming-Grove, May 27, 1776.

In Committee for Cornwall Precinct, at Blooming-Grove, May 31, 1776.

Application being made by the subscribers within named for the approbation of this Committee to their forming themselves into a company of Light-Horse, and also for a recommendation to Congress in that behalf:

Resolved, therefore, That this Committee approve of the same, and request that commissions may be granted accordingly, if consistent with the rules of Congress.

By order of the Committee,

ELIHU MARVIN, Chairman.
THOMAS MAFFAT, Clerk.

Attest :

WILLIAM ALLISON TO JOHN HARING.

Goshen, May 27, 1776.

SIR: After my respects, must inform you that I was somewhat nonplused on my return home, to find I was appointed with yourself a Committee for superintending saltpetre works, and purchasing any saltpetre manufactured within this Colony. How it happened that I never heard a word said about it while in town I can hardly conceive, and am ready to conclude you must have been in the same predicament, as you never mentioned it to me. If it is a duty actually incumbent on us to erect or set on foot any works, I think no time ought to be lost; besides, people are bringing in saltpetre to me and expect their cash. I am not prepared for purchasing much. I have reason to think there will be a considerable quantity made in this end of the County by private families. Have bought fifty weight of one man, who has made seventy weight in the whole, and who made fourteen pounds out of three bushels of earth. I have heard of several considerable quantities, and expect them in every day. I wish, if it could be so ordered, you would send me some cash without my coming down, as I would not choose one person should go away without his money; for without the experience, you can hardly conceive the injury it will do the cause among some people.

Some hints respecting the expediency of establishing public works, and the measures pursuing by the other Committees, would be very acceptable by this post; and cash I think might come safe by the same hand.

I am, in haste, your friend and very humble servant,
WILLIAM ALLISON.

To John Haring, Esq.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, May 27, 1776.

SIR: Last night Colonel Clinton arrived and brought me the enclosed, by which I find the note alluded to in mine of yesterday was intended for me: I shall answer the gentlemen on the subject of the gondola to-day. If the account given by McChord be true, it is much to be lamented that the siege of Quebeck could not have been immediately resumed.

The honourable Commissioners, I suppose, had not yet received the account that one hundred and fifty thousand dollars were on the way to Canada when they wrote, nor of the one thousand seven hundred and thirteen transmitted me by Governour Cooke. It will, however, be necessary to send more, both to Canada and to Mr. Trumbull at Albany, for reasons I have given in a former letter.

I am, most sincerely, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. Medicines are much wanted at this post and Ticonderoga. I have ordered a row-galley to be sent from Ticonderoga, to be converted into a gondola; she served as such last year when in possession of the enemy.

COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Montreal, May 17, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The following intelligence was communicated to us about an hour ago, and we think may be depended on:

John McChord left Loretto, in sight of Quebeck, on Monday last. He was told by French people who came out of Quebeck on Sunday, that only two companies arrived of the Twenty-Ninth Regiment, one frigate, and one transport from Halifax on that day week. No account of more below. McChord left Jacques Cartier on Tuesday afternoon; our troops had left it on Sunday. He got to Deschambault

Tuesday night. Our troops left Deschambault on Monday. He arrived at Three-Rivers on Wednesday, P. M. General Thomas then there with about one thousand men. Says he saw two small vessels at Ecurucils, three leagues below the rapids of Richelieu. He was told the frigate arrived lies in the basin of Quebeck. It was reported in town she was only sent to see if the city was taken; if not, that General Howe and his Army were to come there.

At present we procure a little fresh provisions. We intend to proceed to the mouth of the Sorel, where our Army is collected. We have no fixed abode, being obliged to follow your example and become Generals, Commissaries, Justices of the Peace; in short, to act in twenty different capacities. Things are in great confusion, but out of confusion we hope order will rise. We have heard nothing to-day from the Cedars, from whence we conclude the report brought by Colonel Bedel is groundless. Press Congress to send paper money as well as specie; let the bills be small. Do not forget to send pork sufficient for the support of our Army here, ammunition, powder, &c.; but the Generals no doubt will write for such articles in the military as are more immediately wanted. A gondola, built to carry a twenty-four pounder, or two of them, would now be exceedingly serviceable. By what time could you furnish one? Pray fit out the Royal Savage and the other vessel as speedily as possible for war, to keep the masters of Lake Champlain. Pray send back the batteau in which Doctor Franklin and Mr. Carroll returned, and remember us most affectionately to them. We desire our respectful compliments to your family, and are, with great sincerity and regard, dear sir, your most obedient, humble servants,

SAMUEL CHASE,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

To General Schuyler.

COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 10, 1776. Referred to Mr. Sherman, Mr. Wythe, Mr. Sergeant, Mr. F. Lee, and Mr. Gwinnet.]

Montreal, May 17, 1776.

SIR: Dr. Franklin, who left this place the 11th instant, will give you the fullest information of the state of our affairs in this Province. We are sorry to say that they have not mended since the Doctor's departure; we want words to describe the confusion which prevails through every department relating to the Army. Several of your officers appear to us unfit for the stations they fill. Your troops live from hand to mouth; they have of late been put to half allowance in several places; and in some they have been without pork for three or four days past. Although there is plenty of wheat and flour in the country, it was with difficulty that either could be procured, a few days ago, for ready specie; but, from General Arnold's letters, dated the 15th instant, from the mouth of the Sorel, and which we forwarded yesterday to General Schuyler, we have reason to conclude that the Army will not want flour much longer. In our present critical situation, few, very few will accept of the Continental paper money in pay. A prosperous turn in our affairs would, we think, give it a currency in that part of the country which we possess, the most valuable and plentiful in Canada. We think it impossible to subsist your forces in Canada in any other manner than by contract; careful, active, and trusty Commissaries should be appointed to receive from the contractors, and to deliver out to the Army the provisions which they supply. Your Generals are now obliged to be contractors and commissaries; and your Commissioners, who have neither abilities nor inclination, are constrained to act as Generals. Such is the confusion which now prevails, and will prevail, till a totally new arrangement takes place, and a strict discipline is introduced into the Army; of the latter you must despair, unless soldiers can be enlisted for a term of years, or for the continuance of the war. The enlisting men for a year, or for a less time, occasioned the death of the brave Montgomery. The recent disgraceful flight is the principal source of all the disorders in your Army. The sending soldiers into Canada whose times expire in a month or two after their arrival, is only putting the Colonies to an amazing expense, to corrupt and disorder the rest. No duty must be expected from soldiers whose times are out, let their country stand ever so much in need of their services: witness the unfeeling flight and return, at this critical juncture, of all the soldiers, and greater part of the officers, who are entitled to be discharged. Warner's Regiment was enlisted for three months only; his conduct as to the bounty money has been communicated to Congress by General Schuyler. Immediately on the arrival of the New-England troops at the camp they inoculated themselves, contrary to the General's orders; and, we are informed, have done little or no duty. We shall take the liberty of mentioning two circumstances, which show the present state of discipline amongst your forces: Colonel Campbell brought us the first account of the precipitate flight of our Army; Colonel Bedel, who commands at the Cedars, a post of great consequence, about thirty-six miles from this city, up the St. Lawrence, being informed by two Indians that a body of savages, about one hundred, headed by some English soldiers, number unknown, were come within nine miles of his post, with an intention to attack it, brought this intelligence himself to town, and left his garrison, consisting of three hundred effective men. It is true, according to his account, they were badly provided to receive the enemy, and had been four days without any other provisions than bread. This intelligence, we conceive, might have been communicated to the commanding officer here by any other person, as well as Colonel Bedel. Colonel Paterson, who now commands in Montreal, immediately ordered a detachment from his regiment, of one hundred and fifty men, to reinforce the Cedars; a fresh supply of provisions and ammunition was sent with his detachment. We apprehend the report to be altogether groundless, or occasioned by some very trifling circumstance.

The importance of this Colony will be made known to you by Dr. Franklin; it is a fine wheat country; it produced, in 1771, for exportation four hundred and sixty thousand bushels of wheat. The Indian trade is an object already sufficient to engage the attention of the Colonies, and growing yearly of more importance. The inclinations of the common people are said to be in general with us; but they are timorous and unsteady; no assistance can be expected from them unless they find themselves supported by an army able to cope with the English forces. Should we be driven out of the country, we make no doubt considerable numbers of them would be prevailed on through fear to join the British troops.

We refer you for intelligence relating to the state of our Army below to General Arnold's letters above-mentioned, which we make no doubt General Schuyler has forwarded to Congress. Necessity has compelled us to desire Mr. William McCarty to execute the office of Deputy Quartermaster-General, and we hope Congress will send that gentleman a commission of this date. Our Generals here exercise the power of appointing officers; but we have not, nor do we remember that they have any such power. We flatter ourselves Congress will excuse our exceeding our commission in such instances, where the publick good requires it.

In the present situation of our affairs it will not be possible for us to carry into execution the great object of our instructions, as the possession of this country must finally be decided by the sword. We think our stay here no longer of service to the publick; we are willing, however, to sacrifice our time, labour, and even our lives, for the good of our country; and we wait with impatience the further orders of Congress; and are, with great respect for yourself and Congress, sir, your most obedient, humble servants,

SAMUEL CHASE,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esquire.

GENERAL THOMAS TO COMMISSIONERS OF CONGRESS.

Three Rivers, May 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I this moment received yours of the 12th instant; am much obliged to you for every hint of intelligence, and shall pay the greatest deference to your judgment in all the movements I make. In my return from Quebeck I halted at Jacques Cartier and Deschambault; which appear to me the most advantageous posts on the river St. Lawrence, to prevent the progress of the enemy into the country. I continued six days, in hopes of receiving a supply of provisions, intrenching tools, and many et ceteras; the want of which compelled me at length, with great reluctance, to quit them. We had only three pounds of meal per man, and not an ounce of meat, when we came off. I this morning arrived at this place with about eight hundred men, being all I stopped at Jacques Cartier and Deschambault. The invalids who have got in I shall leave here with the other troops for a few days, where Mr. Bonfield tells me he can provide for them. I shall repair immediately to the Sorel, and advise with the principal officers there; if the boats and gondolas are in readiness, it will be my opinion to return with the utmost expedition to Deschambault, a post I am, for many substantial reasons, extremely unwilling to abandon to the enemy. Not a vessel of theirs has yet been able to pass the falls of Richelieu, so difficult is the navigation. But should it, after a thorough inquiry, be thought advisable to fortify and make a stand only at the mouth of the Sorel, and give up the large tract of country below, the observations Mr. Price makes in regard to our taking post at the little river Berthier, I believe are just, and shall be attended to.

Such is the confusion which inlisting men for a short time creates—some coming in, others going off—that I cannot ascertain the exact strength of our Army. The small-pox is an infinite detriment to the service; notwithstanding which, and the most express orders to the contrary, both officers and soldiers privately inoculate themselves.

I have employed trusty men, disguised in the habit of Canadians, to find out the number and situation of the enemy; and I do not think them very formidable at present.

I am, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN THOMAS.

To the Honourable the Committee of Congress.

THEODORE SEDGWICK (SECRETARY) TO GENERAL WOOSTER.

Chambly, May 27, 1776.

SIR: As General Thomas has been informed that a considerable force of the enemy is arrived above Deschambault, and seem to be proceeding farther this way; and as he, from his present circumstances, is incapable of attending to the necessary concerns of the Army, his Honour has commanded me to submit to your consideration whether it may not be prudent for a party to be detached to the Isle aux Noix and secure that post; to remove such batteaus, stores, and other baggage as can be spared, below this place, above the rapids of Chambly, and to forward such troops as are able to be removed and are unfit for duty, to some place of greater security.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your most obedient and very humble servant,

THEODORE SEDGWICK, Secretary.

To General Wooster.

COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 6, 1776. Referred to Mr. Sherman, Mr. Wythe, Mr. Sergeant, Mr. F. Lee, and Mr. Gwinnet.]

Montreal, May 27, 1776.

SIR: We refer you to the enclosed letter from General Thomas, of the 20th instant, for the reasons which induced him to order Colonel Maxwell to retreat from Three Rivers to Sorel. He has since given orders, as we are informed by General Thompson's letter of the 20th, to remove all the artillery and artillery stores from the mouth of the Sorel, without the least consultation with the General Officers. We have reason to believe that there is not that good understanding and free communication of sentiment between the General Officers, which we think essential for the good of the service. General Thomas is now at Chambly, under the small-pox; being taken with that disorder, he left the camp at Sorel and wrote to General Wooster to come and take the command. When the interest of our country and the safety of your Army is at stake, we think it a very improper time to conceal our sentiments, either with respect to persons or things. General Wooster is, in our opinion, unfit, totally unfit, to command your Army, and conduct the war; we have hitherto prevailed on him to remain in Montreal. His stay in this Colony is unnecessary, and even prejudicial to our affairs; we would therefore humbly advise his recall.

In our last, we informed you of the deplorable state of the Army; matters have not mended since. We went to the mouth of Sorel last week, where we found all things in confusion; there is little or no discipline among your troops, nor can any be kept up while the practice of inlisting for a twelvemonth continues; the General Officers are all of this opinion. Your Army is badly paid; and so exhausted is your credit that even a cart cannot be procured without ready money or force. We will give you an instance of the lowness of your credit: Three barrels of gunpowder were ordered from Chambly to Montreal; this powder was brought from Chambly to a ferry, about three miles off, where it would have remained had we not luckily passed by, and seeing the distress of the officer, undertaken to pay ready and hard money for the hire of a cart to convey it to Longueuil. The Army is in a distressed condition, and is in want of the most necessary articles—meat, bread, tents, shoes, stockings, shirts, &c. The greatest part of those who fled from Quebeck left all their baggage behind them, or it was plundered by those whose times were out, and have since left Canada. We are informed by Colonel Allen that the men who, from pretended indisposition, had been excused from doing duty, were the foremost in the flight, and carried off such burdens on their backs as hearty and stout men would labour under.

With difficulty three hundred tents and about two hundred camp-kettles were procured here, and sent to the Sorel for the use of the Army, and were delivered, as we were informed, to one Major Fuller, who acted in the room of Mr. Campbell, Deputy Quartermaster-General, who had joined the Army at the Sorel but a day or two before our arrival, where, among other instances of mismanagement, we give the following: Colonel Nicholson's Regiment, consisting only of one hundred men, received thirty tents and thirty-one camp-kettles; Colonel Porter's Regiment, not exceeding that number, received fifty-six tents and thirty-three kettles.

Your Army in Canada do not exceed four thousand; above four hundred are sick with different disorders; three-fourths of the Army have not had the small-pox. The greater part of Greaton's, Bond's, and Burrell's Regiments have been lately inoculated. There are about eight tons of gunpowder in the Colony. To evince the great distress we are reduced to for want of bread, we must inform you that we were obliged to buy thirty loaves of bread of our baker to feed Colonel De Haas's detachment, which entered this town Friday night, on their way to join General Arnold at La Chine, and who could not be supplied by the Commissary. Such is our extreme want of flour that we were yesterday obliged to seize by force fifteen barrels to supply this garrison with bread. Previous to this seizure a general order was issued to the Town-Major to wait on the merchants, or others having provisions or merchandise for sale, requesting a delivery of what our troops are in immediate want of, and requiring him to give a receipt, expressing the quantity delivered; for the payment of which the faith of the United Colonies is pledged by your Commissioners. Nothing but the most urgent necessity can justify such harsh measures; but men with arms in their hands will not starve when provisions can be obtained by force. To prevent a general plunder, which might end in the massacre of your troops, and of many of the inhabitants, we have been constrained to advise the General to take this step. We cannot conceal our concern that six thousand men should be ordered to Canada, without taking care to have magazines formed for their subsistence, cash to pay them, or to pay the inhabitants for their labour, in transporting the baggage, stores, and provisions of the Army. We cannot find words strong enough to describe our miserable situation: you will have a faint idea of it if you figure to yourself an Army broken and disheartened, half of it under inoculation, or under other diseases; soldiers without pay, without discipline, and altogether reduced to live from hand to mouth, depending on the scanty and precarious supplies of a few half-starved cattle and trifling quantities of flour, which have hitherto been picked up in different parts of the country.

Your soldiers grumble for their pay; if they receive it they will not be benefited, as it will not procure them the necessities they stand in need of. Your military chest contains but eleven thousand paper dollars. You are indebted to your troops treble that sum; and to the inhabitants above fifteen thousand dollars. You have no Adjutant-General, a most important officer; General Thomas appointed a man totally unfit for the office, as we are informed by General Thompson and Colonel St. Clair. On General Arnold's recommendation, Colonel Antil now does that duty; and we gave him expectation of being paid. We are by no means proper judges of his abilities and fitness for that station, but we are informed that it requires a gentleman of great activity and abilities. You have no Mustermaster. We have authority only to fill up such vacancies as may happen during our continuance in Canada. We met Mr. Flemming, appointed by Congress Deputy Adjutant for this Colony, in New-York; and Captain Rensselaer, the Deputy Mustermaster, passed us on the Lake. In some few instances it may be necessary to make new appointments, e. g., more Deputy Commissaries and Deputy or Assistant Quartermasters. Your Generals here have hitherto exercised that power.

The detachment of one hundred and fifty men, mentioned in our last to have been sent to the relief of the Cedars, under the command of Major Sherburne, were intercepted; we were some time before we could learn the fate of both parties. General Arnold, upon his arrival from Sorel, set off with a party of one hundred men, and took post and intrenched at La Chine, about nine miles from this city. Captain Young, with a small detachment posted at fort St. Ann, on the end of this Island, evacuated his post, and retreated back, leaving the provisions and stores, on a report that some Indians were landed on the Island. His post might have been defended some days, until relief could be sent. General Arnold was soon reinforced by part of Greaton's Regiment, and some other troops. Colonel De Haas, with one hundred and ten riflemen, and three hundred musketeers, was despatched immediately from Sorel. By the best intelligence we can get, the enemy are about six hundred—about forty or fifty regulars, three hundred Indians, and two hundred and fifty Canadians. They have the two pieces of cannon, taken from Colonel Bedel's party, and were yesterday within three miles of General Arnold's camp; but finding he had been reinforced, made a precipitate retreat. Colonel De Haas set off at six o'clock yesterday morning to endeavour to cut off their retreat, and General Arnold was to follow in a few minutes in pursuit of them. We hope hourly to hear that our prisoners are liberated, and the enemy routed. The Canadians being threatened to have their habitations destroyed by the savages, through fear are induced to join the savages. We have also a party of Canadians.

We enclose you copies of letters from Generals Thomas, Arnold, and Thompson; and are, sir, with great respect to yourself and the Congress, your most obedient servants,

SAMUEL CHASE,

CHARLES CARROLL of Carrollton.

To the Honourable John Hancock.

P. S. General Arnold arrived on Sunday evening with the troops at St. Ann's, just in time to see the savages carrying off from an island the last load of our unhappy prisoners; we had no boats to follow them. He sent a Caughnawaga chief to the savages to inform them if they injured any of our prisoners that he would destroy their villages, and follow them to the end of the earth; they replied, if he attempted to cross over, or attack them, that they would immediately kill all their prisoners, and for that purpose had collected them together. A council of war, notwithstanding, determined to attack them and the King's troops in the morning. Lieutenant Parke was sent by Captain Forster to inform General Arnold that the savages were determined to kill their prisoners if attacked; that he could not control them, and, therefore, from the dictates of humanity, he would propose to release all our prisoners, on condition that they should not bear arms against the King during the war, and that an equal number of his Majesty's troops, of the same rank, should be returned in exchange. This proposal was rejected by General Arnold. The enclosed is a copy of the agreement entered into. This hypocritical, insidious, base, and wicked conduct of a British officer, needs few comments. The Governours, agents, and officers of a British King, incite the savages to join them in a war against these Colonies, without the least provocation or injury. No cause of quarrel subsists between the savages and the Colonies. If, by the chance of war, any of our troops are made prisoners, they are delivered by the King's officers into the murderous hands of those cruel and barbarous savages, contrary to the practice and usage of every civilized nation in the world. The British troops secure their safety by threats from the savages to murder the prisoners if attacked. Captain Forster alleged he had it not in his power to control the savages from an act which he declares to be opposite and contrary to the humane disposition of the British Government, and to all civilized nations. If the commanders of British forces cannot control the savages from committing acts of cruelty and barbarity, why do they incite them to arm against us, or act in conjunction with barbarians whose savage customs they condemn? This same conduct in the French, during the last war, was censured and execrated by the British nation. Captain Forster had sufficient influence over the savages to induce them to deliver up their prisoners, (though our troops surrendered to him,) in order to procure an exchange of so many of the King's troops, now our prisoners. He could control their will for the advantage of the British nation, but had not the least influence over them to prevent their murdering our people in cold blood. The fear of the Indians of being attacked by our forces, was only a pretext; for Captain Forster appears desirous of commencing hostilities before the expiration of the time limited. Five or six of our prisoners were murdered by the Indians, in the most cruel manner, after the surrender. The whole were stripped, contrary to the terms of capitulation, and driven in a neck of land, during a very stormy and tempestuous night.

Colonels Read's and Staat's Regiments arrived at St. Johns Saturday evening. The letter from General Thomas to General Wooster, of which the enclosed is a copy, this minute came to hand.

Tuesday, May 28, 1776.

GENERAL THOMAS TO COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA.

Head-Quarters, Sorel, May 20, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am unfortunately obliged to inform you that the Army here have now for two days been entirely destitute of meat; that no contractor is provided, nor have I any money to purchase provisions, were they to be procured in the country; that, in addition to this, a great part of the Army are, or speedily will be, unfit for duty by means of inoculation, notwithstanding everything I have been able to do to prevent it; that, in consequence of the intelligence I have this day received of the unhappy situation of the troops under the command of Colonel Bedel, I have thought it prudent to detach two regiments, the one to Montreal, the other to Chambly and St. Johns. The want of provisions has made it absolutely necessary for me to order Colonel Maxwell, with the troops under his command at Three Rivers, immediately to join me here. In order to judge truly of my situation, you will be pleased to figure to yourselves a retreating Army, disheartened by unavoidable misfortunes, destitute of almost every necessary to render their lives comfortable, or even tolerable, sick, and (as they think) wholly neglected, and no probable prospect of a speedy relief. If you will be pleased, gentlemen, for a moment to reflect on these circumstances, you will not be surprised when informed that there are great murmurings and complaints among the soldiery. In short, such are our present circumstances that, unless some effectual spirited steps are immediately taken for our relief, it will not be possible to keep the Army together, but we must unavoidably be obliged to abandon a country of infinite importance to the safety of the Colonies, and to leave our friends here a prey to those whose mercies are cruelties.

I am, gentlemen, with much esteem, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

JOHN THOMAS.

To the Honourable Commissioners of Congress.

P. S. You will be sensible, gentlemen, of the absolute necessity of sending here all the batteaus which can possibly be spared.

J. T.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA.

Sorel, May 17, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have the pleasure of your letter by General Thompson and Colonel St. Clair, who arrived safe here last evening. Herewith you have a letter from General

Thomas, who is hourly expected here; it came by an express, who told me he had orders to deliver the letter to me, and wait my answer. I apprehended there might be some mistake in the superscription. I took the liberty of opening it, which you will excuse. I am very happy to find you are in sentiments with me in regard to the small-pox. General Thompson and all the officers here agree with us. I think it advisable to inoculate Colonel Patterson's Regiment at Montreal, Colonel Bedel's at the Cedars, and the troops posted at La Prairie and Longueil, at those places. It is thought most advisable to send all the troops at Montreal here, who have had the small-pox, and to send five or six hundred men from this to Montreal, who will be at no expense of getting up, as they can row themselves. It will be very difficult to provide them quarters on the Sorel, except at such a distance as will render it extremely difficult to visit and supply them with provisions and other necessities. This difficulty will be obviated at Montreal, as they will be near together, and may be quartered on the inhabitants, (if the barracks are not sufficient,) and among the whole a sufficient number of men will be found well to keep the garrison. The distance of time you mention between inoculating them will doubtless be most prudent.

As soon as General Thomas arrives, I expect a council of war will be immediately held. I shall be for keeping Deschambault by all means, if it can be done without too great a hazard of our Army. Our own strength (which at present is uncertain) and the advice which we may receive of the numbers and designs of the enemy, must govern our movements. I believe the difficulty of provisions may be got over; but the small-pox, and gondolas to secure our navigation and retreat, are very great obstacles in our way.

We have here about three tons of powder; there is a quantity at Chambly—how much I am uncertain. The distribution of the batteaus is already made, and twenty are sent from this to St. Johns. Immediately on my arrival here I sent to Maska, and have received from thence one hundred and seventy-six bags of flour, I believe the same you refer to. As soon as Mr. Bonfield arrives, I shall employ him to collect all the flour in this neighbourhood, who will at the same time call on Mr. Belfueil, and receive such goods as may answer our purpose. I have in contemplation the sinking a chevaux-de-frise, at the islands five miles below this, where the channel is very narrow, but the water is so high we cannot fortify at present. Two other vessels will be ordered to Montreal the first fair wind.

I beg my respectful compliments to the ladies, who, I hear, are returned with you. And am, with great affection and esteem, gentlemen, &c.,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To the Hon. Messrs. Chase and Carroll.

GENERAL THOMPSON TO THE COMMISSIONERS.

Camp at Sorel, May 25, 1776.

DEAR GENTLEMEN: I have been up the Sorel as far as Colonel Dugan's, and find that place very suitable to have a great part of the provisions deposited. I have therefore ordered boards to be sent down from Chambly, and will send up carpenters to-morrow, to have his barn and other houses fitted up for the reception of flour and pork; and have it sent from thence to this place occasionally. I have also sent a party to bolt all the flour as it is brought in there. Dugan's bolting-cloth will bolt four thousand pounds in twenty-four hours, if constantly wrought, which I have ordered to be done. I have despatched people up the Sorel, to collect all the wheat on both sides of the river that can be spared for the Army, and have it sent to the mills as soon as possible. I will also fix another place for a storehouse between Dugan's and Chambly. I have set masons to work in building ovens for the immediate use of the troops here, and have ordered ovens to be built at Dugan's for baking hard bread, which is always useful in an Army.

Being doubtful that more provisions were drawn for sundry regiments than they were entitled to receive, I ordered the Commissary not to deliver any, unless the returns were certified by Major Scull, and find that I shall save at least three hundred rations per day by that precaution.

On ordering the Surgeons to examine the state of the sick, many have been found at the point of death, who were left by their officers, without a person to take care of them.

I also discovered upwards of a hundred damned rascals crowded amongst them fit for duty. I have now got all the sick together, and appointed Doctors McKenzie, Stewart, and Marshall, to attend them, with proper nurses, &c., and hope soon to have many of them fit for duty. Regularity and discipline begin to work their way in the little Army here, and I expect in a little time to have them in pretty good order.

Colonel Maxwell, with his party, arrived here yesterday. He is very unhappy in being ordered up, and thinks that he could, with the few troops he had with him, have kept his post at Deschambault, till a reinforcement of both men and provisions could have been sent to him. He believes that, with two gondolas and a small battery on each side the river opposite to them, the pass can be supported against any number of troops or ships that the enemy can send for some weeks; and it is probable that our reinforcements, both of men and provisions, will arrive before that of the enemy.

Mr. Bonfield says that about three or four miles below the Three Rivers, the channel runs within musket-shot of the north shore; that the banks are high, and, indeed, everything in our favour to engage us to take possession of that spot, which would be taking a great and necessary step towards our going farther down the river; and, by leaving a few boats in the mouths of the rivers, under a small guard, a safe retreat can be made to this place at any time, if we are reduced to that necessity; but I hope it will not be the case. I can take from here twenty days' provisions in pork and thirty in flour, for a thousand men, and leave enough to supply this place till more can be sent. I will, if you think proper, set out with that number of troops and some light artillery for that place as soon as Colonel De Haas arrives, whom I hope to see in a few days, or a regiment either from Pennsylvania or New-Jersey.

Enclosed you have a return of the provisions here in store, and also the quantity of ammunition. Lead we have none, and must request that a quantity, such as can be spared from Montreal, be sent down. There is certainly a large quantity of lead in the hands of those merchants who are concerned in the Indian trade; every pound of it should be secured and sent here. I am told that the Canadians below Deschambault are now taking arms against us, and we must expect it will be the case above Richelieu as soon as the enemy's ships pass the rapids. I shall, whenever you direct, establish a foot-post betwixt this place, Montreal, and Chambly; but would recommend that the soldiers appointed to that duty be sent as well from Chambly and Montreal as this post, as they can be relieved, when necessary, more conveniently in that way than if the whole were sent from one place—for instance, the distance being forty-five miles from each place, let a Corporal and four men be stationed eleven and one-quarter miles from here, on each road, to receive and convey all despatches to the next post, which is to be fixed at the same distance. Three parties will be enough on each road, one on the road to Montreal and another to Chambly from this place; and two parties from each of the other posts will make the duty in that way easy and equal. I will order from here in any manner you think proper to direct.

Near thirty carpenters have inoculated themselves without orders. Should not their pay be stopped and provisions charged to them, till they are fit for duty? I really think that both officers and men, who have, through cowardice, obliged their General to retreat, in so disgraceful a manner, from before Quebeck, should be called to an account, particularly the Field Officers, and all pay stopped until their characters appear in a proper light. Indeed, no returns or certificates of theirs should be taken notice of; as a rascal who will run off in the time of danger, or supposed danger, is capable of any villany whatever. If the country must be evacuated, all the provisions below us should be taken, except just as much as will supply the inhabitants, that our enemies may not profit by anything we leave behind. There are no tents here for the party that came up with Colonel Maxwell, and the men suffer much for want of them.

Captain Stevens goes up to provide some articles wanted for the artillery, and will return as soon as possible. One thousand weight of lead, fifty quires of cartridge-paper, and fifteen pounds of thread, wanted to complete the troops here to twenty-four rounds per man. I beg you would give directions to have those things sent. If you approve having the disaffected people taken up, I will, on any day you appoint, have all I can find within twenty miles of this place secured, which is as much as I can promise, from the number of men here. I have this moment received some interesting intelligence from below; it is, in substance, that a reinforcement of two regiments (the Twenty-Ninth and Forty-Seventh) had arrived at Quebeck, and that they still continue to fortify the town; that a person was met on the road between the Three Rivers and Quebeck, going up the country express, who, on hearing of the affair at the Cedars, returned immediately to carry the account of it to General Carleton, and it was supposed that some forces would be sent up in consequence of it. That the French people, who had taken up arms in our favour, near Quebeck, after having been some time confined, have liberty to return to their families, with orders to hold themselves in readiness when called upon. The Militia in Quebeck continue to do duty in the town as usual. General Carleton is continued in the Government of Quebeck, with a new commission, extending not only through the Government but the borders of it. That General Howe is to remain at Halifax, until he is joined by the fleet from England; that the prisoners are well treated. The officers are confined in the Seminary, and have the liberty of the gardens. That a frigate and two armed vessels were lying at Deschambault, but none had passed the rapids of Richelieu; that the enemy had two guards at Cape Rouge, the strength of which this person does not know, but they have no post farther advanced. That General Carleton has sent commissions to the different officers of Militia, re-establishing their former appointment under him, even where our troops marched through yesterday; as likewise orders to repair the roads and bridges. This intelligence comes by a person who left Quebeck on Monday.

If General Arnold still meets with opposition from the enemy above Montreal, perhaps it will be best that I join him, with five hundred men from this place, and without loss of time settle affairs in the upper country.

I am, dear gentlemen, your affectionate, humble servant,
WILLIAM THOMPSON.

To the Honourable the Commissioners.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO THE COMMISSIONERS.

La Chine, May 25, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: One of our men this moment came in who was taken at the Cedars; he made his escape this morning, and says we have lost only ten privates killed, the rest are prisoners at St. Ann's and the Cedars; the enemy lost double that number. They were last night within three miles of us, with three hundred savages, fifty regulars, and two hundred and fifty Canadians, with our two pieces of cannon; but on hearing that we had a large body of men here, they made a precipitate retreat. He left them above Point Clare; they have only twenty-one canoes, which will carry eight or nine men on an average. I intend to send off four hundred men in batteaus immediately, to proceed to the isle Perot, and endeavour to cut off the enemy's retreat. I expect they will make some stay at Fort St. Ann's, by which it may possibly be effected. Pray hurry on the men as fast as possible. I shall push them on from this immediately. We have so much water-craft that we can always keep up a communication between those on land and those on water, and be able to act in concert.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,
BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To the Honourable the Commissioners.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO THE COMMISSIONERS.

St. Ann's, May 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I wrote you from La Chine yesterday morning that the Army marched at six o'clock for this place. We arrived here with the main body at six o'clock, P. M., when we discovered several of the enemy's batteaus taking our unhappy prisoners off an Island at one league distance from us. Words cannot express our anxiety, as it was not in our power to relieve them; our batteaus were a league behind, coming up the rapids very slowly. I sent several expresses to hurry them; however, it was sunset before they arrived, and I could embark all my people; previous to which arrived some Caughnawaga Indians, whom I had sent early in the morning to the savages, demanding a surrender of our prisoners; and, in case of refusal, and that any of them were murdered, I would sacrifice every Indian who fell into my hands, and would follow them to their towns, and destroy them by fire and sword. The answer I received was, that they had five hundred of our prisoners collected together, and that if we offered to land and attack them at Quinze Chiens, where they were posted, they would immediately kill every prisoner, and give no quarter to any who should fall into their hands hereafter. Words cannot express my feelings at the delivery of this message: torn by the conflicting passions of revenge and humanity, a sufficient force to take ample revenge, raging for action, urged me on one hand; and humanity for five hundred unhappy wretches, who were on the point of being sacrificed if our vengeance was not delayed, plead equally strong on the other. In this situation I ordered the boats to row immediately for the Island, where our prisoners had been confined; we there found five unhappy wretches, naked and almost starved; the rest, they informed me, were all taken off by the savages just before, except one or two, who, being unwell, were inhumanly butchered. I immediately ordered the boats to row for Quinze Chiens, about four miles from the Island, on the main land; there the enemy had two brass six-pounders, were intrenched round the church, and well fortified. They began firing upon us when we approached within three-quarters of a mile of the shore, with their cannon and small-arms. We rowed near in shore without returning a shot; by this time it was so dark we could not distinguish a man on shore, and as we were unacquainted with the ground, and our people much fatigued, I judged it most prudent to return to St. Ann's. On our arrival I called a council of war, who were unanimous in attacking the enemy early in the morning. At two o'clock in the morning, Lieutenant Parke was sent to me with a flag, and articles for exchange of prisoners, entered into by Major Sherburne and Captain Forster; one article was, that there should be an exchange of prisoners of equal rank, and that our troops should be under an obligation not to take up arms again; but the King's troops were to be at full liberty. This article I rejected, and despatched Lieutenant Parke to acquaint Captain Forster that I would enter into articles for exchange of prisoners on equal terms; which, if he refused, my determination was to attack him immediately; and if our prisoners were murdered, to sacrifice every soul who fell into our hands. Captain Forster agreed to these terms, and sent them back signed. As they were not so explicit as I judged necessary, with some alterations and explanations I returned them. Enclosed you receive a copy as finally agreed to. This matter was finished at six o'clock this evening, and to-morrow morning part of the prisoners are to be sent to Caughnawaga. You may be surprised that six days were allowed for the delivery of the prisoners, and that hostilities should in the meantime cease; this does not include the savages. Captain Forster pretended it was not in his power to fix on any particular time for that purpose, but would engage on his honour to deliver them as soon as possible, and proposed if it could be done in less time, hostilities should then commence; of which Captain Forster is to determine, and acquaint me this evening.

The base hypocritical conduct of the King's officers, their employing savages to screen them in their butcheries, their suffering their prisoners to be killed in cool blood, I will leave with you to comment on. I observed to Captain Forster that it appeared very extraordinary to me that he could influence the savages to deliver up the prisoners, and could not keep them from being murdered in cool blood, or prevent their being stripped naked, contrary to the agreement made with the garrison at the Cedars.

I intend being with you this evening, to consult on some effectual measures to take with these savages, and still more savage British troops, who are still at Quinze Chiens. As soon as our prisoners are released, I hope it will be in our power to take ample vengeance, or we will nobly fall in the attempt.

I am, with great respect and esteem, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To the Honourable the Commissioners.

P. S. A party of fourteen or fifteen Canadians, taken at the Cedars, are excluded from the above treaty, Captain

Forster alleging that he had positive orders from Government for that purpose.

CARTEL FOR EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

After the maturest deliberation on the customs and manners of the savages in war, and which I find so opposite and contrary to the humane disposition of the British Government, and to all civilized nations, and to avoid the inevitable consequences of the savage customs in former wars, (which, by their threats and menaces, I find is not changed,) that of their putting their prisoners to death, to disencumber themselves in case of their being attacked by their enemies—I have, therefore, in compliance with the above disposition in Government, and the dictates of humanity, thought fit to enter into the following articles of agreement with General Arnold, in the name of the power he is employed by, and of the officers and soldiers who shall be released by this agreement, whose rank and number shall be endorsed on this cartel:

1st. That there shall be an exchange of prisoners faithfully made, returning an equal number of his Majesty's troops of the same rank with those released by this agreement, as soon as possible within the space of two months, allowing a moderate time for casualties that may render the performance of this article impracticable.

2d. That the prisoners shall be conducted in safety, with all possible convenience and despatch that circumstances will permit, to the south shore of the river St. Lawrence, from which they are to repair to St. Johns, and return to their own countries immediately, without committing any wastes or spoil on their march thither, allowing ten or twelve to go to Montreal to transact their private affairs.

3d. That the prisoners so returned shall not, under any pretext whatsoever, either in words, writing, or signs, give the least information to Government enemies, or their adherents now in arms, in the least prejudicial to his Majesty's service.

4th. That hostages be delivered for the performance of these articles to the full, according to the sense and spirit of the agreement, without any equivocation whatsoever.

6th. That the security of the subscribers be given to the inhabitants for all the waste and spoil committed by the detachment under Colonel Bedel, on fair accounts attested and signed, being delivered, and for which the hostages are not to be answerable.

It being our full intention to fulfil the above articles, we mutually sign and interchange them, as assurances of performance.

Given under our hands this 27th day of May, 1776.

VAUDREUIL,

GEORGE FORSTER,

Captain, commanding the King's Troops.

1st. The prisoners shall be sent to the south shore of the St. Lawrence, within one league of Caughnawaga, and from thence to St. Johns and their own country, except twelve, who have liberty to go to Montreal; for which purpose six days shall be allowed; and hostilities to cease on both sides.

4th. Four Captains shall be sent to Quebeck as hostages, and remain there until prisoners are exchanged.

6th. The Continental troops, from principle, have ever avoided plundering. Upon proof being made of any waste committed by Colonel Bedel's detachment, reparation shall be made.

Given under our hands at St. Ann's, this 27th of May, 1776.

BENEDICT ARNOLD,

Brigadier-General of the Continental Troops.

GEORGE FORSTER,

Captain, commanding the King's Troops.

Two Majors, nine Captains, twenty Subalterns, and four hundred and forty-three Soldiers.

But if the prisoners can be conducted in less time, this truce to cease on the return of the last boats employed on this service, on notice given.

GEORGE FORSTER,

Captain, commanding the King's Troops.

May 27, 1776. Answer: If Captain Forster will choose to have hostilities commence in less time than six days, it will be perfectly agreeable to me, provided the time is fixed on, and notice given this evening.

BENEDICT ARNOLD, Brigadier-General.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM MAJOR HENRY SHERBURNE, OF NEWPORT, TO A GENTLEMAN IN PROVIDENCE, RHODE-ISLAND, DATED NEW-YORK, JUNE 18, 1776.

On my arrival at Montreal from New-York, I was informed that a detachment of one hundred and forty men was ordered from our regiment to reinforce the Cedars, a fort about forty-five miles southwest from Montreal, which was then attacked by a body of regulars, Canadians, and savages. I offered my service to take the command of this party, and was honoured with the thanks from the two Commissioners from Congress on the occasion.* On the 16th of May, I marched off my detachment from Montreal, but meeting with many difficulties in procuring boats, rendered it impossible for me to cross the lake till the 18th. The enemy had then got so near, that while Captain Bliss was out in pursuit of teams, not two miles from the landing place, he was taken by some savages and Canadians. From him I received a letter the same evening, acquainting me with his unhappy situation; also, that five hundred Canadians and savages had collected, who had determined to attack me that night. This information I thought sufficient to occasion a retreat, and by two o'clock in the morning got our men and provision safe back over the lake. Next day, being the 19th, began the embarkation again, but the wind being very violent, could cross only one boat that day. Captain Sullivan, brother to General Sullivan, went in her, and with a small party landed near a priest's house, whom he compelled to go with him to the house in which Captain Bliss was confined, released him, and safely returned him to me that day.

On the 20th I again passed the lake with my party, and immediately began my march for the Cedars, nine miles distant. When we had advanced five miles on our way, at the entrance of a wood we discovered the enemy, who immediately attacked us from all quarters. We stood our ground, openly exposed to the enemy, while they were under cover of trees, &c., one hour, when, finding they were endeavouring to get in our rear, I immediately ordered a **New-York, June 20.*—The following authentick account is communicated by an officer of the detachment it principally concerns.

On advice that a reinforcement was necessary at the Cedars, a small fort forty-five miles southwest from Montreal, where a party of four hundred men, under the command of Major Butterfield were posted, on the 16th of May, one hundred and forty men, under the command of Major Henry Sherburne, were detached from Montreal. He met with great difficulties at the lake, which, after crossing, he was obliged to re-pass and cross again, so that it was the 20th before he could proceed from thence with one hundred men, including himself, the rest being left for guards, and other necessary services. About eleven or twelve o'clock they set out for the Cedars, distant nine miles; and having marched about five, they were attacked by a large body of savages and Canadians, who, under cover of a wood, fired upon them. Our people, though entirely exposed, without shelter, maintained an obstinate engagement for one hour and forty minutes; when the savages, having surrounded, rushed upon and disarmed them. Then a scene of savage barbarity ensued, and many of our people were sacrificed to their fury—butchered with tomahawks and other instruments of murder. The enemy consisted of about one hundred Canadians and four hundred savages, who immediately stripped the prisoners almost naked, and drove them to the fort, where they were delivered to Captain Forster, of the Eighth Regiment, who had with him about forty regulars, and then commanded the fort, which had been the day before surrendered to him, with little if any resistance, by Major Butterfield—an event which was neither known nor in the least suspected by Major Sherburne.

Captain Forster and the regulars kept within the lines, and were not of the party who surrounded and so barbarously used our people; but after they were brought to the fort, they were repeatedly again and again stripped of the small remainder of their clothes, till many of them had not sufficient to hide their nakedness. Our loss in the whole action was about twenty-eight, viz: killed and wounded in the action, and killed afterwards in cold-blood, about twenty; carried off by the savages, seven or eight. Of the enemy were killed twenty-two, whose deaths were ascertained, and among them a chief warrior of the Seneca tribe, on whose account our prisoners were probably used with the more cruelty, insult, and abuse. Major Sherburne and the other officers were sent to an Indian town called Connasadoga, at the lake of the Two Mountains; the private men to a desolate island in the middle of the lake, where they were scantily supplied with provision barely sufficient to keep them from starving, and though the weather was cold, without any clothes, and without any covering but the canopy of heaven, for eight days, when they were released on a cartel agreed to between General Arnold and Captain Forster, viz: that there should be an equal exchange of prisoners within two months, allowing for casualties; and for the performance on our part were pledged the bodies of four Captains, who were left as hostages, viz: Captain Sullivan, (brother to the General,) Captain Bliss, of Major Sherburne's party, and Captains Stephens and Green, of Major Butterfield's party.

General Arnold, with a party of about eight or nine hundred men, arrived the 26th, and though with about five hundred he appeared upon the lake, happily for the prisoners he did not cross it. If he had, it appeared from every circumstance that they would have been all murdered, disporetreat, which was done with the greatest order, still keeping up our fire for about forty minutes longer, when, on passing a bridge, a large body of them rushed on our front and made them prisoners, while the rest of the enemy, (about five hundred in number,) seized the rear and centre. Some of them were immediately employed in stripping us almost naked, whilst others were tomahawking and scalping my wounded men, some of whom were butchered in my presence. After they had stripped us, and killed as many as they thought proper, we were marched off to the Cedars, the place we were destined to reinforce; which had been given up to them the day before by one Major Butterfield, with near four hundred men, that were ready and willing to fight, together with two field-pieces, and plenty of ammunition. This vile conduct of Major Butterfield was the unhappy cause of my disaster. Being obliged to leave guards on the road as we came from Montreal, with some provisions we had seized, together with some taken sick by the hardships we underwent in getting over the lake, my party was reduced to one hundred men. It is with the greatest pleasure I can say, that I did not see a dejected countenance during the whole conduct. I lost from my small party twenty-eight men killed in action, wounded, killed in cold blood, and carried off by the savages. From the best account I can get, the enemy lost twenty-two killed and wounded, among them a chief of the Seneca tribe, one of the greatest warriors they had. The barbarity with which we were treated by the savages, together with our sufferings for situations having been made for that purpose; nor was it certain, considering the difficulty of access to the enemy, that he could have obtained any considerable advantage over them, or if he had, that he could possibly have cut off their retreat.

From a number of persons lately arrived from Canada, the following Account, in addition to what was published in our last, relating to the unfortunate affair at the Cedars, is collected.

That at the small fort called the Cedars, where upwards of four hundred men, under Colonel Bedel, well provided, and having two pieces of cannon, were posted, he received advice that a large body of Canadians, Indians, and some Regulars, the whole under the command of Captain Forster, of the Eighth or King's Regiment, were on their way to attack the fort. That when they had approached within about seven miles of it, Colonel Bedel, committing the charge of the fort to Major Butterfield, the officer next in command, accompanied by several others, set out for Montreal, or Head-Quarters, to solicit for a reinforcement. That after his departure, the enemy, consisting of about four hundred, approached and invested the fort, which they summoned to surrender, menaced with destruction in case of resistance, and boasted of their ability to take it by storm. That after two days' inactivity, by which time the enemy had increased their number to about five hundred, Major Butterfield, contrary to the sense of his officers and men, delivered up the fort, surrendering himself, and those under his command prisoners of war. That meanwhile, on the representation of Colonel Bedel, Major Sherburne, in order to strengthen the fort, was sent with a detachment of upwards of one hundred men, and was by various accidents retarded in his march till the 20th, when, being about four miles from the fort, and not suspecting it to be in the hands of our enemies, he was fired upon, surrounded on all sides, disarmed, and, after an obstinate engagement of more than an hour and a half, with four to one against him, with all his men made prisoners of war. That upon advice of this double misfortune, General Arnold was detached with about seven or eight hundred men, well provided with cannon, and batteaus for crossing the lake, with his whole body. That the enemy being posted on a point of land at the bottom of a bay, could not have been attacked with a probability of success, without landing at some other point at a distance, and marching round to them; nor in any case was it possible to cut off their retreat. That on the 26th of May, General Arnold, with about five hundred of his men, appeared on the lake, to intimidate the enemy, then amounting to six or seven hundred; but, knowing their situation, had no design to land. That, as he expected, they sent out a flag of truce, and proposed very insolent terms of capitulation, which he rejected with disdain; but being assured by Captain Forster that he had with him only about forty Regulars, and little more than one hundred Canadians, and that the rest were all savages, over whom he had no command, and but little influence; that they being actuated wholly by hopes of plunder, or revenge for some of their countrymen slain in the contest, and having the prisoners all in their power, he could not restrain them; and that the moment General Arnold should begin to attack them, they were determined to murder all the prisoners, and had prepared everything for that purpose,—that compassion to these unhappy victims at last induced him to agree to a suspension of arms for six days, and an equal exchange of prisoners, to be returned without arms, but not to be stripped or abused; and for performance on our part, that four of our Captains should be left as hostages. That accordingly the Captains Sullivan, Bliss, Stephens, and Green, were delivered, when our officers were returned, and the other prisoners, having been much abused, and treated with great barbarity, were left almost starved and entirely naked, on a desolate island, in the middle of the lake; and that the enemy had, in many instances, violated the terms of capitulation, and before the expiration of the six days of suspension, had all dispersed and retired, taking with them the four hostages, to be delivered back on the return of an equal number of prisoners, which was to be within two months. Our prisoners, when brought back, immediately joined the companies to which they belonged.

want of provisions and clothes, is beyond anything which can be imagined or described. In this deplorable situation we remained eight days, when we were released by an agreement entered into between General Arnold and Captain Forster, who commanded the King's troops, about forty in number. I am now on my way to the Congress, by order of General Arnold, to lay before them a state of this unhappy affair.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 1, 1776.]

Hartford, May 27, 1776.

SIR: On consideration of the advantageous situation and natural provisions and circumstances of the harbour of New-London, to render it a place of safety for the shipping of the Colony, as well as of the Continental fleet, we were induced to set ourselves to fortifying it at Mamacock, Winthrop's Neck, and on the rock and height on Groton side, places fit for the purpose, and were seeking the cannon necessary. At the time that other help failed, Providence smiled on our endeavours; a supply of cannon and stores was brought into that harbour from New-Providence, by Commodore Hopkins. On receiving your letter of the 17th of April last, enclosing one to the Commodore, after observing the contents, sealing and enclosing it, I transmitted the same to him, and early returned you intelligence of his proceedings relative thereto. In pursuance of the resolve of Congress, I directed twenty-four of the cannon, left at New-London, to be mounted on carriages. This work is accomplished; ten of them are put into their births on Groton rock and height, ready for use; the rest will soon be carried to Mamacock and the places where they are to be used. There are not enough of them yet so as to answer very good purposes, with them that we had before. I thought it my duty and necessary to write to the Commodore concerning the cannon and such other of the stores as are not necessary for the fleet, and were to be landed and left at New-London. To my very great surprise, received for answer the Commodore's letter of the 21st instant, and an order by Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, to deliver them twenty of the heavy cannon, &c., whereof copies are enclosed. Mr. Huntington, passing through this town from Congress, informed me that the order sent the Commodore by those gentlemen, mentioned twenty of the heaviest cannon he brought from New-Providence to New-London, and had since carried to Newport; and that it was not intended to remove from us any of the cannon left at New-London. An answer is returned by those two gentlemen, with a denial to deliver the cannon on his order, being sensible that the honourable Congress would justify my non-compliance with his order, (not having even a copy of theirs to him,) and that on a candid consideration, he would approve my conduct. I do gratefully acknowledge the goodness of your body in directing me to employ those cannon in the defence of that harbour, and trust the same will not be taken from thence, considering the necessity and the advantage they will be of for the interest and safety of the United Colonies, as well as of this. To secure their fleet, and the navigation of the Sound, are both obvious and important objects.

Colonel Mott, an experienced surveyor and engineer, employed in that service the last war, at St. Johns the last year, and now in erecting the works at New-London, whose skill and integrity may be relied on, hath lately made a map of the harbour, which is enclosed. I flatter myself, on consideration of this harbour, in comparison with others, it will meet the approbation and encouragement of Congress, to be fortified at a general expense.

Your letter, accompanied with commissions for another battalion to be raised in this Colony, for one or two years service, in Continental pay, is received, and now under consideration of our Assembly, and will be forwarded with diligence. Before this, I received letters from General Washington, requesting me to have men in readiness to go to his assistance at New-York when called; and from the Committee of the Assembly of Massachusetts, showing apprehensions of their need of assistance; which were laid before our Assembly, and measures taken for raising some battalions to be in readiness. The proceedings here will be communicated when finished. Our zeal and ardour are not abated.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

Providence, May 21, 1776.

SIR: I this day received yours, and observe the contents; and as to the order of Congress to deliver the cannon to you, there was a discretionary power in me to stop as many as I thought would be for the benefit of the fleet; and as I was and am now careening the fleet, I think it not safe to part with the cannon before the ships are in a posture of defence.

I yesterday received an order of Congress to deliver to Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, in order to be sent to Philadelphia, for the defence of that city, twenty of the heaviest cannon which I brought from New-Providence; and as the largest of them were left at New-London, I have accordingly given them an order on you for the same, and make no doubt, as it is the express orders of Congress, you will deliver the same without delay.

I am, sir, with great regard, your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour of the Colony of Connecticut.

Providence, May 21, 1776.

SIR: On receipt of this, you will deliver to the bearer, Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson, twenty of the heaviest cannon, a proportion of the trucks, and as many large ball as can be spared, which I left at New-London, I having received an order of Congress for the same, in order to be sent immediately to Philadelphia, for the defence of that city.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., or in his absence to Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, Merchant in New-London.

HARTFORD (CONNECTICUT) COMMITTEE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 1.—Referred to the Committee on Prisoners.]

Hartford, May 27, 1776.

PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: On the 23d instant, the parole Governour Skene was under being expired, by direction of Governour Trumbull a parole, of which the enclosed is a copy, was tendered him, (he having previously elected Middletown for the place of his residence,) which he peremptorily refused to give; at the same time offered his parole to abide within the town of Middletown, or such limits as Governour Trumbull should prescribe, and insisted that that was all the resolve of Congress, relative to him, required. After he was made acquainted by Governour Trumbull and the Committee, that unless he gave the parole he must be confined, he, continuing to refuse, was by the Committee committed to prison on said 23d instant; knowing that an enemy within the walls, at liberty to give intelligence, is far more dangerous than many without.

Captain Samuel McKay, a prisoner taken at St. Johns, and sent to Hartford by General Schuyler, being under a parole, a copy of which was transmitted to Congress, by him renewed, and given on the 10th day of May instant, did, in the night after the 18th instant, make his escape in violation of his parole, and took with him Daniel McFarland, a soldier belonging to the Artillery, who was his waiter, and being pursued, were retaken at Lanesborough, and brought back to Hartford, with one John Graves, of Pittsfield, who assisted them in making their escape, and were all three committed to prison on the 22d instant. Said McKay has a horse, which the Committee have in custody. The Committee esteem it their duty to embrace the earliest opportunity to acquaint the honourable Continental Congress with the above transactions, and shall attend their directions thereon.

From your Honours' dutiful, obedient, humble servants.

Per order of the Committee at Hartford:

JESSE MOAT, Chairman.

Colony of CONNECTICUT, }
HARTFORD, ss.

I, being a prisoner by order of the Continental Congress of the thirteen United Colonies in America, do promise and engage on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to go immediately to the town of Middletown, in the Colony of Connecticut, the place of my election, and there to remain within the limits of said township of Middletown during the present contest between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of said United Colonies shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the said United Colonies, nor do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures or proceedings of any Congress for the United Colonies, during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged, or discharged, or otherwise ordered, by the Continental Congress, by the General Assembly of Connecticut, or by Governour Trumbull.

Given under my hand this 21st day of May, Anno Domini 1776.

The above is a true copy of the parole tendered to Governour Skene, which he refused to subscribe.

Test:

BENJAMIN PAYNE, Com. Clerk.

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, May 27, 1776.

SIR: I am to inform your Excellency that Mr. Bartlett, the Agent at Beverly, has purchased the brigantine Hannah for the continent, at five hundred and twenty pounds. Captain Bradford, of Boston, having represented to me that he had an order from Robert Morris, Esq., member of Congress, and one of the Marine Committee, to provide a good sailing vessel for Continental service, and that the brigantine would answer the purpose, I have directed Mr. Bartlett to let Captain Bradford have the brigantine, to fit her for the use of the continent, as Mr. Morris writes that a vessel is wanted to go a voyage upon particular business immediately.

In the late account I transmitted, respecting the attempt the pirates made upon the two armed schooners in this harbour, I mentioned that Major Frazer's schooner cut her cable and came up. Since I have learned more particulars, I think it appears that the little schooner was bravely defended. The Franklin had twenty-one men, officers included; the Lady Washington had seven—Captain Cunningham commander. She was attacked by five boats, which were supposed to contain near or quite a hundred men; but after repeated efforts to board her, they were beaten off by the intrepidity and exertions of the little company, who gloriously defended the Lady against the brutal ravishers of liberty.

I am your Excellency's obedient humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

Te General Washington.

MEETING OF THE INHABITANTS OF THE TOWN OF MALDEN.

At a legal meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Malden, May 27, 1776, it was voted unanimously, That the following Instructions be given to their Representative, viz:

To Mr. EZRA SARGEANT:

SIR: A resolution of the honourable House of Representatives, calling upon the several towns in this Colony to express their minds with respect to the important question of American Independence, is the occasion of our now instructing you. The time was, sir, when we loved the King and the people of Great Britain with an affection truly filial. We felt ourselves interested in their glory. We shared in their joys and sorrows. We cheerfully poured the fruits of all our labour into the lap of our mother country, and without reluctance expended our blood and our treasure in their cause.

These were our sentiments towards Great Britain while she continued to act the part of a parent state. We felt ourselves happy in our connection with her, nor wished it to be dissolved; but our sentiments are altered. It is now the ardent wish of our souls that America may become a free and independent State.

A sense of unprovoked injuries will arouse the resentment of the most peaceful. Such injuries these Colonies have received from Britain. Unjustifiable claims have been made by the King and his minions, to tax us without our consent. These claims have been prosecuted in a manner cruel and unjust to the highest degree. The frantick policy of Administration hath induced them to send fleets and armies to America, that by depriving us of our trade, and cutting the throats of our brethren, they might awe us into submission, and erect a system of despotism in America which should so far enlarge the influence of the Crown as to enable it to rivet their shackles upon the people of Great Britain.

This plan was brought to a crisis upon the ever memorable 19th of April. We remember the fatal day! The expiring groans of our countrymen yet vibrate on our ears, and we now behold the flames of their peaceful dwellings ascending to Heaven! We hear their blood crying to us from the ground for vengeance; charging us, as we value the peace of their manes, to have no further connection with a King who can unfeelingly hear of the slaughter of his subjects, and composedly sleep with their blood upon his soul! The manner in which the war has been prosecuted hath confirmed us in these sentiments. Piracy and murder, robbery and breach of faith, have been conspicuous in the conduct of the King's troops; defenceless towns have been attacked and destroyed; the ruins of Charlestown, which are daily in our view, daily remind us of this; the cries of the widow and the orphan demand our attention; they demand that the hand of pity should wipe the tear from their eye, and that the sword of their country should avenge their wrongs. We long entertained hopes that the spirit of the British nation would once more induce them to assert their own and our rights, and bring to condign punishment the elevated villains who have trampled upon the sacred rights of men, and affronted the majesty of the people. We hoped in vain. They have lost their love to freedom; they have lost their spirit of just resentment. We therefore renounce with disdain our connection with a kingdom of slaves. We bid a final adieu to Britain.

Could an accommodation be now effected, we have reason to think that it would be fatal to the liberties of America; we should soon catch the contagion of venality and dissipation which hath subjected Britons to lawless domination. Were we placed in the situation we were in in 1763; were the powers of appointing officers, and commanding the Militia, in the hands of Governours, our arts, trade, and manufactures would be cramped; nay, more than this, the life of every man who has been active in the cause of his country would be endangered.

For these reasons, as well as many others which might be produced, we are confirmed in the opinion, that the present age will be deficient in their duty to God, their posterity, and themselves, if they do not establish an American Republick. This is the only form of Government which we wish to see established; for we can never be willingly subject to any other King than He, who, being possessed of infinite wisdom, goodness, and rectitude, is alone fit to possess unlimited power.

We have freely spoken our sentiments upon this important subject; but we mean not to dictate; we have unbounded confidence in the wisdom and uprightness of the Continental Congress; with pleasure we recollect that this affair is under their direction; and we now instruct you, sir, to give them the strongest assurance that, if they should declare America to be a free and independent Republick, your constituents will support and defend the measure to the last drop of their blood, and the last farthing of their treasure.

Attest:

SAMUEL MERRIT, Town Clerk.

BRUNSWICK, (BRISTOL COUNTY,) MASSACHUSETTS.

Whereas the honourable Congress of the United Colonies thought it necessary to know the minds of the people in regard to Independence; at a full meeting of the freeholders and other inhabitants of the town of Brunswick, on the 31st of May, 1776, it was unanimously voted, that if the honourable Congress should, for the safety of the United Colonies, declare them independent of the King of Great Britain, they will solemnly engage with their lives and fortunes to support the Congress in that measure.

ADDRESS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND TO THE KING.

May it please your Majesty:

We, your Majesty's most dutiful subjects, the Ministers and Elders met in the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, animated with the same sentiments of loyalty which prevail among the people under our care, embrace this first opportunity of joining with them in declaring that, at this interesting juncture, our attachment to your Majesty's person and Government, and our zeal for the Constitution and rights of Great Britain, continue firm and unshaken.

Under a Constitution founded on the principles of liberty, and governed by a Sovereign whose reign has been uniformly distinguished by a sacred regard for the rights of his people, we have enjoyed a felicity which our forefathers struggled and prayed for, but did not obtain; and we daily bless that God by whom Kings reign, for your mild and equitable administration. Sensible of our own happiness, and reposing with confidence on your Majesty's attention to the welfare of all your people, it is with no less astonishment than regret, that we have beheld those alarming events which disturb the tranquillity of your reign.

But while we deeply bewail the progress of that spirit which hath prompted our fellow-subjects in North-America to take arms in opposition to your Majesty's authority, and the supremacy of the British Legislature, we contemplate with peculiar satisfaction that striking proof which your Majesty now gives of your paternal affection, by vesting in the same respectable persons whom you have intrusted with the command of your formidable fleets and armies, the power of displaying the extent of your Majesty's clemency, and of conciliating the alienated minds of your subjects.

We consider ourselves as called upon, in the present situation of publick affairs, to exert our utmost diligence in discharging the important functions of our sacred office, in order to confirm the people committed to our charge in their reverence for the laws of their country, in their attachment to the system of legal Government established by the glorious Revolution, and in their loyalty towards your Majesty, whom they have experienced to be the faithful guardian of those liberties which your illustrious House was called to maintain. These endeavours shall ever be accompanied with our fervent prayers to Almighty God, that he may go forth with the fleets and armies of our country; that he may bless the humane means employed by your Majesty to recall our fellow-subjects to a sense of their duty, and to put a speedy period, without effusion of blood, to the present dangerous and unnatural rebellion; that He who stilleth the tumults of the people, and ruleth the spirit of man, may, in his good time, turn the hearts of the children unto their fathers; that out of confusion order may arise; that, in place of anarchy and civil discord, submission to legal authority may return; and the union between Great Britain and her Colonies may be happily re-established, so that both may long rejoice under the Government of your Majesty as their common parent and benefactor.

May it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful, most obedient, and most loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders met in this National Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

Signed in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, by JOHN KER, Moderator.

Edinburgh, May 28, 1776.

To the Chairman and Members of the Committee for DINDWIDIE County:

The Memorial of RICHARD HANSON, of the Town of PETERSBURGH, sheweth:

That your Memorialist has heard, with much concern, that he stands charged before this Committee with having wilfully violated an order of the honourable Continental Congress, for the observation of Friday, the 17th instant, (May), as a solemn fast-day. Your Memorialist most solemnly declares, that at the time of his giving the invitation to his neighbours, which has excited against him the said complaint, he did not recollect that it was the day set apart for that purpose, until it was so late in the day that he apprehended his countermanding the invitations might be supposed to arise rather from a want of hospitality than a religious attention to the appointed solemnity; and as he was conscious of having no design or desire to contravene either that or any other order of that honourable Assembly, he trusted that the most favourable construction would be put upon an act attended with no mark of festivity or productive of disorder or licentiousness.

Your Memorialist begs leave further to assure this Committee, that he has, since his first residence in this Colony, been constantly obedient to the laws and regulations ordained in it; and more particularly, since the commencement of the late unhappy disputes between the Colonies and the parent State, he has firmly resolved, in no instance, to give offence to the inhabitants of a country where he has enjoyed all the benefits arising to individuals in a well-regulated society, and experienced the friendship of many worthy members of it, his utmost wish being to acquire the character of a peaceable and inoffensive citizen.

Under this circumstance of inattention and inadvertency as to the offence committed, and his hearty contrition for the same, he hopes this Committee will rest satisfied of the innocence of his intentions, and believe him, when he declares that he will, neither by word or deed, give cause for complaint in future; and that he will, in all instances, conform himself to the regulations that have been already made or may hereafter be marked out for the inhabitants of this Colony; and most sincerely wishes for a return of that peace and tranquillity which has heretofore prevailed in Virginia, in which he has passed the happiest part of his life; and that the present contest may be ended with honour and advantage to the United Colonies of America.

RICHARD HANSON.

We, the subscribers, who partook of a dinner at Mr Hanson's on the day mentioned in his memorial, seriously declare, that it was done inadvertently, and not with design (as has been suggested) to counteract the order of the honourable Continental Congress. We further acknowledge, that we are heartily sorry for not strictly attending to that and every other order of that honourable Assembly; and solemnly engage, in future, so to conduct ourselves as to give no offence to the inhabitants of this Colony, nor in any instance whatsoever again neglect to comply with every order of the Continental Congress, or the ordinances of the Convention of this Colony hereafter made or now ordained.

WILLIAM BUCHANAN, A. BUCHANAN,
A. JOHNSTON, THOMAS IRVING.
WILLIAM BEATTIE,

CAPTAIN NICHOLSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Ship Defence, Wicomico, May 28, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I did myself the pleasure of writing per Captain Pitt, informing of the situation of the enemy down at Norfolk; since which have been joined by Captain Boucher and a brig he had in convoy. From the certainty he has of the tenders being so numerous about the cape, he is now hauling the brig up a creek in this river, and there to lie until a more favourable opportunity. For want of the assistance of a tender (my own having sprung her mast) I did not go lower down the bay than Rappahannock. When the bay appears quite clear, Captain Boucher and myself intend going down this river for the purpose of making discoveries, and should the vessels not be already sailed, would recommend they should be held in readiness until I return and send or bring you advice; but should you think proper to send them before, or should they be already sailed, you may depend upon my utmost care of them.

I am, gentlemen, your most obliged, humble servant, &c

JAMES NICHOLSON

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland

CAPTAIN NICHOLSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Off Wicomico mouth, May 28, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Two hours since I wrote you; since which have discovered five sail of topsail vessels, which had been at anchor off Windmill-Point; one of them wears a broad pendant, supposed the Commodore; she and another capital ship is now under way, standing up the bay; we apprehend there may be a fleet under Windmill-Point at anchor, as we heard the Commodore fire a gun—the signal for weighing. I am now hauling my wind down the bay, to make all the discovery I can, and expect momentarily to be chased, but depend on my heels; shall, as soon as satisfied of their number and the course they steer, make the best of my way up.

I am, gentlemen, yours to command,

JAMES NICHOLSON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MR. GERRY TO MR. WARREN.

Philadelphia, May 28, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: Some days since I enclosed to our worthy friend, Major Hawley, sundry newspapers, containing intelligence of importance, but not so agreeable in its nature as the enclosed papers announce, relative to our sister Colonies, Virginia and North-Carolina. Their Conventions have unanimously declared for independency, and have, in this respect, exceeded their sister Colonies in a most noble and decisive measure. I hope it will be forthwith communicated to your honourable Assembly, and hope to see my native Colony following this laudable example.

Yours, very truly,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL PUTNAM.

Philadelphia, May 28, 1776.

SIR: I received yours of the 24th instant, with its several enclosures, and the letter and invoice from General Ward, giving intelligence of the fortunate capture made by our armed vessels; on which event you have my congratulations.

I have written General Ward (as you will see by the enclosed letter, which, having read, you will seal and send by post) to send forward to New-York Colonel Putnam's demand, and also such articles as Colonel Knox may apply for, out of the cargo taken. In like manner, I have desired him to send me, as soon as possible, part of the powder, and eight hundred of the carbines, which will greatly assist in making up the deficiency in this instance.

As to the plan for employing the armed vessels, I have no objection to its being adopted, provided it will not frustrate the main design for which they were fitted out; that I would by no means have injured, as it is a matter of much importance to prevent a correspondence between the disaffected and the enemy, and the latter from getting supplies of provision; but if this end can be answered and the other advantages in the plan you mentioned, it is certainly an eligible one.

The great variety of business in which Congress are engaged has prevented our settling what I was requested to attend for, though we have made several attempts, and a Committee has been appointed for the purpose day after day; nor can I say with precision when I shall be at liberty to return; I must, therefore, pray your attention and vigilance to every necessary work; and further, if you should receive before I come certain advices, and such as you can rely on, of the enemy's being on the coast or approaching New-York, that you inform me thereof by express as early as possible. I do not wish an alarm to be given me without foundation, but as soon as you are certified of their coming, that it be instantly communicated to me, and orders given to the express who comes, to bespeak, at the different necessary stages on the road, as many horses as may be proper for facilitating my return, and that of the gentlemen with me, with the greatest expedition. I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Putnam.

P. S. I desire you will speak to the several Colonels, and hurry them to get their colours done.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL WARD.

Philadelphia, May 28, 1776.

SIR: On Saturday morning I was favoured with yours of the 17th instant, giving the agreeable intelligence of the important and valuable prize made by the armed schooners in the Continental service, and am hopeful that, if a vigilant look-out is kept, others, not less valuable, will fall into our hands.

Congress having passed a resolve respecting this cargo, as you will see by the enclosed copy, I desire that you will immediately forward to New-York eight hundred of the carbines, and the residue have put into some good and secure place, not to be disposed of till further directions unless the recruits raising to complete the five regiments left at Boston should be in want, in which case you may supply the deficiency out of them. I also request that you will directly forward to New-York four hundred barrels of the powder, and have the remainder of it sent to some place of security in the country not too contiguous to Boston, there to be kept under a good and trusty guard until it shall be disposed of, apprehending it imprudent that more should remain in Boston than may be absolutely necessary, for fear of accidents, though I do not think any attempts will be made against it by the enemy. You will forward, too, the lead wrote for by General Putnam, and such articles out of the cargo as Colonel Knox and Colonel Putnam shall respectively apply for, and have the rest properly secured.

As to the two hundred carbines that are to remain at Boston, I do not mean that they are to be put into the hands of the recruits raising to complete the old regiments but in case of absolute necessity, such as the appearance of an invasion, or the like, and that every possible method should be used for them to procure arms without depending on those.

I shall be glad of your returning to the Massachusetts Government the powder they have lent the continent, as by this fortunate capture we are enabled to pay our debts in that way. I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Ward.

YORK (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE TO PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

York, May 28, 1776.

SIR: On Saturday last we were favoured with the company of several of your respectable body, joined by others the worthy citizens of Philadelphia, who laid before our town Committee, immediately assembled for that purpose, the letters, votes and proceedings of the City and Liberties of the capital. The joy we felt upon this interesting occasion may be more easily conceived than expressed. Towards evening, a certain Charles Stedman, attorney-at-law, came into town, and opened to his host his having certain papers tending to the confirmation of the powers of Government in the hands of the present Assembly. This good citizen lost no time till he made the Committee acquainted with the important discovery; orders were thereupon issued forthwith for securing Mr. Stedman's portmanteau, and keeping an eye on his person, till he might be examined. On our Secretary's application, he readily confessed his having three copies of the Remonstrance, issued by the party too notoriously the enemies of the rights of freemen to find much countenance here. These copies he delivered to the Secretary, and then, as well as upon his examination, declared that he found them at his father's house, in Philadelphia, and was there told they had been left by Mr. Andrew Robinson, with a verbal request to carry them to William McClea, Esquire, at Sunbury. Nothing further appearing amongst the packages of Mr. Stedman, he was suffered to pass, after he had regained, opened, and read a letter he had been seen conveying to one of the prisoner's servants, which only discovered his great affection for the worthy family of Doctor Kearsly, as he was pleased to style them, and some other worthies of the same political complexion.

Mr. Stedman's departure from town was attended with such circumstances as caused two young men, who came with another large packet of these treasonable papers, directed to Messrs. Johnston & Lukens here, to decamp with precipitation. These carriers told the landlord they had received their charge from Doctor Smith and Phineas Bond, at Lancaster.

Our Committee being early assembled, Messrs. Lukens & Johnston showed an anonymous letter, directed to them both, requesting them to forward the letters and remonstrances without loss of time, and the Evening Posts, and to request their despatch in procuring the signing of those papers in their several Districts. On the delivery of the bundle to the Committee, it appeared filled with remonstrances and Evening Posts, and sundry sealed letters, one of which, directed to Henry Wolf, of Yorktown, was opened by his consent and read, a copy of which is enclosed.

By this discovery, the Committee judged it proper to retain all the other letters till Friday next, when a meeting of the County Committee is warned to take all these important matters into consideration. You may depend upon the event of this meeting to be favourable to the cause of liberty, as the sense of the town militia was taken yesterday, and I am happy in being able to assure you that not a single dissentient or even cool person appeared in four large companies. By order of the Committee.

I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

JAMES SMITH, Chairman.

To the Honourable Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Committee-Chamber, New-York, May 28, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have had repeated applications to this Committee to get the house called Hampden-Hall emptied of sundry utensils belonging to the continent or this Province, which, we know not. The house being private property, and Mr. Roorback being advised to remove them, has applied to this Committee to procure a store for the said goods. This Committee are in a dilemma how to act in this matter, not knowing whose property the goods are; nor have they received any powers (in their opinion) from your honourable House, to provide stores for such purposes. They therefore pray your particular directions on this subject; and are, very respectfully, your obedient, humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

ROBERT HARPUR, Deputy Chairman.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress, New-York.

COLONEL H. B. LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Fort Constitution, May 28, 1776.

SIR: When I was last in town I represented the necessity of having an armourer at this post, to General Washington. He desired me, if I could find a man capable of the business, to employ him. Such a man I have found. He not only repairs but makes guns and bayonets. But he says he cannot carry on the business to any advantage without two other hands to assist him. If you should think proper to employ him and two others, there are two who understand the business very well, soldiers in our regiment. One of them has a gun of his own make with him, a very tolerable one. Should you not think proper to employ either of these men, yet there is a necessity for an armourer's shop at this post, as I will be obliged to employ one to repair the arms sent here by the Committee of Dutchess. They sent us fifty-six stand, and only one so much in repair as to be fit for service. The Commissioners at this post seem to be in doubt whether their powers extend so far as to erect any building they shall conceive necessary, without a particular order for every one, though ever so much wanted. In consequence of this, we are now without an Hospital, and our sick and well, officers and privates, are obliged to stow together in the same rooms, for want of barracks. If you could prevail upon the Provincial Congress or the Committee of Safety to remedy these evils, you would much oblige me. I wrote you two letters before, but as I have received no answer, suppose you have not received them. The bearer, Mr. Reader, is the man above-mentioned as an armourer. I could wish him to be employed by the Committee or Congress. As I received only a verbal order from General Washington, he will agree with them about the terms.

I remain, sir, with all respect, your most obedient, humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON, Lieutenant-Colonel.

To John McKesson, New-York.

N. B. Pray excuse this scroll, as I am hurried.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, May 28, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: This moment I have received a letter from General Sullivan, of which the enclosed is a copy.

Our affairs begin daily to wear a darker aspect in Canada, and I fear will not change for the better, unless more troops are sent in.

I dare not by any means remove Colonel Dayton's Regiment from Tryon County, for I am morally sure that Sir John Johnson would immediately fall upon that part of the country and ravage it without mercy; an event that would so intimidate the people that I should procure very few to be employed on the communication, lest they should be cut off by scalping parties of Indians.

As Colonel Knox took with him all the guns from the Royal Savage, I have none left to arm her with; but such as she is, she will go off loaded with provisions in a few days.

The fort at Ticonderoga should immediately be put into a proper state of defence, but I have unfortunately no troops to set about it. I hope soon to see one or more Engineers in this quarter.

Your Excellency's letter of the 21st, enclosing a copy of the infamous libel transmitted to you by the Committee of King's District, I received last night. Whilst this was only report, I treated it with contempt, without taking any notice of it; but it is now a duty I owe myself and my country to detect the scoundrels; and the only means of doing this is by requesting that an immediate inquiry may be made into the matter, when, I trust, it will evidently appear that it was more a scheme calculated to ruin me, than to disunite and create jealousies in the friends to America. Your Excellency will therefore please to order a Court of Inquiry the soonest possible, for I cannot sit easy under such an infamous imputation, as on this extensive continent numbers of the most respectable characters may not know what your Excellency and Congress do, of my principles and exertions in the common cause. It is peculiarly hard that, at the very time that assassins and incendiaries are employed to take away my life and destroy my property, as being an active friend to my country, at the very time when I had taken measures and given orders, some of which are actually executed, to secure the Tories and send them down to your Excellency, a set of pretended Whigs (for such they are that have propagated these diabolical tales) should proclaim me through all America a traitor to my country.

I do not recollect that I have given a permit to any officers whatever to go to Pennsylvania to settle their affairs. Those that were sent from Canada in the latter end of February, either remained at Albany or were sent as far as Esopus, in Ulster County, there to remain until the navigation should open, to save the enormous expense of land carriage to Pennsylvania, where the remainder of their corps were disposed of. To these, and to no others, unless my memory very much fails me, have I given permits to pass to their corps. Another party is now on their way down, who are under the circumstances above-mentioned, and a Captain Dundee, whom I confined in Kingston Jail, because he refused to give his parole, has my pass also to go to Pennsylvania, after making proper concessions and giving me his parole in writing. Several prisoners still remain at Esopus, who, in the present situation of affairs, ought to be sent elsewhere, as being too near the Indians. Major Campbell, the Indian agent, and La Corne St. Luc, are of the number; and beg your Excellency will take some measures with them.

I am, dear sir, with the most respectful sentiments, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Ticonderoga, May 27, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Mr. David Henry, Commissary for St. Johns, has this moment landed, and informs that the Eighth Regiment, joined by a number of Canadians and Indians, attacked Colonel Bedel at the Cedars, and have cut him and his party off. Major Sherburne, of Colonel Patterson's Regiment, with a hundred men, went to assist them, engaged and drove four hundred of the enemy some miles; but they being joined by a number of Canadians and Indians, making the whole amount to about a thousand, renewed the fight, and cut off Sherburne and his party to a man. The same party attacked the Caughnawaga Indians, defeated them, and killed sixty. The Caughnawaga Indians have sent an express to our Army demanding assistance, and threatening if they had not immediate relief, to join the enemy. This being a true state of facts, I beg you would send Colonel Dayton, with his regiment, on as fast as possible. I beg you to write to General Washington for more troops, and that you would please to order the armed vessels here to sail to the other end of the lake immediately, to keep command of the water. I am this moment embarking at this place. The weakness of the teams and badness of the weather has prevented our getting the boats across as soon as we expected.

Dear General, I am, with much respect, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To the Honourable Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO COMMISSIONERS IN CANADA.

Fort George, May 28, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am just now honoured with your favour of the 17th instant. I hope that before this the greater part of the provisions I have sent from hence is arrived in Canada, and that you have a sufficiency for twenty or twenty-five days, which I hope to keep up; provided it is sent in sufficient quantities from New-York, that I can get troops to convey it, and that I am not obliged to appear before a Court-Martial, to answer a charge of high-treason against me by the Committee of King's District, founded on the affidavits of persons that are not to be named. I am informed that one of the charges against me is, that I am sending all the provisions in this country to Canada, with a view that it may fall into the enemy's hands.

Although I could find materials at this place for building such a gondola as the two I caused to be constructed last year, yet I cannot in less than a fortnight begin one on Lake Champlain, and if finished ever so soon, it will be too late to get down the rapids of Chambly, as the water will be too low. The row-galley we took from the enemy last year might be converted into one, and I shall immediately order her to St. Johns; indeed, I had ordered her there some time ago, with the shot, shells, cannon, &c., but she could not go for want of sails, a difficulty now obviated.

I have transmitted a copy of your letter to General Washington. I wish you to hint to the commanding officers the necessity of sending me regular returns.

Doctor Franklin and Mr. Carroll left Albany on Wednesday last in my chariot, which they are to take down to New-York.

I am, gentlemen, with the most respectful and friendly sentiments, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Hon. Commissioners of Congress, in Canada.

COLONEL BABCOCK TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Stonington, May 28, 1776.

SIR: I should be extremely obliged to you if you would be pleased to lay before the honourable the Continental Congress the following proposals: That I have leave to raise two battalions of marines, to consist of five hundred men each, and each battalion to consist of six companies, with a Captain-Lieutenant to each battalion, four officers to each company. Make not the least doubt, provided I have leave to name the officers, that I raise the men in two months. Would recommend the paying two months' pay in advance, but that I leave to the wisdom of the Congress.

I should expect the rank of Brigadier-General, as the last war I had the rank of Colonel in the years '58 and '59, and one thousand in my regiment. In the glorious year 1759, General Amherst, unsolicited, wrote Governor Hopkins the following paragraph, viz: "Whereas Colonel Babcock has, throughout the whole campaign, continually manifested his great zeal for the publick service, I should not do him justice were I to omit giving him this publick testimony of it, and designing you to return him my particular thanks for the same."

I heartily condole with you in the loss of that best of women, Mrs. Hancock. I must desire, if the great load of cares which rests upon you will permit, that I may have the honour of a line from you next post. If the Congress adopt the scheme, which I believe would be of publick utility, will immediately wait upon them.

I am, with the greatest esteem and profoundest respect, your most obedient and most humble servant,

HENRY BABCOCK.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

COLONEL BAYLEY TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Newbury, May 28, 1776.

SIR: The 17th instant I received your Excellency's direction for making a road to St. Johns. On the 18th called together the Committees of Haverhill and Newbury, and consulted them what wages to give the men; it was concluded that good men at this season could not be had for such labour for less than ten dollars per month, and that whoever engaged in that service and were found dilatory, to be dismissed and receive no more pay than the days he laboured. The 21st, sent two men to collect men for two or three months, or until the road should be done, and if they inclined to enter the Continental service any longer, to receive soldier's pay. I directed to advance to each man twenty shillings. Mr. Wallace purchased what was needful at Hartford; not yet arrived, but expect the stores in two or three days. On my hearing of the retreat from Quebeck, I thought it might be for the Continental service to cut a bridle road at first, that men and cattle might pass freely. The 27th, sent ten men to do the work; I make no doubt but they will complete it and return in twenty days. I shall begin the wagon road next Monday. Our provisions are collected, so that we can supply those that may be sent this way, either with droves or otherwise. Any directions or orders to me may be sent by the bearer, Colonel Mash, or a gentleman he will direct to.

I am your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

JACOB BAYLEY.

To General Washington.

NEWBURYPORT COMMITTEE TO TRISTRAM DALTON.

Newburyport, May, 1776.

SIR: The Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, for the town of Newburyport, would beg leave to inform the honourable General Court by you, that the bearer of this letter, one Mr. Dalton, was sent up to this town by the Committee, &c., of Falmouth, with a desire that he might be sent down to the honourable Court. They inform us that he was a Midshipman on board of the Milford; was taken in a sloop that he was on board of, bound up to Boston, by one Captain Drinkwater, and carried into Falmouth. He will come down under the care of Mr. Davis.

We are, with respect, your most humble servants.

By order of the Committee: MICHAEL HODGE.

To Tristram Dalton, Esq., or any of the Representatives for the Town of Newburyport.

"IN COUNCIL, June 1, 1776.—Read, and ordered that the above-named Philip Dalton be sent to Concord Jail; and that the keeper of said Jail be directed to grant said Dalton the liberty of the Jail yard, on his giving his parole in writing that he will not pass without the limits of the same till the further orders of the Council, or to be otherwise discharged by due course of law.

"Perez Morton, Deputy Secretary."

PETITION OF INHABITANTS OF WELLFLEET TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of the Town of Wellfleet, legally warned and held on Tuesday, the 28th of May, A. D. 1776:

Voted, That Messrs. John Greenough, Samuel Smith, and Winslow Lewis, be a Committee to draft a Petition to the Great and General Court, praying for an easement of their Province Tax; and report at the adjournment of this meeting on Thursday, the 30th instant.

The inhabitants being met according to adjournment, the Report of said Committee was read and voted, and was as follows:

"To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the Colony of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

"The petition of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of the Town of Wellfleet humbly sheweth, That your Petitioners are situate on the most barren soil of any part of the Province; the whole lands that can be tilled will not afford corn for more than one quarter part of the inhabitants; and the harbour, which is convenient for small vessels, is the only advantage they have had, in carrying on the whale fishery, in which they have employed about two thousand tons of shipping; and nine-tenths of the inhabitants got their whole subsistence thereby; that the other tenth part of the inhabitants got their livelihood by the oyster fishery; that ever since the 1st of June, A. D. 1775, they have not been able to send out one vessel on the whaling business, there being constantly men-of-war and cruisers in Cape-Cod Harbour; and most of their vessels are now hauled up and perishing; the few that have attempted to go out on mercantile business, or to fetch provisions, have most of them been taken, so that your Petitioners have suffered the total loss of the greatest part of their employment. Their property, mostly consisting of vessels and whale craft, which is very costly, is perishing, and they themselves in fear of being put to the necessity of living without bread corn; and they are humbly of opinion that no town in this Colony hath, in proportion, suffered so much in their business and employment since the commencement of hostilities by the Ministerial troops as your Petitioners have, except only the towns of Boston and Charlestown. They therefore humbly pray, that as the principal means whereby they were enabled to pay their taxes is now quite destroyed, that you will take the same into your wise consideration, and order that they be eased of at least a part or whole of their Colony tax, or otherwise grant them relief as you in your wisdom shall see meet; and your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

JOHN GRENOUGH, }
SAMUEL SMITH, } Committee.
WINSLOW LEWIS, }

A true copy from the Record.

Attest: HEZEKIAH DOANE, Town-Clerk.
Wellfleet, May 30, 1776.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BRIGADIER-GENERAL ARMSTRONG TO BRIGADIER-GENERAL HOWE, DATED CHARLESTOWN, MAY 29, 1776.

Last Saturday a sloop arrived here from St. Eustatia with ten thousand pounds of powder, the master of which says that a large vessel had arrived there from Holland, deeply laden with arms and ammunition, and that some Philadelphia vessels were loading out of her. He also says that the French ports in the West-Indies are open to us, and that the French men-of-war have orders to protect our vessels in and out of their harbours; that the French are fortifying Dunkirk, which produced a remonstrance from the British Court, but without effect.

CAPTAIN NICHOLSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Ship Defence, off Point Lookout, }
May 29, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: Your order of the 25th instant came to hand yesterday noon, three o'clock. I was then off Wicomico. About an hour after, we imagine, the Governour's boat passed us; the Commodore still continued at anchor, but, as the weather was thick, imagine the boat passed her Commodore. The other two ships that were under way stood into the mouth of Rappahannock, and suppose anchored, as we stood off and on all the ebb, and did not see them come out again. It blew very fresh, and imagined they would weigh again on the flood to chase me, which would have given them a great advantage, therefore would have gone into Wicomico, but the Governour's boat passing me at anchor off the mouth, made me conclude to beat all night at a risk, since which have not seen them. I shall make the best of my way up, and expect we shall have a southerly wind; in which case should the enemy be standing up the bay, it is necessary I should have your orders as early as possible, where you would have the ships go to. We did not discover any more vessels than three ships and a smaller vessel, which we supposed was a tender.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JAMES NICHOLSON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

COLONEL J. BEALL TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

May 29, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have delivered twenty-four barrels of powder to Lieutenant Ford. I was last Saturday at Georgetown; Yost then told me he expected to have the arms for Port-Tobacco ready by the last of this week; but have just now received a line from him informing me that the man who supplies him with bayonets and barrels has been sick, and that he cannot furnish him with those articles till the 16th of next month. I have employed two wagons to carry the powder, at three dollars a day; when they return I shall settle with them, and give orders for their pay. As soon as those arms can be had I shall employ a wagon to carry them to Port-Tobacco.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

JOSEPH BEALL.

To the Honourable Council of Safety of Maryland.

CAPTAIN R. BEALL TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Drum Point, May 29, 1776.

SIR: I will solicit your notice. I am loath to complain, as it is highly necessary, when I have the greatest right. I looked upon it when I came to Drum Point everything must be provided for one part of my company. Can it be possible the Committee could make such a report? It is a fact, there is not house-room for twenty men. Can it be expected the men can encamp out among the pines without blankets or tents? Upon the whole, I must say this company, which I have the honour to command, has been greatly neglected, makes me particularly anxious. The arms that were sent to Drum Point are vile trash; whoever made them imposed much, and is culpable; the locks are quite useless; must say there is not eight out of twenty-nine can make any use of, as it is out of my power to repair or make these arms fit for use. I look upon it these arms have been culled and picked. Such vile work never could have been inspected. As this is the most advantageous post, hope the honourable Council will let me have twenty rifles for the station. Have not heard anything respecting our arms and ammunition, so that we stand here exposed, and remain in a most defenceless state. There was no thread came with the osnabrigs; cannot get any to make the hunting-shirts.

Dear sir, your most affectionate servant,

REZ. BEALL.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

GENERAL McDONALD'S REPORT TO THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS, AT PHILADELPHIA, MAY 29, 1776.

That he was, by a party of horsemen, upon the 28th day of February last, taken prisoner from sick quarters, eight miles from Widow Moor's Creek, where he lay dangerously ill, and carried to Colonel Caswell's camp, where General Moore then commanded, to whom he delivered his sword as prisoner of war, which General Moore was pleased to deliver back in a genteel manner before all his officers then present, according to the rules and customs of war practised in all nations; assuring him at the same time that he would be well treated, and his baggage and property delivered to him, &c. Having taken leave of General Moore and Colonel Caswell, Lieutenant-Colonel Bryant took him under his care; and after rumaging his baggage for papers, &c., conducted him to Newbern, from thence with his baggage to Halifax, where the Committee of Safety there thought proper to commit him to the common jail; his horses, saddles, and pistols, &c., taken from him, and never having committed any act of violence against the person or property of any man; that he remained in this jail near a month, until General Howe arrived there, who did him the honour to call upon him in jail; and he has reason to think that General Howe thought this treatment erroneous and without a precedent; that upon this representation to the Convention,

General McDonald was, by order of the Convention, permitted, upon parole, to the limits of the town of Halifax, until the 25th of April last, when he was appointed to march, with the other gentlemen prisoners, escorted from the jail there to this place. General McDonald would wish to know what crime he has since been guilty of, deserving his being recommitted to the jail of Philadelphia, without his bedding or baggage, and his sword and his servant detained from him.

The other gentlemen prisoners are in great want for their blankets and other necessities. DONALD McDONALD.

NORTHAMPTON (PENNSYLVANIA) ASSOCIATORS.

At a meeting of the Associators of the Fourth Battalion in Northampton County, held at the house of Major Benjamin Van Campen, the 29th day of May, 1776:

Colonel Jacob Stroud informed the said Associators the occasion of the meeting, &c.

Whereupon Nicholas Dupui, Esq., was appointed to and seated in the chair, and was moved that the Resolve of Congress of the 15th instant, be read; whereupon it was read, &c. The people, in testimony of their warmest approbation, gave three cheers, &c.

Moved, That the Instructions given by the House of Assembly to their Delegates in Congress, be read; and the same were read accordingly, &c.

Upon motion, Resolved, unanimously, That it is the opinion of this meeting that the said Instructions have a dangerous tendency to withdraw this Province from the happy union with the other Colonies, which we consider both as our glory and protection.

On motion, Resolved, unanimously, That the present House of Assembly was not elected for the purpose of forming a new Government.

On motion, Resolved, unanimously, That the present House of Assembly, not having the authority of the people for that purpose, cannot proceed thereon without assuming arbitrary power.

It being moved, and the question put, Whether the present Government is competent to the exigencies of our affairs; the same was carried in the negative unanimously.

Resolved, unanimously, That a Provincial Convention ought to be chosen by the people for the express purpose of carrying the said Resolve of Congress into execution.

Resolved, unanimously, That the Chairman be directed to sign these Resolves on behalf of this present Assembly.

Resolved, unanimously, That we will support the measures now adopted at all hazards, be the consequences what they may.

The meeting was conducted with the utmost decorum and harmony.

NICHOLAS DUPUI, Chairman.

To the Honourable the Representatives of the Province of NEW-YORK, in Provincial Congress convened.

The humble Address of the General Committee of Mechanics in union, of the City and County of NEW-YORK, in behalf of themselves and their constituents:

GENTLEMEN: We, as a part of your constituents, and devoted friends to our bleeding country, beg leave, in a dutiful manner, at this time to approach unto you, our Representatives, and request your kind attention to this our humble address.

When we cast a glance upon our beloved continent, where fair freedom, civil and religious, we have long enjoyed, whose fruitful fields have made the world glad, and whose trade has filled with plenty of all things, sorrow fills our hearts to behold her now struggling under the heavy load of oppression, tyranny, and death. But when we extend our sight a little farther, and view the iron hand that is lifted up against us, behold it is our King; he who, by his oath and station, is bound to support and defend us in the quiet enjoyment of all our glorious rights as freemen, and whose dominions have been supported and made rich by our commerce. Shall we any longer sit silent, and contentedly continue the subjects of such a Prince, who is deaf to our petitions for interposing his Royal authority in our behalf, and for redressing our grievances, but, on the contrary, seems to take pleasure in our destruction? When we see that one whole year is not enough to satisfy the rage of a cruel Ministry, in burning our towns, seizing our vessels, and murdering our precious sons of liberty; making weeping widows for the loss of those who were dearer to them than life, and helpless orphans to bemoan the death of an affectionate father; but who are still carrying on the same bloody pursuit; and for no other reason than this, that we will not become their slaves, and be taxed by them without our consent,—therefore, as we would rather choose to separate from, than to continue any longer in connection with such oppressors, We, the Committee of Mechanicks in union, do, for ourselves and our constituents, hereby publicly declare that, should you, gentlemen of our honourable Provincial Congress, think proper to instruct our most honourable Delegates in Continental Congress to use their utmost endeavours in that august assembly to cause these United Colonies to become independent of Great Britain, it would give us the highest satisfaction; and we hereby sincerely promise to endeavour to support the same with our lives and fortunes.

Signed by order of the Committee:

LEWIS THIBOU, Chairman.

Mechanick-Hall, New-York, May 29, 1776.

ANSWER OF THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 4, 1776.

SIR: We consider the mechanicks in union, as a voluntary association of a number of the inhabitants of this city, who are warmly attached to the cause of liberty. We flatter ourselves, however, that neither that association, nor their Committee, claim any authority whatsoever in the publick transactions of the present times; but that, on the contrary, they will ever be ready to submit to that constitutional authority which, by a free election, has been vested in Congress and Committees. This Congress is at all times ready and willing to attend to every request of their constituents, or of any part of them. We are of opinion that the Continental Congress alone have that enlarged view of our political circumstances, which will enable them to decide upon those measures which are necessary for the general welfare. We therefore cannot presume to instruct the Delegates of this Colony on the momentous question to which your address refers, until we are informed that it is brought before the Continental Congress, and the sense of this Colony be required through this Congress.

By order:

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To Mr. Lewis Thibou.

Petition of THOMAS LOOSLEY and THOMAS ELMS, Paper-makers.

To the Honourable Congress of the Province of New-YORK.

GENTLEMEN: Whereas, by the rules and orders lately published by your honourable House for regulating the Militia of this Colony, which rules and orders, from our particular circumstances, being unable to comply with, we have been subjected to several fines, which we have paid for non-attendance on the days appointed for publick exercise, and are, according to the said rules and orders, still liable to the penalty of being advertised and held up as enemies to the country, though we have ever been hearty friends to it, and are constantly labouring to the utmost of our abilities, in our profession, to promote its interests, as well as our own, by carrying on, and perfecting, a most useful manufactory to supply the country with an important and absolutely necessary article, for which great sums used annually to be sent abroad; and as in these times of general difficulty this honourable House has shown a particular attention to the encouragement of useful arts and manufactures, among which paper making is a very considerable one,—we humbly hope your Honours will take our case into consideration, and not only grant us an exemption from the impending penalty before-mentioned, but relieve us from the severity of the fines to which we at present stand liable; though we do not desire to be wholly excused from contributing to the publick expense, in the necessary defence of the country, against the invaders of our common rights and liberty.

We humbly beg leave to represent, that we were regularly bred in England to the business of paper making, which we understand in all its branches, and have carried to higher degrees of perfection than ever it arrived before in America, where we have been the means of increasing the number of paper mills, improving their construction, and moderating the price of paper. But the work being carried on at great expense, (no less than twenty shillings per day for rent, and a number of hands, who require our constant oversight and direction,) we could not attend the forementioned military exercises but at an excessive disadvantage and expense; which would certainly either ruin the business, or oblige us to discontinue it; for the rent would still go on, and the water run to waste; the workmen left to themselves, might neglect or spoil the work; disorder and habits of idleness take place, and effectually put an end to that attention, care, industry, and frugality, that are absolutely necessary to give success to this business. Nor could it have been in our power to supply you, gentlemen, with the paper for the Provincial money, nor the printers, with whom we have contracted, with the quantities necessary for their weekly publications, which will not admit of disappointment.

For the foregoing reasons, gentlemen, we hope you will grant our request, especially in an exemption from military service, for which we are no way qualified, nor provided with arms. But though we cannot be serviceable in a military capacity, we hope in the business of our profession we may prove ourselves useful members of society, and that therefore a service will not be insisted on that would oblige us to drop our business and quit the place.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient servants,

CHARLES LOOSLEY.
THOMAS ELMS.

New-York, May 29, 1776.

LIEUTENANT HOLIDAY TO GENERAL GREENE.

Far Rockaway, May 29, 1776.

SIR: I send you three prisoners, whose testimony, and the circumstances against them, give me the strongest reason to believe they came for a supply of provisions, or some other necessities for the enemy.

Last Sunday, we saw them come with a sloop from the west and go toward the east end of the Island. I sent a Sergeant and twelve men after them, to take them if they came in any of the inlets. About fourteen miles to the eastward they came in sight of the sloop, where she was anchored, and they got boats and went in to where the boat lay, and took these prisoners and seven firelocks, which the prisoners say belong to men that left them Sunday evening, which I suppose to be after loading for the sloop.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

JOHN HOLIDAY, Lieutenant.

To General Greene, Brooklyn.

The Examination of three Prisoners, taken near against SILAS CARMAN's, at OYSTER-BAY, south, and their Sloop. (Seven men they set ashore the night before, and which they give but little account of.)

1. Nathan Gyer, inhabitant at Blue-Point, upon his examination says: He set off with his sloop and carried with him about twelve bushels of clams, about a week ago, and went to the Jerseys, and passed the man-of-war in the night without being stopped; he made a harbour, came to an anchor, sold his clams to the Jersey people, as he supposed, and took in seven passengers, as they came aboard of him at different times, some in the day and some in the night, in small crafts; they paid him their passage when he set them ashore in Oyster-Bay, south, at Fort-Neck Point; they left five guns with him; but the persons' names he don't remember, except two, one was Umpstad, the other Platt, both from New-England—Umpstad, a tailor by trade, from Litchfield. The said Gyer says his design was, when he set out from Blue-Point, to go round to New-England to collect some debts; but when he came to Jersey, he understood that at New-York they took all the boats that passed, and for that reason he returned back to go home, and took in these seven passengers.

2. Lazareth Gyer (son to the first) says: Twenty or thirty bushels of clams, and that the man-of-war barge hailed them and brought them to; took about a peck of their clams. The passengers, which they took aboard and set ashore, came aboard all together in one boat in the daytime; he knew none of them except one they called Patcher, a tailor by trade; but he supposed some of the seven passengers, part of them belong to New-England, and part upon Long-Island; he after said, in passing the man-of-war the Phenix, hailed them and brought them to.

3. Benjamin Scribner, three months ago from New-England, Norwalk, saith: Thirty bushels of clams passed the man-of-war clear, went to the Jerseys, into a harbour up to a landing alongside of a dock, where they sold their clams to the Jersey people; and these passengers came to them by land to the dock and stept aboard. He further says, he agreed with the first, Nathan Gyer, at Blue-Point, and was to give him eight shillings for his passage, to carry him to Egg-Harbour. Further says, they lay a week fast to the dock at the Jerseys; that none of them can remember what part of the Jerseys they went to.

Examined before us:

JOSHUA KETCHAM,

One of the Committee for the Township of Huntington.

BENJAMIN BIRDSALL,

One of the Committee for the County of Queens.

May 24, 1776.

On 26th of May, 1776, sitting with a prospect glass and looking out of a chamber-window, I saw a small sail moving eastward, which appeared to me to be without the beach; immediately after, I perceived she came about and ran westerly, at which time I saw another sail that appeared to be a greater distance, and directly came about and passed each other two or three times; and then the first sail discovered stood to the eastward and came into the inlet opposite to Fort-Neck, and came directly up the bay within about half a mile of the said neck, and there grounded on a sand bar; as soon as sails were down, I discovered seven men that I could count by looking through the glass; being dissatisfied with seeing more men than common in so small a sloop, though large to come into our bay, I set out about sunset with a boy to row me aboard and see who they were and what their business was; when I came near I hailed her, and after asking my business several times without my giving a direct answer, I went aboard; they appeared much surprised when seeing but three men on board; I asked where the other men were; they told me they were gone ashore for lodging, but they knew not to what landing; that they came from Elizabethtown, and wanted to get a load of clams; that they saw no sail without the beach; and that they made no turns nor tacks, until they came into the inlet; and that they were not obliged to go within sight of the men-of-war to come from Elizabethtown here; and that they intended to go the next morning themselves on shore to hire men to get clams for them.

GILBERT JONES,

One of the Committee for the Township of Oyster-Bay.

KENNETH MACCLOUD TO COMMODORE HOPKINS.

Providence, May 29, 1776.

SIR: Please to let me know whether you station me ashore in the fort, or on board the ship; if on board the ship, I would take the office of Quartermaster, if you please. But I am content either way; for I am determined to stay by you so long as I receive the same good treatment as I always have from you. But Captain Saltonstall I will not sail with; but with you, I can sail so long as I live. This from your humble servant,

KENNETH MACCLOUD.

To Esek Hopkins, Esq., Commander-in-Chief of the American Fleet.

CAPTAIN HAMMOND TO GOVERNOUR EDEN.

Roeback, at Gwin's Island, May 30, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I have received your letter of the 26th instant by Mr. Smith, who arrived here yesterday, and am sorry (though not surprised) to learn that you think it necessary to leave Annapolis. The Province of Maryland has hitherto been looked upon as having acted with a degree of moderation in the present unnatural rebellion subsisting in the Colonies, and I had some expectation, from your continuing in your Government, that you might have been able to convince the people of the impossibility of their succeeding in the plan that America is now pursuing; which is the only motive, I fear, that will have any weight in bringing them back to their allegiance; but as you have certainly now given this a very fair trial, and it is become apparent that the matter can only be settled by force of arms, I confess that I think your remaining longer among them would only be exposing yourself to insults, and would answer no good purpose to his Majesty's service. I shall, therefore, very soon send one of the King's ships to receive you on board, until a passage can be provided for you to England, which I believe will happen very shortly. I shall also not fail to give orders to the ship, that she shall commit no hostilities at Annapolis whilst on that service. But as no officer in his Majesty's service can be supposed to suffer patiently the smallest insult to be offered to the British colours, it will be necessary for you to inform the persons that assume the government of the people, that if the peace is not as strictly observed on the part of the Provincials, both with regard to the boats as well as the ship, during the time it may be necessary for her stay on the coasts of Maryland, that any orders which I may think proper to issue for the purpose will not restrain the Captain of the ship from acting as he shall think proper and necessary upon the occasion.

Had I not received your letter, you would certainly have heard from me in a few days, to have acquainted you that his Excellency the Earl of Dunmore and myself, with the joint forces under our command, left Norfolk on the 23d instant, and put into this harbour on the 28th, in order to complete our wood and water, where we at present remain.

I have the honour to be, dear sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

A. S. HAMMOND.

To Robert Eden, Esquire, Governour of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO WORCESTER COUNTY COMMITTEE.

[No. 1.]

Annapolis, May 30, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer hereof, Mr. John Galloway, is, with some other gentlemen in partnership, about setting up and carrying on a salt work, under the encouragement of the last Convention. He is in a great measure unacquainted in your County, and as the work will be of the greatest publick utility, we take the liberty of recommending him to your notice and countenance, and shall be much obliged to you for any assistance you may give him, or any favours you will be pleased to confer upon him. We are, &c.

To the Committee of Observation for Worcester County.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN NICHOLSON.

[No. 2.]

Annapolis, May 30, 1776.

SIR: You will please to proceed to Baltimore, and wait our further orders. We send this by Mr. Middleton, whose boat you may keep with the ship until you come off Annapolis, presuming you will not want her further; if, however, it should not be necessary for her to attend you, you will order her down the Bay, to gain what intelligence she can of the ships you left below. We are, &c.

To Captain James Nicholson.

SECRET COMMITTEE OF CONGRESS TO CAPTAIN HODGE.

Philadelphia, May 30, 1776.

SIR: As you are now bound on a voyage to Europe, with a view of procuring sundry articles that are wanted here, and have expectations that your friend Jean Wanderwoordt will supply such as we may desire, provided he is assured of being duly paid the cost, with interest for the time he remains in advance, we, the subscribers, being a quorum of the Secret Committee appointed by the honourable the Continental Congress, and authorized to procure from foreign countries supplies of arms, ammunition, and other articles on the best terms we can, being sensible of your deserving character, and knowing that your attachment to the liberties of your native country entitles you to our confidence, have concluded to authorize and empower you to contract with any person or persons in Europe, for ten thousand stand of good soldiers' muskets, well fitted with good double bridle gun-locks, and good bayonets; ten thousand good double bridled gun-locks; two hundred thousand gun-flints; one thousand barrels of the best pistol powder; one thousand barrels of the best cannon powder; and for two fast sailing well armed cutters, such as you may think best calculated for a good and safe passage to this country, and for making good cruisers on this coast afterwards. You are to make your contracts in writing; stipulate the prices, not to exceed the current rates for each article, and make it your business to be well informed on this point. We are sensible that it is difficult to extract arms and ammunition from many parts of Europe, and that penalties are inflicted on such as are detected in doing it; consequently a premium beyond the first cost and common commissions must be allowed to those that undertake it; and, in this respect, we are rather at a loss how to limit you, being willing to allow what might be reasonable compensation, but unwilling to submit to extortion. However, as it is not in our power to judge of this point with precision, we exhort you to make the best bargain you can for the continent, and we conclude to allow you a commission of two and a half per cent. on the amount of the invoice of the goods, and on the cost and outfit of the cutters; but you will observe this commission is the whole of what we are to pay you, being the only compensation you are to expect for transacting this business, and expect and hope it will afford you a very handsome reward for your services.

Our design is, to pay for those goods and cutters by remitting to the consignment of those that supply them cargoes of this country's produce, such as tobacco, rice, indigo, skins, furs, flour, lumber, iron, &c.; and we hereby pledge the thirteen United Colonies for the punctual discharge of the debt or debts you may contract, in virtue of and in conformity with these orders. We agree to allow such rate of interest as you may agree for, not exceeding five per cent. on the amount of the debt or debts, from the time the goods are shipped until payment is made, and this interest to cease on such partial payments as may be made from time to time. In confirmation of these orders, we deliver you herewith a letter to your friend, Mr. Jean Wanderwoordt, attended with a certificate of our being a quorum of the Secret Committee, properly authorized to transact such business for the publick, which you may avail yourself of with Mr. Wanderwoordt, or any other person necessary for effecting the purchase.

It is our understanding, that the goods you contract are to be at the risk of the contractors until they are shipped on board, and bills of lading granted for them, after which they become our risk; and if the risk from that time to the ending of the voyage can be covered by insurance, at a premium not exceeding twenty per cent., we would wish to have such part insured as is to come from Europe direct out for this coast; the insurance to be against all risks whatever, at and from the shipping port to any place of delivery in the thirteen United Colonies of America.

When you have accomplished the business so far as to make the contracts and purchase the cutters, you must cause to be shipped three thousand stand of arms, six hundred barrels of powder, three thousand gun-locks, and sixty thousand gun-flints, on board each cutter. Take bills of lading, deliverable to us in any part of the United American Colonies, and despatch them for this coast. These cutters must be well armed and manned. You should procure, if possible, masters that are acquainted with the sea-coast of America, men of intelligent understanding and firm minds, well attached to the American cause; many such there are in Europe, pining to return and serve this country in the present glorious contest. You will also pick up as many American seamen as possible, and if sufficient of those do not offer, complete the number with the best you can get; and in fitting these vessels it will be well done to put on board each three or four tons of musket balls, suited to the bore of the ten thousand stand of arms. As the operations of our enemies are uncertain, it is hard for us to point out what part of the coast these cutters should push for. We believe the inlets between New-York and Virginia may be as safe as any. They must get into the first place of safety they can, and give us immediate advice by express of their arrival; and by these vessels you will transmit us any publick news, or any useful intelligence in your power. The remainder of the goods we think it most prudent to order out in foreign bottoms to some of the foreign Islands in the West-Indies, where we can send for them with ease and tolerable security. You will consult with your friends what Island may be safest to make use of; and also obtain recommendation to a proper house for receiving and reshipping the goods, transmitting us the name and address by the cutters, and we shall send them funds to pay the freight and charges. Those goods going in neutral bottoms need only be insured against the common risks of the sea, &c.

We are, sir, &c., &c.

To Mr. William Hodge.

CERTIFICATE OF APPOINTMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE.

This may certify to whom it may concern, that Colonel Benjamin Harrison, Dr. Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Johnston, John Dickinson, and John Jay, Esquires, are appointed by the Congress of the thirteen United Colonies in North-America, a Committee of Secret Correspondence, and that faith and credit ought to be given to them as such.

COLONEL REED TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 1, 1776.]

Philadelphia, May 30, 1776.

SIR: The honourable Congress having been pleased some time ago to make an addition to the pay of the General's Secretary, upon an expectation that I should continue in that appointment, I think it my duty to acquaint you that, agreeable thereto, I repaired to New-York, where I found a gentleman of character and abilities performing the services of that office with satisfaction to the General. As my first acceptance of the office was purely accidental, and occasioned by publick motives, the necessity of my continuance seemed now to cease, and induced me to request the General to excuse my further attendance, which he was so obliging as to comply with. This, and engagements both of a publick and private nature in this Province, and these only, were my reasons for declining the service; at the same time, I assured the General, that if in the course of business my small abilities could be of any use, I would, on the shortest notice, most cheerfully devote myself to it again.

Having been absent from the General for some time, I considered the pay of the office most properly due to those gentlemen who did the duty during that absence; I accordingly, with the General's approbation, divided it between them.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect and regard, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOSEPH REED.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

YORK COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee for York County, May 30, 1776.

Present: Fifty-five Members. Colonel Robert McPherson in the Chair.

The Resolve of the honourable Continental Congress, of the 15th instant, being read, was most cordially agreed and thankfully accepted; and

Resolved, That a delegation from this body, of nine members, be ordered to attend the Conference of Committees at Philadelphia, the 18th day of June next, to consider of the best and most effectual measures for carrying into execution, and settling the preliminary steps for the election of a Provincial Convention, to form a Constitution founded on "the authority of the People."

Resolved, That as the former Legislative powers of this Province cannot act without being under oaths or affirmations to the King of Great Britain, and dependant on him, which, by the cruel and wicked proceedings of that King and Parliament of Great Britain, more especially by a late Act of Parliament declaring the Colonists Rebels, and cutting them off from the protection of that Crown, the same has become incapable of legislation, and in that respect totally extinct; but

Resolved, nevertheless, That the Executive powers of Government ought to proceed in the usual channel, and that the laws heretofore made be put in due execution, until a Government, formed on the authority of the people only, takes place, agreeable to the Resolves of Congress of the 15th instant.

Resolved, That Mr. James Rankin, lately chosen a member to represent this County in Assembly, in sending seven Letters and a bundle of Remonstrances to seven inhabitants of this County, for the express purpose of getting those Remonstrances signed by the people here, and transmitted to Philadelphia, (which Remonstrances can be calculated for no other purpose than to draw this Province off from the present union with the other Colonies, or to divide the people so as to fall an easy prey to our inveterate enemies,) has violated the trust reposed in him by the good people of this County.

Resolved, That should any person or persons be so lost to all sense of duty to the publick as to attempt to procure signers to said poisonous and destructive Remonstrance in this County, that the said person or persons will be considered as violators of the Resolves of Congress, and inimical to the liberties of America.

ROBERT MCPHERSON, Chairman.

TO THE WORTHY INHABITANTS OF YORK COUNTY.

MY RESPECTED FRIENDS: As I find myself most injuriously treated by a resolve of your County Committee, published in the several newspapers, I must take the liberty to do myself justice through the same channel. As you were freely pleased to choose me one of your Representatives in Assembly by so large a majority as near two to one against the opposite ticket, it would give me the greatest concern if I could believe that the Committee had known and spoken the sentiments of my constituents in their resolve, or that they will think I have violated the trust so lately reposed in me by them. I am conscious in my own heart that I intended nothing but what I considered as my bounden duty to the good people I represent, in the Circular Letter to some of my friends. Had I acted otherwise, or kept back the necessary information from them, when they were to deliberate upon a matter of the greatest consequence to them and their posterity, I think I should then have stood justly chargeable with "violating the trust reposed in me."

The whole affair pointed at in the resolve stands thus: The Committee of the City of Philadelphia had taken upon them to determine two points, in their protest against the authority of that House, of which you have chosen me a member, viz: 1st, That the Congress "had absolutely enjoined the taking up and establishing new Government through all the Colonies;" and, 2dly, That they (the said Committee) had a right, in exclusion of the Assembly, to call a conference of Committees, who were not to deliberate what changes in our Government, or whether any were necessary; but (taking that for granted) they were to devise means for choosing a Convention to establish a new form. Now, the express words of the Congress are these, viz: "That the respective Assemblies and Conventions, where no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been established, adopt such Governments as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the people, best conduce to the happiness of their constituents in particular, and America in general." These words, to my best understanding, left the Assembly of Pennsylvania, who are the undoubted Representatives of the people, to judge what changes, or whether any, might be necessary for the exigencies of affairs. Our Charter does also declare that the consent of six parties in seven of our Assembly is necessary in this matter. I likewise found it to be the general sense of the House, confirmed by our own Delegates, that where assemblies could actually sit as the Representatives of the people, the Congress had them expressly in view in the execution of their resolve; and did not point out any particular changes as necessary, except so far as regards the usual oaths and affirmations, which they considered as standing in the way of our just opposition to the oppressive measures of the British Parliament; and the Committee of York might have known that the House has dispensed with the oaths, &c., and is absolved from them, by the Crown's declaring them out of its protection. It appeared further to me that no other Provinces that have considered the resolve of Congress have taken it in the sense of the Philadelphia Committee, namely, as a positive injunction for altering their Governments, or injuring their Charter rights, further than the respective powers of those Governments shall think convenient for the publick service. The Province of Maryland has expressly determined on the matter as follows:

"Resolved unanimously, That the people of this Province have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal Government and police of this Province."

New-York has declared to the same effect; and the charter Governments of Connecticut and Rhode-Island have made no further alterations than respecting the oaths, &c., as our Assembly have done.

Upon this state of things, having a love for the Charter Constitution of Pennsylvania; considering myself as chosen by you to support it as far as possible, in the present exigency; finding that the publick service has been and might still be carried on as vigorously by the Assembly of this Province as by any other publick body on the continent; and observing a Remonstrance to that effect, signed by multitudes* of the most respectable names in the City of Philadelphia and the neighbouring Counties, in opposition to the doctrines in the Protest of the Committee of that city, I thought it my duty to send you copies of those papers, that I might know the sentiments of the County I represent in a matter of such consequence. Whether I did wrong in this, or what censure they may deserve who dared to keep back the needful information from you, endeavouring to surprise you into precipitate measures, which might afterwards be injurious to your best rights, for which you are now contending, and sow the seeds of discord, I leave yourselves to determine. I consider not only my private rights as a freeman, but my publick rights as a Representative in Assembly, together with your rights, from whom I derive my seat, to be grossly violated in this interruption of my correspondence with you, and the threats thrown out to prevent my obtaining your sentiments for the direction of my conduct. I know the weight of the Committee of the town of York, who first opened my letters; and I hope I do not overvalue my own firmness of spirit when I say that I neither fear their threats nor regard their censures while in the honest discharge of my duty. I wish that they who published the resolves against me had also published a copy of the Circular Letter on which it is founded, that the world might have judged how far it deserved blame or approbation.

The following is an exact copy of the letter to Henry Wolfe, viz:

"The friends of the present Constitution of Pennsylvania think it absolutely necessary at this time to use their utmost endeavours to prevent the attempts that are making in the City of Philadelphia to destroy the Assembly, and consequently the Charter rights of the Province; for which purpose it is thought expedient that as many persons as possible should be procured to sign the Address and Remonstrance to the Representatives of the Province, which you will see published in Hall & Sellers's paper of the 22d of this month, to encounter the Protest which is inserted in the same paper. I therefore request that you will take a part in this virtuous task, by getting as many of the respectable inhabitants of our County to sign their names to it as possible, by which you will greatly serve your country and oblige your friend,

JAMES RANKIN.

"P. S. You will have several copies of the Remonstrance sent to you for signing."

I have only to add that the Committee of your County have just sent down instructions directed to two of your Representatives, wherein, after several charges against the Assembly in general, they conclude as follows:

"We therefore instruct you to withdraw from such men and measures; and in case of a motion for the continuance of the Assembly, you will immediately leave the same. You will see by our resolves, herewith sent, the sentiments of York County, very generally taken; and we trust you, gentlemen, will act conformably thereto.

"By order of the Committee:

"R. MCPHERSON, Chairman.

"To James Ewing and Samuel Eddy, Esqs."

As I have reason to believe that the Committee have derived no authority from the County in general, to command their Representatives to desert their trust, I shall continue to discharge my duty till I obtain your sentiments in some less doubtful way; and am, respectfully, your sincere friend,

JAMES RANKIN.

* At the time of writing this the names to the Remonstrances, already delivered in from the City and adjacent Counties, amounted to about six thousand.

TO MR. JAMES RANKIN, ONE OF THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THE COUNTY OF YORK, IN THE PROVINCE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

In the Pennsylvania Evening Post, No. 216, you have addressed the worthy inhabitants of the County of York, and attempted not only to excuse, but to justify your conduct in endeavouring to procure signers to the insidious, poisonous, and destructive paper called the Remonstrance. I shall, through the same channel, appeal to the understandings of those worthy men, (whose just rights you have shown a strong inclination to betray, though you will most certainly be disappointed,) whether you are a trusty watchman; whether you are disposed to speak truth, or are entitled to any confidence from a free and sensible people in future. In your publication you say the Committee of the City of Philadelphia had taken upon them to determine two points in their Protest against the authority of the House of which you were chosen a member, viz: first, that the Congress "had absolutely enjoined the taking up and establishing new Governments through all the Colonies;" and, secondly, "that they (the said Committee) had a right, in exclusion of the Assembly, to call a conference of Committees, who were to deliberate what changes in our Government, or whether any, were necessary; but taking that for granted, they were to devise means for choosing a Convention to establish a new form."

Charity inclines me to view every man in the most favourable light, and therefore I have supposed (as I have no acquaintance with you, nor have ever seen you) that some of those under whose banner you have inlisted, and who are accustomed to misrepresentations, have written this address for you; otherwise I must think you a bold man to publish in the newspapers in the City of Philadelphia, "that the Committee of the City of Philadelphia had taken upon them to determine two points in their Protest;" when it is notorious to every man who has seen the Protest, and can read, or was present on the 20th of May, and could hear, that the Protest was then signed by order of divers inhabitants of this Province, in behalf of themselves and others, and not by the Committee of the City. I am told you saw the numbers; you must at least have heard that they could not be any less than five thousand.

In the next paragraph, you quote partially the resolve of Congress of the 15th of May, and assert "that it was the general sense of the House, confirmed by your own Delegates, that where Assemblies could actually sit as the Representatives of the people, the Congress had them expressly in view in the execution of their resolve, and did not point out any particular changes as necessary, except so far as regards the usual oaths and affirmations, which they considered as standing in the way of our just opposition to the oppressive measures of the British Parliament." I say you have quoted the said resolve partially, and with an intention to deceive; for in the preamble to that resolve are these words: "And it is necessary that the exercise of every kind of authority under the said Crown should be totally suppressed, and all the powers of Government exerted under the authority of the people of the Colonies, for the preservation of internal peace, virtue, and good order," &c. Now, if this part of the resolve is attended to, will you, by being absolved from your allegiance, preserve internal peace, virtue, and good order in Pennsylvania? If all authority under the Crown ought to be totally suppressed, by what authority can the Judges, Justices of the Peace, and other officers in Pennsylvania, execute the laws? Is it not to be taken for granted that a new Government is necessary to be established? You are called upon to answer these questions. I flatter myself that your House of Assembly (as you are pleased to call it, though you know that no Representative can by law vote in the House of Assembly, or sit there during any debate, after the Speaker is chosen, until he shall make and subscribe the declarations of allegiance, &c.) do not apprehend that they can continue the exercise of all powers of Government, legislative, executive, and judicial; and that no new Government is necessary, though it may be the wish of Mr. Rankin. You have next cited some of the proceedings of the Convention of Maryland, and asserted that New-York, Connecticut, and Rhode-Island, have made no further alterations than respecting the oaths, &c., as your Assembly have done. What you say respecting the Convention of Maryland is true, and it is denied by none "that the people of every Province have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof;" but you should have mentioned that the Convention of Maryland has resolved that the prayer for success to the British King against all his enemies, &c., should be no longer read by the clergy of that Province, and that your Assembly have not done the same. But what you have said respecting New-York, Connecticut, and Rhode-Island, is notoriously untrue; for the former proposed a method for establishing a new Government, Connecticut denies all authority under the Crown, and Rhode-Island, by a most solemn act of the Governour, Council and Assembly thereof, has anticipated the Congress resolve in all its parts, and has no more connection with the British King and Parliament than with the Empire of China. You next have recourse to the Charter Constitution of Pennsylvania, for which you express your love. I would hope you do not allude to the 20th section, which declares that no taxes shall be imposed on the people without their consent, or by act of Parliament in England. Poor man! Can you imagine you can frighten freemen, possessed of the least share of understanding, into the servile condition you wish to place them, by bellowing, The Charter, the Constitution is in danger? We know that a full and fair representation of this Province, and the suppression of all authority under the King of Great Britain, are the only changes desired, and that the charter and laws of the Province in every other respect will remain inviolate.

You seem exceeding angry that you cannot obtain the sentiments of your constituents for the direction of your conduct, and with the Committee of your County for having prevented your letters reaching them for that purpose; and you have given a specimen of your candid desire of collecting the unbiased sense of the good people of the County of York, in the letter to Henry Wolfe, which you have published at length. You say, "the friends of the present Constitution of Pennsylvania think it absolutely necessary at this time to use their utmost endeavours," &c., and afterwards, "as many persons as possible should be procured to sign the Address and Remonstrance." And you tell Mr. Wolfe, that by getting as many signers as possible he will oblige you his friend, &c. What must every man think of your character, after seeing this letter published by yourself? You must certainly have been drawn into it by some cunning false friend, who wished to ruin you. Is this the language, is this the conduct of an honest man, who sincerely sought the sentiments of his constituents, to press them to sign a paper forwarded by himself with as much earnestness as if his salvation depended upon it; and at the same time asserting this most wicked falsehood, "that it was to prevent the attempts that are making in the City of Philadelphia to destroy the Assembly, and consequently the charter-rights of the Province?" Did you not know that the Protest was only against the authority and qualification of the House for framing a new Government, and that it contains these words, (mentioning the House:) "We mean not to object against its exercising the proper powers it has hitherto been accustomed to use for the safety and convenience of the Province?" How, then, could you dare to say to Mr. Wolfe, and through him to the people of York County, "that attempts were making in Philadelphia to destroy the Assembly?" If you had possessed the least inclination to consult the sense of your constituents, you would have sent as well the Protest as the Remonstrance to them, without any comment on either, and requested their opinion respecting them. I should be glad to know whom you meant by the friends of the present Constitution of Pennsylvania, and what you meant by the present Constitution, as they are terms of doubtful import; also, your reasons for omitting to acquaint your constituents what has been done respecting new Governments in the four Southern Provinces, as well as in New-Hampshire and Massachusetts-Bay, besides those I have already mentioned. Likewise that your House, "thinking it convenient and for the safety of the Province," have instituted a Court of Admiralty, and appointed a Collector of the port of Philadelphia, but that it is their opinion that they have not a right to frame a new Government in all its parts.* I will conclude with giving

*You have told your constituents, in a note, that the names to the Remonstrance at the time of your writing, amounted to about six thousand. You must excuse me in saying I do not believe it; first, because you have you my opinion, that the more you dabble in troubled waters you will become the more dirty; and that gentlemen who ride new saddles should ride slow, lest they should be chafed and galled, and at last be rendered so sore as to be obliged to dismount.

I have made no animadversions except what have naturally arisen out of your own Address, otherwise I conceive it would be my duty to subscribe my name. The Press should not be open to libellers or slanderers.

A FREEMAN.

CHESTER COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Chester County, May 30, 1776.

The critical situation of publick affairs requiring the fullest representation of the people in Committee, at their next meeting, to confer upon matters of the greatest consequence to the peace and union of this Province, and of the Colonies in general; Therefore,

Resolved, That it be, and it is hereby, recommended to the Overseers of the Poor of each township in this County, where they have not chosen members to attend the Committee, or where they have been chosen and have not attended, that they do notify the inhabitants of their respective townships, qualified to vote for members of Assembly, to meet at the most convenient place in said townships on Tuesday, the eleventh day of June, and there by ballot choose one or more reputable Freeholders, to represent them in Committee of Inspection and Observation for this County, who, with the members already appointed, are hereby required to meet at the house of Richard Cheney, at Downing's Town, at the tenth hour of the forenoon of the fourteenth day of June next, on business of great importance and pressing necessity.

Signed by order:

WILLIAM EVANS, Chairman pro tem.

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Easton, May 30, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: On receiving your letter of the 21st inst., with the papers therein enclosed, the General Committee of this County were immediately called, and met this day.

The several matters laid before the Committee were conceived by us of the greatest moment, we directly proceeded thereon, and unanimously agreed to the enclosed resolves.

Animated by that good spirit which, in a very remarkable manner, has hitherto smiled on the laudable endeavours of the United Colonies for the preservation of our invaluable liberty, the free gift of God, our business was carried on without the least opposition, and in full confidence of the continued protection and assistance of Him in whose sovereignty is the disposal of all things.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servants.

Signed by order of Committee:

ROBERT LEVERS, Chairman.

At a meeting of the General Committee of the County of Northampton, held at Easton, the 30th day of May, Anno 1776:

Present, thirty-one Members.

On motion, Robert Levers, Esq., was appointed to and seated in the Chair.

The Committee were informed that they had been called together in consequence of a Letter from the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, dated 21st May instant, and delivered the 26th ultimo, to Lewis Gordon, Esq., Chairman, at present indisposed, by Mr. Frederick Kuhl and Mr. Christopher Ludwig, two of the said Committee of Inspection.

Moved, That the said Letter should be read; and it was read accordingly.

asserted other facts manifestly untrue; secondly, because you, as a member of the House, could easily have ascertained this matter. You should also have told them that only about four hundred and sixty-one of them resided in the City and Liberties of Philadelphia; and you should have mentioned the methods taken to procure signers; that six thousand are not an eighth part of the freemen of this Province; that no pains have been taken to procure a single signer to the Protest; that the people have been left to judge for themselves; and that it is believed that every County in the Province will appoint Deputies to attend the proposed conference, notwithstanding the Petition to the Constitutional Assembly from the eleven patriotick members of the Committee of the County of Philadelphia.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

Moved, That the Resolve of Congress of the 15th ultimo, be read, with the proceedings at the State-House of Philadelphia the 20th instant; which were read accordingly.

Moved, That the Protest of divers of the inhabitants of this Province, in behalf of themselves and others, lately presented to the honourable House of Assembly, be read; and it was read accordingly.

Moved, That the Address and Remonstrance of divers of the inhabitants of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, lately presented to Assembly against the above Protest, be read; which was read accordingly.

After having maturely considered the Letter and papers above-mentioned, it was moved, and

Resolved unanimously, That a number of the Committee be nominated to meet Deputies from all the other Committees in the several Counties in this Province, at Philadelphia, on Tuesday, the 18th day of June next, in order to agree upon and direct a mode of electing members for a Provincial Convention, and to determine upon the number of which the said Convention shall be composed; which Convention is to be held at such time and place as the said conference of Committees may appoint, for the express purpose of forming and establishing a new Government, under the authority of the people only, for the preservation of internal peace, virtue, and good order, as well as for the defence of their lives, liberties, and properties, according to the express declaration of the honourable the Continental Congress, preceding and immediately connected with the recommendation mentioned in the said Resolve.

On motion, Resolved unanimously, That six members of the Committee be nominated for the above purpose.

On motion, Resolved, That Robert Levers, John Wetzel, Nicholas Dupui, Neigal Gray, David Deshler, and Benjamin Dupui, be a Committee, appointed in behalf of this County, to meet at Philadelphia, on Tuesday, the 18th day of June next, with the above-mentioned conference of Committees for the above purpose.

Signed by order of the Committee:

ROBERT LEVERS, Chairman.

By His Excellency WILLIAM FRANKLIN, Esquire, Captain-General, Governour, and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Province of NEW-JERSEY, and Territories thereon depending, in AMERICA, Chancellor and Vice Admiral in the same, &c.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas I have matters of great importance to communicate to the General Assembly of this Province; I have therefore thought fit, with the advice of his Majesty's Council, to appoint a meeting of the General Assembly of New-Jersey, to be held in the City of Perth-Amboy, on Thursday, the 20th day of June next; and to publish the same by this Proclamation, to the end that all persons whom it may concern may have notice thereof, and govern themselves accordingly.

Given under my hand and seal-at-arms, in the City of Perth-Amboy, the thirtieth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six.

WILLIAM FRANKLIN.

By His Excellency's command:

CHARLES PETTIT, Deputy Secretary.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 30, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have frequently heard of, and often observed, large companies of gentlemen and ladies visiting the Tories confined in jail by your order; by which means they have an opportunity of knowing everything that passes amongst us. Quere: Whether or not prudence does not dictate to us to prevent such intercourse?

The bad women confined in jail are constantly visited by men of as bad characters. Complaints of this kind coming to me, I think it my duty to lay them before you. If at any time you want any guards, I shall be happy to furnish them.

I now send a man suspected of trying to get on board the men-of-war.

I am, gentlemen, with esteem, your most humble servant,
ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To the Provincial Congress.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York: The Memorial of the Vestry of the City and County of New-York, humbly sheweth:

That we have been elected to the office of Assessors, to lay the tax for the maintenance and support of the Poor of this City and County for the current year.

That the money annually raised for several years past for that purpose, amounted to five thousand pounds, a sum scarcely sufficient for the purpose, and in some years inadequate to the end.

That there are now at least near four hundred poor in the Alms-House in this city and the buildings adjoining, which number will, in all probability, be increased from the calamitous circumstances of the times.

That as great numbers of the inhabitants, and generally those who are most opulent, have retired to the country, we deem it impracticable (should we proceed to the execution of our office) for the collectors to raise a sum in any degree adequate to the exigencies of the poor under our care; that these poor consist of the blind and the lame, numerous helpless orphans, tender distressed infants, foundlings, and decrepid old age in its last stage, the sick in body, and dis-tempered in mind; many of whom have, by various means, fallen into this city, as well from different parts of this Colony, as from other Colonies and countries.

Prompted, therefore, by the feelings of humanity, we have thought fit to lay before you the present difficulties and our apparent inability to procure a support for so great a number of poor; hoping that, in your wisdom, some means may be found to secure these unhappy objects from all the wretchedness of poverty and disease.

Your Memorialists, therefore, pray that, by order or resolve of this honourable Congress, the sum of five thousand pounds may be advanced or lent to the City of New-York, for the support of the poor; or such other relief granted in the premises as may be adequate to the present distress.

And your Memorialists shall ever pray, &c.,

ISAAC MARSHALK, GEORGE JANEWAY,
FRANCIS BASSET, PETER RICKER,
WILLIAM W. LUDLOW, JOHN TURNER,
HENRY RUTGERS, JUN., NICHOLAS FLETCHER.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, }
May 30, 1776. }

The Congress taking into consideration the dangers to which this City and Colony will be exposed should the Ministerial Troops speedily arrive,

Resolved, That two Battalions be taken into the pay and service of this Colony for three months; and

Ordered, That a Committee be appointed to take into consideration, and report to this Congress their opinion of the number of which the said Battalions shall consist; what pay shall be given; whence they shall be procured, and by what regulations governed; together with such other matters relative to the same as they may think proper and necessary; and Ordered, That Mr. James Livingston, Mr. Cuyler, Mr. Jay, Mr. Morris, and Mr. Samuel Townshend, be the Committee.

Extracts from the Minutes:

JOHN MCKESSON, Secretary.

In the course of the business recommended to us by the Congress, as members of the said Committee, we did hold a meeting with the officers of the first Independent Battalion of the City of New-York, and, together with others the members of the said Committee, did propose to them to enter into the service of the said Congress, for the immediate defence of the Colony of New-York, and did give them assurances that, in case the said Battalion did enter into the said service, they should not be compelled by their enlistment to go above twenty miles out of the said Colony; and, further, that it was the opinion of the said Committee that the Congress aforesaid would not probably order the said Battalion to leave the said City unless in cases of necessity; but we cannot remember that any contract whatsoever was made with the said Battalion, and are confident that none was made by the said Committee; nor did the Committee make report to the House, the propriety being superseded by a resolution of the honourable the Continental Congress, in consequence of which the said Battalion hath since been taken into Continental pay.

SAMUEL TOWNSHEND,
GOUVERNEUR MORRIS.

Return of the state of the Minute Regiment raised in SUFFOLK County, NEW-YORK.

Lieut. Colonel, John Hulbert. Majors—Isaac Reeves, First; Isaac Overton, Second. Adjutant, Ephraim Marvin. Quartermaster, Ebenezer Dayton.

CAPTAINS.	Lieutenants.	Ensigns.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Drummers.	Fifers.	Rank and File.	State of Ammunition and Arms.
David Peirson....	2	1	4	4	1	1	42	Complete in arms, &c.
Ezekiel Mulford ..	2	1	4	4	1	1	40	Do. do.
Zephaniah Rogers ..	2	1	4	4	1	1	33	Do. do.
Paul Reeves.....	2	1	4	4	1	1	35	Complete except bayonets.
Jonathan Bailey...	2	1	4	4	1	1	27	Do. do.
Selah Strong.....	2	1	4	4	1	1	57	{ Want fifteen guns and a number of bayonets.
Nathaniel Platt....	2	1	4	4	1	1	42	Complete.
Thomas Wickes ..	2	1	4	4	1	1	31	Complete except one man.
Total .....	16	6	32	32	8	8	307

I do hereby certify that the above is a true state of my regiment agreeable to returns made by the respective Captains.

JOSIAH SMITH, Colonel.

Meritches Patent, May 30, 1776.

N. B. The drums, fises, and colours, are all deficient.

GENERAL THOMPSON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Chambly, May 30, 1776.

SIR: Since my last letter to your Excellency, I have been stationed at the mouth of the Sorel River, which will in a few days be fortified as well as the situation of the place will admit of. The havoc made amongst the New-England troops by the small-pox, and our want of ammunition, especially lead, have prevented anything being done below Sorel. That place I do not think by any means tenable; but your Excellency may be assured I shall not abandon it, unless I can give satisfactory reasons for my procedure. The unfortunate retreat from Quebeck, and the late unguarded truce and convention at the Cedars, has involved us in many difficulties, though I hope we shall yet be able to surmount them.

By the honourable Commissioners of Congress, I transmit a return of the troops that came with me from New-York, and likewise of those now under my command at Sorel.

I am your Excellency's most obedient and very humble servant,

WILLIAM THOMPSON.

At a Council of War, held at Chambly, May 30, 1776:

Hon. Brigadier-General Wooster, President.

Brig. General Arnold, Colonel St. Clair,
General Thompson, Colonel Livingston,
General De Woodtke, Colonel Porter,
Colonel Greaton, Colonel Brown,
Colonel Maxwell, Colonel Hazen,
Colonel Poor, Colonel Allen,
Colonel Stark, Colonel McAufie,
Colonel Campbell, Colonel Gilman.

1st. Resolved, That orders be immediately transmitted to the commanding officer at St. Ann's, to attack the enemy at Quinze Chiens as soon as the time fixed for cessation of hostilities is expired.

2d. Resolved, That it is necessary a General officer should take the command of the forces sent to Quinze Chiens.

3d. Resolved, That five hundred men, including those ordered this morning, be immediately sent from Montreal to St. Ann's, and that their places be immediately supplied by the troops at St. Johns.

4th. Resolved, That, if practicable, it will be for the interest of the Colonies to keep Canada.

5th. Resolved, That it is not practicable or prudent, under our present circumstances, to take or keep possession of Deschambault.

6th. Resolved, That the post now occupied at Sorel, be kept for the present by the main body of the Army.

Newburyport, May 30, 1776.

Yesterday arrived in this port the frigate Belleisle, from St. Maloes. She has on board ninety barrels of gunpowder, some artillery, and a great number of bombs and shells, for the use of the Provincial Army.

The day before yesterday, the Ranger, a snow of fourteen guns, commanded by Patrick Dennis, in the service of the Congress, brought into this place a ship, burden two hundred and eighty tons, and another vessel of two hundred and sixty tons. They were both from England, and are laden with clothing and military stores for the British troops. The above vessels have upwards of eleven thousand pair of shoes on board.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED COLONIES.

BROTHERS: The grand, the alarming, though necessary crisis, is at length arrived, for a publick declaration of Independency. Are there any of you so deficient in principles of virtue as not to approve of it? Can any man whatever, after taking a retrospective view of our proceedings, and the vengeance displayed in the aspect of the Ministerial measures, wish to delay it a single moment, through vain hopes (for as such I must term them) that an accommodation will one day or other take place? What ideas of a reconciliation must such a man have? Will Great Britain relinquish her claim of taxation, and suffer us to extend our commerce to any part of the globe? Will she refund the expenses of this unnatural war? Will she pay us for the destruction of our towns, and the numberless depredations committed on our coasts? These are interrogatories that cannot be answered in the affirmative. Then, have we such narrow-minded souls among us that would wish a connection upon any other terms? Pusillanimity must, indeed, be the principal ingredient of their compositions. Consult wisdom and heroism for the decision. They point out the immediate necessity of such a declaration, and the vigorous exertion of our military force, as the only effective measure to secure our liberty, peace, and happiness. Nine months ago, the name of Independence was as alarming to me as any man in America; but necessity, self-preservation, (the first law of nature,) simple reason—everything cries aloud, It must be so, or we perish. Dreadful alternative!

The two Carolinas have agreed to concur in all measures that may be approved of by Congress for the general welfare of the American empire. Virginia alone stands up, and gives the great example, with positive orders to their Delegates to vote for Independency at all events. As she has ever been foremost in our publick measures, and the wisdom of her councils acknowledged by all parties, she surely deserves imitation in this important affair; and let it be handed down to future ages, that the Congress of the thirteen United Colonies had the spirit and virtue to declare it nemine contradicente.

ARISTIDES.

Williamsburgh, May 31, 1776.

RESOLUTIONS OF VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

In Convention, Friday, May 31, 1776.

Resolved unanimously, That the Committee of Safety be directed to write a Letter to the President of the Convention of Maryland, in answer to his Letter of the 25th instant, expressing the deepest concern at the proceedings of that Convention respecting Governour Eden, and our reasons for not becoming accessory thereto, by giving him a passport through this Colony or the Bay adjoining. That we would with reluctance, in any case, intermeddle in the affairs of a sister Colony; but in this matter we are much interested; and the Convention of Maryland, by sending their proceedings to the Committee of Safety here, have made it the duty of the Convention to declare their sentiments thereon. That, considering the intercepted letter from Lord George Germaine to Governour Eden, in which his whole conduct and confidential letters are approved, and he is directed to give facility and assistance to the operations of Lord Dunmore against Virginia, we are at a loss to account for the Council of Safety of Maryland having neglected to seize him according to the recommendation of the General Congress; and more so for the Convention's having promoted his passage to assist in our destruction, under a pretence of his retiring to England, which we conceive, from the above letter, he is not at liberty to do. That, supposing he was to gain Britain, it appears to us that such voyage, with the address presented to him, will enable him to assume the character of a publick agent, and, by promoting division and disunion among the Colonies, produce consequences the most fatal to the American cause. That as the reasons assigned for his departure, that he must obey the Ministerial mandates while remaining in his Government, are very unsatisfactory, when the Convention declare that, in his absence, the Government, in its old form, will devolve on the President of the Council of State, who will be under equal obligation to perform such mandates, we cannot avoid imputing those proceedings to some undue influence of Governour Eden, under the mask of friendship to America, and of the Proprietary interest in Maryland, whereby the members of that Convention were betrayed into a vote of fatal tendency to the common cause, and we fear to this country in particular; and feel it an indispensable duty to warn the good people of that Province to guard against the Proprietary influence.

Resolved, That the foregoing Resolution be forthwith published in the Virginia Gazette.

EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

JOHN TAZEWELL, Clk of Convention.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN HILL.

[No. 3.]

Annapolis, May 31, 1776.

SIR: You are immediately to return to your vessel, and convey, at the expense and risk of this Province, across the country to the first inlet to the northward of Cape-Charles such of your cargo as you may find necessary, and proceed round with the residue in your said vessel, between Smith's Island and Cape-Charles. Upon your arrival in that inlet, you are to take on board what you send across by land, and with the utmost diligence proceed on your voyage, agreeable to former instructions. We are, &c.

To Captain Duncan Hill.

FRANCIS WARE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, May 31, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer will produce to the Board three gun-locks, sent by Mr. Messersmith for your inspection, who tells me he has now twenty-five more finished off, and if the publick will encourage him properly, he can finish ten or twelve per week. I believe the encouragement he expects is three dollars per lock. If you approve of the work and price, please to let me know by a line, and I will order him to employ all his hands in that business.

I am under the necessity of soliciting a sum of publick money, to be lodged in the hands of some gentlemen in or near this place, to discharge contingencies, as I find it impossible to furnish our Hospitals with proper necessaries for the like, such as milk, vegetables, &c., without ready money. There are also blankets wanting for the sick, which cannot be got without the money. I have been obliged to borrow twenty odd pounds since I came here, to pay the people who are at work on our tents, tent-poles, beds for the sick, &c., &c., who are chiefly needy, and must have a little money to go to market.

I am, gentlemen, very respectfully, your obedient, humble servant,

FRANCIS WARE.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

J. HALL AND OTHERS TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Anne Arundel County, May 31, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We take the liberty of informing you that the Severn Battalion is, from the local situation of the country, greatly exposed to the depredations and attacks of our cruel and inveterate enemies; and as we may daily expect them, we request that you will be pleased to furnish the said battalion with two hundred cartouch-boxes, with twenty-three rounds of powder and ball to each, and also two hundred gun-flints. We also inform your Honours, that we will be responsible for the above, unless lost by unavoidable accident, and will return the same to the next Convention, if they will not pay for the same.

We are, gentlemen, in expectation of the above reasonable request being complied with, your most humble servants,

J. HALL,
REZIN HAMMOND,
NICHOLAS WORTHINGTON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety.

P. S. As an additional reason for the above application, it is to be considered that the magazine is in the very heart of the battalion; and the cartouch-boxes may be lodged in the magazine, subject to the order of the Colonel or Lieutenant-Colonel in case of an alarm. J. HALL.

SNOW-HILL (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Snow-Hill, May 31, 1776.

Were present: Benton Harris, Esq., Chairman; Messrs. Peter Chaille, John Purnell, James Martin, Outten Sturgis, Henry Johnson, John Done, and John Selby.

Whereas special permission was heretofore granted to Mr. Benjamin Dennis to raise a Company of Militia in Worcester County; and, in pursuance of the resolves of the Convention of Maryland, it appears that he hath enrolled a Company, consisting of eight non-commissioned officers and fifty-six privates; likewise, that he was duly elected as Captain, John Townsend as First Lieutenant, Thomas Outten as Second Lieutenant, and Angelo Atkinson as Ensign, for said Company.

Per order of the Committee: R. DENNIS, Clerk.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO JOHN A. WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, May 31, 1776.

DEAR BROTHER: Since my arrival at this place, where I came, at the request of Congress, to settle some matters relative to the ensuing campaign, I have received your letter of the 18th, from Williamsburgh, and I think I stand indebted to you for another, which came to hand some time ago, in New-York. I am very glad to find that the Virginia Convention have passed so noble a vote, and with so much unanimity. Things have come to such a pass now as to convince us that we have nothing more to expect from the justice of Great Britain; also, that she is capable of the most delusive arts; for I am satisfied that no Commissioners ever were designed, except Hessians and other foreigners; and that the idea was only to deceive and throw us off our guard. The first has been too effectually accomplished, as many members of Congress, in short, the representation of whole Provinces, are still feeding themselves upon the dainty food of reconciliation; and though they will not allow that the expectation of it has any influence upon their judgments with respect to their preparations for defence, it is but too obvious that it has an operation upon every part of their conduct, and is a clog to their proceedings. It is not in the nature of things to be otherwise; for no man that entertains a hope of seeing this dispute speedily and equitably adjusted by Commissioners, will go to the same expense, and run the same hazards, to prepare for the worst event as he who believes that he must conquer or submit to unconditional terms, and the concomitants, such as confiscation, hanging, and the like.

To form a new Government requires infinite care and unbounded attention; for if the foundation is badly laid, the superstructure must be bad. Too much time, therefore, cannot be bestowed in weighing and digesting matters well. We have, no doubt, some good parts in our present Constitution; many bad ones we know we have. Wherefore, no time can be misspent in separating the wheat from the tares. My fear is, that you will all get tired and homesick; the consequence of which will be, that you will patch up some kind of a Constitution as defective as the present. This should be avoided. Every man should consider that he is lending his aid to frame a Constitution which is to render millions happy or miserable, and that a matter of such moment cannot be the work of a day.

I am in hopes to hear some good accounts from North-Carolina. If Clinton has only part of his force there, and not strongly intrenched, I should think that General Lee will be able to give a very good account of those at Cape-Fear. Surely Administration must intend more than five thousand men for the Southern District, otherwise they must have a very contemptible opinion of those Colonies, or have great expectations from the Indians, slaves, and Tories. We expect a very bloody summer at New-York and Canada, as it is there, I presume, the grand efforts of the enemy will be aimed; and I am sorry to say that we are not, either in men or arms, prepared for it. However, it is to be hoped that, if our cause is just, as I do most religiously believe it to be, the same Providence which has in many instances appeared for us, will still go on to afford its aid. Your Convention are acting very wisely in removing the disaffected, and stores, from the Counties of Princess Anne and Norfolk; and are much to be commended for their attention to the manufacture of salt, saltpetre, and powder. No time, nor expense should be spared to accomplish these things.

Mrs. Washington is now under inoculation in this city, and will, I expect, have the small-pox favourably. This is the thirteenth day, and she has very few pustules. She would have written to my sister, but thought it prudent not to do so, notwithstanding there could be but little danger of conveying the infection in this manner. She joins me in love to you and all the little ones.

I am, with every sentiment of regard, dear sir, your most affectionate brother,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To John Augustine Washington.

JOHN MACPHERSON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 4, 1776. Referred to Mr. Read and Mr. McKean.]

Philadelphia, May 31, 1776.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Be pleased to spare me one quarter-cask of powder, to prove four howitzers and four sets of organs, which I have prepared for a vessel that I do not doubt will be of service to this country. Be pleased, also, to order my salary paid from the 17th of October last, as First Naval Commander in the American service, which station I obtained by the consent and agreement of the honourable gentlemen who were appointed to treat with me. I have received since in the service only four hundred and twenty dollars. The great expense I am now running to for the benefit of my country is the reason of my application at present.

I am, honourable gentlemen, your most obedient, most humble servant,

JOHN MACPHERSON.

To the Honourable Continental Congress.

The Committee to whom the within Letter was referred, beg leave to report: That they have examined the subscriber thereof respecting the contents, who alleged that he had a promise of being appointed Commander-in-Chief of the American Navy by Messrs. Randolph, Hopkins, and Rutledge, (a Committee of Congress,) to whom he communicated an important secret, but he produced no evidence in support of such allegation; and your Committee having inquired of Governor Hopkins about this promise, in the presence of Mr. Macpherson, he declared he recollected nothing of the kind:

Therefore, Resolved, That the application is unreasonable.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED NEW-YORK, MAY 31, 1776.

General Putnam has just shown me a letter from a gentleman in Salem, which very much concerns your place. The writer informs the General that Captain Chapman is arrived there (Salem) from St. Croix, who says that on the 10th instant, in latitude fifty-four degrees, longitude sixty-seven degrees twenty-four minutes, he fell in with a brig, the Captain of which told him that he sailed in company with a fleet of seventy transports, under convoy of two fifty-four and four forty-gun ships and two bomb-ketches, from which he parted the 5th in a hard gale of wind. The fleet had on board a large number of Hessians, Brunswickers, and English troops, all bound to Philadelphia, in order to disperse (as the Captain expresses himself) that hornets' nest, the Congress; after which they were certain the continent would become a very easy prey. God grant that you may be prepared to receive this armament! General Putnam thinks that some troops will immediately march from hence to your assistance.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER DATED NEW-YORK, MAY 31, 1776.

I do not learn that a word has been said in our Convention upon the subject of a Declaration of Independence; but a new mode of Government has been talked of, and you may expect to see in next Monday's paper a call from the Convention to the people, either to give them proper powers for the purpose, or to add to their number, and give the increased body powers, or to choose a new Convention, and give the powers to them.

COLONEL RITZEMA TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, May 31, 1776.

SIR: Yesterday it was given out, in general orders, that General Putnam had received a letter from General Washington, requesting the Colonels in the Army here immediately to provide colours for their several regiments. I shall be glad, sir, you would be pleased to mention it to the Congress, and that direction may be given to Mr. Curtenius to provide a pair for my regiment of such a colour and with such devices as shall be deemed proper by the Congress.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

RUD. RITZEMA.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 31, 1776.

I had the pleasure of receiving your Excellency's letter of the 28th instant, per post, and shall forward on the enclosed to General Ward, by the first safe conveyance. Soon after our troops left the Plains of Abraham, Sir John Johnson pushed off at the head of his Scotch gang. General Schuyler immediately ordered the officers that were at Albany on their parole, to be sent to this place. I have sent them on this morning for Philadelphia. Lieutenant McLean behaved so ill General Wooster sent him to Albany in irons; for particulars, I must refer your Excellency to Lieutenant Vanwaggenen, who has the care of them.

In my last I mentioned Captain McKay's desertion from Hartford; he was taken last week in the habit of a clergyman, on his way for Canada. He, with Governour Skene, are both committed to Hartford jail, the latter for refusing to sign his parole.

The signals on Staten-Island, Green Bluff, and Governour's Island, are complete. Our troops have taken a small sloop for going on board the Asia. There were ten men on board, seven of whom have escaped, the others are under examination. The vessels I mentioned are out cruising on the back of the Island. I think they will be of great use to us. I am driving on the works with all possible despatch, and shall pay particular attention to your Excellency's directions in regard to sending an express in case of a fleet appearing on the coast. I shall write Captain Putnam, to see the things forwarded from Boston to New-London as soon as possible.

I have the honour to be your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 22, 1776.

(Parole, Washington.)(Countersign, Gates.)

The following are the names of the different Batteries in and about this City: The Battery at the south part of the town, the Grand Battery; the one immediately above it, Fort George; the one on the left of the Grand Battery, Whitehall Battery; that behind his Excellency General Washington's Head-Quarters, the Oyster Battery; the Circular Battery, near the Brew-house, on the North-River, the Grenadier Battery; that on the left of the Grenadier Battery, the Jersey Battery; the one on Bayard's Hill, Bayard's Hill Redoubt; the one on the Hill where General Spencer's Brigade is encamped, Spencer's Redoubt; below this hill, on a wharf, is a Fascine Battery called Waterbury's Battery; on the hill directly above it is a Redoubt, near the Jews' Burying-ground, by the name of Badlam's Redoubt.

Andrew O'Brien, Sergeant, and William Welch, Corporal, both of Captain O'Hara's Company, in Colonel Wynkoop's Regiment, tried by a late General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Ritzema was President, for "assaulting, beating, and dangerously wounding, one William Irvine," are both acquitted by the Court.

The General approves the sentence, and orders the prisoners to be released immediately.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 23, 1776.

(Parole, Amboy.)(Countersign, York.)

The Sailmakers in the different Regiments are all to parade in front of the General's Quarters to-morrow morning, at six o'clock.

A reinforcement to be immediately made to the main guard at the lower barracks of one Subaltern, two Sergeants, two Corporals, one Drummer, and thirty Privates.

The order for doubling the sentries at night to be strictly attended to.

All those men of the following Regiments, viz: Colonel Parsons's, Webb's, Baldwin's, Nixon's, Willy's, and Read's, who have agreed to serve in the whaling-boats with Lieutenant-Colonel Tupper, are to repair immediately to him, and take their orders from him.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 24, 1776.

(Parole, Mifflin.)(Countersign, Lynch.)

The Brigadier-Generals will settle the mode and hours for going the rounds at night, every morning on the general parade, at guard mounting.

The following Sailmakers are to embark this day on board a vessel, in order to proceed to Albany, and from thence to General Schuyler, and receive his further orders, viz: Francis Howard, Samuel Holmes, Ebenezer Durkee, Daniel Vanderpool, of Colonel Ward's Regiment; Lewis Lamb, of Colonel Little's Regiment; George Lemot, of Colonel Bailey's Regiment. They are to be furnished with ten days' provision a man. Captain Harwood's Company is to join Lieutenant-Colonel Tupper, and do duty on board the whaling-boats, &c., &c.

Mr. Livingston, who has hitherto supplied Colonel McDougall's Regiment with provisions, having declined doing it any longer, he is to order his Quartermaster to apply to the Commissary-General for provision for the future, who is desired to supply all those Corps, which were hitherto supplied by Mr. Abraham Livingston.

The removal of General Washington's guard from his Head-Quarters in town, occasions the following alterations in the detail of guards, viz: the seven men lately added to the Provost, to be taken from it, and a guard of one Sergeant, one Corporal, and fifteen men, to mount at the place where General Washington's guard was kept; who are to relieve the sentries at his door, General Gates's, Paymaster-General's, &c.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 25, 1776.

(Parole, Mugford.)(Countersign, Leonard.)

Captain Butler, of Colonel Nixon's Regiment, tried at a late General Court-Martial on the several charges exhibited against him by Lieutenant Walker, viz: "Defrauding his Company, defrauding the publick, absenting himself from his Company when on their march, and inlisting a man unfit for the service," is acquitted of the several charges against him.

The General approves of the sentence of the above Court-Martial, and orders that Captain Butler be released from his arrest.

John Moore and Joshua Smith, both of Colonel Ritzema's Regiment, tried by the above Court-Martial for "absenting themselves from Camp without leave, and forging a pass," are found guilty, and sentenced to receive corporal punishment, viz: Moore thirty-nine lashes, Smith twenty lashes, and both to be kept seven days confined on bread and water.

The General approves of part of the above sentence, and orders the corporal punishment to be put in execution to-morrow morning, at the head of the Regiment, at guard mounting; but for several reasons thinks proper to disapprove of the latter part of the sentence.

A working party, consisting of nine hundred men, to be ordered to-morrow morning, from the different Brigades and Regiments, viz:

General Heath's: Colonel Learned's, Colonel Bailey's, Colonel Read's, and Colonel Baldwin's, to go to Paulus Hook.

General Spencer's: Colonel Parson's and Colonel Wyll's to Bayard's Hill; Colonel Huntington's to Red-Hook; Colonel Arnold's to Fort Stirling; Colonel Ward's, fifty men with four days' provisions to cut pickets. These men to be provided with axes this day, and to parade to-morrow morning, at five o'clock, on the Bowling-Green. The remainder of this Regiment's working party at Fort George; a party of which will be reserved to load boats.

Lord Stirling's: Colonel Nixon's, Colonel Webb's, Colonel McDougall's, and Colonel Ritzema's, on Governour's Island, every day until further orders.

As there is great complaint of officers not attending properly, the Majors of Brigade are every evening to send an exact detail of the number of officers and men they furnish for fatigue, to Colonel Putnam, Engineer. They are always to furnish to every two hundred men one Field Officer, three Captains, nine Subalterns, twelve Sergeants, and twelve Corporals.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 26, 1776.

(Parole, Hancock.)

(Countersign, Trumbull.)

"IN PROVINCIAL CONGRESS, NEW-YORK, May 25, 1776. —Messrs. John Berrien and Robert Harpur, two of the Members of the General Committee of the City of New-York, delivered in the Report of the said Committee, which was read and filed, and is in the words following, viz:

"Committee-Chamber, May 24, 1776.

"Doctor Foster appearing before the Committee, says that information was given to General Putnam that several persons had been inoculated at the house of one Fisher, in Stone Street, contrary to a resolve of the Provincial Congress of this Colony; he, the examinant, (agreeable to General Putnam's order,) immediately went to the house of the above-mentioned Fisher, where he discovered that Lieutenant-Colonel Moulton, Captain Parks, Doctor Hart, and Lieutenant Brown, had been inoculated by Doctor Azor Betts.

"Doctor Azor Betts being sent for, appeared before the Committee, allowed the charge against him, and offered in his vindication that he had been repeatedly applied to by the officers of the Continental Army to inoculate them; that he refused; but, being over-persuaded, he at last inoculated the persons above-mentioned.

"Resolved, That Doctor Azor Betts be committed to the Jail of this City, and be kept in safe custody until released by the Provincial Congress.

"Ordered, That a copy of the Minutes relating to Dr. Azor Betts's case be handed to the Provincial Congress.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"JOSHUA WINTER, Secretary."

"Messrs. Berrien and Harpur further inform, that the wife of Azor Betts, on her examination, says, that Lieutenant Seymour, from Long-Island, had informed her that seven persons of the Army (officers, as she understood) on Long-Island were taking mercurial preparation, and, as he supposed, were inoculated or preparing to be inoculated for the small-pox.

"Ordered, That a copy of the Report of the General Committee to this Congress be delivered to Major-General Putnam; that he give such direction to the Continental Army, for preventing the small-pox among them on Long-Island, as he may think necessary.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"JOHN McKESSON, Secretary."

The General presents his compliments to the honourable the Provincial Congress and General Committee, is much obliged to them for their care in endeavouring to prevent the spreading of the small-pox (by inoculation or any other way) in this City, or in the Continental Army, which might prove fatal to the Army if allowed of at this critical time, when there is reason to expect they may soon be called to action; and orders that the officers take the strictest care to examine into the state of their respective Corps, and thereby prevent inoculation amongst them, which, if any soldier should presume upon, he must expect the severest punishment.

Any officer in the Continental Army who shall suffer himself to be inoculated, will be cashiered and turned out of the Army, and have his name published in the Newspapers throughout the continent as an enemy and traitor to his country. Upon the first appearance of any eruption, the officer discovering it in any soldier is to give information to the Regimental Surgeon, and the Surgeon make report of the same to the Director-General of the Hospital.

The working party from Colonel Nixon's Regiment are to be ordered every day to Long-Island, instead of Governour's Island, as mentioned in yesterday's orders.

The form of a Morning Report (which the Captain of the lower barrack guard is to make every day to the Field Officer) may be had by applying to any of the Brigade-Majors; and it is expected this form will be duly attended to.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 27, 1776.

(Parole, Killingly.)

(Countersign, Pomfret.)

Nathaniel Stanley, of the First Company of Colonel Wyll's Regiment, tried by a late General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Ritzema was President, for "absenting himself from, and refusing to join said Company, after he had received a month's pay and blanket-money:" The Court find the prisoner guilty of a breach of the eighth article of the Continental Rules and Regulations, and do sentence him to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on his naked back, and be confined seven days upon bread and water.

John Brown, of Captain Scott's Company, in Colonel Wyll's Regiment, tried by the above Court-Martial, for "desertion:" The Court find the prisoner guilty of the charge, and sentence him to be whipped twenty lashes on his bare back for said offence.

The General approves the above sentences, and orders the execution of them to-morrow morning at guard mounting.

Captain Harwood is not to take any other men more than his own Company at present, from Colonel Learned's Regiment, to serve on board the whaling-boats, &c., except by the consent of Lieutenant-Colonel Shephard; whose consent the General imagined Captain Harwood had obtained, when he gave him the order this morning.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 28, 1776.

(Parole, Lynn.)

(Countersign, Sulen.)

Colonel Prescott's Regiment to be mustered at nine o'clock, Thursday morning, on their Regimental parade.

Three men from each Regiment in the three Brigades of Generals Heath, Spencer, and Lord Stirling, together with two Subalterns and two Sergeants, to parade at General Putnam's Quarters, to-morrow morning, at six o'clock. These men are to be such as understand rowing.

The General Court-Martial, of which Colonel Ritzema was President, is dissolved, and the officers to return to their ordinary duty.

A Wheelwright from each Regiment in the three Brigades above-mentioned, to parade in front of the Laboratory, at eight o'clock in the morning, and receive their orders from Mr. Hughes, Assistant Quartermaster-General.

After Orders, May 28, 1776.

A Sergeant, Corporal, and twelve men, to be immediately detached from the upper barrack guard to Paulus-Hook, who are to guard the works there and secure the working tools. This detachment to be immediately replaced by a like number from any one Brigade, who will be allowed their quota in to-morrow's detail. From henceforward the guard at Paulus-Hook are to take with them four days' provisions, and to be relieved every fourth day, commencing to-morrow.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 29, 1776.

(Parole, Chambly.)

(Countersign, Thompson.)

One man from each Regiment to parade to-morrow morning, at six o'clock, at General Putnam's Quarters, to go on board the Mifflin armed schooner. These men are to be such as best understand the business.

A reinforcement to be added to the upper barrack guard, of one Sergeant, one Corporal, and twenty-four Privates. The above guard is to furnish four additional sentries over the Laboratory, and four over the magazine of forage. For the placing those sentries, and the orders they are to receive, application is to be made to Mr. Hughes, Assistant Quartermaster-General.

A General Court-Martial, consisting of one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, one Major, and ten Captains, to sit tomorrow morning, at nine o'clock, for the trial of all such prisoners as may be brought before them.

Colonel Nixon, President. Members: Lieutenant-Colonel Shepherd, Major Wells. Captains: General Heath's Brigade, 4; Lord Stirling's, 2; General Spencer's, 4.

The names of the prisoners to be tried, together with their crimes, and evidences, to be given in to the Judge Advocate this afternoon. All evidences to give due attendance on the Court.

James Grant, of Captain Waterhouse's Company, in Colonel Parsons's Regiment, tried at a late General Court Martial, whereof Colonel Ritzema was President, for "destroying his arms, abusing the Sergeants, and insolently affronting his officers," is found guilty, and sentenced to pay for his arms, and receive twenty lashes on his bare back.

The General approves of the sentence, and orders the corporal punishment to be inflicted to-morrow morning, at the head of the Regiment, at guard-mounting.

Daniel Kitts, of Colonel Ward's Regiment, and Captain Allen's Company, tried at the above Court-Martial, for "stealing a shirt." The General thinks proper to postpone his sentence until further orders.

Joseph Lent, of Colonel McDougall's Regiment, and Captain Hoyt's Company, tried at the above Court-Martial, for "disobedience of orders and striking his commanding officer, Ensign Young, when in the execution of his duty," is found guilty of disobedience of orders, and sentenced to be confined five days on bread and water, in the Provost dungeon.

The General is not a little surprised at the sentence of the Court on the prisoner, Joseph Lent, and thinks the punishment so inadequate to the crime, that he disapproves of the sentence. The General hopes this hint will make future General Courts-Martial more particular and severe on the heinous crime of a soldier striking, or attempting to strike, his officer, or disobey his commands.

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 30, 1776.

(Parole, Virginia.) (Countersign, Carolina.)

Head-Quarters, New-York, May 31, 1776.

(Parole, Portsmouth.) (Countersign, Georgia.)

The Provost-Marshal to make a report in writing, every morning at Head-Quarters, of the prisoners he has in charge, specifying their names, regiments, companies, by whom confined, crimes, number of nights confined, tried or not tried.

Edmund Britt, of Captain Butler's Company, and Colonel Nixon's Regiment, tried at the General Court-Martial whereof Colonel Nixon is President, for "desertion," is found guilty, and sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes.

Ahimaas Sherwin, of Captain Butler's Company, and Colonel Nixon's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial, for "desertion," is also found guilty, and sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes.

The General approves of the sentence on the above two prisoners, and orders it to be put in execution to-morrow morning, at guard mounting.

After Orders, May 31, 1776.

General Washington has written to General Putnam, desiring him, in the most pressing terms, to give positive orders to all the Colonels to have colours immediately completed for their respective Regiments.

ELIAS BAYLEY TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Committee for the District of Jamaica, }
May 31, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of a resolve of Provincial Congress respecting the returning of the inhabitants of the city of New-York who left the same since the 1st of June last, this Committee gave personal notice to all such persons as had moved into this District, requesting them to comply with the said resolve, limiting them to what this Committee thought a reasonable time for the same; and, as many of them, at the expiration of the said time limited, had not satisfied this Committee of their leave of absence from the said city; therefore, we send such of those persons down to the city as we can get, the others keeping themselves concealed. But before this method was taken, publick notice was again given by advertisements, requesting them to satisfy this Committee of the reasons of their non-compliance; which they have not done.

By order of the Committee:

ELIAS BAYLEY, Chairman.

P. S. This Committee are of opinion that John Livingston, Jun., ought to be kept in custody till he produces one Smith, his hostler, who is kept secreted by Livingston's family.

SAMUEL BREWSTER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Committee, New-Windsor, May 31, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have this day ordered back to the city of New-York a certain Isaac De Witt, who lately came here without a certificate from his Colonel or commanding officer, as directed by the Congress. We find, on examination, that he is a person who may well be suspected as inimical to the liberties of his country, never having signed the General Association; and his coming here contrary to the orders of Congress, (of which he did not pretend ignorance,) confirm this opinion. He goes back under the care of Lieutenant Anthony, of the New-York Militia.

There are some persons in this District whom (though they have signed the General Association) we have great reason to suspect as unfriendly to the cause of liberty and America; and as we have no reason to expect any aid from those persons, it would, we conceive, be prudent to put it out of their power to injure us by leaving them possessed of arms which we much want, and they may use against us when most needed. We wish, therefore, to know whether the resolve for disarming suspected persons in the city and administering a certain test to them extends to the Province at large, and who are vested with power of executing the same.

It gives us pain to find any person counteracting the orders of Congress, and more especially so when it happens with those who profess friendship to the common cause. This has lately been the case with a certain Mrs. Lawrence, wife of Captain Jonathan Lawrence, who is a Commissioner under Congress at Fort Constitution, and his son a Clerk there; both in the pay of the Continent. Mrs. Lawrence, early in the spring, settled in this Precinct, opened a shop here, then, knowingly contrary to the resolve of Congress, has retailed Bohea tea at eight shillings per pound; and, to evade the resolve in that respect, pretends to sell her tea at six shillings per pound, but will not let the purchaser have the tea unless he takes a paper bag to put it in at two shillings, and so in proportion for a greater or lesser quantity. There is something so disingenuous in this kind of conduct, that we view it in a worse light than an open violation of the rule.

Upon having this complaint laid before us, we thought proper to depute one of our members to wait on Mrs. Lawrence, (in tenderness for her sex,) and treat with her on this matter, by letting her know that, if she would desist from her present conduct in that particular, return the money extorted to the persons from whom she received it, and sell her tea at the price fixed by Congress, in that case we would make matters as easy as we consistently could. But she has refused to comply with this reasonable and indulgent proposal; and the remainder of her tea has (as we are informed since) been removed to Fort Constitution, under the care of her husband and son, which has much disgusted the inhabitants, as they conceive it as a kind of insult to have that fortress made an asylum for that useless herb and the illegal venders of it. We thought it proper, as also being in duty bound, to inform you of this matter, that what is right may be done therein, and in future the resolve of Congress may not be violated or evaded in this manner for want of punishing those who have already transgressed.

We have the honour, gentlemen, to be, with all due esteem, your most obedient, humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

SAMUEL BREWSTER, Chairman.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.
[Read June 6, 1776. Referred to Mr. Sherman, Mr. Wythe, Mr. Sergeant, Mr. F. Lee, and Mr. Gwinnet ]
Fort George, May 31, 1776—10 in the evening.

SIR: At eight this evening I was honoured with your despatches of the 24th instant. I have already prepared my letter for General Thomas, which, with copies of the resolutions of Congress and the money you sent, will go off at daybreak to-morrow morning.

The resolutions of Congress have given me new life, although I by no means desponded at the unlucky accidents which have lately occurred in Canada. I have been long and deeply impressed with a just sense of the importance of maintaining our ground in Canada. It was, therefore, a most pleasing circumstance to me to see General Thompson's brigade followed by that of General Sullivan. If possible, I wish to see another succeed the last. I have thought it prudent to prepare for its conveyance across the lakes, having built, since General Sullivan left me on the 24th instant, sixty batteaus, which are now in this lake; nor am I under any apprehensions of supplying the Army in Canada with provisions, provided it is sent up to Albany in sufficient quantities; for although it is an arduous task, perseverance, close attention, and hearty good will, can surmount a variety of obstacles.

By accounts received this afternoon from officers returning from Canada, I learn that General Sullivan must have arrived at St. Johns this day, with all his brigade, except Colonel Dayton's Regiment, which is still in Tryon County, and where, I find, it is the opinion of the Committee of Albany as well as mine, that it is necessary he should remain at least for the present.

I enclose you a return of provisions sent lately into Canada. The quantity of flour is small, because I was advised by the honourable Commissioners and General Arnold, that it could be procured there; and yet the officers returning from thence inform me that our Army is in great straits for it. I wish Mr. Price had complied with my request, and made me frequent returns; but I have unfortunately never received a single line from him since he left this place.

You will excuse me if I refer you to my letter of this date to my worthy General, for sundry other matters. I assure you I do not take this liberty without reluctance, and it does not arise from indolence; you will therefore readily excuse me for it.

A deluded set of people have branded me with a character which my soul abhors, which I trust my conduct from early youth has given the lie to, and which it will continue to do in future; but that man is not worthy of holding an honourable station in the glorious cause of America who does not sensibly feel and resent an attack upon his reputation. In these sentiments I have requested my General for an inquiry to be made into my conduct. His soul is above the meanness of suspicion, for his feelings are the most delicate; and although his opinion does me the most ample justice, yet it is a natural wish that my innocence should be made as publick as the charge against me, which has been industriously propagated, and ere this has probably reached every quarter of that country to the preservation of which my all is devoted. Be assured, sir, that nothing shall be wanting on my part to fulfil the views of Congress in every matter committed to my charge. The intermitting fever has left me, my health is restored, and I am capable of undergoing any fatigue. As soon as I return from Skenesborough, whither I am going to give directions about the gondolas, I shall proceed to Albany, and employ proper persons to purchase whatever I shall think the Army may stand most in need of.

The Deputy Commissary-General, in a letter of yesterday's date, informs me that no more pork is left at Albany. Our Army now in Canada and on the communication requires daily fifty barrels of pork and something more of flour, including the extra expenditures; I wish, therefore, that a regular and constant supply should be kept up. The Hospital is gone into Canada with a tolerable assortment; but as many of the sick return to this place and Ticonderoga, it is necessary to make some provision for them, and I wish medicines may be sent up, as we have none of any kind.

General Thomas is at Chambly, ill of the small-pox, and, as I am informed, in rather a dangerous way. Where General Wooster is I know not; my last accounts say on the way to this country. General Arnold is gone against the Eighth Regiment and Indians, whom he has obliged to retreat. I have, therefore, requested the Commissioners to open the letters directed to General Thomas in case of his death.

I am, dear sir, with every sentiment that respect and esteem inspire, your most obedient, humble servant,
PHILIP SCHUYLER.
To the Honourable John Hancock, Esquire, &c., &c.

Return of Stores and Provisions received, forwarded, expended, and what remains in Store, MAY 31, 1776.

	PROVISIONS.					RUM.		Molasses.	Barrels Corn.	Hogsheads Oakum.	Barrels Pitch.	Reams Paper, &c.	Barrels Salt sold.	Sets Engine.	Ox Hides.	Coils Cortage.	Bars Iron.	SOAP.		TALLOW.		Boxes Candles.
	Tierces Bread.	Barrels Flour.	Barrels Pork.	Barrels Beef.	Firkins Butter.	Hogsheads.	Barrels.											Boxes.	Pounds.	Barrels.	Pounds.
Remains in store 30th April.....	1	100	30	18	13	18	-	12	-	1	3	16	986	-	3	-	59	-	-	3	-	5
Received in the month of May..	-	600	2214	19	-	-	-	-	211	10	44	-	-	-	141	-	17	3	-	-	-	-
Received the first pork 8th May...	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-
Total.....	1	700	2244	37	13	18	-	12	211	11	47	16	986	-	144	-	76	3	-	3	-	5
Forwarded of the preceding....	-	309	1770	-	1	-	-	-	52	2	13	-	4	-	59	-	-	-	-	-	-	-
Expended here.....	-	232	142	27	11	3	-	-	115	9	34	4	-	-	-	-	7	1	-	-	-	1
Shipped the first pork 8th May...	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-
Total.....	-	541	1912	27	12	3	-	-	167	11	47	4	4	-	59	-	7	1	-	-	-	1
Remains in store the 31st May...	1	159	332	10	1	15	-	12	44	-	-	12	982	-	85	-	69	2	-	3	-	4

Errors excepted.
Fort George, May 31, 1776.
To the Honourable Philip Schuyler, Esq., Major-General in the Army of the United Colonies.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.
Fort George, May 31, 1776.
DEAR SIR: Your Excellency's letter of the 22d instant was delivered me last evening. I learn with particular satisfaction that Congress has requested your attendance to advise with them on the measures necessary to be adopted for the present campaign. I foresee many salutary consequences from this step.
Although I have transmitted you some further disagreeable accounts from Canada since the date of your favour, yet I hope they will be the last. By a letter from General Thompson, I find he was ordered to repossess himself of Deschambault, with one thousand six hundred men; and that he was to leave Sorel (where General Thomas was arrived) on the 20th. He laments, however, that Colonel Greaton's Regiment had been inoculated for the small-pox.

An hour after I had despatched my last of the 28th, thirteen of our staunch friends the Oneidas, arrived here, with a speech from the Sachems, informing me that some of the Six Nations had gone from Niagara in order to join our enemies; and that they were on their way to Canada, to prevent the defection of the Canadian tribes. They remained here a few hours and then proceeded.

This morning thirty carpenters left this to repair to Skenesborough, by the way of Ticonderoga, in order to construct gondolas, although nothing is prepared for building them. I hope, nevertheless, to finish one in a short time, at least I will do everything in my power to complete it the soonest possible; and for that purpose I shall leave this to-morrow to put all in train. Since General Sullivan's departure, I have finished sixty batteaus; nor shall I cease until I am advised by your Excellency that no more troops are coming this way.

I wish a person that understood the construction of the best gondolas was sent up express to me; for although they should not be able to get down the falls of Chambly, yet they will be of service on Lake Champlain, should our Army be obliged to retreat. The vessels we have there (except the Royal Savage) are of very little force.

Enclose your Excellency my orders to Colonel Dayton, his letters, and other papers, relative to the transactions in Johnstown. Mr. Yates, the Secretary of Indian Affairs, will transmit you the speeches of the Indians and the answers to them.

I am just informed that General Thomas has taken the small-pox. He is at Chambly, and in rather a dangerous way.

I have not yet had any return from Canada, either of the Army, the provisions, or stores, nor the least information from any officer in command, of the disaster that befell Colonel Bedel at the Cedars; but I fear it is too true, as it is confirmed by several persons arrived since I wrote this letter, who left Montreal on Sunday, the 26th.

I am informed by persons of good credit that about one hundred persons, living on what are commonly called the New-Hampshire Grants, have had a design to seize me as a Tory, and perhaps still have. There never was a man so infamously scandalized and ill treated as I am; and I hope Congress will publicly do me that justice which I thank your Excellency for having done me in your letter of the 21st, if that respectable body is convinced (of which I make no doubt) of my zeal and attachment to the cause of my injured country.

I am, dear sir, ever most sincerely your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO THE COMMITTEE OF ALBANY.

Saratoga, May 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Duer is capable of giving you some important information with respect to the intentions of the forces in this and the neighbouring Counties. I could wish that a Secret Committee was appointed to receive his intelligence. And lest a delay should be occasioned in taking proper measures to counteract our enemies, I have furnished him with sundry papers, to be made use of if you should judge it expedient; he will lay them before the gentlemen you may appoint for their inspection, and if the measure be approved, they may be sealed and delivered as directed.

Mr. Duer will be under the necessity of concealing the names of the persons who have given him and me the information, as the parties have my word and honour for it; but he is ready to give his information upon oath with respect to what has been delivered by affidavit or otherwise.

I am, gentlemen, with great esteem, your obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Saratoga, May 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Some time ago an information on oath was lodged with me against Sir John Johnson, charging him with hostile intentions against us; this has since been confirmed by further information from persons whom I am not at liberty to name.

Judge Duer, who has taken one of the examinations, and was present at another, will inform you more particularly. This has induced the enclosed order to Colonel Dayton, whom I beg you will detach with three hundred of his most alert men, to execute this business, and to order the Commissary-General to furnish him with six days' provision, and carriages to convey it, and to prepare to send more if there should be occasion. It is necessary that Sir John Johnson should not be apprized of their real design, and I have therefore written him on the subject of moving the Highlanders from Tryon County, which you will please to peruse, seal, and send to him by express the soonest possible.

I am, &c.,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Sullivan.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO SIR JOHN JOHNSON.

Fort George, May 15, 1776.

SIR: The elder Mr. McDonald, a chief of that part of the clan of his name now in Tryon County, has applied to Congress that those people with their families may be moved from thence and subsisted. You will therefore please to advise them to prepare and be ready to come to Johnstown whenever the troops shall arrive there, who are ordered to conduct them to Albany, that they may not experience any insult that might be offered by intemperate people.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Sir John Johnson, Bart.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO VOLKERT P. DOUW.

Saratoga, May 14, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Having received information, supported by affidavits, that Sir John Johnson, slighting the engagements he entered into with me last winter, is making hostile preparations, it is my duty to put it out of his power to carry them into execution, by securing his person; for which I have given orders, as likewise for the removal of the Highlanders, on request of their chief, Mr. McDonald. This latter will be the reason given for the march of the troops to Johnstown, that they may not be insulted by imprudent people.

These intended operations will make it indispensably necessary that you should immediately inform the Mohawks that some troops are going to Johnstown, but that no evil will thence result to them; and it is also absolutely necessary that you and Mr. Gates should move up with the troops, and as soon as Sir John is apprehended, inform the Indians, as well the other nations as the Mohawks, of the reasons which occasioned it, and which will be given you by Mr. Duer, who took one of the affidavits, and who was present at the examination of another person. I need not recommend that the greatest secrecy is necessary, your own good judgment will point that out.

I am, dear sir, &c.,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Volkert P. Douw, Esq.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Saratoga, May 14, 1776.

SIR: General Sullivan will order you to proceed to Johnstown with a detachment of the regiment under your command. On your arrival there you will take up your quarters at the house of Gilbert Tice, inn-holder, and give notice to the Highlanders who live in the vicinity of the town to repair to it; and when any number are collected you will send off their baggage, and infirm women and children, in wagons, for which you will apply to the Committee of the County of Tryon, or some of them. You will make an exact list of the men, women and children, distinguishing those under five years old, and those from five and under twelve, from those beyond that age; copies of which you will transmit me; you will give the strictest order that no abuse be given to the persons of these people, and that all their effects be secured in such a manner that the most trifling part of their property may not be destroyed.

After having secured the Highlanders, you will let Sir John Johnson know that you have a letter from me, which you are ordered to deliver to him in person, and beg his attendance to receive it. If he comes, as soon as you have delivered the letter and he has read it, you are immediately to make him close prisoner, and carefully guard him, that he may not have the least opportunity to escape. When you have done this, you are to repair to his house, taking him with you, and after having placed proper sentinels to prevent any person belonging to the family from carrying in or out papers, you are to examine his papers in his own presence and in the presence of William Duer, Esq., who accompanies you, and with whom I wish you to consult when any difficulty arises. If you find any papers relating to any intended operation against the cause of America, or any letters from British Governours or officers, or agents of the Ministry, you will make a list of such papers and letters, copy whereof you will deliver to Sir John Johnson, and another, together with such papers and letters, you must transmit to me. You and Mr. Duer will both give your words of honour that you will discover to no person whatever the contents of any papers or letters which are of a private nature, and which do not affect the cause of America. Although Sir John is to be closely guarded, he is by no means to experience the least ill-treatment in his own person or those of his family; and you are to be particularly careful that none of the men under your command, or any persons whatsoever, destroy or take away the most trifling part of his property, except arms and ammunition, which you are to secure and bring down with you and deliver to Mr. Philip Rensselaer, store-keeper, with a charge to keep them safe until further orders from me. In securing Sir John Johnson, and in searching his house, I wish the least tumult possible, and to that end you are not to suffer private soldiers to enter it, unless by your immediate order. You will constantly keep strong guards and good look out, that you may not experience a surprise, both in marching to and whilst you remain there; and on your return, having secured Sir John Johnson and brought him to Albany, you are there to cause him to be guarded with the same attention, and to send me notice of his arrival.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Colonel Dayton.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO SIR JOHN JOHNSON.

Saratoga, May 10, 1776.

SIR: After candidly scanning, coolly considering, and comparing the variety of information which imputes to you the most hostile intentions against the country, I could have wished, for the sake of human nature, to have found them groundless. Unhappily they are too well supported by the testimony even of those who were intrusted with the secret of your intended operations, and whose remorse has induced them to so full a discovery as not to leave a doubt on my mind that you have acted contrary to the sacred engagements you lay under to me, and through me to the publick. It is, therefore, necessary for the safety of the inhabitants, and the weal of the country, that I should put it out of your power to embroil it in domestick confusion; and have therefore ordered you a close prisoner, and sent down to Albany, to be thence conveyed to his Excellency General Washington, thereby discharging you from your parole. But influenced by, and acting upon, principles which will never occasion a remorse of conscience, I have at the same time ordered that no insult should be offered to your person or family, and that your property should be guarded and secured with a scrupulous attention; for, sir, Americans engaged in the cause of liberty remain uninfluenced by the savage and brutal example which has been given them by the British troops, in wantonly setting on fire the buildings of individuals, and otherwise destroying their property.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Sir John Johnson.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO LADY JOHNSON.

Saratoga, May 14, 1776.

MADAM: Mr. Duer, who is so good as to take charge of this, will advise you of the pain Sir John's conduct has occasioned me, and how much I have been distressed at the sad necessity which obliges me to secure his person. He will also inform you how much I suffered on his account last winter; but although he has forgot the obligations he lies under to me, yet his usage will be such as if he had not, for I am incapable of prostituting my office to resentment. I entreat you, therefore, to make yourself perfectly easy on that head. Should you choose to accompany or follow Sir John, all the care and attention will be paid you which is due to your rank and sex; but if Sir John chooses that you should remain, an officer's guard will be left, if required, to prevent any insult that might be offered by imprudent or malicious people to yourself or your family.

I am, madam, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Lady Johnson.

SIR JOHN JOHNSON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Johnson-Hall, May 18, 1776.

SIR: On my return from Fort Hunter yesterday, I received your letter by express, acquainting me that the elder Mr. McDonald had desired to have all the clan of his name in the County of Tryon, removed and subsisted. I know none of that clan but such as are my tenants, and have been for near two years supported by me with every necessary, by which means they have contracted a debt of near two thousand pounds, which they are in a likely way to discharge, if left in peace. As they are under no obligations to Mr. McDonald, they refuse to comply with his extraordinary request; therefore beg there may be no troops sent to conduct them to Albany, otherwise they will look upon it as a total breach of the treaty agreed to at Johnstown. Mrs. McDonald showed me a letter from her husband, written since he applied to the Congress for leave to return to their families, in which he mentions that he was told by the Congress that it depended entirely upon you; he then desired that their families might be brought down to them, but never mentioned anything with regard to moving my tenants from hence, as matters he had no right to treat of. Mrs. McDonald requested that I would inform you that neither herself nor any of the other families, would choose to go down.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN JOHNSON.

To Philip Schuyler, Esquire.

COLONEL DAYTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Johnstown, May 22, 1776.

SIR: I arrived here on Sunday last, with a party of about three hundred men under my command. In consequence of your orders, delivered to me by General Sullivan, immediately on my arrival I sent Major Barber with a letter to Sir John Johnson, desiring him to acquaint me at what time the Highlanders would be assembled at Johnstown, that I might escort them to Albany, agreeable to your letter by express.

Major Barber was informed by Lady Johnson that Sir John had received your letter, in consequence of which he had assembled the Highlanders, who said that Mr. McDonald had no right to make any application to Congress on their account, and that they were determined not to surrender themselves; and that Sir John had resolved to retire with these people into the woods. She insinuated, that if our people pursued them, they were resolved to defend themselves, and that they were not altogether unprepared.

Soon after our arrival in town, several warriors of the Mohawk nation passed by our tents, on their way to Johnson-Hall, painted and armed according to their manner when they go to war. In consequence of this, I thought it proper to defer my operations until Mr. Douw and Mr. Yates retired from Fort Hunter, that I might know in what light the march of our troops was considered by the Mohawks. On the return of those gentlemen, they informed me that the warriors were much dissatisfied with the march of our troops, and that their countenances threatened the most hostile intentions; but that the sachems seemed dissatisfied, and promised to meet me at Johnstown about ten, the next day. I must refer you to Mr. Caldwell for the particulars of this conference with the Indians, which did not end until Tuesday afternoon. I flatter myself you will approve of my conduct in this matter. Mr. Douw and Mr. Yates will, of course, communicate to you everything relative to this negotiation.

If we may give credit to the intelligence we have received, Sir John, with upwards of three hundred persons, several of whom are said to be armed, attempted on Tuesday morning to make his escape through the woods to Canada. I imagine, for my own part, it is more probable that, by the assistance of some Indian guides, he may attempt to make his escape to Niagara, and I have taken every possible precaution to prevent his escaping by that communication. With respect to the Canada route, I conceive, sir, that yourself will be the most proper person to prevent the success of such a measure. Lest the intelligence I have received should prove false, and Sir John and party should still be lurking in the woods, I have thought it advisable, with the advice of several members of the Committee of the Mohawk District, and of Mr. Duer, to take possession of Johnson-Hall, in order to cut off the communication of provisions and intelligence from that quarter to Sir John's party.

I have published a proclamation, requiring the wives and parents of those persons who have fled from their habitations, to repair to Johnstown, &c., a copy of which Mr. Caldwell will present you with. You may be assured that I have already pursued, and shall still continue to do so, every measure which may tend to execute your orders, and prevent the wicked designs of our enemies in this quarter. As Mr. Caldwell, the Chaplain of my regiment, has been privy and very serviceable in all my negotiations, I thought it proper that he should wait on you, to give you a detail of our situation here.

If you think it proper that we should stay here till we have obliged the Highlanders to come in, (in case they are still lurking in the woods,) or until other troops can be sent to take possession of this place, you will oblige me in ordering Mr. Caldwell to join me with all despatch, as Mr. Duer says he will soon be under a necessity of going to New-York. In case you should think it advisable for my regiment to stay here any time, we shall have occasion for a further supply of provisions from Albany, unless you can put us in some way of procuring it in this country.

For my own part, I see so plainly the bad consequences which may accrue from a neglect of vigorous measures in this quarter, that I am in hopes the Congress will think it proper to station a parcel of men here during the next season. Publick buildings in this town would, with a little expense, be made very defensible. I mention this with all submission to your better judgment. I shall, from time to time, inform you of everything which deserves your attention during my stay here; and I am, in the meantime, with the greatest respect, your most obedient, humble servant,

ELIAS DAYTON.

To General Philip Schuyler.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Fort George, May 22, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I have requested the Committees of Albany and Tryon jointly to take such measures effectually to secure the country against the infernal machinations of the Tories, as shall appear to them most expedient; and it is the orders of Congress that the military should give aid to the civil wherever required: you will please to afford them whatever you can with the troops under your command.

I have suggested to the Secret Committee the necessity of ousting every Tory in Tryon County; I hope they will come into it, and call upon you. I need not suggest to a gentleman of your good sense, the necessity of attention and vigilance, and that regard for humanity which I trust will always characterize the friends of liberty in America.

I am, dear Colonel, your most humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Colonel Elias Dayton.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO WALTER LIVINGSTON.

Fort George, May 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: By General Sullivan, who arrived last night, I was favoured with both your letters of the 20th instant.

I am much obliged to you for having taken prudent measures to prevent the evils that might be occasioned by the scandalous and false reports propagated to prejudice your respectable body and myself with the publick. We must bear with the caprice, jealousy and envy of our misguided friends, and pity them. Our Tory enemies we must watch with care and circumspection, and convince our countrymen by our actions, that we are true sons of liberty. I have some reason to apprehend that the Tories are not the only ones that have been assiduous in propagating this story. In the district you mention are some persons who applied for offices, which neither the Committee nor I could confer. This disappointment chagrins them, and, I believe, they have occasioned the report.

I am much obliged to Mr. Trumbull for the step he has taken. It is something singular that at the very time I was sending troops to apprehend Tories, to whom I am so obnoxious that they would not hesitate to assassinate me, the country below should be arming against me as a Tory. I am extremely sorry that the bird is flown; however, I hope still to see him in custody, unless he should have escaped to the westward. I am perfectly in sentiment with you, that the most vigorous measures ought to be pursued against Sir John Johnson and his infernal associates; and I therefore wish that a considerable sub-Committee of the Committee of the City and County of Albany was sent into Tryon County, to join the Committee of that County, and to fall upon the most effectual measures to secure the country. To prevent the necessity of sending to me, should you adopt what I recommend, and need the aid of troops, I enclose you an order to Colonel Dayton. The two companies in Tryon County raised there, you will also dispose of as you think best for the publick service.

I have sent scouting parties from this and Ticonderoga to the westward. Should Sir John and his crew be gone that way to Canada, he will in all probability fall into our hands, as I shall immediately convey the intelligence. If the Highlanders are really gone off armed, Sir John and the McDonalds have been guilty of a fraud, in not delivering up their arms last winter; and I must beg of you to signify it to the Congress, that the McDonalds may be closely confined.

Would it not be best to have all the Tories in Tryon County brought away?

I am, gentlemen, most sincerely, your obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Walter Livingston, Esq., and the Gentlemen of the Secret Committee.

COLONEL DAYTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Johnston, May 24, 1776—3 o'clock P. M.

SIR: I enclose you a deposition which I have taken since I sent to you by express, and have annexed the testimony of another person, which tends to confirm the former.

I am, sir, yours, with much respect,

ELIAS DAYTON.

To General Philip Schuyler.

Depositions taken before WILLIAM DUER, MAY 23, 1776.

James Billington, of Stone Arabia, being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelist of Almighty God, made oath, that on the 23d day of May, 1776, he was informed by Bartholomew Shaver, a Sergeant in Colonel Cleek's Regiment, that he was sent up as an express with a letter to Colonel Herkimer; that he (Colonel Herkimer,) had sent an express to stop the batteaus belonging to the Indian traders at the carrying-place at Fort Stanwix; that the express, on his return, was met by an Oneida Indian, who asked him what his business was upwards; that he informed the Indian it was to stop the boats at the carrying-place, but that they refused to stop; on which the Indian informed him that he was not surprised, that these boats were intended for Sir John Johnson, whom they were to wait for at the Oneida Lake. And further this deponent saith not.

JAMES BILLINGTON.

Sworn before me, this 24th day of May, 1776.

WILLIAM DUER.

A person who came from Fort Stanwix told the Committee of Kingsland District, in presence of Mr. Vandusen, that Mr. Ellvie had told one John Roof, wagoner of Fort Stanwix, that his boats were either to stop at Oswego, or at the other end of the Oneida Lake, Mr. Vandusen does not well recollect at which of these places the man said.

The above testimony given in my presence May 23, 1776.

WILLIAM DUER.

The Committee of German Flats District have received information that a road was marked from Johnson-Hall to Fort Brewington, on the Oneida Lake.

COLONEL DAYTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Johnson, May 24, 1776.

SIR: In my letter sent yesterday by the Rev. Mr. Caldwell, informed you of my intention of possessing Johnson-

Hall; a guard and sentries are so placed as to intercept effectually any communication with any part of the country. Previous to this, I sent an officer with a letter to Lady Johnson, informing her of my design, and requesting all the keys, in order to examine Sir John's papers. Colonel White, Major Barber, and myself, waited upon her shortly after. She immediately produced all the keys, with a considerable number of papers. The letters were carefully perused in presence of herself, and a few selected, copies of which I transmit you by this express, retaining the originals in my own hands until I shall have the pleasure of seeing or conveying them more safely to you. The house also was examined in every part. Since Mr. Caldwell left this place, I am more assured that Sir John, with his party, marched from these settlements on Monday last for Niagara or Canada. Lady Johnson assures me he is on his road to Niagara, and that we shall soon hear where he is. As the guards and sentries round the Hall must increase the pain of her situation, I have requested her to remove to Albany, where, as I understand, she has several friends. To this she seems averse, but for what reason I know not; and I would therefore be glad to receive your direction on this head also.

In consequence of an express despatched Colonel Herkimer, I understand he has collected his Militia, in order to prevent Sir John's escaping through that part of the country.

I am, sir, your most obedient, very humble servant,
ELIAS DAYTON.

To General Philip Schuyler.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Fort George, May 25, 1776—11 o'clock A. M.

SIR: Your letter of yesterday's date was just now delivered me; that by Mr. Caldwell is not come to hand. The declarations of Lady Johnson, that Sir John is gone to Niagara, and that we shall soon hear where he is, induces me to believe that he will be joined by a party from Niagara, perhaps at Oswego, under Major Hamilton, of which I had a hint in a letter from Canada, which arrived about twelve last night. I therefore think it advisable that Lady Johnson should be moved to Albany without delay, in the most easy and commodious manner to her. You will also move all the Highlanders and their families to that place; this done, you will post yourself in the most advantageous place on the Mohawk River, to secure that part of the country and awe the enemy; and remain there until further orders, advising me of the place. It may be necessary to remove all the Tories out of Tryon County; on this you will advise with the Committees of Tryon and Albany, as well as on the most eligible place for you to occupy. Should Sir John fall into your hands, you will send him down under such a guard as that there may be no danger of a rescue.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,
PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Colonel Elias Dayton.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO COLONEL DAYTON.

Fort George, May 27, 1776.

SIR: Since my last, which was of the 25th instant, by Mr. Fonda, I am favoured with yours sent by Mr. Caldwell to Albany, and this day delivered to me by Mr. Yates.

I am perfectly happy that your operations in Tryon County have been conducted with that prudence which distinguishes the officer and the man of sense. From a conviction that these qualities were happily combined in you, I expected what I have experienced.

I am favoured with a letter from Mr. Caldwell, in which he suggests the propriety of suffering such Highlanders to remain at their habitations as have not fled. I enter fully into his idea; but prudence dictates that this should be done under certain restrictions. These people have been taught to consider us in politicks in the same light that Papists consider Protestants in a religious relation, viz: that no faith is to be kept with either. I do not, therefore, think it prudent to suffer any of the men to remain, unless a competent number of hostages are given, at least five out of a hundred, on condition of being put to death if those that remain should take up arms, or in anywise assist the enemies of our country. A small body of troops, as Mr. Caldwell observes, may keep them in awe; but if an equal body of the enemy should appear, the balance as to numbers, by the junction of those left, would be against us. I am, however, so well aware of the absurdity of judging with precision in these matters at the distance we are from one another, that prudence obliges me to leave these matters to your judgment, to act as circumstances may occur. Notwithstanding the orders contained in my letter of the 25th instant, when I directed in the letter above quoted to post yourself in the most advantageous place on the Mohawk River, I did not mean to confine you to the banks of the river, that expression being used frequently for all that country which lies west of Schenectady. I mention this, lest you should take it in its literal sense.

I am so perfectly in sentiment with you on the necessity of keeping a force in that part of the country, that I have already advised his Excellency General Washington of my orders for you to remain there, and prayed to know his pleasure.

The scouts I have had out from hence for several days past are returned. By the report of the officer, he has been careful and diligent, but cannot discover anything of Sir John or his party, although he has been twelve miles above Sacandaga.

I am, dear sir, with great esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Colonel Elias Dayton.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO WALTER LIVINGSTON.

Fort George, May 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I was yesterday honoured with your favour of the 23d. You were perfectly right to open Sir John Johnson's letter. I wish, for the sake of human nature, that he had acted more becoming its dignity. He has stamped himself with infamy.

You will perceive by the enclosed copy of the letter to Colonel Dayton, that I have ordered him to remain in Tryon County. He will not be moved from thence unless by General Washington's orders, or unless you may think his stay unnecessary, which I hope may be the case soon, that he may join his brigade in Canada, where I wish to see our field as respectable as possible.

I am, with great truth, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Walter Livingston, Esquire, and the Gentlemen of the Committee.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO THE COMMITTEE OF ALBANY.

Fort George, May 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am honoured with your letter of the 25th instant, enclosing a copy of the Committee of Tryon's to you, of the 21st instant, Douw's note desiring your advice on the former, and yours of the 25th to the Committee of Tryon in consequence thereof.

Your advice to let them pass with such merchandise as is manifestly intended for trade with the Indians, was extremely proper for you to give, under the information you had, as it put it out of the power of the upper nations to say that we meant to have no intercourse with them; but since some of them have actually joined the King's troops above Montreal, I do not now think it prudent that any batteaus should be permitted to pass Fort Stanwix, unless such as are designed to trade with the Six Nations; besides, we may excuse ourselves to the Indians on the breach of promise that those traders have been guilty of, and inform them that they had very little intended for them.

I wish, therefore, that my sentiments should be conveyed to the Committee of Tryon the soonest possible, unless you and Mr. Douw should think them imprudent, and tending to the detriment of the service.

I am, gentlemen, most respectfully, your obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Committee of Albany.

GENTLEMEN: Since writing you on the other side, I have received the enclosed, by which you will perceive the necessity of stopping all such batteaus as were designed for the upper country; and I beg you will send by express to the Committee of Tryon County, and to Colonel Dayton.

It is absolutely necessary that our Militia should be put on a better footing, and brought to some discipline. I pray God this may not be neglected until it is too late to repent of the neglect.

I am, with every respectful and friendly wish, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL GATES.

Chamblly, May 31, 1776.

MY DEAR GENERAL: I am a thousand times obliged to you for your kind letter of the 3d of April, of which I have a most grateful sense. I shall be ever happy in your friendship and society; and hope, with you, that our next winter-quarters will be more agreeable, though I must doubt it if affairs go as ill with you as here. Neglected by Congress below; pinched with every want here; distressed with the small-pox; want of Generals and discipline in our Army, which may rather be called a great rabble; our late unhappy retreat from Quebeck, and loss of the Cedars; our credit and reputation lost, and great part of the country; and a powerful foreign enemy advancing upon us,—are so many difficulties we cannot surmount them. My whole thoughts are now bent on making a safe retreat out of this country; however, I hope we shall not be obliged to leave it until we have had one bout more for the honour of America. I think we can make a stand at Isle-aux-Noix, and keep the lake this summer from an invasion that way. We have little to fear; but I am heartily chagrined to think we have lost in one month all the immortal Montgomery was a whole campaign in gaining, together with our credit, and many men and an amazing sum of money. The Commissioners this day leave us, as our good fortune has long since; but as Miss, like most other Misses, is fickle, and often changes, I still hope for her favours again; and that we shall have the pleasure of dying or living happy together.

In every vicissitude of fortune, believe me, with great esteem and friendship, my dear General, your obedient and humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To General Gates.

P. S. For particulars respecting us I beg leave to refer you to the honourable Commissioners. B. A.

NEWBURYPORT, (ESSEX COUNTY,) MASSACHUSETTS.

Newburyport, May 31, 1776.

Voted, That if the honourable Congress should, for the safety of the Colonies, declare them independent of Great Britain, this Town will, with their lives and fortunes, support them in the measure.

STOCKBRIDGE, (BERKSHIRE COUNTY,) MASSACHUSETTS.

At a legal Town-meeting of the inhabitants of the Town of Stockbridge, at the Meeting-House in said Town, for the purpose of choosing a person to represent them in the Great and General Court or Assembly:

Voted, That it is the mind of this meeting, should the great and important question of the Independency of the United Colonies of Great Britain be discussed in the Great and General Court or Assembly, that he give his vote for the affirmative.

PITTSFIELD, (BERKSHIRE COUNTY,) MASSACHUSETTS.

Instructions from the Town of PITTSFIELD to their Representative, Mr. VALENTINE RATHBUN, for Independence.

You shall, on no pretence whatever, favour a union with Great Britain, as to our becoming in any sense dependant on her ever hereafter; and use your influence with the honourable House to notify the honourable Continental Congress that this whole Province are waiting for the important moment which they in their great wisdom shall appoint for the declaration of Independence and a free Republic.

CONNECTICUT COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Monday, May 6, 1776.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety at Lebanon:

Present: His Honour the Governour, Eliphalet Dyar,

Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Nathaniel Wales, Jedediah Elderkin, Joshua West, and Benjamin Huntington, Esquires.

Whereas His Honour the Governour has just received intelligence from the Committee of the honourable General Assembly of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, that a large Army of foreign troops, hired by the Ministry and powers of Great Britain, to lay waste and destroy this country, are in fact on their passage to execute their bloody orders, and, in all probability, near our coasts, and may be daily expected, which renders it necessary that every possible preparation should be made for our own defence:

It is therefore resolved and ordered by this Board, That the men lately ordered to be inlisted or detached out of the First Regiment, and other Regiments east of Connecticut River, be immediately furnished and completely equipped, armed and accoutred, according to the orders given for their being raised, and that they be fitted for an immediate march on any emergency. And in order to that, the Colonels, or commanding officers for the time being of the aforesaid Regiments, are required, without any delay, to direct the Captains, or chief officers appointed to command the several Companies of said Minute-men, forthwith to call their said Companies together, (who are also required to yield obedience to the orders of said officers, on penalty of the law;) and said Captains and officers are carefully to examine into the equipments of their said Companies, and diligently attend to and see that they be forthwith furnished as aforesaid; and where arms and ball cannot be otherwise obtained, they shall be furnished out of the town stocks, so far as may be, and arms impressed, if need be, from such householders, or others who shall appear to be least able and likely to make use of such arms, &c., themselves, to supply such as cannot be otherwise furnished; and any civil authority are to give out such impresses, on request of such Captain and other officers. And every non-commissioned officer and soldier, who shall appear to be completely equipped with every requisite, or shall be so equipped in a reasonable short time, to the acceptance of such Captain, shall be entitled to a reward of one dollar, and in proportion for the value of such articles as they shall furnish themselves; and all such officers and soldiers shall be allowed a reasonable reward for the use of such arms, ammunition, blankets, and knapsacks, as they shall provide for themselves, if called to be used in actual service; and shall also be allowed for the time necessarily spent in meeting together, according to the direction and for the purposes of this resolve, at the same rate of wages and support as the Continental Army, and if called into actual service, to be upon the same pay and allowance from their march, as the troops in said Army. And all arms and accoutrements impressed, found, or provided for any of said Companies, shall be taken care of and returned to the owners, and a reasonable allowance made for their use; and the Captains are directed to take care of the same accordingly; and if lost by inevitable providence, the value to be paid.

And it is further provided, That if it shall be found necessary, such Captain, or chief officer, may order said Companies, or any part of them, to meet as often as necessary, in order to their being equipped as aforesaid; and all arms and ammunition of such Companies shall be deposited in some proper nearly central place of such Company, by the direction of the Captain of the same, to be also a place of rendezvous for such Company, if and when called to actual service. And the said Captains are to make return of the rolls and the state of said Companies, with all their doings in the premises, forthwith, to his Honour the Governour.

And whereas it is expected that the honourable General Assembly will find it expedient to make further provision of a similar kind, with respect to drafting or inlisting Minute-men for publick service, the aforesaid Companies may expect such limitation of time for holding themselves in readiness as aforesaid, and such allowance therefor, as the said Assembly shall see fit.

Wednesday, May 22, 1776.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety at Hartford:

Present: His Honour the Governour, the Deputy Governour, Colonel Dyar, Colonel Huntington, William Williams, Nathaniel Wales, Jedediah Elderkin, Benjamin Huntington, Esquires.

Mr. James Rice, one of the Committee for fitting the Colony Brig Defence, and for building the Row-Galley, at New-Haven, presented his Accounts to be settled, &c., as voted by the lower House, &c.

It being so large and numerous, this Board cannot at this time go through with the examination, and consider and order that an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table for seven hundred Pounds in his favour, and refer the full settlement of his Account to another opportunity; he to attend it at Lebanon. An Order is drawn accordingly, viz:

"To the Committee of the Pay-Table:

"GENTLEMEN: Please to draw on the Treasurer in favour of Mr. James Rice, of New-Haven, for the sum of seven hundred Pounds, to be considered and allowed on settlement of his Account exhibited for fitting the Colony Brig Defence, and building, &c., a Row-Galley, at New-Haven, not having time fully to settle and adjust said Accounts, and charge accordingly.

"By order of the Governour and Council of Safety:

"WILLIAM WILLIAMS, Clerk.

"Hartford, May 22, 1776."

Delivered him present.

Said Rice also presented an Order on the Governour, &c., drawn by Captain Harding, of said Brig Defence, in favour of said Rice, for eleven Pounds nineteen Shillings and two and a half Pence; and it is considered and voted, that an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table for the same; to be accounted for by said Harding, on his account and wages in the Colony service as Captain of said Brig, &c. And an Order is drawn accordingly in favour of said Harding, or order, for said sum of eleven Pounds nineteen Shillings and two and a half Pence, and delivered said Rice; and took Harding's Order, endorsed by said Rice.

Tuesday, May 28, 1776.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety at Hartford:

Present: His Honour the Governour, Honourable Deputy Governour Griswold, Colonel Eliphalet Dyar, Colonel Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Jedediah Elderkin, Benjamin Huntington, Esquires.

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Pay-Table for Ebenezer Ledyard, Esq., as he is Commissary and provider, &c., for the Company stationed at Groton Fort, for the sum of three hundred Pounds, to be accounted for on settlement of his Account as Commissary, &c.

Order given Captain W. Ledyard.

Voted, That an Order be drawn on ditto in favour of Messrs. Elderkin and Wales, for the sum of twenty-five Pounds on account, and pay for Powder by them manufactured for the Colony, and to be settled and allowed on their account for making that article.

Order given and delivered said Elderkin, at Hartford.

Allowed an Account of Hezekiah Lane, of Killingworth, for sending expresses to Colonel Matthew Talcott and Colonel Jonathan Fitch, to carry Governour, &c., orders about raising two Regiments for New-York, by request of General Washington, in March last, being twenty-six Shillings; and that an Order be drawn accordingly.

Order given and delivered him at Hartford.

Voted, That Orders be drawn in discharge of the following Orders, drawn by Captain Seth Harding, of the Brig Defence, presented and delivered in by the following Drawees, viz:

One Order by said Harding on Captain Samuel Squire , in favour of Lieutenant Smedley , of said Brig, for so much as necessary to pay the Marines their first month's pay, dated New-Haven , March 22 , 1776, being as per endorsement received by said Smedley , of said Squire ,	£61	0	0
One Order of said Harding on said Squire , in favour of Thaddeus Burr , Esq., for Beef, &c., for the Brig, - - - - -	2	8	5½
One Order of said Harding on said Squire , in favour of Edmund Barlow , for a Drum for said Brig, 7½ Dollars, 6th May , 1776, - - -	2	5	0
One Order of said Harding on said Squire , in favour of Hezekiah Sturges , for Plank and work for said Brig, 28th April , 1776, - -	2	10	3
One Order of said Harding on said Squire , in favour of Ebenezer Hubbel , for four days' work, at six Shillings per day, - - - - -	1	4	0
Order given 28th, (delivered Captain Squire ),	£69	7	8½

Friday Evening, May 31, 1776.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety at Hartford:

Present: His Honour the Governour, Honourable Deputy Governour Griswold, Eliphalet Dyar, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Richard Law, Jedediah Elderkin, Benjamin Huntington, Thomas Hosmer, W. Hillhouse, Esqs.

Moved, by His Honour, That proper measures be taken to man and list our three Row-Galleys, now nearly ready, for immediate service. And the matter was largely discussed, &c.

And Voted, That Messrs. John McCleave, Theodore Stanton, and Jehiel Tinker, who are appointed Captains of them, be notified and desired to attend this Board, at Hartford, on Wednesday next, to receive further orders respecting manning, officering, and fitting out said Vessels; and also such moneys as may be necessary to enable them to pursue the proper business of their departments, having first executed bonds to be sent them, with sureties, for the faithful and due performance of their duty as Paymasters, &c. And Mr. Huntington desired to prepare Letters accordingly.

An Account of Oliver Wells, of Hartford, presented for service seventeen days, with a wagon to transport the baggage of Captain Bigelow's Company of Matrosses, in Colonel Burrall's Regiment, &c., seven days, at seven Shillings, and ten days, at five Shillings, and expenses four Pounds fifteen Shillings and six Pence: total nine Pounds fourteen Shillings and six Pence. And the same is allowed.

And Voted, That an Order be drawn for the same, and is drawn on the back of the Account, and delivered Mr. Halsey.

Dismissed.

June 1st.—At the Council Board.—The Letters and Bonds to the Captains of the new Galleys being to be forwarded, &c., and names not being given to two of them, is concluded to call Captain Stanton's, built at Norwich, the Shark; and Captain Tinker's, at East-Haddam, the Crane.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, May 9, 1776.

Present: Robert Morris, Vice-President, Daniel Roberdeau, Thomas Wharton, Jun., James Biddle, George Clymer, Michael Hillegas, Samuel Howell, John Nixon, Samuel Morris, Jun., David Rittenhouse, George Gray, Joseph Parker.

Resolved, That Captain William Richards be appointed Ship's Husband to the Naval Armaments of this Province, and that he be allowed per annum for his services.

Resolved, That Mr. Rittenhouse be desired immediately to procure a quantity of Cartridge-paper for large Cannon.

Resolved, That Robert Towers, Commissary, deliver to Mr. Thomas Hunberger, or his order, twenty hundred pounds of Saltpetre, to be manufactured into Gunpowder, taking a receipt for the same.

Upon application of Thomas Hunberger for a sum of money to be advanced him to assist completing the Powder-Mill he is now building, and Jacob Antony appearing, and offering to be bound with the said Hunberger for the repayment of the sum that may be lent,

Resolved, That this Board lend the said Thomas Hunberger the sum of one hundred Pounds, and that the Committee of Accounts pay him the same, they taking a bond of the said Hunberger and Antony.

Resolved, That Mr. Rittenhouse and Mr. Owen Biddle be a Committee to prepare Moulds for the casting of Clock-Weights, and send them to some iron furnace, and order a sufficient number to be immediately made, for the purpose of exchanging them with the inhabitants of this City for their Clock-Weights.

Resolved, That Mr. David Rittenhouse and Mr. Owen Biddle do engage immediately with proper persons to make the following quantities and qualities of Shot, to be delivered this Board with the greatest expedition, viz: fifty tons Round-Shot, sorted to the different sized cannon now in use in this Province; five tons Chain-Shot, sorted; five tons Bar-Shot, sorted; ten tons Grape-Shot.

In Committee of Safety, May 10, 1776.

Present: Thomas Wharton, Chairman, Robert Morris, John Nixon, Daniel Roberdeau, Owen Biddle, David Rittenhouse, Samuel Howell, Samuel Morris, Jun., George Clymer, Henry Wynkoop.

Upon application of Mr. Henry Wynkoop for the payment of four Fire-locks purchased by him for the use of Congress, by order of the Board an Order was drawn on Messrs. John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, for seven Pounds seventeen Shillings and six Pence, which is to be charged to Arms purchased for account of Congress.

Resolved, That Mr. Thomas Cuthbert and Mr. John Britton be desired to purchase four old Flats for Hulks, for covering the Gondolas at the Chevaux-de-frise, and that they draw on this Board for the cost.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Mr. John Wilcocks, for two hundred and fifty Pounds, to be charged to the Gun-lock Manufactory carrying on in this City.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Mr. John Mitchell, Commissary of Provisions, for five hundred Pounds, to be charged to his account.

Adjourned to three o'clock.

Agreeable to adjournment, the following Members present:

Thomas Wharton, Jun., Chairman, James Biddle, George Gray, Henry Wynkoop, Samuel Howell, Owen Biddle, Daniel Roberdeau, Samuel Morris.

Resolved, That fourteen barrels of eighteen shillings Beer be sent down to the Gondolas, at the expense of this Board, and that Mr. Samuel Morris order the same to be put on board some boat or vessel for that purpose.

In Committee of Safety, May 11, 1776.

Present: John Nixon, Chairman, Daniel Roberdeau, George Clymer, Henry Wynkoop, George Gray, Samuel Howell, Samuel Morris, Jun., Robert White, James Biddle.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esq., and others, the Committee of Accounts, for sixty Pounds, in favour of Messrs. Thomas Richardson and Levi Hollingsworth, which is to be charged to their account, being so much advanced towards their expenses in transporting twenty cannon lent this Province by Congress, now at Rhode-Island.

Thomas Slater, Master, and John Peckham, Mate, of the Brig Betsy, who came from Virginia with said vessel, to the Roebuck man-of-war, and taken by Captain Charles Alexander, commander of the Continental Schooner Wasp, near Newcastle, were, by order of the Board, committed to Jail, there to be kept in safe custody till the further orders of this Committee.

Resolved, That Robert Towers, Commissary, send to Wilmington, by one of the Stage-Boats, Captain Bush or Taylor, three quires of Cannon Cartridge-paper and three hundred weight of Gunpowder, to replace that quantity lent to the Gondolas by the Committee of that County.

By order of the Board the following Resolves of Congress were entered on the Minutes:

"In Congress, May 10, 1776.

"Resolved, That Lieutenant Ball, of the Roebuck, and the three seamen that were taken with him, and are now prisoners in the Lower Counties, be exchanged for Captain Budden and his son, Seth Davis, and Samuel Conyers.

"That five of the seamen now Prisoners in this City of Philadelphia, to be named by the Committee of Safety, may be given up in exchange for the following persons, viz: Mr. Lightboy, James Hage, — Fortescue, a Pilot-boy, William Martin, and Jacob Wilson.

"That the said exchange of Prisoners be conducted by such proper persons as the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania may appoint for that purpose.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

In consequence of the above Resolutions of Congress,

Resolved, That Captain James Craig be, and he is hereby, appointed to conduct the exchange of Prisoners there proposed; and this Committee name James Spencer, Thomas Philips, James Ogelvie, John Shad, and Owen Humphreys, as the five persons to be exchanged for Mr. Lightboy, James Hage, — Fortescue, a Pilot-boy, William Martin, and Jacob Wilson.

At the same time Captain Craig, by directions of Congress to this Board, is desired to give in exchange one other prisoner in the room of John Durry, now on board the Roebuck.

A Letter was written to the Committee of Safety of the Lower Counties, requesting they would take measures for sending Lieutenant Ball and the seamen, prisoners at Dover, up to Newcastle, to be delivered to Captain Craig, to be conducted by him on board the Roebuck, in order to be exchanged, agreeable to the Resolves of Congress.

This Committee having made application to Congress for twenty pieces of heavy Cannon out of those taken at New-Providence, for the defence of this Province, Robert Morris, Esq., delivered to the Board the following Resolve and Letter to Commodore Hopkins, viz:

"In Congress, May 7, 1776.

"Resolved, That twenty of the heaviest Cannon taken by Commodore Hopkins at New-Providence, and brought from thence to New-London, and since carried to Newport, be brought to the City of Philadelphia, and delivered to the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania, for the defence and protection of the said City; to remain there during the pleasure of Congress.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

"SIR: The Congress having, by the foregoing resolve, agreed to lend twenty of the heaviest cannon taken at Providence, and carried to Rhode-Island, to the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania, for the defence of this City, I have to desire you will immediately deliver the same to the person or persons whom the said Committee send to receive them, and bring them hither.

"I am, sir, your most humble servant,

"JOHN HANCOCK, President.

"To Commodore E. Hopkins, or in his absence to Daniel Tillinghast, Esq."

"In Marine Committee, Philadelphia, May 10, 1776.

"SIR: You will perceive by the foregoing that Congress have ordered twenty of the cannon you brought from Providence to be improved in Philadelphia; and in order that the benefit of that order may be realized as soon as possible, we direct that you order the said twenty cannon to be put on board the Fly, or any one other of your vessels, and carried to New-York, and direct the commander of the vessel to call on General Washington for his further proceeding, to whom we shall write on the subject. This to be effected in the best manner you can, but by no means to be done to the prejudice of more essential service. The cannon, however, must be sent as speedily as possible by some conveyance that shall be judged best.

"We are, &c.,

"JOHN HANCOCK,

"JOSEPH HEWES,

"ROBERT MORRIS,

"SAMUEL HUNTINGTON,

"R. ALEXANDER.

"To Commodore E. Hopkins."

In consequence of the above Resolves and Letters of Congress, this Board came to the following Resolutions:

Resolved, That Mr. Thomas Richardson and Mr. Levi Hollingsworth do, as soon as possible, proceed to New-Lon- don, and there apply for the Cannon, should they be at that place; if not, that they then go to Newport, and procure them, and apply for the Fly, or any other armed vessel, to transport them to New-York or Brunswick by the Sound; or if the navigation should be interrupted by the enemy's vessels, that they are then to procure the Cannon to be conveyed by land to some harbour in Connecticut, and from thence to be conveyed in any proper vessel. Upon the whole, they are to procure the Cannon to be brought to this place at all events.

That for any sums that may be wanted to effect this service, they are to draw on this Committee.

In Committee of Safety, May 11, 1776.

At a special meeting of the Committee of Safety, Present: Robert Morris, Vice-President, Andrew Allen, John Nixon, James Mease, Owen Biddle, Alexander Wilcocks, John Cadwallader, James Biddle, Samuel Morris, Jun., George Clymer.

By order of the Board Robert Towers, Commissary, was directed to deliver the following Ammunition, to be sent down to the Gondolas immediately, viz:

Shot—18-pounders, 500; 24-pounders, 240; 32-pounders, 60. Cartridges—18-pounders, 320; 32-pounders, 25.

Captain Greenway was ordered to receive the following Powder, Shot, and Wads, and carry them down in the Pilot-Boats to the Gondolas, and deliver them to the senior Officer, viz:

From Robert Towers: 500 Shot, 18-pounders; 240 Shot, 24-pounders; 60 Shot, 32-pounders; 320 Cartridges, 18-pounders; 25 Cartridges, 32-pounders.

From Captain Reed: 25 Cartridges, 32-pounders; 164 Cartridges, 24-pounders; and all the 24 and 32-pound shot on board his Ship or at Fort-Island, &c.

From Captains Falconer, Wickes, Reed, and the Batteries, a quantity of Wads.

In Committee of Safety, May 13, 1776.

Present: John Nixon, Chairman, James Biddle, Robert White, John Cadwallader, Owen Biddle, Samuel Howell, Daniel Roberdeau.

Resolved, That Captain White, Captain Falconer, and Mr. James Wharton, settle with the several owners of the Shallops and Boats lately employed in the publick service, and draw Orders for payment on Mr. Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of John Cobourn, for two hundred Pounds, being towards the payment of the men employed in sinking the Chevaux-de-frise.

Resolved, That John Martin Strobogh be appointed Third Lieutenant in the Artillery Company of this Province, he to produce a discharge from the Congress previous to his entering into this service.

Resolved, That the Members of this Board be noticed to meet precisely to-morrow morning at nine o'clock, on business of importance.

Resolved, That Captain Moulder and Mr. Thomas Fitzsimmons be directed to purchase two convenient Vessels, the one for a Magazine, the other for a Provision or Store Vessel, and man and fit them immediately, to be ready to attend the Fleet upon the orders of this Board, or the Commanding Officer; and that when they are in service Richard Wells, with his Pilot-boat, be employed to ply between the said Vessels and the Fleet.

Resolved, That the Committee of Fire-Rafts be authorized to purchase a convenient Vessel for quartering the men belonging to the Fire-Rafts while down the River.

Resolved, That Captain Hazelwood and Captain Hervey be appointed to survey the River from Billingsport to Fort-Island.

In Committee of Safety, May 14, 1776.

Present: George Clymer, Chairman, Owen Biddle, Samuel Morris, Thomas Wharton, Jun., James Biddle, Joseph Parker, Samuel Howell, Robert White, John Cadwallader.

The Congress sent yesterday the following Resolve to this Board, which is ordered to be entered on the Minutes:

"In Congress, May 10, 1776.

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania to examine into the conduct of the Jailer who had the charge and custody of Moses Kirkland, and if they find him culpable, that they have him removed.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

Resolved, That George Gray, Samuel Howell, and Joseph Parker, be a Committee to inquire into the complaint of Congress against Thomas Dewees, Jailer, and make report to this Board.

Instructions to Mr. John Reed, Commissary, Barrackmaster, and Clerk of the Check, at Fort-Island:

SIR: In consequence of your appointment to the office of Commissary, Barrackmaster, and Clerk of the Check, at Fort-Island, by this Committee, you are hereby enjoined and required to perform the duties of the several offices committed to you with care and fidelity; and for your better information of the services expected from you in those capacities, we have sent you the following Instructions, viz:

1st. As Commissary, you are to take an inventory of all the stores on Fort-Island, belonging to this Province, and enter them in a book, noting carefully whose possession they are in, and the uses they are applied to.

2d. All stores that shall be committed to your care are to be kept an account of, and preserved by you in the best manner, only to be delivered by the commanding officer of Fort-Island or this Committee, and when delivered out you are to take a receipt for the same.

3d. When the uses for which any of the stores are delivered out are fully answered, the remainder are to be returned to you again for the use of the Province, and for which you are to be accountable.

1st. As Barrackmaster, you are to have the Barracks always kept clean and in order for the reception of troops, or people that may be ordered to Fort-Island by this Committee, or the Assembly.

2d. You are to see that the necessary furniture, bedding, and cooking utensils, be provided for each apartment.

3d. You are to assign the particular quarters which the troops are to occupy, having regard to the interest of the publick, and the convenience and health of the men; for which purpose, not more than sixteen men to be stationed in each room while there is any vacant apartment; nor should they be suffered to occupy a greater portion of the Barracks at any time than is necessary for the purposes before-mentioned, of which you are to be judge.

4th. When any troops are first quartered in the said Barracks, you are to take a receipt from an officer of the Company for all the furniture and cooking utensils that you deliver to them, for which the whole Company are to be accountable to you; and in case of any embezzlement or wanton destruction of them, or any part of them, the value thereof shall be stopped out of their pay, which is forfeit for a re-supply of the same.

5th. The keys of all the apartments, while unoccupied, are to be kept by you, and on any troops quitting their quarters at the said Barracks, they are to deliver the keys of the same to you.

6th. You are to purchase fire-wood for all the troops, both men and workmen, that are employed in the Provincial service, at the cheapest rate you can, and portion it out to them in reasonable and sufficient quantities, taking care that it is not wasted unnecessarily; for which purpose the commanding officer of the Island is to fix a guard over it.

7th. Your order on John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts for this Board, for all necessary supplies of fire-wood for the purposes aforesaid, will be duly paid.

8th. On application to the sub-Committee of Fort-Island, for any of the stores, furniture, cooking utensils, &c., that may be necessary for the accommodation of the troops, &c., stationed at Fort-Island, they will provide such part as they shall think proper and useful, and send it to your care, for which you are to be accountable.

As Clerk of the Check, you are to keep a regular muster-roll of all the workmen employed on Fort-Island by order of this Committee, entering their names and employments, time at work, and wages per day; for which you are to make out a correct copy, and return it every evening to the Superintendent appointed by the sub-Committee for Fort-Island.

Resolved, That Captain Heysham and Mr. Joseph Watkins be appointed a Committee, to receive the directions of this Board to carry into execution the making of Carriages for the different Cannon that may be made or otherwise procured for the use of this Province.

Resolved, That the Officers of the Ship, Armed Boats, Floating and Land Battery, make report to this Board of the quantity of Military Stores they now have.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on Michael Hillegas, Esq., in favour of Colonel Samuel Atlee, or his order, for five hundred Pounds, for the use of the Musket Battalion in the service of this Province.

Whereas several gentlemen have offered to form themselves into Companies of Volunteers, and, whenever called upon in the defence of this River, to enter into actual service on board any Armed Boat that shall be provided for them by this Committee, under their own Officers:

Resolved, That this Board has a just sense of their spirited and patriotick offer; and Messrs. Samuel Howell, Thomas Wharton, and Owen Biddle, are appointed to confer with those gentlemen, receive their proposals, consider of the best means of employing them, and of the expediency of making any alterations in any of our Armed Boats for the use of the said Volunteers, and consult Captain Rice upon that subject; and that they make a report to this Committee as soon as possible.

Resolved, That it appears necessary to build two Galleys for the protection of the commerce in Delaware Bay, and that the above Committee procure the same to be built by boat builders, with all possible despatch.

Resolved, That it appears necessary to fortify some part of the Jersey Shore, for the defence of the River Delaware.

Resolved, That Colonel John Cadwallader apply to the Committee of Inspection and Observation, to deliver the Rigging in their possession, belonging to Joshua Fisher & Sons, to Thomas Lawrence, Vendue-master, to be immediately sold at publick vendue, that this Committee may have an opportunity of purchasing the same for the publick service; and that this Committee will pay for the same, or be answerable for the payment, when required.

Upon application to this Board from Colonel John Shea, he had permission to purchase Fire-Arms from the Non-Associators in this Province.

Upon application of Marine Committee, orders were given to admit the sick men from Captain Wickes's ship into the Hospital at Province-Island.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 15, 1776.

Present: John Nixon, James Mease, James Biddle, Thomas Wharton, Jun., Alexander Wilcocks.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 16, 1776.

Present: Alexander Wilcocks, Chairman, John Nixon, Samuel Howell, Samuel Morrison, Jun., James Mease, Samuel Miles, Daniel Roberdeau, Thomas Wharton, Jun., George Clymer, James Biddle.

Resolved, That Mr. John Nixon be authorized to purchase any quantity of Beef and Pork that may be thought necessary for the use of this Province.

In consequence of a Resolve of the 13th instant, Robert Morris, Esq., a Member of Congress, acquaints this Board that it is agreeable to Congress that John Martin Strobach should enter into the service of this Province.

Resolved, That Mr. James Wharton and Captain Nathaniel Falconer be authorized to examine a number of nine-pound Cannon, the property of Mr. Ball; and if they think they are good and sufficient for service, that they then, at the risk of the owner, prove the same, and purchase those that are good, for the use of this Province.

Resolved, That Robert Towers, Commissary, supply a sufficient quantity of Powder to prove the above-mentioned Cannon.

The following Resolve of Congress was sent by Robert
FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

Morris, Esquire, and ordered to be entered on the Minutes of this Board:

“In Congress, May 15, 1776.

“Resolved, That the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania be desired to write to the Committee of Safety of Delaware Government to suspend the execution of the Resolve of Congress for exchanging Lieutenant Ball for Captain Budden, till further orders.

“Extract from the Minutes:

“CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.”

Agreeably to the above Resolve of Congress, Robert Morris, Esquire, in behalf of this Board, enclosed a copy of said Resolve to the Committee of Safety of the Lower Counties; which is approved of by this Board.

Upon application of Colonel Samuel Miles for some Muskets for the use of Captain Lloyd's Company in the Musket Battalion of this Province, by order of the Board Robert Towers, Commissary, was directed to deliver twelve Firelocks and Bayonets, for the use aforesaid, he taking a receipt for the same.

Resolved, That Colonel Miles be authorized to procure a Smith's Bellows and Tools proper for an Armourer of the Provincial Battalion in the service of this Province; and that he draw on this Board for the amount of what he may purchase for that purpose.

Resolved, That Commodore Caldwell be directed to give notice to the Commanding Officers of the Armed Boats to attend this Board on Saturday morning next, at nine o'clock.

By order of the Board Robert Towers, Commissary, was directed to deliver, for the use of Captain Proctor's Company, twenty-seven Firelocks, for the use of his Artillery.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on Michael Hillegas, Esquire, in favour of John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, for five thousand Pounds.

Resolved, That Mr. Nixon and Captain White be requested to make inquiry, and report the quantity of Ammunition that each Armed Boat was supplied with when they went down the river last week against the Ships of War, and what supplies they received afterwards from the Ship, Fort, and Floating-Battery, with the times and other circumstances of the different supplies.

Resolved, That Mr. Clymer, Mr. James Biddle, and Mr. Wilcocks, be a Committee to draw up a Memorial to Congress respecting the procuring of Sulphur and Lead, and erecting Fortifications at Billingsport.

Resolved, That the Fort-Island Committee be requested to give orders for the following articles, to be procured for Fort-Island, and to have a Furnace built for heating Shot: A Proof for Powder, twelve ounce Balls to quilt Grape for eighteen-pounders, Cannon for Blockhouse, Sods, and Fascines.

The Committee having already made known to the inhabitants of this City the pressing occasion there is for a large quantity of Lead, to be employed in the defence of this country, and requested them to spare for the publick use the various species of Leaden Weights in their respective families, the Committee, as the most easy and expeditious method of procuring such Lead, have appointed Thomas Nevill, Frazer Kinsley, Jesse Roe, and John Derry, to go round the City, and receive it at the several houses, they paying at the rate of six pence per pound, as formerly specified; it being understood that the Clock-Weights are not at present comprehended among them, as the Weights to replace them are not yet made. It is expected every virtuous citizen will immediately and cheerfully comply with this requisition; but if any person should be so lost to all sense of the publick good as to refuse, a list of their names is directed to be returned to this Committee.

By order of the Board a Letter was written to John Coxe, Esquire, requesting he would send to this City, by Wagons, all the Cannon Ball he has made by order of this Board; and informing him that the difference between land and water carriage shall be allowed him.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 18, 1776.

Present: George Clymer, Chairman, Robert Morris, John Nixon, Thomas Wharton, Jun., Alexander Wilcocks, Samuel Morris, Jun., Andrew Allen, David Rittenhouse, John Cad- wallader, Owen Biddle, Daniel Roberdeau, Samuel Howell, Joseph Parker.

By order of the Board John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, were directed to pay Samuel Allen three Pounds, for the carriage of Arms from Carlisle, sent by Mr. Culbertson, and to be charged to account of Congress.

By order of the Board Captain Richard Peters was desired to deliver to Mr. Kirk two Gunlocks, receiving pay for them, they being for the use of Lieutenant Finney, to complete two Firelocks he got made for two men in Colonel Atlee's Battalion in the service of this Province.

Captain Heysham and Mr. Watkins having declined serving as a Committee agreeable to their appointment by a Resolve of this Board of the 14th instant:

Resolved, That Captain Loxly and Mr. William Evans be a Committee to receive the directions of this Board to carry into execution the making of Carriages for the different Cannon that may be made or otherwise procured for the use of this Province, to employ in the said works such Tradesmen, competent to it, as are well affected to the common defence now making.

Resolved, That Mr. Robert Towers make up as soon as possible five hundred thousand Musket-Cartridges and three hundred rounds for each heavy Cannon now in use; that he fill up three hundred thousand of the former and one hundred of each of the latter.

Resolved, That a Commissary be appointed to purchase as large a quantity of salt Beef and Pork as he can procure, and to purchase such other articles of Provisions as he may be directed by this Board, in order to be stored for the supply of any Troops that may be assembled for the immediate defence of this Province.

Resolved, That Colonel Miles and Colonel Roberdeau be a Committee to draw up a list of necessities that they may adjudge necessary for supplying a large body of Troops that may suddenly assemble for the defence of this Province.

Resolved, That Mr. Nixon, Mr. James Biddle, Colonel Cadwallader, Mr. Clymer, Mr. Mease, Mr. O. Biddle, and Mr. Wilcocks, be a Committee to draw up a Memorial to the honourable the Assembly, stating the conduct of this Committee in providing the Armed Boats with Ammunition and Military Stores, and their Orders and Regulations for the defence of this Province and the River Delaware, upon the late attempts of the King's Ships to invade the same.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esquire, and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of John Wilcocks, for five hundred Pounds, to be charged to the Gunlock Manufactory of this Province.

The Board adjourned to five o'clock.

Agreeable to adjournment, the following Members met, viz: George Clymer, Chairman, John Nixon, Owen Biddle, John Cadwallader, Samuel Howell, Thomas Wharton, Jun., Samuel Morris, Jun., Daniel Roberdeau.

Upon application of Lieutenant George Cuppidge, prisoner of war at Lebanon, in Lancaster County, for leave to remove from thence to Yorktown, in the County of York:

Resolved, That he be removed accordingly.

Resolved, That Colonel Samuel Miles be requested to employ as many of the Provincial Troops under his command as he conveniently can, in cutting a quantity of Fascines, informing this Board, from time to time, of the number he may have procured.

In Committee of Safety, May 20, 1776.

Present: John Nixon, Chairman, Robert Morris, James Biddle, Thomas Wharton, Jun., George Clymer, John Cadwallader, Joseph Parker, Alexander Wilcocks.

An Order was this day drawn and signed by Robert Morris, Esquire, Vice-President, on John Nixon, Esquire, and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of James Caldwell, for one hundred and seventy-four Pounds six Shillings and one Penny, being the amount of fifty-seven Rifles and Firelocks, with the expenses attending them, purchased by Samuel Culbertson, of Cumberland County, which is to be charged to Firelocks purchased for account of Congress.

John Ryan, a person taken some time since at Henlopen, and intended to have been exchanged for some person on board the Roebuck man-of-war, was this day brought to this City, Captain Craig, who went down with him and others, Prisoners, to exchange, not being able to get on board said Ship, she having gone to sea; and this Board having been informed that the said Ryan was well acquainted with the River and Bay of Delaware, and that he was otherwise dangerous to the safety of this Province:

Therefore, Resolved, That he (the said Ryan) be confined in the Jail of this County till he be discharged by Congress or this Committee.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esquire, and others, the Committee of Accounts, for ninety Pounds five Shillings, which, with one hundred pounds of Gunpowder delivered by Mr. Towers, the 10th instant, is in full for four hundred and sixty-one pounds of Saltpetre, manufactured in Lancaster County, and delivered to Robert Towers.

Resolved, That Captain White and Captain Hazlewood be requested to survey the Channel on the East side of the Bar opposite to Fort-Island, and make report to this Board, as soon as possible, of such survey, and of the narrowest part of said Channel.

Resolved, That Mr. Owen Biddle be requested to procure five or six Wagons, and send them to Doctor Coxe's Iron Works, in the Jerseys, to bring with all possible expedition the Shot he made for account of this Committee.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on the Committee of Accounts for fifty Pounds, in favour of Thomas Nevill, Jesse Orne, Frazer Kinsley, and John Derry, towards the payment of Lead Weights to be collected by them for the use of this Province.

In Committee of Safety, May 21, 1776.

Present: John Nixon, Chairman, George Clymer, James Mease, Owen Biddle, Thomas Wharton, Jun., Samuel Howell, Samuel Morris, John Cadwallader, Daniel Roberdeau.

Upon application of Robert Towers, for payment of his Account for sundry Arms, Lead, Sulphur, &c., purchased and paid for by him on account of this Province,

By order of the Board an Order was drawn in his favour on John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, for one hundred and ninety-seven Pounds fourteen Shillings and three Pence, being the amount of said Account.

Upon application of Mr. Henry Wynkoop for a sum of Money to purchase Firelocks, by order of the Board an Order was drawn in favour of Gerardus Wynkoop for one hundred Pounds, which is directed to be charged to the said Henry Wynkoop, for Arms to be purchased for account of Congress.

The following Memorial to Congress was this day drawn up, approved of, and delivered by Mr. James Mease to Mr. Robert Morris:

"In Committee of Safety, May 21, 1776.

"To the Honourable the Continental Congress: The Memorial of the Committee of Safety of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, showing:

"That the General Assembly of this Province having appropriated large sums for the defence and protection of the same, and of the River Delaware, this Committee, who were intrusted with the application thereof, caused thirteen Armed Boats or Gondolas to be built, equipped, and manned, and have since built, fitted, and manned, a large Ship, Floating-Battery, several Guard-Boats, and a great number of Fire-Rafts, erected Fortifications on Deepwater-Island, raised a large Artillery Company for their defence, and sunk Chevaux-de-frise in the Channel of the River; that the Assembly have raised two Battalions of Riflemen and one of Musketry, stationed on the banks of the River Delaware.

"That the Committee perceive, after all these exertions, greatly surpassing, as they believe, any that have been made in this Continent at an expense merely Colonial, that this defence is still imperfect, and far unequal, in their idea, to the probable force that may soon be employed against this Colony. To give, therefore, additional security to this Province and City, and the navigation of the River and Bay of Delaware, the preservation of which must be of the highest importance to the common cause of the Colonies, this Committee conceive it necessary that some more Armed Boats or Gondolas, larger than those already built, capable of navigating in Delaware Bay, and another Floating-Battery, should immediately be built; they are also of opinion, that some Military works should be erected on the eastern Shore of the River Delaware, and particularly at a place called Billingsport.

"That, as the moneys granted by the Assembly for the purposes of defence must soon be exhausted in supporting the large establishment of Seamen and Soldiers in the pay of this Province, and as the building, equipping, and manning the additional Floating-Battery and Armed Vessels, and erecting Fortifications on the Jersey shore, will be too heavy a burden for this Province singly to bear, this Committee beg leave to call the attention of the Congress to these important objects, and pray their aid in directing those further defences, and such other as in their wisdom shall appear requisite to be immediately undertaken and carried into execution, at the Continental charge."

Instructions to Mr. William Richards were this day drawn up; read, approved of, and delivered him, and are as follows:

"To Mr. WILLIAM RICHARDS:

"You are hereby appointed Ships' Husband to the Pennsylvania Fleet, and empowered to do all such matters and things as may be necessary for the due execution of the said office. You are to make known to all Commanders and other officers employed in the said Fleet, that they are to apply through you for all stores and necessaries required for the service. You are to obtain from them an inventory of all the articles they have on board, and an indent of such as they are in want of, both which you are carefully to preserve, as they may serve you in regulating any future supplies that may be called for. You are to procure the sundry articles of the best quality, each in its kind, and it is your particular duty to buy them on the best terms in your power. You are to take each officer's receipt for the articles delivered to him, and you are to return the bills or accounts of those you purchase for this Board, certified by you that the quantities are what you received, and the prices what you agreed for, not being dearer than the current rates of each respective article at the time of purchase. You are empowered to inspect and inquire on board the Fleet at least once in every month, and as much oftener as you may think necessary, whether all stores and necessaries are taken proper care of, and not neglected, wasted, or embezzled, and make report according as you find to this Board.

"This Board, being ever desirous of serving the publick faithfully, do recommend the most prudent economy in the outfit and supplies of the Fleet. They must have everything necessary, but avoid all expensive superfluities; and, in the purchase of what is wanted, give a preference to such persons as are known to be zealous supporters of the American cause, dividing the business amongst as many of such as can be done with convenience, and consistently with the publick good."

On motion, Resolved, That Colonel Miles be directed to detach from the Provincial Troops under his command a working party of one hundred men to Fort-Island, to assist in carrying on the Fortifications there, the said party to be relieved by others as often as he may think proper; and they shall be allowed, over and above their pay, a quart of eighteen shillings Beer each working day.

Resolved, That Mr. Samuel Howell be requested to keep, for the use of this Province, the whole quantity of Salt that he has now for sale, and that he be allowed seven Shillings and six Pence per bushel for the same.

Resolved, That the above-mentioned Salt be removed to Germantown as soon as possible, and there to be stored, under the care of the Committee of that Town.

Resolved, That the Report brought in by Colonel Roberdeau and Colonel Cadwallader from the officers appointed to try the Cartridges with which the Associators are furnished, be printed in the different Newspapers of this City; which is as follows:

"We, the subscribers, appointed by the Board of Officers of the Associators of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia for the purpose of examining the Cartridges delivered by the Commissary to the said Associators, have carefully examined the same, and find the weight of the Powder therein contained is two-fifths part of the weight of the Ball. It appears clearly, from experiment, that the Powder is very good; that the above proportion is fully sufficient, and that more would be useless, if not dangerous.

"T. MATLACK, Colonel R. Bat.

"FRANCIS WADE, Captain 2d Bat.

"FRANCIS GURNEY, Captain 3d Bat.

"WILLIAM WILL, Captain 1st Bat.

"Philadelphia, May 20, 1776."

A Letter was this day sent, by order of the Board, to Colonel Samuel Miles, directing him to send Lieutenant Ball, with an officer, by land, to this Committee, in order to his parole being taken, when he is to be sent to Germantown to reside.

By order of the Board a Letter was this day written+ to Robert Morris, Esq., desiring he would apply to Congress for a quantity of Powder for the use of this Province.

In Committee of Safety, May 22, 1776.

Present: Daniel Roberdeau, John Cadwallader, George Clymer.

In Committee of Safety, May 23, 1776.

Present: John Nixon, James Biddle, Owen Biddle, Thomas Wharton, Junior, Samuel Howell, Daniel Roberdeau, George Gray, George Clymer, Joseph Parker.

Resolved, That Mr. John Nixon be desired to write to Mr. Henry Wynkoop, of Bucks County, to purchase five hundred barrels of Pork, and as much salt Beef as he can procure, for the use of this Province in case of any sudden collection of the Associators, or other Troops.

In Committee of Safety, May 24, 1776.

Present: James Biddle, Chairman, John Nixon, Daniel Roberdeau, John Cadwallader, George Ross, Samuel Morris, Jun., Thomas Wharton, Jun., David Rittenhouse, Joseph Parker, Owen Biddle, Benj. Bartholomew, Samuel Howell.

A Memorial to the honourable House of Assembly was this day read, approved of, and sent to the House, and is as follows:

"To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freeman of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met: The Memorial of the Committee of Safety of the said Province, showing:

"That there being only nine members of the said Committee residing in this City who are not members of Assembly, and several of the said Committee being frequently out of town on publick business, it often happens that a Board cannot be got together, by which very important matters are sometimes delayed, to the injury of the publick; the said Committee, therefore, beg leave to represent to your honourable House the necessity of increasing the number of this Committee immediately, by adding more persons residing in this City."

Resolved, That Colonel Roberdeau and Colonel Nixon be a Committee to fix on a mode for speedily supplying the Associators in the different Counties with Cartridges, properly fitted to the bore of each Firelock.

Resolved, That Mr. Wharton and Mr. Samuel Morris be a Committee to direct the properly fitting the four Flats, to be purchased as Hulks for a cover to the Armed Boats in time of action, at or near Fort-Island.

Robert Morris, Esq., produced to the Committee a copy of his Instructions to Mr. Caronio, dated 12th February and 1st March, respecting the sale of a Cargo of Provisions shipped by order of this Committee per the Brigantine Dolphin, Captain Prole, for St. Thomas, consigned to said Stephen Caronio, with orders to invest the net proceeds of said Cargo, (the balance arising from her freight,) and the net proceeds of a Cargo shipped to Porto Rico per the Nancy, Captain Montgomery, in Powder, Arms, &c.; all which he was directed to return by the Brig Nancy, Captain Montgomery, for account of this Committee.

Mr. Morris also produced a Letter from Mr. Caronio, dated at St. Thomas, 30th April last, whereby it appears he had sold both Cargoes, and was receiving pay, part in Cash and part in Produce of the West-Indies.

Therefore, Resolved, That the whole value of Goods and Cash, shipped on board the said Brigantine Nancy, by Mr. Stephen Caronio, for account and risk of this Committee, shall be accepted for the publick account, and are at their risk; and that said Mr. Caronio's Bills for amount of what he so ships more than the net proceeds of the Brigantine Dolphin's Cargo, shall be accepted and paid.

Resolved, That the Memorial to Congress, of the 21st instant, be reconsidered to-morrow morning.

Resolved, That Mr. Jacob S. Howell be employed to go to the different Powder-Mills employed by this Board, in order to this Committee being informed of their state, and that Mr. Owen Biddle give him instructions for that purpose.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on Mr. John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Robert Erwin, for forty Pounds, being towards the payment of Wagons bringing Shot from Doctor Coxe's Iron-Works.

Lieutenant George Ball, belonging to the Roebuck man-of-war, taken in a Pilot-Boat at Cape Henlopen some time past, and now brought to this City, this day gave his Parole, and was sent to Germantown to reside. A Letter at same time was written to Doctor Bonsall, desiring him to provide proper Boarding for said Lieutenant Ball.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 25, 1776.

Present: James Biddle, Chairman, George Clymer, Samuel Howell, John Nixon, Joseph Parker, Thomas Wharton, Junior, George Gray, David Rittenhouse, Daniel Roberdeau, Samuel Morris, Owen Biddle, John Cadwallader.

Resolved, That Commissary Towers be authorized to apply to the Congress, on behalf of this Committee, for half a ton of Powder for proving Cannon.

By order of the Board Robert Towers, Commissary, was directed to deliver to Captain Loxley five quarter-casks of Gunpowder, for proving sixteen Cannon belonging to Mr. Ball, which this Board is about purchasing.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esquire, and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Thomas Nevill, for one hundred Pounds, which is to be charged to him and others, appointed for purchasing Lead for the use of this Province.

Upon application of Colonel Samuel Miles for a sum of Money for the use of himself and Colonel Slough, for the service of the Provincial Battalions, by order of the Board an Order was drawn in favour of Colonel Miles, for the use of Colonel Slough, on Michael Hillegas, Esq., Treasurer, for two thousand Pounds; and one other Order in favour of Colonel Miles, for one thousand Pounds.

Resolved, That Mr. William Rush be authorized and directed to procure a sufficient number of Locks, Bars, and Bolts, immediately to be made, for effectually securing the Doors in the new Jail in this City, where the Prisoners from Carolina are confined, agreeable to the order of Congress, by this Committee.

The following Commitment was issued by order of the Board for the confinement of the several persons therein mentioned, lately taken prisoners in North-Carolina, and sent from thence by the Committee of Safety of that Province, and ordered into close confinement by Congress, viz:

—
“In Committee of Safety, May 25, 1776.

“To the Keeper of the Jail of PHILADELPHIA County:

“You are hereby required to receive into your custody Brigadier-General Donald McDonald, Colonel Allan McDonald, of Kingsborough, Major Alexander McDonald, (Coudrach), Alexander McDonald, son of Kingsborough, Captain James McDonald, Captain Angus McDonald, Captain Alexander McKay, Captain Alexander McLeod, Captain Murdoch McAskill, Captain Neil McArthur, Captain John McLeod, Captain Thomas Wier, Captain John McKenzie, Lieutenant John Murchison, Kenneth McDonald, Aid-de-Camp, Murdoch McLeod, Surgeon, John Smith, Adjutant-General, Donald McLeod, Quartermaster, John Bethune, Chaplain, Farquard Campbell, Colonel, Thomas Rutherford, and Michael Holt, lately taken prisoners in North-Carolina, and them safely keep in close confinement until discharged by the honourable Congress or this Committee.

“Signed by order of the Committee:

“JAMES BIDDLE.”

Resolved, That Colonel John Shea be desired to furnish an Officer's Guard for the protection of the new Jail, and for the better security of the North-Carolina Prisoners, during their confinement there.

A Letter was this day received from Commodore Caldwell, informing this Board that his bad state of health prevents a proper application of his time to the publick service; therefore begs leave to resign his appointment.

Resolved, That the resignation of Commodore Caldwell be, and it is hereby accepted.

Resolved, That Mr. James Biddle and Mr. Owen Biddle be desired to look out for proper Stores in Germantown, that will contain the Saltpetre and other articles that may be thought necessary to send out of this City, for a greater security of them, in case of any attack on this City.

Resolved, That all persons possessed of Muskets belonging to this Province, that were distributed during the late Indian War, be desired to deliver the same to Colonel John Shea, or his order, for the purpose of arming his Battalion; and his receipt, or that of the person empowered by him to collect the same, will prevent any future demands on those persons who may, upon this occasion, deliver up the said Arms.

Colonel Roberdeau, appointed to wait on the Congress and acquaint them that the Prisoners from North-Carolina were ordered to be confined in Jail, and a Guard be placed over them, and to know whether they were to have the allowance ordered to Officers, prisoners of war, reports that the Congress directs that they should be considered and provided for as Officers.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 27, 1776.

Present: George Clymer, Chairman, John Cadwallader, Thomas Wharton, Junior, Joseph Parker, John Nixon, Robert White, George Ross.

The following Memorial to the Assembly, was this day approved of, signed by the Chairman and sent to the House:

“To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met: The Memorial of the Committee of Safety of the said Province, showing:

“That, about the beginning of this month, this Committee being advised that two of the King's ships, which, for some time before, near Cape Henlopen, infested the trade of this Colony, had altered their stations there and were proceeding up the River Delaware, they issued orders to the officers of the armed boats or gondolas to stop their progress; that in the engagement that succeeded it, some are of opinion it was in the power of the gondolas to have taken or destroyed the Roebuck of forty-four guns, one of the said ships, but this was not done, and she returned down the river to her former station. In a variety of opinions respecting the causes of the miscarriage, the Commanders of the boats have, in a publication, attributed it to the misconduct of this Committee, in not furnishing them with sufficient quantities of ammunition. By this accusation the Committee, having been in some measure rendered parties, request your honourable House will take the premises into consideration, and promote such an inquiry as shall satisfy the publick where the blame of misconduct is justly chargeable; and whatever shall be the determination respecting them they shall cheerfully acquiesce in.”

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esquire, and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Messrs. Biddle, Rittenhouse, and De Haven, for eighty Pounds five Shillings, being the amount of three hundred and twenty-one and one-quarter pounds of Saltpetre manufactured at the Provincial Works in this City.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Captain William Richards, for four hundred Pounds; to be charged to his account.

Resolved, That William Watkins be appointed Captain of one of the Guard-Boats, &c.

Resolved, That Robert Tatnall be appointed Captain to one of the Guard-Boats, &c., and his appointment to take place to-morrow.

Resolved, That the Committee meet to-morrow evening, at seven o'clock, to consider of a proper person to be appointed Commodore to the Fleet, and to take under consideration the Naval Armaments of this Province.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 28, 1776.

Present: James Biddle, Chairman, Samuel Miles, Daniel Roberdeau, John Cadwallader, George Clymer, Samuel Howell, Thomas Wharton, Junior, Henry Wynkoop, Owen Biddle, Robert White.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esquire, and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Timothy Shealer, for two Pounds, being the amount of his Account against some of the Prisoners taken by Captain Barry, which is directed to be charged to account of Congress.

By order of the Board Robert Towers, Commissary, was directed to deliver, for the use of the Block-House at Fort-Island, ten Gun-Carriages and two hundred six-pound Shot.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, in favour of Robert Towers, for sixty-nine Pounds eighteen Shillings and nine Pence, being the amount of his account for Lead, Saltpetre, Arms, &c.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on Michael Hillegas, Esquire, Treasurer, in favour of Colonel Miles, for the use of Colonel Mathias Slough, for one thousand Pounds, being for the service of the Provincial Battalions.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on Michael Hillegas, Esquire, Treasurer, in favour of John M. Nesbitt, for two thousand five hundred Pounds.

John Legate, one of the prisoners taken in North-Carolina, and left sick on the road, was brought this day to the City, and by order of the Board was ordered to be confined with the others in the Jail of this County.

A Letter being received from Mr. Mark Bird, signifying his willingness to purchase or have made in Berks County one hundred Muskets for this Committee, provided he is supplied with a sufficient sum of Money for that purpose, and an Order on the Commissaries and Assessors of said County to deliver him all the Muskets which have been made under their direction agreeable to a Resolve of Assembly, upon paying them the first cost of the same:

Therefore, Resolved, That the said offer be accepted, and that the sum of four hundred Pounds be furnished to the said Mark Bird for the purpose of purchasing and having made one hundred Muskets with Bayonets, agreeable to the pattern sent to the said Commissioners and Assessors; and that the said Commissioners be required to deliver him all the Arms which they have procured as aforesaid, on his paying for the same, which are to be replaced by them as soon as possible by new ones, which they are to have made agreeable to said pattern.

Agreeable to the above Resolve and for the uses therein mentioned, an Order was drawn on Michael Hillegas, Esq., in favour of Mark Bird, Esquire, for four hundred and twenty Pounds.

Resolved, That Martin West be appointed Master of the Ammunition Vessel, at five Pounds per month and two Rations.

That James Simpson be appointed Master of the Provision Vessel, at five Pounds per month and two Rations.

That Mr. Fitzsimmons and Captain Moulder be requested to cause the said Vessels to be immediately equipped for service, and man them with one Mate to each, at twelve Dollars per month and one Ration of Provision, who is to do the duty of Clerk and keep an exact account of all Stores received on board, and delivered out, and to whom; and five men to the Ammunition Vessel and three to the Provision Vessel, at seven Dollars per month and one Ration each, and to provide a four-oared Boat to each of the said Vessels.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on the Committee of Accounts in favour of Samuel Morris, Junior, for four Pounds ten Shillings, being for Wagon hire, in bringing the baggage of the Carolina Prisoners, which Mr Morris paid, and is directed to be charged to account of Congress.

Resolved, That Jeremiah Simmons, now Lieutenant, be and he is hereby appointed Captain-Lieutenant of the Artillery Company in the service of this Province; and that his Commission as such be dated at the time of his first entering into that service, being the 24th of February last.

Resolved, That Mr. Owen Biddle and Colonel Roberdeau be authorized to procure to be made 2000 Hand-Grenades, 150 Pitching-Axes, 50 Wheel-Barrows, 100 Spades, 150 Pick-Axes, 150 Hand-Barrows, 500 Shovels, 25 Grubbing-Hoes, and 200 Hatchets.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on the Committee of Accounts, in favour of John Lewis, for three Pounds seven Shillings and nine Pence, for repairing Muskets purchased for account of Congress; which sum is directed to be charged to account of Congress.

By order of the Board Robert Towers was directed to deliver Colonel Atlee the fifty-six Fire-Locks received from Northampton County, and all the Arms with Accoutrements belonging to the Province that he now has in his possession, for the use of the Provincial Musket Battalion.

—
Agreeable to a Resolve of yesterday, the following Members met this evening:

James Biddle, Chairman, John Cadwallader, John Nixon, George Clymer, Samuel Howell, Owen Biddle, Thomas Wharton, Junior.

The following Resolve of Assembly was handed this Board by Samuel Howell, Esquire:

"In Assembly, May 28, 1776.

"On motion, Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be directed to lay before this House, as soon as possible, an account of the preparations of every kind already made or now making by them for the defence of this Colony.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"PETER EVANS, Clerk of Assembly."

Resolved, That Mr. Wharton and Mr. Mease be a Committee to draw up an account of the Military preparations in this Province, in order to its being laid before the Assembly, agreeable to their Resolve of this day.

Resolved, That the Fire-Sloop be manned with one Captain, and that he be allowed twenty-six and two-thirds Dollars per month and three Rations; one Lieutenant, and that he be allowed eighteen Dollars per month and two Rations; two Men, to be allowed seven Dollars per month and four Dollars bounty each.

That in time of service the said Sloop be manned by volunteers from the Fleet.

That the Officers and Men belonging to the Fire-Sloop and Guard-Boats and Fire-Rafts, draw their Rations from the Commissary.

That each Guard-Boat be manned with one Captain, and that he be allowed twenty-six and two-thirds Dollars per month, and three Rations; one Gunner, and that he be allowed ten Dollars per month; eleven Privates, and that they be allowed seven Dollars per month, and four Dollars bounty each.

Resolved, That Messrs. Moulder and Fitzsimmons be authorized to purchase and fit up two Shallops, for the accommodation of the Officers and Men of the Guard-Boats; each Vessel to accommodate about forty persons.

Resolved, That James Montgomery be directed to attend this Board to-morrow, to answer his changing his Boat without leave of this Board.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 29, 1776.

Present: James Mease, Chairman, John Nixon, Daniel Roberdeau, Owen Biddle, Robert White, John Cadwallader, Samuel Morris, Jun.

Captain Montgomery appeared this day, agreeable to orders, and acquaints this Board that the reason of his removing from his Boat was in consequence of leave obtained from the Commodore, and now applies to have such change confirmed.

Therefore, Resolved, That he, the said Captain James Montgomery, take the command of the Chatham, in the room of the Ranger, Armed Boats.

Captain Crawford, a Prisoner taken at St. Johns, appears at this Board and begs to be indulged a few days' stay in this City; which was granted him on his giving his word of honour that he would conduct himself with propriety during his stay.

Upon application of Robert Morris, Esquire, for the payment of an Order drawn on this Committee in his favour by Stephen Caronio, and in consequence of a Resolve of this Board of the 24th instant, by order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esquire, and others, the Committee of Accounts, for the payment of said Order, amounting to nine thousand Dollars.

The following Instructions to Captain Reed, for the better government of the Navy now under his command, were this day drawn up, approved of, and sent him:

"SIR: We think it proper to acquaint you that Commodore Caldwell has, by his letter of the 27th instant, resigned the command of the fleet, as his ill state of health will not admit of his giving that attendance which the critical situation of publick affairs requires.

"The chief command of the fleet, consequently, for the present, devolves upon you, and you are hereby directed to see all the orders from this Board or from the Assembly strictly executed. As there is the greatest reason to apprehend an immediate attack, we think it absolutely necessary that the whole fleet under your command be in constant readiness.

"The barracks on Fort-Island being now ready for the accommodation of the officers belonging to the boats, you are directed to order all the boats to be stationed at Fort-Island. No officers of the fleet are to absent themselves without your leave, or the leave of the commanding officer; and you are not to suffer more than two officers to be absent at one time without some evident necessity, taking particular care that such officer return punctually at the time mentioned in his leave of absence. No officer of the fleet is to lie out of his boat or other vessel to which he belongs, without your leave, or the leave of the commanding officer.

"As the safety of this City and Province depends chiefly upon the armament under your command, we direct you to pay the strictest attention to the duties of your important station, and to establish such regulations as will conduce to promote good order and discipline, without which no military establishment can long subsist."

The Committee appointed to consider of a proper mode of providing Cartridges for the different bores of Fire-Locks in the hands of the Associators report, that the practice of our Commissary, upon the authority of Books, is, two-fifths of the weight of each Ball to a charge of Powder, which proportion has been ascertained by actual experiment, as lately reported by a Committee appointed out of the Battalions in this City, as published in the publick prints, adopted by this Board and entered on our Minutes.

That this proportion, reduced to different Bores, is as follows:

	Dwt.	grs.
A Ball 13 to the pound, - - - - -	9	20
A Ball 15 to the pound, - - - - -	8	12
A Ball 17 to the pound, - - - - -	7	12
A Ball 19 to the pound, - - - - -	6	16
A Ball 21 to the pound, - - - - -	6	2
A Ball 24 to the pound, - - - - -	5	8
A Ball 30 to the pound, - - - - -	4	6

That, in order to ascertain the numbers and sizes of each Musket through the several Battalions in the Province, for the government of our Commissary in making up Cartridges, we take the liberty to recommend to this Board to furnish the Committee of each County with one or two sets of Punches, to mark 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, &c., also, with as many sets of Formers as will answer to the above seven sizes. That each Committee appoint to each Battalion a person to size the Guns, and mark each size on the Breech-pin or on the lower end of the Barrel.

That each Colonel issue orders to the respective Captains, or Commanding Officer in each Company in his Battalion, to send an exact account of the number of good Fire-Locks in their several Companies, with the sizes of them, which shall be entered by the Colonel in a book to be kept by each Regiment, to be denominated the Size-Book.

As soon as the sizes are obtained they must be immediately transmitted to our Commissary, and any increase in the number of Fire-Locks to each Battalion reported from time to time, that the number of good Fire-Locks in each Battalion may be always known, and that the quantities of Cartridges suited to each bore may be constantly furnished, tied up in bundles, and marked with the respective sizes.

Resolved, That the above Report be confirmed and ordered to be printed, and copies sent to the several County Committees to furnish their Colonels of the respective Battalions.

Resolved, That the above Report be approved of, and that two hundred copies be printed, to be sent to the Committees of the different Counties.

Resolved, That Commissary Towers be ordered immediately to provide forty-four sets of Formers and as many sets of Punches, for sizing and marking the Fire-Locks of the Associators, to be immediately sent to the Committees of Inspection and Observation in the different Counties in this Province.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 30, 1776.

Present: James Mease, Chairman, John Nixon, George Clymer, Samuel Howell, James Biddle, Owen Biddle, John Cadwallader, Thomas Wharton, Jun.

Upon application of Robert Morris, Esq., the Board gave orders to Lieutenant Hume, of the Armed Boat Ranger, to send two men on board a Pilot Boat going down the Bay on publick service.

Robert Towers, Commissary, was directed to deliver one ton of crude Sulphur to Messrs. Bidwell and Walter, for refining.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on Michael Hillegas, Esq., Treasurer, in favour of John Nixon and others, the Committee of Accounts, for ten thousand Pounds.

Robert Towers, Commissary, was directed to deliver to Mr. William Thomson, or his order, one ton of Saltpetre, and a proportionable quantity of Sulphur, for working up into Gunpowder at his Mill in Warwick Township, Bucks County.

Resolved, That the representation made to this Committee from the Committee-men of the Borough and Township of Bristol, in Bucks County, be sent up immediately to the honourable House of Assembly, as the matters contained in it appear very important and proper for the notice of that House.

—
In Committee of Safety, May 31, 1776.

Present: James Mease, Chairman, John Nixon, Samuel Morris, Jun., James Biddle, Samuel Howell, David Rittenhouse, Owen Biddle, Alexander Wilcocks, Thomas Wharton, Jun.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esq. and others, the Committee of Accounts, for forty-four Pounds ten Shillings, which, with fifty pounds of Gunpowder ordered to be delivered him by Robert Towers, Commissary, is in full of two hundred and twenty-eight pounds of Saltpetre, manufactured in this Province, and received by Mr. Towers.

Some days past the honourable Continental Congress sent the following Resolve to this Board; which is ordered to be entered on the Minutes:

"In Congress, April 3, 1776.

Resolved, That every person intending to set forth and fit out a private Ship or Vessel of War, and applying for a commission or letters of marque and reprisal for that purpose, shall produce a writing subscribed by him, containing the name and tonnage or burden of the Ship or Vessel, the number of her guns and their weight of metal, the name and place of residence of the owner or owners, the names of the commander and other officers, the number of the crew, and the quantity of provisions and warlike stores; which writing shall be delivered to the Secretary of Congress, or to the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Convention, or Council or Committee of Safety of the Colony in which the Ship or Vessel shall be, to be transmitted to the said Secretary, and shall be registered by him; and that the Commander of the Ship or Vessel before the commission or letters of marque and reprisal may be granted, shall, together with sufficient sureties, seal and deliver a Bond, in the penalty of five thousand Dollars if the Vessel be of one hundred tons or under, or ten thousand Dollars if of greater burden, payable to the President of Congress, in trust, for the use of the United Colonies, with condition in the form following, to wit:

"The condition of this obligation is such, that if the above bounden . . . ., who is Commander of the . . . called . . . ., belonging to . . . ., of . . . ., in the Colony of . . . ., mounting . . . . carriage-guns, and navigated by . . . . men, and who has applied for a commission or letters of marque and reprisal to arm, equip, and set forth to sea the said . . . ., as a private ship-of-war, and to make captures of British vessels and cargoes, shall not exceed or transgress the powers and authority which shall be contained in the said commission, but shall in all things observe and conduct himself and govern his crew by and according to the same, and certain instructions therewith to be delivered, and such other instructions as may hereafter be given to him, and shall make reparation for all damages sustained by any misconduct or unwarrantable proceedings of himself or the officers or crew of the said . . . ., then this obligation shall be void, or else remain in force. Sealed and delivered in presence of . . . ."

"Which Bond shall be lodged with the said Secretary of Congress. By order of Congress:

"JOHN HANCOCK, President."

The following Resolve of Congress was this day delivered to the Board, and ordered to be entered on the Minutes:

"In Congress, May 25, 1776.

"Resolved, That the disposition of the Prisoners sent from North-Carolina, as made by the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania, is approved; and that the said Prisoners have the allowance ordered to Officers.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

Resolved, That Captain Loxley and Mr. William Evans be authorized to procure Timber for the following number of Carriages: For thirty eighteen-pound Carriages, thirty twelve-pound Carriages, twenty nine-pound Carriages.

By order of the Board an Order was drawn on John Nixon, Esq. and others, the Committee of Accounts, for two hundred Pounds, and ordered to be charged to the Account of Thomas Nevill and others, appointed to collect Lead for the use of this Province.

In consequence of a Resolve of Congress of the 3d April last, by order of the Board a Commission was granted for the Schooner Mars, Norris Copper, Master, owned by Mr. John Wilcocks and Messrs. John and Peter Chevalier, and a Bond taken agreeable to said Resolve.

A Letter was this day sent to Messrs. Levi Hollingsworth and Thomas Richardson, and directed to them at Newport, Rhode-Island, enclosing the following Resolves of Congress:

"In Congress, May 30, 1776.

"Resolved, That six of the heaviest Cannon at Newport, and fourteen of the heaviest Cannon at New-London, belonging to the Continent, be transported to Philadelphia as soon as possible.

"That a copy of the above Resolution be transmitted to the Governours of Rhode-Island and Connecticut.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

CAPTAIN NICHOLSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Ship Defence, off Annapolis, June 1, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received yours this morning per Middleton, and ordered him down on the look-out. I have not discovered anything of the ships since I left them off Windmill Point, but apprehend, should they intend up the bay, you will certainly hear of them this evening. I am now proceeding with the ship up to Baltimore, where shall expect your further orders.

I am, gentlemen, your most obliged humble servant,
JAMES NICHOLSON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO HUGH YOUNG.

[No. 4.]

Annapolis, June 1, 1776.

SIR: We presume the first valuation of the schooner Ninety-Two was regular, and therefore conceive ourselves bound by it, without paying any regard to the subsequent proceedings of Cravath & Dugan. The necessary repairs which have been since made under your agreement ought to be added. We cannot now give orders to the schooner, and doubt very much whether she can sail at all, but of this will determine in a few days, and apprise you, or in your absence, the above gentlemen, of it.

We are, &c.

To Mr. Hugh Young.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE OF INSPECTION.

At a special meeting of the Committee of Inspection of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, June 1, 1776:

Whereas the honourable Congress, by their Resolve of the 30th of May, have empowered the Committees of Inspection to regulate the price of Salt:

Resolved, That that article shall not exceed the following prices: Coarse Salt, 7s. 6d. per bushel, 3s. 9d. per half bushel, and 2s. per peck; fine Salt, 8s. per bushel, 4s. per half bushel, and 2s. 2d. per peck.

And whereas the Congress have empowered the Committees of Inspection to regulate the price of Green Tea, as well as to execute their Resolve limiting the price of Bohea Tea at three-fourths of a Dollar per pound:

Resolved, That the price of the best Green Tea shall not exceed 32s. 6d. per pound.

Resolved likewise, That if any persons shall, by any art or evasion, elude the above Resolutions by refusing to sell the above articles at the said limited prices, they may depend upon being held up as enemies to their country, without respect to persons; and they may be assured the Committee will take such further steps (if necessary) as will effectually carry the above resolutions of Congress into execution.

The Committee request that all virtuous citizens will use their utmost endeavours to detect and bring to justice all such persons as dare to offend against the above necessary and highly useful regulations.

J. B. SMITH, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE OF INSPECTION AND OBSERVATION.

In Committee of Inspection and Observation for the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, June 1, 1776:

Whereas the honourable Continental Congress, by their Resolve of the 30th of May, empowered the said Committee to regulate the price of Salt:

Therefore, Resolved, That the said article of Salt shall not exceed the following prices, viz: Coarse Salt, 7s. 6d. per bushel, 3s. 9d. the half bushel, and 2s. per peck; fine Salt 8s. per bushel, 4s. the half bushel, and 2s. 2d. per peck.

And whereas Stephen Shewell and Joseph Shewell, inhabitants of this City, have knowingly counteracted said Resolution of the 1st of June, by selling coarse Salt at 12s. per bushel, and 1s. 6d. the half peck, and fine Salt at 2s. the half peck; and being charged with a breach of said Resolve before this Committee, Joseph Shewell being present, acknowledged the charge to be just:

Therefore this Committee, in discharge of the duty they owe to the publick, and in order to show to the world their resolution to support their limitations, which they are of opinion are founded on just and generous principles, after giving them previous notice, declare and hold up to the world the aforesaid Stephen Shewell and Joseph Shewell as enemies to their country, and preclude them from all trade and intercourse with the inhabitants of these States.

NATHANIEL DONNELLY, Secretary pro tem.

MARK BIRD TO PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Reading, June 1, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to the assurance in our last, your letter of the 21st ultimo, with the several papers therewith sent, were laid before the General Committee of this County; and I am now directed to acquaint you that they have appointed a number of gentlemen of their body to attend the conference proposed to be held in your city on the 18th of this month, in order to agree upon and direct the mode of electing members for a Provincial Convention, a measure which they conceive to be extremely proper in itself, and highly necessary in the present situation of our affairs. The gentlemen nominated by the Committee are Messrs. Henry Haller, Bodo Otto, Jacob Morgan, Benjamin Spycker, Nicholas Lutz, Valentine Eckert, Charles Shoemaker, Daniel Hunter, Joseph Hiester, and myself, who will attend at the time appointed.

By order of the Committee.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

MARK BIRD, Chairman.

To the Committee of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 1, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I have this moment (by express) received the enclosed letters from Generals Schuyler and Sullivan, which I think of such great importance I shall immediately forward you, together with my answer to General Schuyler. I wrote you yesterday, but was too late for the post; shall forward it on with this; since which five ships have arrived at the Hook, three of which I suppose to be men of war.

I am truly sorry for our defeat in Canada at the Cedars; hope Congress will immediately take the importance of that country into serious consideration, and immediately send on reinforcements, or I fear we shall lose what we had possession of.

I am in so great haste I know not but I shall forward on some papers which are of no consequence. Both expresses now wait.

I have the honour to be, dear General, with esteem, your Excellency's most humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 1, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: General Washington not being here, I sent forward a number of cannon, two tons of powder, intrenching tools, pork, &c., agreeable to your desire in your last letter. Your express this moment arrived. I shall forward the letters on immediately to the General, who is yet at Philadelphia with the Congress. Depend, sir, nothing shall be wanting in my power to forward and assist the troops gone to Canada this campaign. Powder and lead we shall soon forward on. The little I sent you on with the guns, &c., I hope is safe to hand before this. Provisions will be forwarded on as you could wish, and I doubt not Congress will immediately order on a reinforcement of men, which it is not in my power to do. I beg you will write for every article you want as soon as possible, and it shall immediately be sent on.

It is with pain I hear of Colonel Bedel and the brave Major Sherburne's defeat at the Cedars. For God's sake, if possible, forward on relief to the Caughnawagas immediately, or I fear we shall lose them all. I know them to be a very brave nation, and think it of importance they should be secured to our interest. Five ships, supposed to be men-of-war, have just arrived at the Hook, and I trust we are ready for them, come as soon as they will.

I am, in the greatest haste, dear sir, your most humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To General P. Schuyler.

P. S. Colonel Knox tells me there is plenty of cannon for ships at Crown-Point.

JOSEPH BULL TO HENRY REMSEN.

New-York, June 1, 1776.

DEAR SIR: When I was in town last week I expected to, but missed seeing you. On my return home met with your letter, but cannot by any means comply with the contents. My business is of such a nature that I cannot leave it. My books, say the books of Corse & Bull, are in the country, to which, with many other matters, I must attend; and as my residence is now there, I think some person ought to be appointed in my stead. Had I been commissioned, I should before this have resigned; besides all this, I am by no means a friend to independency, which I think has or will take place soon, and shall not in any capacity arm in defence of it.

I am, with much esteem, your obedient and very humble servant,

JOSEPH BULL.

To Colonel Remsen.

LORD STIRLING TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

June 1, 1776.

SIR: Agreeable to your request, I left New-York on Sunday last, in order to view the fortifications on Hudson's River, in the Highlands. I took with me Colonel Putnam, Chief Engineer, and Captain Sergeant, of the Artillery. The winds were so adverse that we did not reach Fort Montgomery until Wednesday evening; but with the help of our boat, we employed our time in visiting several other parts of the river that appeared proper for fortifying. At the mouth, or south end of the Highlands, about four miles below Fort Montgomery, there is a post which to me appears well worth possessing, on many accounts; should the enemy be in possession of it, we should be cut off from our best communication with the whole country below the Highlands, eastward as well as westward. There is a very remarkable spot of ground, easily fortified, which commands the passage of the river as well as either of the other posts; it also commands the mouth and landing of Peek's Kill, from which there is an excellent road into Connecticut, which is only twenty miles off; on the opposite side is an excellent road into New-Jersey and Pennsylvania. The sketch of this part of the river (No. 1) will best show the propriety of its being fortified. In the passage from this place to Fort Montgomery is a large island, which would be very useful to the enemy in their approaches to that place.

Fort Montgomery is situated on the west bank of the river, which is there about half a mile broad, and the bank one hundred feet high; on the opposite shore is a point of land called Anthony's Nose, which is many hundred feet high, very steep, and inaccessible to anything but goats, or men very expert in climbing. A body of riflemen placed here would be of very great use in annoying an enemy, as the decks of every vessel that passes must lie open to them.

The works begun and designed at Fort Montgomery are open lines, as may be seen by the plan No. 2, and all lie on the north side of a small creek called Pooplopen's Kill, on the south side of which is a point of land which projects more into the river, commands all the principal works, and is within two and three hundred yards of them. On the top of this point is a level spot of ground, of near an acre, commanded by nothing but the high inaccessible mountains, at about twelve hundred yards distance; this spot, I think, should by all means be fortified, as well for the annoyance of the enemy in their approach up the river, as for the protection of the works at Fort Montgomery. Indeed, this appears to me the most proper place I have seen on the river to be made the grand post; and, in my opinion, should be a regular strong work, capable of resisting every kind of attack, and of containing a grand magazine of all kinds of warlike stores. The whole would then command the passage of the river with so formidable a cross fire as would deter any attempt to approach with shipping. The works finished, designed, or begun at Fort Montgomery are, each of them, distinguished in the plan No. 2. Those built are all faced with fascines, and filled in with strong good loam; but as they are liable to take fire, the Commissioners who have the care and direction of the works, propose to roughcast the faces of the embrasures with a strong mortar made of quicklime and sharp sand, of which there is plenty at hand. I advised them to try the experiment on part of the work as soon as possible. As these open lines are entirely defenceless on the land side, it will be very proper to erect a small redoubt on the hill, in the rear of them, marked A.

Fort Constitution is about six miles above Fort Mont- gomery, on an island near the east side of the river, and near the north end of the Highlands, which on the west and south sides is bounded by the river, and on the north and east sides by low marsh and small creeks running through it. The works here consist of four open lines or batteries, fronting the river; the two easternmost command the approach up the river very well; the next, or middle line, commands the approach from West Point upwards; the westernmost battery is a straight line constructed by Mr. Romans, at a very great expense; it has fifteen embrasures, which face the river at a right angle, and can only annoy a ship in going past; the embrasures are within twelve feet of each other; the merlons on the outside are but about two feet in the face, and about seven feet deep, made of square timber covered with plank, and look very neat; he also built a log house or tower on the highest cliff, near the water, mounted with eight cannon, (four-pounders,) pointed out of the garret windows, and looks very picturesque. Upon the whole, Mr. Romans has displayed his genius at a very great expense and to very little publick advantage. The works in their present open condition and scattered situation are defenceless; nor is there one good place on the island on which a redoubt may be erected that will command the whole; however, I have marked in the plan (No. 3) those heights which are most commanding; yet every work on the island is commanded by the hill on the West-Point, on the opposite side of the river, within five hundred yards, where there is a level piece of land of near fifty acres in extent. A redoubt on this West-Point is absolutely necessary, not only for the preservation of Fort Constitution, but for its own importance on many accounts. One also is necessary at the west end of the island, to command the approach that way, and to prevent a landing at the north side of the island. An easy communication by land as well as by water may be made with Fort Montgomery from the West-Point.

The garrison of Fort Constitution consists of two companies of Colonel Clinton's Regiment, and Captain Wisner's company of Minute-men—in all about one hundred and sixty rank and file. The garrison at Fort Montgomery consists of three companies of the same regiment, amounting to about two hundred men rank and file. The field-officer of the regiment is Lieutenant-Colonel Livingston; but the command of the whole of both garrisons is still in the hands of Colonel Nicoll, who, it seems, last fall raised a regiment of Minute-men for the purpose of garrisoning Fort Constitution, which regiment is all dismissed except Captain Wisner's company of about forty privates. Lieutenant-Colonel Livingston has very prudently avoided any dispute with Colonel Nicoll about the command, rather referring the matter to your Excellency's determination. The whole of the troops at both these posts are miserably armed, as will appear by the return No. 4. Lieutenant-Colonel Livingston informs me he has lately received about forty fire-locks, all in very bad order, from the Committees of Dutchess County, and expects several hundred more in a few days in the same condition. I have therefore directed the blacksmith's shop at Fort Constitution to be enlarged, so that it will at the same time serve for an armory. A blacksmith's shop and armory of the like kind, I have directed at Fort Montgomery, and the artificers in those branches in Clinton's Regiment to be employed in them. The provision branch at these forts seems to have been strangely managed. Mr. Walter Livingston, Commissary for the department of New-York and Canada, residing at Albany, supplied them. His Deputy, (a Mr. Phelps,) appointed for the issuing provisions at these posts, has, since November last, been there in all about a fortnight. The care and issuing of provisions has, in the meantime, been left to a sergeant, who has dealt them out without any rule but his own caprice, indiscretion, and want of honesty. Out of these hands the provision branch here has lately gone into the hands of Mr. Abraham Livingston, who, by contract, is to supply the troops in the New-York department. His Deputy, a Mr. Honan, now issues the provision; but instead of doing it according to contract, by which he is obliged to furnish two days' fresh provision per week, the troops have had fresh provisions only twice in six weeks. Complaints are loud against Mr. Honan's want of prudence and sobriety. Another inconsistency in this branch is, that while there is a very considerable stock of provision at Fort Constitution, laid in at Continental expense, by Mr. Walter Livingston, as appears by the return No. 5, a new supply is sent for immediate use by Mr. Abraham Livingston. If this goes on, the old stock will perish.

The direction of the works at both these forts is in the hands of Commissioners appointed by the Provincial Congress of New-York. Two Commissioners, with four carpenters, two blacksmiths and seven attendants, are at Fort Constitution; two Commissioners, one clerk, fifteen carpenters, and four masons, are at Fort Montgomery; the pay of these amount to at least eight hundred dollars per month, besides their provisions, &c. One good engineer, with artificers from the Army, might, I think, do the whole business as well.

There have lately been brought into Fort Montgomery several persons as notorious Tories. They are sent by District Committees of the Counties of Albany, Dutchess, and Westchester, with directions to the commanding officer to keep them at hard labour until their further order. How far this accords with the resolutions or intentions of the Continental or Provincial Congress I cannot determine, and have therefore directed the commanding officer to employ them in the works, and to keep a watchful eye over them, until further order.

The artillery and ordnance stores, at these posts, appears by Captain Sargent's reports herewith, (No. 6.) The cannon in general are, to all appearance, excellent of their kind, excepting two nine and three six-pounders, which are dubious. There are also, I am informed, six cannon, six-pounders, four of them good, and two dubious, at New-Windsor, a place about six miles above Fort Constitution; they had better be brought down to Fort Montgomery.

Considering the different directions all these matters are under, I have avoided giving any determinate orders about them, but it is highly necessary that explicit orders should soon issue.

I am your Excellency's most humble servant,
STIRLING.
To His Excellency General Washington.

No. 4.
Return of the present state of the Garrison at FORT CONSTITUTION, MAY 29, 1776, Lieut. Col. LIVINGSTON.

NAMES OF THE CAPTAINS.	Captains.	Subalterns.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Drummers and Fifers.	Privates.	Sick and lame.	Absent by leave.	On command.	Deserted.	Guns fit for use.	Guns not fit.	Cartridge-boxes.	Bayonets.	Tomahawks.	Guns wanting.	Bayonets wanting.	Tomahawks wanting.	Axes wanting.	Pails wanting.	Cartridge-boxes wanting.
Captain William Jackson's Company..	1	*3	4	4	2	73	17	1	8	-	4	31	86	1	-	82	82	82
Captain John Wisner's Company of } Minute-Men.....	1	3	4	4	2	42	10	-	-	-	31
Increase Childs's Company.....	1	3	4	1	1	37	-	-	-	-	6	-	3	3	-	41	41	41	-	-	41
Total at Fort Constitution.....	3	9	12	9	5	152	27	1	8	-	41	31	89	4	-	123	123	123	-	-	41

* Lieutenant Ellsworth gone to Albany, with a guard of six men, with powder.

No. 4—Continued.
Present state of the Garrison at FORT MONTGOMERY.

NAMES OF THE CAPTAINS.	Captains	Subalterns.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Drummers and Fifers	Privates.	Sick and lame.	Absent by leave.	On command.	Deserted.	Guns fit for use.	Guns not fit.	Cartridge-boxes.	Bayonets.	Tomahawks.	Guns wanting.	Bayonets want'g.	Tomahawks wanting.	Axes wanting.	Pails wanting.	Cartridge-boxes wanting.
Captain James Rosekrans's Company	1	3	4	4	2	72	2	1	1	3	4	26	4	4	82	82	82	-	6	6	82
Captain Abraham Swartwout's Com- pany .....	1	2	4	4	2	49	12	1	2	-	14	-	2	5	59	45	54	-	6	6	57
Captain John Belknap's Company....	1	3	4	4	2	67	12	2	2	-	4	8	14	4	77	73	73	-	6	6	63
Total at Fort Montgomery.....	3	8	12	12	6	188	26	4	5	3	22	34	20	13	218	200	209	-	18	18	202
Total at both Garrisons.....	6	17	24	21	11	340	53	5	13	3	63	34	109	17	218	323	332	123	18	18	243

* Lieutenant gone home sick; Ensign dead. † Lieutenant Paulding absent.
I do hereby certify the above to be a true Return. ISAAC NICOLL, Commissary of Stores.

No. 5.
A Return of Provision in the Store at FORT CONSTITUTION.

BY WHOM LAID IN.	Barrels Flour.	Barrels Pork.	Barrels Beef.	Bushels Pease.	Tierces Molasses.	Bxs. Candles.	Pounds hard Soap.	Barrels Indian Meal.	Hogsheads Rum.
Abraham Livingston, } May 30, 1776 .....	20	23	16	45	3	4	72	12	3
Walter Livingston.....	57	133	-	66	14	4	-	-	-
Total.....	77	156	16	111	44	8	72	12	3

The Store is not fit to put Provision in; and, if it was, can hold but very little more than is in it now.
JAMES HOUMAN, Deputy Commissary.

Number of Persons proposed to be employed at both Posts.

	Per month.
2 Commissioners, pay 10s. per day, - -	£30 0 0
1 Clerk of the Check, - - - - -	5 0 0
1 Steward, - - - - -	3 0 0
1 Overseer of the workmen, - - - - -	4 0 0
4 Carpenters, at 6s. per day each, - -	36 0 0
1 Blacksmith, at 6s. per day, - - - -	9 0 0
1 Assistant Blacksmith, at - - - - -	4 10 0
1 Cook to the Commissioners, at - - -	2 10 0
1 Waiter to the Commissioners, at - - -	2 10 0
1 Cook to the Artificers, at - - - - -	2 10 0
1 Seaman in care of the barge, at - - -	2 10 0
1 Sloop in the service of both posts, at -	30 0 0
2 Seamen on board the sloop, at £3 10 each,	7 0 0
	£138 10 0

Fort Constitution, May 31, 1776. WILLIAM BEDLOW.

A Return of Provisions at FORT MONTGOMERY, MAY 31, 1776.

Tierces of Molasses.	Boxes of Candles.	Pounds of hard Soap.	Barrels of Pork.	Barrels of Beef.	Tierces of Peas.	Barrels Indian Meal.	Barrels of Flour.	Hogsheads of Rum.
3	10	800	14	21	8	5	12	3

I do certify that the above is a true Return of the Provisions, per me.
NEHEMIAH CARPENTER, Quartermaster.

Return of Persons employed in carrying on the Works at FORT MONTGOMERY, near POOPLOPEN KILL.

Commissioners and Superintendents, Colonel Thomas Palmer and Gilbert Livingston, Esquires. Tennis Tappen, Clerk and Steward. Mechanics at Work: Carpenters 15, Masons 4.

List of Implements.
Wheelbarrows, - - - - -	43
Wheelbarrows, broke, - - - - -	9
Spades, - - - - -	29
Spades, broke, - - - - -	12
Iron Shovels, - - - - -	8
Iron Shovels, broke, - - - - -	1
Wooden Shovels, - - - - -	5
Wooden Shovels, broke, - - - - -	3
Iron Mauls and Wedges, - - - - -	5
Pick-Axes, - - - - -	27
Bill-Hooks, - - - - -	52
Bill-Handles, broke, - - - - -	5
Wood Axes, - - - - -	24
Small Carts, - - - - -	1
Handbarrows, - - - - -	4

GILBERT LIVINGSTON.
THOMAS PALMER.

Fort Montgomery, May 31, 1776.

Return of Persons employed at FORT MONTGOMERY.

	Per month.
2 Commissioners, pay, 10s. per day, - - -	£30 0 0
1 Clerk of the Check and Steward, - - -	8 0 0
15 Carpenters, at 6s. per day each, - - -	135 0 0
4 Masons, at 6s. per day each, - - - - -	36 0 0
	£209 0 0

Fort Montgomery, May 31, 1776.

Commissioners and Superintendents at the Works carrying on at FORT CONSTITUTION.

2 Commissioners, William Bedlow and Jonathan Lawrence.
1 Clerk of the Check, Jonathan Lawrence, Jun.
1 Steward, Adolph Delgrove.

Mechanicks at work: 4 Carpenters, 2 Blacksmiths, 1 Overseer, 1 Cook for the Commissioners, 1 Cook for the Artificers, 1 Waiter on the Commissioners, 1 Seaman in care of the barge.

The Sloop Liberty, Henry Palmer, in the service of Fort Constitution and Fort Montgomery: Master and two hands.
WILLIAM BEDLOW.

Fort Constitution, May 31, 1776.

Return of Persons employed at FORT CONSTITUTION.

	Per month.
2 Commissioners, pay 10s. per day each, -	£30 0 0
2 Waiters, 53s. 4d., - - - - -	5 6 8
4 Carpenters, at 6s. per day, each, - - -	36 0 0
1 Overseer, 80s. per month, - - - - -	4 0 0
1 Clerk, at 100s., - - - - -	5 0 0
1 Steward, at 100s., - - - - -	5 0 0
1 Cook, at 53s. 4d., - - - - -	2 13 4
1 Hired man, at 53s. 4d., - - - - -	2 13 4
1 Blacksmith, at 6s. per day, - - - - -	9 0 0
1 Blacksmith, - - - - -	4 10 0
	£104 3 4

Fort Constitution, May 31, 1776.

Fort Montgomery, May 31, 1776.
A List of Tory Prisoners now at this Garrison, who were sent here by order of DUTCHESS, Manor of LIVINGSTON, EAST CAMP, CLAVERACK and RHINEBECK Precincts.

Nathaniel Finch,	John Johnson,	Johannis Couper,
George Shannon,	David Close,	Philip Clum,
Dennis Riley,	Benjamin Dubois,	Coonradt Huffman,
Philip Teed,	Frederick Row,	Martinus Couper, jr.

Was sent to be kept at the laborious part of the duty at this garrison, during the pleasure of the above-said Committee:

From Westchester County, ——— Johnson, of Peekskill.

No. 6.

A Report of Ordnance and Ordnance Stores, with all the implements for the service of the Artillery, at FORT MONTGOMERY, MAY 31, 1776.

Number of Cannon.	Size—Pounders.	Metal.	Carriages, Garrison.	Sponges with Rammers.	Ladles with Worms.	Ladles without Worms.	Worms without Ladles.	Primer.	Cartridges, filled.	Round-shot.	Wads.	Pompions.	Aprons, Lead.	Aprons, Canvass.	Priming-wires.	Bis.	Powder-horns.	Linstocks.	Handspikes.	Slow-matches, in Quoits	Junk, in pounds.	Cordage.	Sheet Lead—pounds.	Cartridge-paper—reams.	Lanthorns.	Gin, with apparatus complete.
6	32 12	Iron.	6	6	2	6	6	1	119	120	230	6	6	6	10	6	12	18	24	62	200	-	56	10	4	1

WINTHROP SARGENT, Captain-Lieutenant of Artillery.

To the Right Hon. William Earl of Stirling, Brig. Gen.

A Report of Ordnance and Ordnance Stores, with all the implements for the service of the Artillery, at FORT CONSTITUTION, MAY 30, 1776.

Number of Cannon.	15 34 17 5 4 2
-------------------	-------------------------------	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

WINTHROP SARGENT, Captain-Lieutenant of Artillery.

To the Right Hon. William Earl of Stirling, Brig. Gen.

An Account of Artillery Stores at FORT CONSTITUTION, MAY 29, 1776.

Cannons, mounted, of 9-pounders.....13	Slow match.....lbs. 319	Lanthorns.....6
Do. do. 6-pounders.....22	Brimstone.....lbs. 3	Handspikes.....80
Do. do. 4-pounders.....8	Chain Shot, 6-pounders.....12	Sheet Lead.....lbs. 144
Cannons, unmounted, 6-pounders.....22	Star Shot, 6-pounders.....7	Cannon Scrapers.....2
Do. do. 4-pounders.....8	Quarter-casks of Powder.....77	Grape Shot, made on wooden bottoms, for—
Do. do. 3-pounders.....4	Powder in a flour barrel and half.....250	9-pounders, Iron Grape.....31
Do. do. 2-pounders.....2	Musket-Cartridges.....3100	6-pounders, do.....19
At New-Windsor, Cannons, 6-pounders.....7	Cartridges, filled, 9-pounders.....21	4-pounders, Lead Grape.....22
Total Cannon.....86	Do. do. 6-pounders.....26	4-pounders, in canisters.....8
	Do. do. 4-pounders.....16	3-pounders, wooden bottoms.....11
	Empty Cartridges, 12-pounders.....1470	1-pounder.....40
	Do. do. 9-pounders.....752
	Do. do. 6-pounders.....1217
	Do. do. 4-pounders.....64
Round Shot, of 9-pounders.....1010	Cannon Cartridge Paper, reams.....1072
Do. 6-pounders.....900	Musket do. do.....72
Do. 4-pounders.....654	Sheep Skins.....19
Do. 3-pounders.....86	Flints.....485
Double-headed Shot, of 6-pounders.....314	Powder-Horns, filled.....10
Do. do. 4-pounders.....12	Cartridge Cases, 9-pounders.....12
6 oz. Grape Shot, lead.....wt. lbs. 493	Do. do. 6-pounders.....12
Musket Ball.....wt. lbs. 174	Do. do. 4-pounders.....12
Tin Canisters for 4-pound Grape Shot.....100	Linstocks.....62
Sponges and Rammers, covered, 9-pounders...13	Budge Barrels.....8
Do. do. do. 6-pounders...10	Wads, 9-pounders.....108
Sponges, uncovered, 9-pounders.....6	Do. 6-pounders.....108
Do. do. 6-pounders.....6	Do. 4-pounders.....108
Ladles and Worms, 9-pounders.....4	Junk for Wads, about.....wt. lbs. 300
Do. do. 6-pounders.....7	Hand-Grenades.....36
Do. do. 4-pounders.....6
Powder-horns, empty.....10

Account of Artillery Stores at FORT MONTGOMERY, MAY 29, 1776.

Six Cannon Carriages.....32
Linstock and Slow-Match.....18
Aprons.....12
Powder-Horns.....24
Sheap Skins.....2
Handspikes.....8
Sponges.....2
Cartridges for 32-pounders.....126
Lanthorns.....5
Priming Wires.....10
Balls for 32-pounders.....119
Wads.....7
Worms.....1

ISAAC NICOLL, Commissary of Stores.

A true Return, per me,

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 6, 1776.]

Fort George, June 1, 1776—9 o'clock A. M.

SIR: Just now an express arrived from Canada, who brought me the enclosed despatches, which were left open for my perusal. I hope since the date of the honourable Commissioners' letter that our affairs are changed for the better. You will perceive by General Thompson's letter of the 25th ultimo from Sorel, that he says he would take twenty days' provision in pork and thirty in flour from thence, and leave enough to supply that place. The scarcity, then, could not be very great; and they have received much since, as you will see by the return enclosed in mine of yesterday; but as the gentlemen wrote from Montreal, I conjecture they allude to the scarcity at that place.

Tents have never been sent up for any of the troops that went into Canada in the winter. All the shoes, stockings, and shirts, that could be procured in the country, have been bought, and delivered to the troops that have marched through Albany in the course of the winter and spring.

The powder has never been detained a moment; eight tons were sent with the first embarkation in the spring, twenty-seven large barrels left this on the 14th ultimo, and twelve barrels arrived here on Thursday, and were that very day sent off; in short, nothing sticks either at Albany or here. By recurring to some of General Wooster's letters transmitted by me, Congress will observe that there seemed to be no doubt of procuring a sufficient supply of flour, but these misfortunes will ever happen for want of discipline and subordination. Had that prevailed, I should not have been (as I have to this very day) left in the dark with respect to everything in Canada.

*

I hope every officer in the Army by this time sees the necessity of discipline. My letters to Congress evince that I have long seen it, and dreaded the consequences that it was easy to foresee would arise from the want of it, and that they will seriously set about the proper measure to introduce. I cannot help wishing that our military code was made more severe: thirty-nine lashes are not an adequate punishment for a wretch who, by laying down to sleep on his post, exposes a garrison to be cut off.

Our affairs in Canada are not irretrievable, and hope we shall soon receive happier accounts from that quarter.

I am, dear sir, most respectfully, your obedient and most humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

St. Johns, June 1, 1776.

MUCH ESTEEMED SIR: I must beg leave to inform Congress that I arrived here last evening with my brigade, except Colonel Dayton's and part of Colonel Wayne's Regiment; the former of which was, by order of General Schuyler, sent to Tryon County, the latter, I hear, are detained at New-York, I know not for what length of time. Upon my arrival I was informed that General Thomas was down with the small-pox, without the least prospect of a recovery. General Wooster is here, with his baggage, returning to Connecticut, by means of which the command devolves upon me. I have done everything I possibly could in the time to get information of the true state of affairs; and can, in a word, inform you that no one thing is right; everything is in the utmost confusion, and almost every one frightened at they know not what. The report is that General Carleton has advanced to Three Rivers, and the ships are coming up the River St. Lawrence; other persons, who have come from eighty miles below Quebeck, declare that there is no appearance of men or ships on this side that city; and, for my own part, I am fully convinced that the latter report is true; however that may be, I am surprised that an army should live in continual fear, and even retreat before an enemy which no person has seen. I think they might at least have ventured some persons in whom they could confide, to view them from the neighbouring heights, and give some account of the numbers and movements; but nothing of the kind is done. I shall set out early to-morrow for Montreal, and will proceed till I can find with certainty where the enemy is, and what they are about. I find the lower, and some of the higher class of French people in our favour, and fear that we are about to leave them. A Captain of the Militia this day waited on me, by desire, as he says, of three parishes, which offer to turn out six hundred men to assist us, and furnish them with arms and provisions. They complain that we have slighted their repeated offers to join us. How this is I cannot pretend to determine. I have requested their officers to meet me at Chambly in the morning; and I think, if I find the men in earnest, I may with as much propriety employ them on our side as Carleton does the Indians on his. I shall, however, endeavour to encourage their dispositions, and make the best advantage of it I can. I am extremely sorry to inform you that from the officers whose business it was to give Congress the true state of matters, Congress has not, as I believe, received anything like it. This I conclude from the repeated letters sent to General Washington, giving the most favourable accounts, and promising a speedy reduction of Quebeck; when there was not even a probability of it, and the Army with which this was to be done had dwindled into a mob, without even the form of order or regularity—the consequences of which we have experienced by the infamous retreat from Quebeck, and the still more scandalous surrender of the fort at the Cedars; for the particulars of which I refer you to the honourable Commissioners, now upon their return to Philadelphia. I shall immediately appoint a Court of Inquiry upon Colonel Bedel and Major Butterfield, and transmit Congress the result; and shall do everything in my power to rectify the disorder, and get the Army into some kind of regularity. I find no proper Commissary appointed, and the publick stores left to the mercy of sergeants and other persons, who are guilty of every kind of fraud. The regiments sent here are torn and divided into numerous parts, and scattered from one end of the country to another. This method, besides its being highly impolitic, will even prevent the officers from making proper returns of their men, and naturally destroys that subordination which ever ought to be kept up in an Army. There has been no return of warlike stores sent here; and the powder sent from here to him, I am informed, has been greatly diminished, and no person can tell how. To give you a full account of what I have already learned would take a volume. I must, therefore, beg leave to refer you to the honourable Commissioners, who will give you full information on the subject. I shall, immediately after I find out where General Carleton with his formidable force is, and what they are about, give you the earliest information in the extreme.

I have the honour to be, dear sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To the President of Congress.

MAJOR FRAZER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Boston, Saturday, June 1, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed is an exact inventory of every article found in the docks and harbour of Boston since the enemy evacuated that place. You will please to observe I employed two companies of men for that purpose, ten in each. Mr. Califf and his company would not receive any wages for their labour, but thought themselves entitled to salvage, as I wrote you before. I should be glad to know the determination of Congress about it before I go to Boston, for I promised them I would let them know at my return, if possible; also what will be done with the vessels and cargoes, &c., left by the enemy, a list of which I enclose your Honour. My wages and rations as Assistant Quartermaster-General, I have never known yet; and extraordinary duty in Boston, receiving everything that was left there of King's stores, &c. Also, whether the bargains and sales made by the King's officers just before their embarkation to the inhabitants, will stand good; the consideration paid very trifling, and not their own property some of it, as well as many presents which they made of horses and carriages, &c., which the agent has sold, but detains the money in his hands till your determination, and desired me to inquire about it.

I would have waited on your Honour in person, but have been confined to my room these two days with the ague and fever. I hope to be able to set out for Boston on Tuesday next. Lieutenant-Colonel Buckmaster, of our regiment, was so badly wounded at Bunker-Hill, that he has never done any duty in the regiment since; and the Surgeon of the regiment says he will never be able to do any more. General Greene wrote something about him to the Honourable John Adams by me.

I am your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

JOHN G. FRAZER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

Inventory of things taken out of Docks and Harbour of BOSTON.

By E. WINTER, CALIFF, & COMPANY, viz:

13 Anchors, of different sizes.	36 fathom of 8½-inch Cable.
1 Anchor, 20 cwt. 1 qr. 21 lbs.	2 Chains for Carriages.
1 Anchor, 9 cwt. 2 qr. 11 lbs.	112 twenty-four-pound Shot.
1 Cable, 55 fathom, 6½-inch.	2 thirteen-inch Shells.
1 Cable, 22 fathom, 8½-inch.	4 ten-inch Shells.
1 Cable, 100 fathom, 13-inch.	105 small Shot.
1 Cable, 60 fathom, 7-inch.	4 eight-inch Shells.
1 Cable, 25 fathom, 8-inch.	4 three-inch Shells.
13 Cannon, 6 and 4 pounders.	93 four-pound Shot.
1 13-inch Mortar and Bed.	8 double-headed Shot.
1 Gun-Carriage.	32 Hand-Grenades.
4 Wheels.	1 Carriage for 3-pounder.
1000 of Boards.	1 Carriage for 24 pounder.
2 pieces of Junk, 20 fathom.	45 Carriage Wheels.

- |                                  |                               |
|----------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 2 iron Trucks.                   | 1 pair of Cart-fills.         |
| 1 13-inch Mortar and Bed.        | 2 Carriage Tongues.           |
| A number of Musket-balls.        | 2 Chaise-Carriage and Wheels. |
| 1 Carriage for 18-pounder.       | 30 Wheels, large and small.   |
| 1 body of a Cart.                | 2 pieces of Cable.            |
| 1 iron Weight, fifty-six pounds. | 5 fathoms Cable, 14½-inch.    |
| 1 piece of Junk.                 | 1 bundle iron Hoops.          |

By JONATHAN BLODGET & COMPANY, viz :

- |                                              |                                  |
|----------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 barrel of Spikes.                          | 6 Compasses.                     |
| 2 casks partly full of Musket-balls.         | Some old Junk.                   |
| About 200 lbs. Iron, suitable for Carriages. | 30 fathom Cable, 14-inch.        |
| 2 Wagon Cloths.                              | 68 iron Carriage Wheels.         |
| 4 Saddles.                                   | 3 Anchors, from 300 to 500 wt.   |
| 3 empty Casks.                               | 1 Carriage for a 24-pounder.     |
| 2 Beds, 8 Rugs, 19 Blankets.                 | 1 Bed for hauling a Mortar.      |
| 28 Planes, 12 Adzes.                         | 5 pair Chaise Wheels.            |
| 24 Chisels and Gouges.                       | 278 twenty-four-pound Shot.      |
| 18 Broad-Axes, 18 Narrow-Axes.               | 645 twelve-pound Shot.           |
| 5 iron Crows.                                | 80 six-pound Shot.               |
| 42 Watch Coats.                              | 358 thirty-two-pound Shot.       |
| 20 wooden Peck measures.                     | 402 eighteen-pound Shot.         |
| 23 iron-shod Shovels.                        | 271 Grape Shot.                  |
| 5 iron Spades.                               | 44 thirteen-inch Shells.         |
| 2 small Cross-cut Saws                       | 96 ten-inch Shells.              |
| 1 Nail Hammer.                               | 45 six-inch Shells.              |
| 1 iron Drawer, for nails.                    | 7 four-inch Shells.              |
| 31 Pikes, 5 Squares.                         | 5 Hand-Grenades.                 |
| 11 Hand-Saws.                                | 2 Cohorns.                       |
| 14 Drawing-Knives.                           | 4 Swivels.                       |
| 30 Augers.                                   | 40 Artillery Wheels.             |
| Schooner's Shrouds and Clasp for mast-heads. | 1 Cart and Wheels.               |
| 10 Carpenters' Rules.                        | Part of four Carriages.          |
|                                              | 1 Anchor, 31 cwt. 2 qrs. 14 lbs. |
|                                              | 1 Anchor, 25 cwt. 18 lbs.        |

JOHN G. FRAZER.

Boston, May 10, 1776.

JOSHUA WENTWORTH TO STEPHEN MOYLAN.

Portsmouth, June 1, 1776.

SIR: I addressed you last of 22d April, (and previously of 15th,) on the capture of the brig Elizabeth, brought into this port by Commodore Manly, &c.; since which I have not been favoured with your answer. I can easily conceive of your engagements on matters of much greater concernment; yet I shall be much obliged (if a leisure moment) by a reply to the letters quoted above, with the Continental resolves respecting my department, they not appearing this way. The sufferers of Boston have sent forward a memorial to the Congress, desiring their particular attention to this capture. The captors expect their full quota of the net proceeds of vessel and cargo, which no doubt will be the resolution of Congress; but a difficulty arises how I shall come at that, unless the whole is sold at auction. If each claimant is to receive the two-thirds of the proceeds, the difficulty will be obviated; but if the two-thirds of the goods that may be proved, the difficulty will still remain. Those goods that are not fully proved will be sold for the Continental account. Your advice and direction will be exceedingly useful to the mode necessary for me to pursue.

Remaining very assuredly, sir, your most obliged, humble servant,

JOSHUA WENTWORTH.

To Stephen Moylan, Esq.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN SALEM.

Captain Chapman (formerly of Boston) is just arrived here from St. Croix, who informs, that on the 10th of May, in latitude 34°, 15', longitude 67°, 64', he fell in with a brig, the Captain of which informed him that he sailed in company with a fleet of twenty sail of transports, under convoy of two sixty-four and one forty-gun ship, six frigates and two bomb-ketches, from whom he was parted the 5th May in a hard gale. The fleet had on board a large number of Hessians, Brunswickers, and English troops, in order to disperse (as the Captain termed it) that hornet's nest the Congress, after which they expected the continent would be an easy prey to them.

CHARLES CARROLL (BARRISTER) TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Mount Clare, June 2, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have, as Mr. Tilghman desired in his to me of Thursday, made inquiry for small vessels, but cannot find that any are to be got here on freight. I fancy if they are to be procured, it will be down the bay. The sooner they are got the better, as I fear the flour now begins to spoil. I was yesterday down at the fort; they are pretty forward, and the resistance they can now make if the enemy should come up, will not be very inconsiderable. We are not in much apprehension of the Otter, or even double her force; but in the Connecticut dialect of old Roger Sherman, "Where is the powder."

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

CHARLES CARROLL.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BALTIMORE COUNTY COMMITTEE.

[No. 5.]

Annapolis, June 2, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We received a letter this morning from Virginia by express; and as there is no telling the particular destination of the fleet, and as your town may possibly be an object with them, we have thought it proper to enclose you a copy, that, in case it should be necessary, you may be prepared to receive them. We are, &c.

To the Committee of Baltimore County.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO VIRGINIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

[No. 6.]

Annapolis, June 2, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We are very much obliged to you for your favour of the 26th. Our boats for four days past have brought us information from Captain Nicholson, of the Defence, on a cruise down the bay, that several men-of-war were at anchor off Wind-Point, above the mouth of the Rappahannock; and we are glad that you have given us certain advice what vessels they are. If Lord Dunmore expects to meet with more favour in Maryland than he has experienced in Virginia, he will, we trust, be greatly disappointed.

On behalf of the Council I have the honour to be, sir, yours, &c.

To the Committee of Safety of Virginia.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPT. JAMES NICHOLSON.

[No. 7.]

Annapolis, June 2, 1776.

SIR: We received yours dated this morning off the harbour, and are pleased to hear that you were gone past to Baltimore. We would have you make the best preparation you can to repel any attack that may be made by our enemies on either the fortifications or town of Baltimore. We received this morning an express from Virginia, informing us that Lord Dunmore had sailed from Norfolk up the bay with his fleet, joined by the Roebuck; and we apprehend the ships you saw off the Wind-Mill Point are part of that fleet. We are, &c.

To Captain James Nicholson.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO DEPUTIES IN CONGRESS.

[No. 8.]

Annapolis, June 2, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We send Mr. Stewart to Philadelphia, to take a view of the gondolas built at that city. We expect to contract with him for building most of those that are ordered to be built for our Province. The difference of tide in our bay from that in Delaware will, we apprehend, necessarily occasion some alteration in the manner of building and rigging our gondolas from those of Pennsylvania. We wish to have your sentiments on this subject, after conferring with Mr. Stewart.

All is quiet at Annapolis; the Governour's boat is just returned from Virginia with Secretary Smith, and brings a letter from Commodore Hammond, of the Roebuck, to the Governour, which we have seen. He is to be sent for shortly. The letter is dated at Gwynn's Island, which we take to be near Pianketank, between the mouth of the Potomack and Rappahannock. The letter informs, they came there to complete their wood and water. Private intelligence says the island is of some miles extent, and has stock of cattle, sheep, &c., thereon, and that they are casting up intrenchments to defend themselves against the Militia. How long they will remain there is uncertain. Our islands will probably be plundered next, and they will move, we con-lecture, up the river Potomack, or our bay. We should be exceedingly glad to have our military stores, particularly cannon and small arms, lent the Congress for fitting out the Wasp and Hornet. Enclosed we send you copy of the particulars, and wish you would apply when there is probability of succeeding.

Mr. Smith informs that a vessel under Spanish colours was lately taken in Delaware bay, with fourteen thousand dollars on board; the boxes that contained them are marked W. M., from whence he thinks they belong to Willing & Morris, and that there may be more money on board. He confirms the report of stock on the island, and says a Commissary is appointed to see that the people are paid. Mr. Smith also says that Commodore Hammond and Lord Dunmore both assured him that they had certain intelligence Commissioners were coming over; that he inferred from their discourse they were to treat with the Congress. He also says that they told him a very powerful fleet was expected with the troops from England; that Hudson's ship was with the fleet now at Gwinn's Island; that she was not yet condemned, a witness being wanting that was on board the Liverpool frigate, whom Dunmore told Mr. Smith could prove that the Congress had papers on board concealed in a log of wood, which probably would condemn her.

We wish to hear from you by every good opportunity; and are, gentlemen, your most obedient servants.

To the Deputies for Maryland in Congress.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COMMITTEE OF OBSERVATION FOR BALTIMORE COUNTY.

[No. 9.]

Annapolis, June 2, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We received intelligence this morning by the Governour's Secretary, who is just returned from the Roebuck, off Gwinn's Island, that the whole fleet which left Norfolk, consisting of about ninety sail, was arrived at Gwinn's Island; that they had landed their men, and were intrenching themselves; that they found a large supply of fresh provisions on the said island; that no ships-of-war were coming up the bay, only the one for the Governour, which may be expected in five or six days.

We are, &c.

To the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 5. Referred to the Committee on Prisoners]

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 2, 1776.

SIR: I have ordered Lieutenant Vanwaggenen to take in charge Lieutenant Shock, Lieutenant Neal McLean, and Doctor Gill, prisoners of war, and them safely convey to Philadelphia, and there wait on you for further orders. Lieutenant McLean has behaved exceedingly ill. I sent him the enclosed form of a parole to sign, which he repeatedly refused; I at last sent him word to sign it, and receive the treatment due a gentleman, or refuse, and travel in irons; he again refused, and I am now put to the disagreeable necessity of sending him forward handcuffed. He is used to it; for attempting to run away while in Canada, he was in the same situation. For particulars, I must refer you to Lieutenant Vanwaggenen.

I have the honour to be, with esteem, your most obedient humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. The other two Lieutenants, Shock and Doctor Gill, behave as is expected of gentlemen.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 2, 1776.

I, Lieutenant Neal McLean, being made a prisoner of war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies, in North-America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence with Lieutenant Vanwaggenen to Philadelphia, and there wait the further orders of the honourable Continental Congress.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 2, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: These you will receive by Dr. Gill and Lieutenant Shock, who were made prisoners at St. Johns; they have both behaved exceedingly well, and I could wish they might receive as kind treatment as can be shown to prisoners of war. Lieutenant McLean has behaved very ill, which has occasioned his being sent in irons to Philadelphia; no treatment can be to bad for such a villain.

I am, with the greatest respect, your obedient, humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. Lieutenant Vanwaggenen, who has in charge the prisoners, will give your Excellency the particulars of Lieutenant McLean's conduct. No ships arrived since I wrote by express yesterday, nor other news of importance.

EZRA L'HOMMEDIEU TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Southold, June 2, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Enclosed you have the nomination of the Field-Officers of this battalion; they are promoted according to their rank; and I hope we shall now be peaceable respecting our Militia. You have also a return of four officers for the Fifth Company, occasioned by the Captain of the company being nominated a Major. The Field-Officers desire you would send their commissions by first opportunity, (which likely will be the bearer,) as they want to have a general training before the busy season comes on. I wrote you some time ago respecting the Collector's office; if any difficulty should attend appointing that person, no great inconveniency would attend if it was postponed for the present, as but few vessels go from here. I conclude you are now very busy, and are thinking about instituting a new form of Government for the Colony, a measure which most people see the necessity of at present. Should be glad to hear from you, and know how our affairs are at the northward. We have so many accounts here that we do not know upon what to depend.

I am your very humble servant,

EZRA L'HOMMEDIEU.

To General Nathaniel Woodhull, New-York.

GENERAL THOMPSON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp at Sorel, June 2, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: The news of the country you will hear from the honourable Commissioners of Congress. The prospect is rather unfavourable on our side at present, but I hope will clear up. On the night of the 31st ultimo, I received an account of General Carleton's having passed the Rapids of Richelieu whilst I was at Chambly attending a council of war. I made no delay in setting out for this place, and arrived in time to prevent any bad consequences following the intelligence here.

Having received information that Colonel McLean, with about eight hundred Regulars and Canadians, had advanced as far up as the Three Rivers, I have sent off Colonel St. Clair, with between six and seven hundred men, to attack his camp, if it can be done with the least probability of success. This may be a means to prevent the Canadians and savages from taking up arms against us, which they begin already to do, and might otherwise in a little time increase the number of the enemy to a very formidable force. Colonel St. Clair is an officer of great experience, and I make no doubt he will acquit himself well of his command.

I have written to General Arnold at Montreal to send the Pennsylvania troops, in number about three hundred, from thence to join me here; and likewise to the Baron to send from St. Johns the first regiment that arrives there. With those troops I may be able to make the most advantage of Colonel St. Clair's success, if he should prove fortunate, or support a retreat if driven to that necessity.

Had I arrived in this country two weeks sooner with my reinforcement, I think we could have prevented General Carleton's passing Deschambault this summer. Three thousand men could have defended Canada at that place better than ten thousand can now we are out of possession of it. I now begin to entertain doubts of our ability to keep the Province. Our artillery is lost, and the New-England troops are so much infected with or afraid of the small-pox as almost to prevent their doing duty. Could I have the command of the Jersey and Pennsylvania Regiments, I still believe, if I did not keep the country, it would require at least five thousand men to oblige me to evacuate it; and that would be easing the Southern Colonies of so many enemies during the course of the campaign, and perhaps recover a little of the honour we have lately too lavishly thrown away.

Mr. Chase is of opinion we may with safety break the capitulation made with General Arnold. It is extremely hard to give up all the fruits of the last year's campaign in Canada, which cost so much, and, what was still a greater loss to us, the life of General Montgomery, without even releasing our distressed friends in Quebec. But if engagements of this delicate nature are broken without the fullest testimony to support us, we shall be forever undone.

I have sent off the sick and heavy baggage from hence, that if I am reduced to the necessity of retreating, I can do it with little loss. Including the men that went with Colonel St. Clair, those employed in rowing his boats, and gone to remove the sick, with fifty stationed on the opposite side of the St. Lawrence, the number of troops here are reduced to about two hundred. In a few days I shall be joined by Colonel De Haas with his detachment.

My greatest distress at present is on account of the unhappy situation of the Canadians who have taken an active part with us, as I know not whether I shall long have it in my power to protect them from the vengeance of General Carleton, with which they are threatened. They apprehend the worst, and are truly objects of compassion.

I am, my dear General, your affectionate humble servant,
WILLIAM THOMPSON.

To General Washington.

ARTHUR LEE TO THE COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE.*

June 3, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The desire of the Court of France to assist may be depended on; but they are yet timid, and the Ministry unsettled. Turgot, lately removed, was the most averse to a rupture with England; his removal is of consequence. The contention for the lead now is between Count de Vergennes and the Duke de Choiseul; both are friends to you and for vigorous measures. The disposition in France may, for these reasons, be relied on. Spain is more reserved; her Minister here is an old woman; but surely, when France moves Spain will co-operate. The clear revenue from the farm of tobacco is twenty-four millions of livres to France. It has been hinted to me that she is likely to tell Great Britain that if England cannot furnish it she will send for it herself. You may judge, therefore, what an important instrument that is in your hands. A Scotch banker, Sir Robert Herries, proposed to the farmers in France to supply them at the home price here, that is, with the duty, to which they agreed. He then applied to this Government for leave to import it upon paying the duties, which was refused. The Scots are the contrivers and supporters of all the measures against you; nor will they ever desist while the English have a penny to be plundered of, or a man to be sacrificed. Whatever propositions are made you must consider as coming from the Scots, whose perfidy you know can never be trusted. Do not let the character of Lord Howe deceive you. They have corrupted their English adherents almost to their own degree. Howe has a weak and confused head. Two hundred thousand pounds in specie have been sent to Canada, so that the booty there, if you succeed, must be great.

In the last debate, Lord George Germaine, who is undoubtedly Minister, affirmed that no treaty would be held with you till you had laid down your arms. My opinion is, that independency is essential to your dignity, essential to your present safety, and essential to your future prosperity and peace. Some of the Congress correspond with Mr. Jackson, of the Board of Trade, and with Mr. Molleson, a Scotch merchant; the intelligence they give goes directly to the Minister. To prevent this, all correspondence ought to be prevented with the Scots, who are to a man treacherous and hostile; and with the refugee Americans, who also communicate with the Minister. Parson Maddison has been permitted to return to Virginia, and, as he will probably give intelligence, he should be watched.

The young gentleman who will deliver this is of great worthiness, and deserves much of his country for his fidelity and zeal. Six thousand of the Hessian troops sailed last month, the remainder is not yet arrived here, so that it may be September before they reach you. In the mean time, it may be Howe's plan to amuse you with a negotiation, which may also furnish an opportunity of feeling some pulses among you, as to the efficacy of money and promises. Beware of Joseph Reed, of Philadelphia. One Brooke Watson, who was permitted to travel last year from New-York to Quebec, gave in a plan to the Ministry for attacking Canada, and is with the invaders.

This book is better than the last I sent you. It is to decipher what I write to you, and for you to write by. This is done by putting the page where the word is to be found, and the letter of the alphabet corresponding in order with the word. As there are more words in a page than the letters of the alphabet, the letter must be doubled or trebled to answer that; as thus—to express the troops, you write 369,kk 381,vv; ing, ed, s, &c., must be added when necessary, and distinguished by making no comma between them and the figures; thus—for betrayed, put 33ed. The letters I use are these, a b c d e f g h i j k l m n o p q r s t u v w x y z, which are twenty-six. I cannot use this until I know it is safe. You can write to Mrs. Lee, on Tower Hill, in a woman's hand; if you have both books, say the children are well; if the first only, the eldest child is well; if this, the youngest child is well. They will let this pass.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF VIRGINIA.

It is much to be lamented when one part of a community is so deeply incensed against another, and can with pleasure behold its ruin; because the most ancient ties of friendship are then dissolved, and the greatest intimates at that time become implacable enemies. However, there are many circumstances that justify such resentment; many that render them absolutely necessary; but it too often happens that they take their rise from the slightest causes, and, being aggravated by strong suspicions and gross misrepresentations, grow at length into the most inveterate hatred; a striking instance of which now presents itself in this distracted country. The poor inhabitants near our sea-coast are universally condemned, insulted, and abused, for no other reason than because they were so unhappy as to fall into the hands of a Governour who is deservedly held in the utmost abhorrence. It was expected by many of their countrymen that they would have made a vigorous resistance; but not by those who were well acquainted with their situation. There were a thousand obstacles to prevent it. At least half the town of Norfolk were disaffected to the American cause, and armed vessels lay at their doors to terrify the other half into obedience. Those who lived in the country were totally ignorant of military affairs, and war was a thing altogether new to them. Some spirited men among them, who could not brook the pride and insolence of the Scotch party, did prevail upon a few of the inhabitants to take up arms and stand on their own defence; but the event fully proved that discipline and experience are highly essential to form the soldier. They wanted these qualifications, nor was there a single officer to command who had ever been in action. Had they waited till the arrival of our troops from Williamsburgh, they had never incurred the censure of their brethren, nor been looked upon as foes to publick liberty and the rights of mankind. This is the effect of that military parade, which they mistook, and which is too frequently mistaken for true valour and heroism. I am bold in my assertion, because the situation of the people is thoroughly known to me. I was born among them, I lived among them, and have been a witness to their conduct during the whole of the present contest; and I do aver, that (except some of the inhabitants of the town of Norfolk) as many friends to America reside near the coast as in any other part of the Colony. Some enemies may undoubtedly be found; but are all, without distinction, to be condemned and treated with disdain on that account? Are your friends to suffer one common punishment with your most bitter foes? By Heavens, my countrymen, it is ungenerous and inhu-

* Copy of A. Lee's letter to the Committee of Secret Correspondence, date June 3, and taken from the original in the cover of a dictionary, which was delivered to the Secretary of Congress, by Mr. Robert Morris, on the 4th of September, 1778, and delivered to the Committee of Foreign Affairs, 7th December following.

Attest:

JAMES LOVELL.

man! But this is not all: they are not only condemned and despised, but exorbitant rents exacted from them, when forced to remove from their estates, and obliged to sacrifice their livings for the good of the community. How much this adds to the weight of their sufferings you may easily conceive; but unless you have been in the like distress, it is impossible for you to have a perfect idea of theirs. Few possess the means of purchasing the necessaries, much less the conveniences of life. The rest, my countrymen, must rely entirely on your generosity; and could you be satisfied with regard to their political conduct, I am persuaded they would experience the good effects of your benignity. But before you can be convinced, it behoves you to divest yourselves of those strong prejudices which you have imbibed, and to listen with the same attention to the voice of truth as you have done to that of calumny.

PHILANTHROPOS.

Suffolk, Virginia, June 3, 1776.

JAMES RINGGOLD TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Annapolis, June 3, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Having had the honour of being appointed Second Lieutenant to the Light Infantry of regular Troops, raised for the defence of this Province, under the command of Captain Stricker, and not thinking myself contented in that department, have enclosed you my commission, with my resignation. From, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

JAMES RINGGOLD.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO SUNDRY OFFICERS.

[No. 10.]

Annapolis, June 3, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed extract from a letter of Commodore Hammond to Governour Eden, (in consequence of an intercourse between His Excellency and the Convention,) will inform you that a man-of-war may be daily expected up the bay. We give you this notice that the Militia need not be alarmed, or unnecessarily drawn out upon duty on sight of these vessels. We make not the least doubt but that you will give the orders necessary for preventing any insult being offered either on her passage up or down the bay.

We have the strongest assurances that the Governour will leave the Province with the most friendly regard for its inhabitants, and will do everything in his power that may contribute towards promoting a reconciliation between the mother country and her Colonies. We are, &c.

(To Brigadiers Chamberlaine and Hooper, Colonels Wright, Weems, Mackall, and Barnes, and Captains Beall and Thomas, respectively.)

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO WILLIAM HINDMAN.

[No. 11.]

Annapolis, June 3, 1776.

SIR: We send you, enclosed, an order on yourself to the Paymaster of the Eastern-Shore for two thousand pounds. But before he draws the money, you will be pleased to see that a bond is executed (if not already done) with condition as herein mentioned, in the penalty of five thousand pounds, currency, payable to the Honourable Matthew Tilghman and James Lloyd Chamberlaine, Esquires, which you will hereafter transmit to us. We are, &c.

To William Hindman, Esq.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN BEALL.

[No. 12.]

Annapolis, June 3, 1776.

SIR: We received yours of the 29th, and are sorry to hear you are not properly accommodated with houses at Drum Point. We expected there were good houses there sufficient. Under the present circumstances, we have come to a resolution, that if houses cannot be got, barracks should be erected, under the inspection of the Committee, sufficient, together with the houses at the point, to hold the one-half of your company, and request you would apply to them for that purpose. The arms were sent you by Captain Thomas; we believe they are not so good as they ought to be, especially the locks. We wish we could supply you with better immediately, but have not any just now; we expect we shall have enough soon. We have ordered some guns from John Yost, at Georgetown, which Colonel Beall will send you down in a few days. The money for your subsistence we would have sent, but Mr. Ristean never came near us. Colonel Smallwood delivered us your letter. The regular method is, to transmit us your account by some safe hand, and we will order you the cash and other necessities you may want. We are, &c.

To Captain Rezin Beall.

P. S. When we get our rifles, which we expect daily, we will change, and give you rifles for some of the worst of your muskets.

JOHN HANCOCK TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Philadelphia, June 3, 1776.

SIR: We received your favour of the 10th of May, with the enclosures; and having communicated such a part thereof as was necessary to Congress, beg leave through you, to inform the honourable Assembly that the sum of thirty thousand dollars is ordered to be sent them, for the purpose of exchanging it for specie. We enclose a copy of the resolve, by which it will appear how the latter is to be disposed of, and think it will be necessary to place it to the account of the United Colonies. The sums mentioned in your letter are delivered to Colonel Porter; and any other sums of money that may be delivered in consequence of the resolve aforesaid, since the Colony is charged with the sums advanced it by Congress.

We find, in an account sent by the General Court to General Washington, and by him transmitted to Congress, a charge of three thousand pounds of powder delivered by Governour Trumbull on account of the Colony, more than is contained in the account you enclosed us. And as the General is now here, and informs us that he shall write General Ward directions to deliver to the Colony the whole of the powder which is due from the continent, we enclose the last-mentioned account and vouchers, to be adjusted accordingly. We shall send forward the money mentioned above, and twenty-one thousand dollars, granted by Congress for raising the two battalions lately ordered to be raised in Massachusetts-Bay; and are, sir, with great respect for yourself and the honourable Assembly, your most humble servants.

At the desire and in behalf of the Delegation of Massachusetts.

JOHN HANCOCK.

To the Hon. the President of the Council of Massachusetts-Bay.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, June 3, 1776.

SIR: I am extremely sorry it is not in my power to wait on you in person to execute the commands of Congress; but being deprived of that pleasure by a severe fit of the gout, I am under the necessity of taking this method to acquaint you that the Congress have directed me to make the thanks of that body to you, for the unremitting attention you have paid to your important trust; and, in particular, for the assistance they have derived from your military knowledge and experience, in adopting the best plans for the defence of the United Colonies.

To-morrow morning I will do myself the honour of sending you all such resolves of Congress as any ways relate to the operations of the ensuing campaign.

Having, therefore, fully accomplished the views of Congress in requesting your attendance in this city, I am commanded to inform you that they submit to your choice the time of returning to Head-Quarters, well knowing you will repair thither whenever the exigency of affairs shall render your presence there necessary.

With the most ardent wishes that you may be crowned with success equal to your merit and the righteousness of our cause, I have the honour to be, with the highest esteem and regard, sir, your most obedient, very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington, Philadelphia.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, June 3, 1776.

SIR: I have procured the petition preferred by the Independent Corps of Boston, and beg leave through you to inform Congress that the five Regiments there are entirely deficient in arms, and many other Regiments in Continental pay, and submit it to their consideration whether any part of the arms lately taken, under these circumstances, should be delivered to the gentlemen applying for them; determining, at the same time, whatever decision they come to will be agreeable to me, and will be literally complied with by, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the President of Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL PUTNAM.

Philadelphia, June 3, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I received your favour of yesterday evening's express, with its several letters and intelligence from General Schuyler, and am much concerned for the further misfortunes that have attended our arms in Canada. I have laid the whole before Congress, who had before resolved to send a considerable augmentation to our Army there. I doubt not that General Schuyler may receive assistance from the Militia most convenient to him for securing the different passes and communications till they can be reinforced. As to sending a reinforcement from New-York, neither policy nor prudence will justify it, as we have the strongest reasons to believe the day not far distant when a large armament will arrive and vigorously attempt an impression there; to oppose which, the forces we have will not be more than equal, if sufficient.

Congress have determined on building sundry gondolas and fire-rafts, to prevent the men-of-war and enemy's ships from coming into the New-York Bay or Narrows. I must therefore request that you make inquiry after carpenters, and procure all you can, with materials necessary for building them, that they may go on with all possible expedition as soon as the person arrives from hence whom I have employed to superintend the work; he will be there in a day or two.

I am, dear sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Putnam.

To the Worshipful Justices of His Majesty GEORGE the Third, of his Courts of Quarter Sessions and Common Pleas for the County of PHILADELPHIA:

The Memorial of the Committee of Inspection and Observation for the City and Liberties of PHILADELPHIA, &c., respectfully sheweth:

That the honourable the Congress, by a resolution of the 15th of May last, have declared "That it appears absolutely irreconcilable to reason and good conscience for the people of the Colonies now to take the oaths or affirmations necessary for the support of any Government under the Crown of Great Britain; and that it is necessary that the exercise of any kind of authority under the said Crown should be totally suppressed," &c. That this Committee conceive it to be their duty, as it is their inclination, to exert their utmost endeavours for carrying into execution the said resolve, as well as others of that honourable body; and therefore they thus apply to your Worships to surcease the exercise of any authority in the present Courts until a new Government is framed, and all the powers thereof exerted under the authority of the people of this Province.

The Committee need not remind your Worships of the qualifications of Grand Jurors, and how incompatible they are with the present opposition to the King of Great Britain, and the execution of the resolves as well of the Congress as of the House of Assembly of this Province, when they reflect that the disposition of many of your Worships is friendly to the cause of liberty and your country, and that a continuance in the seats you have so worthily filled is no longer conducive to the safety and happiness of the people.

It is with great concern that the Committee have beheld some persons in office in this Province so influenced by their salaries as to prefer their own immediate power and interest to that of their country and their posterity; and they are sorry to find themselves constrained to exert their most strenuous efforts for obtaining those desirable ends—personal security and the preservation of private property—which they apprehend every honest man would be anxious to see fixed on a firm and permanent basis. It is with equal concern that they have seen another set of men in this Province, heretofore notoriously opposing the elections and authority of Committees of all kinds, (bodies, it is confessed, constituted by necessity alone,) now professing a desire for the continuance of them, though evidently militating against the authority of the Crown, and the execution of some of the criminal laws, as well as tending to the discontinuance of trial by jury and the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, those bulwarks of liberty. This conduct they can only ascribe to an inclination in these men to prefer confusion to order, tyranny to liberty, and anarchy to legal government, and thereby, in time, to make the people so discontented and unhappy as to desire peace at the expense of everything valuable in this life, as was effected by similar means at the Restoration.

Upon the whole, the Committee think it their duty to themselves, their constituents, and to the Congress, to request your Worships to postpone the business of the above-mentioned Courts until a new Government shall be formed, which they apprehend will be effected so speedily that the delay will be of small if any injury to the present suitors; and in the mean time the minds of men will be quieted from the apprehension of a disaffected Grand Jury or Court attempting to censure or condemn the virtuous measures now pursuing for the happiness and safety of the good people of this Province in particular, and America in general.

Signed by order of the Committee:

THOMAS McKEAN, Chairman.

June 3, 1776.

In Committee of Privates, Philadelphia, June 3, 1776.

Moved, That an address of thanks be presented to the Officers and Men belonging to the Galleys, for their spirited behaviour in the late engagement with the Roebuck and Liverpool men-of-war, and that the same be published in the several publick papers of this city.

Extract from the Minutes:

JAMES CANNON, Clerk.

N. B. The vote was delayed for some weeks, to give the House of Assembly an opportunity of doing it first.

TO THE HONOURABLE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

The Memorial of the Committee of Privates of the Military Association belonging to the City and Liberties of PHILADELPHIA respectfully sheweth:

That your Memorialists, confiding that this House would reject no application which the most pressing necessity urged on the one hand, and the most reprehensible negligence produced on the other, applied some time since for a Continental General, and a few Continental Battalions. The defenceless state of this Province, the prospect of an attack being made on this city, and the great discouragements which our military associators have met with, and the injustice done to their patriotick exertions by men who, if they wished well to our cause, would have treated us in a very different manner,—these, with many other circumstances, pointed out the necessity of having a General of courage and experience with a few Continental Battalions, stationed here. This we requested, and had reason to expect to have our prayer attended to, as it is impossible for us, in the present unconnected state of our Battalions, ever to exert their force to the greatest advantage, and as we, in consequence thereof, run the greatest hazard of a division in the hour of action. We understand that some of our Delegates give great opposition to the measure, alleging that, were such a thing necessary, the application ought to come from our Committee of Safety. We wish not to fall a sacrifice to the ignorance or inattention of a Committee, in a number of whose members we have not the least confidence, especially since their influence, in all probability, prevented the burning of the Roebuck; and we earnestly entreat that men who endeavoured to withdraw us from the Continental Union, may not have too great weight in the councils which regard our safety. We thought our application so reasonable that there was scarcely a necessity of hinting the matter, and therefore declined troubling the Congress with unnecessary solicitations. And now that opposition is made, the opinion of his Excellency General Washington, and the other General officers at present in this city, may save us the labour of further applications. We do, therefore, pray Congress to take their sentiments on our present defensive preparations; and if, on a survey of our river and city, it appears to them that we are sufficiently secured against all attempts of the enemy, and that a number of half-disciplined Battalions, which have never seen an action, hastily called together, on an open and naked beach, without regular order, subordination, or head to direct them, and under the sense of being oppressed by the very men whose lives, liberties and estates they are called out to defend, are sufficient to the exigency of our affairs, we shall reluctantly submit, until that fatal day shall arrive in which it will appear that the present opposition to our request proceeds more from a desire to keep the way open for our enemies, than from any attachment to the cause of liberty. We rest the success both of our present and former applications on their justness and necessity, begging leave to retire, after returning our warmest thanks to this honourable House for promoting our favourite fellow-citizen General Mifflin, on whom we earnestly wish to see the chief command in this Province speedily devolve.

Signed on behalf of the Committee of Privates:

SAMUEL SIMPSON, President.

MAJOR PRESTON (PRISONER) TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Reading, June 3, 1776.

SIR: I hope you will forgive the liberty I have taken in enclosing a letter to you for Captain Crawford, Paymaster to the Twenty-Sixth Regiment. As the Congress has granted permission for an officer to visit the quarters of the men, I hope they, or the Committee of Safety, will have no objection to Captain Crawford's being the person, as it is his business to furnish both officers and men with money, and to keep all the accounts. I should be happy if Captain Crawford is permitted to make this the place of his residence, as his family can be very well accommodated here; if not, that the Congress would grant me permission to go to Philadelphia for a day or two, to settle the accounts as Paymaster, that they may be made up for the agent.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

CHARLES PRESTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

JONATHAN ELMER TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read June 5, 1776.]

Greenwich, Cumberland County, N. J., June 3, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Major Thomas Ewing, the bearer hereof, one of the Committee of Cumberland County, in New-Jersey, will inform your Honours of the particulars respecting the sloop Betsey & Ann, Benjamin Tucker master, from Bermuda, laden with salt, &c. The owner, Mr. Lightburn, informs us that his intention is to sell his salt, and take in a cargo of corn; and we not being clear that it is our duty either to let him sell or buy, he being professedly a subject to the King of Great Britain, thought it necessary to have the instructions of the honourable Congress on this matter. We hope your Honours will favour us with your advice in writing, by Mr. Ewing, so that we may know how to act, both on this and in like cases for the future.

By order of the Committee:

JONATHAN ELMER, President.

To the Honourable the Continental Congress, at Philadelphia.

In Committee at Greenwich, in Cumberland County, in New-Jersey, June 3, 1776:

Personally appeared before the Committee Mr. Joseph Lightburn, owner of the sloop Betsey & Ann, Benjamin Tucker master, from Bermuda; and on examination, says, that his sloop, now lying at Greenwich, was laden at, and cleared from, Turk's Island, with seventeen hundred bushels of salt and two puncheons of rum, (as appears per cocket;) that their design is to exchange the cargo for corn, &c. By examining the papers of the master, they nearly correspond with what Mr. Lightburn relates. He further says, on examination, that the people of Bermuda are in the greatest distress for want of provisions; that many hundreds must inevitably die by hunger if not speedily relieved; that he had heard nothing of any prohibition of trade between the United Colonies and Bermuda when he left that place.

On motion, it was Ordered, That the Secretary immediately wait on the honourable the Continental Congress, and request their advice and directions on the matter.

A true extract from the Minutes:

JONATHAN ELMER, President.

Attested: THOMAS EWING, Secretary.

WILLIAM PALFREY TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 4, 1776. Referred to Mr. J. Adams, Mr. W. Livingston, Mr. Jefferson, Mr. R. H. Lee, and Mr. Sherman.]

New-York, June 3, 1776.

SIR: I send you herewith a state of my accounts, to the 31st of May, which completes one month. You would oblige me greatly by acquainting me whether the honourable Congress have come to any determination on the subject of my application respecting the payment of the troops at Boston, as I am still at a loss how to proceed. Mr. Duane, who arrived here yesterday, acquaints me that Boston is to be considered as within my department, and that I am to employ a clerk or deputy there. He also informs me that my accounts are to be audited at Philadelphia. I shall be extremely glad to receive regular information from you, that I may proceed accordingly. My accounts are all ready, but I cannot leave my department until Mr. Winthrop arrives, or I can procure another clerk.

I have the honour to be, with the utmost respect, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM PALFREY.

To John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL PUTNAM.

Fort George, June 3, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: Your favour of the 1st instant was delivered me yesterday afternoon. The powder arrived on Wednesday, and was immediately sent on; part of the intrenching tools and cannon are also arrived and embarked. Pray let the pork be constantly forwarded to Albany, for although upwards of two thousand barrels are already sent since the 13th ultimo, exclusive of twelve days at least with which every corps was victualled here, yet as our Army are not the best economists, it will soon be expended.

The Commissary-General should not be apprehensive of laying in too great a stock at Albany. The difficulty of sending fat cattle into Canada is very considerable. Would it not be prudent to expend as little pork at New-York as possible?

I have employed persons at Albany to purchase whatever necessities for our naked Army in Canada they can procure; but after all, what they may get will be very trifling. I wish, therefore, to have all kinds of clothing sent up the soonest possible.

Colonel Bedel's and Major Butterfield's conduct is universally condemned in Canada. If common fame says true, they have certainly behaved in the basest and most cowardly manner. General Arnold is again marched to the Cedars and I trust he will give a good account of the enemy.

I am under a necessity of hastening to Albany, to take measures for securing the western frontiers of this Colony, which are threatened by the Indians, and believe I shall be obliged to order Colonel Dayton to take post at the place where Fort Stanwix was; if so, I shall want more intrenching tools, which you will therefore please to send up. But before I order Colonel Dayton to take post there, I wish, if time will permit, to hear from General Washington on the subject, and have therefore enclosed my letter to Congress, that if the General should be at New-York, he will please to consider it as directed to himself and give me his orders.

I hope soon to see an Engineer to repair Ticonderoga, if it is resolved to keep that place; but, in my opinion, a post on the ground opposite to it would more effectually secure us against the enemy, should they oblige our Army to retreat as far as that, which, however, I trust will not be the case.

We shall want an Engineer to send with Colonel Dayton, and if one can be spared, pray order him up.

I am, dear General, very sincerely, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Putnam, or Commanding Officer at New-York.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Chamblly, June 3, 1776.

MY DEAR GENERAL: I had written a letter to Congress, and expected to have the honour of writing one to you before the Commissioners departed, but as I found them going off before I could possibly finish one to you, I sealed that, and begged Mr. Chase to desire your Excellency to open and read it, which contained the purport of what I intended to write your Excellency. I have since that been to Montreal, and find almost every person agreed to depart without even seeing the enemy. General Thompson writes that about eight hundred of the enemy have arrived at Three Rivers, forty-five miles below Sorel, where he is. This he has by report only. I find that all the heavy baggage is sent away with the intrenching tools, &c.; on that account I have ordered them back, and am this moment embarking for Sorel, where I hope to arrive by daybreak, and meet them with all the force I can make. I am far from fearing eight hundred men against such a force as I can muster. I have desired all the General officers to be with me there, who seem well satisfied to go on. Want of time prevents my writing more fully on the state of affairs here at present, which I shall not forget to do as soon as possible. In the interim, I am, dear General, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

His Excellency General Washington.

AN ADDRESS TO THE INHABITANTS OF THE UNITED COLONIES.—No. 1.

MY FRIENDS AND BRETHREN: I have long been designing to take my pen in hand, and throw out some thoughts upon a variety of useful subjects, but have hitherto been prevented, from a deep conviction of my inability to do them justice. But the demands of my injured country are so pressing, and so indisputably call for the united exertions of every individual, in all ways within his reach, for its salvation, that I am necessitated to write. The patriotick fire burns within my bosom, and collects new force every day. Nor shall I fear, if it rages as I go on, of incurring the just resentment of the man or woman whose approbation I would ever court. My design is, to rouse the attention of this continent to the various parts of their political duty; to represent things in their native dress; to trace every impolitic measure, through all its necessary or usual attendants and consequences; and to hold up to universal view those arguments which, gloomy as the prospect is, may inspire our hearts with invincible fortitude, carry us through the deepest distresses with reputation and dignity, and transmit our names to future ages with all possible marks of respect.

It will be natural to suppose, after saying thus much, that a regular plan should be invariably pursued; but it will be no transgression to attend to the circumstances of our publick affairs. As they vary, so shall I. Observations and remarks drawn from present occurrences produce a more lasting effect than any other. This, daily experience confirms; and it might indeed be argued from the frame of the human mind.

The first thing to which I shall pay particular attention is the almost unaccountable mistake of the people with respect to a late resolve of the General Congress. It might be expected that all which proceeds from that body would be expressed with the utmost plainness, perspicuity, and energy. Sensible what attempts would be made to misconstrue and quarrel with their proceedings, it is evident they have taken no small pains to avoid all ambiguous expressions. Attentive, however, as they have been, the event has unfortunately, in some instances, turned according to their expectations. It must be allowed that every reason concurred to make them clear, explicit and particular.

The resolve to which I refer bears date April 30, 1776. The Committee of Inspection and Observation for the City and Liberties of Philadelphia made application to Congress for advice, "Whether they ought to continue the exercise of the power of regulating the price of goods in other instances than that of Green tea;" upon which it was resolved "that the ninth article of the Association, which enjoined the inhabitants of the United Colonies to sell goods and merchandises at the rates they had respectively been accustomed to do for twelve months then last past, was, in its nature, a temporary regulation respecting goods then on hand; but as those are nearly consumed, and a further supply must be obtained at an extraordinary risk and expense, and it is reasonable that adventurers should be encouraged by a prospect of gain adequate to the danger which may be incurred in the importation; and a free trade being now opened from the United Colonies to all parts of the world, except the dominions belonging to the King of Great Britain,—Resolved, that the power of Committees of Inspection and Observation to regulate the prices of goods (in other instances than the article of Green tea) ought to cease." This resolve, people judge wholly supersedes and destroys one passed April 13, which is thus: After having given full liberty to use the tea in the country, to prevent unreasonable advantages being taken from its scarcity, it is resolved, therefore, "that Bohea tea ought not to be sold in the smallest quantities at a higher price in any Colony than at the rate of three-fourths of a dollar per pound, and other teas at such prices as shall be regulated by the Committees of the Town or County where the tea is sold; and that all persons who shall give or take a greater price for it ought to be considered as enemies to the American cause, and treated accordingly. And it is earnestly recommended to all Committees of Inspection and Observation, as well to be vigilant in carrying this resolve into execution, as those which prohibit the importation of India tea from any part of the world; it being the desire of Congress to exclude all teas except such as may make part of the cargoes of prizes taken by the ships of war or privateers belonging to these Colonies." Here, my readers, you have the two resolves before you, under your eye at once. And I cannot forbear observing that some people, under certain circumstances, are possessed of a peculiar talent in discovering contradictions and absurdities. What could give rise to this one it is very hard to conceive. Shall we attribute it to criminal and unbecoming inattention? Can an American be inattentive and regardless of resolves passed by the most venerable body upon earth, and to which he continually looks for guidance and direction? How is it possible? Shall he ascribe it to a downright contempt of Congress? This is more criminal still, and merits more accumulated vengeance. Or can we suppose that avarice governs every soul, and gives law to the whole of our conduct? Forbid it, Heaven! that so vile, so destructive, so wicked a principle, should assume an uncontrollable sway over this continent. But to what is it owing? It has a foundation somewhere. The mistake, misconstruction, perversion—call it what you will—originated from some quarter. However, I am not so desirous to determine this as I am to show that it has in fact nothing to support it from anything which Congress has published. I shall attempt a very critical inquiry and examination; for the closer we examine it the plainer it will appear, and the more thorough the conviction it must carry to every mind.

In the first place: The regulation of Bohea tea was never put by Congress into the hands of any Committee whatever. A former resolve has prohibited the use of it except in extraordinary and singular cases. It was judged too important a matter for any body, save the supreme, to interpose, direct, and meddle further in it, than to grant licenses under Continental restrictions, and determine the nature and circumstances of any application which was made. Thus far reached the power of Committees, and no farther. Now, how improbable it is that the Committee of Philadelphia should seek advice about an article which they knew, and every man knows, was wholly out of their province to regulate? Such authority was never vested in them. They could not, therefore, mean, by asking "Whether they ought to continue the exercise of this power of regulating the price of goods in other instances than that of Green tea," to inquire whether what they had never been advised about and pressed to do, should now be exempted from the list of articles which they had before taken care of. Notwithstanding repeated application was made to Congress by private gentlemen to remove the restraints from this article, yet, till April 13, nothing transpired about it. Had Congress ordered Committees to fix the price and sell at pleasure, this resolve would have been absolutely unnecessary and ridiculous. To say the least of it, it would have been a repetition of what was already long ago determined and settled.

Further, secondly: There is a particular reference had in the resolve to the ninth article of the Association, "which enjoins the inhabitants of the United Colonies to sell goods and merchandises at the rates they have respectively been accustomed to do for twelve months then last past." That tea does not come within this restriction is clear from the third article of the said Association, in which the purchasing or using of it is expressly prohibited. Now, as there is no contradiction between the third and ninth articles—one in no sense designed to set aside the other—and as the resolve of April 30 refers immediately, particularly, and entirely to the ninth, I think it cannot militate against the resolve of April 13, nor affect it in any manner. There is no suggestion, no hint nor intimation which could lead an attentive and unprejudiced mind to conclude that Congress intended to repeal or supersede its own regulation of the price of it. Why were not both resolves referred to and mentioned as well as one? The same reasons necessarily operate in both cases, the same propriety and need of it. Doubtless a very good custom, when a former act of an Assembly or Congress is set aside, to preface it with an enumeration of the reasons, and the old act itself. But as this of the 13th of April is not named, it fairly implies that stands in full force, and the obligation, consequently, to observe it, as strong as ever it was. Perhaps futurity may know no alteration.

Further, thirdly: The reasons upon which the resolve of April 30 is built cannot possibly extend to the Bohea tea which was imported into America before it was passed. Be pleased to attend to them: "As the goods in the country are nearly consumed, and a further supply must be obtained, at an extraordinary risk and expense, and it is reasonable that adventurers should be encouraged by a prospect of gain adequate to the danger which may be incurred in the importation, and a free trade being now opened from the United Colonies to all parts of the world, except the dominions belonging to Great Britain." These are the reasons, substantial ones, too, and worthy the conceptions which have been formed of Congress. But they do not operate with respect to teas; they do not with respect to a single article imported from time back; they reach into future time, and bear a very favourable aspect upon our trade, which may hereafter be carried on. I wonder how any mortal could suppose that these reasons should influence a single member that acted upon principle, in passing the resolve of April 13, to repeal it.

Further: Every motive and argument which engaged and determined the Congress to fix the price of Bohea tea must still engage and determine them to continue the resolve. They are suggested. Aware of the corruption of human nature, and of the insufficiency of reason and Christianity to stem and control the necessary operation of narrow, selfish, and avaricious principles, they resolved to throw a little more weight into the scale of virtue and patriotism; and, if possible, make it preponderate every other consideration. Mankind are as depraved as before. America has as many base souls as ever: oh! that they were not continually increasing. Conceive of anything which could be an inducement, and it remains with its unabated, undiminished force.

Further: What could induce Congress to supersede the resolve of April 13? Did they find upon trial that the measure was impolitical, unnecessary, unjustifiable, or fatal in its consequences? Did they receive any application from any number of gentlemen from any publick body for a repeal? Did their own conscience smite them for the injury which they had done the merchants, a respectable class of people? Did they find they had brought upon themselves the mighty resentment of their constituents? Did they dread the curses of posterity for it? Could they name any inconvenience which attended it? Did they imagine, if the people suitably exerted themselves, it was impracticable in the execution? None of these things are pretended. Pray what did operate in an imperceptible and surprising manner upon the authors of that resolve? Could not they foresee its effects? These questions carry their own answers. It is plain the thought never entered their minds; the reasons which have been urged, I humbly judge, abundantly evince the point, that the resolve of April 13 has never been repealed by any subsequent one, and there never will a reason occur to justify a repeal. We might have said more, but it is an established rule in philosophy to assign no more reasons than are sufficient to account for the effect, to establish the point in view.

I must now expect to be attacked upon every side. Let my opposers remember, truth bids defiance and shines brighter, many times, by opposition. While the press is open, while life is preserved, and domestick business does not too much interrupt, I intend to expose every attempt to destroy the impregnable barrier against lawless power, which the wisdom of the continent is erecting—impregnable, if we do not throw it down by secret fraud or publick contention.

You will now ask, "Why so much bustle about Bohea tea, when the future importation of it is prohibited? Why may not the traders, undisturbed, sell it at any price?" Rather ask, my reader, why may not the traders tread upon forbidden ground, violate every resolve of Congress, and stand foremost in the list of oppressors? Let the question wear this dress, and propose it to the discussion of the universe. Let me inquire, Has not Congress fixed the price of Bohea tea? Did it not fall within their province to do it? Is it not proper to execute their resolves; to enforce them by every justifiable method in our power? Are we not bound to adhere strictly to their measures, and strengthen their authority? Can we treat their proceedings with lightness, and not be guilty? There is not one will lay his negative publicly upon these questions. What does it avail to assert, and in the next breath contradict them? You will say, "This tea is no great matter; we would in general remember and reverence Congress." Well, but why not now? What exempts you from your obligation at this time and in this particular instance? The authority, the justice, propriety and need of the regulation are indisputable. Why will you indulge yourselves to break over this bound? Why will you make any inroads? Why introduce a precedent, which, if followed throughout, will prove your ruin? Why will you open a door which can never, upon your principles, with any consistency, be shut? Will you get by this violation the plaudits of your own breasts, the thanks of the traders, the increase of your interest, or the approbation of Congress? Possibly you will enrich the coffers of the traders at the expense of your character, your patriotism and estate, and that is all; and methinks that is enough—it is more than enough for me. I solemnly protest, with the assistance of my Heavenly Father, without whom I would never form a resolution and promise, I will never drink one drop of that tea which I know costs more than the Congress allows of by one of their late resolves. And here I am struck with wonder at the strange behaviour of our honest farmers. For the most part, a man runs as great a risk in touching their purse, as he would in stretching forth a hand to take their life. The genius of the Colony, indeed, has bordered a vast deal too much for its reputation and advantage upon covetousness. But the husbandmen among us could not bear, unless necessity called loudly, to devote a farthing of their estate to any useful and important purpose. The expenses of the Continental war lie as an insupportable burden upon multitudes; and blessed, as some of them are, with a fertile imagination, they can, at one view, see their families stripped of every comfort, and their purses empty as their heads, even if immortal victory should declare for the brave Americans. The prospect of the taxes almost overwhelms the tender minds—forgive me—the narrow disposition of thousands. I would recommend it to those of my readers who find themselves subject to fainting under such overpowering views, to lay up a store of the spirit of hartshorn, some lavender, nitre, and a variety of braving, invigorating, and enlivening medicines. It is not prudent ever to journey or labour without them. Our thoughts are not always under the least control. No one can tell what may happen. Always be upon your guard. Let not a prospect strike you unprovided. To be serious, what a wonderful change in human affairs! The farmer, and thousands of others, who would not willingly bestow one penny for the support of literature or religion, can throw away eighteen pence upon every pound of tea which they buy. A dollar, now money is as plentiful as dirt, is nothing. When we might oblige the traders to sell us their tea for four shillings and six pence, and observe the resolve of Congress, or let it lie in their stores to the end of the world, we unite, as it were, to uphold them in their wickedness. I know not how we can answer it at any tribunal. I deprecate the principle from which such a conduct takes its rise. Let a collector call upon one of these gentlemen for a county, a town, or Ministerial rate, and he will pour forth complaints in abundance of the scarcity of money, the weight of ruinous taxes, the distresses of the times, and what not, and with so feeble a voice that letting of blood would, to human appearance, be the only thing which could ever recover him to health and usefulness again. Let a man call upon one of them to pay a debt of several years' standing, and he has no money to spare; his family is starving, nothing in the house to eat, drink or wear. But let any of them get a hankering after the East-India herb, and they can give six or nine or ten shillings per pound for anything which resembles it in smell or taste. I call upon you, whoever you be, high or low, rich or poor, men or women, who conduct in this manner, to reconcile yourselves with any rational principles. I do not direct you to go to Committees for relief—a miserable subterfuge, like Job's comforters. I call you to wake up, and exert every generous principle, and deliver yourselves from the chains which you are forming and putting upon your own necks. Cease to wonder at the trader; suffer him to dupe you out of your reason, your senses, and your money, and I warrant you will lose them. For Heaven's sake, for the interest of liberty and religion, for your own interest, and that of endless ages, act in every instance, in the whole of your deportment, in an irreproachable manner, and by the means within the reach of mortals, procure distinguished blessings for this land, and descend at last to your graves with the highest marks of honour and applause.

A FRIEND TO HIS COUNTRY.

Connecticut, June 3, 1776.

TOWN-MEETING, PROVIDENCE, RHODE-ISLAND.

At a Town-Meeting of the Town of Providence, held on the first Monday of June, A. D. 1776, being the third day of the month:

Mr. JOHN JENCKS, Moderator.

Voted, That the Town Council be, and they hereby are requested to revise and continue the Town Watch by night, under the same regulations as established by them on the 11th day of November last; that the Master of the Watch go through with the assessment then made by the said Town Council, in the same manner as would have been done, had the Colony done nothing respecting the Watch until that assessment shall be finished.

Whereas it does not appear necessary to employ any person for the present to watch the Battery at Fox-Point by day, and in the night it may be done by the Town's Watch:

It is, therefore, Voted, That the person who now watches the said Battery be dismissed from said employ.

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, June 3, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed are the judgment of a Court of Inquiry upon the complaint of Colonel Varnum against Lieutenant Merril, and a return of this division of the Army.

Some of the articles which General Putnam sent to me for are on the way to Norwich, and the most of them will set off to-morrow morning.

I am your Excellency's obedient, humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

To General Washington.

Proceedings of a Court of Inquiry held at BOSTON, by order of Major-General WARD, to examine a complaint exhibited by Colonel VARNUM against Lieutenant DANIEL MERRIL, of Colonel PHINNEY's Regiment, MAY 24, A. D. 1776.

Colonel Sargent, President.

Members.

Captain Pope ,	Captain Farrington ,
Captain Hill ,	Lieutenant Holmes ,
Captain Barnes ,	Lieutenant Meserve ,
Captain Low ,	Lieutenant Herrick ,
Captain Haynes ,	Lieutenant Munrow ,
Captain Vinton ,	Ensign Mills .

The Court being convened, proceeded to inquire into a complaint exhibited by Colonel Varnum against Lieutenant Merril, for inlisting Sergeant Thompson and fifteen men, who were before inlisted with Lane and the aforesaid Sergeant, by his order, (as he saith.)

After examining the Officers of the Company, as well as the Sergeant and Privates above-mentioned, and getting what light we possibly could in this matter, the Court being cleared, after the most mature consideration, are unanimous in the opinion that Lieutenant Merril is not guilty of any part of the charge alleged against him, nor in any way culpable in the matter; and that said Sergeant and men are not held (or ought not to be) by said Captain Lane, as it doth not appear that they were properly inlisted.

PAUL DUDLEY SARGENT, President.

Watertown, June 3, 1776.

The beginning of last week, a vessel arrived in this Colony, having on board ten tons of Sulphur, and the remainder of her cargo Salt. The former article will greatly help in manufacturing the amazing quantity of thirty-four thousand nine hundred and seven and one-quarter pounds weight of Saltpetre, made in this Colony, and brought to the Commissary-General's store, in this town, during the course of the week past, exclusive of what has been carried to the Powder-Mills at Haverhill, Stoughton, &c.

On Tuesday, the 21st ultimo, the Continental frigate, of thirty-two guns, built at Portsmouth, under the direction of John Langdon, Esquire, was launched, amidst the acclamations of many thousand spectators. She is esteemed by all those who are judges that have seen her, to be one of the completest ships ever built in America. The whole time of her building did not exceed sixty working days.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GENERAL HOWE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE, DATED HALIFAX, JUNE 3, 1776.

I have the honour of your Lordship's despatches of the 2d of February, enclosing his Majesty's warrant to explain and confirm, under the King's sign manual, the powers with which I am vested to post officers to vacancies, as were before expressed in your Lordship's letter of 5th January.

Permit me, my Lord, to represent, that, when his Majesty was pleased to order two additional companies to each regiment under my command, (one of them to be formed by a regular regimental promotion, and the officers to return to Britain for the purpose of recruiting the company,) I did, with a scrupulous regard to his Majesty's pleasure, make the appointments accordingly, reporting my reasons for the few deviations that occurred. Notwithstanding this, I have the mortification to find that my appointments, on their arrival, were not confirmed, and that all those Ensigns who had merited promotion by their personal good behaviour, and who have ever since been doing duty as such, remain superseded by others commissioned in Britain.

Many appointments have also been received from the War-Office, since the 5th of January, on vacancies that have happened under my command, and which, of course, have been filled up on the spot; occasioning such embarrassment and confusion in the Army, that I have been obliged to give the enclosed order, to prevent murmurs, and remove all doubts in consequence of those double promotions, until his Majesty's further pleasure is known.

I beg leave, therefore, to entreat your Lordship to lay before his Majesty the particular situation of the gentlemen aggrieved, and to present my humble request that his Majesty may be graciously pleased to confirm them in their respective ranks—permitting me to issue pay to the Ensigns appointed at home, by recommendation from the War-Office, until vacancies happen in the different regiments for their admission; in which view, I shall keep all Ensigncies open in expectation of his Majesty's further pleasure. I must also flatter myself that directions may be given to prevent the like inconveniences in future, as his Majesty's service, by their continuance, must be greatly impeded.

VOTES OF SEVERAL TOWNS IN MASSACHUSETTS RELATING TO INDEPENDENCE.

TAUNTON, BRISTOL COUNTY.

At a Town-Meeting, legally warned and held at Taunton, on Monday, the 3d day of June, 1776, on the second article mentioned in the warrant, Voted, that if the American Congress should, in their wisdom, declare independent of Great Britain, then they, (the inhabitants of this town,) with their lives and fortunes, do solemnly engage to support them in the same.

SCITUATE, PLYMOUTH COUNTY.

Instructions to NATHAN CUSHING, Esq., Representative of the Town of Scituate, June 4, 1776.

The inhabitants of this town being called together on the recommendation of our General Assembly, to signify our minds on the great point of independence on Great Britain, think fit to instruct you on that head. The Ministry of that kingdom having formed a design of subjecting the Colonies to a distant, external, and absolute power, in all cases whatsoever, wherein the Colonies have not, nor, in the nature of things, can have any share by representation, have for a course of years past exerted their utmost art and endeavour to press the same plan, so destructive to both countries, into execution; but finding it, through the noble and virtuous opposition of the sons of freedom, impracticable, by means of mere political artifice and corruption, they have at length had a fatal recourse to a standing army, so repugnant to the nature of a free Government, to fire and sword, to bloodshed and devastation, calling in the aid of foreign troops, as well as endeavouring to stir up the savages of the wilderness to exercise their barbarities upon us; being determined by all appearances, if practicable, to extirpate the Americans from the face of the earth, if possible, unless they tamely resign the rights of humanity, and to re-people this once happy country with the ready sons of vassalage, if such can be found: We, therefore, apprehending such a subjection utterly inconsistent with the just rights and blessings of society, unanimously instruct you to endeavour that our Delegates in Congress be informed, in case that Representative body of the Continent should think fit to declare the Colonies independent of Great Britain, of our readiness and determination to assist, with our lives and fortunes, in support of that (as we apprehend) necessary measure.

Touching other matters, we trust in your discretion, fidelity, and zeal, for the publick welfare, to propose and forward all such measures as you shall apprehend may tend to our necessary defence in the present threatening aspect of affairs, or to promoting the internal peace, order, and good Government of this Colony.

WRENTHAM, NORFOLK COUNTY.

June 5, 1776.

At a general Town-Meeting of the Freeholders, and other inhabitants of this Town, being warned, qualified, and assembled as the law directs, at the publick Meeting-House in the First Precinct in this Town:

To Messrs. BENJAMIN GUILD, JOSEPH HAWS, and Doctor EBENEZER DAGGETT, chosen to represent this Town the ensuing year:

GENTLEMEN: We, your constituents, in full town-meeting, June 5th, 1776, give you the following Instructions, viz:

Whereas tyranny and oppression, a little more than a century and a half ago, obliged our forefathers to quit their peaceful habitations and seek an asylum in this distant land, amidst a howling wilderness, surrounded with savage enemies, and destitute of almost every convenience of life, was their unhappy situation. But such was their zeal for the common rights of mankind, that they, under the smiles of Divine Providence, surmounted every difficulty, and in a little time were in the exercise of civil Government under the charter of the Crown of Great Britain. But after some years had passed, and the Colonies had become of some importance, new troubles began to arise: the same spirit which caused them to leave their native land still pursued them, joined by designing men among themselves. Letters began to be written against the Government, and the first Charter soon after destroyed. In this situation, some years passed before another Charter could be obtained; and although many of the rights and privileges of the first Charter were abridged by the last, yet in that situation the Government has been tolerably quiet until the year 1763, since which the same spirit of oppression has risen up. Letters by divers ill-minded persons have been written against the Government, in consequence of which divers acts of the British Parliament have been made, mutilating and destroying the Charter, and wholly subversive of the Constitution. Fleets and armies have been sent to enforce them, and at length a civil war has commenced, and the sword is drawn in our land, and the whole United Colonies involved in one common cause. The repeated and humble petitions of the people have been wantonly rejected with disdain. The Prince we once adored has commissioned the instruments of his hostile oppressions to lay waste our dwellings with fire and sword, to rob us of our property, and wantonly to stain the land with the blood of its innocent inhabitants. He has entered into treaties with the most cruel nations, to hire an army of mercenaries to subjugate the Colonies to his cruel and arbitrary purposes. In short, all hopes of an accommodation are entirely at an end. A reconciliation has become as dangerous as it is absurd. A recollection of past injuries will naturally kindle and keep alive the flames of jealousy. We, your constituents, therefore, think that to be subject to or dependant on the Crown of Great Britain would not only be impracticable, but unsafe and dangerous to the State. The inhabitants of this town, therefore, in full town-meeting, unanimously instruct and direct you to give your vote, if the honourable American Congress (in whom we place the highest confidence under God) should think necessary for the safety of the United Colonies to declare them independent on Great Britain, that we, your constituents, with our lives and fortunes, will most cheerfully support them in the measure.

Touching the internal policy of this Colony, it has been found, by long experience, a great charge to a great number of the towns in the Colony that they have to go to but one town in each County for the Probate of Wills and the Register of Deeds. We, your constituents, are of opinion, that each office would be more to the advantage of the people, were they kept in each town, under suitable directions. Therefore, we, your constituents, instruct you to use your influence in the General Court to obtain an act enabling the several towns in this Colony to keep each of said offices within the limits of the same.

Gentlemen, not doubting your zeal and abilities in the common cause, and your firm attachment to peace and good order, and in the same confidence in your sincere attachment to the publick weal, we readily submit all other matters of publick moment that may require your consideration to your own wisdom and discretion.

HANOVER, PLYMOUTH COUNTY.

PLYMOUTH, ss:

At a legal Town-Meeting held at Hanover, on the 6th day of June, 1776, agreeable to a resolve of the honourable House of Representatives of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, relative to advising the person or persons who should represent them in the General Court, whether, that if the Honourable Congress should, for the safety of the Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, they, the inhabitants, would solemnly engage, with their lives and fortunes, to support them in the measure:

Voted, unanimously, To instruct and inform their Representatives, that if the honourable Congress should, for the safety of said Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, that they, the inhabitants, will engage with their lives and fortunes to support them in the measure.

TYRINGHAM, BERKSHIRE COUNTY.

Pursuant of a resolve of the House of Representatives of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, passed June 7th, 1776, the Freeholders and inhabitants of the Town of Tyringham, being duly notified, assembled on Wednesday, the 26th day of said June, and after deliberately considering the state of the Colonies with regard to their being any longer subject to the Kingdom of Great Britain,

Voted, unanimously, That if the honourable Continental Congress should think fit to declare the Colonies independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, that they, the inhabitants of Tyringham, were ready, with their lives and fortunes, to support the measure.

ALFORD, BERKSHIRE COUNTY.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of the Town of Alford, legally assembled at the house of Ensign Simcon Harbut, in said town, on Friday, the 7th day of June, A. D. 1776, at four of the clock in the afternoon on said day, to consider and act on the subject of independence, as the town should think fit, in pursuance of advice from the Great and General Court of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay:

The two following Resolves being laid before the town, in a full meeting, and being separately put, they each of them passed unanimously:

Resolved, (as the opinion of the Town,) That by a number of Acts and Laws made and passed by both Houses of the British Parliament in the reign of George III, and the hostilities commenced in support of said Acts and Laws, the union and connection between Great Britain and the United Colonies of North America are, on the part of Britain, cut in sunder, and that the United Colonies ought to take forfeiture.

Passed in the affirmative, nem. con.

Therefore, Resolved, That should the honourable the Continental Congress declare the United Colonies of North America independent in all respects of the Kingdom of Great Britain, this Town will support the measure with their lives and fortunes.

Passed in the affirmative, nem. con.

NORWICH, HAMPSHIRE COUNTY.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of the Town of Norwich, legally assembled, on the 7th of June, 1776:

Voted, (on the article in the warrant respecting independence from Great Britain,) in case the honourable Continental Congress and the body of the United Colonies think best to declare independence from Great Britain, the Town of Norwich votes to join to support and defend the same.

PALMER, HAMPSHIRE COUNTY.

At a very full meeting of the inhabitants of Palmer, legally met at the publick Meeting-House, on Monday, the 17th day of June, 1776, at one o'clock in the afternoon. The meeting being opened, Mr. Robert Farrell was chosen Moderator, and then proceeded and voted the following Instructions to the Representative of this Town now at the General Assembly of this Colony, as the sentiments of this Town:

That whereas the Court of Great Britain hath, by sundry Acts of Parliament, assumed the power of legislation for the Colonies in all cases whatsoever, without the consent of the inhabitants; have likewise exercised the assumed power for raising a revenue in the Colonies without their consent: We cannot justly call that our own which others may, when they please, take from us against our will. Have likewise appointed a new set of officers to superintend these revenues, wholly unknown in the Charter, and by their Commissioners invested with powers altogether unconstitutional and destructive to the security which we have a right to enjoy. Fleets and Armies have been introduced to support these unconstitutional officers in collecting these unconstitutional revenues; have altered the Charter of this Colony, and thereby overthrown the Constitution; together with many other grievous acts of Parliament, too grievous to be borne. The peaceable inhabitants being alarmed at such repeated inroads on the Constitution, and gigantick strides of despotick power over the Colonies, the Colonies petitioned the King for redress of grievances; finding that to fail, petitioned generally, begging as children to a father to be heard and relieved; but all to no purpose, the petitions being treated with almost contempt. The United Colonies, finding that no redress could be had from Great Britain, unitedly agreed to an opposition in the most peaceable way they could contrive, being willing to try every peaceable measure that could possibly be invented, rather than break with Great Britain. Great Britain, being bent on her favourite scheme of enslaving the Colonies, declared them Rebels, and treated them as such. The Colonies, being driven to a state of despair of the least relief from them, were obliged, by the law of self-preservation, to take up arms in their own defence, meaning to use them only as such; but the dispute has arisen to so great a height that it is impossible for the Colonies ever to be joined with Great Britain again with the least security and safety to themselves or posterity. We, the inhabitants of this town, do believe it absolutely necessary for the safety of the United Colonies to be independent from Great Britain, and declare themselves entirely a separate State, as we can see no alternative but inevitable ruin or independence. But as there is a General Congress of wise and good men, who sit at the helm of affairs, consulting measures which will be most for the safety and prosperity of the whole, and have the means of intelligence and information in their hands, submit the whole affair to their wise consideration and determination; and if they shall unite in a separation from Great Britain, we do unanimously determine and declare we will support them with our lives and fortunes. We do direct the Representative of this Town to lay these votes before the honourable General Assembly of this Colony, to enable them to communicate our sentiments to the honourable Continental Congress.

ACTON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of the Town of Acton, legally assembled, on the 14th day of June, 1776, the following Instructions were given to the Representative of this Town:

To Mr. MARK WHITE.

SIR: Our not being favoured with the resolution of the late honourable House of Representatives, calling upon the several towns in this Colony to express their minds with respect to the important question of American Independence, is the occasion of our not expressing our minds sooner; but we cheerfully embrace this opportunity to instruct you on that important question. The subverting our Constitution, the many injuries and unheard-of barbarities which these Colonies have received from Great Britain, confirm us in the opinion that the present age will be deficient in their duty to God, to their posterity, and themselves, if they do not establish an American Republick. This is the only form of Government we wish to see established. But we mean not to dictate. We freely submit this interesting affair to the wisdom of the honourable Continental Congress, who we trust are guided and directed in these important affairs by the Supreme Governour of the world; and we entreat you, sir, to give them the strongest assurances that, if they should declare America to be a free and independent Republick, your constituents will defend the measure with their lives and fortunes.

We further entreat you that you do nothing to subvert the laws concerning the settling and maintaining Gospel ministers; but, on the contrary, that you do all you can to uphold them in their full power.

BEDFORD, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

At a general Town-Meeting, legally assembled, on the 17th day of June, A. D. 1776, the following article was considered, and acted upon, viz:

A resolve of the late House of Representatives, passed May 10, 1776, that the inhabitants of each town in the Colony ought, in full meeting, warned for that purpose, to advise the person who should be selected to represent them in the next General Court, whether, should the honourable Congress, for the safety of the said Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, then vote that we, the inhabitants of the Town of Bedford, will solemnly engage, with our lives and fortunes, to support them in the measure.

MURRAYFIELD, HAMPSHIRE COUNTY.

June 17, 1776.

At a legal meeting of the inhabitants of the Town of Murrayfield, regularly assembled, on the third article in the warrant with regard to Independency from Great Britain:

Voted, (in a nearly full meeting,) That, under the present circumstances of the Thirteen United Colonies, and the treatment of Great Britain towards America, we view it necessary, and are willing, to a man, to be declared an independent State, whenever the honourable Continental Congress shall judge best.

LEVERETT, HAMPSHIRE COUNTY.

Leverett, June 18, 1776.

Agreeable to a resolve of the late House of Representatives, passed May 10, 1776, this Town met, on due warning, for that purpose; and, taking into consideration the important resolve, viz: Whether, should the honourable Congress, for the safety of the said Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, they (the said inhabitants) will solemnly engage with their lives and fortunes to support them in the measure?—being put to vote, unanimously voted in the affirmative.

GAGEBOROUGH, BRISTOL COUNTY.

June 19, 1776.

At a meeting of the inhabitants of the Town of Gageborough, agreeable to a resolve of the House of Representatives, of June 7, 1776, requesting the several Towns in this Colony to show their sentiments respecting the Independence of the Colonies:

Mr. STEPHEN WARREN, Moderator.

Resolved, nem. con., That, if the honourable Congress, agreeable to the earnest desire of this Town, for the safety of the Colonies, shall declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, they (the inhabitants) will cheerfully, to the utmost of their power, support them in the measure.

NATICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

At a meeting of the Town of Natick, June 20, 1776, legally warned, in consequence of a resolve of the late House of Representatives being laid before the Town, setting forth their sense of the obligations that lie upon every town in this Colony solemnly to engage to support with their lives and fortunes the honourable Continental Congress, should said Congress, for the safety of the Colonies, come into the measure of declaring themselves independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, it was unanimously

Voted, That, in consideration of the many acts of the British Parliament, passed at divers sessions of the same, within about thirteen years past, relating to said Colonies, especially those within the two or three last years, by which every idea of moderation, justice, humanity, and Christianity are entirely laid aside, and those principles and measures adopted and pursued which would disgrace the most unenlightened and uncivilized tribe of aboriginal natives in the most interior parts of this extensive continent; and, also, in consequence of the glaring impropriety, incapacity, and fatal tendency, of any State whatever, at the distance of three thousand miles, to legislate for these Colonies, which at the same time are so numerous, so knowing, and capable of legislating; or to have a negative upon those laws which they, in their respective Assemblies, and by their united representation in General Congress, shall, from time to time, want and establish for themselves; and upon divers other considerations, which, for brevity's sake, we omit to mention,—we, the inhabitants of Natick, in town-meeting assembled, do hereby declare, agreeable to the tenor of the aforementioned resolve, that, should the honourable Continental Congress declare these American Colonies independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, we will, with our lives and fortunes, join with the other inhabitants of this Colony, and with those of the other Colonies, in supporting them in such measure, which we look upon to be both important and necessary, and which, if we may be permitted to suggest our opinion, the sooner it is come into the fewer difficulties we shall have to contend with, and the grand objects of peace, liberty, and safety, will be more likely speedily to be restored and established in our once happy land.

TOPSFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY.

At a legal Town-meeting held in Topsfield, by adjournment, June 21, 1776, the Town voted the following Instructions:

To Mr. JOHN GOULD, Representative of Topsfield.

SIR: A resolution of the honourable House of Representatives, calling upon the several towns in this Colony to express their minds with respect to American independence of the Kingdom of Great Britain, is the occasion of our giving you instructions; this being the greatest and most important question that ever came before this town. A few years ago, sir, such a question would have put us into a surprise, and, we apprehend, would have been treated with the utmost contempt. We then looked on ourselves happy in being subjects of the King of Great Britain. It being our forefathers' native country, we looked up unto them as our parent State; and we have always looked upon it as our duty, as well as our interest, to defend and support the honour of the Crown of Great Britain, and we have always freely done it, both with our lives and fortunes—counting ourselves happy when in the strictest union and connection with our parent State. But the scene is now changed; our sentiments are now altered. She who was called our mother country and parent State, has now, without any just cause, or injury done by these Colonies, become their greatest enemy. The unprovoked injuries these Colonies have received; the unjustifiable and unconstitutional claims that have been made on the Colonies by the Court of Great Britain, to force us, and take away our substance from us, and that at any time, or for any use, that they please, without our consent, and the prosecuting these their claims, have been cruel and unjust to the highest degree.

The whole conduct of the Court of Great Britain, and the fallacious conduct of their Governours appointed and sent into these Colonies, are so well known, and have been, by much abler hands, set forth in such a clear, plain, and true light, we think it needless to enumerate any further particulars. For these reasons, sir, as well as many others that may be mentioned, we are confirmed in the opinion that the United Colonies will be greatly wanting in their duty, both to the great Governour of the Universe, to themselves, and posterity, if independence of the Kingdom of Great Britain is not declared, as soon as may be; these being our sentiments—but we would not be understood that we mean to dictate. Leaving that momentous affair to the well-known wisdom, prudence, justice, and integrity, of that honourable body the Continental Congress, under whose direction it more immediately belongs, and in respect to a form of government for the future, we take it that belongs to an after question; and we could wish that no Court nor Congress on this continent might spend their time in debating about forms and ceremonies, equal or unequal representation in Court, at present. As innovations are always dangerous, we heartily wish that the ancient rules in the Charter, which this Province has been so much contending for, might be strictly adhered to, until such time as the whole of the people of this Colony have liberty to express their sentiments in respect to that affair as fully as they have in the case of independence; for we are full in the opinion that the sentiments of the people in general are never fully collected by the vote or opinion of a few persons met together, appointed, when they descend into matters of great importance that are wholly new, especially when the whole of the people are concerned therein.

Having thus freely spoken our sentiments in respect to independence, &c., we now instruct you, sir, to give the honourable the Continental Congress the strongest assurance that if, for the safety of the United Colonies, they shall declare America to be independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, your constituents will support and defend the measure with their lives and fortunes, to the utmost of their power.

SOUTHAMPTON, HAMPSHIRE COUNTY.

At a full meeting of the inhabitants of Southampton, met at their Meeting-House, on Friday, June 21, 1776, respecting being independent of Great Britain, it was as follows unanimously

Voted, That if the honourable Congress should, for the safety of the said Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, we (the inhabitants) will engage with our lives and fortunes to support them in the measure.

NORTHBRIDGE, WORCESTER COUNTY.

At a legal meeting of the inhabitants of Northbridge, held

June 25, 1776, it was unanimously voted to support the Continental Congress with their lives and fortunes, if they should declare the United Colonies independent of Great Britain.

WILLIAMSTOWN, BERKSHIRE COUNTY.

June 24, 1776.

At a legal Town-meeting of this town, held on this day, for the following purposes, the following motion was made and put to vote, viz: Whether, should the honourable Congress, for the safety of the Colonies, declare them independent of Great Britain, the inhabitants of this town will solemnly engage with their lives and fortunes to support them in the measure?

Passed in the affirmative, nem. con.

BARNSTABLE, BARNSTABLE COUNTY.

At a Town-meeting held at Barnstable, June 25, 1776:

The question being put, agreeable to the Resolve of the General Court, Whether, if the Continental Congress should judge expedient to declare the United Colonies independent, they, the inhabitants of the Town of Barnstable would support the measure at the hazard of life and estate? It passed in the negative.

Upon which a number of respectable inhabitants, whose names are underwritten, judging such a procedure would have a tendency to disunite the Colonies, and to injure the cause of their country, did at said meeting publicly protest against it, hoping thereby to avoid the imputation of acquiescence in so dishonourable a measure.

JOSEPH OTIS,	FREEMAN PARKER,
THOMAS ANNABLE,	B. BAKER,
BENJAMIN SMITH,	NATHAN BASSETT,
ZACCHEUS HOWLAND,	DAVID SMITH,
EBENEZER LOTHROP,	JOB HOWLAND,
JOSEPH JENKINS,	JAMES DAVIS,
JOSEPH SMITH,	NATHANIEL HOWLAND.
JOHN CROCKER, JR.,

Barnstable, June 26, 1776.

We, the subscribers, inhabitants of the Town of Barnstable, protest against the proceedings of said town, at their meeting held on Tuesday, 25th of June instant, respecting the giving their Representative instructions with regard to the independency of the Colonies, as it was recommended to the several towns in this Colony, by way of resolve, from the honourable House of Representatives; and as a vote was put in said meeting to know whether the town would proceed to give any instructions to their Representatives, agreeable to the aforesaid recommendation; which was carried in the negative.

And judging it to be our duty to protest against said vote, we do it for the following reason: We think such a measure as proposed in said resolve to be the most salutary that can be gone into for the safety and well-being of the Colonies, under our present oppressed situation. And as it is the duty of every individual to give his voice in favour of the aforesaid recommendation, in case the honourable Continental Congress see cause to declare these Colonies entirely independent, we are ready and willing to stand by such a declaration (if it should take place) to the utmost of our power, with our lives and estates; and being very unwilling that the aforesaid vote should be passed over in silence, for fear of offending our own consciences, in being thought to acquiesce in so strange a vote of the town, and of offending our countrymen and brethren in other towns who may go into contrary measures, entirely abhorring any principles but what are for the good of the United Colonies of America, and detesting those arguments brought by some men in said meeting to dissuade the people from complying with said recommendation, we take this method of letting the publick know our dissent from the aforesaid proceedings of the town, having no other way to make our sentiments known. We request that this Protest may be entered in the Town-book, to let posterity know that there were a few in this town who dared to stand forth in favour of an injured and oppressed country, treated with every species of wickedness used by tyranny to enslave mankind; and it is a matter of great grief to us that the cause of liberty is treated with such indignity by some of the inhabitants of the Town of Barnstable.

JOSEPH OTIS,	NATHANIEL HOWLAND,
THOMAS ANNABLE,	EBENEZER LOTHROP,
BENJAMIN SMITH,	BINNEY BAKER,
ZACCHEUS HOWLAND,	JONATHAN HALLET,
JOSEPH JENKINS,	CORNELIUS LOVELL,
JOSEPH SMITH,	SETH LOTHROP,
FREEMAN PARKER,	BENONI CROCKER,
JOHN CROCKER, JR.,	JOHN BLISH,
NATHAN BASSETT,	EDMUND HAWES,
DAVID SMITH,	JOHN RUSSEL,
JOB HOWLAND,	CHARLES CONANT.
JAMES DAVIS,

STURBRIDGE, WORCESTER COUNTY.

At a Town-meeting in Sturbridge, June 27, 1776, being duly warned for the purpose aftermentioned, after some debate on the matter respecting independence, it was put to vote, Whether, should the honourable Congress, for the safety of these Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, they, the said inhabitants of Sturbridge, will solemnly engage, with their lives and fortunes, to support them in the measure?

Passed in the affirmative unanimously.

FITCHBURGH, WORCESTER COUNTY.

July 1, 1776.

Voted, That if the honourable Continental Congress should, for the safety of these United Colonies, declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, that we, the inhabitants of said town, will, so far as we are able, support them in the measure with our lives and fortunes.

ASHBY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

July 1, 1776.

Agreeable to a Resolve of the late honourable House of Representatives, passed on the 10th of May last, the inhabitants of this town being assembled for that purpose, on the 1st day of July instant, and unanimously voted as follows, viz: That should the honourable Congress, for the safety of the Colonies, declare them independent of Great Britain, the inhabitants of Ashby will solemnly engage with their lives and fortunes to support them in the measure.

GREENWICH, HAMPSHIRE COUNTY.

At a legal Town-meeting, held at the Publick House, Greenwich, on Monday, the 1st day of July, 1776, at three of the clock in the afternoon, first voted and chose Mr. Nehemiah Stebbins Moderator.

2d. Voted for independence on Great Britain if the honourable American Congress thinks fit, and most for the interest and safety of the Colonies; it being a unanimous vote, not one dissenting.

WINCHENDON, WORCESTER COUNTY.

At a general Town-meeting of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of Winchendon, qualified to vote in the choice of a Representative, on the 4th day of July, 1776; whereas this Town has been called upon by the honourable House of Representatives of this Colony to signify their minds in regard to American Independence, being fully sensible of the cruel and oppressive measures which are pursued by the King and Parliament of Great Britain in order to enslave these Colonies, and consequently the difficulty that will attend our being ever again united with Great Britain;

Therefore, unanimously Resolved, That if the honourable Continental Congress should think best, for the safety of the Colonies, to declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, that we will, with our lives and fortunes, support them in the measure.

EASTHAM, BARNSTABLE COUNTY.

Voted to instruct our Representative to use his influence that the Continental Congress do declare the United Colonies independent of Great Britain, if they think proper and to the advantage of the Colonies; that we will support the cause with our lives and fortunes.

GENERAL HOWE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE.

Halifax, June 4, 1776.

MY LORD: The mercantile goods at Boston, having attracted your Lordship's regard as well as that of Lord Dartmouth, I took such measures as were most advisable to answer the purposes required, which will appear from the enclosed detail of what has been done; and although the design has been mostly frustrated by the loss of the principal ship, yet to set this matter in a clear light, and to lodge, as it were, a record of the transaction, I beg leave to trouble your Lordship with the particulars relative to it; the main object being to deprive the Rebels of what they stood most in need; the goods in possession will remain in store at Halifax.

It is found that the regiment projected by Governor Legge, to be raised within the Province of Nova-Scotia, cannot be completed; and to relieve Government from unnecessary expense, I have taken the liberty to put this corps into a different form after the 24th instant, leaving an opening for all concerned to entitle themselves to their present appointments by success in recruiting.

This regulation is enclosed for your Lordship's approbation; and I am, &c.,

WILLIAM HOWE.

To Lord George Germaine.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COMMITTEE OF OBSERVATION FOR CALVERT COUNTY.

[No. 13.]

Annapolis, June 4, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Captain Beall has complained that he hath not sufficient houseroom for the half company stationed at Drum Point, and has requested something may be done. We therefore desire you would make inquiry into the affair, and if there are not houses sufficient, we would have you cause barracks to be erected, so that the men may be lodged without inconvenience to their Captain and themselves.

We are, &amp;c.

To the Committee of Observation for Calvert County.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO THE CONVENTION OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Philadelphia, June 4, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Our affairs are hastening fast to a crisis; and the approaching campaign will, in all probability, determine forever the fate of America.

Such is the unrelenting spirit which possesses the tyrant of Britain and his Parliament, that they have left no measure untried that had a tendency to accomplish our destruction. Not satisfied with having lined our coasts with ships of war, to starve us into a surrender of our liberties, and to prevent us from being supplied with arms and ammunition, they are now about to pour in a number of foreign troops, who, from their want of connections and those feelings of sympathy which frequently bind together the different parts of the same empire, will be more likely to do the business of their masters without remorse or compunction.

By the best intelligence from Canada, it appears that our affairs in that quarter wear a melancholy aspect. Should the Canadians and Indians take up arms against us, (which there is too much reason to fear,) we shall then have the whole force of that country to contend with, joined to that of Great Britain, and all her foreign auxiliaries. In this situation, what steps must we pursue? Our Continental troops alone are unable to stem the torrent; nor is it possible at this day to raise and discipline men ready to take the field by the time they will be wanted.

From the secrecy with which the Ministry carry on their machinations, we neither know their views, or how near our enemies may be. Perhaps at this moment they are landing on some part of our country. In this difficult and trying situation of our affairs, the Congress have come to the enclosed resolves, which I have it in command to transmit you by express, containing matters of the greatest importance, and to which I beg leave to request your attention. You will there find the Congress have judged it necessary to call upon the Militia at this alarming crisis.

Should the United Colonies be able to keep their ground this campaign, I am under no apprehensions on account of any future one. We have many disadvantages at present to struggle with, which time and progress in the art of war will remove. But this circumstance should rouse us to superior exertions on the occasion. The Militia of the United Colonies are a body of troops that may be depended upon. To their virtue, their Delegates in Congress now make the most solemn appeal. They are called upon to say whether they will live slaves, or die freemen. They are requested to step forth in defence of their wives, their children, their liberty, and everything they hold dear. The cause is certainly a most glorious one, and I trust every man in the Colony of New-Hampshire is determined to see it gloriously ended, or perish in the ruins of it. In short, on your exertions at this critical period, together with those of the other Colonies in the common cause, the salvation of America now evidently depends.

Your Colony, I am persuaded, will not be behindhand. Exert, therefore, every nerve to distinguish yourselves. Quicken your preparations, and stimulate the good people of your Government, and there is no danger, notwithstanding the mighty armament with which we are threatened, but you will be able to lead them to victory, to liberty, and to happiness.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To the Honourable Convention of New-Hampshire.

[The same to the Honourable Assembly of Massachusetts-Bay, to the Honourable Governor Trumbull, to the Honourable Convention of New-York, to the Honourable Convention of New-Jersey, to the Honourable Assembly of the Government of New-Castle, Kent, and Sussex, on Delaware, and to the Honourable Convention of Maryland.]

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO PENNSYLVANIA ASSEMBLY.

Philadelphia, June 4, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: By the resolves sent herewith, which I do myself the honour of enclosing, in obedience to the commands of Congress, you will perceive they have judged it necessary to call upon the Militia at this alarming crisis.

We have too much reason to believe the whole force of Great Britain, aided by foreign auxiliaries, will be exerted against us the ensuing campaign. In this case the Continental troops dispersed through such a number of Colonies will be totally inadequate to our defence; nor is it possible at this day to raise and discipline troops ready to take the field by the time they will be wanted.

Our country, however, is not destitute of resources. The Militia of the United Colonies are a body of troops that may be depended upon. To their virtue, their Delegates in Congress now make the most solemn appeal. They are called upon to say whether they will live slaves, or die freemen. They are requested to step forth in defence of their wives, their children, their liberty, and everything they hold dear. The cause is certainly a most glorious one, and I hope every man in the Colony of Pennsylvania is determined to see it gloriously ended, or to perish in the ruins of it. In short, on your exertions at this critical period, together with those of the other Colonies, the salvation of America now evidently depends. I shall only add, that from your zeal and ardour in the American cause, I have the greatest reason to hope you will pay that immediate attention to the enclosed resolves, which your own situation in particular and the publick good so evidently require.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To the Honourable Assembly of Pennsylvania.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE DELEGATES IN CONGRESS TO MESHECH WEARE.

Philadelphia, June 4, 1776.

SIR: We wrote you the 28th ultimo, since which Congress have resolved to send a further reinforcement into Canada. Seven hundred and fifty men, including officers, will be required of our Colony to serve as Militia until the 1st of December, the officers to be commissioned by the Colony. It is absolutely necessary our posts should be supported in that country, for should the enemy get possession, we should certainly have a long and troublesome war on our hands; but if we are successful, which by proper exertions and Divine assistance there is no doubt of, this campaign will place us out of the reach of their malice. You will receive the resolution respecting this reinforcement from the President. The money mentioned in our last is not yet gone forward, not having had an opportunity, but to leave in a few days.

We are, with great respect, your most obedient servants,
WILLIAM WHIPPLE.
JOSIAH BARTLETT.

To Meshech Weare, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL MACINTOSH.

Philadelphia, June 4, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour of 16th February by yesterday's post, with its enclosure, for which, and the information respecting the state of your Province, I return you my thanks. I am exceedingly sorry for the difficulties you have had to encounter, and that they are not yet all at an end; but I am hopeful by your perseverance and activity they will be surmounted, and that things will assume a more pleasing appearance.

Being far removed from the department you are in, it will be impossible for me to know or transmit the orders necessary for regulating your battalion; I must therefore refer you to Major-General Lee, who has been appointed to command in the Southern District, and to Brigadier-General Armstrong, in South-Carolina, who are more immediately over you. They will give you from time to time such instructions as appear to them proper and likely to advance the publick good, which you must make the rule of your conduct. You will be particular and punctual in making your returns to these gentlemen, who will forward them to me. And trusting that everything in your power will be done to promote the common cause and interest of the United Colonies, I am, sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Colonel Lachlan MacIntosh, Savannah, Georgia.

COLONEL TUPPER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Sloop Hester, June 4, 1776.

SIR: There were two ships arrived within the Hook yesterday. There is now at the Hook eight sail of square-rigged vessels, and five small craft, besides the Asia and her small tender. It is thought (but we cannot certainly determine) that three of the vessels which lately arrived are the Roebuck, the Mercury, and the Liverpool. Yesterday morning three men made their escape from the piratical fleet, by the way of the Hook to Middletown. Immediately upon hearing of it yesterday, I sent an express for the men, that I might send them to Head-Quarters, to be examined; but the people had stupidly let them pass toward Philadelphia, without asking them scarcely a question. However, thus much the officer which I sent picked up, that provision was very short on board the fleet, and that they were reduced to half allowance. May God increase their wants. Nothing extraordinary has happened, or has been discovered.

I am your Excellency's most obedient, and most humble servant,

BENJAMIN TUPPER, Lieutenant-Colonel.

To His Excellency General Washington.

COLONEL TUPPER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Sloop Hester, June 4, 1776—6 o'clock P. M.

SIR: The enclosed is the original, which I have just received, and thought proper to send it by express, by land. It is most likely that the Indian ship and sloop mentioned will sail out under convoy of said Mercury. I shall send to the armed vessels on the south side of Long-Island to look out and do the best they can. However, if it should please your Excellency to send an express to Admiral Hopkins, and he should think proper to waylay them off Nantucket-Shoals, I trust he might meet with success.

Three men more last night deserted from the Lively man-of-war, which is directly from Halifax, but the stupid souls at Middletown have not yet sent them up.

N. B. It is not likely said vessels will sail quite so soon as the deserters informed. I shall keep a good look-out; while I have the honour to be your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

BENJAMIN TUPPER,

Col. of 21st Reg't, and Commander at Amboy.

To His Excellency General Washington.

A. B. LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Calenda, Long-Island, June 4, 1776.

SIR: I have just discovered a criminal correspondence with a person on board the Dutchess-of-Gordon. One Mrs. Hatch, formerly the Governour's housekeeper, is a person who has a principal agency in this affair. She resides in New-York. It is thought necessary that she should be secured until morning, when I will go to New-York, and relate the whole affair. One Mrs. Hill, whose husband is on board the Dutchess, resides near me, and is also a principal in this villany. General Greene will immediately take the necessary measures respecting the latter.

I send this in a great hurry, to prevent the parties giving each other intelligence. I am yours, affectionately,

A. B. LIVINGSTON.

To Colonel McDougall.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES OF BROOKHAVEN, ETC., SUFFOLK COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Joint Committee of Brookhaven, Manor of St. George's, and Patentship of Meriches, assembled in a full meeting, on the 4th of June, A. D. 1776:

Captain Jonathan Baker and Stephen Fountain being brought before the Committee, and a great number of evidences being sworn and examined and cross-examined; and at the close of a fair trial, they stand charged by the state of the evidence against them of being enemies to their country, and, as such, had taken up arms and held correspondence with our enemies on board the Ministerial ships of war, and had very much promoted discord among the inhabitants, and had seduced many to forsake the cause of their country; and had been, with many others, on board of the vessel of Nathan Gyer, which they had procured for the purpose of going on board the Ministerial ships of war, from on board which vessel, while on their passage, they had fled on shore, while she was pursued; and that they were taken while they were privately lurking in secret places on shore, after said vessel, with their guns, &c., on board, had been taken by Continental troops in the South Bay, off against Hempstead, and since condemned as a prize.

The foregoing is extracted from the Minutes by me,

EBENEZER DAYTON, Clerk of said Committee.

To the Committee of New-Haven, for their information.

SUFFOLK County and Province of NEW-YORK, to WILLIAM CLARK, Lieutenant of the Minute Company in BROOKHAVEN:

You are hereby required, by the Joint Committee of Brookhaven, Manor of St. George's and the Patentship of Meriches, to take with you what assistance you see proper, and safely convey the bodies of Jonathan Baker and Stephen Fountain, and them deliver into the care of the Committee of New-Haven, as persons that have acted inimical to the liberties of America in a most glaring manner, and ought to be taken strict care of; but in case they should not be received by the Committee in New-Haven, then you are in such case to deliver the above persons to the Provincial Congress or Committee of Safety in New-York.

Signed by order of Committee:

JOSIAH SMITH, P. T.

Brookhaven, June 4, 1776.

INDIAN CHIEFS TO HENRY WISNER.

Onenhoghkwage, June 4, 1776.

BROTHER: We received your letter with joy, wherein you manifest your great satisfaction with our disposition to lie still and bear no part in your disputes. This is our determination. We are concerned for your welfare, and lament your distressed circumstances.

We return you thanks that, in the midst of your troubles, you remember us still, and are devising means to supply our wants, both of powder and goods. We thank you for the sample of powder you sent us. We judge the powder is good. You inform us that you have erected powder works, and that you hope shortly to be able to supply us. We wish you success, and bid you welcome to trade with us, both in powder and goods. We hope you will bring us powder, lead, and flints, as soon as you can; for if we don't find these we shall not have any skins to buy goods with in the fall.

We use freedom, Brother, to open our minds to you, as you are one of the members of the Congress at York. We have been told by our brothers this long time that we should soon have powder plenty, for they are making it everywhere. We have long waited and don't find it plenty yet, for they carry it all away for the use of the Army. We hope by this time there can be a place appointed where we may receive powder; for those who are on the contrary part tell us that we shall be more distressed and brought to greater straits; but we have hopes that you will be able to disappoint them by giving us a speedy supply.

Please to accept of our compliments, for that is all we are able to present you. These from your brothers of Onen-hoghkwege and Tuscarora.

ADAM,
PETER,
PETRES,
HENDRICK, } Chiefs.
SETH, Tuscarora Chief.

To Henry Wisner, Esq.

RICHARD VARICK TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, June 4, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: Agreeable to General Schuyler's orders, I send down the bearer, Captain Godwin, of the Royal Artillery, made prisoner at Chamblly. He has a permit on parole to join the prisoners of that garrison now in Trenton, or some other part of New-Jersey, and is directed to wait on your Excellency for directions in his route to New-Jersey. His deportment while a prisoner has been unexceptionable, and it is of his own choice that he is sent to New-Jersey.

I am, with due respect, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

RICHARD VARICK.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL THOMAS.

Ticonderoga, June 4, 1776.

DEAR SIR: You will, before this reaches you, have received the resolutions of Congress, which I transmitted you by Captain Hicks; and although I make no doubt but that, agreeable to this order, every foot of ground will be disputed with the enemy, yet as you may be under the necessity of retreating, I wish you to take measures for bringing away from Montreal all the goods you possibly can, and especially all the nails, giving a receipt therefor, and pledging the faith of the Colonies for the payment. I am informed that it has been recommended by the honourable Commissioners of Congress to seize and send into the Colonies all such persons as have been notoriously disaffected to them; a measure which appears to me absolutely necessary for the preservation of such of our friends as are or may fall into the enemy's hands in the course of this contest.

I was in hopes that flour would have been procured in Canada in sufficient quantities for the Army; but learning from officers that came down, that you were in great distress for want of that article, I immediately ordered a quantity from Albany. Upwards of a hundred barrels leave this day, and you will henceforth have a daily supply; but as the garrison here is too weak to keep up the communication, you must send up as many batteaus as you possibly can.

Please to send all the prisoners that are in Canada, either upon their parole or otherwise, to this place, to be forwarded to Albany.

The very heavy expense, as well as the difficulty of procuring provisions for your Army, should induce the greatest care of that important article. I have issued orders of the 26th February, which, if strictly complied with, will have the most salutary consequences. Please to issue them. I have no copy with me, but Mr. Swart has, of whom you can get them.

I am, dear sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Thomas, or Officer commanding the Army in Canada.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES OF DUNSTABLE, ETC., MIDDLESEX COUNTY, MASSACHUSETTS.

Complaints were exhibited to the Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Westford, in May, 1775, complaining of the Rev. Mr. Hall, of Westford, that he had acted an unfriendly part to his country. The Committee attended the complaints, and examined the evidences on which they were grounded, on the 22d of said May; and it appeared to the Committee, after examination, that said Mr. Hall had acted unfriendly to his country. And although Mr. Hall was present at the examination, he made no retraction, nor gave satisfaction to the Committee; therefore the Committee thought proper to limit Mr. Hall to his house and land till the then next town-meeting, (which was soon after,) referring the affair for the town to act as they should think proper. The town, after hearing the complaints and depositions thereon, judged that Mr. Hall's conduct had been inimical to his country; and, as he refused to give satisfaction, they thought he ought to be treated accordingly, and so voted fully that he should be laid under some restraint; since which it appears that the town has been blamed, especially by some of the reverend clergy, of acting too partially towards their pastor, &c.

Therefore, to remove such like objections, the town voted to call in some of the neighbouring towns' Committees, to examine the said affair, who accordingly attended thereto, and produced the following result:

At a meeting of the Committees of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, of the Towns of Dunstable, Littleton, Westford, and Acton, at Westford, agreeably to a vote of the Town of Westford, passed the 20th of May, 1776: Being convened, resolved themselves into one Joint Committee, and passed the following votes, viz:

1. Voted, and chose Major Ebenezer Bancroft Chairman.
2. Voted, and chose Joseph Jewett Clerk.

Complaint being exhibited against the Rev. Mr. Willard Hall, as being inimical to the rights of his country; and having heard and attentively examined the evidences, Mr. Hall having been notified, attended; after debate had thereon, the question being put, whether Mr. Hall be acquitted of the charge? It passed in the negative, nem. con.

Therefore Resolved, That the Rev. Willard Hall hath, in divers instances, shown himself unfriendly to the cause of the United American Colonies.

By order of the Committee:

EBENEZER BANCROFT, Chairman.

Attest: JOSEPH JEWETT, Clerk.

Westford, June 4, 1776.

JAMES SULLIVAN TO JAMES WARREN.

Biddeford, June 4, 1776.

SIR: Since I have left the Court I have recollected that there is no Truckmaster at Penobscot to supply the Indians on the Bay of Fundy and the St. Johns tribe. When their Chiefs were up in the last summer, they informed the Court that they had six hundred fighting men. Brigadier Preble was appointed the Truckmaster for them, but believe he never accepted the office. One Lowder was nominated by the Indians, but nothing has been done. As the country of these Indians is within Nova-Scotia, and contiguous to Halifax, there is great danger of their being enticed to take part with the more savage British troops; in which case our settlements in Machias, &c., will be broken up, and a very great number of persons will become a public charge. As the Indians are ready to pay for all their supplies in furs, and as the present is the time for bringing the same in, I think that this matter deserves immediate attention. You will therefore be kind enough to mention it to the House.

I am, sir, with the greatest respect, your most humble servant,

JAMES SULLIVAN.

To the Hon. James Warren, Esq.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM VIRGINIA, DATED JUNE 5, 1776.

Our last accounts from Cape-Fear are, that Cornwallis was arrived, with seven regiments, supposed to be about three thousand men; that he, with Clinton and nine hundred men, landed with a view to surprise an officer and ninety men stationed at a mill near Brigadier Howe's plantation. However, they bravely attacked, in his house, three old women, shot one through the hip, pierced another with a bayonet, beat out the teeth of the third, and then burnt the house. In their approach to the mill, they had to encounter a formidable body, consisting of a sentinel and three men, who, without loss to themselves, killed two, wounded an officer, and took a Sergeant prisoner. This rencounter gave the officer at the mill an opportunity to retreat, with his men, baggage, and everything, but four horses, grazing, which fell a prey to the enemy. After burning the mill, they retreated, with this booty, on board the vessels they came from; which should be recorded, to perpetuate the fame of these renowned Generals. Another time, a Captain and his company precipitately fled from the attack of eight riflemen, leaving one prisoner behind them. The enemy have since landed seventeen hundred men, and are intrenching at Fort Johnston. It is said there are two thousand men at St. Augustine.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BALTIMORE COMMITTEE.
[No. 14.]

Annapolis, June 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your favour of 27th of last month, we have ordered that Captain Wells's company be an Artillery Company, and Captains Dean's and Thomas Rutter's companies added to the Baltimore town Battalion. The commissions for Dean's company are enclosed to Colonel William Buchanan.

We request you will render a particular account of the expenditure of your £1,000, sent the 8th of March, to defray the expenses of the Militia on the alarm occasioned by the Otter sloop-of-war; and, also, furnish us with your vouchers for the general charges in the account of moneys expended on the fortification at Whetstone-Point.

We are, &c.

To the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, June 5, 1776.

SIR: The Congress having this day made several promotions in the Army of the United Colonies, and established some rules for the future direction of the Deputy Commissaries-General, Deputy Quartermasters-General, &c., I do myself the pleasure to enclose you a copy of the same.

I have delivered Colonel Reed his commission, and have sent Mr. Whetcomb, Mr. Mercer, and Mr. Moylan theirs.

Should you stand in need of any more blank commissions, they shall be immediately forwarded, on your letting me know it. I entirely forgot to make inquiry into the matter while you were in this city.

Having nothing further in charge from Congress at this time, I beg leave to assure you that I am, with the greatest respect and esteem, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. June 6.—This morning two small privateers arrived here, after a very successful cruise, having taken three West-India ships, with $22,420 on board, one thousand and fifty-two hogsheads and tierces of sugar, seventy pipes of best Madeira wine, and a variety of other articles.* The captain and owners this moment called to acquaint me that the money is now in this city, and have generously made an offer of it to the Congress.

I have this morning advanced thirty dollars to Fessenden, in part of his account, which you will please to deduct on settlement.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COLONEL JOSEPH REED.

Philadelphia, June 5, 1776.

SIR: The Congress, in consideration of your zeal and ardour in the American cause, have appointed you Adjutant-* PHILADELPHIA, June 6, 1776.—Two privateers, belonging to this port, have taken three very valuable ships, bound from Jamaica to London, laden with rum, sugar, molasses, &c.; having also a large quantity of dollars and plate on board.

We hear that on board of the above ships there were several very fine sea-turtle, intended as a present to Lord North; one of which, with his Lordship's name nicely cut in the shell, was yesterday presented by the captain to the worthy President of the American Congress.

General in the Continental Army, with the rank of Colonel. As it is necessary this important department should be filled as soon as possible, you will please to take the earliest opportunity of repairing for that purpose to Head-Quarters, at New-York. I do myself the pleasure to enclose your commission; and am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Colonel Joseph Reed.

PETITION OF WILLIAM ADAMS.

[Laid before the Marine Committee, June 5, 1776.]

To the Honourable the Delegates of the Thirteen United Colonies in Congress assembled: The Petition of WILLIAM ADAMS, Surgeon in the Continental Naval Service, humbly sheweth:

That your Petitioner had the honour to be appointed Surgeon in the service of this continent, on board the armed sloop the Hornet; that he conceives he could afford more considerable service to his country in a fighting capacity; that, anxious to contribute his assistance towards repelling the hostile invasions of the enemies of America, he was an early Associator in the Third Battalion of this city, in one company of which battalion he acted as an officer; that he hath a very large and extensive acquaintance in this Province, and notwithstanding the present scarcity of men, is fully and firmly persuaded that he could, in a very short time, raise a company; that your Petitioner understands that some companies of Marines are now to be raised for the frigates building for the defence of this continent; and as he begs leave to resign his commission of Surgeon, requests that your Honours would be pleased to appoint him to the command of one of said companies; and he begs leave to assure your Honours that if, in case of any engagement, his assistance should be wanted or required by the Surgeon, he will ever be ready to afford it; and hopes his conduct in either capacity will be serviceable to his country and merit the approbation of your Honours.

WILLIAM ADAMS.

Philadelphia, May 28, 1776.

JOHN WATTS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Benjamin Birdsall, of the Committee for Queen's County, Oyster-Bay, Long-Island, hath sent to inform me, by Mr. William Wallace, boatman, that the boat formerly belonging to me, but now in the hands of Mr. Nathan Gyer, (though not yet paid for by him,) hath been seized by a party of Riflemen, suspecting the said Nathan had been on board the men-of-war at the Hook; and she being threatened to be destroyed, the whole loss, by his imprudence, will wholly fall upon myself. As I am, and always hope to remain, a steady friend to my country, I beg the favour of this honourable House to advise me how to proceed to recover my boat. Mr. Birdsall requires a speedy answer from me, for fear she should be destroyed before I have your authority to prevent it.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JOHN WATTS.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of New-York.

CAPTAIN CREGIER TO THOMAS RANDALL.

On board the Schooner General Putnam,
Shewsbury, June 5, 1776.

WORTHY SIR: After my due respects to you and all friends, I think it a point of my duty to acquaint you that I sailed from this the next day after the date of my last to you. I stood to the southward a whole day, with little wind, and about four in the afternoon, it blowing very hard to the south-southwest, making a heavy sea, I was obliged to bear away for this inlet, where I have remained, on account of the wind blowing at east-southeast, which occasioned a very high sea on the bar. At eight A. M. we saw a sail to the southeast, standing in for the Hook; at ten A. M. concluded with the Captain of the whale-boats, being twelve in number, to tow me out; the tide being flood, with little wind, we came to the bar, where we found a high surf. The Captain of the whale-boats concluded their boats could not get out over the bar. As the sail we saw was well in with the land, and at the same time the large tender near the ship, which we then judged to be a ship of war, I then thought it proper to come to anchor, and at the same time I went to view the fleet at Sandy-Hook, where we found the ships of war, viz: the Phoenix, Mercury, and Lively, with three other small ships, a brig, one schooner, one sloop, and four tenders. By the time I was coming away the above-mentioned ship came to anchor, which I plainly perceived to be a large frigate of thirty-six guns. This intelligence you may depend on. I am resolved to sail from this the first opportunity.

I am your kind friend,

THOMAS CREGIER.

To Thomas Randall, Esq.

GEORGE TOWNSEND TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Committee, Jamaica, June 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: As we stand, and may further stand in need of a small sum of money, for the necessity of our County, therefore beg you will please to lend to this Committee the sum of one hundred Pounds, for which sum we will be answerable to the Province.

We are, with respect, gentlemen, your humble servants.

By order:

GEORGE TOWNSEND, Chairman.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress.

To the Honourable Sub-Committee of the City and County of ALBANY: The Petition of the Inhabitants of the City of ALBANY humbly sheweth:

That your Petitioners, alarmed at the avowed design of a tyrannizing Ministry in carrying into execution certain oppressive acts of Parliament, calculated to deprive us of privileges dearer to every generous soul than life itself, and their formidable preparations for that purpose; yet we dread not the force they can send against us; those we can guard against; but, gentlemen, our internal, our bosom enemies, even those who live in society with us, are the enemy we dread; and if ever America is conquered it will be by their secret wounds. It is not our intention, gentlemen, to wrest out of your hands the power which we have already delegated, but on the contrary to support you in every measure which you may take for our safety.

Yet your Petitioners humbly beg that every person in this City who is known to be notoriously disaffected to the measures now pursued by America in her struggles to support her freedom, may be laid under such restrictions as you shall think sufficient to divest them of the power of doing us that injury which we think their inclinations lead them to, whenever an opportunity shall offer; and your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

By order of the Committee:

HENRY J. BOGERT, Chairman.

Albany, June 5, 1776.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO DELEGATES IN PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Albany Committee-Chamber, June 5, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have taken into consideration the necessity of powder in this County; we have but twenty hundred weight in the whole, whereas four tons more will scarcely supply the inhabitants thereof in case of any emergency. We therefore beg you will not fail to send up four tons for the use of this County by the first opportunity. Tryon County is in a still worse situation for the want of the same article.

We are, gentlemen, your very humble servants.

By order:

JOHN BARCLAY, Chairman pro tem.

To Jacob Cuyler, John Ten Broeck, Henry Glenn, and others, the Delegates of the County of Albany, at New-York.

JOSEPH GREENLEAF TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Boston, June 5, 1776.

SIR: You would very much oblige me if you would, on my behalf, pray the honourable Court to excuse me from my further attendance upon the Court of Justice appointed to examine persons inimical to the interests of the United Colonies. I am sufficiently sensible of the honour done me by the appointment, but as every male in my family, (my only son not excepted) is in the service of my country, and I left alone, I doubt not but what the honourable Court will deem my request reasonable.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

JOSEPH GREENLEAF.

P. S. I wish the Court would order every suspected person and every prisoner to be removed at least ten miles from the sea-shore. There is great danger to the publick in suffering them to be here.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

FRIENDS AND COUNTRYMEN: The King of Kings hath been pleased to bring us into the most critical situation that this or any other nation ever knew. We have to oppose a powerful and enraged enemy on the one hand, and on the other to settle the foundations of our Constitution. The business is of the utmost importance, not only to ourselves, but posterity. Future millions will bless or curse the measures we pursue. It requires the greatest dexterity so to conduct present affairs as that, while we attend to the defence of the Colony, we suffer not evils to creep into or remain in the Constitution, which, though they may not affect this or the next generation anything considerably, being no more than specks for a while, may, in length of time, occasion a rot among all the pleasant fruits of that glorious struggle wherein we are engaged; and, on the contrary, that while we are clearing or defending the Constitution of and against such evils, we do not neglect the defence of the Colony, and thereby suffer the immediate loss of the Constitution. It would be the height of folly, or the effect of treachery, to waste time in disputing which part of this great business is to be first regarded. Common sense tells us that the safety of the Colony against any attempts of the enemy is not, at this season of the year, to be postponed or languidly prosecuted upon any account; I shall therefore make that the subject of this letter.

The British Ministry, supported by a venal and slavish Parliament, aided in the American Department by a noted coward, (the Minden hero, whose fears push him on to the basest and most vigorous exertions,) and headed by an obstinate and callous Sovereign, propose the speedy reduction of America to a servile dependance. German mercenaries, besides English, Scotch, and Irish, are to be employed, making in the whole a most formidable power, exclusive of naval armaments. It is pretty generally known that the plan of operations for the campaign of '76 was to attack the Southern Colonies, to divide these from the Northern, by penetrating the continent at New-York and Quebeck, to recover the possession of all the territories between these two cities, and thereby to gain the assistance of the Indians and Canadians, and to strengthen the garrison of Boston by a large reinforcement, so as to enable it to act offensively against the country. Through the blessing of Heaven upon our endeavours, a capital part of this plan has been set aside. General Howe with his troops has been driven off. An opportunity has been gained for fortifying New-York; and it is highly probable that the armament destined to that quarter will be repulsed. But something great must be attempted by the British and German commanders. An impression must be made somewhere, and another place for rendezvous and retreat, besides Halifax, be procured, or the chief part of the Army and Navy must return to Europe at the approach of winter. The continent should therefore be defended at every point, so that the enemy may be baffled which way soever they may steer. We have villains among us ready enough to inform them where they may attack with the greatest likelihood of succeeding. Places the least defended, if they have a back country of consequence, will be in the most danger. The enemy will be looking out for them. Let no commodious harbour, nor any landing-place upon the coast be neglected; but a line of defence be drawn from one end of the Colony to the other. While this is doing upon the sea-shore, let inquiry be made through what passes the country may be penetrated by the way of Canada, should the enemy succeed in that quarter, and let all those places be secured by forts and block-houses. Many will be startled at the expenses that will necessarily attend such operations. The expenses, we may conclude, will be greatly lessened by the cheerful assistance of individuals in the neighbourhood of the places where the works are carried on, as they will be the first to reap the benefit of them; and will be amply repaid for all their trouble in the safety and composure with which they may pursue their farming or other business, without being frequently called off by alarms. But though we should exercise frugality, this is not a season to be afraid of expending. Our all is at stake, with life and liberty in the bargain. What will our paper riches be worth should our enemies succeed? Nothing at all. We may be even punished for having it, as they may infer from it our having encouraged the operations against them. Will our hard money be of any use to us? That they will take from us to pay themselves for the expenses they may have been at in subduing us; besides our estates wherewith to reward their dependants and agents. If we should be subjugated, we shall be, of all people, the most miserable, the Ministry looking upon us as the mainspring in all those movements that have opposed and disconcerted their arbitrary measures. We must not, therefore, be afraid of expenses; and had better spend all in securing our lives and liberties, than, by a parsimonious conduct, lose all, together with our lives and liberties. We have a well cultivated country; and if we can save that with ourselves, it will yield us after a while more property than the present emergency will take off. Besides, what we spend in putting the country into a state of defence, is spent among ourselves; and when once well spent, need not be repeated. This most probably is the determining year. Let us, then, humble ourselves under the mighty hand of God, look up to him for his blessing, and set ourselves, one and all, with hand and purse, to that great and necessary work of self-defence, to which His providence is now calling us, and persist in it, without growing weary or fainting, until the same is finished.

A WATCHMAN.

June 5, 1776.

London, June 6, 1776.

When all the troops that are gone out arrive in America, it is said that the Royal standard is to be hoisted in three different parts of the country, when it is thought many thousand people, friends to Government, finding themselves likely to be supported, (who were afraid before to declare themselves,) will flock to it.

By letters lately received from Vice-Admiral Young, dated at Antigua, the 3d of March, and from Vice-Admiral Gayton, dated at Jamaica, the 28th of that month, it appears that the cruisers under the command of the former had seized twenty-six, and those under the command of the latter, nine ships and vessels, either belonging to or employed in carrying on a trade with his Majesty's rebellious subjects in North-America.

The reason that the Glasgow man-of-war was sent from North-America was owing to her being so much damaged by Admiral Hopkins's armed vessel in the late engagement. She is ordered to be docked, and got ready to sail again with all expedition.

Amidst the shout of joy that has been raised on the appearance of the Extraordinary Gazette, it confirms one melancholy circumstance, which ought to be attended to by Administration in the midst of their transports, which is, it clearly proves that the Provincials are not poltroons; but that, on the contrary, throughout the whole of the siege of Quebeck and the retreat, (however they might have been overpowered by numbers, and the succour of the fleet,) they left no enterprise, however daring, unattempted. This unabating principle of courage, therefore, disseminated throughout three millions of people, is, and ought to be, of the most serious consideration; as such courage so exerted, though in one or two instances it might fail, bids fair in the end for success.

Several American gentlemen, who have sold their estates in that country and retired, have assured Lord George Germaine that if the King's troops can, in the course of this campaign, secure all Canada, the tract of the Ohio, and the Lakes, with Crown-Point and the adjacent country, the Rebels will be kept in such constant alarm on their rear, and so injured by the men-of-war at sea, that they will submit in the following winter.

Speech of His Excellency ARCHIBALD BULLOCK, Esquire, President and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of GEORGIA, to the Provincial Congress, at SAVANNAH, June 5, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Congress:

The state of the Province at your last meeting made it absolutely necessary to adopt some temporary regulations for the preservation of the publick peace and safety. And your appointment of me to carry these regulations into execution, at a time so critical and important to the welfare of this country, requires an exertion of the greatest prudence and abilities.

At a time when our rights and privileges are invaded, when the fundamental principles of the Constitution are subverted, and those men whose duty should teach them to protect and defend us are become our betrayers and murderers, it calls aloud on every virtuous member of the community to stand forth, and stem the prevailing torrent of corruption and lawless power.

The many and frequent instances of your attachment towards me, and an ardent desire to promote the welfare of my country, have induced me to accept of this weighty and important trust. For your interest only I desire to act; and, relying on your aid and assistance in every difficulty, I shall always most confidently expect it.

Some venial disaffected men may endeavour to persuade the people to submit to the oppressive mandates of despotism, but surely every freeman would consider the nature, and inspect the designs and execution of that Government under which he may be called to live. The people of this Province, in opposing the designs of a cruel and corrupt Ministry, have surmounted what appeared insuperable difficulties; and, notwithstanding the artifice and address that for a long time were employed to divert their attention from the common cause, they at length, by imperceptible degrees, succeeded, and declared their resolution to assert their liberties, and to maintain them at all events, in concurrence with the other associated Colonies. For my part, I most candidly declare, that from the origin of these unhappy disputes I heartily approved the conduct of the Americans. My approbation was not the result of prejudice or partiality, but proceeded from a firm persuasion of their having acted agreeable to constitutional principles, and the dictates of an upright disinterested conscience.

We must all acknowledge our great obligations to our ancestors for the invaluable liberties we enjoy; it is our indispensable duty to transmit them inviolate to posterity; and to be negligent in an affair of such moment, would be an indelible stain of infamy on the present era. Animated with this principle, I shall think myself amply rewarded if I can be so fortunate as to render any service to the cause of freedom and posterity.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Congress:

Being sensible that many matters of great importance will claim your attention at this meeting, I will not take up too much of your time from the publick business. Some further regulations respecting the Courts of Justice, the state of the Continental Battalion, and the better ordering of the Militia of this Province, will necessarily be the subject of your disquisitions.

You must be convinced of the many difficulties we labour under, arising from the number that still remain among us, under the shelter of an affected neutrality. The arguments alleged for their conduct appear too weak to merit a refutation. This is no time to talk of moderation; in the present instance it ceases to be a virtue. An appeal, an awful appeal is made to Heaven, and thousands of lives are in jeopardy every hour. Our northern brethren point to their wounds, and call for our most vigorous exertions; and God forbid that so noble a contest should end in an infamous conclusion. You will not, therefore, be biased by any suggestions from these enemies of American liberty, or regard any censure they may bestow on the forwardness and zeal of this infant Colony. You must evidently perceive the necessity of making some further laws respecting these non-associates; and, though there may be some who appear at present forward to sign the Association, yet it becomes us to keep a watchful eye on the motives and conduct of these men, lest the publick good be endangered through their perfidy and pretended friendship.

By the resolves of the General Congress, the inhabitants of the United Colonies are permitted to trade to any part of the world except the dominions of the King of Great Britain; and in consequence of which, it will be necessary to fix on some mode of proceeding for the clearance of vessels, and other matters relative thereto; and perhaps you may think it further requisite to appoint proper officers to despatch this business, that the adventurers in trade may meet with as little obstruction as possible. And I would, at the same time, recommend to your consideration the exorbitant prices of goods and other necessities of life in the town of Savannah, and in every part of the Province. This certainly requires some immediate regulations, as the poor must be greatly distressed by such alarming and unheard-of extortions.

With respect to Indian affairs, I hoped to have had the pleasure of assuring you, from the state of the proceedings of the Commissioners, that they were in every respect friendly and warmly attached to our interests, and that there was the greatest reason to expect a continuance of the same friendly disposition; but I have received some accounts since rather unfavourable. As this is of the highest consequence to the peace and welfare of the Colony, I would here suggest whether it would not be necessary to enter into some resolves, in order to prevent any future misunderstanding between them and our back settlers. And to this I think I may add, that the putting the Province in the best posture of defence would be an object very requisite at this juncture.

The Continental Congress having always been solicitous to promote the increase and improvement of useful knowledge, and with the highest satisfaction contemplating the rapid progress of the arts and sciences in America, have thought proper to recommend the encouraging the manufacture of saltpetre, sulphur, and gunpowder. The process is extremely easy, and I shall be glad to see any of the good people of this Province exerting themselves in the manufacture of these useful and necessary articles. If they once consider it is for the publick good, they will need no other inducement.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Congress:

Remember, in all your deliberations, you are engaged in a most arduous undertaking. Generations yet unborn may owe their freedom and happiness to your determinations, and may bestow blessings or execrations on your memory, in such manner as you discharge the trust reposed in you by your constituents. Thoughts like these will influence you to throw aside every prejudice, and to exert your utmost efforts to preserve unanimity, firmness, and impartiality, in all your proceedings.

ARCHIBALD BULLOCK.

Savannah, June 5, 1776.

To His Excellency ARCHIBALD BULLOCK, Esq., President and Commander-in-Chief of the Province of GEORGIA: The Address of the Provincial Congress of said Province.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: We, the Representatives of the Province of Georgia, in Congress met, beg leave to return your Excellency our thanks for your speech delivered to us yesterday.

Animated, we hope, with the principles of virtuous citizens, and inspired with sentiments becoming the glorious cause we are engaged in, we behold with pleasure the elevation of men from among us, whose assiduity and unwearied endeavours have rendered them the objects of favour with their country; and we trust that while the several Executive departments of Government shall continue to be filled with such men, no murmurings or discontents will find admission among the good people of this Province.

Being truly sensible that to be a freeman under the British Constitution, for which our ancestors fought and bled, implies a right to examine with freedom, and to pass censure or applause upon, every act of Government, we have exercised the right of inspecting into the late measures pursued against these Colonies; and the more we deliberate upon them, the more firmly persuaded we are of their wicked and dangerous tendency, and that, as they are founded in iniquity, so they must end, if submitted to, in ruin and destruction to us and our posterity.

From these motives and considerations have we entered into the present laudable opposition, in which we are determined religiously to persist till law and justice shall rear their heads above tyranny and oppression; and your Excellency may be assured that, in every wise and necessary step towards the great end, you shall meet with our warmest concurrence and support.

While we shall continue actuated by the same feelings as led us to deny the usurped authority of Great Britain, we hope no man will entertain an idea so dishonourable to us as to suppose we can be influenced or biased by any motives but such as ought at all times to govern good men and free citizens; and, therefore, your Excellency may rest satisfied we shall, in all our deliberations and conduct, whether they respect those concerned for or against us, act with firmness, justice, and impartiality, so far as is consistent with the great cause in which we are all embarked.

We are truly concerned at that part of your Excellency's speech wherein you tell us your last accounts from the Indian nations are less favourable than the former; but at the same time that we wish, by every means in our power, to avert so great a calamity as would be the consequence of a war with these uncivilized people, yet we are resolved never to submit peaceably to improper behaviour in them; and should they be prevailed upon by our inhuman enemies to join in a war against us, we trust that the God who has already manifested himself in our behalf will safely conduct us through all our afflictions.

Permit us to congratulate your Excellency and the Province on the several other appointments that have taken place under our late temporary Constitution. It must be a pleasing reflection to you, sir, that your business in the weighty concerns of State lies with men of such well-known ability, integrity, and zeal.

We shall take into our early consideration the several matters recommended to us by your Excellency, and proceed upon the same with all that despatch, temper, and firmness, which the nature of the subject demands.

Savannah, June 7, 1776.

To which his Excellency returned the following answer:

MR. SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONGRESS: I return you all due thanks for this Address. I must flatter myself you are convinced I can have no separate interest from yours, and, therefore, need not be solicitous about the means employed, or with whom they may originate, for obtaining the inestimable blessings of happiness and freedom for my native country.

I have ever entertained the most honourable ideas of the warm and real friends to our glorious cause, knowing that they are influenced by no other motives but such as become good men and free citizens.

ARCHIBALD BULLOCK.

Savannah, June 7, 1776.

GENERAL LEE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 27, 1776. Referred to the Board of War and Ordnance.]

Little River, on the road to Charlestown, }
June 6, 1776. }

SIR: You will perceive from the enclosed letters the necessity of reinforcing this Province and Georgia; the enemy will probably make it the seat of war. Two thousand men at least ought to be despatched from Pennsylvania and Maryland to replace the regiments I shall order from Virginia. Ten thousand weight of powder is arrived safe at Charlestown.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

CHARLES LEE.

To the Honourable John Hancock, President of the Continental Congress.

June 4, 1776—5 o'clock P. M.

DEAR SIR: I this moment received yours by Captain Mouat. I wish you and a powerful reinforcement were now here. For God's sake lose not a moment. There are fifty sail of vessels at anchor off the bar, within sight of the town, which will, I suppose, come in with to-morrow's tide, if the wind is not unfavourable. Bring us all the forces you can collect, to cope with this armament, either from North-Carolina, Virginia, or any part of this Province you pass through. I send this express to you, and send on the roads, and at the several ferries, to facilitate your march.

In haste, yours sincerely,

J. RUTLEDGE.

To the Honourable Major-General Lee.

Little River, June 6, 1776.

DEAR SIR: On the receipt of this, you must order as large a body of the regulars as can possibly be spared to march to Cross-Creek, in North-Carolina. You may either do it by regiments or detachments. It is now, I think, certain that South-Carolina and Georgia are their object. Lay the enclosed letters before the Convention. Send copies of them to the Convention of Maryland; perhaps that Province can spare a battalion or two for the defence of Virginia, which may be replaced from Pennsylvania.

I am, dear General, yours,

CHARLES LEE.

To Brigadier-General Lewis.

P. S. The letter for the Congress should be despatched immediately. If any cavalry are raised, detach them.

Wilmington, June 1, 1776.

SIR: The whole enemy's fleet have sailed from Cape-Fear, the first division on Wednesday, the last yesterday; but it is far from being ascertained whether they have steered their course to the northward or to the southward. The people here are all of opinion that Charlestown is their object; for my own part I do not see on what they ground this persuasion; however, as South-Carolina is weaker in numbers than Virginia, I have ordered Muhlenburg's regiment at a venture to Charlestown immediately, as also a detachment of seven hundred men from this place. I have also been under the necessity of stripping this Province of sixteen hundred pounds of gunpowder, which I must replace from Virginia. As this Colony is now apparently no longer in danger, I shall send an express to stop your Militia, as they may be wanted more in their own Province, and will now be an unnecessary expense. I shall myself set out for Charlestown to-morrow, but at the same time confess I know not whether I shall go to or from the enemy; but if that capital is really their object, their whole force will be collected in one point; their operations will be more regular, and, consequently, my presence as Commander-in-Chief of the district more requisite; whereas if Virginia is their object, it is possible and probable their operations may be merely predatory and piratical. If such are their intentions, I am confident that your own officers will have little or no occasion for the advice or assistance, such as they are, of, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

CHARLES LEE.

To Edmund Pendleton, Esq., President of the Convention of Virginia.

P. S. As I have not much time, and indeed there being no absolute necessity of troubling the Congress with any circumstances further than expressed in this letter, I must entreat, sir, that you will send a copy of it to the Congress.

VIRGINIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

In Committee of Safety, Williamsburgh, June 6, 1776.

It being represented to this Board that the Commanding Officers of the Militia in many Counties in this Colony have omitted to arrange the same into certain divisions, pursuant to an Ordinance of the last Convention, from a misconstruction of the Ordinance:

Resolved, therefore, That it be recommended to them to proceed, without delay, to make such regulation, according to the direction of the said Ordinance.

By order of the Committee:

EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

JOHN PENDLETON, Clerk.

HANOVER COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, for Hanover County, June 6, 1776.

The Resolves of the honourable the Convention, in regard to such persons as are inimical or disaffected to the liberties of America being read, it was ordered that the Clerk should summon Samuel Pearson, Joseph Reynolds, David Cochran, John Cunningham, James Martin, Bennett White, Colin Campbell, Alexander and Patrick Macauley, Richard Dennistoun, Richard Burnley, William Marshall, Francis Irwin, John Meriwether, Thomas Evans, and Benjamin Sanders, (who, it was suggested, came within the meaning of the said Resolves,) to appear before the Committee, on the 13th of the said month; and, at a meeting of the said Committee at Hanover Town, on the day last mentioned, they severally appeared, and being charged with being inimical or disaffected to the liberties of America, denied the charge. Whereupon sundry witnesses being sworn and examined, and all circumstances relating thereto fully inquired into and maturely considered, the Committee came to the following Resolutions:

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

Resolved, That Joseph Reynolds, so far from being inimical or disaffected to the liberties of America, hath generally conducted himself as a friend to the American cause.

Resolved, therefore, That he be from the charge aforesaid honourably acquitted.

Resolved, That it does not appear to this Committee that Samuel Pearson, David Cochran, John Cunningham, James Martin, Bennett White, Colin Campbell, Patrick Macauley, William Marshall, Francis Irwin, and John Meriwether, are inimical or disaffected to the liberties of America.

Resolved, therefore, That they be from the charge aforesaid honourably acquitted.

Resolved, That it appears to this Committee that there is ground to suspect the fidelity and attachment of Richard Burnley and Benjamin Sanders to the American interest.

Whereupon, the oath required by the Convention to be taken by such was tendered to them, which they severally took and subscribed.

Resolved, therefore, That they ought to be restored to the friendship of their fellow-citizens.

Resolved, That it appears to this Committee that Alexander Macauley, Richard Dennistoun, and Thomas Evans, are inimical or disaffected to the liberties of America.

The oath aforesaid was therefore tendered to them, which they refused to take and subscribe.

Resolved, That their arms and ammunition ought to be taken from them, and that they deliver the same accordingly to Colonel Samuel Meredith, to be appraised, used, and applied as is directed by the Convention.

Ordered, That the Clerk furnish such of the persons above named as apply, with extracts from these proceedings, and that he send a copy to the Publick Printer, desiring him to publish the same in the Virginia Gazette.

HARRY TOMPKINS, Clerk.

LOUDOUN COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, May 14, 1776.

Richard Morlan being summoned to appear before this Committee, for speaking words inimical to the liberties of America, and tending to discourage a Minute-man from returning to his duty; and also publickly declaring he would not muster, and if fined would oppose the collection of the fine with his gun: The charge being proved against him, and he heard in his defence, the Committee think proper to hold the said Morlan up to the publick as an enemy to their rights and liberties; and have ordered that this resolution be published in the Virginia Gazette.

CHRISTOPHER GREENUP, Clerk.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEE FOR MIDDLE DISTRICT, FREDERICK COUNTY.

[No. 15.]

Annapolis, June 6, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We request you would send two barrels of musket gunpowder, with all convenient speed, to the Committee of Observation for Skington district, there to be lodged for their defence, in case of invasion. We will replace them by return of the first wagons from below; and are, &c.

To the Committee of Observation for Middle District of Frederick County.

U. SCOTT TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Annapolis, June 6, 1776.

SIR: Having some business of much consequence to my private concerns to transact in England, which requires my attendance there, I propose, with the approbation of the Council of Safety, undertaking a voyage thither, by the first convenient opportunity that offers—intending to return again to my family in Maryland as speedily as my affairs will permit; and shall think myself much obliged to the Council of Safety, if, on this application, they will grant me a passport that may be of service in preventing me from being obstructed in accomplishing this design.

I am, sir, with great respect, your most obedient servant,
U. SCOTT.

To the Hon. President of the Council of Safety.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL MERCER.

Philadelphia, June 6, 1776.

SIR: I am directed by Congress to inform you that they yesterday appointed you a Brigadier-General in the Army of the United Colonies, and that they request you will, immediately on receipt hereof, set out for Head-Quarters, at New-York; for which purpose I am commanded to forward you this by express. Should you take Philadelphia in your way, I must beg you will do me the favour to call at my house, as it is highly probable I shall have something in charge from Congress ready for you by that time.

I do myself the pleasure to enclose your commission; and have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

J. HANCOCK, President.

To Brigadier-General Mercer, Virginia.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COLONEL MOYLAN.

Philadelphia, June 6, 1776.

SIR: The Congress, from a sense of your merit, and attachment to the American cause, have been pleased to appoint you Quartermaster-General in the Army of the United Colonies, with the rank of Colonel. I do myself the pleasure to enclose your commission; and am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

J. HANCOCK, President.

To Stephen Moylan, Esq., Quartermaster-General, &c., at New-York.

(Note. A similar letter, of the same date, enclosing a commission, was sent at the same time, to Brigadier-General Whitecomb, at Watertown.)

Reflections on Publick Affairs: Recommended to the perusal of the Members of the NEW-JERSEY Assembly.

The publick papers have announced to us that the Assembly of New-Jersey are called to meet on the 20th of this month; and the reason assigned by the Governour for this unexpected summons is, that he has "matters of great importance to communicate to them;" but of what kind those "matters of great importance" are, or whence derived, we are left totally uninformed. The usual time of meeting of the Legislature of New-Jersey is about the month of October, at which time the act for the support of Government expires; and whenever any occurrence happens of importance enough to require their meeting before the stated time, it is usually made known, in some measure, to the publick, as well by way of assigning a reason for such a measure, as to give the Members an opportunity of informing their own minds, and of knowing something of the minds of their constituents upon the matters to be deliberated on. This was the method pursued by the same Governour, when he called the Assembly together upon the receipt of the famous resolve of the Committee of the House of Commons, of the 20th February, 1775, when the people of this country were in a much smaller degree soured with the conduct of the Ministry and their agents than they are at present, and less suspicious of evil designs against them. But upon this occasion we are left entirely to conjecture; and our Representatives must either discover those "important matters" by the spirit of divination, or come together totally unprepared to judge of them; at least they will be wholly deprived of an opportunity of consulting their constituents upon them, though questions of the greatest magnitude may be involved in them, which, as things are circumstanced at present, can with propriety be determined by no other rule than the sentiments of the people at large. In this situation, we can only judge from circumstances what is most likely to be propounded for the consideration of the Assembly, when they come together; and as it is of some consequence that we should, by some means or other, hit upon a proper preparation for it, I wish to see every probable conjecture offered to the publick for their animadversion; and as my thoughts have been called to the subject by this sudden and unexpected notification, I shall, with the leave of the printer, offer my apprehensions upon it to the consideration of the publick. I have been casting about for some motive in Government that is not unfriendly to the Colonies, but can find none. I cannot find that there have been any instructions, or despatches of any kind, lately received from England, or that the disposition of the Ministry admits of anything favourable to us in that way, if there had been any; nor has any late occurrence among ourselves given ground to hope for any good from such a meeting at present. I am therefore led to imagine that the motive is no other than an insidious design to lay hold on the present combination of apparently unfortunate circumstances, to distract and divide our counsels, and thereby to throw us into so much confusion and disorder as that we may the more readily be induced to submit to any terms they may think fit to propose, or, perhaps, to give ourselves up entirely to the old Government, as the readiest way to get out of our present difficulties. Some of my inducements to this supposition I will mention.

We all remember a special calling of the Assembly on the insidious proposition of last year, and what pains were taken to procure its acceptance in this Province.

Ever since the account of our miscarriage at Quebeck came among us, a certain set of people have raised their heads, and plumed themselves, as if they supposed the liberties of America had thereby received a mortal wound.

The mode of conducting a certain dispute in Philadelphia has induced a belief in some weak, and many willing minds, that the resolve of Congress of the 15th of last month is intended as a final bar to a reconciliation with the mother country, on any terms whatever; and, therefore, that it is the most dangerous method in the world to be adopted. It is held up by the ministerialists as a touchstone, by which we may certainly distinguish those of us who wish for absolute and perpetual independence from those who are desirous of a reconciliation upon safe and honourable terms. But I take it to be a very unjust criterion; for I doubt not there are many zealous advocates for a compliance with the recommendation of the Congress, who yet hope for a safe and honourable connection with Great Britain. On the other hand, I know there are some who are staggered with the resolve of Congress, from an apprehension of its absolutely excluding all hopes of a reconciliation, who, nevertheless, would willingly join in anything short of that which the Congress may direct as necessary for our present defence; and yet, if this test were to determine it, these would be ranked with those enemies of America who have industriously wrought up this alarm. The scheme, however, is artful, and has had a wonderful effect. By raising one grand question, viz: "Whether they are for or against Independence?" (which is explained to imply a Republican Government, and a perpetual separation from Great Britain.) and thereby dividing the people into two classes only, we find a strange, heterogeneous mixture of characters thrown together into one common mass on one side of the question, consisting of—1st, all the Tories, of every rank, as well those openly and avowedly so, as those who have withheld a declaration of their sentiments altogether, and those who, on many occasions, have joined in the measures of the Opposition, and accepted offices from the people; 2d, most of the lukewarm Whigs; 3d, a great number of the ignorant, the weak, and the timid of the Whigs, who, either from want of opportunity, want of judgment, or want of resolution, have been led away by a delusion. These, altogether, make a considerable number, who have, as it were, united their forces upon this untimely question. The late election for Delegates in this Province gave them some opportunity of parading their troops, and the appearance in some Counties was formidable. The agents of the Ministry are desirous to avail themselves of so favourable a conjuncture to make another attempt to divide the Colonies; for if they can detach from the rest any one Colony, especially one of the middle ones, they look upon their work as accomplished; we should get to fighting with each other, and fall an easy prey to their machinations.

These are my apprehensions of the matter, accompanied with the leading circumstances which have given rise to them. Many other circumstances of smaller note have occurred to my mind, which tend to strengthen the suspicion; but, as I doubt not they will appear to every attentive observer, I avoid making a particular mention of them. In what manner it is intended to make the attack, I know not; but as it is to be conducted in this Province by an experienced partisan, I doubt not it will be so well disguised that the mine will be sprung before we discover where it is, unless we are careful enough to avoid every inch of ground that admits of suspicion. I have great confidence in the prudence and skill of the Members of the Assembly. If my suspicions prove to be well-founded, the admonition they afford will not be displeasing to them; if otherwise, the injury to the publick will be slight, if any, and I am persuaded the circumstances I have mentioned will plead my excuse.

Somerset County, New-Jersey, June 6, 1776.

COLONEL HUNTINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Camp, New-York, June 6, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: The mechanics of the city have voted independence; it is expected the new Congress will follow suit. There will be, I am told, a majority of Presbyterians, which will probably give the representation a different guise from what it has heretofore had. Long-Island has the greatest proportion of Tories, both of its own growth and of adventitious ones, of any part of this Colony; from whence some conjecture that the attack is to be made by that way. It is more likely to be so than not. Notwithstanding the vigilance of our outposts, we are sure there is frequent intercourse between the Asia and the shore, and that they have been supplied with plenty of fresh meat. New guards have lately been set in suspected places, which I hope will prevent any further communication. Our Army is as well prepared to meet the enemy (for its numbers) as ever it has been since its commencement—better discipline, more ammunition and good arms; although, as to the latter article, there is too great a deficiency. One of the battalions of this Colony's troops, commanded by Colonel Ritzema, has but about sixty arms. There are five companies of the battalion of Colonel Wayne, from Pennsylvania, now here, waiting for arms. The other companies count one of the six battalions gone with General Sullivan to the northward. There is, besides, an entire battalion of Continental troops at Philadelphia without arms. The late arrival of some arms at that place, and the capture of the brave Captain Mugford's, will in some measure supply these deficiencies. I count large to put down the number of our men fit for action here at five hundred each regiment, which amounts to nine thousand five hundred. Indeed I do not think we could turn out eight thousand well armed. The most important post throughout the continent is to be defended, the greatest and best part of our artillery. The inhabitants promise us three thousand of City Militia; but we do not believe we shall see half so many. If the strength of the Whigs be a match for the Tories, and the Army had nothing to fear from or depend upon within, it is as much as we shall ever experience in our favour. We hear Congress intends a large augmentation. Men may be got at the southward, but not arms.

I have been more free in mentioning our capital defect to you than I ought to be to almost any one else. It is agreed by all that the Jerseys have a good Militia, well armed and trained. General Washington has set no time for his return to camp. The Commissary-General and Quartermaster-General were expected last evening. We are told that Generals Gates and Mifflin are to act in their former departments for the present. It is left by Congress with our General to send whom he thinks fit to Boston.

7th.—Our General, &c., came in yesterday. Brother Justin will write you all the news from Congress.

I am, with love and duty to mother, &c., your affectionate son,

JEDEDIAH HUNTINGTON.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

New-York Committee-Chamber, June 6, 1776.

Whereas complaint was made to the General Committee for the City and County, on the 3d day of May last, against Mangil Minthorn, a shop-keeper in Batteau street, for violating a resolve of the honourable Continental Congress in the sale of Tea; and as he made oath that he had not then seen the resolve of the Congress or this Committee,—in tenderness to him and his family, supposing him to have no design to counteract the said resolve of Congress, and on his promising them not to be guilty of the like again, did agree that the publication of his affidavit would be satisfactory for that offence. But they have since, on the fullest proof, found that, by an avaricious principle, he has not only violated his promise, but that he is so lost to all publick virtue and love for his country, as that he not only in several instances has again violated the resolves of the Continental Congress, by selling that detestable article of Tea at a higher price than by them limited, but also has said several disrespectful things of the resolve of that body; this Committee, therefore, in consequence of the trust reposed in them, are obliged to publish to the world that Mangil Minthorn is by them unanimously voted, and ought by the publick to be considered and treated, as an enemy to the American cause; and consequently ought to be precluded from all trade and intercourse with the inhabitants of these United Colonies.

Ordered, That this advertisement be printed in all the newspapers published in this City.

Extract from the Minutes:

JOSEPH WINTER, Secretary.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Albany Committee-Chamber, June 6, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: At the time when Ticonderoga was taken last year, the Committee, fully apprized of the necessity of having a body of troops for the defence of that fortress, raised four companies; at which time John Visscher was the first who offered his service, and in a few days raised a company, with which he marched to the northward. He was soon afterwards arranged in the Second Battalion of the New-York forces, as the first or oldest Captain, in which capacity he has served at St. Johns and at Quebeck, until the beginning of last spring, when he was promoted to a Majority. We beg leave to observe further, that in the late war against France he had been promoted to a Captaincy in the service of this Province. His former rank might therefore reasonably have entitled him to promotion last year.

This Committee, understanding that he has always distinguished himself as an officer of courage, good conduct and fidelity, particularly in the unfortunate retreat from Quebeck, humbly beg leave to recommend him to the honourable Congress for further promotion.

We are, sir, your very humble servants,

By order of the Committee:

JOHN BARCLAY, Chairman.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

CONNECTICUT COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety of Connecticut, at Hartford, June 6, 1776, Present:

His Honour the Governour, Honourable Deputy Governour Griswold, E. Dyar, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Richard Law, Titus Hosmer, Jedediah Elderkin, B. Huntington, and William Hillhouse, Esqs.

Voted, To draw on the Pay-Table for accounts of Captain John Ely, of a Company at New-London, in favour of William Morgan, Esq., for the sum of £154, in discharge of an order by said Ely for said Morgan, 14th March, 1776, for so much borrowed and received for the use of his (said Ely's) Company, and to be accounted for by him, on settlement of his account and Pay-Rolls. And also voted an Order in like manner on said Ely's account, in favour of Samuel Shethor, for the sum of £30, for so much borrowed of him by said Ely, for the use aforesaid, and to be accounted for as aforesaid, in discharge of said Ely's Order for said Shethor, dated 18th March, 1776. (Said two Orders given to Mr. Lane.)

Captains McCleave and Tinker, of the Row Gallies Whiting and Crane, were present, &c., to consult about the manning them, &c.

Voted, That the three Gallies be furnished and manned with fifty men each, including Officers.

Voted, That there be one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Master, one Gunner, one Mate, one Steward, two Sergeants of Marines, two Corporals of Marines, one Boatswain, one Drummer, one Fifer, one Cook, one Carpenter's Mate, one Surgeon, one Mate at £4. And, after nine o'clock, dismissed.

At a meeting of the Governour, &c., in the morning, at Hartford, Friday, June 7, 1776, Present:

His Honour the Governour and the rest, as at the last meeting: Considered the Wages and allowances of the Officers and Men for the Row Gallies.

Voted, That the pay of a Captain of said Gallies shall be £7 per calendar month; and that they be allowed a premium of one-and-a-half per cent. for paying their crews, - - - - - £7 0

The pay of the Lieutenants (the Second Lieutenant to be Lieutenant of Marines) to be £5 per month, both - - - - - 10 0
 The Master to be £5 per month, - - - - - 5 0
 One Gunner, £4 10 per month, - - - - - 4 10
 One Gunner's Mate, £3 4 per month, - - - - - 3 4
 One Boatswain, £3 per month, - - - - - 3 0
 One Clerk, £3 12 per month, - - - - - 3 12
 One Steward, £3 per month, - - - - - 3 0
 One Cook, £2 14 per month, - - - - - 2 14
 One Carpenter's Mate, with necessary Tools, - - - - - 3 4
 Two Sergeants, at £2 8 per month, - - - - - 4 16
 Two Corporals, at £2 4 per month, - - - - - 4 8
 One Surgeon, per month, - - - - - 4 0
 Able Seamen, per month, - - - - - 2 8
 Able Marines, per month, - - - - - 2 0

£128 16

Voted, That the Officers and Marines shall receive one month's advance Wages on their enlistment; and voted that the sum of £129 12s. be advanced and drawn for to the Captains of said Gallies, to enable them to pay said advanced Wages. (Said three Orders drawn and delivered them respectively.)

Voted, and established the form of an Inlistment.

Voted, That the Governour be desired to give proper Commissions to the Officers, in form of the land service, nearly mutatis mutandis.

Voted, That Captain Stanton proceed without delay on board his Galley, and carry such Stores as Captain Bill shall ship, and deliver to Captain . . . . ., at Saybrook, for the use of the Ship building at Haydon's yard, and return, as soon as may be, to enlist Men and fit his Galley, &c.

Voted, That an Order be drawn for Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, for £200, to be accounted for by him in his account with the Colony. (Order delivered Mr. Ledyard, at Hartford; and adjourned until the rising of the House at noon.)

At noon met again.

N. B. Mr. Shaw's above, Mr. L. says, is on Captain Harding's account; and voted an Order of £200 be drawn in favour of Captain Ephraim Bill, to be accounted for by him, as he was Overseer of building the Colony ship at Saybrook. (Order delivered Colonel Huntington.)

Voted, That an Order be drawn on the Treasurer in favour of Captain John Deshon, as Commissary of the Companies stationed at New-London, for the sum of £500, to be accounted for by him on settlement of his account. (Order given; delivered at Hartford.)

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, June 6, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed is the invoice of the ordnance stores which I have forwarded to Norwich, to the care of Captain Huntington, to be forwarded from thence by him to New-York, agreeable to General Putnam's request in his letter to me of the 24th of May. All those articles were taken in the ship Hope, lately brought into this harbour by Captain Mugford.

I am, your Excellency's obedient, humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

To General Washington.

Invoice of Ordnance Stores forwarded to Captain Huntington, at Norwich for the Army at New-York, viz:

Powder, five hundred barrels.
 Carbines complete, five hundred.
 Sand-bags, (bushel,) five thousand.
 Sand-bags, (half-bushel,) five thousand.
 Musket Ball, two tons.
 Carpenters' Tools, three chests.
 One case Hand-saws, containing forty-two.
 One case Hand-hammers, containing fifty.
 Ten casks of Bill-hooks.
 Two casks Felling-Axes; two casks Broad-Axes.
 Thirteen casks Hatchets.
 Six casks 24d. Nails.
 One cask 5-inch Spikes; three casks 6-inch Spikes;
 one cask 7-inch Spikes; two casks 8½-inch Spikes.
 Iron-shod Shovels, three hundred and forty-one.
 Iron Shovels, one hundred and fifty-nine.
 Spades, one thousand.
 Mantelets, one hundred.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY TO THEIR DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

Watertown, June 6, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: At the same time that we think ourselves obliged to acknowledge the vigilance and care of our Delegates to the defence of our Colony, and the attention of the Congress to an impartial defence of every part of the United Colonies, in the late provision made for the Massachusetts, by their resolve for adding three more battalions to those left for the defence of it,—we conceive it necessary to inform you that we think it will be very difficult, if not impossible, to raise the battalions proposed to be raised here without some additional encouragement. We are sensible of the importance and necessity of raising them. We are willing to give every encouragement in our power to effect it. We know of no encouragement but by a bounty; but yet dare not venture on such a measure without some assurances that such a step would be agreeable to Congress. You will therefore please to give us the sense of Congress on this subject, or such assurances of approbation of Congress, if we should adopt the measure, as we may rely on. We request this to be done as soon as possible, that the necessary steps for raising the battalions may be taken and executed with the despatch that the situation of this Colony requires. We cannot conclude without expressing our approbation of the promotion of Generals Gates and Mifflin, and our wishes that they may be appointed to the command of the troops here.

We will return, agreeable to the resolve of Congress, a list of Field-Officers as soon as it can be prepared. We should be glad to be informed of the extent of the encouragement Congress would be willing to give, and if they would disapprove of any addition this Colony may think necessary to make.*

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GENERAL HOWE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE, DATED HALIFAX, JUNE 7, 1776.

On the 11th of May I had the honour of your Lordship's despatches of the 28th March, by the Despencer packet, with duplicates of the 1st and 7th February, the originals of which were delivered by Captain Dickson, commanding the Greyhound frigate, on the 16th following.

I have suffered the most sensible mortification by being so long detained at this place; but the late arrivals of the provision ships, and the repairing of those included in the number requisite for transporting the troops (a return of which was forwarded to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury in my despatch of the 8th May) have made an earlier removal impracticable.

The troops, however, are at length embarked, waiting only for favourable weather to proceed to Sandy-Hook. In the early operations there, I shall have the closest attention to the reinforcements daily expected, and not hazard any

*IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, June 6, 1776.—Read, and ordered to be sent immediately to the Delegates of this Colony at the honourable Continental Congress.

Sent up for concurrence.

J. WARREN, Speaker.

IN COUNCIL, June 6, 1776. Read and concurred.

JOHN LOWELL, Deputy Secretary P. T.

disadvantageous attacks. In this idea, I at present think it will be most advisable to make a landing upon Long-Island, in order to secure the passage of the shipping into the harbour, which can only be effected by the possession of a commanding height near Brooklyn, said to be fortified. Should the enemy offer battle in the open field, we must not decline it; and from the high order the troops are now in, I have every reason to flatter myself with success, which once obtained, and prosecuted immediately upon the arrival of the reinforcements, would not fail to have the most intimidating effects upon the minds of those deluded people.

When General Clinton joins the Army, to which purpose I have written to him consonant to the orders he will have received from your Lordship, (a copy of which you were pleased to transmit to me,) if we should not find our strength sufficient to afford a division of the Army previous to the arrival of the Hessians, we may nevertheless proceed to force the rebels from the island of New-York, or to such other operation as may be deemed most conducive to his Majesty's service. But General Clinton must have a part of the Hessians with him on the side of Rhode-Island, and a personal communication with General De Heister will arrange their business more to the satisfaction of all parties than could be done separately or by letter, to meet him upon the coast. The Admiral, therefore, at my request, has sent orders to the cruisers not only off Rhode-Island, but to all others on the northern coast, to direct the troops from Europe to proceed to New-York, from whence they may more distinctly be ordered to their several destinations for the operations of the campaign. And that no time may be lost in disposing the troops for action after the arrival of the fleet at New-York, I intend to proceed in a frigate to Sandy-Hook, that I may have the advantage of communicating with Governour Tryon, for obtaining the best information of the state of the Rebel Army in the environs of that place, and that I may be ready to receive the Hessians, in case of their arrival before the fleet from hence.

My best endeavours shall be employed to engage the assistance of the Indians of the Six Nations, and I hope, by the influence of Colonel Guy Johnson, to make them useful.

Admiral Shulldham having sent me the copy of a letter he has lately received from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, relative to the transports being taken from under the orders of the Commander-in-Chief of the land forces, I beg leave to represent to your Lordship that I apprehend such a disposal of them will greatly impede the service, from the necessity the land officer must be under of making applications to the Admiral on every movement for the convenience of the troops, and for a variety of services needless to point out to your Lordship: wherefore, I am hopeful I may not receive any order for a change in the present command over them.

The advanced rank which the King has been pleased to confer upon the General Officers serving in this country is received by those here with the highest sense of the most dutiful respect for his Majesty's Royal attention, and by no one more gratefully than myself. I shall not fail to communicate to Lieutenant-General Clinton his Majesty's particular regard to the seniority of his rank, which would have placed him second in command in Canada, had he not been previously employed to the southward.

My last intelligence from that quarter was dated the 28th April, and as five or six transports had then arrived, I must conclude the whole force is collected there before this time.

The Forty-Seventh Regiment not being included in your Lordship's distribution of troops destined for Canada, I shall presume it may now remain in the place of the Thirty-Third, but shall pay due obedience to the orders for Lord Cornwallis's serving in that Army. The Sixth Regiment cannot be employed early in the campaign, as I shall not have it in my power to send transports for them until after my arrival at New-York.

The Rebel prisoners are returned in the Greyhound, and I shall use my endeavours to follow your Lordship's directions respecting them, and others in the same predicament.

It is with concern I am to advise your Lordship of another ordnance store-ship, named the Hope, being taken in Boston-Bay. She had a large proportion of intrenching tools on board, and it is said fifteen hundred barrels of powder.

The appointment of Lord Howe to the chief command in the Naval Department upon this extensive coast, is a circumstance that could not fail to give me the highest satisfaction; and I promise myself from his experience every assistance that can be given in the prosecution of the conjunct war we are now entering upon.

LOOSE THOUGHTS ON GOVERNMENT.

In whatever situation we take a view of man, whether ranging the forests in the rude state of his primeval existence, or in the smooth situation of polished society; wheresoever we place him—on the burning sands of Africa, the freezing coasts of Labrador, or the more congenial climes of the temperate zones—we shall everywhere find him the same complex being, a slave to his passions, and tossed and agitated by a thousand disagreeing virtues and discordant vices.

To correct this freedom and versatility of his nature, to put a stop to the violences which must take place from this disordered state of his reign, and to separate his virtues from his vices, and call them forth into action, men find it necessary either to submit to the casual rule of superior abilities, or, by arranging themselves into societies, to establish forms and regulations for the good of the whole. These forms and regulations admit of a very great variety; but whether they be derived from the casual subordination, or the positive institutions of men, this is still a leading principle in them all, "That the people have at all times a right, from the sacred and unalienable Charter of the Almighty, to change or alter the Government under which they live, where those changes and alterations tend to the general good of the community, and the happiness of its members."

But where is this general good, this national felicity, to be found? It is more than probable that it will be found, in the greatest proportion, in that society which best secures the observance of justice, which inspires and preserves the virtue of its members, and which actually engages them in the exercise of their best talents and happiest dispositions.

The security to justice is the political liberty of the State, promulgated by its laws, which relates to the supreme power and the subject, and is the object of political law; or from the subject to one another, and is the object of civil and criminal law. This political liberty will always be most perfect where the laws have derogated least from the original right of men—the right to equality, which is adverse to every species of subordination beside that which arises from the difference of capacity, disposition, and virtue. It is this sense of equality which gives to every man a right to frame and execute his own laws, which alone can secure the observance of justice, and diffuse equal and substantial liberty to the people; for those laws must necessarily be the most perfect which are dictated or corrected by the sense of parties in one capacity, to whom they are to be applied in another. Hence that fundamental maxim in all just Governments, that the law-makers must never be above the law; and hence arises the horror of that idolatrous paramount superiority of Kings, which is the government of force, and the subversion of all law. It is this principle of equality, this right, which is inherent in every member of the community, to give his own consent to the laws by which he is to be bound, which alone can inspire and preserve the virtue of its members, by placing them in a relation to the publick and to their fellow-citizens, which has a tendency to engage the heart and affections to both. Men love the community in which they are treated with justice, and in which they meet with considerations proportioned to the proofs they give of ability and good intentions. They love those with whom they live on terms of equality, and under a sense of common interests. It engages them in the exercise of their best talents and happiest dispositions, for the Government and defence of their country are the best and noblest occupations of men. They lead to the exercise of the greatest virtues and most respectable talents, which is the greatest blessing that any institution can bestow. Thrice happy is that people where the members at large may be entrusted with their own Government and defence; but, alas! such are the limited powers of men that this equal and perfect system of legislation is seldom to be found in the world, and can only take place in small communities; for whenever the society becomes numerous or extensive, the privilege of legislation in a collective capacity, from the impracticability of convening, must unavoidably and necessarily cease.

To remedy this evil, a method has been embraced of deputing Representatives from the people at large. Several requisites, however, are necessary to render this representation adequate to the trust. It ought to be full, equal, free; and as it is, at best, but a species of aristocracy, it is indispensably necessary to guard against the evils which are attendant on this form of Government. And its power should be purely legislative.

A full representation is necessary to render the influence of bribery and art more difficult. The propriety of an equal representation must occur to every one who does not wish to give an undue influence to some parts of the community over others. This may be obtained in either of two ways, by the number of freeholders, or by the quantity of land; but as in countries that are rapidly increasing in population, the number of freeholders must be perpetually varying, the method by the number of acres must be the easiest and most permanent; and as our lands become divided into more hands, every year will increase the perfection of this kind of representation, especially, too, if we put an end to proprietaries, entails, and other monopolies of lands, those remains of ancient tyranny, which will always be incompatible with the spirit of equality and right Government. The freedom of election is necessary for the well-being of the laws and the liberties of the State, which would otherwise fall a sacrifice to the altars of bribery and corruption and party spirit. To this end, the Representatives should be the unbiased choice of the people, by ballot, in which no man should make interest, either directly or indirectly, for himself or his friend, under the penalty of a heavy fine, and an exclusion from the House of Representatives forever; for it is generally found that the people will choose right if left to themselves. To check the aristocratic principle, which always inclines to tyranny, it will be necessary to keep the Representatives dependant on the people by annual elections; and perhaps it may be thought a further improvement to establish a limited kind of rotation, as a sure and certain means of diffusing the Government into more hands, and training up a greater number of able statesmen.

But as even under these restrictions an overgrown popularity may be dangerous to the safety of the State, or an arbitrary representative body may find means of imposing partial temporary laws on the people, it will be expedient to erect a second legislative power, independent of the first, or House of Representatives, consisting of a small number of the ablest men in the nation, whose right it shall be to have a negative on the lower House. These may consist of twelve, elected by a Committee of twenty-one in each County, chosen by the people for that purpose. This mode of election will obviate the inconveniences of a choice by the people at large, and remove the absurdity of leaving it to the House of Representatives; for as they would be the mere creatures of that body, they must necessarily be subservient to their will and pleasure.

A third power must also be established, unconnected with legislation, and independent of either of the two branches, whose business shall be wholly executive of the political laws of the State. This power should be lodged in one person only, for the advantage of despatch and execution of business, chosen out of the upper House of the Legislature by a majority of votes from the Committees, to be aided and assisted by the upper House in all cases of emergencies not sufficiently provided for by the laws. This office should be unconnected with the powers of legislation, for it is a solecism in politicks to invest the different powers of legislation and the execution of the laws in the same hands; and as this power will be a trust of the first importance, and the most dangerous to liberty, it will be indispensably prudent to fill it up in rotation.

To all these different departments of Government, as well as to all others, such moderate salaries ought to be affixed as to place the sense of publick virtue higher in the estimation of the people than the thirst of gain; and lastly, an independent Court of Judicature should be established for civil and criminal matters, to whom every member in the State ought to be subject, even unto death.

Such an arrangement of the powers of Government will erect different orders of men, who, like parties in the State, will mutually watch and restrain the partialities to which any particular party or interest may incline, and thus establish a Government which is most likely to inspire, preserve, and exercise the virtues of its members, and enforce a strict obedience to the laws, which is the foundation of all political liberty and national felicity; and thus, too, will all government be ultimately in the hands of the people, whose right it is.

DEMOCRATICUS.

Williamsburgh, Virginia, June 7, 1776.

B. JOHNSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Fredericktown, June 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The enclosed is a list of three companies which remain uncommissioned in my battalion. Captain Mackall's and Captain Poe's have been made up since the battalion was formed, and by the Committee appropriated to the Thirty-Fourth Battalion. Captain Frazer was First Lieutenant to Captain Luckett's company. As Captain Luckett was removed by his appointment, they have made him Captain, and so have raised the whole of the officers, and made the First Sergeant Ensign. You will be pleased to have the commissions made out, and sent as soon as convenient.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

B. JOHNSON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

List of Companies.

James McKall Captain, Ralph Rusco First Lieutenant, Benjamin Thomas Second Lieutenant, Leonard Turley Ensign.

George Poe Captain, Benjamin Eastburn First Lieutenant, Elias Williake Second Lieutenant, Theobald Williake Ensign.

Thomas Frazer Captain, Basil Beall First Lieutenant, John Frasher Second Lieutenant, Conrad Stricker Ensign.

COUNCIL OF MARYLAND.

At the Governour's, Friday, June 7, 1776.

Present, His Excellency the Governour, and the Honourable Benedict Calvert, Daniel Dulany, John Ridout, Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, William Hayward, P. Thomas Lee, and Benjamin Ogle, Esquires.

His Excellency was pleased to acquaint the Board, that he had called this meeting to inform them of his intention of very shortly leaving this Province; and to request their attention to the form of Government (during the absence of the Governour from the Province) as prescribed by the act of Assembly of 1716.

As this Board has never had before them, in their capacity as Counsellors, the several circumstances that at this time oblige his Excellency to depart from the Province, he thinks it right to lay before them the whole thereof, in the time and manner they occurred, with every part of his own conduct, for their consideration; and as they will see that he is necessitated to leave this Government, and does not do it from choice, (the alternative of continuing here being inadmissible,) his Excellency therefore requests the Board to proportion the salary by them, during the stoppage of trade, recommended to be paid him by the Agent, betwixt the President during his absence, and himself, as also the fees that may arise on the Great Seal and Marriage Licenses.

His Excellency was pleased further to acquaint the Board, that a seizure was made upon Chesapeake Bay, within the Government of Virginia, on or about the — day of —, of some letters, directed to him from the Secretary of State in England, by a vessel fitted out at Hampton, commanded by one Barron, which letters were sent up from Virginia to Baltimore, and from thence to the Council of Safety, after keeping them two or three days; that his Excellency was informed of this seizure two days after it was made, and expected his letters to be sent up to the Council of Safety here, or to the Congress, but that he was under no apprehension of their containing anything to prejudice him, whatever official intelligence might be got from them.

That on Tuesday, the 16th of April last, Messrs. Carroll and Hall, from the Council of Safety, and Mr. Puca, of the Congress, waited on his Excellency with the letters that had been sent to them from the Baltimore Committee, who had them from Williamsburgh, consisting of copies of intercepted letters of Lord George Germaine's, to his Excellency—one of the 10th of November last, and two, both of the 23d of December; one of which, seeming to disclose something of a confidential correspondence, was thought of so dangerous a nature that it ought to be explained.

The two Letters necessary to mention here, are as follows, (Nos. 2 and 3.)

["Circular.]

["No. 2.]

Whitehall, December 23, 1775.

"SIR: The King being determined, in concurrence with Parliament, to pursue the most vigorous measures for reducing his rebellious subjects in North America to obedience, and for restoring loyal Government, has given the royal signature to the enclosed act, which I am commanded by his Majesty to transmit to you; and at the same time to signify to you his Majesty's pleasure, that you do exhort all persons upon whom the execution of this law shall depend, to pay a due attention thereto, and to use their best endeavours for carrying the provisions of it into effect; and I trust that when his Majesty's deluded subjects in the aforesaid Colonies are better apprized of the fatal consequence of the conduct they have adopted, and see the determined spirit of the nation to maintain its constitutional rights, they will avail themselves of the means which the justice and benevolence of the supreme legislature have held out to them, of being restored to the King's grace and peace, and that a happy and lasting reconciliation and union will be effected.

"And I have the satisfaction to acquaint you that, in order to accelerate this desirable object, the proper steps have been taken for passing a commission under the great seal, in conformity to the last section but one of that act, and that a Commissioner or Commissioners, to be appointed for that purpose, will have full power to inquire into the state and condition of all the Colonies, and to confer with proper persons upon such points as may be necessary for effecting a restoration of the publick tranquillity.

"I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

"GEORGE GERMAINE.

"To Robert Eden, Esq., Deputy-Governour of Maryland."

"A true copy:

"J. PENDLETON, C. C. Safety for Virginia.

"True copy: G. DUVALL, Clerk."

["No. 3.]

Whitehall, December 23, 1775.

"SIR: It was not till the 27th of November that your despatch to Lord Dartmouth, of the 27th of August, was received here, when I had the honour of laying it before the King. And I have it in command from his Majesty to express to you his Majesty's approbation of your zeal for the publick service, and of the unalterable attachment you have shown to his person and Government, from the first commencement of the present unhappy disputes, which have involved his Majesty's faithful servants in the Colonies in difficulties and distress that are only to be equalled by the fortitude with which they are borne.

"Your letter contains a great deal of very useful information, and your confidential communication of the characters of individuals, more especially of such as come over into England, is of great advantage; and you may rest assured that every possible precaution will be used that no part of your letter shall transpire.

"An armament, consisting of seven regiments and a fleet of frigates and small ships, is now in readiness to proceed to the Southern Colonies, in order to attempt the restoration of legal Government in that part of America. It will proceed, in the first place, to North-Carolina, and from thence either to South-Carolina or Virginia, as circumstances of greater or less advantage shall point out: if to the latter, it may have very important consequences to the Colony under your government, and therefore you will do well to consider of every measure by which you may, in conjunction with Lord Dunmore, give facility and assistance to its operations.

"I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

"GEORGE GERMAINE.

"To Robert Eden, Esq., Deputy-Governour of Maryland."

"Copy:

"J. PENDLETON, C. C. Safety for Virginia."

That the gentlemen requested to see the copy of his Excellency's letter of the 27th of August, which he could not gratify them in, having sent all his letters and copies to the end of last September to England, and not kept any since. They then wished his Excellency to give his parole not to leave the Province until the Convention was to meet, which he declined, but promised they should find him at home the next day at twelve o'clock; on which day he sent for the above-mentioned gentlemen, about eleven o'clock, and was waited upon by C. Carroll, Esq., Barrister, and W. Paca, Esq., to whom he gave the following Letter:

["No. 4.]

Annapolis, April 17, 1776.

"GENTLEMEN: However unwelcome might be your errand, your polite behaviour to me yesterday merits my acknowledgments; and on mature consideration of the proposal you made to me, I find it is incumbent on me to tell you that I will not accord to it; nor can I, whilst I act in any degree as Governour of this Province, give my parole to walk about in it a prisoner at large, under any obligation whatever: the necessity must be obvious of my ceasing to act as Governour, should I become a prisoner.

"Neither will I, voluntarily, give you any satisfaction on that head, further than that I had, and have no intention, during these times, of leaving the Province, whilst my continuing here can, in my own opinion, preserve its tranquillity. My resolution was, as the letters you have of mine show, to continue here whilst I could serve the Province; nor shall the indignity now offered me alter it.

"I shall persevere in my line of duty, by what I think the rule of right; but not without some chagrin at knowing myself, unmeritedly the object of suspicion, although I have the satisfaction to think that a considerable part of the most respectable persons in the Province entertain a very different opinion of me than is to be inferred from your proposed arrest.

"May I not challenge you to say to the world if any troops have arrived at, or any hostile measures been proceeded in, against this Province, from any request of mine, or information from me, to the Secretary of State?

"I have above told you my resolution of continuing in my station as long as permitted, or the ostensible form of the established Government can contribute to preserve the peace of the Province; and I will add one further assurance, in hopes it may be satisfactory to you, that as your Convention is to meet shortly, they shall find me here, and willing to continue acting in the same line I have hitherto done, so long as Maryland can reap any peaceful benefit from my service, provided I can have assurances that my peaceable departure shall not be impeded whenever I find my remaining any longer here unnecessary, or that my private affairs at home indispensably demand my return.

"Consistent with my honour and insulted station, I cannot add more, but that, if made a prisoner, I shall consider myself treated as an enemy, and such a proceeding as a breach of that confidence I have implicitly reposed in you, which I thought my conduct and the publick declaration of the Convention justified.

"I am, gentlemen, with respect, your obedient humble servant,

"ROBERT EDEN.

"To Charles Carroll, Barrister, John Hall, and William Paca, Esqs."

His Excellency was promised an answer to the above letter the next day.

On the 18th day of April, in the morning, one of the Baltimore privateer boats boarded his Excellency's, which was going out to call back a gentleman's vessel just sailed from hence, which they also took, and detained them both.

Mr. Samuel Smith, of Baltimore, who was with the troops in the Baltimore boat, came on shore, and went to C. Carroll, Esq., Barrister, with Mr. Nicholson, the Captain of her; when Mr. Smith produced Mr. S. Purviance's order for seizing his Excellency, and Mr. Robert Smith, and their papers, as also his Excellency's boat, and to carry them all to Baltimore; the boat was set at liberty that evening. The same evening his Excellency received an answer to his letter, which is as follows:

["No. 5.]

In Council of Safety, Annapolis, April 18, 1776.

"SIR: In times of publick distress and convulsion, when a free people are threatened with a deprivation of their civil liberty, exertions for its preservation, influenced by its purest principles, and conducted with all possible attention to form and ceremony, we hope will not be considered as an indignity or insult to any rank or station in the community.

"The proceeding which your Excellency reprehends, in your letter addressed to Charles Carroll, John Hall, and William Paca, Esqs., and communicated by them to our Board, arose from an impression that we, who are entrusted with the publick safety, should pursue with vigilance every effectual measure, though the danger to be guarded against may rest only in possibility.

"The intercepted letters from Administration to your Excellency, we own, furnish grounds for conjecture and apprehension only of your having held an injurious correspondence; and whilst we reflect on the general tenour of your Excellency's conduct, the friendly disposition you have often manifested, and the several favourable and impartial representations you have made to Administration of the temper and principles of the people of this Province, we sincerely lament that the necessity of the times (which urge us to guard against every possibility of danger) forced us to a measure so disagreeable to, and which may prove an unmerited treatment of your Excellency.

"We acknowledge, sir, we know of no information you have given Administration countenancing or encouraging the introduction of troops into this Province; nor do we know of any measures whatever to have been concerted or pursued by your Excellency injurious to this Province, or America.

"We thank your Excellency for your resolution of continuing in your station as long as permitted, or the ostensible form of the established Government can contribute to preserve the peace of the Province; and we cheerfully acquiesce in your Excellency's assurance, that as the Convention is shortly to meet, they shall find you here.

"As far as our influence extends with that respectable body, it shall not be wanting to remove every obstruction to your peaceable departure, whenever your Excellency's continuance here shall become inconsistent with your instructions, or your private affairs shall demand your return.

"With ardent wishes for a speedy reconciliation upon honourable and constitutional terms, we have the honour to be, with sincere respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant. By order:

"CHARLES CARROLL, V. P.

"His Excellency Robert Eden, Esq., Governour of Maryland."

Afterwards, the gentlemen waited on his Excellency, with Mr. Hancock's Letter and the Resolve of the Congress, which are to the following amount: (Nos. 6 and 7.)

"That information had come to the Congress that the Governour carried on a correspondence with the Ministry highly dangerous to American liberty, which was confirmed by some letters to him from Lord George Germaine, lately intercepted and sent up to Virginia, by which it appears to them that the publick safety requires his person and papers to be seized; that they recommend it to this Council of Safety to secure him and them immediately, and send them to Philadelphia; as also a certain Mr. Ross, who was supposed to be in this Province."

Mr. Hancock's letter, accompanying and enforcing the said earnest request, was to the same amount; but the Governour not being favoured with copies of the letter or resolve, which he wished to have had, can only communicate this from memory.

The gentlemen then told his Excellency that the Virginia and Baltimore proceedings had been such towards them, that they looked on them to be at the bottom of this; that they were satisfied with what he had said, and in that reliance declined complying with the said resolve, intending to write fully to the Congress thereon. His Excellency gave them thanks for their good opinion of him, hoping they would not have any cause to repent it. The Baltimore boats went home that same day by order of the Council of Safety.

On Saturday, the 20th of April, his Excellency sent to the Council of Safety to request seeing some of them.

Messrs. Carroll and Tilghman, with Mr. Paca, waited on him about ten o'clock, when he voluntarily gave the Parole that he refused before, which is as follows: (No. 8.)

"Saturday morning.

"GENTLEMEN: I took the liberty of sending for you this morning, and hope the motive of my doing so will not be disagreeable.

"Your polite behaviour to me, and the confidence you have reposed in me, which evince your good opinion of my past and present conduct, deserve the best return I can make. I see that your personal safety and future respect from your constituents are involved in my meriting that opinion and not disgracing that confidence.

"Therefore, what you could not by requisition, however respectful, or your representation of probability, (a more disagreeable proceeding,) obtain from me, my parole not to leave the Province till the Convention met, I voluntarily now give you, and your conduct towards me justly entitles you to it."

A true copy.

His Excellency all along suspected General Lee at the bottom of this business, and so it turned out. S. Purviance denied at first, when summoned before the Council of Safety, that he had any private correspondence with General Lee; but the letter of the latter was produced, wherein he was directed to seize his Excellency, and is as follows: (No. 9.)

"Williamsburgh, April 6, 1776.

"DEAR SIR: I know not to whom I can address this most important note with so much propriety and assurance of success as to yourself. The crisis will not admit of ceremony and procrastination. I shall therefore irregularly address you in the language and with the spirit of one bold, determined, free citizen to another, and conjure you, as you value the liberties and rights of the community of which you are a member, not to lose a moment, and, in my name, (if my name is of consequence enough,) to direct the commanding officer of the troops at Annapolis immediately to seize the person of Governour Eden. The sin and blame be on my head; I will answer for all to the Congress. The justice and necessity of the measure will be best explained by the packet transmitted to you by the Committee of Safety from this place.

"God Almighty give us wisdom and vigour in this hour of trial!

Adieu, dear sir. Yours, most sincerely,

"CHARLES LEE.

"To Samuel Purviance, Esquire, Chairman of the Baltimore Committee, Baltimore."

After this, his Excellency's boat was a second time stopped by the same tender, by which three persons were near being drowned. Of this, however, his Excellency took little notice, for sake of quiet, though certainly a great insult, after the engagement he had voluntarily made, which, had he chosen it, this act released him from, as he premised in making it.

The Convention met on the — of —. The conduct of the Council of Safety respecting his Excellency and Mr. Samuel Purviance was approved; so was his Excellency's past conduct, as appears by the following Resolves, viz: (Nos. 10 and 11.)

"In Convention, Annapolis, May 24, 1776.

"Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Convention that the Council of Safety of this Province, upon the subject of the late intercepted letters to Governour Eden, duly and properly exercised the powers delegated to them.

"Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Convention that, upon the evidence before them of the correspondence which his Excellency Governour Eden has, from time to time, held with Administration, it does not appear that such correspondence has been with an unfriendly intent, or calculated to countenance any hostile measures against America."

Mr. Purviance was censured, but very triflingly to what was expected, and most people thought he deserved.

His Excellency is likewise pleased to inform this Board that, in consequence of a motion in Convention, he was waited upon by six of the Members, who made from the Convention the following verbal proposal: (No. 12.)

"It is the intention of this Convention to preserve, as far as may be, the ostensible form of Government, in hopes it may have some influence towards a reunion with Great Britain.

"If Commissioners have arrived, or should soon arrive, it is thought it will not be long before the re-establishment of the old Government, or a total separation takes place. The Governour's station may require a conduct very different from his personal inclinations. Of the latter, the Convention has no doubt or suspicion.

"Therefore, the request is, that the Governour will promise not to take an active hostile part; or, till the event of the Commissioners is known, that he will not correspond with Administration, or those who may be carrying on hostilities in America, directly or indirectly.

"If the Governour thinks himself at liberty to enter into such engagement, it is much the inclination of the Convention that he should continue in the Province, in his station."

To which his Excellency postponed giving an answer till after the arrival of the next post, when he did it to the following effect: (No. 13.)

"GENTLEMEN: I have considered the application made to me from the Convention; and as it would be inconsistent with the duties of my station as Governour to continue my residence here on the terms proposed, I intend, as soon as an opportunity shall offer, to leave this Province and return to England, if the Convention hold the terms they have proposed to be indispensable on their part; and trust I shall meet with no obstruction or impediment from any persons in removing myself and such of my property as I may find it convenient to take with me.

"Disagreeable as I find my situation to be, and as it may appear to others, considering the occasion and result of the inquiries of this Convention, I shall still continue most sincerely to wish for the welfare and prosperity of Maryland, and, consequently, for a reconciliation with, and constitutional dependancy on, Great Britain.

"My past conduct in this Government has, I am informed, met with much approbation. The same line by which it has been hitherto governed, were I continuing in that station, would continue to direct my future conduct."

Messrs. Carroll, Hollyday, Goldsborough, Johnson, Tilghman, and Paca, were the gentlemen who made the above-mentioned application to the Governour, and to whom he delivered this answer; which produced the following Resolves and Addresses: (No. 14.)

"Whereas, by a late intercepted letter from Lord George Germaine, one of the Secretaries of State, to his Excellency the Governour, it appears that a great armament of land and sea forces was in readiness to proceed to the Southward, in his Lordship's expressions, 'in order to attempt the restoration of legal Government in that part of America,' but in effect to invade and subdue the Southern Colonies; which armament was to proceed in the first place to North-Carolina, 'and from thence either to South-Carolina or Virginia, as circumstances of greater or less advantage should point out; if to the latter, it might have very important consequences to this Province;' and, therefore, in the said letter, his Excellency is called on well to consider of every means by which he may, in conjunction with Lord Dunmore, give facility and assistance to the operations of the said armament:

"And whereas the Governour must, if he remains in the exercise of the powers of Government, fulfil and execute the instructions of Administration, or hazard the displeasure of the King, which it cannot be expected he will do:

"And whereas, by act of Assembly of this Province, the powers of Government, in the absence of the Governour, devolve upon the President of the Council, and therefore the Governour's departure cannot occasion a dissolution or suspension of the present established form of Government within this Province, which this Convention doth not think ought now to be changed: Therefore,

"Resolved, That it be signified to the Governour that the publick quiet and safety, in the judgment of this Convention, require that he leave this Province, and that he is at full liberty to depart peaceably with his effects.

"Resolved, That a Committee of five be appointed to wait on the Governour, and deliver him copies of the above Resolutions, together with the following Address, to wit:

"To His Excellency ROBERT EDEN, Esquire, Governour of MARYLAND.

"MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: We are commanded by the Convention to wait upon your Excellency, and to communicate to you the resolutions they have this day entered into; and we are instructed to assure your Excellency that the Convention entertains a favourable sense of your conduct, relative to the affairs of America, since the unhappy differences have subsisted between Great Britain and the United Colonies, as far as the same hath come to their knowledge, and of their real wishes for your return, to resume the Government of this Province, when we shall happily be restored to peace, and that connection with Great Britain, the interruption and suspension of which have filled the mind of every good man with the deepest regret.

"From the disposition your Excellency hath manifested to promote the real interest of both countries, the Convention is induced to entertain the warmest hopes and expectations that, upon your arrival in England, you will represent the temper and principles of the people of Maryland with the same candour you have hitherto shown, and that you will exert your endeavours to promote a reconciliation, upon terms that may be secure and honourable both to Great Britain and America."

"The President, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Paca, Mr. Plater, and Mr. Hollyday, were elected by ballot a Committee accordingly.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"G. DUVAL, Clerk."

To which his Excellency returned no answer, but received assurances that he might send down to the Capes for a man-of-war, having engaged, by letter to Mr. Carroll, (viz: No. 15.) that he should commit no hostilities whilst up for him; and which Letter is as follows:

"SIR: On a perusal of the address to me yesterday, I don't find it requires any answer; nor do I understand that any was expected. Anything I could say might be thought too little here, and would be thought too much elsewhere. I just trouble you with this to mention a circumstance or two that have occurred to me, to which some attention may prevent disagreeable occurrences.

"I am going to send down the bay to inquire after a vessel for England, and my boat, with Mr. S., will, on that account, sail with the first fair wind. I must request a pass, to protect her from the Provincial and Virginia cruisers.

"Another of the circumstances above alluded to is, the present situation of those cruisers; any sinister accident from the King's ships arising at this time to them, or soon after my sending down, would, in the phrensy of men's minds, be imputed to intelligence from me, notwithstanding my assurances of my confining Mr. S. and the boatmen solely to the errand I send them on. This you might remedy, by ordering them up the bay till I am gone; and in that case will pledge myself that such man-of-war that may come to escort me through the Virginia part of the bay shall commit no hostilities in this Province. But if they must remain below, I cannot be answerable for what may happen to them.

"The forces are at the Capes, and I propose writing to Captain George Montague, and giving him the trouble of me, till I take my departure from the Capes. One of your look-out boats might sail with mine, and carry instructions to Captain Nicholson, or my boat shall deliver your despatches, if she can see them in her way down the bay. I am the more solicitous to settle this point, as I am desirous to leave the Province on the most friendly terms, and in as much peace as the times will admit.

"Requesting your sentiments on these matters, and the pass above-mentioned for the Friendship schooner boat, George Wilkes, mulatto, skipper, I am."

His Excellency's boat went down on the 26th ultimo, and returned on the 31st, with the following from Captain Hammond, who is Commander of the Squadron on this station. (No. 16, viz:)

"On his Majesty's service. To Robert Eden, Esq., Governour of his Majesty's Province of Maryland, Annapolis. By favour of Robert Smith, Esq.

"Roebuck, at Gwin's Island, May 30, 1776.

"DEAR SIR: I have received your letter of the 26th instant, by Mr. Smith, who arrived here yesterday, and am sorry (though not surprised) to learn that you think it necessary to leave Annapolis.

"The Province of Maryland has hitherto been looked upon as having acted with a degree of moderation in the present unnatural rebellion subsisting in the Colonies; and I had some expectation, from your continuing in your Government, that you might have been able to convince the people of the impossibility of their succeeding in the plan that America is now pursuing; which is the only motive, I fear, that will have any weight in bringing them back to their allegiance. But as you have certainly now given this a very fair trial, and it is become apparent that the matter can only be settled by force of arms, I confess that I think your remaining longer among them would only be exposing yourself to insults, and would answer no good purpose to his Majesty's service. I shall, therefore, very soon send one of the King's ships to receive you on board, until a passage can be provided for you to England, which I believe will happen very shortly. I shall also not fail to give orders to the ship that she shall commit no hostilities at Annapolis whilst on that service. But as no officer in his Majesty's service can be supposed to suffer patiently the smallest insult to be offered to the British colours, it will be necessary for you to inform the persons that assume the government of the people, that if the peace is not as strictly observed on the part of the Provincials, both with regard to the boats as well as the ship, during the time it may be necessary for her to stay on the coasts of Maryland, that any orders which I may think proper to issue for the purpose, will not restrain the Captain of the ship from acting as he shall think proper and necessary upon the occasion.

"Had I not received your letter, you would certainly have heard from me in a few days, to have acquainted you that his Excellency the Earl of Dunmore and myself, with the joint forces under our command, left Norfolk on the 23d instant, and put into this harbour on the 28th, in order to complete our wood and water, where we at present remain.

"I have the honour to be, dear sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

"A. S. HAMMOND.

"To Governour Eden, Annapolis."

His Excellency further adds, that he is in daily expectation of the arrival of one of his Majesty's ships of war to receive him.

And he was pleased to conclude by observing to the Board, that although he had not consulted them in the progress of this disagreeable business, his not doing it was not owing to any distrust of, or disrespect to them, being fully persuaded they would have given him their best advice on this, as they have always done on every other occasion; but that the whole of these transactions seemed immediately to concern himself; his absence was to be supplied by the President and Council; very few of the Council were present for him to consult with; and, in general, that the different proposals made to him by the Council of Safety, or Convention, required immediate answers, which depended only on himself.

Whereupon, on mature consideration being had, the Board agreed to the following Address, and ordered the same to be presented to his Excellency by the Hon. Benedict Calvert, Esq., being No. 17, and which is as follows, viz:

"To His Excellency ROBERT EDEN, Esquire, Governour and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Province of MARYLAND.

"MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: We are very much obliged to your Excellency for the information you have given us, and are fully persuaded that the urgency of the occasion did not admit of our being consulted; and, indeed, if we had been consulted, it would not have been in our power to advise a conduct more proper, in your very peculiar and embarrassing situation, than that which you pursued.

"By the experience we have had of your inclinations and endeavours to promote the peace and welfare of this Province, we are encouraged to entertain the most sanguine expectation that your benevolent regards will not be lessened by any disagreeable incidents which have occurred in the present unhappy conjunction of affairs, and not proceeding from any personal disrespect to yourself.

"We are satisfied of the sincerity of the Members of the Convention in the declaration they have made of their ardent desire that a reconciliation may take place between Great Britain and the American Colonies; and as we most cordially join them in this affection, so we do in soliciting that you will exert your good offices to re-establish peace and amity.

"We cannot take leave of your Excellency without expressing our most earnest wishes for your health and happiness, and that we may again see you here, in the peaceful possession of the office of Governour, and the people of this Province in the full enjoyment of their constitutional rights.

"BENEDICT CALVERT.

"June 7, 1776."

Wednesday, June 12, 1776.

Council at the Governour's.—Present: His Excellency Robert Eden, Esquire, Governour, Daniel Dulany, William Hayward, Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, and Philip Thomas Lee, Esquires.

Ordered, by his Excellency the Governour, with the advice of this Board, that Proclamations issue for dissolving the present General Assembly, which stands prorogued to this day; and that Writs of Election issue to call a new Assembly, bearing date the 14th instant, and returnable the 25th day of July next.

Which were issued accordingly.

His Excellency was also pleased to mention to this Board that, by such letters as he had received from Mr. Hamersley, agent to and one of the Lord Proprietary's guardians, it was to be inferred that the desire at home is to have the Land-Office shut up till the claim to the Province should be ascertained by judgment now depending in England relative thereto; and he requested their advice on this subject; when

The Council, on consideration thereof, gave it as their opinion that, during the present disturbances, such a step might probably give offence here, and be injurious to the Proprietary's interest; and therefore recommended, as they had before done, to his Excellency to leave the Land-Office open for business, in the same manner as it has hitherto been.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, June 7, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed letter from the Commissioners in Canada I am commanded by Congress to transmit to you. The contents of it are truly alarming. Our Army in that quarter is almost ruined for want of discipline, and everything else necessary to constitute an army or to keep troops together. The Congress, in this situation of our affairs, have resolved that General Wooster be recalled from Canada. I am therefore to request you will immediately order him to repair to Head-Quarters, at New-York.

Yesterday I sent off an express to General Mercer, with orders to set out directly for Head-Quarters, and at the same time enclosed his commission.

I enclose you a resolve respecting Doctor Potts's appointment in Canada. You will please to give him orders to go either into Canada or to Lake-George, as you may think most proper.

I have the honour to be, with every sentiment of regard and esteem, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO THE SEVERAL COLONIES.

Philadelphia, June 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am commanded by Congress to transmit you the enclosed resolves, [of June 3d,] and to request your immediate attention to the same.

The article of lead is so essentially necessary to us at this juncture, and is withal so scarce, that no pains should be spared to procure it. The situation of the United Colonies will be extremely deplorable if we depend entirely upon the importation of it. Every people should have within themselves all the means of self-defence. To the bounty of Providence we owe it that America has these in the greatest plenty.

Let us not, therefore, be wanting to ourselves, but faithfully and diligently cultivate those means; and I trust that we shall, ere long, baffle the most malicious schemes of our enraged and implacable enemies.

You will readily perceive the great importance of the enclosed resolve, wherein the Congress earnestly recommend to you to remove everything out of the way that would enable our enemies to prosecute their plans of violence against us. It is, indeed, so apparently the advantage of individuals to remove their stock and grain, that, in this instance, their interest and that of the publick are one and the same.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

(To the Assembly of Massachusetts-Bay, Governour and Assembly of Connecticut, Convention of New-York, Convention of New-Jersey, &c., &c.)

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 10, 1776.]

New-York, June 7, 1776.

SIR: I do myself the honour to inform Congress that I arrived here yesterday afternoon about one o'clock, and found all in a state of peace and quiet. I had not time to view the works carrying on, and those ordered to be begun when I went away, but have reason to believe, from the report of such of the General and other officers I had the pleasure to see, that they have been prosecuted and forwarded with all possible diligence and despatch.

I am much concerned for the situation of our affairs in Canada, and am fearful ere this it is much worse than was first reported at Philadelphia. The intelligence from thence, in a letter from Captain Wilkinson, of the Second Regiment, to General Greene, is truly alarming; it not only confirms the account of Colonel Bedel and Major Sherburne's defeat, but seems to forebode General Arnold's, with the loss of Montreal. I have enclosed a copy of the letter, which will but too well show there is foundation for my apprehensions.

On Wednesday evening I received an express from General Schuyler, with sundry papers, respecting Sir John Johnson, which I have not time to copy, as the post is just going off, but will do myself the honour of transmitting you as soon as I possibly can.

Before I left Philadelphia, I employed a person to superintend the building of the gondolas, which Congress have resolved on for this place. He has arrived, and all things seem to be in a proper channel for facilitating the work; but when they are done, we shall be in much want of guns, having never received any of those taken by Commodore Hopkins.

Be pleased to mention me to Congress with the utmost respect; and I am, sir, with every sentiment of respect, regard, and esteem, your and their most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable the President of Congress.

P. S. I this minute received your favour of the 5th instant. I am in need of commissions, and beg Congress to point out precisely the line I am to pursue in filling them up; this I mentioned in my letter of the 11th ultimo. I am much pleased at the fortunate captures, and the generous conduct of the owners and masters for the tender of the money to Congress.

La Chine, 24th, 12 o'clock at night, 1776, }
about 12 miles from Montreal. }

MY DEAR SIR: We are now in a sweet situation; a part of the garrison at Detroit, in conjunction with Indians and Canadians, to the amount of one thousand men, have made themselves masters of Colonel Bedel's Regiment, who were stationed about nine miles from this place, among the cedars, and have cut off our friend Major Sherburne, with one hundred and forty men, who were detached to relieve the regiment which defended itself in a little fort. The Major, with that courage which marked his character, pushed his way, after an engagement of four hours, into the fort, and was afterwards obliged to yield, for want of ammunition and provision; since which time General Arnold, with a handful of men, have been throwing up a breastwork here, in order to stop the enemy's progress, and had indeed meditated a plan of attacking them; but, alas, so astonishingly are matters conducted in this quarter, that notwithstanding the General's most pressing solicitations, and the length of time since he took possession of this post, we cannot now muster more than four hundred and fifty men; whilst the proximity and movements of the enemy assure us that we shall be attacked within six hours; their drums were heard this evening at our camp, and a man of mine shot through the thigh within half a mile of it by an Indian, who took off a prisoner. But the morning dawns, that morn big with the fate of a few, a handful of brave fellows. I shall do my part; but remember, if I fall I am sacrificed. May God bless you equal to your merits. Vale.

JAMES WILKINSON.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I suppose you have received from the Congress two resolutions for the reinforcement of our Army in Canada; but lest you should not be apprised of them, I take the liberty to enclose you a copy. I most earnestly request you will exert every endeavour to furnish the quota expected from your Province as speedily as possible. General Schuyler is extremely importunate for a supply of men, and it is altogether out of my power to afford them from the troops here, as they by no means exceed the number requisite for the defence of this place.

I have the honour to be, with much respect, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, June 7, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I have not time to answer your two last favours minutely, but only to acknowledge the receipt of them, being just returned from Philadelphia, and the post about to depart this morning.

The situation of our affairs in Canada is truly alarming; and I greatly fear, from the intelligence transmitted from thence by Captain Wilkinson to General Greene, that ere this we have sustained further and greater misfortunes than what happened when you wrote. I have enclosed you a copy of his letter, by which you will see I have too much ground for my concern; and I sincerely wish that the next letters from the northward may not contain melancholy advices of General Arnold's defeat and the loss of Montreal. The most vigorous exertions will be necessary to retrieve our circumstances there, and I am hopeful you will strain every nerve for that purpose; unless it can be now done, Canada will be lost forever, the fatal consequences of which every one must feel.

I have enclosed you a copy of a resolve of Congress for reinforcing the Army in Canada, and keeping up the communication with that Province. I hope the several Colonies will immediately furnish their quotas of men, which, or as many of them as may be necessary, I should imagine had better be employed at the communications, and all the enlisted soldiers sent forward to Canada. You have also another resolution for employing and engaging a number of Indians in the service. Though Congress have not particularized the mode for raising and engaging them, I would have you and the Commissioners appointed for Indian affairs, pursue such measures for the purpose as to you may seem best for securing their friendship and service. If a smaller number than two thousand will do, I would not advise more to be embodied than will be necessary.

If your presence or direction at St. Johns, or any post in Canada, could be of service, and tend to put our affairs in a better channel than they now are, I could wish you to go, as General Thomas is down in the small-pox; but I do not mean to direct or request you to do it, if you think, by remaining where you are, or not going, will be of more publick advantage, or that the cause will be injured by doing it. You will be governed by such measures as appear to you best, and the circumstance of our affairs under your management, and those in Canada, with which you must be much better acquainted than I am or can possibly be at this distance. It is probable your presence may be necessary and wanted at the negotiation with the Indians, which will be one cause to prevent your going.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO GENERAL WARD.

New-York, June 7, 1776.

SIR: By his Excellency's command, I enclose you a resolve of Congress for the dismissal of Lieutenant-Colonel Burbeck from the Continental service, of which you will be pleased to give him proper notice.

As Congress (from the great variety of important matters before them) had not, when his Excellency came from Philadelphia, determined how the troops at Boston are to be paid, whether by the Paymaster-General here, or a Deputy to be appointed for that purpose, his Excellency thinks, if the troops are turbulent and very importunate for their pay, that you had better borrow money from the General Court, for the purpose of making them easy and quieting their minds, to be repaid when money is sent. This expedient he only means to advise in case you find it necessary.

I am, &c.,

ROBERT H. HARRISON.

To Major-General Ward, Boston.

JOHN SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

New-York, June 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: My misfortune in having a brig of mine seized the 3d of November last by one of Lord Dunmore's cruisers, and carried to Norfolk, in Virginia, loaded with rum, sugar, molasses, and salt; his Lordship ordered a Court to be held for the trial of the vessel and cargo, and has condemned part of the cargo; the rest of the cargo that was not condemned, he ordered the supercargo to sell at auction to the fleet, which was done to a very great loss; the vessel was cleared by the Court, she being registered in Jamaica.

A few days ago Captain Wright, of the above vessel, arrived here by land from Virginia; he now accompanies my brother Philip. The Captain gives me great hopes of recovering the money of that part of the cargo sold in the fleet by the supercargo, which still lies in his hands.

The favour that I would now beg leave to ask is, to procure a pass from the honourable Continental Congress for my brother, Philip Schuyler, and Captain Jacob Wright, to the commanding officer at Norfolk, to procure a flag for them to pass through the lines, so as to get to the supercargo on board the brig in Dunmore's fleet.

Your interest in this matter will be of service to, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN SCHUYLER.

To Francis Lewis, John Alsop, and Philip Livingston.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Committee-Chamber, New-York, June 7, 1776.

Whereas doubts have arisen in the Provincial Congress, "Whether the present Members are invested with sufficient power and authority to deliberate and determine on so important a subject as the necessity of erecting and constituting a new form of Government and internal police, to the exclusion of all foreign jurisdiction, dominion, and control whatever, agreeable to a late resolve of the honourable the Continental Congress:"

And whereas it was by them, in their resolve of the 31st of May last, recommended to the Electors in the several Counties in this Colony, by election, in the manner and form prescribed for the election of the present Congress, either to authorize, in addition to the powers vested in their present Deputies, or others in the stead of the present Deputies, or either of them, with full and sufficient power to take into consideration the necessity and propriety of instituting such new Government as in and by the resolution of the Continental Congress is described and recommended; and that if the majority of the Counties, by their Deputies in Provincial Congress, shall be of opinion that such new Government ought to be instituted and established, then to institute and establish such a Government as they shall deem best calculated to secure the rights, liberties, and happiness of the good people of this Colony, and to continue in force until a future peace with Great Britain shall render the same unnecessary:

The General Committee of the City and County of New-York, agreeable to the above recommendation, earnestly request and entreat all the freeholders and freemen, and also all the other inhabitants of the said City and County possessed of goods and chattels in their own right to the amount of forty pounds, to attend at the City-Hall of said City, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, on Monday, the 17th day of this instant June, then and there to invest their present Members of Provincial Congress with the power aforesaid, or to elect by ballot others in their stead, or in the stead of any of them, with such power to continue to represent the said City and County in Congress, until the second Tuesday in May next, or until a reconciliation with Great Britain, or the establishment of a new form of Government shall render the same unnecessary. The Chairman or Deputy Chairman, and six Members, with the Secretary, will attend said election. It is not doubted but every true friend to this Colony, entitled to vote here, will cheerfully come up to declare, by their voting, that they join in opinion with their Congress and Committee, viz: That the measure recommended as aforesaid is of the highest importance to the good people of this Colony, and to the liberties of America in general.

Extract from the Minutes. Published by order of the Committee:

JOSEPH WINTER, Secretary.

To His Excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esquire, Captain-General over all the Forces of the United Colonies.

The Address of the Committees of Safety and Inspection for several Towns in the County of BERKSHIRE, MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, bordering on the Colony of NEW-YORK, and with the approbation of KING's District in said Colony:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: We beg leave to lay before your Excellency the distresses of our minds with all humility. Fear of injuring our common cause by writing as well as speaking on the one hand, or by silence on the other, has filled us with peculiar concern. The purport of this epistle is so delicate, we write with fear and trembling, lest, when we mean to serve our country, we do it an irreparable injury. Purity of intention will not always secure us against wrong steps. We beg leave to assure your Excellency that it is our hearty intention to support your Excellency in the defence of America against the tyranny and usurpation of Great Britain, and if that is the pleasure of the honourable Continental Congress, to the building up a distinct republic, or American empire, to the last extremity. But what has filled our minds with a peculiar sense of danger to our common cause are the following things, which we take to be facts, though we may be deceived as to some of them:

That his Honour General Schuyler has had the superintending oversight of our Canadian Army.

That, after the glorious defeat of December 31, 1775, at Quebeck, in an attempt to take it by storm, recruits were forwarded in the slowest and most dilatory manner.

That our Army before the walls of Quebeck, during a long and tedious winter, underwent every kind of hardship, and their spirits were broken by being neglected.

That about the 4th of May so inconsiderable was the Army, so miserably provided with provisions and ammunition—in a word, so greatly neglected, that it was obliged precipitately to raise the siege, and disgracefully to retreat, so as not only to leave those five hundred valiant sons of America, taken within the walls of Quebeck, to the mercy of our enemies, but an additional number of sick to be disposed of at their pleasure.

That his Honour General Schuyler, some time last winter, went on an expedition to subdue the internal enemies of this country, collected in arms against the country at Johnstown; and after the suppression of the said rebellion, the king leader, Sir John Johnson, was not so much as put under moderate confinement.

That the said Sir John Johnson hath since collected a number of said enemies, as we suppose, and joined some of the King's forces in the upper forts, and raised a number of Canadians and Indians, and come down upon Colonel Bedel's Regiment stationed at the Cedars, and taken them to a man, not less than about five hundred in number, many of whom were shot and others tomahawked in cold blood by the insatiable savages, after they were made prisoners. This we have from men of credibility, who were made prisoners at the same time, but found means to get away; the Colonel of said regiment being necessarily absent at the time of said fight, after provisions, &c.

That our Army has long been in a most deplorable situation in Canada as to provisions, intrenching tools, &c., and we view them as in danger of being driven wholly out of those territories; which event we have but too much reason to fear will decide the fate of New-England, and be of the most dangerous consequence to all the United Colonies.

That the minds of many officers and soldiers, and others, are greatly dissatisfied with the conduct of his Honour General Schuyler, and have great fears respecting his fidelity to his country, though they may be wholly without foundation; and we find a great backwardness in men to enlist in this expedition on this account. God forbid that we should harbour ungrounded jealousies of the deliverers, and, in a sense, saviours of our country, or wilfully shut our eyes against the greatest dangers.

We beg leave to assure your Excellency that we consider all the United Colonies but as one, and observe no other distinctions but those of friends and enemies to their country. We indulge no private disgust or resentment. We are of no faction or party. We wish not to injure the reputation and glory of his Honour General Schuyler, were it in our power; we sincerely hope his name may be handed down, with immortal honour, to the latest posterity, as one of the great pillars of the American cause.

We must not conclude without assuring your Excellency of the utmost repose and confidence placed in your Excellency by persons of all ranks and conditions within the sphere of our knowledge. We can cheerfully rest in your Excellency's wisdom, under the direction of Him who ruleth over all, for the directing the military operations in general through this great continent, in conformity to the advice of the honourable Continental Congress. We heartily pray for success to your arms, and salvation to America, and that your Excellency's disinterested services may meet with a glorious retribution in the resurrection of the just at the last great day, and your present tears for America be turned into never-ending joy and triumph.

ASA DOUGLASS, Chairman of the Committee.

Pittsfield, June 7, 1776.

To His Excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esq., Generalissimo over all the Forces of the United Colonies:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: May a grey-headed farmer speak freely? Will your Excellency allow me to unbosom myself to you when I fear to do it, and think it unwise to other persons? I hear your Excellency is free of access, and ready to hear the story, if it is of importance, of inferior persons, and in their own natural dialect. I beg leave, for once, to speak, and ease my distressed mind.

I have been a constant observer of all our northern transactions, from the beginning of our troubles to this day. I early raised a company, and was at the taking of Ticonderoga; some weeks after which I was sent by the commander of said fort to the honourable Continental Congress. On my way to Philadelphia, I was thunderstruck to hear that that venerable wise body had ordered said fort to be deserted and given up into the hands of our enemies, and the cannon to be removed the hither side of Lake George. Knowing that to be the key to all New-England, and an inlet to the savages to ravage our frontiers for many hundred miles in length, (there being many thousands of new settlers, New-Englanders, north of said fort,) I viewed said doings of the Congress as the finishing stroke to New-England. When I arrived at Philadelphia, I carefully searched out the cause of it, and I found the land jobbers were the foundation or efficient cause of said resolution of Congress. I gave myself no rest till that resolution was reversed. On my way to Philadelphia I waited on New-York Congress, and could get no relief from them. I found them deeply interested, and they gave no encouragement of assisting me. And I believe in my conscience to this day that said Province is not hearty, neither in the reduction of Canada nor in opposing Great Britain.

His Excellency General Schuyler was appointed to the command of the northern Army, to draw in that Province to the support of the cause of the continent; neither the General nor the Province (I mean near about the one-half) appear to me to be real friends.

Your Excellency cannot be a stranger to what events have taken place in Canada; and I think actions speak infinitely louder than words. I speak plainly. I believe, by all that has transpired, that General Schuyler is a traitor, and that an overwhelming destruction upon our Army in Canada, if not upon all the New-England Provinces, is near at hand. What but disgrace and infamy are constantly pursuing our Army there, and all for the want of their being provided for. Why is Sir John Johnson now at the head of a powerful army, swallowing up our forces by large mouthfuls in Canada? Is this the man that was taken in arms against his country last fall, and not so much as confined? Be astonished, O earth! Why was our Army last year universally disaffected towards General Schuyler? Was there no reason for their universal complaints?—I speak of officers and soldiers—when all was love and affection for the glorious Montgomery, not a murmur, not a whisper heard to his disadvantage. Why has our Army been starving, when Albany has been overflowing with provisions, and this country all round about us suffering through plenty? How many bushels of wheat were sold in Albany last winter for half a dollar, paid in goods at the highest price? And how many tens of thousands of bushels might now, in a day's time, be carried in for two-thirds of a dollar? Why has there been such cheating in that Army as to the pork? great part of which has been fit only for dogs to eat, owing to the waggoners letting out the brine to lighten his load.

The Army in Canada, O how unlike the one before Boston last year! I expect to hear nothing but disgrace and infamy from our Canadian Army, without some great change and mighty exertions. If Canada is gone, America is undone. I speak here from knowledge. A more important post as to the support of our cause is not upon this whole continent. Can't General Schuyler be removed, with honour, to some other post, or have an assistant General, or some other measure be taken to satisfy the minds of people in general? What a dark plot has been carrying on of late throughout New-York Government! What dependance has Government upon our internal enemies? What multitudes, from one end of New-York Government to the other, stand tiptoe to join our enemies! I expect it will be but a few weeks before this continent will be struck with amazement and horror. Great Cromwell, under God, I rest upon you to save this country from ruin! I pray that what I have written may do no hurt to the glorious cause of my country. May God preserve your Excellency, and give you wisdom from above, and lengthen out your life till millions shall proclaim, with a voice that shall shake the pillars of the world, the American cause is finished! This comes from my breast, and will be retained in your Excellency's.

I am your Excellency's humble servant,

ASA DOUGLASS.

I think few or none of New-England officers or soldiers will serve two campaigns under General Schuyler.

CAPTURE OF THE PRIVATEER YANKEE HERO.

Captain James Tracy sailed from Newburyport the 7th of June, in the Yankee Hero, for Boston, with twenty-six men only, including officers; this number was not a quarter of his complement; he was provisioned for a six months' cruise, and was to take in the remainder of his men at Boston. The afternoon he went out, going round Cape Ann he observed a sail in the offing, but in his situation did not think of looking after her. Two boats, full manned, with their muskets, who had put out after the sail, came on board, and informed him a number of transports had been close in with the cape that day. Fourteen men from the two boats joined him, and sent their boats on shore; he had now forty hands in the whole, (only a third of his complement;) with these he put away for the sail, which bore east southeast, about five leagues distance, the wind being then westerly; at six miles distance they perceived her to be a ship, and soon, from her management, to be a ship of war. As a contest with her must have been very unequal, Captain Tracy, who intended to make a harbour that night, ordered the brig to be put about for the shore, not then suspecting the ship could come up with him; but he had not tacked ten minutes before the westerly wind died away, and the ship, taking a fresh southerly breeze, came fast in, endeavouring to cut the brig off from the shore. After some time, the ship thus getting in the wake of the brig, the wind again came fresh to the westward, upon which the brig hauled to the wind, in the best angle for the shore; the ship gave chase, and in an hour came up within half a mile, and began to fire her bow-chasers, which the brig only answered with a swivel, Captain Tracy reserving his whole fire, until the ship, keeping a constant fire, came up within pistol-shot upon his lee-quarter, when the brig gave her the best return they could make from their main and quarter-deck guns, swivels, and small arms, and after that kept up a constant fire. The ship was soon up alongside; and with twelve nine-pounders of a side, upon one deck, beside fore-castle and quarter-deck guns, and with her marines overlooking the brig as high as her leading blocks, kept a continual fire. After some time the ship hauled her wind so close, (which obliged the brig to do the same,) that Captain Tracy was unable to fight his lee guns; upon this he backed under her stern; but the ship, which sailed much faster, and worked as quick, had the advantage, and brought her broadside again upon him, which he could not evade, and in this manner they lay not a hundred feet from each other, yawing to and fro, for an hour and twenty minutes, the privateer's men valiantly maintaining their quarters against such a superior force. About this time the ship's fore-mast guns beginning to slack fire, Captain Tracy slacked under her stern; and when clear of the smoke and fire, perceived his rigging to be most shockingly cut—yards flying about without braces, some of his principal sails shot to rags, and half of his men to appearance dying and wounded. Mr. Main, his First Lieutenant, was among the first wounded, and Mr. Davis, one of the prize-masters, fell in the last attack. In this situation they went to work to refit the rigging, and to carry the wounded below, the ship having then taken a broad sheer some way off, and none of her guns bearing; but before they could get their yards to rights, which they zealously tried for, in hopes still to get clear of the ship, as they were now nearer in shore, or to part from her under the night, she again came up and renewed the attack, which obliged Captain Tracy to have recourse to his guns again, though he still kept some hands aloft to his rigging; but before the brig had again fired two broadsides, Captain Tracy received a wound in his right thigh, and in a few minutes he could not stand; he laid himself over the arm-chest and barricado, determined to keep up the fire, but in a short time, from pain and loss of blood, he was unable to command, growing faint, and they helped him below; as soon as he came to, he found his firing had ceased and his people round him wounded, and not having a surgeon with them, in a most distressed situation, most of them groaning and some expiring. Struck severely with such a spectacle, Captain Tracy ordered his people to take him up in a chair upon the quarter-deck, and resolved again to attack the ship, which was all this time keeping up her fire; but after getting into the air, he was again so faint that he was for some time unable to speak, and finding no alternative but they must be taken or sunk, for the sake of the brave men that remained, he ordered them to strike to the ship, (the Milford, of twenty-eight guns, John Burr commander.)

Thus was this action maintained for upwards of two hours in a low single-decked vessel, with not half the metal the ship had, against an English frigate, whose Navy has been the dread of nations, and by a quarter the number of people in the one as the other; yet the victors exulted as though they had overcome a score as much superior as this was inferior to them. The brig had four men killed and thirteen wounded, including officers; the number in the Milford wounded is not known, though there were some. The deprivation of these brave officers and men is to be regretted by all friends to this country. With justice to Captain Burr, of the Milford, it must be acknowledged he treated with humanity and politeness the officers and men that were wounded; but to the eternal disgrace of Britain, and the present King and Parliament, let it be recorded, that in this very action above related, upwards of thirty Americans (prisoners in the Milford) were forced, at the forfeit of their lives, to fight against their countrymen; and the officers and men of the Yankee Hero, that were not wounded, are now detained in several of their ships, and may meet with the same cruel fate—an exaction that even savages have not been known to require. It is to the credit of the Hero's men that not one would enter upon the ship's books, though not only urged by every persuasion, but by threats.

Captain James Tracy, and Mr. Main, his First Lieutenant, we hear, are likely to do well of their wounds, though they mend but slowly; they and the other wounded men are at Halifax; twelve of the Hero's men were kept on board the Milford; Mr. Robert Tracy, his Second Lieutenant, and the rest of the brig's company, are on board the Renown, Commodore Banks.*

Address to the Convention of the Colony and Ancient Dominion of VIRGINIA, on the subject of Government in general, and recommending a particular form to their consideration: By a native of the Colony.

GENTLEMEN: When despotism had displayed her banners, and with unremitting ardour and fury scattered her engines of oppression through this wide extended continent, the virtuous opposition of the people to its progress relaxed the tone of Government in almost every Colony, and occasioned in many instances a total suspension of law. These inconveniences, however, were natural, and the more readily submitted to, as there was then reason to hope that justice would be done to our injured country, the same laws, executed under the same authority, soon regain their former use and lustre, and peace, raised on a permanent foundation, bless this our native land.

But since these hopes have hitherto proved delusive, and time, instead of bringing us relief, daily brings forth new proofs of British tyranny, and thereby separates us farther from that reconciliation we so ardently wished; does it not become the duty of your, and every other Convention, to assume the reins of Government, and no longer suffer the people to live without the benefit of law, and order the protection it affords? Anarchy and riot will follow a continuance of its suspension, and render the enjoyment of our liberties and future quiet at least very precarious.

Presuming that this object will, ere long, engage your * HALIFAX, June 10, 1776.—On Sunday evening, arrived from off Boston harbour a Privateer brig, in the Rebel service, called the Yankee Hero, Captain Tracy; she was taken by the Milford frigate, of twenty-eight guns, Captain Burr, after an obstinate engagement, in which the Captain of the Privateer received a ball through his thigh, soon after which they struck. She is a fine vessel, and mounts twelve carriage guns and six swivels; her colours were a pine tree on a white field.

The following is a copy of the Yankee Hero Privateer's commission, by Alexander Brymer, Esq., agent for her condemnation, taken by his Majesty's frigate Milford, Captain John Burr commander:

COLONY OF THE MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

The major part of the Council of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in NEW-ENGLAND, to J. A. TRACEY, Gentleman, greeting:

Whereas James Tracy, Jonathan Jackson, Nathaniel Tracey, John Tracey, and Joseph Lee, Merchants, have, at their own expense, fixed out and equipped, for the defence of America, a vessel called the Yankee Hero, burthen about one hundred and twenty tons, and have recommended you as a suitable person to be commander thereof: We have thought fit to commission you for the purpose aforesaid, and do accordingly, by these presents, give you, the said James Tracy, full power, with such other persons as you shall engage to your assistance, to sail in the said vessel on the seas, attack, take, and bring into any port in this Colony all armed and other vessels which shall be found making unlawful invasions, attacks, or depredations, on the sea-coasts or navigation of any part of America, or improved in supplying the fleet and army, which have been or shall at any time be, employed against the United Colonies, or employed by the enemies of America in any respect whatsoever; and also all vessels whose masters or supercargoes shall have had designs of carrying supplies of any kind to the enemy, or that shall be returning from the enemy after having carried such supplies, that such proceedings may be had thereon as are required by a law of this Colony, entitled "An act for encouraging the fixing out of armed vessels to defend the sea-coast of America, and for erecting a Court to try and condemn all vessels that shall be found infesting the same." And you are hereby directed in all your proceedings to govern yourself by the said act.

Given under our hands, and the seal of the said Colony, at Watertown, the 20th day of February, in the sixteenth year of the reign of his Majesty King George the Third.

By their Honours' command:

PEREZ MORTON, Deputy Secretary.

Signed—B. Greenleaf, W. Spooner, Caleb Cushing, T. Cushing, John Whetcomb, Jedediah Forster, Eldad Taylor, B. Lincoln, Michael Farley, J. Palmer, Moses Gill, Jabez Fisher, B. White, S. Holton, and John Taylor.

attention, and fully persuaded that when it does it will be considered with all the candour and deliberation due to its importance, I have ventured to collect my sentiments on the subject, and in a friendly manner offer them to your consideration. Should they suggest any hints that may tend to improve or embellish the fabrick you are about to erect, I shall deem myself happy in having contributed my mite to the benefit of a people I esteem, and a country to which I owe every obligation.

Taking for granted, therefore, the necessity of instituting a Government capable of affording all the blessings of which the most cruel attempts have been made to deprive us, the first inquiry will be, which of the various forms is best adapted to our situation, and will in every respect most probably answer our purpose?

Various are the opinions of men on this subject, and different are the plans proposed for your adoption. Prudence will direct you to examine them with a jealous eye, and weigh the pretensions of each with care, as well as impartiality. Your and your children's welfare depends upon the choice. Let it therefore neither be marked by a blind attachment to ancient prejudices on the one hand, or a restless spirit of innovation on the other.

Although all writers agree in the object of Government, and admit that it was designed to promote and secure the happiness of every member of society; yet their opinions as to the system most productive of this general benefit have been extremely contradictory. As all these systems are said to move on separate and distinct principles, it may not be improper to analyze them, and by that means show the manner of their operations.

Government is generally divided into two parts: Its mode or form of Constitution, and the principle intended to direct it.

The simple forms of Government are Despotism, Monarchy, Aristocracy, and Democracy. Out of these an infinite variety of combinations may be deduced. The absolute unlimited control of one man describes Despotism, whereas Monarchy compels the Sovereign to rule agreeable to certain fundamental laws. Aristocracy vests the sovereignty of a State in a few nobles; and Democracy allows it to reside in the body of the people, and is thence called a popular Government.

Each of these forms are actuated by different principles. The subjects of an unlimited despotick Prince, whose will is their only rule of conduct, are influenced by the principle of fear. In a Monarchy limited by laws, the people are insensibly led to the pursuit of honour; they feel an interest in the greatness of their Princes; and, inspired by a desire of glory, rank, and promotion, unite in giving strength and energy to the whole machine. Aristocracy and Democracy claim for their principle publick virtue, or a regard for the publick good independent of private interest.

Let us inquire from which of these several vines we should take a scion to ingraft on our wild one; see which is most congenial to our soil, and by the extent and strength of its branches best calculated to shelter the people from the rage of those tempests which often darken the political hemisphere. I will not deny, whatever others may do, that individuals have enjoyed a certain degree of happiness under all these forms. Content, and consequently happiness, depend more on the state of our minds than external circumstances, and some men are satisfied with fewer enjoyments than others. Upon these occasions the inclinations of men, which are often regulated by what they have seen and experienced, ought to be consulted. It cannot be wise to draw them further from their former institutions than obvious reasons and necessity will justify. Should a form of Government directly opposite to the ancient one under which they have been happy, be introduced and established, will they not, on the least disgust, repine at the change, and be disposed even to acts of violence in order to regain their former condition? Many examples in the history of almost every country prove the truth of this remark.

What has been the Government of Virginia, and in a revolution how is its spirit to be preserved, are important questions. The better to discuss these points, we should take a view of the Constitution of England, because by that model ours was constructed, and under it we have enjoyed tranquillity and security. Our ancestors, the English, after contemplating the various forms of Government, and experiencing, as well as perceiving the defects of each, wisely refused to resign their liberties either to the single man, the few, or the many. They determined to make a compound of each the foundation of their Government, and of the most valuable parts of them all to build a superstructure that should surpass all others, and bid defiance to time to injure, or anything, except national degeneracy and corruption, to demolish.

In rearing this fabrick, and connecting its parts, much time, blood, and treasure, were expended. By the vigilance, perseverance, and activity, of innumerable martyrs, the happy edifice was at length completed, under the auspices of the renowned King William, in the year 1688. They wisely united the hereditary succession of the Crown with the good behaviour of the Prince; they gave respect and stability to the Legislature, by the independence of the Lords, and security, as well as importance to the People, by being parties with their Sovereign in every act of legislation. Here, then, our ancestors rested from their long and laborious pursuit, and saw many good days in the peaceable enjoyment of the fruit of their labours. Content with having provided against the ills which had befallen them, they seemed to have forgotten that although the seeds of destruction might be excluded from their Constitution, they were, nevertheless, to be found in those by whom their affairs were administered.

Time, the improver as well as destroyer of all things, discovered to them that the very man who had wrought their deliverance was capable of pursuing measures leading to their destruction. Much is it to be lamented that this magnanimous Prince, ascending a throne beset with uncertainty and war, was induced, by the force of both, to invent and practise the art of funding to supply his wants, and create an interest that might support him in possession of his Crown. He succeeded to his wish, and thereby established a moneyed interest, which was followed by levying of taxes, by a host of tax-gatherers, and a long train of dependants on the Crown. The practice grew into system, till at length the Crown found means to break down those barriers which the Constitution had assigned to each branch of the Legislature, and effectually destroyed the independence of both Lords and Commons. These breaches, instead of being repaired as soon as discovered, were, by the supineness of the nation, permitted to widen by daily practice, till, finally, the influence of the Crown pervaded and overwhelmed the whole people, and gave birth to the many calamities which we now bewail, and for the removal of which the united efforts of America are at this time exerted.

Men are prone to condemn the whole because a part is objectionable; but certainly it would, in the present case, be more wise to consider whether, if the Constitution was brought back to its original state, and its present imperfections remedied, it would not afford more happiness than any other. If the independence of the Commons could be secured, and the dignity of the Lords preserved, how can a Government be better formed for the preservation of freedom? And is there anything more easy than this? If placemen and pensioners were excluded a seat in either House, and elections made triennial, what danger could be apprehended from prerogative? I have the best authority for asserting, that with these improvements, added to the suppression of boroughs, and giving the people an equal and adequate representation, England would have remained a land of liberty to the latest ages.

Judge of the principle of this Constitution by the great effects it has produced. Their code of laws, the boast of Englishmen and of freedom; the rapid progress they have made in trade, in arts and sciences; the respect they commanded from their neighbours; then gaining the empire of the sea; are all powerful arguments of the wisdom of that Constitution and Government which raised the people of that island to their late degree of greatness. But though I admire their perfections, I must mourn their faults; and though I would guard against, and cast off their oppression, yet would I retain all their wise maxims, and derive advantage from their mistakes and misfortunes. The testimony of the learned Montesquieu in favour of the English Constitution is very respectable: "There is (says he) one nation in the world that has for the direct end of its Constitution political liberty." Again he says, "It is not my business to examine whether the English actually enjoy this liberty or not; sufficient it is for my purpose to observe that it is established by their laws, and I inquire no further."

This Constitution and these laws have also been those of Virginia, and let it be remembered, that under them she flourished and was happy. The same principles which led the English to greatness animates us. To that principle our laws, our customs, and our manners, are adapted; and it would be perverting all order to oblige us, by a novel Government, to give up our laws, our customs, and our manners.

However necessary it may be to shake off the authority of arbitrary British dictators, we ought, nevertheless, to adopt and perfect that system which England has suffered to be grossly abused, and the experience of ages has taught us to venerate. This, like almost everything else, is perhaps liable to objections, and probably the difficulty of adopting a limited Monarchy will be largely insisted on. Admit this objection to have weight, and that we cannot in every instance assimilate a Government to that, yet no good reason can be assigned why the same principle, or spirit, may not in a great measure be preserved. But honourable as this spirit is, we daily see it calumniated by advocates for popular Governments, and rendered obnoxious to all whom their artifices can influence or delude. The systems recommended to the Colonies seem to accord with the temper of the times, and are fraught with all the tumult and riot incident to simple Democracy—systems which many think it their interest to support, and without doubt will be industriously propagated among you. The best of these systems exist only in theory, and were never confirmed by the experience even of those who recommend them. I flatter myself, therefore, that you will not quit a substance actually enjoyed, for a shadow or phantom, by which, instead of being benefited, many have been misled and perplexed.

Let us examine the principles they assign to their Government, and try its merits by the unerring standard of truth. In a late pamphlet it is thus stated: The happiness of man, as well as his dignity, consists in virtue: if there be a form of Government, then, whose principle is virtue, will not every sober man acknowledge it better calculated to promote the general happiness of society than any other form? Virtue is the principle of a Republick, therefore a Republick is the best form of Government.

The author, with what design I know not, seems to have cautiously blended private and publick virtue, as if for the purpose of confounding the two, and thereby recommending his plan under the amiable appearance of courting virtue. It is well known that private and publick virtue are materially different. The happiness and dignity of man, I admit, consists in the practice of private virtues, and to this he is stimulated by the rewards promised to such conduct. In this he acts for himself, and with a view of promoting his own particular welfare. Publick virtue, on the other hand, means a disinterested attachment to the publick good, exclusive and independent of all private and selfish interest, and which, though sometimes possessed by a few individuals, never characterized the mass of the people in any state. And this is said to be the principle of democratical Governments, and to influence every subject of it to pursue such measures as conduce to the prosperity of the whole. A man, therefore, to qualify himself for a member of such a community, must divest himself of all interested motives, and engage in no pursuits which do not ultimately redound to the benefit of society. He must not, through ambition, desire to be great, because it would destroy that equality on which the security of the Government depends; nor ought he to be rich, lest he be tempted to indulge himself in those luxuries which, though lawful, are not expedient, and might occasion envy and emulation. Should a person deserve the esteem of his fellow-citizens and become popular, he must be neglected, if not banished, lest his growing influence disturb the equilibrium. It is remarkable that neither the justice of Aristides nor the bravery of Themistocles could shield them from the darts of envy and jealousy; nor are modern times without examples of the same kind.

To this species of Government everything that looks like elegance and refinement is inimical, however necessary to the introduction of manufactures and the cultivation of arts and sciences. Hence, in some ancient Republicks, flowed those numberless sumptuary laws, which restrained men to plainness and familiarity in dress and diet, and all the mischiefs which attend agrarian laws, and unjust attempts to maintain their idol equality by an equal division of property.

Schemes like these may be practicable in countries so sterile by nature as to afford a scanty supply of the necessities, and none of the conveniences of life; but they can never meet with a favourable reception from people who inhabit a country to which Providence has been more bountiful. They will always claim a right of using and enjoying the fruits of their honest industry, unrestrained by any ideal principles of Government, and will gather estates for themselves and children without regarding the whimsical impropriety of being richer than their neighbours. These are rights which freemen will never consent to relinquish; and after fighting for deliverance from one species of tyranny, it would be unreasonable to expect they should tamely acquiesce under another.

The truth is, that men will not be poor from choice or compulsion, and these Governments can exist only in countries where the people are so from necessity. In all others they have ceased almost as soon as erected, and in many instances been succeeded by despotism, and the arbitrary sway of some usurper, who had before perhaps gained the confidence of the people by eulogiums on liberty, and possessing no property of his own, by most disinterestedly proposing depredations on that of his neighbours.

The most considerable state in which the shadow of Democracy exists (for it is far from being purely so) is that of the United Provinces of Holland, &c. Their territories are confined within narrow limits, and the exports of their own produce very inconsiderable. Trade is the support of that people, and, however said to be considerable, will not admit of luxury. With the greatest parsimony and industry, they, as a people, can but barely support themselves, although individuals among them may amass estates. I own they have exhibited to mankind an example of perseverance and magnanimity that appeared like a prodigy. By the profits of their trade they maintained large armies, and supported a navy equal to the first in their day of warfare; but their military strength, as well as the form of their Government, have long since given way. Their navy has dwindled into a few ships of war, and their Government into an Aristocracy, as unhappy and despotick as the one of which we complain.

The State of Venice, once a Republick, is now governed by one of the worst of despotisms. In short, I do not recollect a single instance of a nation who supported this form of Government for any length of time, or with any degree of greatness; which convinces me, as it has many others, that the principle contended for is ideal, and a mere creature of a warm imagination.

One of the first staples of our country, you know, is esteemed by many to be one of the greatest luxuries in the world, and I fancy it will be no easy matter to draw you into measures that would exclude its culture, and deprive you of the wealth resulting from its exportation.

That I may not tire your patience, I will now proceed to delineate the method in which I would distribute the powers of Government, so as to devise the best code of laws, engage their due execution, preserve the strength of the Constitution, and secure the liberties of the people. It is agreed by most writers on this subject, that this power should be divided into three parts, each independent of, but having connection with each other. Let the people in the first place choose their usual number of Representatives, and let this right return to them every third year.

Let these Representatives, when convened, elect a Governor, to continue in authority during his good behaviour, of which the two Houses of Council of State and Assembly should jointly be the judges, and by majority of voices supply any vacancy in that office, which may happen by dismission, death, or resignation.

Let the Representatives also choose out of the Colony at large twenty-four proper persons to constitute a Council of State, who should form a distinct or intermediate branch of the Legislature, and hold their places for life, in order that they might possess all the weight, stability, and dignity, due to the importance of their office. Upon the death or resignation of any of the members, let the Assembly appoint another to succeed him.

Let no member of either House, except the Treasurer, hold a post of profit in the Government.

Let the Governour have a Privy Council of seven to advise with, though they should not be members of either House.

Let the Judges of the Courts of Common Law and Chancery be appointed by the Governour, with the advice of his Privy Council, to hold their offices during their good behaviour, but should be excluded a seat in either House.

Let the Treasurer, Secretary, and other great officers of State, be chosen by the lower House, and proper salaries assigned to them, as well as to the Judges, &c.

Let all military officers be appointed by the Governour, and all other inferior civil ones.

Let the different Courts appoint their own Clerks. The Justices in each County should be paid for their services, and required to meet for the despatch of business every three months. Let five of them be authorized to form a Court to hear and determine causes, and the others empowered to keep the peace, &c.

These are the outlines of a Government which would, I think, preserve the principle of our Constitution, and secure the freedom and happiness of the people better than any other.

The Governour will have dignity to command necessary respect and authority, to enable him to execute the laws, without being deterred by the fear of giving offence; and yet be amenable to the other branches of the Legislature for every violation of the rights of the people. If this great officer was exposed to the uncertain issue of frequent elections, he would be induced to relax and abate the vigorous execution of the laws whenever such conduct would increase his popularity. Should he, by discharging his duty with impartiality, give offence to men of weight and influence, he would be liable to all the opposition, threats, and insults, which resentment could suggest, and which few men in such a dependant state would have sufficient resolution to neglect and despise; and hence it would follow, that the apprehensions of losing his election would frequently induce him to court the favour of the great, at the expense of the duties of his station and the publick good. For these, and a variety of other reasons, this office should be held during good behaviour.

The Council of State, who are to constitute the second branch of the Legislature, should be for life. They ought to be well informed of the policy and laws of other States, and therefore should be induced, by the permanence of their appointment, to devote their time to such studies as may best qualify them for that station. They will acquire firmness from their independency, and wisdom from their reflection and experience, and appropriate both to the good of the State. Upon any disagreement between the Governour and lower House, this body will mediate and adjust such difference; will investigate the propriety of laws, and often propose such as may be of publick utility for the adoption of the Legislature. Being secluded from offices of profit, they will not be seduced from their duty by pecuniary considerations.

The Representatives of the people will be under no temptation to swerve from the design of their institution by bribery or corruption, all lucrative posts being denied them. And should they, on any occasion, be influenced by improper motives, the short period of their duration will give their constituents an opportunity of depriving them of power to do injury. The Governour, and the members of the Council of State, should be restrained from intermeddling further in the elections of Representatives than merely by giving their votes.

The internal government and police of the Colony being thus provided for, the next object of inquiry that presents itself is, how a superintending power over the whole continent shall be raised, and with what powers invested. Such a power is confessed on all hands to be necessary, as well for the purpose of connecting the Colonies as for the establishment of many general regulations to which the Provincial Legislatures will not be competent.

Let a Congress, therefore, be appointed, composed of members from each Colony in proportion to their number of souls; to convene at any place that may be agreed upon, as often as occasion may require. Let them have power to adjust disputes between Colonies, regulate the affairs of trade, war, peace, alliances, &c.; but they should by no means have authority to interfere with the internal police or domestick concerns of any Colony; but confined strictly to such general regulations as, though necessary for the good of the whole, cannot be established by any other power.

But whether you settle the affairs of Government in this or any other manner, let me recommend to your serious attention the speedy adjustment of all disputes about the boundaries of your Colony, before they rise to such a height as to threaten great uneasiness and inquietude.

The claim of the proprietors of Indiana on one side, and that of the Kentucky on the other, should be fairly and impartially heard and determined, and notice given to the claimants to attend, that ample justice may be done. In the mean time, would it not be proper to give notice, that none of those lands should be sold or settled until it was known to whom they appertain? The claims of the Indiana Company are stated in a pamphlet, (sent for your perusal,) and patronized by the opinions of some eminent lawyers. But this should not prevent a strict and thorough investigation of the matter. Both claims, it is certain, cannot be good. If the treaty of Stanwix should be adjudged valid, and the right given up to the country of Indiana, that same treaty will confirm to the Colony all the lands on this side the Ohio, from its mouth, along the river, up to the Pennsylvania lands, in the direction of the place called Kittaning in that Province; in which bounds are included the lands claimed and settled by Mr. Henderson.

Our Colonial right to those lands being settled, would it not be proper to sell all such as may be unappropriated for the use of the Colony, and apply the moneys to the payment of the vast burden of taxes we shall incur by this war? The sooner you determine this, the more effectually you will frustrate the design avowed by the author of a late pamphlet, of seizing all unappropriated lands for the use of the continent; a design in which, I own, I see as few traces of justice as in many others of his schemes.

Having completed the remarks I intended to make, I hope, whatever reception they may meet with, you will impute them to my zeal for our country's welfare; the only motive that ever shall induce me to offer my opinion or advice.

I am, gentlemen, with the greatest regard, your devoted friend,
A NATIVE.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO LIEUTENANT HARRISON.
[No. 16.] Annapolis, June 8, 1776.

SIR: The Convention at their last sitting agreed with Mr. Henry Hollingsworth for a quantity of bayonets at eight shillings each. As soon as they are furnished, which, we imagine, will be shortly, we will take care that you shall be supplied, and therefore would not have you contract for any at a different price.

We are sorry you are so very disagreeably circumstanced, as well as to the situation of your station as the smallness of your quarters. As we are desirous of rendering matters as comfortable as possible for you, request you will inquire whether there is a probability of your being better provided at any other place on the island, and upon what terms, that if we approve them, we may remove you from your present quarters as soon as possible. You shall have osnaburgs as soon as we can spare it; we expect some soon from Baltimore. We are, &c.

To Lieutenant William Harrison.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.
[No. 17.] Annapolis, June 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We received Mr. Stone's letter of the 14th instant, and are obliged for the intelligence therein contained. We have heretofore written you by Mr. Stewart, which, doubt not, you have received. The Governour is not yet gone; we expect he will leave the Province in a few days. What interruption the Virginians can or will give him in his passage down the bay, time will discover. We send you enclosed a copy of their resolves, which came by express this day, directed to Charles Carroll, Esq., Chairman of the Convention, and appear to have been fabricated some time after our Convention had broke up. You will see clearly the intention is to stir up the people against the powers now in being—Deputies in Congress, Convention, and Council of Safety—for which they deserve to be properly rewarded. How far such proceedings tend to promote union and harmony amongst the Colonies, you will judge as well or better than we can. We intend returning them a short answer, and leave to the Convention, when they meet again, to give them the payment they deserve.

Should the Congress think proper to request us to march our Militia in the manner T. Stone hath intimated, we must be under the disagreeable necessity of calling the Convention. It is not with us to say they shall march out of the Province, and we doubt the Militia themselves will be backward in so doing, until all danger of invasion here be at an end for the season. Three thousand four hundred Militia would take all the arms we have that are serviceable; and then what condition would our own Province be in? We should become an easy prey to the men-of-war and tenders, that will swarm in the bay during the summer; and perhaps the Ministerial troops may be tempted by our weakness to do what they would not otherwise have attempted. This, we say upon supposition that we must furnish them with arms, &c. We shall hear more fully, however, hereafter.

The intelligence with regard to seven thousand men rising and declaring for independence, is without foundation. We take it to be news from some incendiary. Mr. Purviance got off with a severe reprimand, as you will see by the proceedings of the Convention, a copy of which we shall hereafter enclose to you when they are printed. We all join in compliments and best wishes; and are, &c.

To the Deputies for Maryland in Congress.

INSTRUCTIONS OF THE ASSEMBLY OF PENNSYLVANIA TO THEIR DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

In Assembly, June 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: When, by our instructions of last November, we strictly enjoined you, in behalf of this Colony, to dissent from, and utterly reject any proposition, should such be made, that might cause or lead to a separation from Great Britain, or a change of the form of this Government, our restrictions did not arise from any diffidence of your ability, prudence, or integrity, but from an earnest desire to serve the good people of Pennsylvania with fidelity, in times so full of alarming dangers and perplexing difficulties.

The situation of publick affairs is since so greatly altered, that we now think ourselves justifiable in removing the restrictions laid upon you by those instructions.

The contempt with which the last petition of the honourable Congress has been treated; the late act of Parliament declaring the just resistance of the Colonists against violences actually offered, to be rebellion, excluding them from the protection of the Crown, and even compelling some of them to bear arms against their countrymen; the treaties of the King of Great Britain with other Princes for engaging foreign mercenaries to aid the forces of that kingdom in their hostile enterprises against America, and his answer to the petition of the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, of the City of London, manifest such a determined and implacable resolution to effect the utter destruction of these Colonies, that all hopes of a reconciliation, on reasonable terms, are extinguished. Nevertheless, it is our ardent desire that a civil war, with all its attending miseries, could be ended by a secure and honourable peace.

We therefore hereby authorize you to concur with the other Delegates in Congress in forming such further compacts between the United Colonies, concluding such treaties with foreign Kingdoms and States, and in adopting such other measures as shall be judged necessary for promoting the liberty, safety, and interests of America; reserving to the people of this Colony the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police of the same.

The happiness of these Colonies has, during the whole course of this fatal controversy, been our first wish; their reconciliation with Great Britain our next. Ardently have we prayed for the accomplishment of both. But if we must renounce the one or the other, we humbly trust in the mercies of the Supreme Governour of the Universe, that we shall not stand condemned before His throne if our choice is determined by that overruling law of self-preservation, which His divine wisdom has thought fit to implant in the hearts of His creatures.

BERKS COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Standing Committee of the County of Berks, June 8, 1776, Mark Bird, Esquire, in the Chair.

Resolved, That as some people have declared that no obedience ought to be paid to the civil authority, because a Government will shortly be founded on the authority of the people in the room of the present Government; and as such a conduct will only serve to introduce confusion and disorder, and endanger the lives and properties of every individual in society, it is the opinion of this Committee, and they are determined to support the same to the utmost of their abilities, that the same obedience should be paid to the civil authority as used to be paid to it, till a new Constitution shall be formed by a Provincial Convention, and commissions shall be issued by virtue of the new legislative authority for the appointment of Courts and Magistrates, to preserve the peace and administer justice to the people; and then the authority of the present Courts and Magistrates will cease of course.

By order of the Committee:

COLLINSON READ, Secretary.

JAMES McLENE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 13, 1776.]

Shippensburg, June 8, 1776.

SIR: I am ordered by the Committee of Cumberland County to send you the enclosed Resolve,

And am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JAMES McLENE, Chairman.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

In Committee of Cumberland County, }
Shippensburg, June 7, 1776. }

The Committee of West-Pennsborough Township, in this County, on the 4th instant seized sixteen kegs of Gunpowder, which, by letters produced to this Committee—one signed Lewis Morris, bearing date at Philadelphia, 14th of May last, addressed to Major Ephraim Blair, bearing date the 4th instant, and addressed to Captain George Morgan, at Fort Pitt—appear to be part of a ton of Gunpowder ordered by the said Lewis Morris to the said Ephraim Blair, and by him forwarded to Fort Pitt. We have not been able to discover, neither by the letters nor by the testimony of Ephraim Blair, to what use the same gunpowder is to be applied; therefore suspect it must be private property, and not designed for publick use, which, we apprehend, may be very injurious to the common cause.

Resolved, unanimously, That the aforesaid sixteen kegs of Gunpowder, now under the care of the Committee of West-Pennsborough Township, together with nine kegs more in the custody of Ephraim Blair, at his plantation, near Carlisle, be immediately delivered to Stephen Duncan, Samuel Laird, and James Pollock, of Carlisle, by them to be kept in the publick Magazine at Carlisle until our proceedings therein shall be communicated to the honourable the Continental Congress at Philadelphia, and until an order for the further disposal thereof, signed by the President of the Congress, shall be produced to them, which order they are hereby ordered to obey.

Signed by order of the Committee:

JAMES McLENE, Chairman.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

LIEUTENANT HALLOCK TO MARINE COMMITTEE.

Cape May, June 8, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I just received your order for a cruise, and should comply with it, but the sloop makes so much water I think she is not safe; her stern is in a shattered condition, and judge she will not be fit for service till that is taken out. She makes nine or ten inches every hour, and daily increases. I wrote you this morning by Captain Sion, in a sloop from Statia.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM HALLOCK.

To the Honourable Marine Committee.

WILLIAM HENSHAW TO GENERAL GATES.

Long-Island, June 8, 1776.

SIR: Your many kind interpositions in my behalf, since I have had the pleasure of being acquainted with you, demand my warmest acknowledgments and most sincere thanks, which I beg your acceptance of. I congratulate you on your promotion to a Major-General. It gives me great satisfaction in observing the honourable Continental Congress promoting gentlemen of abilities and merit. That you may still rise higher and higher in the esteem of your country and all good men, and enjoy everything which may tend to your happiness, is the real wish of your much obliged and most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM HENSHAW.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 10, 1776. Referred to the Committee appointed on the 6th, viz: Mr. Sherburne, Mr. Wythe, Mr. Sergeant, Mr. F. Lee, and Mr. Gwinnet.]

New-York, June 8, 1776.

SIR: In my letter of yesterday, which I had the honour of addressing you, and which was designed to have come by post, but was prevented by his departure before the usual time, I mentioned my having received by express a letter and sundry papers from General Schuyler respecting Sir John Johnson, copies of which I herewith transmit you for your inspection and perusal. They will show you what measures were planned and attempted for apprehending him, and securing the Scotch Highlanders in Tryon County.

Having heard that the troops at Boston are extremely uneasy, and almost mutinous for want of pay, (several months of which being now due,) I must take the liberty to repeat a question contained in my letter of the 5th ultimo: "What mode is to be pursued respecting it, whether is money to be sent from hence by the Paymaster-General, or some person subordinate to him, to be appointed there for that purpose?" I expected some direction would have been given long ere this, from what was contained in yours accompanying, or about the time of, the last remittance. I presume it has been omitted by reason of the multiplicity of important business before Congress.

In perusing the several resolves you honoured me with when at Philadelphia, and since my return, I find one allowing a Chief Engineer for the Army in a separate department. The service requiring many of them, I wish Congress, if they know any persons skilled in this business, would appoint them. General Schuyler has frequently applied for and suggested the necessity of having some in Canada. I myself know of none.

I also find there is a resolve of the 3d of June, for taking Indians into service, which, if literally construed, confines them to that in Canada. Is that the meaning of Congress, or that the Commander-in-Chief may order their service to any place he may think necessary?

In respect to establishing expresses between the several Continental posts, who is to do it? The resolve does not say. Is it expected by Congress that I should? Whoever the work is assigned to, I think should execute it with the utmost despatch. The late imperfect and contradictory accounts respecting our defeat at the Cedars, strongly point out the necessity there is for it. No intelligence has yet come from any officer in command there, and most probably for want of a proper channel to convey it, though this misfortune happened so long ago.

When I had the honour of being in Congress, if I mistake not, I heard a resolve read, or was told of one, allowing the New-York troops the same pay of others in the Continental service. This, if any such, I do not find; and if there is not such a one, I shall be under some embarrassment how to pay the Militia to be provided by this Province. The resolve providing them says, they are to be paid while in service as other troops are; but if those inlisted heretofore in this Province are to receive according to the first establishment, it is a matter of doubt what the Militia are to have.

Before this comes to hand, a handbill, containing an account of a victory gained by General Arnold over the party that had defeated Colonel Bedel and Major Sherburne, will most probably have reached you. I have inquired into the authenticity of this fortunate report, and have found there is no dependance to be put in it, nor do I believe it deserving of the least credit. I shall be happy not to hear the reverse.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of great esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

P. S. If Congress have come to any resolution about an allowance to induce men to reinlist, you will please to favour me with it, as the time the Rifle Regiment is engaged for is just expired.

As the Militia will be coming in, and they will be in much need of covering, please to have all the tents, and cloth proper for making them, that may be procured, forwarded as soon as possible.

Fort George, May 31, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Your Excellency's letter of the 22d instant was delivered me last evening. I learn, with particular satisfaction, that Congress has requested your attendance to advise with them on the measures necessary to be adopted for the present campaign. I foresee many salutary consequences from this step.

Although I have transmitted you some further disagreeable accounts from Canada since the date of your favour, yet I hope they will be the last. By a letter from General Thompson, I find he was ordered to repossess himself of Deschambault, with sixteen hundred men, and that he was to leave Sorel (where General Thomas was arrived) on the 20th; he laments, however, that Colonel Greaton's Regiment had been inoculated for the small-pox. An hour after I had despatched my last of the 28th, thirteen of our staunch friends, the Oneidas, arrived here with a speech from the sachems, informing me that some of the Six Nations had gone from Niagara in order to join our enemies, and that they were on their way to Canada, to prevent the defection of the Canadian tribes. They remained here a few hours, and then proceeded.

This morning thirty carpenters left this to repair to Skenesborough, by the way of Ticonderoga, in order to construct gondolas, although nothing is prepared for building them. I hope, nevertheless, to finish one in a short time, at least I will do everything in my power to complete it the soonest possible, and for that purpose I shall leave this tomorrow to put all in train. Since General Sullivan's departure, I have finished sixty batteaus, nor shall I cease until I am advised by your Excellency that no more troops are coming this way.

I wish a person that understood the construction of the best gondolas was sent up express to me, for although they should not be able to get down the Falls of Chambly, yet they will be of service on Lake Champlain, should our Army be obliged to retreat. The vessels we have there (except the Royal Savage) are of very little force.

I enclose your Excellency my orders to Colonel Dayton, his letters, and other papers relative to the transaction in Johnstown. William Yates, the Secretary of Indian Affairs, will transmit you the speeches of the Indians, and the answer to them.

I am just informed that General Thomas has taken the small-pox, is at Chambly, and rather in a dangerous way.

I have not yet had any return from Canada, either of the Army, the provisions, or stores, nor the least information, from any officer in command, of the disaster that befel Colonel Bedel at the Cedars; but I fear it is too true, as it is confirmed by several persons arrived since I wrote this letter, who left Montreal on Sunday, the 26th.

I am informed, by persons of good credit, that about one hundred persons, living on what are commonly called the New-Hampshire Grants, have had a design to seize me as a Tory, and perhaps still have. There never was a man so infamously scandalized and ill treated as I am, and I hope Congress will publicly do me that justice which I thank your Excellency for having done me in your letter of the 21st, if that respectable body is convinced (of which I make no doubt) of my zeal and attachment to the cause of my injured country.

I am, dear sir, ever most sincerely your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Washington.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 1, 1776.

(Parole, Jay.)

(Countersign, Alsop.)

A Sergeant, Corporal, and twelve men, to march to-morrow morning, at six o'clock; at which time they will be directed where to march. They are to be furnished with six days' provisions per man.

Eight men (that understand making cartridges) from each of the five Regiments in General Spencer's Brigade, and from Colonel Nixon's and Colonel Webb's Regiments, to parade to-morrow morning, at six o'clock, at the Bowling-Green, before Colonel Knor's door, and receive their further orders from him.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 2, 1776.

(Parole, Fitch.)

(Countersign, Babcock.)

General Greene to order all Arms in his Brigade which want repairs to be immediately brought into the Armourer's shop, where they will be fitted up properly; after which, all repairs will be stopped out of the men's wages.

Capt. Oliver Soper, of the Thirteenth or Colonel Read's Regiment, tried at the General Court-Martial, (whereof Colonel Nixon is President,) on complaint of Lieutenant Thomas Williams, of said Company, for "defrauding the publick, in knowingly and willingly drawing pay for more men than he had belonging to his Company." The Court are of opinion that Captain Soper is not guilty of the charge brought against him; therefore, do acquit him.

The General approves of the proceedings of the above Court-Martial, and orders that Captain Soper be immediately released from his arrest.

Lieutenant Thomas Williams, of Captain Soper's Company, and Colonel Read's Regiment, also tried at the above Court-Martial, for "impeaching and falsely asserting that Captain Soper, of the said Regiment, had knowingly and designedly defrauded the publick, in making up and drawing pay for more men than he had in his Company; also, for signing Returns of the Company, expressly against the orders of Captain Soper; also, for refusing to repair to his tent when ordered by Captain Soper." The Court are of opinion that the prisoner is guilty of the charge, and unanimously adjudge that he be cashiered for the said offence.

The General approves of the sentence of the above Court-Martial, and orders that Mr. Williams, late a Lieutenant in Colonel Read's Regiment, immediately depart the Camp, by the way of Kingsbridge, or on board a vessel going up the Sound.

John Quinn, of Captain Allen's Company and Colonel Ward's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "desertion," is found guilty, and sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes on his bare back for said offence.

John Luby and James Johnston, both of Captain King's Company, and Colonel Ward's Regiment, tried, severally, at the above Court-Martial for "desertion," are each found guilty, and sentenced, severally, to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on their bare backs.

The General approves of the several sentences above, and orders them to be put in execution to-morrow morning, at guard-mounting.

Hugh Killbreath, of Captain Ross's Company, in Colonel Hand's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "assaulting, beating, and wounding Asa Baker and David Avery, of the Artillery," is found guilty of the charge brought against him, and sentenced to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on his bare back.

The General approves of the above sentence, and orders the prisoner to be transmitted to his Corps, and that the punishment be inflicted on him at the head of the Regiment, at guard-mounting, on the first morning the Commanding Officer shall find suitable for the purpose.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 3, 1776.

(Parole, Hartford.)

(Countersign, Weathersfield.)

Colonel Learned's and Colonel Webb's Regiments to be mustered Wednesday morning, at nine o'clock.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 4, 1776.

(Parole, Brunswick.)

(Countersign, Stratford.)

Colonel Read's Regiment to be mustered to-morrow morning, at nine o'clock, and not Colonel Webb's, as was mentioned in the orders of yesterday.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 5, 1776.

(Parole, Esopus.)

(Countersign, Albany.)

Lieutenant John Riggs, of Captain McFarland's Company and Colonel Nixon's Regiment, tried at the General Court-Martial (whereof Colonel Nixon is President) for "counterfeiting and assuming the character of a Field-Officer, and, under pretence of being Field-Officer of the Day, ordering out one of the principal Guards in the Army, imposing upon Captain Sumner, commanding the Upper Barrack Guard, and behaving herein unbecoming the character of an officer, acting in subversion of military order, &c.," is found guilty of the several charges brought against him, and sentenced by the Court to be cashiered for the same.

The General approves of the sentence of the Court, and orders that Mr. John Riggs, late a Lieutenant in Colonel Nixon's Regiment, do depart the Army, city, and encampment immediately.

George Cottingen and Daniel Dunevil, both of Captain Van Wyck's Company, of Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "desertion," are severally found guilty of the same, and sentenced to be whipped thirty-nine lashes each on their bare backs.

The General approves the above sentences, and orders them to be put in execution to-morrow morning, at guard-mounting, at the head of the Regiment.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 6, 1776.

(Parole, Woodstock.)

(Countersign, Dudley.)

The Brigadiers of each Brigade are to send to the Quartermasters-General to-morrow, at ten o'clock, for the Spears.

The Colonel of each Regiment wanting Arms is to draw on Mr. Cheever, Commissary of Stores, for thirteen, and give their receipts.

One Captain, two Subalterns, two Sergeants, two Corporals, and fifty Privates, from Colonel Webb's Regiment, to parade to-morrow morning, at six o'clock, at Whitehall-Ship; these men to be furnished with five days' provision, and each man an axe to cut pickets; axes and provisions to be got ready this day: they are not to bring their fire-arms. This party to be deducted from their usual details.

The Guard of one Subaltern, one Sergeant, one Corporal, and twenty-four Privates, from the Fourth Brigade, with six days' provisions, is to be posted at Kingsbridge, to prevent any soldiers of the Army passing that way, unless they have leave, in writing, from the Commanding Officer of their respective Corps. This Guard is to be relieved every Wednesday, till further orders. All Masters of vessels and Ferry-men are strictly enjoined not to carry off any soldiers of the Army, without leave, in writing, from their Commanding Officer.

Each of the three Brigades in the Grand Camp is to furnish a Patrol every two hours in the day-time, consisting of a Sergeant and six men, who are to patrol at least two miles to the northward of their respective Camps, and to take up all soldiers whom they find with fire-arms out of Camp, and endeavour to prevent their committing any disorders whatever, and in particular to seize and confine all who shall fire a gun.

The Fourth Brigade is to furnish a Guard, consisting of one Subaltern, one Sergeant and Corporal, one Drum, and twenty Privates, to guard the works on Bayard's Hill, and be relieved every day.

George Edgel, of Captain Hobby's Company and Colonel Ritzema's Regiment, tried at the General Court-Martial (whereof Colonel Nixon is President) for "leaving his guard, getting drunk, and damning the Officer of the Guard," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on his bare back.

John O'Brien, of Captain Varick's Company and Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "sleeping on his post when sentry," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped twenty lashes on his bare back.

Benjamin Richards, of Captain Mighill's Company and Colonel Baldwin's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "publishing the countersign, and openly proclaiming it in a publick house, after tattoo beating," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped twenty lashes on his bare back, for said offence.

John Sinnet, of Captain Johnson's Company and Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "desertion," is found guilty of the same, and sentenced to be whipped twenty lashes on his bare back, for said offence.

The General approves of all the foregoing sentences, and orders that they be put in execution at the usual time and place.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 7, 1776.

(Parole, Gates.)

(Countersign, Mifflin.)

The honourable the Continental Congress have been pleased to appoint Horatio Gates, Esq., Major-General, and Thomas Mifflin, Esq., Brigadier-General, in the Army of the United Colonies. They are to be obeyed as such.

The honourable the Continental Congress have been pleased to appoint Stephen Moylan, Esquire, to be Quartermaster-General, in the room of Thomas Mifflin, Esquire, preferred, and is to be obeyed as such.

Walter Stewart and Isaac Peirce, Esquires, are appointed Aids-de-Camp to Major-General Gates. All orders, written or verbal, delivered by either of them, are to be considered as coming from the Major-General, and obeyed as such.

After Orders, June 7, 1776.

The Adjutants of each Regiment to give in immediately at Head-Quarters a Return of what number of Pikes are fit for service, and what number wanting to complete in each Regiment.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 8, 1776.

(Parole, York.)

(Countersign, Hudson.)

The Quartermaster-General is to return the number of Spears and Intrenching Tools in his store.

The Brigadiers are to see that an exact Return of the Spears in their respective Brigades and Posts is also given in, and that a Report be forthwith made of the deficiencies of Arms and Accoutrements wanting in each Regiment, distinguishing the kinds. These several Returns are expected without delay.

The Colonels and Commanding Officers of Regiments and Corps are to make out Pay-Abstracts for the month of April. These are to be carefully examined by the Brigadier under whom they serve and the Paymaster-General, before they are brought to the Commander-in-Chief to sign the warrants.

The Brigadier of the day is to make a Report to the Commander-in-Chief, in writing, so soon as his tour of duty is ended, of the Guards, and all remarkable occurrences.

The charges made by Captain Butler against Lieutenant Silas Walker, of Colonel Nixon's Regiment, are to be laid before the General Court-Martial, now sitting, and the parties to attend, with their evidences, when called for by the Court.

Lieutenant Van Hook, of Colonel McDougall's Regiment, charged with "disobedience of orders," to be tried by the General Court-Martial now sitting; also,

Lieutenant Ezekiel Oakley, of Colonel McDougall's Regiment, charged with "beating Sally Patterson, an inhabitant of this town, on the head with a stick," to be tried by the General Court-Martial now sitting.

The different charges against the several persons above-mentioned to be tried, to be given in immediately to the Judge-Advocate, together with the names of the evidences. All evidences are to give due attendance.

Colonel Nixon's, Varnum's, Parsons's, Little's, Huntington's, Webb's, and Arnold's Regiments, have never given a Return of their Arms and Accoutrements, although ordered near a month since. It is expected they will be more particular in future. And as an alteration in the state of the Arms and Accoutrements may have happened in some of the Regiments which have sent in their Returns, by purchases of Arms, &c., since, those Regiments are desired to furnish a fresh Return, agreeable to the General Order above, specifying "good," "bad," and "wanting."

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany Committee-Chamber, June 8, 1776.

SIR: We have this moment received from the Mohawk River an account of an intended invasion on our frontiers. A copy of this information we herewith enclose you. In consequence whereof the Militia of Schenectady, together with the Militia of the County of Tryon, are ordered to march immediately to the westward. But our apprehensions are considerably increased by the reflection that the whole County of Albany has only a supply of one ton and the County of Tryon of a quarter of a ton of powder—a quantity scarce sufficient to give ten rounds to each man. We are therefore obliged to press you, in the most earnest manner, to give us a further supply of ammunition, without which it may be dreaded that we shall be obliged to give up our frontiers for want of the necessary means of defence.

We are, sir, your most humble servants.

By order:

ABRAHAM YATES, Chairman.

To Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress of New-York.

COLONEL BELLINGER TO COLONEL F. FISHER.

German Flats, June 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This minute an express came from one of our best Indians, with the news that a great number of the far Indians had arrived at Oneida, and were on their march down; so we sent an express yesterday to the commanding officer at Johnstown, with the news which we got yesterday from Fort Stanwix; but we can get no assistance; so therefore the necessity requires that you will come up with your regiment immediately, to meet them without delay, or we shall all be slaughtered; and send the orders to the next regiment with speed.

Gentlemen, I am your humble servant,

FREDERICK BELLINGER.

To Frederick Fisher, Colonel Mohawk District.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Received June 14, and committed to the Committee for Indian Affairs.]

Fort George, June 8, 1776.

SIR: Last night Mr. Kirkland arrived here, with letters from Colonel Dayton and the Secret Committee of Albany, which refers me to him for a representation of the state of affairs among the Six Nations of Indians, which, in compliance with my request, he has committed to paper, copy of which I do myself the honour to enclose you. I am fully sensible of the necessity of taking post at the place where Fort Stanwix formerly stood. The least acquaintance with that part of the country points out the importance of the pass, and that it ought to be occupied by us, to prevent its being done by the enemy, which they will most assuredly attempt, should they recover possession of Canada, as to that place they can send provisions, &c., by water, and form a magazine for the supply of the Indians in their interest; and would also so effectually have those that are still our friends in their power, that they would not long remain so. But before we take post there, and whilst every necessary is preparing to do it in such a manner as that we may not meet with any obstruction from Indians or others, I am humbly of opinion that a conference with the Six Nations should be held at the German Flats; that they should be informed how much it grieves us to find that some of their people, contrary to their most solemn engagements, have actually joined the enemy and committed hostilities; that we well know that many of the Indians are friendly to us, and that the conduct of those that are engaged against us gives us great uneasiness; that since some Indians have now openly joined the enemy, it becomes our duty to request that such of them as are our friends should declare for us, and that we and they should enter into mutual engagements to defend each other; that such as mean to act against us should now declare it, that we may distinguish between our friends and enemies, and take proper measures to distress the one and protect the other; that, in order to secure ourselves, and our Indian friends, we mean immediately to take post at Fort Stanwix, and erect a fortification there; that hitherto we had neglected securing our western frontier, because we had believed what they had said, and had confided in their engagements, otherwise an expedition would have been carried on early in the spring against the enemy's fort at Oswegatchie; that they would see that it was owing merely to our confidence in them that we had neglected to take possession of Fort Stanwix, and not to a want of ability, for that in ten days' time we shall have a fort there, and keep a body of men sufficient to cut off any parties that may attempt to distress our frontiers; that such as act against us must never expect that they will regain our friendship; that, as the Mohawk warriors have, from the beginning, been our enemies, and joined with the King's troops, and have fought against us, without the least cause given them for such conduct, they must all immediately join the enemy, or recall those that are already with them, and give hostages for their future good behaviour; that if they choose to join Sir John Johnson, they shall be furnished with batteaus to go to him, but that they must never expect to return to their families, or ever hope for a reconciliation with us.

I do not think that any part less decisive will keep the Mohawks, Senecas, Cayugas, and part of the Onondagas, neutral; and this may perhaps induce them to join us, especially as Mr. Kirkland informs me that the Oneidas, Tuscaroras, Ochugues, and the Caughnawagas of Canada, have entered into a defensive league to support each other against the other nations; being resolved that, if the others join the King's party, they would die with the Americans in the contest; but as this was communicated in confidence by the chiefs of the Oneida nation, he did not choose to commit it to paper, and entreats that no mention may be made of it, lest the confederacy should be attacked by the others. I have read this to Mr. Kirkland, to prevent mistakes, and he agrees it is what the sachems informed him. I hope to be at Albany on Monday, to advise on this matter with my colleagues in office; but should they be of the same opinion, and think it necessary to convene the Indians, I yet will not advise to deliver a speech in the spirit I have above-mentioned until the approbation of Congress is obtained. I shall, however, make every preparation for taking post at Fort Stanwix, and hope to conduct it in such a manner, and with so much celerity, as to impress on the Indians an idea that we are capable of acting with vigour, and that we do not mean to be trifled with.

I have received no advices from Canada since Messrs. Chase and Carroll arrived.

But little flour is as yet sent forward, as we had none at this or the adjacent posts when the account of the scarcity in Canada arrived here. Wagons are, however, on the way up; and I am informed that a considerable quantity is coming up in batteaus. Some will be here this evening.

As no pork arrived at Albany between the 29th ultimo and 6th instant, I begin to be apprehensive of a scarcity in that article. I enclose you a return of what has been sent from hence since the 1st day of June inclusive, by which it appears that two thousand one hundred and eighty barrels of pork have been sent from hence since the 13th ultimo; two thousand one hundred and fifty of which I suppose to have been forwarded from Ticonderoga; so that with what was issued here to Thompson's and Sullivan's Brigades, the Army is now supplied with pork to the 7th July, allowing ten thousand a day to be issued; and that allowance must be made to such wretched economists as many of our officers and most of our soldiery are. As delay in our western operations may be attended with great disadvantages, I shall advise to send for the Indians immediately, and therefore hope to be favoured with an answer to this the very soonest possible.

I am most unluckily attacked by the ague, at a time when my presence is necessary at so many different places. I hope, however, it will not render me incapable of attending to my duty.

I am, dear sir, with the most sincere esteem, your obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. Since writing the above twelve barrels of pork and one hundred and one of flour are arrived, as noted in the return which will go off to-morrow.

Return of Provisions received and forwarded from 1st JUNE to the 8th inclusive.

	Bls. Beef.	Bls. Pork.	Bls. Flour.	Bls. Corn.
Received.....	2	374	163	78
Forwarded to Ticonderoga , some being left the 1st of June , as per last return.....	-	450	187	40
Received this day, and remains in store.....	5	12	101	38

JAMES LAMB, Commissary.

SAMUEL KIRKLAND TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

[Read in Congress June 13, 1776.]

Lake George, June 8, 1776.

SIR: I left the Oneida country the 29th of May. In my way down waited on Colonel Dayton, at Johnstown; acquainted him with the conduct of the Mohawks in their late conference with him at that place, as related to the Oneidas by a head warrior of the Onondagas, who was present. The Mohawks were impudent—insulting to a very great degree. However, can assure your Honour their conduct on that occasion was condemned and utterly disproved by the Oneidas, in full council.

The Oneidas and Tuscaroras have expressed great concern on account of Colonel Butler's growing strength and influence at Niagara. He has, by threats and proffers, prevailed upon the greater part of the Senecas, Cayugas, and Onondagas, to renounce the cause of the Colonies, and engage on the King's side, as they call it. By the last accounts from Niagara, upwards of one hundred have enlisted into the King's service, and are now acting against us. The war-hatchet has been sent to the Chippewas and Ottawas; some of their tribes have received it. Should Colonel Butler get a reinforcement at Niagara, with a supply of provisions, our Indian friends say our frontiers will soon feel his resentment, particularly the back parts of New-York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

The Oneidas, with some others, have often mentioned with surprise our apparent delay, and want of resolution. They say, the lenity and forbearance shown the Mohawks, after their repeated breaches of promise, and acting against us, is, by our enemy Indians, imputed to cowardice in us, want of a manly spirit, or being engaged in a bad cause. I can assure your Honour, it is the opinion of many of their chiefs that the Mohawks in general have forfeited their liberties by their repeated breaches of the covenant entered into with the Commissioners at Albany, and acting against us in one part and another. The Oneidas, and some others, have intimated as much to the Mohawks themselves, in private conferences.

The Indians are now generally of opinion that it is impracticable for them to continue much longer in a state of neutrality, and that it has now become necessary for the Commissioners to call upon the Six Nations, and demand who are friends and who are not; and if a party of five hundred men, with two or three Rifle companies, were sent to Fort Stanwix, it would annoy our enemy and strengthen our friends, and protect that part of our frontiers. And I must say, from a regard to my fellow-men, that if this matter should be long delayed, it is my real opinion we shall soon hear of hostilities committed upon those defenceless frontiers. Upon a short conference with Mr. Dunn, he was persuaded that a speedy meeting of the Commissioners was necessary. He accordingly sent for Mr. Edwards, and forwarded my letter to your Honour, on the same head with his request for a speedy meeting, which letter, I understand, has not come to hand.

Your Honour's most obedient and very humble servant,
S. KIRKLAND.

To General Schuyler.

COMMODORE HOPKINS TO STEPHEN HOPKINS.

Providence, June 8, 1776.

DEAR BROTHER: I received your kind letter of the 31st May, and observe the contents; and as for the Southern Colonies being uneasy, it is no more than, from the circumstances of things, I before apprehended; but it was not in my power to prevent it; but if they think I am partial in favour of the Northern Colonies, they are greatly mistaken.

When I went to the southward, I intended to go from New-Providence to Georgia, had I not received intelligence, three or four days before I sailed, that a frigate of twenty-eight guns had arrived there, which made the force, in my opinion, too strong for us. At Virginia they were likewise too strong. In Delaware and New-York it would not do to attempt. Rhode-Island, I was sensible, was stronger than we, but the force there was nearer equal than any where else, which was the reason of my attempting there, which answered no other end than the British naval force quitting the Government.

When I attempted the fleet at Rhode-Island, had all the commanders behaved as well as I expected they would, I should have had it in my power long before this to have relieved most of the Southern Governments from their present difficulties; but as the case was, it was lucky we did not fall in with their whole strength at first. I was not deceived in the strength of the enemy, but greatly in our own resolution; and perhaps I was wrong in not giving my sentiments fully at first, the reason of which was, I was in hopes then of some further action, and that we might retrieve the character of the fleet. But the inattention to business of most of the officers, and an expectation of getting higher stations in the new ships, has, as I think, been some hindrance to getting the fleet ready to sail so soon as otherwise it might. I had no apprehension of the cannon being wanted more any where else, which was the reason of my delivering them to Governours Cooke and Trumbull.

The very great sickness which then was, and still is, amongst the seamen of the fleet, rendered it impossible to undertake any enterprise for the relief of any Colony, although in ever so much distress. All that I have been able to do was, to send the two brigs on a cruise, which I acquainted them with.

I did not know it was necessary to send a copy of my orders to the Marine Committee, but shall now do it immediately. I conceived it was, by the regulations, the business of the several Captains to transmit muster-rolls of the men under their command, both names and condition, monthly; but since I find they have not done it, shall see that they do it as soon as possible.

There has been, by my direction, two Courts-Martial; a copy of their proceedings, as far as they were transmitted to me, I sent to the President. I am very sensible that every officer has his friends, and that has had so much weight with me as not to order a Court-Martial, although ever so necessary, but when the complaint came in writing, and that from the principal officers of the fleet. I wish to God, and for the good of my country, that no officer in the fleet depended on any friend but his own merit.

As for the division of the plunder, it gives me no concern; and I take notice that those that are most clamorous about that matter, least deserve it.

As for the officers of the fleet, I believe my son will not take the command of any vessel, without he might cruise single, and I have no other friend to recommend; but I wish, with all my heart, it was in my power to recommend such as would fight when it was absolutely necessary.

I am greatly obliged to you for the kind wish of my prudence, judgment, and bravery—the honesty you might have left out. On the whole, I am very sensible there are many men more able to serve the common cause than I am, at these years, in the difficult department I am placed in; and if it is in the Committee's power to get one of them willing to serve in my stead, he shall have all the assistance in my power to give, and I will still continue to serve my country in such a way as I think will be most for her advantage. The several difficulties that attend the Navy are too many to mention, and perhaps imprudent to name. It is too much for my capacity to surmount; and if you will be so kind as to use your interest to get a good man in my room, although you have done me many favours, it is not in your power to do me more or greater service at present. The Columbus is near ready to sail; when I shall order her to cruise, have not yet determined. The Fly goes down to Newport to-morrow, to take the cannon ordered from thence to Philadelphia. The Columbus will take near all the well people, save officers, belonging to the fleet.

If I can, shall get the Providence on a cruise soon, as she now is commanded by Lieutenant Jones, of the Alfred, as he was the oldest Lieutenant. Lieutenant Hacker, of the Cabot, has had the command of the Fly ever since we took her into the service, and I think has behaved so well that he deserves to be appointed Captain of her.

I am your friend and brother,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To the Honourable Stephen Hopkins, Esq., at Philadelphia.

P. S. If you please, you may make publick all or such part of the above letter, or not, as your judgment shall suggest.

GENERAL HOWE TO LORD GEORGE GERMAINE.

Halifax, June 8, 1776.

MY LORD: On the 6th instant, the Mercury packet arrived with your Lordship's despatches of the 27th April, duplicate 28th March, copy of your Lordship's letter of 25th April to Lieutenant-General De Heister, and several papers relative to the state of the Hessian troops; copies of letters from your Lordship to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, of 26th April, and to Sir William Erskine, of 1st same month; also, copy of a letter from Colonel Faucit to the Earl of Suffolk, of 9th April.

These despatches were delivered to me by Captain Emmerick, accompanied by a letter from your Lordship, setting forth his good services in the late war. I apprehend he might be employed here to great advantage, should this contest continue for another year, by returning to Europe, and bringing a corps of five hundred German Chasseurs; but in the present campaign, without proper troops for him to act with, or a knowledge of the country, he can be but casually employed, yet I hope to good effect.

The utmost attention shall be given to the experience and great abilities of Sir William Erskine, in the military line, and I shall with pleasure make known to him your Lordship's commands to me in his favour.

The contents of Colonel Faucit's letter has given me much satisfaction, and I shall not fail to make a proper use of the knowledge it contains.

While writing this I have advice that some transports, with the Highlanders, are arrived at the entrance of the harbour, and I am not without hopes that we shall all join under sail to-morrow.

I cannot take my leave of your Lordship without expressing my utter amazement at the decisive and masterly strokes for carrying such extensive plans into immediate execution, as have been effected since your Lordship has assumed the conducting of this war, which is already most happily experienced by those who have the honour of serving here under your auspices. That you may finally receive the acknowledgments of a grateful country, the lasting glory which such services merit, and that I may, in some degree, contribute to the completion of measures so vigorously concerted, is the fervent wish of your Lordship's, &c.,

WILLIAM HOWE.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO DELEGATES IN CONVENTION.

[No. 18.]

Annapolis, June 9, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Having just received, by express, resolves of Congress of a most interesting nature to America in general, and this Province in particular, we have thought it our indispensable duty to lay them before you as early as possible; and for that purpose have resolved that a Convention be held at the City of Annapolis, on Thursday the 20th instant. And we beg you will be punctual in your attendance at that time, as the business is very urgent, and will not admit of a moment's delay. We are, &c.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BRIGADIERS-GENERAL OF MARYLAND.

[No. 19.]

Annapolis, June 9, 1776.

SIR: Some resolves of Congress, which we have this moment received by express, and in consequence of which called a Convention on Thursday, the 20th instant, at Annapolis, rendering it absolutely necessary that we should be informed of the number of effective arms in the hands of the Militia in your district, we desire that you will immediately order the Colonels of the several battalions which you command to transmit to us, without a moment's delay, the state and condition of the arms in the companies under them respectively, as it will be proper we should lay them before the Convention early in their meeting. We are, &c.

COLONEL FLEMING TO DANIEL GOLDSMITH.

Head-Quarters, June 9, 1776.

SIR: It is his Excellency General Washington's orders, that Nathan Gyer, Lazarus Gyer, George Watts, Jacob Losye, Benjamin Scribner, and Neal McFall, prisoners in the Provost Marshal Guard, be transmitted from thence to the Jail in this city. You will be pleased, therefore, to receive the above prisoners agreeable to the above order, and keep them in close custody until further orders.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

EDWARD FLEMING, D. Adj. Gen.

To Mr. Daniel Goldsmith, Marshal to the Provincial Congress, New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 11, 1776.]

New-York, June 9, 1776.

SIR: I was honoured yesterday with your favour of the 7th, with its enclosures. When Dr. Potts arrives, I shall order him to Canada, or Lake George, as may appear most proper. It is certainly necessary that he or Dr. Stringer should go to the former. The resolves respecting General Wooster's recall, I will immediately transmit him, with directions to repair hither without delay.

The situation of our affairs in Canada, as reported by the honourable Commissioners, is truly alarming; and I am sorry that my opinion of the ill consequences resulting from the short inlistment of the Army should be but too well confirmed by the experience they have had of the want of discipline and order in our soldiery there. This induces me again to wish Congress to determine on a liberal allowance to engage the troops already in service to reinlist for a longer period, or during the continuance of the war. Nor can I forbear expressing my opinion of the propriety of keeping the military chest always supplied with money, as evils of the most interesting nature are often produced for want of a regular payment of troops; the neglect makes them impatient and uneasy.

I am much surprised at the scarcity of provisions there, particularly of flour, as, from several accounts I had received from thence, I was led to expect that considerable supplies of that article could be procured there. That our misfortunes may not become greater, I have written the Commissary to forward more provisions in addition to those already sent. An Adjutant and Quartermaster-General are indispensably necessary, with assistants; the money saved the continent by their non-appointment will be but small and trifling when put in competition with the loss for want of them. Colonel Fleming, who acted in the former capacity under General Montgomery, is now here; but his indisposition is such as to render him unfit at this time for the post. It is an important one, and requires vigour and activity to discharge the duties of it; he will be of much service to Colonel Reed, the business of whose office will increase considerably by the augmentation of the Army. It will be necessary, too, that the Commissary in Canada, and the Deputy Quartermaster-General, should have several assistants and clerks. Nor do I think a precise number can be fixed on, as a variety of circumstances may and must occur to render the number essential for doing the business in those departments, greater or less at different times. It will be better, I apprehend, to leave it indefinite, and with power to the commanding officer to allow such as may be wanted.

I am still in the dark how the unfortunate affair ended at the Cedars, or on what terms the surrender was made, as the last letter from the Commissioners has reference to a former, and mentions an agreement entered into, which I have not seen; but I know more of it than I could wish.

I have received from Providence, in consequence of Mr. Morris's order as Chairman of the Secret Committee of Congress, two hundred and thirty-four muskets, in part of the two hundred and forty-four directed to be sent. The enclosed copy of a letter from Mr. Brown will account for the deficiency.

I shall be much obliged by your ordering a quantity of lead and flints to be immediately forwarded; our demands for both are and will be very pressing. There are also wanted some particular and necessary medicines, to complete our Hospital chests, of which I will get Dr. Morgan to furnish Congress with a list, when he writes or waits on them about some other matters necessary to be fixed in his department.

As General Wooster, in all probability, will be here in a little time, in compliance with the resolve of Congress and my order transmitted him, I wish to know what I am to do with him when he comes.

General Schuyler, in his letter of the 31st ultimo, of which I transmitted you a copy yesterday, mentions that sundry persons had a design to seize him as a Tory, and probably still have; and wishes Congress to give him some publick mark of their approbation, if they are convinced of his zeal and attachment to the cause of his country. Whether he intended that I should communicate his desire to them or not, I am not certain; but supposing that he did, I must beg leave to request that you lay the paragraph before them, that they may do in the instance of his requisition whatever they may judge necessary.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect and esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. If Congress have agreed to the report of the Committee for allowing the Indians ten pounds for every prisoner they shall take at Niagara, &c., it is material I should be informed of it. This will be a favourable opportunity for them to embrace to gain a possession of Detroit and the other posts, whilst the enemy are engaged towards Montreal, &c.

G. W.

Providence, May 27, 1776.

SIR: I received yours of the 17th instant, covering a letter from Robert Morris, Esq., Chairman of the Secret Committee of Congress, for the forwarding of fourteen muskets in our hands, belonging to the continent, in the most safe and expeditious manner. Ten of said muskets, with some swivels, we had before put on board two valuable vessels and cargoes we lately fitted for France on the Continental service; by which means we hope to prevent their being taken by any small boat or barge, as several have been for want thereof. The other four we now send you by way of Norwich, to the care of Christopher Leffingwell, Esq., to be forwarded immediately. This is the first opportunity we could get to send them.

I am, for myself and brother John Brown, your Excellency's most respectful and humble servant,

NICHOLAS BROWN.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, June 9, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I am now to acknowledge the receipt of your several favours of the 21st, 24th, 26th, 27th, 28th, and 31st ultimo, with the several papers enclosed; the whole of them, except the last, I communicated to Congress when at Philadelphia—that I did not get till on my return, but have since transmitted them a copy of it, and of the papers respecting Sir John Johnson.

In regard to a further remittance to Canada, the Commissioners have written Congress fully on the subject, and I presume they will forward such a supply of money immediately as they think necessary. As there is but too much probability that Sir John Johnson may attempt to ravage the frontier Counties, and to excite the disaffected to take arms against us, I think it will be advisable that Colonel Dayton should remain, as you request, as long as you apprehend a necessity for it. It is not in my power to spare any more men from hence, either for the communication, or to assist in repairing Ticonderoga. The detachments already gone to Canada have weakened the force necessary for the defence of this place, considering its importance—more, perhaps, than policy will justify. Be that as it may, the reinforcements which Congress have resolved to send to Canada for keeping open the communication between that country and these Colonies, as you will see by the copy enclosed in my letter of the 7th, would supersede the necessity of men going from this camp, provided they could be spared. I should suppose that Van Schaick's and Wynkoop's Regiments, exclusive of any other men, would nearly suffice for the purposes mentioned in your several letters, or that very few men more in addition to them certainly would, if they were complete and properly employed; but I am informed by a letter from General Sullivan of the 18th ultimo, dated at Albany, that these regiments were not to be found on the strictest inquiry he could make; that Colonel Van Schaick, who was there, never furnished a single man for guard, or any other duty, after he got there; and that Lieutenant-Colonel Cortlandt, of Wynkoop's Regiment, when he applied for pay for two companies, said to be in Tryon County to keep the Tories in order, informed him they had neither arms nor ammunition; that in some companies there was not a man present fit for duty, and that in others there were not more than eleven, and in some less. He also complains of the great waste of pork, by the wagoners drawing out the brine to lighten the carriage; and, in his letter two days before, charges the batteauxmen and the wagonmaster with indolence and a strange neglect of duty. I well know, my dear sir, that the multiplicity of matters you are engaged in will necessarily put it in the power of those who are not influenced by principles of honesty and justice, to practise many impositions; but I must beg you will turn your attention as much as possible to these things, and reform such abuses as have already happened, or prevent them in future.

I am very doubtful whether the flour you seem to think may be had in Canada can be got. The Commissioners' letters, as late as the 28th ultimo, seem to preclude every such hope.

I esteem it a matter of importance not only to fortify and secure Ticonderoga, but every other post on the communication; and that you should garrison them with men under judicious and spirited officers, to be fixed there, who might be called to account for misconduct, which is difficult to do where they are shifting and changing continually, and who would esteem it their indispensable duty to carry on and maintain the works against any surprises or attacks that may be attempted. I have written to Congress to appoint Engineers, if they can fix upon proper persons for the office. If you know of any, you had better employ them. I am confident Congress will allow them the usual pay.

When I came from Philadelphia I left the Indians there, and doubt not but Congress will use their endeavours to prevent them returning for some time. I showed them what you said upon the subject. I have spoken to the Quartermaster about a proper person to superintend the building of gondolas, but he knows of none. There is a man who came to direct the building of some here; and if any of the carpenters shall be deemed qualified, after seeing the model, I will send you one. I have written to Philadelphia for a supply of flints, which shall be forwarded you as soon as possible, and will give direction that you be furnished with a quantity of necessary medicines. With respect to St. Luke La Corne, Major Campbell, and the other prisoners at Esopus, I think it will be prudent for you to remove them, or such of them as you apprehend dangerous, to some other secure place, and they should be under a suitable and trusty guard. Your continuing to build batteaux appears a necessary measure, as a sufficient number should be had to transport over troops going to Canada or coming from thence, if they should ever be under the disagreeable necessity of evacuating the possession they now have to the enemy—an event I sincerely wish not to happen, but which, from the melancholy complexion of things in that quarter, I conceive possible.

I have been much surprised at not receiving a more perfect and explicit account of the defeat of Colonel Bedel and his party at the Cedars. I should have thought some of the officers in command there would, and ought to have transmitted it immediately; but as they have not, it is probable I should have long remained in doubt as to the event, had not the Commissioners called on me to-day; nor should I consider my not having a return of the arms, stores, &c., in Canada, a matter of less wonder, had I not been accustomed to the neglect. If it is not become too inveterate, I wish it could be got the better of. It is certainly of much importance and necessary to be known frequently.

Since mine of the 21st and yours of the 31st ultimo, Captains Swann and Dundee, with three privates, have been here, having a permit to go to Philadelphia. They came down the North River from Albany (I believe) to this place, where, I make no doubt, they reconnoitred all our works, and in their passage those at the Highlands. This indulgence I conceive of such infinite prejudice to our cause, for the reasons I have assigned, and many more that may be added, that I hope it will never be granted again. I wish you to notify the several Committees in the neighbourhood of Albany, having the care of prisoners, of the injurious consequences which must necessarily result from such a license, to prevent their allowing it to any on future applications.

As Congress have resolved on a large augmentation of the Army in Canada, as you will see by the copy of their vote transmitted in my last, it seems material that you should advise with the Commissary in that department, and Mr. Trumbull there, and concert a plan for their subsistence. If they cannot be supplied plentifully with provisions, their going will be of more injury than benefit, and increase the distress of the whole.

In your favour of the 28th, you are desirous that a Court of Inquiry should be ordered respecting the charges contained in the informations I enclosed you in mine of the 21st. If you conceive it necessary, I will do it with pleasure, if you will point out the mode to be pursued; to me, the matters objected to you appear so uncertain, vague, and incredible, that there is nothing to found the proceedings on, were there the most distant necessity for the scrutiny. By reason of a paragraph in your letter of the 31st, I mentioned the matter to Congress, to whom I had the honour of writing this day; and when at Philadelphia communicated it to some of them, on their reading your first letter in which mention was made of the subject. In doing this, and giving you the information I had received, I consider myself as having only discharged the duties of justice and of friendship.

I am sorry for the attack you have had of the ague, and wishing you a perfect recovery, I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL WOOSTER.

New-York, June 9, 1776.

SIR: The Congress have been pleased to direct your recall, as you will perceive by the enclosed copy of their resolution. I am, therefore, in compliance with their command, to make it my request that you immediately repair to Head-Quarters, at New-York.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Brigadier-General Wooster, in Canada.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

Head-Quarters, June 9, 1776.

SIR: I herewith transmit you the resolutions of Congress for several augmentations of the Army. With respect to Canada, I must inform you that the last accounts abound with complaints of the deplorable scarcity of provisions, which our men labour under, and mention the impossibility of procuring relief in that Colony. You will, therefore, with all expedition, forward a supply of meat and flour (particularly of the latter) to Albany. As there is a reinforcement of six thousand men shortly to be sent to Canada, there is a prospect of the want of necessaries still being increased. In making provision for the troops already there, you must have a view to the augmentation, which I fear will be sent before any preparation can be made for them by Mr. Price.

As to the flying-camp, it is probable its first station will be in the neighbourhood of Amboy.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Joseph Trumbull, Esquire, Commissary-General.

P. S. I am informed that several merchants are about to purchase salt pork for exportation; and I would recommend it to you immediately to apply to the Provincial Congress to take some measures to prevent them, as there is not only a probability that it will fall into the hands of the enemy, but we may ere long experience the want of it ourselves.

GENERAL WARD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston, June 9, 1776.

SIR: Yours of the 28th of May I received last evening, and shall give immediate attention to all your directions. I sent forward, the first of last week, under the care of General Putnam's son, to be forwarded to New-York, five hundred barrels of powder, five hundred carbines, and all the other articles which were written for. The remaining three hundred carbines, to complete the eight hundred, I shall forward as soon as possible. All the remainder of the ordnance stores taken in the Hope were deposited and secured, in the manner you recommended, as soon as possible after their arrival.

Yesterday, a ship from Scotland was taken, and brought into Marblehead, by the Continental armed schooners Warren and Lee. She had on board a company of Highlanders, consisting of near a hundred privates, one Captain, three subalterns, and two volunteers. They inform that thirty-two sail of transports came out with them, under convoy of a frigate of thirty-two guns, with three thousand Highlanders on board, all bound to Boston. They brought no papers nor letters of any consequence, and can give no intelligence of importance. The transport is said to be a very good ship, of one hundred and thirty tons burden; had on board four carriage-guns, the arms and baggage belonging to the company, some tents and clothing, and provisions. The Captain's name is Maxwell who commands the company, and is brother to the Dutchess of Gordon.

As my health declines more and more daily, I must request to be relieved as soon as possible.

I am your Excellency's obedient, humble servant,
ARTEMAS WARD.

To General Washington.

BARBUE DUBOURG TO DOCTOR FRANKLIN.*

À Paris, ce 10 Juin, 1776.

MON CHER MAITRE: Après une longue privation j'eus enfin le plaisir de recevoir de vos nouvelles directes le 4 May, par Monsieur Penet, arrivant de Philadelphie. Il me dit que vous l'aviez chargé d'une lettre et de quelques papiers à me remettre, mais qu'il avoit laissé tous ses paquets à Rotterdam dans la crainte qu'ils ne fussent interceptés en passant de Hollande en France. Cela me donna d'abord quelque inquiétude; j'osois à peine m'ouvrir à lui; cependant toutes ses réponses à mes diverses questions me parurent si satisfaisantes que je n'hésitai plus à lui parler à cœur ouvert.

Il m'étonna beaucoup lorsqu'il me dit que non seulement le peuple des Treize Colonies Unies, mais encore le Congrès, et vous même doutiez beaucoup des dispositions de la Cour de France à votre égard, et que vous appréhendiez ses liaisons avec la Cour de Londres. Lorsque je l'assurai que tous les vœux de notre nation en general, et plus spécialement encore ceux du Ministère actuel étoient en fa-

* The following translation from this letter was transmitted to General Washington:

PARIS, June 10, 1776.

MY DEAR MASTER: After being long deprived of it, I had at length the pleasure of receiving news on the 4th of May, directly from you, by Mr. Penet's arriving from Philadelphia. He told me you had intrusted him with a letter and some papers to be delivered to me; but that he had left all his packets at Rotterdam, fearing they might be intercepted in the passage from Holland to France. This, at first, gave me some inquietude. I hardly dared open myself to him; however, all his answers to my different questions appeared so satisfactory, that I did not longer hesitate to converse with him in the most unreserved manner.

He astonished me much when he told me that not only the people of the Thirteen United Colonies, but even the Congress, and you yourself, doubted much of the disposition of the Court of France in regard to you, and that you had apprehensions from its connections with the Court of London. When I assured him that all the wishes of our nation in general, and more especially of the Ministry, were in favour of the insurgents, I saw upon his countenance such a natural diffusion of joy as completely determined me that I might confide in him.

The next day, the 5th of May, I conducted him to Versailles, that I might convince him, in turn, that I was not under an illusion myself in regard to an object so important. I led him to converse with our friend Du Pont, who was, as you may have known, the most confidential intimate of Mr. Turgot, then Comptroller-General of Finances, and who told us, among other things, that one of their most anxious thoughts was that the Congress might not fail in its operations through want of money. He even added, that they had considered together by what means they might, without entering into the quarrel, procure credit for so unhappy and interesting a people. That conversation alone quite sufficed to dissipate all the fears of Mr. Penet. In consequence, he suddenly took his determination, which was to continue his route as far as Nantes, without even going back to Paris, if I would undertake the care of American affairs, as well at Paris as at Court, while, in correspondence with me, he should go into all the ports, and among the different manufactures, where the advantage of the same service might call him.

He had assured me, from the instant of his arrival, that you had recom-meur des insurgens, je vis sur son visage un épanouissement de joie si naturel qu'il acheva de me convaincre que je pouvois me confier à lui.

Le lendemain, 5 May, je le conduisis à Versailles, à fin de le convaincre à son tour que je ne m'étois pas fait illusion à moi même sur un objet aussi important. Je le fis parler à notre ami Du Pont, qui étoit comme vous pouvez le savoir, le plus intime confident de M. Turgot alors Contrôleur-General des Finances, et qui nous dit entre autres choses que l'une de leurs plus grands inquiétudes étoit que le Congrès n'échouât dans ses opérations faute d'argent, il nous ajouta même qu'ils avoient revé ensemble par quels moyens ils pourroient sans se compromettre faire trouver du credit à ce peuple si malheureux et si intéressant-cette seule conversation acheva de dissiper toutes les allarmes de M. Penet.

En consequence il eut bientôt pris son partie qui fut de continuer sa route jusqu'à Nantes, sans repasser même par Paris, si je voulois me charger du soin des affaires de l'Amerique tant à Paris qu'à la Cour, tandis qu'en correspondance avec moi, il se porteroit successivement dans tous les ports et les manufactures différentes où le bien du même service l'appellerait.

Il m'avoit assuré dès le moment de son arrivée que vous lui aviez recommandé sur toutes choses de s'adresser à moi, de ne prendre confiance que dans les personnes dont je lui repondrois, et de concerter autant qu'il lui seroit possible, toutes ses opérations avec moi.

J'étois bien disposé sans doute à le seconder en tout ce qui seroit de mon pouvoir, dans une cause à la quelle j'ai toujours pris un si vif intérêt qu'il m'a attiré dans ce cy pays une espece de soubriquet dont je ne me tiens point pour offensé. Mais votre envoyé exigeoit de moi bien plus que je ne croyois pouvoir lui promettre, puisqu'il vouloit me laisser seul chargé de toute la besogne en cette ville ainsi la conjuncture me paroissoit tres delicate.

Comment m'ingerer dans une longue suite d'affaires majeures et de negociations importantes sur la simple parole d'un inconnu, soi disant porteur de lettres qu'il ne sauroit représenter? Comment m'annoncer moi même à quantité de gens en place, connus et inconnus, pour traiter avec eux des affaires d'un peuple étranger, sans la moindre lettre de croyance de sa part? Et en supposant même la necessité de m'abandonner au torrent des circonstances aussi essentielles que critiques; en supposant la possibilité de trouver par tout un accès favorable, et d'être même écouté avec confiance de tous ceux avec qui j'aurais à traiter, quoique en m'y presentant sans titre et sans mission, comment remplir cet objet de surerogation sans negliger les devoirs que ma profession m'impose, et m'exposera perdre entierement l'état du quel je tire principalement ma subsistence? Ces mended to him to apply to me upon all occasions, and not to confide in any but such persons as I would answer for, and, as much as possible, to concert all his operations with me. I was disposed, you may well think, to second him in everything within my power, in a cause in which I have always been so sanguine as to draw upon me in this country a sort of nickname, at which I do not hold myself offended. But your envoy demanded of me more than I thought myself able to promise him, since he wanted to leave me alone charged with all the business in this city. Moreover, the conjuncture appeared to me very delicate.

How should I undertake a long train of weighty affairs and important negotiations upon the simple word of a stranger, though calling himself the bearer of letters, which he could not produce? How should I announce myself to numbers of men, in places known and unknown, to treat about the affairs of a distant people, without being furnished with credentials? And supposing even the necessity of plunging myself into a torrent of circumstances, as essential as they are critical; supposing the possibility of finding everywhere a favourable access, and of being even listened to with confidence by all those with whom I should have to treat, although presenting myself without title and without mission; yet how should I acquit myself, in this work of supererogation, without neglecting the duties which my profession lays upon me, and without exposing myself to lose entirely the state from which I principally gain my living?

These reflections threw me into a dilemma. But my attachment to you and your respectable friends; my gratitude for the sentiments of kindness with which you have inspired your countrymen towards me; my zeal for the cause of justice, of liberty, and of humanity; in fine, the very necessity of the conjunctures, wherein Providence seemed to have specially intended me, in default of others, for so honourable and indispensable a service, carried my mind above all private considerations, and made me regard it as a sacred duty to devote myself, without reserve, to what was demanded of me in your name. And from that instant I have looked upon myself as the eventual depository of the confidence of the United Colonies of America. I have striven to go through all the functions of a faithful and zealous agent, and I shall thus proceed till their true Representatives disavow me. I compare my situation to that of one who, having perceived himself the only person at hand to collect precious effects after a shipwreck or a fire, watches more scrupulously over that reflexions me mettoient du noir dans l'esprit ; mais mon attachement pour vous et pour vos respectables amis, ma reconnaissance pour les sentimens de bienveillance que vous avez inspirés à tous vos compatriotes en ma faveur, mon zèle pour la cause de la justice, de la liberté, et de l'humanité, enfin la nécessité même des conjonctures où la Providence sembloit m'avoir spécialement designé, au défaut de tout autre, pour un service si honnête et si indispensable l'emportèrent sur toutes les considerations particulieres, et me firent regarder comme un devoir sacré de me devouer sans reserve à ce qu'on me demandoit en votre nom, et depuis cet instant je me suis regardé comme le depositaire eventuel de la confiance des Colonies Unies de l'Amerique ; j'ai tâché de remplir toutes les fonctions d'un agent fidele et zélé ; et je continuerai ainsi jusqu'à ce que leurs vrais representans me desavouent. Je compare ma situation à celle de quelqu'un qui s'étant trouvé seul à portée de recevoir les effets precieux d'un naufrage, ou d'un incendie veille plus scrupuleusement sur ce dépôt forcé que sur ce qui se passe en ce moment dans sa propre maison.

Sachant que l'Amerique unie avoit un besoin urgent d'une certaine espece d'hommes et d'un certain genre de provisions, je me suis empressé de lui procurer l'un et l'autre j'ai frappé, pour ainsi dire, à toutes les portes pour cet effet ; j'ai parlé vaguement aux uns, et enigmatiquement aux autres, j'ai fait des demi confidences à plusieurs, et le moins qu'il m'a été possible de confidences entieres à qui que ce soit à l'exception des Ministres du Roi, et d'un neveu dont je suis tres assuré, que j'ai fait venir exprès de sa province pour me seconder en tout. J'ai en la satisfaction d'être accueilli de toutes parts, et de voir que personne ne me demandoit d'autres assurances que ma parole pour traiter avec moi des affaires de la plus grande consequence, et sur lesquelles je convenois de bonne foi n'avoir reçu ni plein pouvoir, ni même la moindre commission où instruction de vive voix non plus que par ecrit. Des Ministres à qui je n'avois jamais fait ma cour, m'ont marqué dès la première entrevue la confiance la plus flatteuse m'ont parlé sans détour ni mystere, ont disentié avec moi les matures les plus graves et délibéré ensemble sur le parti à prendre et les moyens de le remplir. Des particuliers isolés, negocians militaires et autres se sont prêtés sans tergiverser à prendre avec moi des arrangemens conditionnels promettant de les executer quand ils en seroient requis, quoique je leur eusse déclaré que de mon côté je ne pouvois leur garantir positivement quoique ce soit.

D'un autre côté, j'ai été quelque fois mal adressé et en risque de faire de mauvais choix, ou de mauvais marchés, si je ne m'étois tenu soigneusement sur mes gardes, et si je n'avois tiré sur chaque objet des informations de plusieurs endroits. Vous auriez peine à croire, par exemple, qu'un ministre plein de bonne volonté m'ait indiqué et recommandé pour du salpêtre, pour des fusils, &c., des magazins, des fournisseurs chez qui le salpêtre étoit trop cher, et les fusils defectueux, aussi loin de trouver mauvais que j'aye pris des arrangemens tout differens, il m'a sçu gré de l'avis que je lui en ai donné.

J'ai fait six* differens voyages à Versailles depuis un mois, pour voir non seulement les ministres, mais aussi tout ce qui les approche, ou les frequente, et sonder ou faire sonder les dispositions de chacun, car il ne faut pas croire qu'ils soient tous également bien intentionnés ; cependant je voulois tâcher de tirer quelque parti de tous et effectivement quoique j'aye plus à me louer des uns que des autres, il n'y en a aucun de qui je puisse me plaindre sans ingratitude.

J'ai obtenu entre autres choses, sous le nom de M. de la Tuillerie entre preneur d'une manufacture d'armes, qu'il lui soit delivré incontinent des arsenaux du Roi quinze mille fusils à l'usage de l'infanterie suivant le modele de 1763, pour être employés dans son commerce, à condition de les remplacer dans le courant d'une année par un pareil nombre de nouveaux fusils de sa fabrique, en donnant bonne et suffisante caution pour ce remplacement ; et on m'a agréé pour caution le premier envoi de ces fusils est deja en route pour Nantes où M. Penet attend les vaisseaux que votre Comité Secret doit y envoyer. J'espere que vos braves guerriers seront contens de ces fusils ; mais il faut les avertir de ne pas trop se fier aux fusils ordinaires du commerce que l'on appelle fusils de traite, qui sont presque aussi redoutables aux amis qu'aux ennemis.

J'aurois obtenu sans difficulté du canon de bronze aux mêmes conditions, si l'on n'avoit pas été retenu par la consideration qu'ils portent les armoiries, ou les chiffres du Roi, qui les rendroit trop reconnoissables. Cependant si j'avois été autorisé par le Congrès à insister fortement la dessus, il auroit été possible d'enlever à la lime les L. L. et les fleurs-de-lys ; mais tout cela ne pouvoit s'executer sans frais, et qui est ce qui en auroit fait les avances ? M. Turgot, le seul Ministre de qui j'aurois pu attendre tant de faveur, a été disgracié le 12 May ; et tous les autres sont tellement harcelés aujourd'hui par les cabales extraordinaires de la Cour, que chacun est trop occupé du soin de se maintenir pour prendre sur son propre compte des affaires publiques qui ne sont pas absolument et uniquement de son ressort. Tous se preteront de bonne grace à une cause juste et honnête, mais aucun ne l'epousera avec chaleur. On a beau leur représenter le grand intérêt qu'à la France de ne pas manquer l'occasion d'enlever à l'Angleterre et d'attirer chez elle un commerce immense, et qui ne peut que s'accroître encore d'année en forced charge, than over what passes at the same moment in his own house.

* Et trois nouveaux dans le reste du mois de Juin.

Knowing that united America had pressing need of a certain kind of men, and a certain species of provisions, I have exerted myself to procure both the one and the other for her. I have knocked (if I may so express myself) at every door for that end ; I have talked vaguely to some, enigmatically to others ; I have half confided to many, and as little as possible have I wholly confided in any one whatever, except the King's Ministers, and a nephew, of whom I am thoroughly satisfied, and whom I have drawn from his own province on purpose to second me in everything. I have had the satisfaction of being well received in every quarter, and of seeing that no one demands other assurances than my own word to treat with me upon affairs of the greatest consequence, and concerning which I freely acknowledge to have received neither full power, nor even the least commission or instruction, by word of mouth any more than by letter. Ministers, to whom I had never made my court, have given me the most flattering marks of confidence from my first interview ; have talked to me without winding or mystery ; have discussed with me the weightiest matters ; and have deliberated with me the determinations to be taken, and the means to accomplish them. Private individuals, merchants, military men, and others, have attended without scruple to take from me conditional arrangements, promising to execute them when it shall be required, though I had declared to them, on my part, that I could not warrant anything at all positively.

On the other hand, I have sometimes been ill-directed, and have been in danger of making a bad choice, or bad purchases, if I had not kept myself watchfully on my guard, and if I had not drawn informations from several quarters upon every business. You would hardly think, for example, that a very friendly Minister should point out and recommend to me for saltpetre and for small-arms, such magazines and salesmen whose saltpetre was too dear, and whose arms were defective. Far from taking it ill that I made very different contracts, he thanked me for the intelligence I gave him.

I have been six* different times to Versailles within a month, to see not only the Ministers, but everything which approaches them or continues near them, and to sound or get sounded the dispositions of every one ; for it must not be thought that they are all equally well-intentioned ; however, I wanted to draw some advantage from all. And, in fact, though I had rather praise some than others, yet there is not one of whom I can complain without ingratitude.

* And three times more in the latter part of June.

I have obtained, among other things, under the name of Mr. De la Tuillerie, the undertaker of a manufactory of arms, that there shall be delivered to him immediately from the King's arsenals fifteen thousand muskets for the use of infantry, according to the model of 1763, to be employed in his commerce, on consideration that he replaces them in the run of a year by a like number of new muskets of his own make, giving good and sufficient security for such return ; and they have taken my security. The first part of those muskets is already on the route to Nantes, where Mr. Penet looks for the vessels which your Secret Committee is to send thither. I hope your brave soldiers will be pleased with these muskets ; but you must caution them not to trust to the ordinary muskets of commerce, which are called "muskets for exportation," which are almost as dangerous to friends as to enemies.

I should have obtained brass cannon on the same terms without difficulty, were it not for the circumstance of their bearing the King's arms and cipher, which made them too discoverable. However, if I had been authorized by Congress to insist strongly on it, the L. L. and the flowers-de-luce might have been taken off by the file ; but all this could not have been executed without expense : and who was to have advanced that ? Mr. Turgot, the only Minister from whom I could expect so much favour, had been disgraced the 12th of May ; and all the others are so teased at this time by the extraordinary cabals of the Court, that each one is too hurried by the care of supporting himself, to take as his proper charge the affairs of the publick which are not absolutely and immediately in his department. All will kindly listen to a just and honourable cause, but none will espouse it with warmth. It is useless to represent to them the great interest which France has in not losing the opportunity of stripping England of an immense commerce, and of drawing to herself what must certainly increase from year to year ; they easily comprehend all this ; but France, over head and ears in debt, wants bread, and it is their interest to support her. They would have permitted me to take secretly, from even the Arsenal of Paris, powder and lead, saltpetre, &c., if we had not found as good, and upon better terms, among the merchants, and even in greater quantities than Mr. Penet has orders to ship.

année. Ils comprennent tres bien cela; mais la France oberée a besoin de la paix et ils ont intérêt de l'entretenir.

On m'auroit permis de tirer sourdement de l'arsenal même de Paris de la poudre, du plomb, du salpêtre, &c., si nous n'en avions pas trouvé dans le commerce d'aussi bon et à meilleur compte, et même en plus grande quantité que M. Penet n'a ordre d'en charger.

J'ai obtenu des congés à longtermes pour des officiers d'artillerie et autres, et on m'en a promis de semblables pour tous ceux qui nousseroient necessaires, et que je pourvois faire entrer dans mes vues.

On m'offre de toutes parts quantité de bons officiers, qui ne demandent pas mieux que de passer au service des Colonies Americaines, si j'étois autorisé à leur assurer un grade tel qu'ils le desirent, (ou tel qu'on a coutume de l'accorder à ceux que l'on fait passer d'icy aux grandes Indes;) mais je crois que c'est pour ainsi dire, de quoi vous avez le moins de besoin, pour ne pas degouter vos genereux compatriotes. J'ai cependant cru pouvoir promettre le grade de Capitaine, avec quelques petites avances, et le voyage defrayé, à M. Fareli ancien Lieutenant d'infanterie, de ceux que l'on appelle officiers de fortune; la même chose, à l'exception du grade, à M. Davin ancien Sergent-Major d'une grande distinction; et seulement le passage franc en mer à M. De Bois Bertrand jeune homme plein d'honneur, de courage et de zele, qui a icy le brevet de Lieutenant-Colonel, mais qui n'exige rien, et que vos generaux placeront comme ils jugeront à propos pour le plus grand bien du service. J'ai regret de n'avoir pûrien promettre à un ancien officier protégé de M. Turgot, et qui a été employé sous M. son frere à Cayenne; mais surtout à deux officiers Irlandois, Mons. Geogheghan, l'un que je connois depuis longtemps, a été pendant les deux dernieres guerres aide-de-camp d'un officier general, aujourd-huy Marechal de France, qui en faisoit le plus grand cas, il n'a qu'un brevet de Lieutenant-Colonel de cavalerie, mais je le crois capable de tout; son cousin a fait ses preuves avec plus d'avantage encore: n'étant que simple Capitaine dans l'Inde, il se trouva à la tête d'une petite armée, tous les officiers superieurs étant absens pour de bonnes ou mauvaises raisons, et il eut le bonheur, apres une marche bien combinée, de gagner sur les Anglois la bataille de —. Vous jugez bien que ces deux hommes là demanderoient à être faits officiers generaux.

A l'égard des ingenieurs, il y a en une quantité de supernumeraires en France; j'en ai arrêté deux de ceux là sous la simple assurance de leur passage franc, et de vous les bien recommander: l'un est M. Potter de Baldivia, tout jeune, mais bien instruit, et fils d'un chevalier de St. Louis, ingenieur attaché à M. le Duc d'Orleans, et autrefois aide-de-camp du Marechal de Saxe; l'autre est Mons. Gillet De Lo- mont, jeune homme d'un merite peu commun, a qui il ne manque que d'avoir été employé en guerre, comme il l'a été dans les camps de paix. Mais les ingenieurs qui ont fait la guerre avec quelque distinction sont tous placés et contents de leur sort.

Vous savez que l'artillerie et le genie ont la plus grande affinité ensemble; peutetre ignorez vous que ces deux corps ont été plusieurs fois reunis et separés alternativement icy par nos Ministres divers; ainsi les uns peuvent tres bien suppléer aux autres, et tous les militaires s'accordent à penser que dans la situation presente des Colonies, elles ont plus specialement besoin d'officiers d'artillerie que d'ingenieurs. C'est particulierement l'avis de l'homme de l'Europe le plus capable d'en juger, M. Le Comte de St. Germain.

Je suis assuré de la bonne volonté de quelques officiers d'artillerie, habiles, experimentés, et aguerris; mais j'ai un autre embarras. M. De Gribauval, Lieutenant-General des armées du Roi, et Directeur-General de l'artillerie de France, consequemment à la tête de ce corps, et jouissant de la plus grande consideration publique, avec qui j'ai en plusieurs conferences à ce sujet, est d'avis que l'on vous fasse passer trois officiers d'artillerie a la fois, l'un pour être en chef, et donner le branle à tout, les deux autres pour diriger toutes les operations, l'un dans les Provinces du Nord, et l'autre dans celles du midi. Pour la direction generale, il a jetté les yeux, de concert avec le ministre sur un officier encore dans la fleur de l'age, que l'on juge egalelement capable de l'ensemble et de tous les details, et dont on a déjà éprouvé les grands talens en corse, où on l'avoit chargé de tout, en le faisant passer sur le corps de cent quatre-vingt de ses anciens. Je vous envoie cy joint un projet dressé par M. Du Coudray, l'officier d'artillerie en question, et qui m'a paru fort bien; mais je dois vous informer en même tems que beaucoup de gens sont moins prevenus en sa faveur, tant dans le corps d'artillerie, où il est fort jaloué, que hors de ce corps, où il est engagé dans des controverses assez animées avec des militaires, avec des chymistes, avec M. de Buffon.

Entre les autres officiers d'artillerie que l'on pourroit determiner à passer en Amerique, je distingue particulièrement deux freres MM. D'Hangest, l'un Lieutenant-Colonel d'artillerie et Chevalier de St. Louis; l'autre Capitaine d'artillerie, et ayant fait la guerre aussi, et egalelement Chevalier de St. Louis. Ces Messieurs D'Hangest sont beau freres de M. D'Antic, l'homme de France peutetre qu'il importe le plus aux Colonies d'acquérir, tout le monde s'accordant à le regarder comme unique pour reunir ensemble la theorie et la pratique de tous les arts relatifs à la chymie, et notamment de la verrerie et de la metallurgie. Le savant artiste a été friponné par de plus habiles financiers. M. Turgot

I have obtained lengthy furloughs for officers of Artillery, and others, and have been promised the like for all such as may be necessary for us, and whom I can make enter into my views. Numbers of good officers are presented to me on every quarter, who ask nothing better than to enter into the service of the Colonies, if I was authorized to promise the rank they wish, or such as it is common to give to those who are sent from hence to the Indies. But I believe this is what you have the least need of, as it may disgust your valiant countrymen. I have, however, ventured to promise the rank of Captain, with some little advances, and his passage, to Mr. Fareli, an old Lieutenant of Foot, one of those who are called "Soldiers of Fortune;" the same, with the exception of rank, to Mr. Davin, an old Sergeant-Major of great distinction; and his passage only to Mr. Bois Bertrand, a youth full of honour, courage, and zeal, who has here a brevet of a Lieutenant-Colonel, but who insists upon nothing, and whom your Generals will place as they shall judge most for the greatest service of your affairs. I regret having nothing to promise to an old officer under the patronage of Mr. Turgot, and who has been employed under his brother at Cayenne; but especially to two Irish officers, Messrs. Geogheghan—one, whom I have long known, has been, during the two last wars, aid-de-camp to a General Officer, now Marshal of France, who valued him highly. He has only a brevet of Lieutenant-Colonel of Cavalry, but I think him capable of everything. His cousin has shown himself more advantageously still: when he was only a Captain in India, he found himself at the head of a little army, all the superior officers being absent, for good or bad reasons; and he had the fortune, after a well-managed march, to gain a victory over the English at —. You will readily judge that these two expect to be made General Officers.

With regard to Engineers, there are a number of supernumeraries in France. I have retained two of them upon the single assurance of free passage, and a good recommendation to you. One is Mr. Potten, of Baldivia, very young, but well instructed, and a son of a Chevalier of St. Louis, an Engineer in the service of the Duke of Orleans, and formerly aid-de-camp to Marshal Saxe; the other is Mr. Gillet De Lomont, a young man of rare merit, and who wants only an opportunity of practising in war what he has learned in peace. But Engineers who have served in the wars with reputation, are all in places where they are content with their lot. You know that the Artillerists and Engineers have the greatest affinity to each other. Perhaps you may not know that those two corps have been alternately united and separated here by our different Ministers, so that one may well supply the place of the other. And military men agree in thinking that, in the present situation of the Colonies, there is much greater need of officers of Artillery than of Engineers. This is particularly the opinion of the most capable judge in Europe—the Count de St. Germain. I am well assured of the good disposition of some officers of Artillery, active, experienced, and wise. But I have another embarrassment. Mr. De Gribauval, Lieutenant-General of the King's armies and Director-General of the Artillery of France, and consequently at the head of that corps, and enjoying the highest publick esteem, with whom I have had many conferences on this subject, is of opinion that you ought to have three officers of Artillery over at a time—one to be chief, and to set the whole agoing; the two others to direct all the operations—one in the Northern Colonies and one in the Southern. For the chief, he has fixed his eyes, in concert with the Minister, upon an officer still in the flower of his age, who is judged equally capable of the whole and of the details, and who has already proved his great talents in Corsica, where everything was trusted to him, he having been raised over the heads of one hundred and eighty senior officers. I send you herewith a project drawn up by the gentleman in question, Mons. Du Coudray, officer of Artillery, and which appears to me a very good one; but I thought at the same time to let you know that many persons are less prejudiced in his favour, not only in the corps of Artillery, where they are jealous of him, but also out of that corps, as he is engaged in very warm controversies with the military, the chemists, and with Mons. Buffon. Among other officers of Artillery who might be persuaded to pass over to America, I particularly distinguish two brothers, Messrs. D'Hangest—one a Lieutenant-Colonel of Artillery and Chevalier of St. Louis, the other a Captain of Artillery, who has also seen action, and is a Chevalier of St. Louis. These Messrs. D'Hangest are brothers-in-law to Mons. D'Antic, the man in France, perhaps, whom it is most for the interest of America to secure. All agree in thinking him the only one possessed both of the theory and practice of all the arts relative to chemistry, especially glass-making and metallurgy. This learned artist has been cheated by most crafty financiers. Mons. Turgot proposed to give him the whole direction of all the manufactures of France, if he had continued in place. Mons. D'Antic is se proposoit de lui donner la direction de toutes les manufactures de France, s'il étoit resté en place. M. D'Antic se retrouve dans l'embarras, chargé d'une femme et de quatre enfans, avec une patrimoine chargé de dettes criardes. Des gens que je crois de votre connoissance lui ont fait des offres tres avantageuses, M. Hutton, chef des Freres Moraves, et M. Johnson, pour l'attirer en Angleterre, M. De Valtravers pour l'attacher à l'Electeur Palatin; d'autres font des projets pour le fixer icy, d'autres enfin voudroient le faire passer en Espagne. Mais je l'ai absolument décidé à vous donner la preference, si vous pouvez lui faire un sort convenable. Il ne peut s'engager à passer au nouveau monde, à moins qu'on ne lui compte avant que de partir, vingt mille ecus de France, faisant deux mille cinq cent livres sterling, pour liquider ses biens, et assurer l'état à sa famille. S'il obtient cela, il partira immédiatement; une horde d'ouvriers de tous les genres s'empressera de le suivre, et on peut en quelque sorte assurer que cette seule transmigration avanceroit tous les arts d'un siecle en votre patrie. Je vous envoie cy joint un petit memoire dressé de concert avec lui.

Un autre homme qui ne vous seroit gueres moins utile, est plus qu'à moitié déterminé à passer en Amerique, pour y établir une manufacture d'armes telle qu'il n'y en a point en Europe, si vous pouvez lui faciliter les moyens d'y passer avec sûreté. Il est riche; il est extrêmement au fait de cette fabrication; il est me content de la cour; c'est M. De Monticu cy-devant entrepreneur de la manufacture royale des armes de St. Etienne en forez, qui a été impliqué dans le fameux procès de M. De Bellegarde, Inspecteur-General d'artillerie, son beau frere. Cet honnête homme a tout prêts deux petits navires à lui, vingt-deux petites pieces de canon de campagne de bronze, tout fondu, et les matieres tous préparées pour une centaine de plus. Il embarqueroit avec lui tous les outils et les matieres necessaires; et tous ceux qui ont travaillé sous lui le suivroient en foule vous n'avez qu'à parler, et m'indiquer comment vous assureriez son passage, où il devoit se porter, et quelles facilités on lui procureroit pour tous ses établissemens.

D'après les conversations que nous avons eu ensemble, il a fait une autre speculation pour forcer le passage au travers de toutes les croisières de la marine Angloise, si les Colonies pouvoient fournir à une avance de deux ou trois millions argent de France, pour une expedition aussi decisive. Je vous envoie cy joint le memoire qu'il a dressé à ce sujet.

D'autre part j'ai reflechi aux moyens de subvenir à tant de depenses dans lesquelles votre Republique naissante se trouve engagée.

Le paquet de M. Penet m'a annoncé, il y a deja six semaines, (ce 19 Juin, 1776,) contenant des cartes de vos Colonies, des plans, des brochures, une lettre de vous et une de M. Rush, ne m'est point encore parvenu; mais j'ai reçu, lu et relu le contrat en parchemin passé entre le Comité Secret du Congrès d'une part, et Messrs. Pliarne, Penet, et Comp., de l'autre, avec les instructions du même Comité aux mêmes Commissionnaires. Sur ces piece authentiques, M. Penet m'a donné tous les éclaircissemens que je pouvois desirer, et m'a détaillé ses divers projets d'operations, qui m'ont paru judicieux et bien combinés. Je l'avois fait revenir de Nantes pour le presenter secretement à Mons. le Comte de V., Ministre des Affaires Etrangères, qui vouloit le questionner sur l'état de vos Colonies; il est reparti quelques jours après, mais dans cet intervalle nous avions de nouveau concerté nos demarches ulterieures.

En consequence, j'ai pris des arrangemens avec la compagnie des fermiers generaux pour leur fournir directement par commission des Colonies unies, la provision de tabac necessaire à la consommation annuelle de ce royaume qu'ils tiroient cy devant par la voye de l'Angleterre en economisant de part et d'autre ce que les douanes et les marchands de la Grande Bretagne gagnoient tant sur les vendeurs Americains que sur les acheteurs François. J'ai été extrêmement satisfait de la franchise avec laquelle les fermiers generaux chargés de cette partie ont traité avec moi, en m'ouvrant tous leurs livres, et me montrant leurs factures en original.

J'ai proposé à M. de S., Ministre de la Marine, de lui fournir des farines et biscuits de mer, des bois de construction pour les navires (et par la suite du merrain pour le tonnage) du chanvre, du goudron, &c. Il m'a assuré qu'il ne s'informerait point d'où je les tirerois, pourvu que je lui en procure à des prix raisonnables; et que je pouvois prendre mes arrangemens en consequence.

Mais je ne vous dissimulerai point que j'ai trouvé ce Ministre prevenu de quelques idées mercantiles qu'il m'a fallu combattre, et dont j'aurai de la peine à le faire revenir, parce qu'elles lui ont été suggerées par les gens qui sont réputés les plus au fait du commerce, et qui ont, on croient avoir intérêt à entretenir les anciens prejugeés à cet egard. Je l'ai cependant un peu ebranlé, il m'a chargé de developper dans un petit memoire par écrit mes idées particulieres sur les articles en quoi nous differons le plus; il donnera ce memoire à discuter à quelques habiles negocians, ou aux Deputés du Commerce; apres quoi il pesera definitivement les raisons de part et l'autre. Je joindrai icy une copie de ce memoire, lorsque je l'aurai fait voir. J'ai pris des instructions de divers commercans, pour la traite des grains, des pelletteries, des indigos, des fanons et blancs de baleine, et generalement de toutes les denrées et productions de votre sol, et nous pouvons nous flatter de vous en faire tirer un meilleur parti que vous n'avez jamais fait.

Je suis encore plus assuré de pouvoir vous procurer en himself under difficulties, being encumbered with a wife and four children, as well as a patrimony loaded with clamorous debts. Gentlemen, whom I believe of your acquaintance, have made him very advantageous offers: Mr. Hutton, chief of the Moravian Brethren, and Mr. Johnston, to draw him to England; Mons. Valtravers to attach him to the Elector Palatine; others form projects to fix him here; others, in fine, would have him go into Spain; but I have absolutely fixed him to give you the preference, if you can provide a suitable condition for him. He cannot engage to pass over into the New World, unless you can advance him here twenty thousand crowns of France, making two thousand five hundred pounds sterling, to clear his goods, and to secure the condition of his family. If he obtains that, he will immediately set off. A harvest of workmen of all sorts will press to follow him; and you may be certain in a manner that this single transmigration would advance all the arts an age in your country. I send you herewith a small memorial, drawn up in company with him.

Another person, who would be scarce less useful to you, is more than half determined to go over to America, to set up there a manufacture of arms, such as is not in Europe, if you can promote means of passing him with security. He is rich; he is extremely expert in his branch; he is discontented with the Court: it is Monsieur De Monticu, formerly undertaker of the Royal manufacture of arms at St. Stephens, in the Forest, who has been involved in the famous lawsuit with Mr. Bellegarde, Inspector-General of Artillery, his brother-in-law. This worthy man has ready two small ships of his own, twenty-two finished brass field-pieces, and materials ready for one hundred more. All those who have worked under him would follow him in a crowd. He would take with him all the necessary tools and materials. You have only to speak, and to show how you could secure his safe passage, to what place he should proceed, and what aids could be given to him in his several establishments. After our several conversations together, he formed another speculative plan, for forcing a passage through all the cruisers of the English marine, if the Colonies could advance two or three millions of francs for such a decisive expedition. I send you herewith the memorial which he drew up upon that subject. On another hand, I have reflected on methods of supporting so many expenses as your rising Republick is engaged in.

The packets which Mr. Penet mentioned to me, have not come to hand in six weeks, (this 19th of June), which contains charts of the Colonies, plans, pamphlets, a letter from you, and another from Mr. Rush. But I have received, and have several times read, the contract in parchment passed between the Secret Committee of Congress on one part and Messrs. Pliarne, Penet, & Co., on the other part, with the instructions of the same Committee to the said Commissioners. Upon these authentic proofs Mr. Penet has given all the explanations which I could desire, and has laid before me his various projects of operation. These appear to me judicious and well concerted. I made him return from Nantes, that I might present him secretly to Mons. the Count de V., Minister for Foreign Affairs, who wanted to examine him upon the affairs of your Colonies. He returned some days after, but in the interval we determined together upon further steps to be pursued. In consequence, I have made arrangements with the Company of Farmers-General to furnish them directly by commission from the United Colonies with the necessary provision of tobacco for the annual consumption of this kingdom, which they drew heretofore by the way of England; thereby saving, on one hand and the other, all that the custom-house and the merchants of Great Britain gained, as well upon the American sales as upon the French purchasers. I was extremely satisfied at the frankness with which the Farmers-General, appointed on this occasion, treated with me, opening all their books and showing me the original entries. I have proposed to Mons. de S., Minister of the Marine, to furnish meal and sea biscuit, timber for ships, (and, in course, lumber for cooperage,) flax, pitch, tar, &c. He assured me that he should not examine where I procured them for him, provided I did it, and for a reasonable price; and that I might take my steps in consequence. But I will not dissemble or conceal from you that I have found this Minister under some mercantile prejudices, which I must combat, and from which I shall find some difficulty to recover him, because they have been suggested to him by such as are reputed to be the most skilful merchants, and who have, or think they have, an interest in maintaining ancient prejudices on such points. I have, however, shaken him a little. He has directed me to throw out, in a small written memoire, my particular ideas upon those articles whereon we differ most; he will give this memoire for the discussion of some skilful merchants, or the Deputies of Commerce; after which he will weigh definitively the reasons on one side and the other. I shall join herewith that memoire, when I shall have shown it to him.

I have taken the advice of many trading people for a treaty for grain, retour, toutes les marchandises Europeennes que vous souhaiterez, comme vins, huiles, draps, toiles, drogues, mercerie, quincaillerie, &c., à meilleur compte que vous ne les tiriez d'Angleterre, parceque la France produit d'avantage, et que la main d'œuvre y est moins chere.

J'ai actuellement un homme intelligent et plein d'ardeur qui parcourt toutes les manufactures d'aiguilles et d'épingles de Normandie, &c., pour se mettre en état d'en établir bientôt une en Pensylvanie, où moyennant les encouragemens que je lui ai fait esperer, il compte se rendre tres utile aux Americains, et se fonder lui même une tres bonne maison. Il paroît par vos instructions que l'objet dont vous avez le besoin le plus urgent, après les munitions de guerre ce sont les aiguilles et les épingles.

M. Penet paroît un homme fidèle, actif, intelligent et très connoisseur en armes de toutes espèces ; mais j'ai cru entrevoir que votre comité ne le connoissant pas assez pour lui confier de gros fonds pecuniaires, n'avoit voulu s'engager qua lui rembourser amplement ses avances, et qu'il n'est pas en état d'en faire de bien considerables, quelque bonne volonté qu'il ait. Voilà ce qui ralentit toutes les operations, que l'on auroit pu acclereler beaucoup si vous aviez en quelqu'un icy duement autorisé à faire des marchés, et à prendre pour leur execution des engagements au nom des Treize Colonies pour les payemens aux termes dont on pourroit convenir à l'aimable.

J'ai appris par nos Ministres que vous aviez donné ordres à Liege pour y faire fondre du canon de campagne. Si nous avions en commission pour cela icy, nous aurions pu vous en faire fondre de meilleurs que les Liegeois, et aurions de plus de facilités pour vous les faire passer.

D'ailleurs j'ai en sous les yeux tout recemment l'état du canon de tous les arsenaux de France, où l'on m'a fait voir qu'il y en a par surabondance de differens calibres ; et notamment que sur douze cent pieces de quatre livres, il n'y en a queues que cinq cent pieces d'employées, et environ sept cent pieces sans destination precise ; moyennant quoi il ne nous seroit peutetre pas fort difficile d'en emprunter tacitement deux ou trois cent, à charge de remplacement, et ces pieces de quatre livres sont justement celles dont on tire le meilleur service en campagne, où elles marchent à la tête des regimens. Si vous goûtez cette idée, ayez la bonté de nous envoyer des pouvoirs en bonne forme, et d'y joindre, pour assurance des remplacements, soit de l'argent, soit des marchandises, soit des lettres de change, soit des papiers-monnoye du Congrès.

Si je pouvois seulement repondre affirmativement de quelqueune de ces choses pour une epoque fixe, on ne vous laisseroit manquer de rien. Denués de tout à cet egard, nous sommes obligés de nous reduire à vous faire passer peu à peltries, indigo, whalebone, and spermaceti, and in general all wares and productions of your climate. And we can flatter ourselves with producing for you a greater advantage than you have ever made. I am still more sure of being able to procure for you in returns all the European merchandise which you want, as wine, oil, cloths, linens, drugs, mercury, and hardware, on better terms than you have them from England, because France produces more, and labour is cheaper. I have already an intelligent and vigorous agent, who goes through all the manufactories of needles and pins in Normandy, &c., to put himself soon in a condition of establishing one in Pennsylvania, to which place, upon the encouragement which I have led him to hope for, he intends to proceed and render himself useful to the Americans, and to build for himself a good house. It appears from the instructions that, next to military stores, your most pressing wants are for needles and pins.

Mr. Penet appears a faithful, active, intelligent man, and very much the connoisseur in arms of every kind ; but I have been led to think that your Committee, not knowing him sufficiently to trust him with large pecuniary funds, would only engage themselves to repay amply his advances ; and he is not in a condition to do great things in that way, however good his disposition is therefor. This is what retards all the operations, which might have been much accelerated if you had somebody here duly authorized to make bargains, and to pass engagements for their execution in the name of the Thirteen United Colonies, on terms which would be readily owned agreeable.

I have learned from our Ministers that you have given orders at Liege for having field pieces cast there. If we had received commission for them here, we could have had better cast here than at Liege, and could have sent them to you with more ease.

Further, I have lately had under my eye the state of the cannon in all the arsenals of France, where I have been convinced that there is a superabundance of all bores, and particularly that of twelve hundred pieces of four-pound ; there are scarcely five hundred in actual employ, and about seven hundred pieces without any precise destination. Thus, perhaps, it may not be very difficult for us to borrow, secretly, two or three hundred, on condition of replacing them ; and these pieces of four-pound are exactly those from which the greater advantage may be had in the field, where they go at the head of regiments. If you adopt this idea, be so kind as to send us powers in due form ; and to add an assurance of repeu, par les vaisseaux qui viendront successivement de votre part pour en faire les chargemens, des fusils, de la poudre, du plomb, des pierres à fusils, du salpêtre, et quelques officiers subalternes d'artillerie ou chefs d'ouvriers, fondeurs, armouriers, &c.

Ce 29<sup>e</sup> Juin.—M. D'Hangest l'ainé étoit venu exprès de la fere en cette ville pour conferer avec moi sur les moyens et les conditions de son passage en Amerique ; mais apres avoir consulté un ami commun, tous les deux ensemble et chacun separement, nous avons reconnu qu'il y avoit mieux à faire pour lui et pour nous, moyennant quoi il est retourné à son poste.

Reste à deliberer entre deux hommes tels que je doute qu'on puisse leur trouver un troisième en Europe dans ce genre l'un est M. Du Coudray dont je vous ai déjà parlé cy dessus, et pour qui mon estime n'a fait que s'accroître ; l'autre est le fameux Chevalier De Tot, arrivé avant hier de Constantinople, où suivant le rapport de toutes les gazettes, il a dirigé l'artillerie des Turcs beaucoup mieux qu'on ne pouvoit l'esperer, établi des fonderies de canons, dressé des batteries, construit des fortifications, et specialement au detroit des Dardanelles qu'il a mis à l'abri de l'invasion des Russes, tout puissans alors dans la Mediterranée. Les gens de l'art n'en pensent pas tout a fait si avantageusement, et le regardent comme excellent peut etre en Turchie, et mediocre ailleurs ; cependant je ne croirois point vous faire un mauvais present en vous l'envoyant. Au reste je menagerai vos interets autant qu'il me sera possible, mais vous concevez bien que tant l'un que l'autre de ces deux hommes là voudront se faire acheter le plus cher qu'ils pourront. M. Le Chevalier De Tot se vantera d'avoir fait ses preuves avec le plus grand éclat. M. Du Coudray, par son credit aupres du Ministre de la Guerre, étant en état de vous rendre de plus grands services que persone, ne manque pas de faire valoir beaucoup cette consideration. Je le vois souvent depuis quelque tems, pour concerter ensemble les moyens d'obtenir un emprunt de quelques centaines de bouches à feu et nous ne sommes pas sans esperances d'y reussir.

J'avois cherché à m'étayer pour cet effet de la protection du Comte d'Aranda, cy-devant Ministre d'Espagne, et actuellement Ambassadeur icy ; il m'a marqué beaucoup de bienveillance ; mais des considerations importantes ne lui permettent pas de se compromettre vis-à-vis du Ministre François. Quoique M. Penet m'ait autorisé positivement de vive voix et par écrit à exercer pour lui, et comme lui même, les pouvoirs qu'il a reçus de votre Comité Secret, je n'aurai point l'esprit entierement tranquille qu'il ne m'ait fait parvenir la lettre que vous m'avez fait l'honneur de m'écrire de votre main. Dans cette perplexité, j'ai conçu l'idée delier au moins une correspondance avec M. Ar- placing them, either by silver, or merchandise, or bills of exchange, or paper money of the Congress.

If I could only answer affirmatively upon any one of those heads for a fixed term, you should be left to want nothing. Stripped of every means of that kind, we are obliged to reduce ourselves to send you only a little at a time, by vessels which shall arrive from your ports to take loadings in muskets, powder, lead, flints, saltpetre, and some subaltern officers of Artillery, chief workmen, founders, armourers, &c.

June 29.—Mr. D'Hangest, the elder, had come from La Fere to this city, on purpose to confer with me upon the means and conditions of his passage to America ; but after having consulted a common friend, in company and separately, we found that better could be done for him and for us ; therefore he returned to his employment.

It remains to be deliberated between two men, and such as I doubt whether a third like them can be found in Europe of their profession : one is the Mr. Du Coudray, of whom I have before spoken to you in this letter, and for whom my esteem does but increase ; the other is the famous Chevalier De Tot, who, the day before yesterday, arrived from Constantinople, where, by the report of all the Gazettes, he has conducted the artillery of the Turks much better than could have been hoped ; established founderies for cannon ; erected batteries, and constructed fortifications, especially at the straits of the Dardanelles, which he has rendered secure against the invasion of the Russians, very powerful then in the Mediterranean. Artists do not think altogether so advantageously of him ; and they regard him as excellent perhaps in Turkey, but indifferent elsewhere. However, I should not think I made you a bad present in sending him.

In what remains, I shall manage your interests the best in my power ; but you easily conceive that one as well as the other of these two men would be purchased as high as they could.

The Chevalier De Tot boasts of having exhibited himself with the greatest eclat. Mr. Du Coudray, by his credit with the Minister in the War Department, being in the way of rendering you greater services than any one else, does not fail to set value upon that circumstance. I have seen him often lately to concert how we may get the loan of some hundreds of field-pieces, (or cannon or howitzers,) and we are not without hopes of succeeding therein. I strove to avail myself, for that purpose, of the protection of the Count D'Aranda, formerly Minister of Spain, and thor Lee, votre député à Londres, dont je pourrai avoir très souvent des nouvelles. N'étant point comme de lui, j'ai en recours à M. Le Comte de Lauraguais avec qui il est en liaison, pour lui faire passer ma première lettre.

Je viens d'en recevoir une de Mons. Penet, il s'agit de procurer à la Colonie de Virginie, douze pièces de canon de six; ce calibre n'est pas commun icy; cependant nous tâcherons d'en trouver.

Il n'est pas tems encore de vous parler d'un fusil d'une nouvelle construction, beaucoup plus simple, et qu'on espère qui n'en sera que plus solide; il y aura en même tems de l'épargne sur le prix l'inventeur, nommé Reynard, m'en faisoit attendre le modèle de jour en jour depuis plus d'un mois; il m'annonce enfin qu'il est terminé et l'épreuve en sera faite la semaine prochaine avec l'exactitude la plus scrupuleuse sous les yeux de Mons. De Gribauval qui vent bien s'y prêter, et qui en cas de réussite, sera enchanté que le premier employ en soit consacré à la cause de la liberté, de la justice, et de l'humanité, et que l'on ne commence à en faire pour le service des armées Françoises que quand les vôtres en seront abondamment pourvues.

1<sup>er</sup> Juillet.—Je n'ai point encore reçu le paquet tant désiré de Rotterdam, et il faut clore aujourd'hui cette lettre que je vais remettre à Mons. De Boisbertrand qui passera demain en poste pour aller s'embarquer à Nantes. Dieu veuille qu'il puisse vous la remettre bientôt. Soyez persuadé que je ne la lui ai confiée qu'après m'être assuré par de bons garants de sa fidélité, de son courage et de sa sagesse. Il m'a donné sa parole d'honneur qu'an moins ne tombera t'elle pas entre les mains de vos ennemis, telle chose qui puisse lui arriver à lui même. Il m'en auroit fait serment si je faisois cas des sermens, mais je ne les ai jamais regardés que comme la dernière ressource des menteurs; sans cela je jurerois icy entre vos mains un hommage lige et une fidélité inviolable à l'auguste Congrès de la plus respectable République qui ait jamais existé; mais mon attachement pour vous répond assez de mon dévouement pour elle puisse t'elle conserver longtems un sujet tel que vous, et en reproduire de semblables de generation en generation, et puissent mes services lui être agréables en sous ordres des vôtres. Je mourrois content si je pouvois voir ma patrie et la votre intimement unies, et si j'avois pu y contribuer je serois au comble de mes vœux.

Je suis avec la plus parfaite estime et la plus tendre affection, Monsieur et cher ami, votre très humble et très obéissant serviteur,

BARBUE DUBOURG.

Comme il est fort douteux que ces depeches puissent parvenir jusqu'à vous, tandis que la mer est hérissée de vaisseaux Anglois, j'en fait faire deux autres copies que je ferai partir chacune par un navire différent, afin qu'il puisse vous en arriver au moins une des trois.

Enfin je joins icy un modèle d'alphabet en chiffres pour now Ambassador here. He showed me much kindness, but important considerations do not permit him to risk a dispute with the French Ministry. Though Mr. Penet hath positively authorized me, by word of mouth and by writing, to exercise for him and as himself the powers which he has received from your Secret Committee, my mind is not altogether easy at his not having delivered to me the letter which you did me the honour to write with your own hand. In this perplexity, I have conceived the idea of forming a correspondence with Mr. Arthur Lee, your Deputy at London, from whom I might have frequent intelligence. Not being known to him, I have had recourse to the Count de Lauraguais, with whom he is in connection, to get him to send my first letter. I have just received one from Mr. Penet; he is aiming to procure for the Colony of Virginia twelve pieces of cannon, six-pounders; that bore is not common here; however, we will strive to find them.

The time is not yet come to speak to you of a musket of new construction, more simple, and, it is hoped, not less solid; there will also be a saving in the price. The inventor (named Reynard) led me to expect the model day by day more than a month; he tells me at length that it is finished, and the proof of it will be made next week, with the most scrupulous exactness, under the eye of Mr. De Gribauval, who is pleased to attend it, and who, in case of success, will be charmed that the first employ of it should be consecrated to the cause of liberty, of justice, and of humanity, and that they should not be made use of for the service of the French armies till after yours shall be abundantly provided with them.

July 1st.—I have not yet received the much-desired packet from Rotterdam; and I must this day close this letter, which I shall send by Mr. De Bois Bertrand, and who goes post-haste to-morrow to embark at Nantes. God grant that he may soon deliver it to you.

Be assured that I have not trusted it to him till after being convinced, by good warrants, of his fidelity, his courage, and his wisdom. He has given me his word of honour that at least it shall not fall into the enemy's hands, though such a chance should happen to himself. He would have given me his oath for it, if I laid stress upon oaths; but I have nous servir par la suite de part et d'autre, si vous le jugez à propos. Chaque lettre principale y est représentée par plusieurs chiffres différens, dont on emploiera tantôt l'un et tantôt l'autre pour mettre les curieux en défaut. Les mots seront distingués par l'interposition d'un caractère grec sans conséquence; deux de ces caractères auront la valeur d'une virgule, et trois vaudront un point. Il faudra effacer tous ces caractères grecs pour lire la lettre sans peine en confusion faisons en immédiatement l'essai :

3, 2, ε, 19, 5, 23, 16, 12 γ, 44, 53, δ, 10, 51, 4, 61, θ
36, 17, 6, 24, 71, 1, λ, 42, 28, 37, 33, μ, 82, 54, 11, 9, 8, 47, 59, 88, 13, 69, ε, 31, 92, ω, 72, 34, 56, 73, σ, 6, 94, 4, 20, φ, 40, 100, 68, 48, ψ ω.

Pour déchiffrer cela, effacez les caractères grecs :

3, 2, |, 19, 5, 23, 16, 12, ||, 44, 53, |, 10, 51, 4, 61, |,
<sub>m, a, f, e, m, m, e, t, d, e, u, x,</sub>
36, 17, 6, 24, 71, 1 |, 42, 28, 37, 33, |, 82, 54, 11, 9,
<sub>f, i, l, l, e, s, v, o, u, s,</sub>
8, 47, 59, 88, 13, 69, ||, 31, 92, |, 72, 34, 56, 73, |, 6,
94, 4, 20, |, 40, 100, 68, 48, ||.

Cherchez maintenant les lettres correspondantes à chacun de ces chiffres dans l'alphabet cy joint.

2<sup>e</sup> Juillet.—M. De Boisbertrand emmène avec lui à ses propres dépens, deux bas officiers d'une bravoure à toute épreuve, et d'une conduite irréprochable, dont on peut faire de très bons officiers, si l'on en a occasion comme il est à presumer. Quant à lui je lui ai fait espérer le grade de Colonel, dans la persuasion où je suis qu'il peut bien le remplir à la satisfaction de vos généraux; je me suis cependant bien gardé de lui en donner de parole positive; mais je dois vous faire observer que c'est un usage constant d'avancer au moins d'un grade tout officier que l'on fait passer d'icy dans les Indes. Pour ce qui concerne tant M. Du Coudray que M. le Chevalier De Tot comme il auroit fallu prendre beaucoup trop sur moi pour faire partir l'un ou l'autre immédiatement, je me crois obligé d'attendre vos ordres à cet égard.

P. S. Je rouvris ma lettre pour vous dire que depuis une heure, j'ai appris des choses qui me feroient un peu rabattre de l'idée que j'ai pu vous donner de M. De Montieu.

Adieu, portez vous bien, prospérez, vous et les vôtres et soyez sur que personne au monde ne vous est plus dévoué.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THEIR DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

[No. 20.]

Annapolis, June 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We received a letter yesterday at one o'clock from the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., enclosing resolves of Congress relative to our Militia, in consequence of which, as our powers are not adequate to the matters requested from this Province, we have resolved that a Convention be held at Annapolis, on Thursday, the 20th inst.;

never regarded them otherwise than as the last resource of liars. Was it not for that, I would swear, in this within your hands, a full homage and an inviolable fidelity to the august Congress of the most respectable Republic which has ever existed. But my attachment to you answers sufficiently for my devotedness to that. May it long enjoy a subject such as you, and produce likenesses of you from generation to generation! And may my services be agreeable to it in an under rank to yours. I would die contented could I see my country and yours intimately united; and could I contribute towards it, I should be at the summit of my wishes.

I am, with the most perfect esteem, and most tender affection, sir and dear friend, your very humble, and very obedient servant,

BARBUE DUBOURG.

As it is very doubtful whether these despatches will reach as far as you, since the sea is porcupined with English cruisers, I have ordered two other copies, which I shall send by two different ships, so that one of the three at least may arrive safely to you.

July 2<sup>d</sup>.—Mr. De Bois Bertrand takes with him, at his own charge, two subalterns, of thorough bravery and irreproachable conduct, of whom may be made very good officers, if they shall be wanted, as is to be presumed. As to him, I have led him to expect the rank of Colonel, from the persuasion I have that he would fill it well, to the satisfaction of your Generals. I have, nevertheless, been upon guard with him as to giving absolute word; but I must observe to you that it is the constant usage here to advance one rank every officer who is sent over to the Indies.

As to what regards Mr. Du Coudray and Mr. De Tot, as I must have taken far too much upon me to make either one or the other to proceed immediately, I thought myself obliged to wait your orders on that head.

P. S. I open my letter to tell you that within an hour I have learned some things which make me abate the idea which I gave you of Mr. Montieu. Adieu, fare you well, be prosperous, you and yours, and know that not one in the world is more devoted to you.

at which time we shall be glad to see as many of you as can be spared from Congress.

We request you will make the inquiry directed by the enclosed resolve of our late Convention, and transmit us an account of the standard proof of cannon as early as possible. Our guns are nine and eighteen-pounders.

We are, &c.

To the Deputies for Maryland in Congress.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[No. 21.]

Annapolis, June 10, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 4th instant, enclosing resolves of the honourable Congress, we received to-day at one o'clock.

Our authority not being competent to order the marching of our Militia out of the Province, we have called a meeting of our Convention, to be held at the City of Annapolis, on the 20th of this month, at which time we shall lay your letter, with the resolves, before them.

We are sorry for the reverse our affairs have lately met with in Canada; but trusting in the justice of our cause, and the active spirit of our countrymen, we hope matters will soon wear a different aspect in that quarter.

Be assured, sir, of our utmost exertions at this critical crisis to prevent the impending calamities which threaten this Continent, and that the Province of Maryland will continue to act with firmness in the common cause, until peace may be happily restored. We are, &c.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of the Congress.

SECRET COMMITTEE TO WILLIAM BINGHAM.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1776.

SIR: We are sorry for your disappointment of the sloop Hornet; but in consequence thereof we have procured an order to despatch the ship Reprisal, Captain Lambert Wickes; and herewith we send you the letters and orders for Captain Wickes and Captain Hallock, which they will comply with; and you will consequently take your passage for Martinico, on board the Reprisal, Captain Wickes; and hoping for a speedy and safe passage, and for a successful issue to the business you are charged with, we remain, sir, your humble servants,

BENJAMIN HARRISON,
JOHN DICKINSON,
ROBERT MORRIS.

To William Bingham, Esq.

SECRET COMMITTEE TO CAPTAIN WICKES.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1776.

SIR: We have received your letter of the 6th, and approve your proceedings as therein represented; and as you seem very desirous to make a cruise, we have this day agreed to give up the direction of the ship Reprisal to a Committee of Congress, styled the Committee of Secret Correspondence. The members are Benjamin Harrison, Benjamin Franklin, John Jay, John Dickinson, Thomas Johnston, and Robert Morris, Esqs.; any three of them are a quorum.

This Committee are directed to despatch one of our cruisers to the West-Indies; and we understand they have already given the needful orders to Captain William Hallock, of the sloop Hornet, from whom we have just received advice that said sloop is leaky and unfit to proceed on that voyage; for this reason your ship is assigned for that service, and you are hereby directed to receive from Captain Hallock the letters and orders of said Committee. Consider them as directed to yourself, and obey them in every particular. We hope this voyage will afford you an opportunity of rendering essential service to your country, and that you will bring us back a parcel of fine seamen, and a number of good prizes.

A supply of stores will be sent you by the Wasp; and we are, sir, your humble servants,

JOHN HANCOCK, JOSEPH HEWES,
RICHARD HENRY LEE, GEORGE READ,
STEPHEN HOPKINS, WILLIAM WHIPPLE.
JONATHAN SERGEANT,

To Captain Lambert Wickes.

MRS. CONNOLLY TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

June 10, 1776.

SIR: As I expected from the nature of your letter to me that before now I should have been permitted to return home, I patiently waited your further orders; but finding no appearance answerable to my expectation, and unconscious of having done anything to merit a detention here from an only child, at an expense very enormous, I must request the liberty of returning on next Monday. I am ready to submit to any examination, or to come under any restriction you may judge necessary; but if I do not hear from you before that time, I shall conclude that I have your permission, and depart accordingly.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

SUKEY CONNOLLY.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1776.

At a meeting of the First and Second Battalions* of this City, present one thousand men, the following questions were proposed and carried, with only twenty-four dissenters in the First, and two in the Second Battalion, viz:

"Whether they will support the Resolves of Congress of the 15th ultimo, and the Proceedings of the publick meeting held the 20th following, in consequence thereof?"

"Is it the determined resolution of this Corps to support the proceedings of the publick meeting aforesaid, at all hazards?"

At a meeting of the Associators of the Fourth Battalion of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, on the usual place of parade, in consequence of notice given to them on the 6th instant that their sense respecting a new Government of this Province, and the mode proposed for obtaining it, &c., would this day be freely taken, Present: The Officers and Privates of nine Companies.

The Colonel, Thomas McKean, informed them that since he had proposed this meeting for the above, among other purposes, he had been waited upon with the following Resolution of the Committee of Privates of the five Battalions:

"In Committee of Privates, June 6, 1776.

"Moved, and unanimously agreed to, That an application be made to the Officers of the several Battalions to take the sense of each Battalion, whether they will support the Resolve of Congress of the 15th ultimo, and the Proceedings of the publick meeting held the 20th following, in consequence thereof?"

"A true copy: JAMES CANNON, Clerk."

He said that he was happy to find that his own idea of the propriety of this measure was supported by so respectable a body as the Committee of Privates.

The Resolve of Congress of the 15th ultimo, was then read, and the Proceedings of the publick meeting in the State-House yard on the 20th of the same month. And thereupon the questions were severally put:

Is it the determined resolution of this Corps to support the said Resolve of Congress with their lives and fortunes?

Carried unanimously in the affirmative.

Is it the determined resolution of this Corps to support the Proceedings of the publick meeting aforesaid, at all hazards?

Carried unanimously in the affirmative.

After which the Colonel proposed another question to them, viz:

Whether they wished the Province of Pennsylvania to be a free and independent State, and united with the other twelve Colonies represented in Congress?

Carried unanimously in the affirmative.

No arguments or persuasions were urged for or against the above propositions, and all present, amounting to upwards of four hundred, showed their hearty approbation of the whole transaction by three huzzas.

*The Lieutenant-Colonel of the Third Battalion refusing to put the question, gave great umbrage to the men, one of whom replied to him in a genteel spirited manner: "How our Delegates in Congress may act we know not, though we have a right to know, and intend to promote an inquiry for that purpose. The Counties, such as we have heard from, are for a Convention. The Committee of Bucks County have appointed Deputies to the Conference to be held in this city on the 18th instant." Take heed, Tories, you are at your last gasp! You have had many warnings, and many kind invitations!

Signed by order of the Battalion:

THOMAS MCKEAN, Colonel.

At a meeting of the Associators of the Fifth Battalion of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, on the usual place of parade, in consequence of notice given to them on the 6th instant that their sense respecting a new Government of this Province, and the mode proposed for obtaining it, &c., would this day be freely taken,

The Colonel, Timothy Matlack, informed them that since he had proposed this meeting for the above, among other purposes, he had been waited upon with the following Resolution of the Committee of Privates of the five Battalions:

"In Committee of Privates, June 6, 1776.

"Moved, and unanimously agreed to, That an application be made to the Officers of the several Battalions to take the sense of each Battalion, whether they will support the Resolve of Congress of the 15th ultimo, and the Proceedings of the publick meeting held the 20th following, in consequence thereof.

"A true copy: JAMES CANNON, Clerk."

He said he was happy to find that his own idea of the propriety of this measure was supported by so respectable a body as the Committee of Privates.

The Resolve of Congress of the 15th ultimo, was then read, and the Proceedings of the publick meeting in the State-House yard on the 20th of the same month. And thereupon the questions were severally put:

Is it the determined resolution of this Corps to support the said Resolve of Congress with their lives and fortunes?

Carried unanimously in the affirmative.

Is it the determined resolution of this Corps to support the Proceedings of the publick meeting aforesaid, at all hazards?

Carried unanimously in the affirmative.

After which the Colonel proposed another question to them, viz:

Whether they wished the Province of Pennsylvania to be a free and independent State, and united with the other twelve Colonies represented in Congress?

Carried unanimously in the affirmative.

No arguments or persuasions were urged for or against the above propositions, and all present showed their hearty approbation of the whole transaction by three huzzas.

Signed by order of the Battalion:

TIMOTHY MATLACK, Colonel.

At a meeting of the Associators of the First Battalion of Chester County, on the 10th of this instant, Colonel Moore in the Chair, the following Resolutions were unanimously agreed upon, viz:

That whereas the King and Parliament of Great Britain have asserted their right to bind the Colonies in all cases whatsoever, and, by a late act of Parliament, declared the colonists Rebels, and consequently have cut them off from the protection of that Crown; have levied a cruel and bloody war against us, by calling in to their assistance many thousands of foreign mercenaries, so that we must either submit to the most ignominious slavery, or vindicate our liberties at the risk of our lives:

Resolved, That we will exert our most strenuous efforts to support and strengthen the Continental Union, and in a particular manner to carry into execution, to the utmost of our power, the Resolve of the honourable the Continental Congress, bearing date May 15, 1776.

Resolved, That the Instructions given by our Assembly last fall, and renewed in the spring to our Delegates, are of the most dangerous tendency, and are calculated to break an important middle link in the grand Continental chain of Union.

Resolved, That some alterations in new-modelling the Government to suit the present exigency of our affairs, are necessary.

Resolved, That the present House of Assembly, as they were chosen for the sole purpose of executing the old—not framing a new Constitution—have no authority to make the necessary alterations, without assuming arbitrary power.

Resolved, That we most heartily concur with the Committee of Inspection of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, in calling a Conference of the several County Committees of this Province, to be held on the 18th of this instant, at Philadelphia, for the purpose of deliberating on the most proper measures for choosing a Provincial Convention for the purpose of new-modelling the Constitution.

Resolved, That the Remonstrance said to be signed by a number of the inhabitants of the City of Philadelphia, and a Petition to the Assembly, signed W. Hamilton, are calculated to inflame the minds of the good people of this Province, to sow dissensions, and strike at the liberties of the people.

Resolved, That we will support the measures now adopted at all hazards, be the consequences what they may.

At a meeting of the Elk Battalion Militia of Chester County, under the command of Colonel William Montgomery, the following Resolves were agreed to, and signed by six hundred and sixty men:

Whereas the King, Ministry and Parliament of Great Britain, have declared their right of making laws to bind the inhabitants of these Colonies in all cases whatsoever, and have enacted a variety of laws destructive of our liberty, have levied war against us, cruelly destroyed many of our countrymen, declared these Colonies in a state of rebellion, and have employed foreign troops for the express purpose of subjugating and enslaving us:

Therefore, Resolved, That we, from a full persuasion that all hopes of a reconciliation between Great Britain and these Colonies are at an end, do think ourselves bound, in conjunction with the other Colonies, solemnly to declare ourselves independent of Great Britain. And we are of opinion that the whole power of these Colonies ought to be exerted in support of the unalienable rights of freemen.

Resolved, That we will use our utmost endeavour to support the union of the Colonies.

Resolved, That proper measures be adopted for carrying into execution the Resolve of the honourable Congress, dated the 15th of May.

Resolved, That some alterations in the Constitution of this Province are absolutely necessary.

Resolved, That no body of men elected for the purpose of legislation only, have the least right to alter one iota of the Constitution, without powers delegated from the people for that purpose.

Resolved, That the present House of Assembly being elected for the sole purpose of legislation, are therefore unqualified to make the necessary alterations.

Resolved, therefore, That a Conference of the several County Committees of this Province ought to be held, for the purpose of consulting on measures necessary for carrying said Resolve of Congress into execution.

Resolved, That our liberties are dearer to us than our lives, and we will spend the last drop of our blood in defence of them.

Signed by order. A true copy:

JOSEPH GARDNER, Clerk.

The Associators of Colonel James Crawford's Battalion being convened on the 10th instant at the place of their parade in Leacock Township, Lancaster County, it was moved to read to them the Resolve of the honourable Continental Congress of the 15th of May, the Protest of divers of the inhabitants of this Province of the 20th of May, the Alarm, the Circular Letter from the Committee of Privates of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, and the Instructions given by the Assembly of this Province to their Delegates in Congress.

The same were accordingly read; upon which the Battalion formed the following Resolutions:

Resolved, unanimously, That the Instructions given by the Assembly to their Delegates in Congress have operated against the honour, interest, and safety of this Colony, and are very injurious to the American cause in general.

Resolved, unanimously, That it is from the influence of those Instructions that many of the people have viewed their rights and liberties as inseparably blended with the present Constitution.

Resolved, unanimously, That while Delegates to represent this Province are chosen by the Assembly, and fettered by their Instructions, we neither have nor can have that representation in Congress we desire and ought to have.

Resolved, unanimously, That it is the opinion of this Battalion, that the Delegates of this Province chosen and instructed as they are, can only be a sinking weight added to the many unavoidable and heavy burdens of that respectable body of which they are members.

Resolved, unanimously, That the liberties of Pennsylvania, while in the tenure of the present Government, are only nominal and precarious.

Resolved, unanimously, That a Government competent to the exigencies of our affairs ought to be immediately framed by a Convention appointed for that purpose.

Resolved, unanimously, That we most cheerfully adopt the measures recommended in the Resolve of Congress, in the Protest, the Alarm, and the Circular Letter, which have been read, and are determined to support them, be the consequences what they may.

Resolved, unanimously, That as we fully approve of their resolution, so we most heartily thank the patriotick Committee of this County for appointing a number of their members to meet the 18th instant at Philadelphia, with members appointed by the Committees of the other Counties, to hold a Provincial Conference, for the express purpose of determining the number of which the Convention for forming a new Government shall consist, together with the mode of electing them.

After the above Resolves were deliberately read and approved, the Battalion, as a further testimony of their hearty approbation of the measures adopted, gave three cheers.

The whole was conducted with the greatest decorum.

Unanimously agreed, That the above be signed, on behalf of the Battalion, by JOHN WHITEHILL.

Leacock, June 10, 1776.

JOSEPH HART TO PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Bucks County, June 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of 21st of May was duly delivered to us by Messrs. Jones and Watkins, in which you were pleased to recommend to us to choose a certain number out of our Committee, to meet Deputies from the other County Committees of this Province on the 18th instant, in Provincial Conference, to agree upon and direct the mode for electing members for a Provincial Convention. But as the matters involved in the said recommendation were of so great consequence to the well-being of this Province, they thought it prudent to adjourn the determination of it to this day, when they again met, and chose Joseph Hart, John Kidd, James Wallace, Benjamin Seigle, and Henry Wynkoop, or any three of them, to represent this County at the aforesaid meeting. And we heartily wish that happiness and glory may attend it.

By order of the Committee.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

JOSEPH HART, Chairman.

TO THE COMMON PEOPLE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

It is remarkable that the Tories in every Colony have affected to differ from the Whigs only in small matters. Thus, in Massachusetts-Bay the Tories pretended to believe, with the Whigs, that Great Britain could not tax us without our consent; but, at the same time, insisted upon her supreme legislative authority over us. In New-York they attempted to justify external and to reprobate internal taxes. In Pennsylvania they tell us to fight till we are half cut off, and never to relax any of our claims, but by no means ever to think of independence. The Tories among us tell the Whigs further, that they have changed the ground of the controversy. Have not the Tories followed them in every step except the last? Thus, when the Whigs proposed Non-Importation and Non-Exportation Agreements, the Tories urged Petitions to the King only; and when the Whigs proposed making military preparations, the Tories urged them to adhere to the Non-Importation and Non-Exportation Agreements. And now, when a Declaration of Independence is absolutely necessary for our safety and future welfare, they tell us to rely upon our arms, and Great Britain will soon come down to our terms. Talk to them of the numbers and enterprising spirit of our troops, and they will tell you they are no match for the power of Britain. Talk to them of a foreign alliance, and they tell you that all foreign Courts are perfidious, and urge you to depend only upon yourselves. Propose Declarations of Independence in a Committee or Convention, and they will tell you that it is the business of the Congress only to make us independent. Let the Congress pass a resolve for suppressing all authority derived from the King of Britain in the United Colonies, and they will tell you no Congress has a right to interfere with the "domestick police" of a Colony, although this police is derived directly from the Crown. Talk to them of the necessity of instituting a Government under the authority of the people, and they will tell you that our present Government is sufficient for all the exigencies of our affairs, although all power—legislative, executive, and judicial—is lodged in one body, by which means we live under a species of Government which has always been reprobated by good men as the worst in the world. In a word, the history of mankind does not furnish a more absurd or ridiculous character than that of a Tory, or a pretended moderate man.

It is now high time, my dear countrymen, to emancipate yourselves from the delusions of such artful men. You have been told that you are unfit to have any share in the formation of a new Government; and yet you are acknowledged at the same time to compose nine-tenths of the people of Pennsylvania. Strange that the majority should yield to the minority in a matter of so much consequence! But your leaders, it is said, are men of no fortune. I deny the charge. In the first place, you have no leaders—you all act from the impulses of publick and not party spirit; and in the second place, you have nine-tenths of the property of Pennsylvania on your side the question. But you are told that you are all aiming at offices and power. Suppose this were true, you are just in your aims, for all offices and power belong solely to you, and are in your gift.

Here I cannot help making a digression from my subject. It was a custom among the Jews, on certain occasions, to acknowledge the origin of their families as an antidote to pride. "A Syrian ready to perish was my father," was the confession with which they approached the Temple. Suppose the same acknowledgment was demanded from some of our uncommon people. I believe the answer should be, a poor tradesman, a day-labourer, or a vagrant, "ready to perish, was my father." Talk not, ye pretenders to rank and gentility, of your elevated stations. They are derived from those very people whom you treat with so much contempt. Talk not of their vulgar countenances and behaviour. Their vulgarity is seated only in their manners; it occupies a higher place among yourselves—it is seated in your minds. This the profane, obscene, and trifling conversation so peculiar to high-life abundantly witnesses. Had you concurred in the present virtuous and necessary measure of instituting a new Government, you would have probably continued to occupy your posts and offices, with that additional lustre which they would have received from being the unbiased gifts of freemen; but you have now forfeited the confidence of the people by despising their authority; and you have furnished them with a suspicion that in taking up arms you yielded only to the violence of the times, or that you meant to fight for your offices, and not for your country.

A WATCHMAN.

PETITION SIGNED BY A NUMBER OF INHABITANTS OF NEW-JERSEY, AND ADDRESSED TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS SITTING AT BURLINGTON, JUNE, 1776.

Permit us, gentlemen, to assure you that although we daily experience and sincerely lament, in common with our fellow-subjects, inhabitants of the Colonies, the calamitous consequences of the present unhappy controversy with Great Britain, we cannot but think that we should ill discharge the duty we owe to our country, ourselves, our children, and posterity, if we neglected to exert ourselves, by every effort in our power, to prevent our condition, though truly deplorable, from becoming perfectly desperate; which we are convinced must necessarily be the consequence, if a total separation from, and independency of, the Government of

Great Britain should be resolved upon, declared, and attempted in this Province.

We do not presume, gentlemen, to dictate to you, or even to instruct you; we address you as fellow-subjects and fellow-sufferers, zealous for the rights of America in general, but particularly anxious for the real welfare of New-Jersey. As such, we trust that you will be too deeply impressed with the recollection of the peculiar happiness and prosperity heretofore enjoyed by the inhabitants of this continent, connected with and subject to the Government of Great Britain, not to dread the consequences of a declared separation from that country. We trust, gentlemen, that you will have the honour, the interest, safety, and welfare, of this your native country too much at heart to subject this once flourishing and happy Province to the reproachful and calamitous consequences of an avowed separation.

Permit us, also, gentlemen, to suggest that we cannot but think that any precipitate resolves to change our present constitutional form of Government must, in their consequences, operate to retard and obstruct what we are persuaded you, gentlemen, as well as ourselves, cannot wish to lose sight of, as the primary and constant object of the present unhappy dispute, namely, a safe, honourable, and lasting reconciliation with Great Britain on constitutional principles. To effect which desirable end, we apprehend the union of the Colonies was recommended; for which purpose alone was the Continental Congress delegated, and their authority hitherto submitted to; and upon the same hopes of peace and reconciliation, we are daily impatiently expecting Commissioners from his Majesty. From these considerations, gentlemen, we were convinced that sentiments of separation and independence must be not only highly impolitic, but may be of the most dangerous and destructive consequences; add to which, gentlemen, we have the satisfaction to see the General Assembly of this Province legally convened, and from time to time duly meeting, and in the full exercise of their legislative authority and jurisdiction; and as the principal officers of Government in this Colony are now amongst us, and engaged in the duties of their station, our courts of justice and publick offices open, and business there conducted with order and regularity, our present established mode of Government, we are convinced, will continue, as it has hitherto been experienced to be, fully sufficient to the exigencies of our affairs, and best conduce to the happiness and safety of the people of New-Jersey.

That you, gentlemen, may join in sentiments and opinion with us on the present occasion, and strenuously adhere to, maintain, and assert our present mode of Government, as founded on the British Constitution, and established and confirmed by the laws of the land, is the sincere and hearty prayer of, &c.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 11, 1776.]

New-York, June 10, 1776.

SIR: Since I did myself the honour of writing to you yesterday, I have had the satisfaction of seeing, and for a few minutes conversing with, Mr. Chase and Mr. Carroll, from Canada. Their account of our troops, and the situation of affairs in that department cannot possibly surprise you more than it has done me; but I need not touch upon a subject which you will be so well informed of from the fountain head; nor should I have given you the trouble of a letter by this day's post but for the distraction which seems to prevail in the Commissary's Department, (as well as others in that quarter,) the necessity of having it under one general direction, and the dissatisfaction of Colonel Trumbull at the allowance made him by Congress as an equivalent for his trouble. With respect to this particular matter, I can only say that I think he is a man well cut out for the business; and that where a shilling is saved in the pay a pound may be lost by mismanagement in the office; and that his resignation at this time (I mean this campaign) may possibly be attended with great and fatal consequences. I therefore humbly submit to Congress the propriety of handsomely rewarding those gentlemen who hold such very important, troublesome, and hazardous offices as Commissary and Quartermaster.

In speaking to the former about the supplies necessary for the troops to be raised, he informed me that the quantity of salt provisions which was shipping from hence might render his attempt to do it precarious; in consequence of which I desired him to lay the matter before the Convention of this Colony, which he will do this day; but in the mean while desired Congress might be informed of the matter, which I cannot better do than in his own words, enclosed, and submit the consideration of it to the wisdom of that honourable body.

To Congress I also submit the propriety of keeping the two Continental battalions, under the command of Colonels Shea and McGaw, at Philadelphia, when there is the greatest probability of a speedy attack upon this place from the King's troops. The encouragements given by Governor Tryon to the disaffected, which are circulated no one can well tell how; the movements of this kind of people, which are more easy to perceive than describe; the confident report which is said to have come immediately from Governor Tryon, and brought by a frigate from Halifax, that the troops at that place were embarking for this; added to a thousand incidental circumstances, trivial in themselves but strong from comparison,—leaves not a doubt upon my mind but that troops are hourly expected at the Hook.

I had no doubt when I left this city for Philadelphia but that some measures would have been taken to secure the suspected and dangerous persons of this Government before now, and left orders for the military to give every aid to the civil power; but the subject is delicate, and nothing is done in it; we may therefore have internal as well as external enemies to contend with.

I have the honour to be, with the most respectful compliments to yourself and Congress, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, President of the Continental Congress.

JOSEPH TRUMBULL TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, June 9, 1776.

DEAR SIR: You are very sensible that I am by no means satisfied with the allowance Congress have been pleased to make me for my risk, to say nothing of services, in the department they did me the honour to appoint me to the 19th of July last. Notwithstanding the Congress seem so very averse to a commission for doing the business of my office, yet I do conceive there is no just or equitable way of making a compensation therein other than that. Why should I have as much when I supply only five thousand men as when I supply fifty thousand? Nor can I conceive of one single reason against it, but that the pitiful commission commonly allowed will be a temptation to me to expend money wantonly and profusely for the sake of it. Would the Congress speak this out as their sentiment with respect to me, be assured I would not serve them, even for the principal sum. But to say no more of this matter. Why am I singled out from others employed in doing business for the continent? I am well informed, nay, I am sure, in some cases they have done, and do it. Are all the vessels fitted out for them without a commission? Are not the buyers of flour elsewhere allowed a commission of at least one-and-a-quarter per cent.? Has not the Quartermaster-General been allowed a commission of five per cent. on goods? And have not, and are not, the purchasers of those goods allowed a three per cent. commission? Am I not directed, though not by a publick resolution, to satisfy my purchasers in the country by the common and usual commission established by custom out of mind? These I know, I allow, are right and just, and, among the persons I employ, are absolutely necessary, and without it I can get nobody to do the business, and the Army cannot be supplied. But why this distinction? Why am I allowed only a fixed sum, not a half, in some cases not more than a quarter what is allowed to some persons I employ to purchase in an inconsiderable part of what must all go through my hands, and I must see issued out even in ounces? If my services are not acceptable, if I have not served them well, why am I not dismissed, not starved; nay, why am I laid under such an odious distinction, worse, infinitely, than a dismission? I well remember what you said to me in Philadelphia; but, sir, how soon may you, and some others be removed from Congress; should that happen, what a situation shall I then be in? A sum granted in addition, on my own application, and nothing appears but I am satisfied. This will by no means do for me to rely on. Since I left Philadelphia, General Washington desired me to write to some of my friends in Congress, proposing the lowest terms that would satisfy me; and that some gentlemen he had spoken to seemed willing to satisfy me. I want nothing but to be saved the risk of such sums of money as must necessarily pass through my hands. As a merchant, you are well acquainted with the established rule of that risk, being one per cent. for receiving and paying, or half per cent. for receiving only. The sum passing through my hands is great; and though the business, in addition to the risk, is enough to harass a man to death, yet I am willing, in support of the present cause, to give up half of the established risk and all my services, and to do the whole for half per cent. on the moneys paid to me or my order by the Treasurers and Paymasters. This, I suppose, will amount to about two thousand five hundred pounds per annum—sometimes more, and it may be less; and if the idea of a commission is so peculiarly disagreeable in my case, I must submit, though with reluctance, that the sum be divided by twelve, and turned into monthly wages. For many reasons, I think it better to be a commission; one especially I will mention, as when reduced to wages, and compared with the General Officers, it may give umbrage; when that comparison, in the other way, will scarce ever be made. If it is said why should it be more than an officer's pay? I answer, my department is mere mercantile; the risk is the whole sum wished for, nay, double it. I have nothing for my services, nor can I expect any share in the honours of my country, which, in case of good behaviour in the officer, is sure to him.

I have given you my mind on the subject with freedom, which is always best in this as in every other matter. I have noticed you before, and I have noticed General Washington, and have shown him this letter, that I should give up my office the moment I could do it without injury to the general cause, which I apprehend may be by the time my first year's service is expired, which now draws near, unless I could have what was a just and reasonable recompense for my risk and services, and have the afore-mentioned galling distinctions removed, which are peculiar to me, and which give me more uneasiness than everything else. My country is entitled to my services. I am willing to serve on a footing with others; but they cannot, they must not, expect me to serve in so troublesome an office for nothing, and bear the risks of it more than one year. General Washington has this day ordered me to provide for Canada; my burdens are increasing. I shall by and by drag heavily on, unless I have these matters settled to satisfaction, or I can be disengaged from the business. If the latter should be the case, I hope some person will be preferred to it who will serve with that integrity and disinterestedness I have done, and with more abilities; and that it may not fall into hands who would undertake it without wages, and cut and carve from their employers or the troops, or both, a compensation adequate to their own desires, and who, for these reasons, wish for my resignation, and will forward it with all their interest. I wish to be set above temptation, and to serve, while I do serve, with honour and integrity; longer than I can do so, be assured, I will not act.

I am, most respectfully, dear sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

To John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-York, June 10, 1776.

SIR: Before this I expect you have received the resolve of Congress for augmenting our Army here and in Canada, with their requisition for the quota of men to be furnished by your Colony. I must beg leave to add, that from intelligence I have just received, and a variety of circumstances combining to confirm it, General Howe, with the fleet from Halifax, or some other armament, is hourly expected at the Hook, with designs, doubtless, to make an impression here and possess themselves of this Colony, of the last importance to us in the present controversy. Our works are extensive and many, and the troops here but few for their defence, being greatly reduced by the regiments detached on the Ca- nada expedition. In this critical conjuncture of affairs, the experience I have had of your zeal and readiness to assist the common cause induces me to request the most speedy and early succours that can be obtained from your Colony, and that the Militia be forwarded, one battalion after another, as fast as they can possibly be raised, without waiting to make up the whole complement to be furnished for this place before any of them march. I would advise that they come properly provided with field and other officers, and that the person appointed by the Colony to command the whole, be here a day or two before them, to receive his orders, and be in readiness to take the command on their arrival. It will be proper, too, that notice be sent a day or two before their coming, that provision may be made for subsisting and disposing of them in proper places.

I have written a similar letter to the Jersey Convention, praying aid from them. I am, sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO MAJOR SCHUYLER.

SIR: Immediately upon receipt of this order, you are to repair to Long-Island, and take upon you the command of three companies belonging to your regiment, posted toward the east end thereof, for the defence of the inhabitants, protection of the stock, &c. To effect these ends, you are to use every means in your power, as it is of great importance to prevent the enemy from obtaining supplies of fresh provisions, and other necessaries. You are also to prevent, as far as in your power lies, every kind of correspondence and intercourse between the inhabitants and the enemy, seizing upon, and carrying before the Committees of Safety for trial, all those who shall be detected in such infamous practices.

You are to see that your men are kept close to their duty, and not suffered, under any pretence, to be absent on furlough, but in cases of great and real necessity, and then that not more than two at a time from each company be indulged.

You are to view the men and inspect their arms so soon as you arrive at their respective posts, and make exact returns thereof. Make your quarters as central as you can, and advise me from time to time of all remarkable occurrences.

Given under my hand at Head-Quarters, in New-York, this 10th day of June, 1776.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major Peter Schuyler, Third New-York.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COMMISSIONERS IN THE HIGHLANDS.

New-York, June 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Unacquainted as I am with the situation of the posts in the Highlands, I can do no more than desire you will pursue, and with as much despatch as possible, the plan of work pointed out in the within directions.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Mr. William Bedlow, and the other Commissioners at the Forts Montgomery and Constitution.

PLAN REFERRED TO IN THE ABOVE INSTRUCTIONS.

SIR: Until your Excellency has leisure to determine on a further plan for the security of the pass through the Highlands, I would advise (in order to give Fort Constitution some degree of security against a surprise, to which it at present is liable in almost every part) that the Battery on the high cliff, marked B in the plan No. 3, be completed, so as to mount three guns in front, and one on each flank; and that then the other sides of the hill on which it is erected be enclosed by a breastwork of logs of about one foot thick and seven feet high, in the form that Colonel Putnam and myself pointed out on the spot, in the presence of Colonel Livingston and the Commissioners, and is nearly represented by the black lines I have now marked round the letter B.

That the Battery A be extended westward to the foot of the hill B, with four embrasures; and on the northeastward in the manner as marked at G. The whole ground fronting the first approach up the river should then be either enclosed or inaccessible; and as a further security to this part of the work, it will be necessary that a barrack, sufficient to contain one hundred men, be erected in the spot marked H, which is entirely covered from the river.

At Fort Montgomery I believe it will be best that the whole of the front lines, from B to C, in plan No. 2, be completed in the manner proposed.

That the Magazine D (the walls of which are seven feet thick, and already raised to their proper height) should be finished with a proper arch of brick and stone, and then covered with earth and sodwork.

The Barracks E, which are begun and considerably advanced, should also be finished, especially as the cellars under them will make excellent magazines for salt provisions.

I would also advise that the hill on the opposite side of the creek, and at the mouth thereof, be cleared in such a manner that an Engineer can lay out a proper regular work on it, if hereafter it be found necessary.

I have shown this to Colonel Putnam, and he thinks these are the most necessary things to be done at present.

I am your Excellency's most obedient servant,
STIRLING.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO GENERAL WARD.

New-York, June 10, 1776.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to request you to send immediately to this place Lieutenant Machin, of the train, provided he does not belong to either of the Artillery companies in Boston. If he does not, he will come with all possible despatch.

His Excellency has not time to write you fully on matters of business this morning, and must defer it till another opportunity. I am, sir, yours, &c.,

ROBERT H. HARRISON.

To Major-General Ward, Boston.

NEW-YORK CONVENTION TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress June 10, 1776.]

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 7, 1776.

SIR: Your letter of the 4th day of June, instant, enclosing certain important resolves of the honourable the Continental Congress, of the 1st, 3d, and 4th instant, was delivered to me this morning, and immediately communicated to the Convention of this Colony.

They have directed me to present to the Congress their warmest acknowledgments for the unwearied attention they have paid to the welfare and happiness of the United Colonies, and to assure them that this Colony will most cheerfully endeavour to comply with all their requisitions.

Persuaded that the pay allowed the Eastern Army during the last campaign was unreasonably high, this Convention received great satisfaction from the measures taken by the Congress (as they supposed) with a view to reduce it. The inferior allowance of pay given to the troops raised in this Colony, those of New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, and the lower Counties, was considered as a precedent which would soon become general, and it was expected that the patriotism and laudable pride of the other Colonies would not long permit them to accept higher wages than their neighbours for fighting in the same glorious cause and for the attainment of the same great and valuable object.

This Convention are most sensibly affected by the continuance of that discrimination; and though ready to consent to a still greater reduction of pay, provided it be general, yet a due regard to the honour of this Colony will no longer permit them, by a silent acquiescence in so odious a discrimination, to give posterity reason to conclude that it was established on just and proper principles.

This Convention readily confess the merit of the Eastern forces, but have as yet no reason to believe it exceeds that of the troops raised in the other Colonies; and therefore claim of the Congress, as a matter of justice, that they be put on one general footing. It would neither be wise nor honest to conceal from the Congress the discontents that have arisen from the continuance of this invidious distinction; they are too great and too general not to injure the service, and therefore merit the notice and attention of those who alone can remove them.

By this unfortunate circumstance the levies of this Colony have been, and in all probability will continue to be retarded; and there is now a great number of the inhabitants of this Colony (invited by higher pay) actually receiving arms in the New-England Regiments.

The resolves received this morning have been considered, and a Committee appointed to ascertain the quotas of men to be furnished by the different Counties, in order to complete the number required of this Colony; which Committee hath made report on that subject, and the said report been considered and agreed to. But it appearing from those resolves that although large detachments from the Militia of several other Colonies are also required for the service, yet there is an utter silence as to the quantum of pay to be allowed them, this Convention being unable further to proceed in their business, are under the necessity of ordering one of their members (Mr. Gouverneur Morris) to repair immediately to Philadelphia, in order to obtain from the Congress information on that head, and whether the same difference of wages, now unhappily subsisting between the regular troops, is to be extended to the Militia of the several Colonies. Should that be the case, this Colony will be exceedingly embarrassed; for while the regard due to its honour is suffered to clash with the regard due to the general cause, there is reason to fear its exertions will be feeble, and the harmony and mutual confidence of the Colonies probably diminished. The Convention, therefore, earnestly request the favour of the Congress speedily to dismiss Mr. Morris, they being very desirous of forming their regiments of Militia without delay.

I am directed, sir, by the Convention, to return you their thanks for your polite letter, and to assure you that they considered the remarks and exhortations contained in it as additional proofs of that zeal which you have ever manifested for the American cause.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress, at Philadelphia.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM NEW-YORK TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED JUNE 10, 1776.

Colonel Fanning's negro man is taken up and sent to Jail; he is to be examined this day, and make no doubt some discoveries will be made. He says his master sent him up to take care of his horses. His master is on board the Dutchess-of-Gordon. There are one hundred and fifty Tories taken prisoners in Tryon County, and sent down to Albany. We hear from Albany that the Mayor of that city and fifteen other persons are sent to Jail for drinking success to the King of Great Britain, &c. Friday last, a boat was taken by our people, coming from the Dutchess-of-Gordon; the men are taken care of; some letters were found on board, and newspapers, for some of Governor Tryon's friends in this city. The latest date is the 28th of March. I could not possibly obtain one for you, but have extracted the following paragraphs from them.*

* March 25.—This day, by virtue of a commission from his Majesty, the following Bills received the Royal assent, viz: The Bill for punishing Mutiny and Desertion, and for the better payment of the Army in North-America. Saturday last three Companies of the Royal Regiment of Artillery embarked at Woolwich for North-America. This morning the first division of the Guards, destined for North-America, marched from their quarters contiguous to Wimbledon, for Portsmouth. The second division will march on Wednesday.

Gosport, March 21.—Arrived, a transport with troops on board, and came into the harbour. It is said that Lord Howe will hoist his flag on board the Emerald frigate, and proceed without loss of time to Boston, and the Eagle to go after him.

March 26.—On the 17th instant six sail of ships from Glasgow, with new-raised recruits, and several transports from London, arrived at Cork, where they are to take in their lading of provisions, and proceed to America under convoy. His Majesty's frigate Ambuscade, of thirty-two guns, is now fitting out at Chatham, to carry Sir George M'Cartney to his Government of Dominica; she is afterwards to join the fleet on the North-American station. Orders are sent to Sheerness for his Majesty's ship Rainbow, of forty-four guns, to be fitted out for immediate service; she is already commissioned, and the command given to Sir George Collier. Last Sunday, all the men in Deptford yard, and some additional hands, were employed in shipping warlike stores, &c., to America, and it will be some days before the many transports lying there can be loaded, such quantities are sending thither.

All the eight British Regiments, viz: Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, June 10, 1776.

DEAR SIR: At nine this morning I arrived from Fort George, having left that yesterday in consequence of the information contained in a letter and paper sent me by the Committee of this city and County, copies of which I do myself the honour to enclose you.

I was apprehensive that something of this kind would happen, as your Excellency will perceive by recurring to some of my former letters. I shall do everything in my power to prevent the savages from succeeding, and if Dayton's Regiment, with the Militia of Tryon and this County, drive them off, as I hope they will, I propose to take post at Fort Stanwix as soon as I shall be in a condition to do it, by the arrival of cannon, ammunition, and intrenching tools, having none of either here.

I am informed that Captain Foster, his troops, and the Indians that joined him, retired on General Arnold's approach; failing of success, their necessity will oblige them to turn elsewhere in search of subsistence, probably the Mohawk River.

Your Excellency's favour of the 7th instant I have this moment received. I am happy that Captain Wilkinson's conjectures were not realized.

I assure you, my dear sir, that I do all in my power to forward and arrange matters; such a variety of business crowds upon me that I hardly know which to take in hand first; a steady perseverance will, however, I hope, carry me through, and if I can find time I will repair to Canada, though I hope and believe General Sullivan will put our affairs in good order, seconded by Generals Arnold and Thompson, who are also indefatigable. General Thomas died on the 2d instant.

So far from being able to procure two thousand Indians to join us, I shall be extremely happy if we can prevent them from acting against us, and I believe nothing will do it but the spirited measure I proposed in my last of the 8th instant to Congress, and the taking post at Fort Stanwix.

If any Militia should come up, I shall certainly employ them on the communication, and send on the troops. I have already ordered three companies of Van Schaick's from Ticonderoga, as the exchanged prisoners were to be employed there; but if the Militia should take it in their heads to leave Fort George, Ticonderoga, &c., it will be difficult to carry on the provisions for the Army.

First, Twenty-Fourth, Thirty-First, Thirty-Fourth, Fifty-Third, and Sixty-Second Regiments, under embarkation orders, are destined for Canada, except the Royal Highlanders, the Foot Guards, and Burgoyne's Light-Horse, which are to be sent to General Howe. To prevent, if possible, a famine among the King's troops this summer in America, every individual who is going out on service with the armament under sailing orders, has six months' provisions put on board for him from hence. What an enormous expense for victualling and tonnage only! The two Generals, Carleton and Howe, are each to be allowed four Aids-de-Camp. Two of the Hessian Major-Generals are to be appointed by our Court Lieutenant-Generals on the American service, and to have extra pay accordingly. Though there is a clause in the Hessian Treaty that no soldier shall be suffered to settle in America without the consent of his commanding officer, it is generally believed that very few will ever return, as it is most probable that those who do not get their brains knocked out will insist upon staying among their own countrymen who have emigrated there.

March 28.—Yesterday morning the Guards destined for America were mustered on Wimbledon Common by their officers, and immediately marched for Portsmouth. They had twenty field-pieces with them, and thirty wagons, which carried all their baggage. They will arrive at Portsmouth to-morrow. The brigade of Guards now on their march for Portsmouth to embark for America, are to be quartered in the Barracks of that place till the transports are ready for their reception. All the General Officers, and many others in military command in America, are, it is said, nominated as delegates in commission, to pardon the submitting Colonies. The transports which sailed with Sir Peter Parker, after they had landed the troops they had on board, were to sail for the Leeward Islands, to take in two Regiments of Foot, which are to serve in America. Upwards of fifteen hundred tons of shipping that were taken up in the river a few days since in Government service, are discharged from the employ. Letters from Cork, dated the 19th instant, mention that upwards of twelve sail of transports were then in sight of the Cove, and that a man-of-war came in that day. The Eagle man-of-war, Admiral Howe, has got no further than the Nore yet, but lies there to receive seamen from the ships in ordinary at Chatham. The Lucretia, Captain Wilson, with recruits on board, bound to America, is put into Plymouth by stress of weather, having met with some damage. The Woodland, Captain Manners, from London, with ordnance stores, bound for Quebeck, is arrived at Portsmouth. Yesterday the common crier of this city, attended by other officers, read at the Royal Exchange and at Holborn Bars the King's Proclamation for a further encouragement to sailors to enter on board the ships of war. It was afterwards stuck up in divers parts of the city.

Yesterday morning upwards of a hundred barrels of flour left Fort George. I suppose thrice that quantity left it to-day, and by Saturday next I expect fifteen hundred barrels will be sent, together with three hundred barrels pork lately arrived here; after which none will be left unless a fresh supply comes from New-York, which I hope will be the soonest possible.

I do not wish that Lady Johnson should be permitted to go to any place where she may escape, as her detention may induce her husband to seek an accommodation.

I am, dear sir, with every sentiment of esteem and respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. I believe I shall be under the necessity of going into Tryon County myself.

Committee-Chamber, Albany, June 8, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: We have this moment received from the Mohawk River an account of an intended attack of the upper Indians against our western frontiers, a copy of which information we herewith enclose you. We have immediately written to the Provincial Congress for a further supply of ammunition. Upon so alarming an occasion we find it necessary to apply to you for advice and assistance. We beg of you, in the most earnest manner, to give us both, together with such directions for our conduct as you may conceive will best answer the purpose of opposing the attempts of the savages and their more savage instigators.

We are, honoured sir, with the greatest respect, your most obedient, humble servants.

By order: ABRAHAM YATES, Jun., Chairman.

To General Philip Schuyler.

German Flats, June 7, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This minute an express came from one of our best Indians, with the news that a great number of the far Indians had arrived at Oneida, and were on their march down; so we sent an express yesterday to the commanding officer at Johnstown, with the news which we got yesterday from Fort Stanwix; but could get no assistance; so therefore the necessity requires that you will come up with your regiment immediately, to meet them without delay, or we shall all be slaughtered; and send the orders to the next regiment with speed.

Gentlemen, I am your humble servant,

FREDERICK BELLINGER.

To Colonel Frederick Fisher, Mohawk District.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Chambly, June 10, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I went to St. Johns yesterday, where I found everything in the greatest confusion—not one stroke done to fortify the camp—the Engineer a perfect sot—at that and this near three thousand sick. I have given orders that the sick draw only half rations in future. I have ordered Colonel Antill to St. Johns, and an abattis and lines to be immediately begun, to enclose the two old forts and an encampment, sufficient to hold six thousand men. I am fully of opinion not one minute ought to be lost in securing our retreat, and saving our heavy cannon, baggage, and provisions. The enemy will never attack you at Sorel. Their force is doubtless much superior to ours, and we have no advice of any reinforcements. Shall we sacrifice the few men we have by endeavouring to keep possession of a small part of the country which can be of little or no service to us? The junction of the Canadians with the Colonies—an object which brought us into this country—is now at an end. Let us quit them, and secure our own country before it is too late. There will be more honour in making a safe retreat than hazarding a battle against such superiority, which will doubtless be attended with the loss of men, artillery, &c., and the only pass to our country. These arguments are not urged by fear for my personal safety: I am content to be the last man who quits this country, and fall, so that my country rise. But let us not fall all together.

The goods I seized at Montreal and sent to Chambly, under the care of Major Scott, have been broken open, plundered, and huddled together in the greatest confusion. They were taken in such a hurry it was impossible to take a particular account of them. Each man's name was marked on his packages. When Major Scott arrived at Chambly, he received your positive orders to repair to Sorel. The guard was ordered to return, and the goods to be delivered Colonel Hazen to be stored. He refused receiving or taking any care of them, by which means, and Major Scott's being ordered away, the goods have been opened and plundered, I believe to a large amount. It is impossible for me to distinguish each man's goods, or ever settle with the proprietors. The goods are delivered to Mr. McCarthy. This is not the first or last order Colonel Hazen has disobeyed. I think him a man of too much consequence for the post he is in. I am giving him orders to send directly to St. Johns all the heavy cannon, shot, powder, batteaus, valuable stores, and the sick. I go to Montreal immediately, and beg to have your orders as soon as possible, for my future conduct.

I am, with respect and esteem, dear General, your obedient, humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To General Sullivan.

P. S. If you should think proper to retire to St. Johns, will it not be best to order a number of carts to be ready here from all the neighbouring parishes, and enforce your order by sending a number of armed men to secure them?

B. A.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[June 15, 1776. Referred to the Board of War and Ordnance.]

Hartford, June 10, 1776.

SIR: I am now to acknowledge the receipt of your last of the 4th instant, enclosing resolutions of Congress for furnishing more troops for common defence, as also for transportation of cannon from Newport and New-London. As the General Assembly, which had but just finished the session before these papers came to hand, have ordered three regiments to be raised—one for Boston, one for New-London, and one with a view to New-York, if occasion required—should suppose that the first and last of these might be ordered to Canada, to supply the fifteen hundred for that quarter, so that, if these go northward, we hope to be excused from sending any eastward, especially as our own internal security must at the same time be provided for. The Assembly also have ordered one-third part of the Militia upon the sea-coast, and one-fourth in the more interior part of the Colony, to be immediately engaged for defence of this and the adjoining Colonies, with an allowance of forty shillings for furnishing themselves with arms, accoutrements, blankets, knapsacks, &c. These are to be called upon as exigencies happen, and to remain in service three months; but must request that the General be directed not to call them to march out of the Colony until it is absolutely necessary, when they can soon be on the spot. If New-London is not stripped of cannon, I hope the Sound may be kept free, and transports may very readily carry our troops to the place of destination. I have this day ordered the Assembly again to be convened, to lay before them the whole of the matters you have mentioned, which certainly are of the greatest importance, and am under no apprehension but that the good people of this Colony will exert every nerve in this critical moment, as far as can possibly consist with their own internal security and the cultivation of their lands.

It will be with much reluctance to be obliged to part with the fourteen cannon, after we had mounted them upon carriages and placed them in the births, and cannot but persuade myself that Congress will not insist upon the resolution, when it is considered of how much importance New-London may be, and how easily defensible, which can never be the case with respect to Rhode-Island.

Enclosed is the appointment of the Field-Officers, in order to be commissioned, as also a list of other officers for the Continental battalion, for your observation.

I am, with great truth and regard, sir, your obedient, humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

COMMITTEES OF MILFORD AND STRATFORD, CONNECTICUT.

At a meeting of the Authority, Selectmen, and Committees of Inspection of the Towns of Milford and Stratford, holden by adjournment, at the Ferry-House in Milford, on the 10th of June, 1776.

This meeting, taking into consideration the necessity of adopting some mode whereby to prevent the communication of all such persons as are suspected to be unfriendly to the cause of American liberty, and from holding any correspondence, association, or combination, (either by letter or otherwise,) whereby the joint efforts of the United Colonies may be greatly injured, and that all inimically disposed persons and their horrid Tory plans may be discovered and detected,

On motion, Resolved, That it be the duty of the Authority, Selectmen, Committee of Inspection, Commissioned Officers, Constables, Grand Jurors, Tavern-Keepers, and Ferry-men, and that they be, and are hereby, appointed Inspectors, to search and examine all transient travelling suspected persons; and if such persons cannot give satisfaction to said Inspectors that they are friendly and well-affected to the cause of American liberty, said Inspectors are hereby authorized to bring such suspected person or persons before some proper authority for further examination in the premises.

And it is recommended to the Authority, Committees, &c., of other neighbouring Towns, to adopt some method similar to the foregoing Resolve, that the good intention hereby proposed may be more generally and fully answered; and for this purpose, Mr. Holt be desired to publish the above Resolve in his paper.

By order of the Meeting:

JOHN BROOKS, Sen., Clerk.

COMMITTEE OF NEW-FAIRFIELD, CONNECTICUT.

At a meeting of a Committee of Inspection, convened at New-Fairfield, on the 10th day of June, 1776, consisting of detachments of said New-Fairfield Committee, and the Committees of Inspection of the Towns of Kent, New-Milford, and Danbury, at the joint request of the major part of said New-Fairfield Committee, and Ephraim Hubbel, one of the members of said New-Fairfield Committee, for the purpose of considering and reconciling certain misunderstandings and difficulties which have taken place in said New-Fairfield Committee consequent upon a publication made by said New-Fairfield Committee in the Connecticut Courant, on the 26th of February, respecting Ephraim Hubbel, Esq., one of the members of said New-Fairfield Committee:

And this Committee having duly considered the premises, and finding that the operation of said publication has had an injurious effect on the character of said Hubbel, as he is thereby viewed as being inimical to the freedom and rights of the United Colonies, which not being intended by said New-Fairfield Committee, and said Esquire Hubbel having made due satisfaction by a confession of this date on file to said Committee, of which he is a member, for certain inadvertencies of his, which have been the cause of some uneasinesses which have taken place in said New-Fairfield Committee, and as those difficulties in said Committee have arisen rather from certain differences of opinion between a majority of the members of said Committee and said Esquire Hubbel respecting the method of proceeding in their business as Committee, &c., than from any want of friendship to the cause of liberty in any member of said Committee, each of whom has given abundant proof of his zeal in the defence of the just rights of the country; and which difficulties and misunderstandings being now reconciled, this publication is made that not only the effects of the former publication may cease, but that the publick may be assured of the united endeavours of said Committee steadfastly to pursue, as they have ever done, the best good of our country.

Signed per order:

JOHN PAGE, Chairman.

Attest:

JAMES POTTER, Clerk.

CONSIDERATIONS ON THE MODE OF ELECTING DELEGATES TO THE GENERAL CONGRESS.

As all power is originally from the people, and exercisable only for their good, and unrestrained naturally swells into tyranny, it becomes absolutely necessary for the people's safety, when they delegate an authority, that they retain in their own hands an effectual check over it, to prevent its being employed, contrary to its design, for their destruction; for power without control is tyranny; and unlimited subjection, without any means of redress, is slavery. And the question is, in framing a new Constitution, how this shall be done? The supreme Legislature having power to make laws, and constitute all judicial and executive officers amenable to itself, is both necessary and safe for the people; for the honour and interest of the Legislature, as well as the safety of the people, are concerned in having the laws duly executed. The difference between legislative and executive powers are too obvious to need a moment's reflection. To constitute legislators with power to make other legislators, is erecting a supreme authority upon a supreme authority; the former elective only by the latter, and totally out of the reach of the people. If the Delegates to the General Congress are appointed by the Provincial Assemblies, then, in case they mis-conduct, encroach upon, and invade the rights of the people, the people will have no certain means of redress left them; they may change their Assemblies, but this may not alter the Delegates; the next Assembly may choose the same, and approve their measures, and the people may continue to alter their Assemblies, yet the obnoxious Delegates and their oppressive measures be continued. Thus the people may be aggrieved and oppressed, without the power of redress.

Again, I query, if such a power can be delegated, can any freeman empower another to vote for him in the choice of Governour and Council, &c.? If one may, all may. And is there any difference between this and the freemen's delegating the power of choosing members of Congress to the General Assembly? Will it not be most safe? The people most certainly will be less likely to betray their liberties and privileges than any other. Will it not render more satisfactory and important the regulations of Congress, to be formed by Delegates, in the election of whom all had a voice?

Further, it is a right inherent in every free agent, of which he cannot be divested, and of which he cannot safely divest himself, for he thereby would put it in the power of another to enslave him, by putting it out of his own power to prevent and redress it. Every one is tenacious of borrowed power; and shall the people, in whom alone power resides in its native, original state, be indifferent about it?

It may be objected, that if the Delegates are chosen by the freemen, they will not be amenable to the Assembly. To which I answer, that this consequence will not follow; for the regulations prescribing the mode of their appointment, granting and defining the powers they shall have, and directing to whom they shall be amenable, are yet to be formed. The Governour and Council, &c., are chosen by the freemen, and yet are amenable to the General Assembly, by force of the Constitution under which they are chosen. As the General Assembly of each Colony is the Legislature thereof, invested with supreme powers of Government therein, and may not be infringed upon by the General Congress, the Delegates from each Colony must be amenable to their respective Assemblies for any unjust encroachments on their rights, or the people under their Government; and their being amenable to the General Assembly does not depend on their being elected by that body, but on the regulations under which they shall be elected. The power of the General Congress must extend to all matters of common concernment, as making war and peace, sending and receiving ambassadors, levying troops and paying them, constructing a navy, and to every other thing proper and necessary for the safety of the whole; to form general regulations respecting maritime affairs; and to decide all controversies between Colony and Colony, relative to their limits and boundaries, and to superintend and regulate every other matter and thing that concerns the whole, and doth not come within the territorial jurisdiction of any particular Assembly or Provincial Congress. For these purposes the Delegates are to be appointed, and must have power given them competent therefor; for the abuse or misuse of which, to be accountable not only to their constituents, by being dropped at the next election, but also to the General Assemblies of their respective Colonies, and be liable to be recalled or displaced for gross negligence, or other criminal conduct. And as it is thought that the proper proportion ought to be one Delegate to thirty thousand inhabitants, seven, at that rate, will be the proportion of Connecticut; let the freemen, on freemen's meeting day in September, give in their suffrages for twelve persons, whom they would choose to stand in nomination, out of whom seven to be chosen in the spring, to serve as Delegates to the General Congress the ensuing year; said Delegates to be incapable of being chosen for more than three years successively, and until three years are elapsed from their having been thus successively appointed; that the members of Congress may, at the time of enacting regulations for others, consider them likewise for themselves; and while acting as rulers have the feelings of subjects.

J. R.

Connecticut, June 10, 1776.

Hartford, June 17, 1776.

By a letter from a gentleman at Albany, we are informed that the Honourable General Thomas died of the small-pox at Chamby about a fortnight since.

Since our last, advice has been received in town from Albany that a large number of the Mohawk tribe of Indians, headed by Sir John Johnson, had come down the Mohawk River in a hostile manner, and that General Schuyler had marched with a body of troops to meet them. We have not yet received any further particulars.

Governour Trumbull has received an express from the Continental Congress desiring him to lose no time in raising men, as certain intelligence is received that New-York will be attacked by the enemy in a few days.

Newport, June 10, 1776.

Last Saturday arrived here the ship True-Blue, of three hundred tons, taken about fourteen days past by the brig Cabot, Captain Hinman; her cargo consists of one hundred and fifteen puncheons and twenty-two hogsheads of rum; eighty-four hogsheads, twenty tierces, and eighteen barrels of sugar; twenty-three tierces of coffee; sixty bags and two casks of pimento; two hundred bags and ten casks of ginger; one hundred and eighty-two bags of cotton, and forty-eight hides. She was from Jamaica, bound to Lancaster, in England, mounted six carriage guns, and had sixteen men, but made no resistance. Captain Hinman was waiting for a ship of six hundred tons when this prize left him.

A Philadelphia armed pilot-boat has lately carried into Cape-Anne a Jamaica ship, homeward bound, with four hundred hogsheads of sugar, one hundred puncheons of rum, a large quantity of cotton and coffee, and twenty thousand dollars in cash.

A gentleman who left the Vineyard on Monday informs that some Continental cruisers or privateers had sent a ship of three hundred tons in there, loaded with sugar, rum, and Madeira wine, bound from Jamaica to England; and they had taken three or four more, which were to make the first port they could. The above ship was to be carried into Dartmouth the first wind.

Watertown, June 10, 1776.

On Monday, the 3d instant, one of the Continental frigates, of twenty-four guns, built at Newburyport, under the direction of the Honourable Thomas Cushing, Esquire, was launched in view of a great number of spectators; she is highly approved of by all who are judges, as a very fine ship; she is built with the very best of timber, and the workmanship is complete.

Tuesday last arrived safe at Newburyport a sloop from Tortola and a schooner from Barbadoes, as prizes, taken by Captain O'Brien, in one of this Colony's cruisers, who was left in chase of a ship when the above prizes parted with him.

Thursday last was sent into Cape-Anne a large Jamaica-man, with five hundred hogsheads of sugar, besides other valuable goods, and a large sum in specie. She was taken by one of the Continental cruisers, who put the Captain, his lady, and all the hands (which did not voluntarily enter on board the cruiser) ashore at New-Providence. The prize-master of the ship, on his passage from the West-Indies, met with a Scotch vessel of force, with ninety soldiers, bound for Boston, on board of which he breakfasted, and told the Scotch Captain he was destined from Jamaica for London, but as he thought sugars would bear a better price at Boston, he had thoughts of trying that market first. The Scotchman being a stranger to this coast desired the prizemaster to pilot him in, which he agreed to, and conducted him almost into Cape-Anne, when he, observing two of our privateers appearing in sight, discovered the trap, and being considerably to the windward, made the best of his way off.

Friday last Captain Daniel Waters, in company with a Marblehead privateer, took a large ship, from Scotland, having on board ninety-four Highlanders, between thirty and forty sailors for the Ministerial fleet, and forty pieces of cannon, four and six pounders, besides six mounted on deck, &c. The Marblehead privateer took sixty of the soldiers on board and carried them to Plymouth. Captain Waters, with the prize and remainder, arrived safe at Marblehead on Saturday. It is said this is the ship mentioned in the preceding paragraph.

We hear another ship, with troops, which sailed from Glasgow in company with the above, is lost, and every soul perished.

GENERAL WARD TO JAMES WARREN.

Boston, June 10, 1776.

SIR: I have now many more prisoners of war than can be accommodated in the Jail in this town; therefore must request the honourable General Assembly to provide proper places for the reception of those now here, and for such as may arrive.

I am, sir, your obedient, humble servant,

ARTEMAS WARD.

To the Hon. James Warren, Esq., Watertown.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

In the House of Representatives, June 10, 1776.

Whereas the efforts of the King and Parliament of Britain, in pursuing their plan for destroying the rights, interests, and security of all the United Colonies, appear to be such as to make it necessary for us to provide in the most effectual manner for our safety against the great force they are determined to send against us; and those forces now raised for the defence of this Colony may not be sufficient for that purpose: It is therefore

Resolved, That two more Regiments—each to consist of eight Companies, and each Company to consist of one Captain, two Lieutenants, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and seventy-six Privates; to be under the field command of one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, and one Major; all which commission officers shall be appointed by this Court, and the non-commission officers appointed by their respective Captains—shall be immediately raised within this Colony, and shall be holden to serve under such commands, and to do duty in such places as the General Court shall from time to time order within this Colony, from the day of their inlistment until the 1st day of July, A. D. 1777, unless the service shall admit of, and the General Court of this Colony shall order them to be sooner disbanded. And the Officers of the several Regiments of Militia within this Colony, and the several Committees of Correspondence, &c., and the Selectmen, are hereby directed, without fail, to afford their utmost assistance in raising the said Regiments with the greatest despatch, as they regard the interest of their country and the approbation of this Court.

And it is Resolved, That there be allowed and paid to each of the Officers and Soldiers as wages, for every calendar month during their continuance in the said service, the following sums, respectively, viz: To the Colonel, twelve pounds; Lieutenant-Colonel, nine pounds twelve shillings; Major, eight pounds; each Captain, six pounds; each First Lieutenant, four pounds; each Second Lieutenant, three pounds ten shillings; each Sergeant, two pounds eight shillings; each Corporal and Drummer, two pounds four shillings; each Fifer and Private Soldier, two pounds. And the time of service of each Non-Commissioned Officer and Soldier shall be computed from the fourth day next preceding their march from home to the time of their discharge; and allowing for their return home, that is to say, at the rate of one day for every twenty miles travel; also, there shall be allowed one penny per mile to each man, to compensate his expenses in his travel to the place of rendezvous, and at the same rate to bear his expenses in his return home; his travelling expenses to the camp to be paid by himself, and to be compensated at the rate above-said on his arrival there.

And it is further Resolved, That each Non-Commissioned Officer and Private Soldier shall equip and provide himself with a good effective Fire-arm, and Bayonet fitted to his arm, a Cartridge-box, Knapsack, and Blanket. And no Non-Commissioned Officer or Private Soldier shall be allowed to pass muster without being so equipped and provided: Provided, nevertheless, That any able-bodied and effective Non-Commissioned Officer or Soldier, who shall be unable to furnish himself with a good effective Fire-arm, Bayonet, and Cartridge-box, shall be furnished therewith by the Commissary-General of this Colony, upon a receipt given therefor by his Captain, and to have twelve shillings deducted from his wages for the use thereof, and that the same shall be returned at the time of his leaving said service, or in default thereof that the whole value (to be specified in said receipt) shall be deducted from said wages, unless unavoidably lost in service. And the said Regiments shall be allowed and supplied with the same articles of subsistence as are ordered and provided for the Regiments lately raised by this Colony.

And there shall be appointed by this Court for each of said Regiments, one Adjutant, one Chaplain, one Commissary, one Quartermaster, one Surgeon, and one Surgeon's Mate, to be on the following establishment of pay, by the calendar month, viz: To the Adjutant, five pounds ten shillings; Chaplain, six pounds; Commissary, four pounds; Quartermaster, three pounds; Surgeon, seven pounds; Surgeon's Mate, four pounds.

And for the further encouragement to said Non-Commissioned Officers and Private Soldiers to inlist into said Regiments:

It is Resolved, That each Non-Commissioned Officer and Private Soldier, on his passing muster, shall receive one month's advance wages; and also nine dollars to enable him to furnish himself with a Coat and Blanket, provided he shall inlist into either of said Regiments on or before the 10th day of July next—said last-mentioned sum to be paid on his inlistment; and the Colonel of each Regiment shall be paid out of the Colony Treasury the sum of ——— for that purpose; and all Recruiting Officers intrusted with money for paying the bounty shall be held to refund all moneys paid to such as do not pass muster. And no Negroes are to be admitted into said Regiments. And the Commissary-General aforesaid is hereby directed, as soon as a Commissary is chosen for the above-said purpose, to deliver him a sufficient number of Tents, utensils to cook in, and Intrenching Tools for each of said Regiments.

And it is further Resolved, That the Captains in said Regiments be, and hereby are, directed to return in to the Secretary's Office the Muster-Rolls of their respective Companies, attested on oath, and vouched by the original inlistments, on the 1st of October next, in order for their being paid their wages; and so at the expiration of each three months during their continuance in service.

ALFORD, BERKSHIRE COUNTY, (MASSACHUSETTS,) COMMITTEE.

Deodat Ingersoll, of Alford, in the County of Berkshire, and Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, being called before the Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety, for the Town of Alford, on the 10th day of June current, to answer to the charge of having violated the eleventh article of Continental Association, by dealing with Jonathan Hill, holden up to the publick view as an enemy to the liberties of America, and for setting at defiance the Constitutional Committee of this Province: Upon due examination had, the Committee found him guilty of both the facts alleged in the declaration. And the said Ingersoll having had a convenient time for consideration and retraction, that he might reinstate himself in the good opinion of his country, but he continuing inflexibly obstinate, and refusing to make any satisfaction to the Committee; the Committee have ordered that the said Deodat Ingersoll be published, to the intent that all true friends to the welfare of the United Colonies may treat him with that neglect and contempt due to his criminality.

JOHN HURLBUT, Chairman.

COLONEL GILMAN TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE ASSEMBLY.

Head-Quarters, Portsmouth, June 10, 1776.

MR. SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE: When I was appointed to the arduous though agreeable command of the troops at this place, it was with the greatest satisfaction that I accepted the command; though conscious to myself unequal to the important trust imposed in me, yet, desirous of serving my country in general and Colony in particular, I cheerfully entered the service, venturing my life and all in the cause of my injured country. All which time I have been in the service, I think I can appeal to God that I have endeavoured to do my duty both to the Colony and troops under my command. But, some how or other, I seem to have lost the love and confidence of a considerable part of that honourable body from whom I have received so many signal honours, in that they have preferred a gentleman before me, whose character does not stand so clear in this time of difficulty as I could wish; for I am of the opinion that we stand in need of the wisdom and military accomplishments of every person, of which that gentleman, by information, has no great share. Whether the charges against him are just, I do not pretend to say; but supposing they are, what will be the consequence? Does not our all depend upon officers and men in publick affairs being hearty in the cause? Has not the honourable the Continental Congress advised that no suspected persons be put in places of trust? Surely, gentlemen, it is a matter of the utmost importance to us to keep out all unfriendly persons. Are there not men enough that we know to be friendly, without taking those who have never appeared in the publick cause? Gentlemen, I would not presume to dictate to so worthy a body of men, but only give my poor advice as a member of society, who expects to rise or fall with you; and I hope you will consider the matter; and as I think it a diminution of my honour to fall from a Colonel to a Lieutenant-Colonel, I would beg that the vote appointing Captain Darne Colonel may be reconsidered, and I have the indulgence of the Court to come to Exeter, and clear up some things that I understand laboured on the minds of some worthy members relative to my conduct, so as to stand upon an equal footing with others; which is the prayer of your most obedient and very humble servant,

DAVID GILMAN.

To the Honourable General Assembly for the Colony of New-Hampshire.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LORD GEORGE GERMAINE TO GENERAL HOWE, DATED WHITEHALL, JUNE 11, 1776.

Your letters of the 25th of April, and 7th and 12th of May, together with the enclosures, have been received, and I have had the honour of laying them before his Majesty.

It would have been very fortunate if the despatches to which you allude, and which have been so long on their passage, had reached you in due time, and it gave a real satisfaction to learn that you had at last received them.

Your attention to the service, in sending the Forty-Seventh Regiment to Quebeck, is highly commendable; but I trust the forces sent from Europe for the relief of that place, and the reduction of the neighbouring country to their obedience, will fully answer those purposes. You will desire General Carleton to return you that regiment, unless he shall find that the situation of affairs in that quarter makes it necessary for him to keep it.

Give me leave to express my satisfaction on the safe arrival of yourself and the fleet at Halifax. The capture of the brig was an unfortunate circumstance; but I hope that the loss of the shoes and woollen articles, which were on board, have, ere this, been repaired by means of the stores that were forwarded in the ships that have been sent from hence.

His Majesty has been pleased to approve of your appointment of Lieutenant-Colonel Paterson, of the Sixty-Third Regiment, to be your Adjutant-General, and I shall certainly pay due attention to your recommendation of Major Kemble.

I cannot help expressing my concern that so many of his Majesty's faithful subjects in America should be so much distressed for the want of provisions that it is necessary for you to supply them from the King's stores; and it is impossible for me to say more upon so delicate a business than that you must be guided by your own feelings and humanity, which, I am persuaded, will always direct you right.

In answer to the last paragraph of your letter of April 25, it will be sufficient for me to observe, that your brother Lord Howe's arrival in America must have afforded you the most pleasing, as well as most convincing proofs of the great estimation in which his Majesty holds you, and of the opinion he so justly entertains of your ability and inclination to render him the most essential services.

His Majesty always acts upon such fixed and unalterable principles of justice, that he will never withdraw his royal favour and confidence from any of his servants, without reason; and absence, which has frequently proved fatal to the fortunes of even the most meritorious men, will, in these days, I am positive, be detrimental to none, as the King seems to make the interests of those who are abroad in his service the more peculiar and more immediate objects of his care.

The whole of Brigadier-General Robertson's behaviour is deserving of great commendations; and his Majesty approves of your having appointed him to act as Major-General, and consents that he should continue to serve in America in that capacity this campaign.

It is not necessary for me to enter into the particulars contained in your letter of May 7; but as I feel myself perfectly satisfied with what you have already done, and purpose to do, it would be ungenerous in me not to endeavour, in my turn, to contribute to your happiness, by assuring you that your actions and intentions are honoured with the entire approbation of your Sovereign.

P. S. When I was closing my letter, I received the very agreeable intelligence from Quebeck, which you will see in the enclosed Gazette Extraordinary. I most heartily congratulate you upon an event that must greatly facilitate all our operations, and opens a prospect of putting an end to the rebellion in one campaign.

CHARLES DICKINSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Caroline County, June 11, 1776.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Enclosed are the proceedings of the Committee of Observation for Caroline County against Cornelius Hogans, who is sent under the guard of Captain Joseph Richardson and five men.

CHARLES DICKINSON.

To the Hon. Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, Esq.

Mellvill's Warehouse, June 8, 1776.

At a special meeting of the Committee of Observation for Caroline County, of whom were present Major Richard Mason, (in the Chair,) Colonel William Richardson, Colonel Henry Dickinson, Mr. Jeremiah Colston, Col. Benson Stainton, Major Matthew Driver, and Mr. John White.

Information being made to this Committee that sundry evil-disposed persons had been endeavouring to disunite the good people of this County in the common cause of America, and had actually prevailed on several Companies of Militia to lay down their arms, the Committee came to the following Resolution, to wit: That warrants do issue to Captains Joseph Richardson and John Mitchell, against a certain Cornelius Hogans and others, suspected of high and dangerous offences.

The Committee adjourns to the 10th instant, at the house of Mr. Vincent Price, at the mouth of Tuckahoe.

Signed per order:

JOHN TILLOTTSON, Clerk Com.

Monday, June 10, 1776.

The Committee met according to adjournment, at Captain Vincent Price's, at the mouth of Tuckahoe, of whom were present Mr. Charles Dickinson, (in the Chair,) the Rev. John Andrews, Colonel Benson Stainton, Mr. John White, Colonel Henry Dickinson, Mr. Joshua Clarke, Major Matthew Driver, and Mr. Jeremiah Colston, members of the Committee.

At which time and place appeared Captain Joseph Richardson, and reported to the Committee that, in obedience to the said warrant, he had taken the body of the aforesaid Cornelius Hogans, to answer the complaints aforesaid; upon which the prisoner was ordered to be brought in, and the following evidences and depositions were taken; as follows, to wit:

The deposition of Mr. Vincent Price, Adjutant to the Fourteenth Battalion of Militia, who, being sworn on the Holy Evangel of Almighty God, deposeth and saith: That he (this deponent) on the 4th instant, being in the muster-field where Captain John Safford exercises his Company of Militia, immediately after the roll of that Company was called, a certain Cornelius Hogans took up the drum, and began to beat on it, and ordered the said Company to march, and thereupon the Company dismissed, and said Hogans swore that he would muster no more; and further this deponent saith not.

VINCENT PRICE, Jun.

The deposition of Thomas Wynn Loockerman, who, being sworn on the Holy Evangel of Almighty God, deposeth and saith: That he (this deponent) on the 4th instant, being in the muster-field where Captain John Safford exercises his Company of Militia, immediately after the roll of that Company was called, a certain Cornelius Hogans took up the drum, and began to beat on it, and ordered the Company to march, and thereupon the Company dismissed, and said Hogans swore that he would muster no more. And further, that, on the 10th instant, said Hogans being taken into custody, by order of the Committee, to answer for his past misconduct, said Hogans being asked by this deponent, why he ran; swore by his Maker, that if he had an equal number of men with us, he would not have run, and that he had then been about to collect his men in order to oppose those who were in pursuit of him, and many others, and that he (this deponent) believes the said Hogans to be a great enemy to the present cause; and further saith not.

THOMAS WYNN LOOCKERMAN.

The deposition of Alexander Waddell, who, being sworn on the Holy Evangel of Almighty God, deposeth and saith: That he, this deponent, being, with many others, in pursuit of a certain Cornelius Hogans, and after he (this deponent) had caught the aforesaid Hogans, he was asked by this deponent why he ran; he answered, that if he had collected his Company of men, which he said he was after, he would not have run; and further this deponent saith not.

ALEXANDER <sup>his</sup> WADDELL.
mark.

The deposition of Henry Dickenson, of Caroline County, who, being sworn on the Holy Evangel of Almighty God, deposeth and saith: That in consequence of a warrant issued by the Committee of this County, bearing date at Mellville's Warehouse, on the 8th instant, and directed to Captain Joseph Richardson, against Cornelius Hogans, and sundry others, this deponent was in company with sundry other persons when the said Hogans was taken into custody; and on asking the said Hogans how he came to run from us, as I had understood he was a man of great spirit, and had declared he would rescue any person who should be sent for by the Committee, in consequence of their having laid down their arms, and refusing to muster, the said Hogans told this deponent that he had been informed that we had taken William Morgan in order to carry him off, and as the Companies had sworn to stand by one another, (at the time they laid down their arms,) he had then been about amongst the people, who had sworn to each other aforesaid to give them notice that William Morgan was taken in custody, in order that they might collect together that they might rescue William Morgan, or any other person whom we might take in custody; and, by God, if he had had as many men as we, he would not have run a foot from us, but would have stood and made battle; and further this deponent saith not.

HARRY DICKINSON.

And it appearing to the Committee that the said Cornelius Hogans, from his own confession, did not properly belong to the Company whose conduct he undertook to influence, but was at that very time enrolled in a Company of Militia in Dorchester County, the Committee are of opinion that the said Hogans be committed to a guard, and sent, with the above charges against him, to the Council of Safety of this Province. And the said Hogans was accordingly committed to the care of Captain Joseph Richardson and a guard of five men.

A true copy from the Minutes.

Signed by order of the Committee:

JOHN TILLOTTSON, Clerk.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

JOHN SMITH TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Baltimore, June 11, 1776.

Captain Tibbet brought in for our account nine half barrels gunpowder, which were delivered into your magazine, and which we intended the Province should have had at the usual price; but as we, with some others in this town, have fitted out a privateer, we shall have occasion for our powder, and will be much obliged if you will send an order to the Commissary of Stores to deliver it to us immediately.

We expect the Enterprise will sail in a week at farthest.

We are, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SMITH & SONS.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

N. B. Captain Ramsay will trouble himself with the order.

SAMUEL SMITH TO GOVERNOUR EDEN.

Baltimore, June 11, 1776.

SIR: I take the liberty to enclose you two letters, which I have not the least doubt you will forward on your arrival in England. The letter for Lord Bertie is from Captain Kinnear, of the Royal Fusileers, now a prisoner at Carlisle. He told me he had the honour of being acquainted with your Excellency. The other is from Mr. Newmarche, also a prisoner. They gave their honours that nothing of politics was written in them. I handed them to the Committee, who returned them unopened.

I am, with the greatest esteem, your Excellency's most obedient servant,

SAMUEL SMITH.

To His Excellency Governour Eden.

HENRY LOWES TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Princess Anne, June 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: From the present situation of Captain Gunby's Company in Princess Anne, we are apprehensive that they do not so completely answer the purposes for which they were intended as if moved to particular parts of this County more liable to invasion. Our distant situation from you will render it exceedingly difficult for us to have your timely orders in junctures of imminent danger. We would, therefore, hope that it may be deemed expedient by you to grant this Committee a power to remove the said Company to such places in this County as are most exposed to the depredations of our enemies.

We are, gentlemen, your respectful humble servants.

Signed by order of the Committee:

HENRY LOWES, Chairman.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND DELEGATES TO COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have received your letter by Mr. Steward, also that by the post of the 7th of this month. We have conferred with Mr. Steward, assisted him in changing his Provincial money for Continental, and procured a recommendation from Mr. Morris to those who have been concerned in fitting out the galleys here, to give him all the information in their power respecting them. We shall make application for the arms lent the Congress, but we do not see any probability of obtaining them, none having been made, or having arrived, but what were immediately disposed of among the Continental troops. It seems to be taken for granted that our Province will not be attacked, and upon this supposition, we presume, it will be thought unnecessary to strengthen us, even by returning the warlike stores which we lent. When the scheme for marching the Militia was agitated, we informed Congress of the circumstances of our Province, and of the impossibility of our marching the Militia out of the Province without their consent; however, our quota for the flying camp was struck at three thousand four hundred, as you will see by the resolve enclosed by the President; but it was not understood that the Militia were to be drafted or compelled to march, and it is left altogether at large how they are to be collected. Some additions to the resolutions on that subject are talked of, but not formally proposed.

We are astonished at the ungenerous and malevolent turn given to the proceedings of our Convention by that of Virginia; and hope they will be as unsuccessful in their nefarious attempt to stir up the people of Maryland against their Representatives, as they have hitherto been in their endeavours to render the Councils of that Province suspected. We are extremely sorry to observe this unfriendly disposition in a neighbouring sister Colony, but hope there will be found spirit enough in the Convention of Maryland to resent this most injurious treatment, in the manner it deserves.

The proposition from the Delegates of Virginia, to declare the Colonies independent, was yesterday, after much debate, postponed for three weeks, then to be resumed; and a Committee is appointed to draw up a Declaration, to prevent loss of time, in case the Congress should agree to the proposition at the day fixed for resuming it. This postponement was made to give an opportunity to the Delegates from those Colonies which had not as yet given authority to adopt this decisive measure, to consult their constituents. It will be necessary that the Convention of Maryland should meet as soon as possible, to give the explicit sense of the Province on this point; and we hope you will accordingly exercise your power of convening them at such time as you think the members can be brought together. We wish to have the fair and uninfluenced sense of the people we have the honour to represent, in this most important and interesting affair; and that it would be well if the Delegates to the Convention were desired to endeavour to collect the opinion of the people at large, in some manner or other, previous to the meeting of Convention. We shall attend the Convention whenever it meets, if it is thought proper we should do so. The approaching harvest will, perhaps, render it very inconvenient to many gentlemen to attend the Convention. This, however, must not be regarded, when matters of such momentous concern demand their deliberation. We beg you will inform us, as soon as may be, of the time you fix for the Convention to meet, and we should also be very glad to receive the proceedings of the last session. We see, with the deepest concern, the attempts from various quarters to throw the Province into a state of confusion, division, and disorder; but trust the exertions of those who are the true friends of virtue and the American cause will be adequate to the surrounding difficulties and dangers.

From every account and appearance, the King and his Ministers seem determined to hazard everything upon the success of the sword, without offering any terms to America which she ought to accept. That peace and security, which every virtuous man in the country has so earnestly desired, seems not attainable in the present disposition of the ruling powers of Britain. We wish we had any reason to suppose there was any foundation for what Mr. Smith reports to have been told him by Captain Hammond and Lord Dunmore; but all circumstances strongly oppose the supposition of Commissioners, as messengers of peace. However, we know no more of this matter than you and the publick do, and it is impossible to speak certainly upon this or any other subject, without more full information than we have.

We will send the gun-carriage, instruments, and paper, by Mr. Steward, who informs us he has sundry articles for the Province to be sent from hence. We beg to be informed frequently of the state of the Province, and of your proceedings, and assure you of our readiness to attend to your commands. Our hurry and necessary attendance in Congress, must apologise for this scrawl. The question of postponing the Declaration of Independence was carried by seven Colonies against five.

We are, with great respect, gentlemen, your most obedient servants,

MAT. TILGHMAN,
T. STONE,
J. ROGERS.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

COMMITTEE OF LEWISTOWN, DELAWARE, TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 13, 1776.]

Lewistown, in Council, June 11, 1776.

SIR: Notwithstanding the great tenderness and lenity shown to the disaffected persons in this country, and the necessity of uniting firmly at this most important crisis, they are assembled about eighteen miles from this, and, from the best information, their numbers are near one thousand men, many of whom have openly avowed their intention of joining or co-operating with the men-of-war lying in the road; and we are certain, unless some timely assistance is sent us, that our situation will be as calamitous as that of Norfolk.

We do, therefore, most earnestly entreat your Honour to send us such immediate assistance as will enable us to take up the principals of this faction, and quell this most dangerous insurrection.

DAVID HALL, President.

To Hon. John Hancock, President of Congress.

HENRY FISHER TO PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Lewistown, June 10, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: When I wrote to you last, by express, I mentioned that Captain Lawrence had arrived here, and that he was alongside of a snow that was obliged to run ashore. I have made bold to detain him here to cover the landing of her cargo. He has been of real service; and now he is going to convoy her up to your place, with the assistance of the Eagle, from this place.

The Liverpool remains in the road. The Kingfisher is gone out to sea. As to the restriction you have laid upon me not to man the armed boat with pilots, I must beg leave to acquaint you that our pilots bear a different character to what yours do; and as the boat is to be stationed at our creek's mouth, I cannot see there will be the least danger in letting six pilots go in her, and the remainder landmen, as the pilots are acquainted with great guns, and they always can see their danger before they can be surprised. I think I can venture to say the pilots here have and are willing to do everything for the safety of your trade that lies in their power. I hope, gentlemen, that you will reconsider the matter, and send me a line; and in the mean time I shall act with the utmost caution, and do everything for your interest that lies in my power.

Colonel Dagworthy and Colonel Jones think that one of your armed boats would be of service to be stationed in Indian River, as that inlet is at this time very good, having ten or twelve feet water into it. Perhaps some of your vessels may be chased in there: in that case, a boat lying there would be of real service.

You must think, gentlemen, that we have no view in this matter but your interest, as we have no trade of our own. If you were to order Captain Lawrence to be stationed here, (as he is willing,) I think he would be of real service. I have given Captain Lawrence a receipt for what stores I have received from him. You will be so kind as to acquaint Messrs. Mifflin and Barrell that there are some charges that I have been at for victualling and manning these boats, extraordinary upon their account, which I expect must be paid out of the cargo; likewise desire them to authorize some person to act for them, as there is a real cause for it.

To the Committee of Safety in Philadelphia.

Lewistown, June 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I intended to have sent the former by my express horse, but the Tories having cut off that communication, I am obliged to send this by the whaleboats as far as Newcastle, and from thence by land. I have further to add, that last evening the Kingfisher returned into our road, with a prize brigantine, Captain Walker, of Wilmington; but, luckily for us, before the pirates boarded her, our brave Captain Barry had been on board of her, and taken out some powder and arms. In sight of the Kingfisher, this day, about noon, came into our road and anchored another frigate, but who she is I cannot learn. Mr. Brown, who came down in the flag, gave me the above account of Captain Walker's brigantine. As we have these ships here now, we have our troubles, and must request that you will be on your guard, as it will not lay in my power to give you the particulars by the land express; but when the ships move upward, I shall send off the alarm by the armed barge, you may depend.

Gentlemen, you will be so kind as to inform the Congress of the proceedings of the Tories at the head of our country, as I think there will be occasion for some troops from upwards to quiet them, as they are breaking out in a surprising manner; and believe me that I shall do everything in my power to give you the earliest accounts of the proceedings of the pirates. In the mean time, I remain your humble servant to command,

HENRY FISHER.

Any Committee that this letter may fall in the hands of are requested to furnish the bearer hereof with a horse, upon sight.

H. FISHER.

DEPOSITION OF WILLIAM BARRY.

NEWCASTLE County, on DELAWARE, ss.

The deposition of Mr. William Barry, mariner, aged about twenty-seven years, taken before me, the subscriber, one of the Justices in and for Newcastle County aforesaid, who deposeseth and saith: That, on or about the 13th day of March last, he left Cape-Henlopen, as mate on board the ship Grace, belonging to Philadelphia, and then bound for York River, in Virginia, Captain Erwin, commander; that, on or about the 17th of said month, about twelve o'clock, noon, they espied a sloop towards the land, bearing for them, having a jack in her shrouds, which the Captain supposed to be some American vessel, with powder, inward bound, in distress, yet they still kept on their course. When the sloop came nigh, she hailed them, and ordered them to lower their topsails and come on board their vessel; but they made all the sail they could, in hopes to get off. The sloop then fired several shots at them, as they apprehended with an intent to kill them; upon which, the Captain of the ship hauled down the sails, and went on board them; that this deponent then up with the sails again, to try to get off, but they fired; so he got wounded in his leg, and was forced to come to; and as they had no boat belonging to the sloop, there came a number of men back in their boat, which the Captain had taken, and took them all prisoners on board the sloop, which was called the Lord Howe, commanded by a certain — Ord, a Second Lieutenant belonging to the Roebuck man-of-war, whose tender the sloop was. They took the ship, and called her their prize. The crew were all (except the Captain) put in irons, though this deponent's leg was very sore; after which, they were all carried and put on board the said Roebuck man-of-war, of forty-two guns, commanded by Captain Hammond, which was then lying in Hampton-Roads, and who strongly urged them to enter freely, which this deponent would not do, nor the Captain and some of the men, though others of our men did, rather than be kept in irons and ill used. However, after some time they were taken out of irons, and made to do ship's duty, (which all prisoners must do,) with many insults and very bad usage. About three days after he went on board said Roebuck, she came to Henlopen aforesaid, and, cruising out and in there, took several vessels said to belong to the Rebels in America, which they said were, by their orders, to be lawful prizes, though, when their sailors asked when they would get their shares, they were abused by the officers, and told they must go to England first. About three weeks after they came to Cape-Henlopen, there came three men, one night, in a small boat from Lewistown shore, on board said vessel, and staid on board till about ten o'clock at night. The next night, when they came alongside, they reached up a small bag, which one of the men belonging to the ship told the deponent were letters, &c. Said three men were kindly received and entertained by the Captain and officers, but no prisoners permitted to speak to them. Said three men informed the people on board that they had, or that there were, cattle, stock, &c., for them at Indian River, which the tenders endeavoured to get, but were prevented by Barry's brig, as they call her, and a small schooner; but he was not in the tenders. When the three men went off in their boat, they rowed as far as the back of the Light-House, as he could see, and were conveyed by one of the man-of-war's tenders. One of the people that came on board as aforesaid had a mark like a half-moon on (he thinks) his left cheek, and looked like a cut—a well coloured man, and had on, he thinks, a brown coat and buckskin or other leather breeches; which man he would know again. Another of said men was pale looking, and wore blue clothes, he thinks, but is not certain.

About the first week in May, the Roebuck and Liverpool frigates, tenders, &c., came up Delaware River a piece, and sent some boats on the Jersey shore to try to get fresh provisions, of which there was great want on board, (viz: of flesh, fowls, &c.) and where they brought on board several cattle, which were very poor, but were greedily eaten; after which, they proposed to go up the river for fresh water, of which they were in great want, and then afterwards, as he understood from the lower officers, they designed to go to Philadelphia and take it, if they could pass the chevaux-de-frise; but, if they could not pass them, then to return and lay at Chester awhile. As they came up the river, they fired several shots at vessels that were before them, and, opposite Newcastle, they fired two or three shots out of the bow guns at a small sail-boat; that, knowing the cruel disposition and threats of the men-of-war, he was in great pain for some acquaintances he had in Newcastle, but, with the spy-glass, perceived the doors and windows shut, and no smoke in the chimneys, and, seeing many carts carrying off goods, was in hopes they had fled.

On or about the 8th of said month, (May), the row-galleys attacked the men-of-war, which the officers looked on with disdain, as apprehending they could do little damage to them. However, the Roebuck had a deal of her rigging damaged, and some shot in her sides; and as she was endeavouring to get nigh the row-galleys, to sink and destroy them, she got into shallow water, so that she could not steer, and ran on the ground, on the Jersey shore, above or near Christiana Creek's mouth. At night they expected the fire-ships and galleys down upon them; and as she lay and took such a heel, they could not bring her guns to bear, and could not make any resistance in the Roebuck but with small-arms. There were therefore an anchor and two stream-cables carried out to endeavour to get her off, and three boats were kept all night rowing around her, and often going nigh the galleys to watch their motions, as they were expected every minute to come down on them; and, as far as he could learn, if they came and hulled them, they had orders to fly on board the Liverpool frigate, to save their lives, (for which purpose boats were ready,) and then the Liverpool was to retreat. But, about four o'clock in the morning, they got the ship off; after which, about forty men were employed in filling and stowing away fresh water, (of which they were scarce,) though they had stove many of their water-casks, and also did not expect the galleys would attack them again, as they thought they were much damaged; but as they attacked the men-of-war the second day with more courage and conduct, the Roebuck received many shots betwixt wind and water: some went quite through, some in her quarter, and was much raked fore and aft; but the carpenters soon covered most of the holes with what some called a "plaster," which prevented her from receiving in the water; otherwise would have soon filled. During the engagement, one man was killed by a shot, which took his arm almost off. Six were much hurt and burned by an eighteen-pound cartridge of powder taking fire, among whom was an acting lieutenant, and several were hurt by splinters; but night coming on, and it being difficult to sight her guns in the night, and the galleys could not be seen, it was judged best to retreat; during which they ceased firing for a while, and every man got a dram given him at his quarters, with directions for every man who was called by his name to be ready to go ashore at Newcastle, under cover of the cannon, to plunder the town, and afterwards to burn and destroy it that night; but they were prevented by the row-galleys following so close. During the engagement, the Captain ordered several of the guns to be loaded with round and grape shot, which were fired at the Rebels (as the Captain and officers called them) who stood on the shore and banks. After the vessels had passed Newcastle they came to in the bite below the town that night to repair the rigging, &c., and next day the vessels went down to Ready-Island, where Captain Hammond hailed the Liverpool, and ordered her to go in betwixt the island and the main and destroy the town of Port-Penn, (we heard drums beating ashore;) accordingly he went, and soon after returned and informed there was not depth of water to get near enough, and was afraid his vessel would get aground. Next day the vessel went to the capes and came to anchor; the carpenters as yet still repairing the vessels, having taken, as he supposes, forty of the row-galleys' balls out of the Roebuck, and some cannot be come at.

On the 18th of May aforesaid both vessels weighed from the Horekill-Road. The Liverpool stood to the northward, and, as far as he could learn, was to go or send to Halifax for more ships and men to attack Philadelphia. The Roebuck (in which he was) went to Norfolk and joined Dunmore's fleet there, after which they burnt and sunk six sail of sloops and schooners, being scarce of hands to man them, &c. And on the 24th of May the fleet went to Gwin's Island, being eighty-two sail, most of which were prizes; and on the 26th landed on the island one hundred men of the Fourteenth Regiment, one hundred marines, one hundred and fifty inhabitants of Norfolk, (by them called volunteers,) and fifty seamen, and three hundred negroes, which were all that could be spared from the vessels. And as he could learn, they were to land the inhabitants taken on board at Norfolk on the island to refresh themselves and to get fresh stock of cattle, &c., being very scarce of such in the fleet, as some said they had not tasted any fresh meat for seven weeks. On that night there came three negro men from the shore in a canoe, who were shaken hands with, and kindly received and entertained by the Second Lieutenant and other officers. The Lieutenant went into the cabin and informed the Captain. He afterwards asked them if there would come more of their people on board; that if they did they would be well used. The negroes said there would. He then asked them if there were any shirtmen or forces lying near; they told him there were none nearer than six miles. He then asked them if there were any cattle near the shore on the main; they said there was plenty. He then asked them if they thought there was any danger in landing to get them; they said there was no danger. He then asked them if they could get some fowls that night for the officers, as they were badly off for some on board; they said they could get fowls and sheep. He then told them they should be well paid; and, besides, should be free when this disturbance was over, which he expected would be very soon, and then each of them should have a plantation of the Rebels' land. After which one of the negroes went and brought some fowls and geese, which this deponent heard making a noise coming up the side of the ship; and also brought his wife and two children, and another negro man, of which he had told the Lieutenant before. And all prisoners taken by them are forced to do King's duty, and are not reckoned prisoners of war, but Rebels, and very ill used, as he told the Captain "a man had better curse father and mother, and be killed at once, than to live such a life." This deponent still designed to make his escape, or die in the attempt. He accordingly slipped through one of the gun ports into the canoe which the negroes had brought, cut the painter, and let her fall astern, and about break of day got ashore on the main; after which he met a man who told him that the people in the country would take him up before he could get to the camp and send him on board again, and that he had better return; but he would rather have taken his chance to die first. He arrived at the camp, and was kindly received by Colonel Churchill, and informed him of their design to land on the main for cattle, &c., and told him all that he knew, who sent immediately forty men and horses, and drove all the stock ten miles back in the country and saved them from being carried off. After which he heard they had landed on the main, but being disappointed, had burnt some houses along shore; and further saith not.

WILLIAM BARRY.

Sworn before me:

SAMUEL PATTERSON.

June 11, 1776.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1776.

SIR: I am honoured with your letters of the 7th, 8th, and 9th instant. The two first I have read in Congress. We have been two days in a Committee of the Whole, deliberating on three capital matters, the most important in their nature of any that have yet been before us, and have sat till seven o'clock in the evening each day. That not being finished, I judge best to return the express. I shall press Congress as soon as possible to determine upon the several matters you wish to be ascertained, and immediately transmit you the result.

The Congress have agreed to settle the mode of paying the troops in the Eastern Department this morning, and to proceed to the appointment of a Deputy Paymaster-General.

The particular mode of establishing expresses is now under the consideration of a Committee, and as soon as agreed, you shall know the issue.

Although Congress have not acted upon your queries respecting the Indians, yet I will venture to give my opinion that Congress intended the resolution of 25th May should be general, and extend to the several departments; and that the resolution of the 3d of June goes only to the number which the General shall be empowered to employ in Canada. But I hope soon to give you a full answer to all your queries; and in future I will exert myself in Congress that your applications may be considered as soon as received, and keep you punctually and regularly informed of the result.

Enclosed you have a resolve, whereby you will see that all the troops in the Middle Department are put upon the same pay, six and two-thirds dollars, as the troops in the Eastern Department.

I have sent you four bundles of commissions, and will forward you more by next opportunity.

The enclosed from Mrs. Washington I wish safe to hand. I have the pleasure to acquaint you she is in fine spirits, and proposes paying you a visit next week. I sent her your letter by the express; and when you write if you will please to put the letter under my cover I will immediately deliver it.

I have the honour to be, with every sentiment that respect and esteem inspire, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 10th instant, containing the most interesting intelligence, was received this day and immediately laid before Congress.

In order to expedite the march of the Militia destined for New-York, I have sent, by order of Congress, expresses to the several Colonies that are requested to furnish troops for that place. Copies of my letters on the occasion I do myself the pleasure to enclose to you.

I am in hopes the alarming situation of affairs will induce the neighbouring Colonies to think of their danger, and to adopt the only effectual means of saving themselves from destruction.

The Congress have this day ordered Colonels Shea and Magaw, with their battalions, to repair immediately to New-York; and they are to begin their march to-morrow.

Mr. Chace and Mr. Carroll arrived this day; by their account there has been most shocking mismanagement in that quarter. I hope our affairs will soon be upon a more reputable footing.

I have the honour to be, with esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. Please to order the two letters for the Convention of New-York to be delivered.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO NEW-YORK CONVENTION.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour by Mr. Gouverneur Morris, I had the pleasure of receiving yesterday, and immediately laid the same before Congress.

By the enclosed resolve, which I am commanded to transmit, you will perceive they have come to a resolution that the pay of the troops in the Middle and Eastern Departments shall hereafter be the same.

Although it is much to be wished that the pay of the Eastern troops could have been reduced, yet as that measure would naturally give great and general disgust, and might be attended with the worst consequences in our present situation, the Congress chose rather to increase the pay of the other troops than to run the risk of breaking up the Eastern Army.

Every State or Government should punctually perform the terms of enlistment on which the soldier enters into service. In this view of the matter it would have been neither honourable nor equitable to have abridged the pay of the Eastern troops; nor can any reason be urged why the other troops, who do the same duty and are exposed to the same dangers, should not also receive the same pay.

The particular mode of inlisting the Pennsylvania and York troops originated with their and your Delegates, and as they moved it Congress could not but gratify them.

I am extremely happy that any part of my conduct should meet with the approbation of the Convention of New-York. I seek only to do my duty, but find an additional pleasure if, in the discharge of it, I merit the praise of the worthy and the good.

I have the honour to be, with respect, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable Convention of New-York.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The Congress have this day received advices, and are fully convinced that it is the design of General Howe to make an attack upon the city of New-York as soon as possible.

The attack, they have reason to believe, will be made within ten days. I am therefore most earnestly to request you, by order of Congress, to call forth your Militia, as requested in my letter of the 4th instant, and to forward them with all despatch to the city of New-York, and that you direct them to march in companies, or in any other way that will hasten their arrival there. The important day is at hand that will decide not only the fate of the city of New-York, but, in all probability, of the whole Province. On such an occasion there is no necessity to use arguments with Americans. Their feelings, I well know, will prompt them to their duty, and the sacredness of the cause urge them to the field.

The greatest exertions of vigour and expedition are requisite to prevent our enemies from getting possession of that town; I must therefore again most earnestly request you, in the name and by the authority of Congress, to employ every mode in your power to send forward the Militia, agreeable to the requisition of Congress, and that you do it with all the despatch which the infinite importance of the cause demands.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Assembly of Massachusetts-Bay.

(Same to the Assembly of Connecticut, to the Convention of New-York, and to the Convention of New-Jersey.)

ELBRIDGE GERRY TO JAMES WARREN.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: Yesterday, after a long debate, the question of Independence was postponed until the 1st of July, in order to give the Assemblies of the Middle Colonies an opportunity to take off their restrictions and let their Delegates unite in the measure. In the interim, will go on plans for Confederation and foreign alliance.

If these slow people had hearkened to reason in time, this work would have long ere now been completed, and the disadvantage arising from the want of such measures been wholly avoided; but Providence has undoubtedly wise ends in coupling together the vigorous and the indolent; the first are retarded, but the latter are urged on, and both come together to the goal.

To the obstructions in Council are owing in part our military misfortunes, which, however, we must use as fresh incitements to greater exertions.

Your sincere friend,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

To James Warren, Esq.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE DELEGATES TO MESHECH WEARE.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1776.

SIR: We some time ago signified our wish to know the sentiments of our Colony respecting Independence. The question has been agitated in Congress. A resolution passed yesterday to choose a Committee to prepare and bring in a declaration for that purpose on the 1st of July, by which time it is expected that all the Delegates who have not already been instructed, will receive ample powers. As this is a subject of the greatest importance, we beg we may be furnished with the sentiments of our constituents, as we wish to act agreeable to them, let our own be what they may. We shall be in full expectation of an answer by the return of post.

We have the honour to be your most obedient servants,

JOSIAH BARTLETT,

WILLIAM WHIPPLE.

To the Honourable Colonel Weare.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Burlington, New-Jersey, June 11, 1776—A. M.

SIR: I am honoured with your favour of yesterday, per express; and you may rely on my doing everything in my power to carry the resolution of the honourable Congress into effect with that expedition you so earnestly press, as soon as a sufficient number of members are got together, which I have the greatest reason to believe will be at three o'clock this afternoon. We met last evening and this morning, but for want of a quorum, could not proceed to any business of consequence.

You may rely on my urging the mode your Excellency has pointed out to be pursued in the marching of our Militia, as I shall be happy in contributing the smallest mite towards aiding the general cause under your command; and have the honour to be your most obedient, humble servant,

SAMUEL TUCKER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO THEIR DELEGATES IN CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read before Committee of the Whole Congress, July 1, 1776.]

In Provincial Congress, New-York, }
June 11, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 8th instant, by express, has been communicated to the Congress; they are unanimously of opinion that you are not authorized by your instructions to give the sense of this Colony on the question of declaring it to be, and continue, an independent State; nor does this Congress incline to instruct you on that point; it being a matter of doubt whether their constituents intended to vest them with a power to deliberate and determine on that question. Indeed, the majority of this Congress are clearly of opinion that they have no such authority.

As measures have lately been taken, and are now pursuing, for obtaining the consent and authority of the people for establishing a new and regular form of Government, the necessity of which seems generally to be acknowledged, this Congress think it would be imprudent to require the sentiments of the people relative to the question of Independence, lest it should create division, and have an unhappy influence on the other.

The earliest opportunity will, however, be embraced of ascertaining the sentiments of the inhabitants of this Colony on that important question, and of obtaining their consent to vest the Congress of the Colony, for the time being, with authority to deliberate and determine on that and every other matter of general concern; and to instruct their Delegates in Continental Congress thereupon.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant. By order:

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To the New-York Delegates in Continental Congress.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO THEIR DELEGATES IN CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read June 13, 1776. Referred to Mr. Sherman, Mr. Wythe, Mr. Sergeant, Mr. F. Lee, and Mr. Gwinnet.]

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 11, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by the Congress of this Colony to transmit the enclosed papers to you, for the purpose of being communicated to the Continental Congress.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant.

By order:

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To the New-York Delegates in Continental Congress, at Philadelphia.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 11, 1776.

SIR: Your letter has been received and communicated to the Congress of this Colony. Be pleased to inform his Excellency General Washington that this Congress has, by a resolution, of which the enclosed is a copy, restrained the exportation of beef and pork for fourteen days. They are of opinion that application should be immediately made to the Continental Congress, in order that a general regulation may take place; for although this Congress will always be ready to pursue such measures as may advance the common cause, yet the justice due to their constituents forbids their subjecting this Colony to partial restraint.

I am, sir, your most obedient and humble servant.

By order:

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To Joseph Trumbull, Esq., Commissary of Stores and Provisions.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 11, 1776.

Whereas it has been represented to this Congress that great quantities of salted Beef and Pork have been purchased for exportation, which, if not restrained, may render the supplies of the Army difficult and uncertain:

Resolved, therefore, That no salted Beef or Pork, except as much as may be necessary for the use of the crew, be exported from this Colony, in any vessel, under any pretence whatever, for the space of fourteen days; by which time the Continental Congress will have an opportunity of making some general regulations respecting the same.

Extract from the Minutes:

ROBERT BENSON, Secretary.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by his Excellency General Washington to apply to you, informing that he understands that considerable quantities of salted pork are shipping from this City and Colony to different foreign ports and places, and that he is apprehensive that the great augmentation of troops to be made here and in Canada will require all the pork in this and the neighbouring Colonies for their subsistence this campaign, until new pork comes in, and therefore request your interposition to put a stop to such exportation, in such manner as to you shall appear most proper, to prevent the want of provisions for subsisting the troops employed in the necessary defence of our just rights and privileges.

I am, gentlemen, with great respect, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOSEPH TRUMBULL,
Commissary of Stores and Provisions.

To the Honourable the Colonial Congress at New-York.

Sunday afternoon.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: In addition to what information I gave you last Thursday, I am now to say, that the Congress Secret Committee, so called, are now actually shipping from this place large quantities of pork; and I fear with such an example before them, no great effect can be expected from an application to Provincial Congress to stop others; and that I really fear very bad consequences therefrom to the operations of the present campaign, and pray your Excellency to mention the matter to Congress.

I cannot be answerable for supplying the Army with that article unless a stop is put to its being shipped out of the country.

JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

To General Washington.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 11, 1776.

SIR: Your letter has been received and communicated to the Congress of this Colony. Be pleased to inform his Excellency General Washington that this Congress has, by a resolution, of which the enclosed is a copy, restrained the exportation of beef and pork for fourteen days. They are of opinion that application should immediately be made to the Continental Congress, in order that a general regulation may take place; for although this Congress will always be ready to pursue such measures as may advance the common cause, yet the justice due to their constituents forbids their subjecting this Colony to partial restraints.

I am, sir, your very humble servant.

By order:

NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To Joseph Trumbull, Esq., Commissary of Stores and Provisions.

JOSEPH TRUMBULL TO JAMES WARREN.

New-York, June 11, 1776.

HONOURED SIR: I am directed by General Washington to send forward persons to supply the New-England troops marching into Canada with provisions. In order to do it effectually, I have directed Captain Farnsworth to call on you, to be informed the route the troops from your Colony will take. He is acquainted in that part of the country, was employed in the like business last spring, and can possibly give you as good information as any person of the best, easiest, and cheapest route for the troops to take. He will pay the mileage to the troops till they arrive at the stores he will establish, to give them provisions at.

We have no news here; all is quiet at present, but don't expect a long continuance of it. I was at Philadelphia last week, and left your Colony Congress, gentlemen, in good health.

I am, with esteem and respect, dear sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOSEPH TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable James Warren, Esq.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

In Committee for the County of Westchester, at the White Plains, the 11th of June, 1776:

As many enemies to America are daily travelling through this country in disguise, and under divers pretences, though in reality for the purpose of aiding the Ministerial Troops when they shall arrive in this Colony, and counteracting the salutary measures formed for our common preservation, this Committee find themselves under the disagreeable necessity of taking measures for the publick safety, which they conceive only to be justified by the conduct of such ingrates who occasion it. And, therefore,

Resolved, 1st. That the several members of this Committee, and of the sub-Committees within the County, and commissioned Militia Officers, be, and hereby are, empowered and required to examine all and every transient person, and others who have not certificates of their being friends to America from one or more of the members of the County or sub-Committee of the place where they usually reside, or one of the Field-Officers of the Regiment to which they belong. And if any such person shall refuse to render a satisfactory account of himself to the said Committee-man or Militia Officer, and he shall be convinced that he is an enemy to his country, he shall be detained or committed at his own expense, until the sub-Committee or Committee-men of the District can be called; and if the sub-Committee or Committee-men of the District are of opinion that such person is an enemy to his country, they are hereby authorized to send him back to his place of residence, or confine him in jail, at his own expense, at the election of the said Committee-men.

2d. That no boatmen, ferry-men, or others, within this County, who are possessed of boats, pettiangers, or small crafts, or other persons whatsoever, do presume, under penalty of being treated as enemies to their country, to transport or carry any passengers from this County, by water or land, to New-York, Long-Island, New-Jersey, or Orange County, or from either of those Counties to this, without their having certificates from one or more of this Committee, or of the Committee of the County or District in which they reside, that they are friends to the liberties of America.

3d. That the above Resolutions be signed by the Deputy Chairman, and published in all the newspapers of this Colony.

WILLIAM MILLER, D. Chairman.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort Constitution, June 11, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I received an answer to the letter I wrote your Excellency on the 14th of May last, yesterday, dated the 19th of May, by a sloop from Albany. Since my last returns, we have received ninety-five arms from Dutchess County and the Manor of Livingston, most of them out of repair. Permit me once more to represent to your Excellency the necessity of workmen to repair the arms in these garrisons, and to furnish them with new. There are now at this garrison four soldiers that understand the business; they will engage to work at their trade, one of them at four pounds ten, two others at four pounds, and one other at three pounds per month, their wages as soldiers included; the man whom I would propose for head-workman, and who is well known to understand the business in all its branches, must have twelve shillings a day, and says the business cannot be carried on to any advantage without three or four hands to assist in making stocks, locks, and bayonets, &c. Should your Excellency think proper to employ those people, it will be necessary to give the Commissioners orders to build a sloop for them to work in, as the carpenters are under their direction.

The Deputy-Commissary has furnished us with rum, in consequence of which we have fewer on the sick list, and the works go on with greater spirit, though the duty is very hard; we have not the least time for disciplining our men, as they work nine hours a day. This duty I am obliged to exact of them, or we should not get the intended works finished in a great while with the few hands we have.

Mr. Harrison writes that your Excellency is at a loss to know what the supplies of money I mentioned to you were, and that the Committee had not furnished us with; the Committee at New-York undertook to pay the billeting rolls and arrears due to these new-raised regiments to a certain date, from which time we were to be paid by the Paymaster-General.

When in New-York, your Excellency may remember, I applied to you for money for three Captains from Long-Island. Your reply, if I recollect right, was, that we could not be paid till the Committee had furnished us to the time they had fixed on, as they were in advance to some of our Captains. Before I came from New-York the Committee had determined to have nothing to do with the accounts of particular Captains, but proposed to advance certain stipulated sums to the commanding officers of regiments, resolving that they should pay to each Captain what was necessary, and making the commanding officer accountable for the whole of what was advanced. This money I was in expectation the Committee would have furnished me with for the purpose above-mentioned. An account of the moneys due I now transmit to your Excellency, in order to found a warrant upon, if you should be so inclined.

I cannot learn that any provision is made for a Barrack-master, or a conductor of stores, though they are persons we can scarcely do without; there are people here capable of both, if your Excellency should think proper to appoint them.

Since my return to your Excellency of the state of these garrisons, I have ordered ten pieces of cannon to be removed from hence to Fort Montgomery, with as many stores as could be spared for them; this I thought necessary, as they had only six pieces mounted there. I have also made up into cannon-cartridges the small stock of ammunition we have, reserving a proportionable part for musketry; and by reason of the great distance of the magazine from our two southernmost batteries, I have been obliged to order moveable boxes to be made, each to contain one budge-barrel with cartridges, and constructed so as to secure them from the weather. These, if approved of by your Excellency, I intend shall be placed (according to the proportion of guns, allowing one to every two guns) upon each battery, in order that we may be in readiness upon any emergency that may happen. I thought this cheaper than building a magazine, which I did not care to venture upon without particular instructions.

A few days ago I had the pleasure to see Mr. Chase and Mr. Carroll, (two of the Commissioners sent from Congress to Canada,) on their return; and in the course of a conversation with them, I mentioned to them the judgment of a General Court-Martial, held at this fort on the 17th of May last, relative to some prisoners found guilty of mutiny by said court, which appeared so singular to them that they insisted on my sending your Excellency the proceedings, which I now transmit; they should have been sent before, had I thought they merited your Excellency's attention. I am in hopes that a little experience will teach our officers the necessity of a stricter discipline; we are young yet; and, with deference to your Excellency's superior judgment, I cannot help thinking it would be of great service to us to be at New-York, or where there is a larger detail, and more corps of troops than our own; we move in a narrow circle—rather too confined to afford much improvement.

I was under the necessity of permitting the bearer, Captain Child, to go to New-York, as his men are almost destitute of clothing.

14th of June.—May it please your Excellency: Since I wrote the above, Captain Bedlow, one of the Commissioners for laying out the fortifications at this place, arrived from New-York, and communicated the instructions he received from your Excellency relative to the completion of these works; from which design we were clearly of opinion that the work of most consequence is excluded, as it commands, at point blank, all the fortifications erected on this island: this spot lies directly opposite to us, on a point called West Point, and contains about forty acres of level; it would be easy of access to our enemies should they either pass or take Fort Montgomery. Colonel Putnam when here thought it ought by no means to be neglected. Comparing this circumstance and the situation together, we imagined that Lord Stirling and Colonel Putnam, immersed in a world of business of equal importance, had omitted to mention this eligible situation, either for a grand battery, which might be so constructed as to command a long reach both up and down the river, or for a post for the enemy, which we conceive would be of infinite prejudice to us. If I could obtain your Excellency's approbation, a work should be immediately thrown up at this place, to be defended by fifty men, with small-arms. Captain Bedlow tells me that one thousand men are to be called to these forts: if they are from the Minute service, we shall want an immediate supply of tents for them, as the barracks, and those intended, will by no means contain them. Tents for at least eight hundred men will be wanted.

I ought to make an apology for taking up so much of your Excellency's time; but the evident necessity for it will, I hope, plead my excuse more powerfully.

I remain your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON, Com'g Officer.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON TO LORD STIRLING.

Fort Constitution, June 11, 1776.

MY LORD: According to your request I send you enclosed a list of the arms sent us from Dutchess County and the Manor of Livingston. Those from Dutchess are appraised at extravagant rates, only one being fit for service; those from the Manor are much too low—they are most of them good fowling pieces, but unfit for war, on account of their prodigious length, some of them being no less than seven feet.

On the 8th instant, Colonel Nicoll resigned the command of these garrisons to me.

Those unhappy wretches made prisoners by the County Committees, whom they command us to keep at hard labour, I have not exacted that drudgery of, as I conceive those commands to be rather a tyrannical exercise of power in those gentlemen, which they have no right to exercise, and such as no Continental officer is bound to conform to without a particular direction from Congress or a superior officer. However, if your Lordship should be of a different way of thinking, and will be so obliging as to honour me with your command, I will immediately on the receipt of them rectify that matter.

I would be much obliged to your Lordship if you would represent to the General the necessity of a supply of tents for these garrisons; sixty-two, including thirteen officers' tents, will be sufficient for the present. Colonel Clinton, appointed to our regiment, is now at New-York; but from some hints I had from Mr. Duane (who called here on his way from home) I am led to think that he will be made a Brigadier-General. Should this be the case, I must beg your Lordship's interest to get me the regiment, if some one of more experience is not thought of. Major Cary would make a better Major or Lieutenant-Colonel than could possibly be supplied from our regiment, if he is not better provided for.

A Surgeon is much wanted at each of these posts, as there are many sick, and one person is incapable of attending them all at a distance of seven miles apart. But I will say no more of our wants until those your Lordship is already acquainted with are supplied, as a repetition will be tedious. I send this by Captain Childs, who I am obliged to send to New-York for necessaries for his men.

My respects to Lady Stirling, Lady Mary, and Lady Caty. I remain, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON.

To the Earl of Stirling, a Brigadier-General in the Continental Army, New-York.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, June 11, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I had the honour to address your Excellency yesterday by post; since which Mr. Deane, the Indian interpreter, is arrived from Oneida, and contradicts the account contained in the paper enclosed in mine of yesterday; but says that an account arrived at Oneida, and the Oneidas believed it to be true, "that Butler had called a meeting of the Six Nations at Oswego." The Oneidas apprehend that he will attempt to procure the Six Nations to join the more western Indians, and assist them in falling on the German Flats. I have recommended the greatest vigilance to the Committee of that County, and to keep parties continually scouring the woods, as far as, and even beyond, Fort Stanwix, to prevent a surprise.

I have already sent a message inviting the Six Nations to a conference at the German Flats, on the 1st of next month. The Oneidas desired Mr. Deane to request me to send for the Indians that left this on a visit to the sea-coast. As these are chiefly our best friends, I wish to have them here the soonest possible, and that every mark of attention should be given them by the people with whom they come up.

We are in great want of powder and lead, and equally so for intrenching tools of every kind, a few pieces of cannon with the appurtenances, and a competent number of artillerymen, having none on this side of Canada.

I am preparing everything I can with the utmost secrecy for taking post at Fort Stanwix, which I propose to do immediately after the conference with the Indians; and should the Mohawks, Onondagas, and Cayugas, declare against us, I will, if possible, cut off the two latter as soon as they are got home, by a detachment from Fort Stanwix, (the farthest live about ninety miles from that place,) and at the same time seize on the Mohawks; the Senecas are out of our reach. Be pleased to order up some flints.

Some time in April a Mr. Blake, of Montreal, presented me two bills, drawn on me in his favour by General Wooster; one of which, amounting to four hundred and seventeen pounds eighteen shillings and nine pence, lawful, was to be paid in specie, which, as I could not comply with, I offered to discharge in Continental bills. He refuses to accept them, and complains of a breach of publick faith. I confess that I had authorized General Wooster to draw on me in that manner, and had reason to believe, from the advices I received from Congress, that I should have been enabled to discharge such drafts; but such has been the scarcity of specie and such the call for it in Canada, that what little has been sent me from below I have immediately forwarded; and upwards of two thousand pounds which I borrowed in February last on my private security, to be repaid in three weeks, is still due, as I have never yet been enabled to discharge it. Blake makes such a stir about this affair that I could wish he was paid, if so much specie can be got at New-York.

General Sullivan has sent for the exchange prisoners that had returned to Ticonderoga and Fort George, and I have ordered them back, but many of Colonel Bedel's Regiment are already deserted.

12th.—Yesterday General Wooster delivered me a return, of which the enclosed is a copy. I mention this lest it should be said that I had received regular returns. I have not yet had one from Canada, either of the Army or from any Commissary whatsoever, not even a single line from Mr. Price, although I so earnestly pressed him, in my instructions of the 7th of May, to let me know the state of provisions in Canada. In short, if I had not apprehended that difficulties would have arisen in procuring flour, and prepared accordingly, the Army must have starved; they are out of danger now, unless no pork should arrive.

If the Militia ordered into Canada from the New-England Colonies should not have had the small-pox, they will rather weaken than strengthen our Army. Would it not be advisable to order them to send none but such as have already had that distemper?

I have about one hundred and twenty batteaus at Fort George, which will, I believe, be fully sufficient to convey all the Militia that will go.

I am, dear sir, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Montreal, June 11, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I wrote you this morning via Chambly, and enclosed sundry papers respecting the affair at the Cedars and the officers sent down under arrest. I have just received the enclosed letter from Dr. Stringer, which is of so much importance I have sent off the bearer with it, that you may give such directions in time as you may think best. I think it will be prudent to remove the sick and wounded who are not likely to be serviceable soon, to the Isle-aux-Noix, together with the stores, medicines, and some tents and boats.

The goods which I seized here for the use of the Army, I sent to St. Johns by Major Scott: Colonel Hazen, who refused to receive them, leaving them exposed, they have been broken open, and some plundered and the rest in the greatest confusion and disorder. Nothing is yet done to the works at St. Johns. I have only three hundred men here, and one hundred and fifty at La Chine, the greater part of whom I expect will have the small-pox in a few days. I intend going to Chambly and St. Johns early in the morning, and shall return as soon as possible. Mr. Tucker has this minute arrived here from Chambly, and tells a confused story of an engagement between General Thompson and a superior force of the enemy, and that both armies retired, the enemy to Three Rivers, and our troops to Berthier. I wait with great anxiety to know the truth of this matter.

I am, with great respect and esteem, dear General, your obedient, humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

COMMODORE HOPKINS TO CAPTAIN JONES.

Newport, June 11, 1776.

SIR: On receipt of this, you are to get what things are absolutely necessary on board immediately and what hands are ready, and come directly down here.

Captain Brown will come down with you for a pilot. Here is a small sloop, now off the harbour, of four carriage and twelve swivel guns, and about thirty hands. If you have not hands enough, I shall put as many on board here as will be sufficient.

I am your humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To John Paul Jones, Esq., Commander of the Sloop Providence, at Providence.

WILLIAM BARTLETT TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Beverly, June 11, 1776.

SIR: I would beg leave to inform your Excellency of my proceedings with respect to the vessels taken and brought in here by Captain Manly. After condemnation they were, agreeable to your instructions, advertised in the publick papers three weeks; I then proceeded to the sale. I received instructions from your Excellency, through the Honourable Major-General Ward, to purchase the ship Jenny and the brigantine Hannah, for the United Colonies, provided they sold very much under their real value: the Jenny selling for nineteen hundred and fifty pounds, thought it quite enough for her, therefore did not purchase her; the brigantine Hannah I purchased for five hundred and twenty pounds, and have since delivered her to Captain Bradford by order of General Ward; the ship Concord sold for nine hundred and thirty pounds; the brig Nancy for four hundred and thirty pounds; the sloop Betsey for one hundred and seventy-five pounds; and the sloop Polly for one hundred and thirty pounds. I have also sold all the goods I think at a very good price.

If your Excellency thinks proper to order that the goods delivered Colonel Mifflin, as well as the ordnance stores, should be valued and transmitted me, that the sales may be closed, it would be of infinite service to the poor captors, as well as an encouragement to them to go again into the service; for I do not conceive there can be a division until I can get the amount of the whole.

I would further beg your Excellency's instructions concerning paying the captors. There were several servants in the service in taking these prizes, the masters of whom apply for their share of the prize money. Knowing the rules of the Army respecting that matter, have refused paying them until I receive your Excellency's orders; also, whether any of the people who are yet left with us belonging to any of the above vessels should receive any wages.

This day Captain Bradford applied, and informed me that he was appointed agent for this Colony, with power to depute whom he thought proper under him; therefore desired me not to act any more in the station which your Excellency was pleased to appoint me in.

Your Excellency's orders with respect to this, or any other affair, will be gratefully accepted and punctually obeyed, by your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM BARTLETT.

To His Excellency General Washington.N. B. My best compliments to Colonel Moylan.

DISSOLUTION OF THE MARYLAND ASSEMBLY.

Annapolis, June 13, 1776.

The time limited for the continuation of the present General Assembly of this Province expiring on the 14th instant, his Excellency our Governour was yesterday pleased to issue his Proclamation for dissolving the same, and to order writs of election to be issued to-morrow to call a new Assembly, returnable the 25th day July next.

CHARLES CARROLL, BARRISTER, TO WILLIAM HAYWARD.

Mount-Clare, Baltimore County, June 12, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: I received last night Mr. Tilghman's letter of Sunday last, enclosing the resolves of the Virginia Convention; and I assure you I would most willingly ride down to Annapolis, to be with you a day or two, were I in a condition to do it or to be of much service, but I am so unhinged and relaxed by my attendance and confinement, that I am plagued with almost constant little fevers; and though I keep about, I am apprehensive such a ride would lay me up, and it is with difficulty I now hold my pen to write to you. I will, however, with as much precision as I can, give you my sentiments.

If you are fully convinced of the propriety of the present Council of Safety entering into a vindication of the conduct of the Convention and the proceedings of the former Council, by letter to the Committee of Safety of Virginia, against assertions thrown out by the Convention of that Colony in their resolves, I think you have the matter and the grounds for the conduct of the Council of Safety fully set forth in our letters to the Congress, and our several letters to our Deputies on the intercepted letters, and our proceedings with the Governour. And I think the more concise and pointed such letter is the better. They may be told that the Council of Safety proceeded in a matter to which they were competent, on testimony that they (the Convention of Virginia) could not be privy to; that they were happy in having their conduct approved of by the Convention of the Province; and that you would not condescend to enter into a discussion of their conduct with any publick body that has not authority to interfere in our Provincial concerns, and to which we are not accountable; that the readiness with which this Province, on a late occasion, ordered some companies of their Minute-men down to the Eastern-Shore Counties of Virginia for their protection, and the readiness and disposition the Council of Safety have on every occasion demonstrated to co-operate with their Colony in every measure proposed by them, will evince to the world their regard for the safety and welfare of that Colony, and clear the Convention from the unjust imputation of having promoted Governour Eden's passage, to assist in the destruction of the Colony of Virginia, under pretence of his returning to England. I have not the letter, or what they call the address, to Governour Eden, here; but by what I recollect of it, I think they may be told that the Council cannot conceive the letter or address to Governour Eden can support or justify him in assuming any publick character, or enable him to promote any measure that may tend to disunite the Colonies, or be productive of the danger apprehended to the common cause of America.

N. B. Would it not be proper to omit the address? If you incline to say anything on the clause in the resolves relating to the reasons assigned for his departure, you may, I think, well tell them that when we consider that the President of the Council of State, on whom, by act of Assembly of this Province, in the absence of the Governour, the Government is to devolve, is a native of the Province, and his connexions, fortune, and family in it, we cannot apprehend he will consider himself under equal obligations to execute the Ministerial mandates, with a Governour who is a native of England, and who has his family, connexions, and fortune, in that country; nor, if he should unfortunately be equally ready to obey them, do we apprehend that he will have equal influence or power to carry any measures proposed by them into execution;—we therefore are persuaded the Convention acted with the greatest discretion and prudence in continuing the Government in its old and at present established form, till they should themselves be convinced that there was no probability of a reconciliation with Great Britain, and should find themselves under an absolute necessity of altering it; and we are convinced that in their proceedings they were neither deceived by any professions of friendship to America made by Governour Eden, nor influenced by any dependance on Proprietary power, but actuated by strict justice and honour only; and we are satisfied their conduct has met with the approbation of their constituents, who, we are convinced, will treat in a manner becoming their good sense and spirit every attempt of any external Provincial body whatsoever that may presume to dictate to them, or to interfere with the administration of Government or internal business of the Province; and although we cannot but be in some measure affected by the injurious insinuations thrown out in the resolves of the Convention of Virginia against the motives and conduct of the Convention and Council of Safety—insinuations in our opinion continued and circulated to lessen in the estimation of our countrymen the credit of those in whom at present the publick authority in this Province is placed, and are satisfied they will not tend to promote the harmony that at this critical period should subsist between the two Colonies, but may, in our apprehension, be attended with the most disagreeable and perhaps dangerous consequences—yet we shall, with the spirit and firmness often superior to little contrivances and such provocations, disregard the injurious treatment these bodies have received, or any that may ever hereafter be offered to us as a publick body, and shall steadily, to the utmost of our power, pursue every measure that, in our opinion, may conduce to the safety, protection and defence of ourselves and our neighbours, or promote the general interests of America.

I have thus thrown together my thoughts. Whether you may think of writing to the Committee of Safety of Virginia, or whether you may think of publishing anything as a declaration of the people, I must repeat it, I think the shorter and the more peremptory it is, the better effect it will have. We are not accountable to them for our conduct, and therefore I am not for entering into a discussion of the matter with them.

This letter has been written two or three days, and I have not had an opportunity of sending it till now, by Mr. Lux. I did intend to set off for Annapolis to-morrow, as I am a little better than I have been, but Mr. Lux informs me that the Convention is to meet on the 18th; if so, it will be impossible for me to go down and be up here again, and return again to the Convention, without hurrying myself too much; so I shall stay till I hear from you by Mr. Lux. I think, as the Convention is to meet shortly, you need not hurry your answer or declaration, but defer it for a post or two. Pray present my compliments to all my brothers of the Council.

I am, dear sir, your most obedient servant,

CHARLES CARROLL.

To the Honourable William Hayward, Esq.

B. MACKALL TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

In Committee of Observation for Calvert County, }
June 12, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: We have received your letter of the 4th instant concerning Captain Beall's complaint for want of house-room for his troops. We, in answer, inform you that, agreeable to our prior information, we procured houses at Drum Point, which we thought were sufficient; but finding that the resolves of the Convention in December last only obliged us to find the troops sufficient accommodations during the winter season, we are of opinion that we cannot engage our County in any expense of building barracks.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servants.

Per order:

B. MACKALL, Chairman.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO ROBERT ALEXANDER.

[No. 22.]

Annapolis, June 12, 1776.

SIR: Mr. Purviance has just now informed us of your return to Baltimore-town, after your long absence from your family and friends, which, as it must afford you and them great joy and satisfaction, we most sincerely congratulate you thereon. We have some times found much difficulty in transaction of business that originally had been under your direction, for the want of the contracts and other papers relative thereto, and we should be glad that you would transmit to us, as soon as you conveniently can, all the agreements and papers you have in your possession respecting the publick, and which properly may come under the inspection and cognizance of our Board.

We hope soon to hear of your being restored to perfect health; and are yours, &c.

To Robert Alexander, Esq.

To His Excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esq., General and Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the United Colonies, &c.:

The Memorial of Colonel JOHN NICOLSON, late acting as Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment under the command of Colonel JAMES CLINTON, in the Northern Department, and nominated as Colonel of a Regiment to be recruited in CANADA out of the four NEW-YORK Regiments, humbly sheweth:

That your Memorialist was, on the 28th of June last, appointed a Captain of a company by the Provincial Congress of New-York, in the regiment commanded by Colonel James Clinton; and having recruited his company, was commissioned accordingly by the honourable the Continental Congress. That your Memorialist, having joined said regiment, marched with his company to the fort of St. Johns, where he served during that seige, with the rest of the Army, under the command of the late worthy General Montgomery; that after the reduction of that fort, he proceeded with the Army to Montreal; that soon after that place surrendered, the time for which your Memorialist's company were enlisted expired; that many (as well the officers of said regiment as men) then quit the service and returned home, by which a new arrangement of officers became necessary, and was made by General Montgomery; that the Lieutenant-Colonel and Major, and some of the elder Captains of said regiment, being among those who returned home, (or never joined the regiment,) your Memorialist was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the said regiment, and continued to act in that capacity before Quebeck (unless when prevented by sickness) until the 15th of April last, when the time for which the regiment were enlisted expired; that your Memorialist was then appointed by General Arnold to the command of a regiment to be recruited and raised out of the four New-York Regiments in Canada, which appointment was afterwards confirmed by General Wooster, and your Memorialist being advised that his acceptance of this appointment would promote the publick service, has accordingly accepted the same, and, with his officers, (everything considered,) had made some considerable progress in recruiting said regiment before the late unhappy event which occasioned the retreat of the Army from before Quebeck. That notwithstanding your Memorialist is conscious that, in the whole of his conduct on that occasion, he faithfully complied with the orders of his superior officers, which were given in consequence of a council of war, and that in every case he has endeavoured to discharge his duty as a good officer as far as in him lay, yet a report has lately been raised and industriously propagated by some ill-minded persons, (for reasons best known to themselves,) as well through the Army as country, that your Memorialist had, upon the above occasion, not only been guilty of disobedience of orders, but of cowardice; whereby your Memorialist's reputation (which is dearer to him than life) is greatly injured, and his usefulness as an officer much impaired, and unless he can have justice in the premises will be totally destroyed.

Your Memorialist begs leave further to observe, that he is appointed and commissioned a Major in the regiment under the command of Colonel Wynkoop, which, though a degradation in rank, he would rather consent to accept than be considered out of the Army, and not entitled to have his conduct properly inquired into.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly prays your Excellency to order an inquiry to be made concerning his conduct on the above occasion, in such manner as is agreeable to military practice on similar occasions; and your Memorialist will ever pray, &c.

JOHN NICOLSON.

June 12, 1776.

TO THE AGED FRIENDS OF THE AMERICAN CAUSE IN THE CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW-YORK.

GENTLEMEN: Although all such persons as are above the age of fifty years are, by Congress, exempted from bearing arms, the imminent danger to which this City and County are exposed renders it necessary that every healthy, though aged friend to the common rights of our country and mankind, should have an opportunity of lending their assistance, by voluntarily forming themselves into companies, for garrison duty in the City and County aforesaid.

The alarming apprehensions we are under of an invasion from our malicious and inexorable enemies, we hope will apologize for the recommendation of this measure to you; especially at a time like this, when, if it be in the power of our foes, we are to be robbed of all our rights and liberties.

Virtuous Fathers! We pretend to assume no authority over you in this matter, but wish that your posterity may have reason to boast their descent from ancestors who, in the City and County of New-York, have nobly stood forth in defence of the lives, liberties, and fortunes, of a generation who, by your noble example now, will transmit the fair inheritance to their sons, and your names with honour to the latest ages.

N. B. Such gentlemen as are willing to step forth as aforesaid, are requested to meet at the house of the Widow Vandewater, near the new brick meeting-house, on Monday next, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Extract from the Minutes.

Published by order of the Committee:

JOSEPH WINTER, Secretary.

Committee-Chamber, New-York, June 12, 1776.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW-YORK.

MY DEAR FRIENDS: The subject upon which we are now to deliberate, and which we are requested by the Congress to carry into execution with the utmost diligence and punctuality, is the election of proper persons to form a new mode of Government for this Colony. This is a matter of the highest importance to our future happiness and prosperity, as well as to the rights and liberties of the United Colonies in general; it therefore merits the most studious attention our minds are capable of exerting. And as the good people of this County generally look up to their Committee for advice and direction in matters of publick concern, and having now before us a resolve of Congress of the most glorious and interesting nature, and this resolve recommended to us by the approbation of our worthy Committee, we, their constituents, in justice to our country, ourselves, and posterity, will do well seriously to deliberate on and weigh the good consequences which, by favour of the God of truth and justice, will certainly result from this transaction, and thereby we shall be well convinced of its propriety and necessity, and enter the more heartily and unanimously into the measure.

In considering this subject, I think there are two things which present themselves to our immediate consideration: First, The necessity of forming a new mode of Government at present; and, Secondly, The qualifications necessary in those persons who are to be elected to that important trust.

As to the first, the resolutions of the Continental Congress, as well as those of our own Colony, have, to every disinterested and liberal mind, clearly proved the necessity of establishing a new mode of Government here. But as there are still some persons in this City whose judgments we have reason to think are biased by prejudice, or the sound of a name, or whose faculties may be so weak as not to comprehend the momentous subject as presented by Congress, I shall endeavour, briefly, to offer a few thoughts to such, in order to make it clear to the meanest capacity, and at the same time obviate an objection, which, by some, I conceive, will be made to the measure proposed, namely, that it is immediately declaring an independency.

As to the objection against forming a new Government at all, I would request those who make it to consider that, at present, no Government exists here, nor can any legal Government possibly exist upon the old plan, when one of the three branches thereof is withdrawn, and that the main one, too, of which our former Government was composed. Must not, then, our courts of justice, and, indeed, the whole course of the law, stand still? And will not this render both our persons and properties insecure? If Government be instituted for the security of both, how can offenders be legally punished where no Government exists? Or, if Government did exist, how can the present officers thereof act in anywise consistent with the oaths they have taken, while we are, in defence of everything valuable in human life, opposing the very Government they are sworn to support? Can Congress or Committees be equal to the task? They cannot. If so, then without a new legal Government, universal disorder must ensue. As to the position, that this measure is declaring an independency, I would only answer, that if the measure be necessary to preserve us from a thousand evils that are ready to break in upon us without it, it ought instantly to be adopted, though the enemies of our land should stigmatize it with a name which they, and they only, think a term of reproach. If to be independent is not only the aim and glory of every individual upon the face of the earth, but also of every country on the other side of the world—for there is not one among them all which doth not place its chief happiness here—I say, if this be a natural principle in mankind, considered as individuals, and the constant aim and desire of all other countries, in the name of wonder why should this only be excepted from the natural, the necessary, the exalted privilege of being free and independent of every foreign jurisdiction? But should peace, reconciliation, or union with Britain, ever again take place, will it not be more easily effected when the people of these Colonies are under a regular form of Government, than when matters were suffered to run into confusion? Most certainly it will. For when the most ambitious man, or set of men, heading a lawless multitude, shall direct our councils by his or their mere will and pleasure; when tyranny, anarchy, and confusion, shall pervade this once peaceful land; when, for want of Government, the strong shall lord it over the weak, and refuse to resign their power; or when, from the very nature of such proceedings, a disunion in all or most of the now United Colonies must ensue, a reunion then will be impossible upon any other terms than that of absolute subjection and slavery.

It is but too shrewdly suspected that many of our late Governours had this ignoble end in view when they withdrew themselves from their respective Governments; but thanks to the Supreme Governour of the world, who has in so remarkable a manner often interposed in our behalf, and in no instance more so than by giving such wisdom to the conductors of our publick affairs as to induce them to leave it in the choice of every Colony “to adopt such a form of Government as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the people, best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general.” If, without establishing a new mode of Government, we can have no happiness or safety as a people; if this step be essentially necessary towards a future reconciliation or peace with Britain, consistent with liberty; and if our Representatives in Congress, on the most mature deliberation, have directed us to the measure, it is therefore become absolutely necessary, as it comes to us with every recommendation which can engage the attention and compliance of every good man.

As to the qualifications necessary in those persons who are to be elected by us to the important trust of forming this new Government, I shall only observe, that I think it the duty of every elector to lay aside all partiality and prejudice with regard to the external appearance of men, and choose those only whom they know to be remarkable for true wisdom, integrity, an extensive political knowledge, fortitude of mind, and a uniform steadiness to the American cause. Let these characteristicks, my dear friends, and these only, be the mental qualifications of such men as shall be the objects of your choice, this being the greatest purpose that ever men were yet chosen for in any country. If we conduct ourselves well on the 17th instant, by choosing such characters only, all-gracious Heaven will smile on the solemn transaction, approve of our choice, and ratify above, what we shall then do for the benefit of mankind.

COLUMBUS.

New-York, June 12, 1776.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE CAMP AT THE MOUTH OF THE SOREL, DATED JUNE 12, 1776.

Before the arrival of Colonels Wayne and Irvine's Regiments, under the command of General Sullivan, Colonel St. Clair, with a detachment of seven hundred men, was sent down the river St. Lawrence about nine leagues, to watch the motion of the enemy, and to act occasionally. General Sullivan's arrival here was at a critical time: Canada was lost, without some notable exertion; the credit of our arms gone; and no number of American troops to sustain our posts. It was said that the taking Trois Rivières, with such troops as were in it, would be of service. A detachment, under General Thompson, was sent down the river, the corps under Colonel St. Clair was to join them, and if the General thought it expedient, he was ordered by General Sullivan to attack the enemy at Trois Rivières. We left this on the evening of the 6th instant, in several batteaus, and joined Colonel St. Clair about twelve o'clock at night, which being too late to proceed on to Trois Rivières, the enterprise was postponed till the next night. In the dusk of the evening of the 7th, we set off from the river Nicolette, with about fifteen hundred men and file, besides officers. It was intended we should make an attack at Trois Rivières about daybreak; the Army was divided into five divisions—Colonel Maxwell, Colonel St. Clair, Colonel Wayne, and Colonel Irvine, each commanded a division, and Lieutenant-Colonel Hartley commanded the reserve; the town was to have been attacked in four several places, and he was ready to sustain the party which might stand in need of assistance. We landed about nine miles above the town from our boats, left two hundred and fifty men to guard them, and proceeded on with the utmost expedition to the place. We had bad guides, and were misinformed as to the number of the enemy as well as the situation of the town. Our men had lost their sleep for two nights, yet were in pretty good spirits. Daylight appeared, and showed us to the enemy. Our guides (perhaps traitors) had led us through several windings, and were rather carrying us off from the post; the General was enraged at this conduct.

The enemy discovered our approach, and fired from the ships upon us, which our people returned, and killed several that were in a barge. Our scheme was no longer to be accounted an enterprise; it might have been, perhaps, prudent to have retreated—but no one would propose it. We endeavoured to penetrate through a swamp to the town, and avoid the shipping, but had no idea of the difficulties we were to surmount in the mire, otherwise the way by the shipping would have been preferred. We waded three hours through the mud, about mid deep in general, the men fasting, and in the distress above-mentioned; we every moment expected to get through and find some good ground to form on, but were deceived. The second division, under Colonel Wayne, saw a part of the enemy, and attacked them; Captain Hay, of our regiment, with his company of Riflemen, assisted, and behaved nobly. Colonel Wayne advanced; the enemy's Light Infantry were driven from their ground, and the Indians on the flanks were silenced. The great body of the enemy, which we knew nothing of, consisting of two or three thousand men, covered with intrenchments, and assisted with the cannon of the shipping and several field-pieces, began a furious fire, and continued it upon our troops in the front; it was so heavy that the division gave way, and from the badness of the ground could not suddenly form again. Colonel St. Clair's division advanced, but the fire was too heavy. Part of Colonel Irvine's division (especially the Riflemen) went up towards the enemy. Lieutenant-Colonel Hartley, understanding the Army was in confusion, led up the reserve within a short distance of the enemy; Captains McClean and Grier's companies advanced with spirit; McClean's men took the best situation, and within eighty yards of the enemy, exposed to the fire of the shipping. Not a man of Captain McClean's behaved ill; Grier's company behaved well; several of the enemy were killed in the attack of the reserve. Under all these disadvantages, our men would fight, but we had no ground for it. We had no covering, no artillery, and no prospect of succeeding, as the number of the enemy was so much superior to ours. Colonels Wayne and Allen rallied part of our men, and kept up a fire against the English from the swamp; the enemy, in the mean time, detached a strong body of men to cut off our retreat to the boats, which was observed, and as the enterprise had failed, it was thought expedient, by several of the officers, to retreat. Our General and Colonel Irvine were not to be found—they had both gone up in a very hot fire. This gave great uneasiness, but a retreat was necessary. It was impossible to do it regularly, as we could not regain the road, the shipping and artillery of the enemy being in the way; small parties went off through the swamp. Colonels Wayne and Allen collected some hundreds. I got as many in my division as I could, with several others, amounting to upwards of two hundred. Colonel Wayne with his party, and we with ours, endeavoured, by several ways, to return to our boats. Colonel Wayne, not far from the river, was obliged to march near a body of seven hundred men of the enemy. He intended to have attacked them regularly, but his people were so much fatigued that it was deemed unsafe. The enemy fired their small-arms and artillery on our men as loud as thunder. They returned a retreating fire, when several of the enemy were killed, and a number of ours. Our party advanced within a mile of the place where our boats were, but our guard had carried them off. The English had possessed the ground near the landing, so that we could not get there, but we saw part of them. The enemy had so many men that they sent parties to fortify all the ferries we were to pass, and the shipping proceeded up the river to cover them. Colonel Wayne, with his party, lay near the enemy. We passed through a prodigious swamp, and at night took possession of a hill near the enemy. Our men, without provision, without sleep, and after all this fatigue, required some rest. The mantle of Heaven was our only covering; no fire, and bad water our only food. We mounted a small quarter-guard, fixed our alarm post, and made every man lay down on the ground, on which he was to rise for action in case of an attack. I slept a little by resting my head on a cold bough of spruce. Morning appeared; what was to be done? We consulted our officers and men: they said they were refreshed with sleep; it was agreed to stand together, and that they would support and effect a passage through the enemy, or die in the attempt. A little spring-water refreshed us more; the necessary dispositions were made, but we had no guides. We heard the enemy was within half a mile of us, but no one seemed alarmed at it; so we proceeded, and luckily fell in with Colonel Wayne's track. We pursued and overtook him near the river Du Lac. This made us upwards of seven hundred strong. We had confidence, and agreed to attack them if they fell in our way to Bokie, opposite to this place. The ships had moved up the river. We were sure that this fort would be attempted before we could arrive. As we came up, the English left the ferries, and drew all their forces back to the Trois Rivières, by forced marches; and, surmounting every difficulty, we arrived here on Monday afternoon, and brought near twelve hundred men with us of our party; many are yet missing—one hundred and fifty or two hundred. Some scattered ones are continually coming in, so that our loss will not be so great as was at first imagined.

Colonel Wayne behaved exceedingly well, and showed himself the man of courage and the soldier. Colonel Allen exerted himself several times, and is a fine fellow. Colonel Maxwell was often in the midst of danger, but his own division was not present to support him. He was also very useful in the retreat, after he joined Colonel Wayne, of the York County troops. Lieutenant Edie, I fear, is killed; he was a fine young fellow, and behaved bravely; he approached the enemy's works without dismay several times, and remained in the swamp to the last; he was in the second engagement, where it is supposed he was killed. Ensign Hops, of the same company, was wounded near the breastwork, when the reserve was led up. I cannot give too much commendation of him; he showed the greatest courage after he had received several wounds in the arm. He stood his ground, and animated his men. He nobly made good his retreat with us through a swamp of near eighteen miles long. The ball has hurt the bone, but I hope it will do well. Several of our men were killed—I imagine between thirty and fifty; the rest missing, have been taken by the enemy, quite worn out with fatigue and hunger.

The English had never the courage to turn out to fight, or pursue us out of the reach of their shipping or artillery. They had many more men killed than we. General Burgoyne was there, and commanded. It is certain that almost all the English in Canada were there, which must have been many.

We received intelligence that between fifty and seventy sail of vessels had arrived within this month.

The English hallooed during the action, to encourage their men, that they had three to one; I believe really they had, and more, but we have been moderate in our computation. Upon the whole, we were repulsed, and not beaten. Their cowardice, or some other cause, prevented them from injuring us more.

They have now a superior army in Canada. We expect them hourly, and as they have possession of the river St. Lawrence, and almost all the other side of the river, our situation is rather critical; but we are determined to fight inch by inch, and embrace every favourable opportunity to annoy the enemy.

June 13.—Last night a sort of a flag of truce came from the enemy. General Thompson, Colonel Irvine, Doctor McKenzie, and Lieutenants Edie and Currie, and Parson McCauley, are prisoners. They were taken up by some of the rascally Canadians in the most treacherous manner. The prisoners are treated well by General Burgoyne. We hope for an exchange soon.

We have erected some pretty good works here. We hear the enemy now firing; this will be a hot week. The English have a much greater force in Canada than we expected so soon. We wish to hear good news from our own country, as that from here will be very tragical. I apprehend we must have more troops.

THEODORE STANTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-London, June 12, 1776.

SIR: I am of opinion that Mr. Amos Stanton may do as well for a Lieutenant of Marines as any person who can be had, he being expert and active with a firelock, and likewise a prime sailor; and as he is at present on board, and appears to give good satisfaction on all hands, I would beg leave to nominate him for that service on board the Shark galley; and would also nominate Mr. William Wilbur for the berth of a Master, as he hath been on board, and had the principal care of the rigging, &c., for some time past, and has behaved so as to receive the applause of people in general at Norwich, &c.

I have at this time about thirty-five men enlisted, including officers, the greater part of whom are on board. Am now loaded with Captain Bird's rigging, and shall proceed to Saybrook as soon as possible.

I am of opinion we shall be full manned in one week after we return from Saybrook. Beg your Honour's directions with respect to our stores, &c., whether I must procure them myself, or apply to some other person for them.

I am, with the greatest respect, your Honour's most obedient humble servant,

THEODORE STANTON.

To Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

COMMITTEE OF NEW-MILFORD, CONNECTICUT.

New-Milford Committee of Inspection, June 12, 1776.

Whereas Captain John Clark, of Oxford, in Haverhill County, and Province of New-Hampshire, and Lieutenant Alexander Brink, of Hartford, in Cumberland County, and Province of New-York, have this day, by means of the patriotick vigilance of Mr. William Clarke, of this town, silversmith, been found guilty, before said Committee, of the most perfidious and dangerously inimical conduct towards the United Colonies, in making their frequent and importunate applications to the said William to cut and engrave for them a plate, for the express purpose of counterfeiting the Paper currency of the Massachusetts-Bay, offering therefor to give and pay the said William, when said plate should be completed, the sum of five hundred pounds, lawful money, and intimating to him that they had several other associates confederated with them in said counterfeiting scheme, and declaring their fixed resolution to procure a plate for the aforesaid purpose, and their intention to pursue said scheme:

They, the said Captain John Clark and Lieutenant Alexander Brink, are hereby held up to publick view as enemies to their country, to the end that such implacable foes to the lights of humanity in general, and to the liberties and privileges of the United Colonies, may be universally condemned, vigilantly inspected in all their conduct, and treated with that just but insupportable neglect and contempt which is their righteous desert at the hand of their injured country.

By order of the Committee:

DANIEL EVERET, Com. Clerk.

N. B. The above advertised persons were personally had, and duly examined, before the Committee, and the testimony against them taken in their presence, and upon oath.

JAMES WARREN TO ELBRIDGE GERRY.

Watertown, June 12, 1776.

MY DEAR SIR: I received your obliging and friendly letter of the 28th May, and the papers enclosed, and should have acknowledged it before this, if it had been in my power. I have endeavoured to use to the best purposes the intelligence you gave me, and to animate your native country to follow the laudable example of the South. Their spirit is in your taste, and I can, in imagination, see you enjoy it. You have, no doubt, seen in the papers a short resolve, passed at the close of the last session, for the purpose of getting the sense of the whole country, by the instructions given to their members, on the subject of independence. The members have severally been called on by the House, and more than one-half of them are instructed fully in favour of it, and not one against it. Many more are expecting similar instructions to follow them, and near or perhaps all would have had them, if the resolve had reached them in season; thus, it appears to me, the sentiments of our Colony are more united on this great question than they ever were on any other; perhaps ninety-nine in a hundred would engage, with their lives and fortunes, to support Congress in the measure. You seem to intend to avoid too great a shock; there is little left to do but the form and ceremony, but even that is important. Your resolves for trade and captures, and your late resolve for assuming Government, the preamble of which is extremely grand, make the substance of the thing.

I am glad to find you so determined in the defence of the continent, and making such preparations for it. I expect a warm summer in many parts of it, and to have our share here. I wish we were in a better preparation for it. We want powder, we want arms, and we have great difficulties in raising men. A regiment, ordered more than two months ago to be raised under Colonel Whitney, yet wants more than a hundred more. Another, under Marshall, and one to consist of seven companies of the train, under Crafts, make but slow progress. Marshall has not near half filled his regiment, though the inlisting orders were given out six weeks ago. We have now passed in the House a resolve for encouraging the raising the two Continental Battalions here, by a bounty of twenty dollars for those who shall enlist for two, and ten for those who shall enlist for one year. Great doubts and hesitations we have had about this step, and finally took it, because we could not see any difference in the consequences, whether the bounty was given to Colonial or Continental Regiments, and the men will not come without; and they must come, or we must be lost. How to steer between Scylla and Charybdis has been our difficulty. The resentment of Congress on one hand, and destruction from our enemies on the other, have been weighed in the balance; we have risked the first to avoid the last.

When do you send a General here to succeed Ward? He is impatient, and so is the country. When do you send somebody here with money to pay your troops? I have ventured, at the earnest solicitations of General Ward, and on the advice of many gentlemen, to proceed in paying the Army as far as the money in my hands would go; and so have really acted as Paymaster to this time, as you had made no disposition of the money, and no provision for the payment of it here. The money is now gone, and the soldiers are mutinying for pay, and every department stagnated. You cannot conceive how your affairs here are injured by these means.

The prize you mention is, indeed, a great affair; the several prizes since are very important, but the loss of the Yankee-Hero is a damper. What must be done with the West-India prizes? They must be made legal; British property must not escape under the cover of West-India property, which, if real, will be converted into British as soon as it arrives. I fear the manning of your fleet will go heavily. Why may not the sailors we have taken be obliged to do duty there, as they make ours do on board theirs?

Will it be saucy to inquire, why you passed such a resolve relative to Church, or if some of your late appointments (I do not mean of Major or Brigadier-Generals) are judicious? I never expected the people would reward, or be grateful to their benefactors the patriots, but I always supposed, if there must be lucrative or honorary places, that Congress would confer them on the most distinguished and deserving. When I see you I will explain, if explanation is wanted.

I think the French will soon interrupt the system of Britain; everything appears to me like it, and the intelligence you give confirms it. We have very little news since the last post. A number of transports with troops are arrived below, supposed to be Highlanders; the Court seem to bend all their attention to defence; we have, this session, no fee-bills, confession, or inconceivable bills.

Did you receive a letter I wrote you from Plymouth? I fear some of my letters to you and Mr. Adams miscarry. We have had rumours for some time of battles in Canada, in which we have been alternately conquerors and conquered. We have had our fears from these rumours. We have this minute intelligence from Canada, by which we believe that our arms there have finally been successful, and gained a considerable advantage; but I must conclude this long scroll; and am sincerely yours, &c.

JAMES WARREN.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

FRIENDS AND COUNTRYMEN: The subject of the first letter was the defence of the Colony, as what called for an immediate attention; of this second, the settling of the Constitution, as next in consideration, and what should go hand in hand with the former. We are but dupes to the weakness and wickedness of human nature, if, while we fight and defend ourselves against a foreign slavery, we suffer a domestic one to spring up in our own country, though it may not be matured till succeeding generations. It will be a poor consolation to posterity that we prevented their being under the tyranny of Great Britain, unless we secure them, as far as it is in the power of mortals, from every other tyranny. Our efforts should be levelled against tyranny itself, though directed in the first place against British tyranny. Never had a people a fairer opportunity of establishing freedom upon the broadest and firmest bottom. Do we not lose the golden opportunity by neglecting to defend the Colony, or to improve the principles of our avowed Constitution, or to support Government established agreeable to such principles? Our avowed Constitution is, that all power rests in the people at large, but that, for the benefit of society, the same must be delegated to a select number of individuals, freely and fairly chosen by the majority of the whole, to whom they are answerable for the due discharge of the trusts committed to them, and by whom they must be supported in such discharge, to prevent the anarchy that would otherwise ensue. The foundation principle on which this Constitution rests, is that grand bulwark of liberty, an equal representation. But though an equal representation has been much talked of by the friends of liberty, it has only existed in theory. This Colony has been as fairly represented as, if not more than, any other part of the world; but it did not enjoy the chance of an equal representation till the late Assembly nobly provided for it, by the act allowing our towns to increase the number of their Representatives, according to a certain proportion of electors. The country should ever give the Assembly credit for that act, which, though not perfect, may lead on to one that is so. Be it far from an individual to dictate to the publick; but I would submit it to the serious consideration of all, whether the following plan, if adopted, would not bring us to and secure us in the enjoyment of an equal representation. Let the General Court consider and fix the number of Representatives proper to form a future House, provided only that it shall not be less than the last. Let the inhabitants of the Colony having a right to vote according to the present qualification, (including, as nearly as possible, the absentees with the Army or upon other business,) be divided by the number of Representatives, that it may be from thence seen what should be the number of electors for each Representative; but as many individuals having a right to vote in elections will always be absent, and there will be odd numbers in towns, let the number of electors be fixed proportionably lower, that so the House may be sufficiently large. Should it happen that two or more neighbouring towns or districts should not have singly a proper number of voters, let them join till they have sufficient, and while they continue in that state, let the Representative be chosen alternately out of the several towns or districts, according to a rotation that shall be agreed upon; if each town or district supplies an equal number of electors, or first from the town or district having the greatest number, then from that having the next greater, and so on. Where a town or district has not the requisite number of Representatives, nor butts upon one or more in the like circumstances, by joining with which it shall obtain a representation, let it have the right of voting with an adjoining town, and of having the Representative chosen out of it, once in a course of years, answering to the proportion of its voters. Let it be further settled that every full number of voters shall have a right of sending a Representative, by which means the House of Assembly will increase in proportion with the increase of inhabitants. An equal representation, as far as attainable, being in this way secured through the Colony, let the Representatives be no longer paid by their respective towns, but by the Colony, which will obviate the objections made by towns at times against sending Representatives from incapacity, through extraordinary expenses, and the like. That the Colony may have the publick business despatched, let the members be paid at a certain rate per annum, giving them the present allowance for a reasonable number of days; this regulation will prevent our having long sessions and little done. Many, when they find that they shall lose by protracting, will forward the service of the publick. And that members may not be paid without attending, let there be a deduction of more than the present allowance per day for every day they are absent without the leave of the House or through sickness; this will oblige men to decline the honour when they mean not, or are too much engaged, to do the business of Representatives. That I may not be tedious, I shall break off for the present; still continuing yours,

A WATCHMAN.

June 12, 1776.

To the Honourable the Delegates of the Province of MARYLAND, now met in Convention:

The Petition of TURBUTT BETTON, Jr., of QUEEN ANNE'S County, sheweth:

That since the inhabitants of this Province have been reduced to the disagreeable necessity of taking arms in defence of their injured liberty, your Petitioner hath relied on the resolutions of the Convention of this Province, from time to time made, as the means, in a great degree, whereby redress of grievances may be obtained, and anarchy and confusion happily avoided. Under these impressions, your Petitioner, heretofore enrolled as a private in Captain Thomas Wright's company of Militia, in Queen Anne's County, cheerfully submitted to do duty in that station, being firmly resolved to support the authority of the Convention to the utmost of his power. That the said Thomas Wright hath been appointed Colonel of the battalion to which the said company belongs, since which the honourable the Council of Safety of this Province have appointed James Bordley Captain, John Kent First Lieutenant, James Earle Second Lieutenant, and Nathan Brown Ensign, of the said company; but a majority of the same company, regardless of the resolutions and appointments of the Convention and Council of Safety, have refused to acknowledge the Field Officers of the said battalion appointed by the Convention, or to act under them, and have nominated, acted under, and appointed other Field Officers in their stead; and have also refused to acknowledge and act under the said Second Lieutenant and Ensign appointed by the Council of Safety, but have also nominated and acted under others, appointed by themselves.

Your Petitioner further sheweth, that he is still desirous of conforming to the resolutions and orders of the Convention and Council of Safety, and is ready to join in defence and support of their authority at the utmost hazard; but your Petitioner hath refused to muster, either in battalion or the company aforesaid, under other officers than those appointed by the Convention and Council of Safety, conceiving that it is his duty to discountenance, as much as he can, any authority set up in opposition to and in defiance of their power. That the said Captain and First Lieutenant, notwithstanding they have received their own commissions from the Council of Safety, yet openly and avowedly countenance the irregular proceedings aforesaid, by refusing to acknowledge the officers appointed by the Convention and the Council of Safety, and acknowledging and acting with those appointed by the people, in opposition to their authority; yet, under colour of another resolution of the Convention, have proceeded to fine your Petitioner the sum of fifteen shillings for refusing to muster under other officers than those appointed aforesaid by the Council of Safety. That your Petitioner, conceiving the said fine to have been irregularly and unjustifiably imposed on him, refused to pay the same; whereupon the said Captain Bordley applied to the Committee of Observation in this County, who have granted him a warrant, (a copy whereof is hereunto annexed,) empowering him to distrain and sell your Petitioner's effects for the payment thereof; which said warrant is now in the hands of one of the Sergeants of the said company to be executed; and your Petitioner is apprehensive his effects will be taken and sold by virtue thereof, immediately on the recess of this Convention; and therefore humbly hopes your Honours will take the premises aforesaid into consideration, and take such order therein for your Petitioner's relief as in your wisdom shall seem meet, and so forth.

TURBUTT BETTON.

In Committee of Observation, June 13, 1776.

Captain James Bordley having certified that Turbutt Betton, Jun., had been fined the sum of fifteen shillings, for his non-appearance at the muster-field on four several days, and had refused to pay his fines, at three shillings and nine pence each day: These are to authorize and empower you to levy the sum of fifteen shillings, current money, by distress and sale of the said Turbutt Betton, Junior's goods and effects, in the same manner that goods may be distrained and sold by law for County levies; and the same, when distressed as aforesaid, to pay into the hands of Mr. Joseph Potter; fail not, this being your sufficient power.

By order of Committee:

SOLOMON WRIGHT, Chairman.

To Mr. Philemon Young.

THOMAS MCKEAN TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 13, 1776.]

Newcastle, June 13, 1776—half past 2 o'clock A. M.

SIR: The Assembly here have information this moment, by express, that there are a thousand Tories under arms in Sussex County, in this Government; that they assembled near Cedar Creek, about eighteen miles on this side Lewes, and that their intention was to proceed there and join the British forces from on board some men-of-war, now in the Horekill Road, who were to land this night in order to cut off three companies of the Continental troops at that place; and that it is apprehended that they have been supplied with arms and ammunition by the men-of-war, and perhaps may intrench. The Militia from Kent marched yesterday, at least half a dozen companies, and the rest were to follow as soon as they could be ready. The detachment of Colonel Haslett's Battalion, at Wilmington, are ordered down; the like orders will be given to the Militia of this County. I should be glad if a ton of powder and some lead could be sent down by land immediately, as it is uncertain to what a height this mad affair may be carried. The Militia and Regulars are very ill provided with arms, but we expect soon to give a good account of these misguided people.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

THOMAS MCKEAN.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

THOMAS MCKEAN TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Newcastle, June 13, 1776—7 o'clock P. M.

SIR: I have the pleasure to inform you that the insurgents in Sussex County have dispersed, after a conference had by some of their leaders with some of the Council of Safety of this Government. They deny all intercourse with the men-of-war, or disaffection to the American cause; but the real cause of their assembling in such large numbers and in so hostile a manner is as yet unknown to the Assembly, although they have had an express mentioning what is above. The true Whigs of Sussex, and about a thousand of the Militia of Kent, together with two companies of the Militia of Newcastle County, had marched with great expedition; also the detachment of the Delaware Battalion at Wilmington reached this town in their way down; they are all returned to their respective quarters, and this strange affair is submitted to the civil jurisdiction. The House had appointed a Committee to proceed to Lewes, and to endeavour to quiet the imprudent people, by reason, if practicable, and if not in that way, then by force of arms.

It is conceived proper to communicate the above to you as speedily as possible, though I am sorry I can tell you no more particulars. I write in haste; and am, with great regard, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

THOMAS MCKEAN.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GEORGE EVANS TO MICHAEL HILLEGAS.

Brandywine, June 13, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I am under the necessity of applying to you to assist me in getting some cash to supply the troops with provisions. I would have attended myself, but the situation of our Government prevents me. I this morning received orders from Colonel Haslett to provide wagons to follow the battalion to Sussex with provisions, wherein he informed me that one thousand men have risen, and are determined to join the Ministerial forces. The cash I received from you is all exhausted, and I am under the necessity of sending in this manner the bearer, Mr. William Tussey, who will give you a receipt in my behalf. I am putting too much trouble on you, sir; but the necessity of the times obliges me (our Delegates being all absent) to apply to you, being the only gentleman I have any acquaintance with, or can make free with to request so great a favour of. As soon as the battalion is fixed in a situation that I can leave them a few days, I will come to town and call on you.

I remain your humble servant, &c.,

GEORGE EVANS.

To Michael Hillegas, Esq., Philadelphia.

P. S. I did not mention any sum to draw for in the above. If I can get one thousand or fifteen hundred dollars at this time, it will do until I can call on you.

G. E.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO AGENTS FOR PRIZES AT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, June 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by Congress to inform you that the offer which the owners made of the hard money taken on board their prizes is accepted, and that you will please to apply to the men for the moiety belonging to them. The publick service calls for the money as soon as it can possibly be had. Should the men consent to let Congress have their share, I will immediately give drafts on the Treasury for the amount. It is the request of Colonel Roberdeau that the money remain at Captain Craig's until further orders.

I beg leave to thank you, and the rest of the owners, for the example of publick spirit which you have, in the most unsolicited manner, shown upon this occasion.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Messrs. Moore and Craig, Agents, &c.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO EBENEZER HANCOCK.

Philadelphia, June 13, 1776.

DEAR BROTHER: I have the pleasure to acquaint you that the Congress have been pleased to appoint you Deputy Paymaster-General to the Continental troops in the Eastern Department, with a salary of fifty dollars a month, which I hope will prove agreeable to you; and I most earnestly recommend to you a very close and strict attention to the business of your office. The department to which your office extends takes in the Colony of Massachusetts, New-Hampshire, and Rhode-Island. The Continental troops in all those places fall under your care. I enclose you several resolves of Congress respecting your office, which I must direct that you closely adhere to, and you are to obey all orders from General Washington, or the Commander-in-Chief for the time being in the Eastern Department. You will apply to the commanding officer at Boston for a centinel to be placed at the door of your office by night and day.

Be careful to make your monthly returns regularly to me. By next post I shall transmit you the pay list. Enclosed you have your commission. I wish you happy; and am your humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Ebenezer Hancock, Esq., Deputy Paymaster-General.

RICHARD HENRY LEE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, June 13, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I am informed that a certain Mr. Eustace, now in New-York, but some time ago with Lord Dunmore, is acquainted with a practice that prevailed of taking letters out of the Post Office in Virginia and carrying them to Dunmore for his perusal, and then returning them to the office again. As it is of the greatest consequence that this nefarious practice be stopped immediately, I shall be exceedingly obliged to you, sir, for getting Mr. Eustace to give in writing all that he knows about this business, and enclose the same to me at Williamsburgh. I wish to know particularly what Post Offices the letters were taken from, by whom, and who carried them to Lord Dunmore. This day I set off for Virginia, where if I can be of any service to you, it will oblige to command me. It is more than probable that Congress will order our friend Gates to Canada. His great abilities and virtue will be absolutely necessary to restore things there; and his recommendations will always be readily complied with. You will find that great powers are given to the commander in that distant department. The system for Canada, adopted since the arrival of the Commissioners here, will, I hope, be of essential service to our affairs. All good men pray most heartily for your health, happiness, and success; and none more than, dear sir, your affectionate friend and obedient servant,

RICHARD HENRY LEE.

To General Washington.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Should any one attentively read the annals of the last, and compare it to the present reign, what a striking contrast would appear! Of the former, he might very sincerely have cried out, in the sublime language of the Jews, O King, live forever! And of the latter, with equal truth, How are the mighty fallen! Had the present full-blooded Nero, and his all sufficient Ministry and Parliament, instead of shedding the blood of our brethren, been really desirous of reconciliation and peace, on constitutional principles, (i. e. Charter principles,) such a peace as would not have derogated from the so-much-talked-of and boasted honour and omnipotence of almighty Britain, (for with such sacred things our unhallowed hands should not meddle—'tis not titles we quarrel about, not shadows, but substances,) and such a peace as would not have cast an odium on the spirit, dignity, and rising glories of America, and the righteous cause of liberty by our assenting to it; and had they taken proper notice of the petitions of the Congress, when they humbly besought their (what shall I call them?) graciousnesses to grant them but liberty, peace, and safety, they would long ere this have given us due notice of such a desire, accompanied with such preliminaries as would put their sincerity beyond a doubt; which preliminaries would have been a previous recall of all their troops and ships of war, for nothing less, some people think, would have done; and this even the illustrious Cato must have thought quite reasonable. Peace, then, might have been established, and America might then, perhaps, have joined in one grand Continental chorus, O King, live forever! But, alas, blood is now shed! and that blood which was shed through wantonness, and without provocation, cries aloud for vengeance. If I forget thee, O Lerington, let my right hand forget her cunning; yea, let my right finger forget to pull the trigger!

The door is now shut; and while they continue invading, murdering, plundering, wasting, and daily destroying our property, who can say, with sincerity of heart and a clear conscience, O King, live forever! Who but Cato and his clan can think of peace? Who but they can be such enemies to their country as to wish a temporary, sham, patched up, inglorious peace? And who but they can be so sanguine as to suppose a sincere reconciliation can possibly take place under such circumstances? Cato and his junto have doubtless their reasons for wishing it, as they are under the direction of avarice and not of common sense.

Be not deceived, my countrymen, peace is not so near at hand—I mean a lasting, an honourable, and a secure peace; nay, even were you to make a voluntary surrender of all your liberties, claims, and property, peace would be still the farther from you. Then would soldiers innumerable swarm around you, and possess your cities; then farewell liberty; you then commence slaves indeed; you will scarcely then dare, even at noon-day, to walk the streets—remember Boston. Insults upon insults will be heaped on your heads; your spirits will be broken, and the more you complain the more you will be dragooned; all power on your side will insensibly vanish, and you will become by degrees insensible slaves, and have none to pity or help you. You have yet the staff of Union in your hands; let it support you. I tell you, and I tell you as a sincere friend to America, there is no peace for Israel; there is no peace for Salem's courts, unless ye procure it for yourselves. America must work out her own salvation. Pride, on the part of our enemies, is too predominant; it bars the door of peace, it mocks the strength of Britain, and Britain trembles for the consequences; yet that cursed pride, that national self-conceited, vain-glorious importance, will not suffer her to give over her vile pursuits, but, like Satan, still pursue their accursed plan, till in the end they fall, and justly merit their own destruction. The feather falls from off the fool's head, and fixes itself on the cap of Liberty.

“——she swells with angry pride,
And calls for help from every side.”

She finds her own strength insufficient to balance her injustice, and therefore amuses us with the sound of Commissioners or Plenipotentiaries, and cries Peace, peace, when there is no peace; while she underhandedly negotiates with foreign Powers—Hessians, Brunswickers, our dear cousins the Hanoverians, perhaps Russians, and, if these should fail, perhaps Turks next—to cram such a peace down our throats as Cato and his truckling brethren would gladly swallow.

Britain's wings are clipped. We have nothing to fear from her strength alone, equal to the fear and disgrace of disobliging, and danger of losing our friends in Britain and Ireland, by a pusillanimous behaviour, and a Catonian surrender of our liberties; this we should be particularly cautious of, as we thereby involve their fate with ours; they are struggling for us, and it would be ingratitude in the highest degree to desert them, by assenting to a dastardly, a rascally compromise.

We have most to fear from Catos and Commissioners, from High Priests and Judases, from their juggling and deception; and, therefore, as the son of Sirach says, “Separate thyself from thine enemies, and take heed of thy friends.”

But should their so-much-talked-of holinesses, (as they are to grant pardons and dispense the holy oil of Britain,) with their retinue of twelve thousand Hessians, &c., arrive, don't let us be intimidated by the pompous parade, or complimented out of our liberties. Let us hear what they may have to say to keep us out of Purgatory; don't let us be deficient in point of good manners or hospitality, though it should appear, as there can be no doubt they are, pretended peacemakers, and not such as St. Matthew speaks of. Yet let us give them no cause to complain, unless it be on account of a disagreement in catholic or political opinions. Convince them (if they know it not already) that we are as able to treat as to fight; as good at the Council Board as in the field; and, in case we cannot agree, let us dismiss them gently, but not as Hanun, the son of Nahash, did to David's messengers, “shave their beards and cut their garments down to their buttocks,” lest they be ashamed, and tarry at Halifax until their beards are grown.

A WATCHMAN.

Philadelphia, June 13, 1776.

COMMITTEE OF NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

Northampton County, Easton, June 13, 1776.

Whereas I the subscriber have most imprudently and indiscreetly reported and spread abroad throughout the said County, that a certain Major Michael Pobst, of the Second Battalion of Associators in this County, formerly a Captain in Weisenburgh Township, had unjustly received and taken at Philadelphia twenty shillings per head for every subscriber to the printed book of Association in the Township aforesaid, by which means many well-wishers to the American cause were deterred from signing or associating together agreeable to the resolves of the honourable House of Assembly; and being now sensible of my folly and guilt, do hereby ask pardon of my offended fellow-citizens, promising in future to conduct myself so as to regain their good will and approbation.

MICHAEL OHL.

In Committee, Easton, June 15, 1776.

We, the subscribers, inhabitants of Maccongie Township, in the County of Northampton, do voluntarily acknowledge that we were duly waited upon in an orderly, decent, and discreet manner, by the persons appointed in the said Township, to receive and take the arms from the Non-Associators and other disaffected persons, agreeable to the resolves of the honourable House of Assembly; and that we did most imprudently refuse to deliver up the same, and also did refuse to pay any obedience to the summons of the Committee of this County, who were therefore obliged to send a party of Associators to compel us to answer for our misconduct; and that we did then resist their authority by loaded fire-arms to the endangering of their lives. Being now convinced and made sensible of our error, we do humbly ask pardon of our injured and incensed countrymen, promising to deliver up our fire-arms immediately to the persons appointed for that purpose; and that we will in future demean and conduct ourselves in such a manner as to recommend us to the friends of American liberty.

JOHN ROMICK,
JOSEPH ROMICK.

Resolved, That the above Recantations be published in the English and German newspapers.

An extract from the Minutes of the Committee:

ROBERT TRAILL, Clerk.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 14, 1776.]

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 13, 1776.

SIR: I have the honour of transmitting to Congress a letter which came by express last night from General Schuyler, enclosing the copy of a letter to him from Colonel Kirkland. I have likewise enclosed the copy of one directed to General Putnam, or the commanding officer at New-York. The representations contained in these letters have induced me, without waiting the determination of Congress, to direct General Schuyler immediately to commence a treaty with the Six Nations, and to engage them in our interest, upon the best terms he and his colleagues in commission can procure; and I trust the urgency of the occasion will justify my proceeding to the Congress. The necessity for decision and despatch in all our measures, in my opinion, becomes every day more and more apparent.

The express, Mr. Bennett, was overtaken at Albany by General Schuyler, who had received intelligence at Fort George that a considerable body of Mohawk Indians were coming down the Mohawk River, under the conduct of Sir John Johnson. The General's extreme hurry would not allow him to write; but it seems his intention is to collect at Albany a sufficient force to oppose Sir John Johnson. I have given him my opinion that Colonel Dayton's Regiment should be employed in that service, and to secure the post where Fort Stanwix formerly stood.

In consequence of an information that several merchants were exporting salted pork and beef from this place, I requested the Commissary to make application to the Provincial Congress for a restraining resolution to be laid on the exportation of those articles, as I apprehended not only that the enemy might receive supplies by the capture of our vessels, but that our people might shortly experience a scarcity. The Provincial Congress have accordingly made a resolution (a copy of which is enclosed) to stop the exportation for fourteen days. They expect Congress will, in the mean time, frame some general regulations on this head. They are unwilling, they say, to subject their constituents to partial restraint.

I once mentioned to Congress that I thought a War Office extremely necessary, and they seemed inclined to institute one for our Army; but the affair seems to have since been dropped. Give me leave again to insist on the utility and importance of such an establishment. The more I reflect upon the subject, the more I am convinced of its necessity, and that affairs can never be properly conducted without it.

It is with pleasure I receive the resolve enclosed in your favour of the 11th instant. One considerable ground of dissatisfaction in the Army is thereby removed.

I have employed persons in building the gondolas and rafts, which the Congress thought necessary for the defence of this place; and in conjunction with the Provincial Congress have determined to sink chevaux-de-frise, one of which is already begun.

I am, with the utmost respect and esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, &c.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

New-York, June 13, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I last night received by Mr. Bennett your favour of the 8th instant, addressed to General Putnam, or the officer commanding here, covering one for Congress, with a copy of Colonel Kirkland's to you; both of which I shall immediately forward to Philadelphia.

In consequence of your former letters the Commissary has been directed to continue supplies of provisions. I shall repeat the direction, and doubt not of his exertions in this instance. If its arrival at Albany ceased for a time, it might be owing to the accounts received that a good deal (particularly flour) might be had in Canada. I will speak to him about the expenditure of pork here, and request that no more be used than he may find necessary, that there may be a larger quantity for the Canada Department. I will also speak to the Quartermaster-General to provide and forward all the clothing he can get as soon as possible. As to intrenching tools, they are extremely scarce, and what we have far too few for the works carrying on, and proper to be carried on, for the defence of this place. However, I will try to furnish you with a few more, and wish your endeavours to purchase what you can from the country people. Many of them, perhaps, will part with a spade or pick-axe, and some with both; and though many may not be collected in that way, what are will be of great service.

If the accounts of Colonel Bedel and Major Butterfield's conduct be true, they have certainly acted a part deserving of the most exemplary notice. I hope you will take proper measures, and have good Courts appointed to bring them, and every other officer that has been or shall be guilty of misconduct, to trial, that they may be punished according to their offences. Our misfortunes at the Cedars were occasioned, as it is said, entirely by their base and cowardly behaviour, and cannot be ascribed to any other cause.

In my letter of the 7th, which will have reached you ere this, I enclosed a resolve of Congress for engaging the Indians (not more than two thousand) in our service. This will indicate to you their opinion; and knowing their sentiments fully upon this head, I cannot but advise that you forthwith hold a conference with the Six Nations, and any others you, with your brother Commissioners, may think necessary, and form with them an alliance, on such terms and conditions as shall seem most likely to secure their interest and friendship, without waiting the further direction of Congress—the situation of our affairs will not suffer the delay—and I am persuaded your conduct, and the speech you intend to deliver their sachems, will meet their approbation and thanks. I think that part of it which mentions the time and place of our taking post, might be omitted; but this I leave to you. I shall inform Congress of what I have written you on this subject, and of the verbal intelligence you sent me by Bennett from Albany, where you overtook him, respecting the Indians coming down the Mohawk River under Sir John Johnson, and of your preparing to resist them. I sincerely wish you success, and that their first incursions and attempts against us may be attended with their entire defeat. It will be necessary to employ Colonel Dayton and his regiment on this service, and in securing a post where Fort Stanwix formerly stood, which I esteem of much importance; but I submit it to you, who are much better acquainted with that country than I am, whether, previous to that, it will not be necessary and essential that a post be established lower down—somewhere about the Falls below the German Flats—to secure our communication with that garrison. Should this not be done, will it not be in the power of the savages to come between that and our frontiers, and intercept all supplies of men and provisions going thither?

I observe you esteem the ground opposite to Ticonderoga to be more advantageous for a post against the enemy. Messrs. Chase and Carroll had told me the same. I should think, therefore, that the place most capable of defence, and having the greatest advantages, should be improved, and necessary works thrown up with the utmost despatch. But will not both be best? Cannot Ticonderoga be kept, and this improved and maintained at the same time? I must submit this to you, and refer you to my letter of the 9th, on the subject of fortifying all the posts, and about the Engineers. If you know of any persons who can be of service in that way, do employ them. I know of none myself, nor have I one that I can possibly spare.

I have been applied to by Colonel Nicolson, who says he was appointed by Congress to the command of a regiment to be raised out of two battalions of York troops that were in Canada last year, for instructions for that purpose. As this concerns the department more immediately under your direction, and with which you must be much better acquainted than I am, I did not think it right to give him any direction about it; but if the fact is so, I desire that you will give him such orders, that the views of Congress may be carried into execution, as you judge necessary. In like manner I have had several applications from officers coming from the Canada Department, for pay that became due them, which I did not conceive myself at liberty to comply with, being ignorant of their appointments or service; and as they will perhaps apply to you for certificates to lay before me, I wish you to be very explicit as to the time of their being in office, and from which their pay is due.

I am yours, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 13, 1776.

SIR: I am informed that a number of persons on Long-Island (by character not the most friendly to the cause of the United Colonies) have in their hands considerable quantities of pork and other provisions, which they refuse to part with for Continental Bills. They may have other reasons for their conduct still more detrimental, and therefore I must beg the interposition of your Congress in this matter, so as to prevent the evils which are much to be apprehended. The Commissary-General will purchase all the provisions at good prices, and give them Continental Bills in pay. Gold and silver he has none. The provisions are wanted for the Army, and those who are well-wishers to the cause, and live in exposed situations, will undoubtedly be glad to dispose of them. The disadvantages which may result to the publick by leaving them in the hands of those of a different complexion, are too obvious to need animadversion.

I have your report respecting the obstruction of the navigation of the Hudson River under consideration, and am pursuing measures to carry it into execution with all possible despatch. With great respect, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the President of the New-York Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

New-York, June 13, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Having received intelligence of the unfortunate death of General Thomas, occasioned by the small-pox he had taken, the command of the Army in Canada devolves on you. I am, therefore, to request your most strenuous exertions to retrieve our circumstances in that quarter from the melancholy situation they are now in, and for performing the arduous task of bringing order out of confusion. I confess there is more room for enterprise and activity than I could wish, but then you will remember that you and your colleagues will be entitled to the grateful thanks of your country in proportion to the services you render.

Being extremely hurried in sending despatches to Congress and General Schuyler, I have not time to write you so fully as I could wish, and therefore shall only add my request that you, from time to time, make me regular returns of the strength of the Army, military stores, and every material occurrence; and wishing you and your brothers, under the direction of a gracious Providence, to lead your arms to conquest and victory, I am, dear sir, yours, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Sullivan.

MEMORIAL OF MRS. LAMB, WIFE OF MAJOR LAMB, PRISONER IN QUEBECK.

To His Excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esq., General and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the United Colonies:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: The Memorial of Catharine, the wife of Captain, now Major John Lamb, Commander of the Continental Artillery in the Northern Department, most respectfully sheweth:

That her husband, urged by the insults and injuries offered his country, at an early period drew his sword in her cause, and in the gallant but unfortunate attack on the city of Quebeck, the brave little corps in which he had the honour to serve, in a noble conflict for publick liberty, were compelled, by superiority in number, to surrender their own.

Such was the tale of war, that then the husband, the father, a patriot soldier, was led a wounded captive into the regions of despotism, where he has been immured near half a year, waiting for that freedom which, it is fervently wished, the success of your arms may obtain, both for him and his country.

Your Memorialist, labouring under many difficulties which arise from her husband's situation, is under the necessity of applying to your Excellency for the monthly payment of seven pounds, New-York currency, which her husband, before his departure, had allowed her out of his pay, but which Colonel McDougall thinks himself no longer authorized to deliver to her.

Having likewise been informed that her said husband, though a prisoner, is entitled to receive a pecuniary equivalent for his rations, she entreats your Excellency to direct that she may receive that equivalent, as an addition to her support, which is now become very precarious, her husband being unable to remedy, in this respect, a deficiency of the power of attorney which he invested her with—a deficiency which brave men disdain to foresee.

CATHARINE LAMB.

New-York, June, 1776.

CAPTAIN SACKETT AND OTHERS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 13, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We, the officers of the Fourth Regiment, that served in Canada last winter, beg leave to address you, to know (as our Regiment is disbanded) if there is any further service for us, as our commissions are in force until revoked by Congress. We are still willing to serve, and must say we think the hardships we have undergone since we have been in Canada must have been a convincing proof that we are disposed to exert ourselves to the utmost in defence of our country.

We would beg the favour of your determination, that if there is no further service for us, we may retire to our respective homes.

We are, with due respect, sirs, your most obedient, humble servants,

SAMUEL SACKETT, Captain.

WM. MATTHEWSMAN, Lieutenant.

JAMES DOW, Lieutenant.

SAMUEL T. PELL, Lieutenant.

ISAAC VAN WART, Lieutenant.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

CAPTAIN SACKETT AND OTHERS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

New-York, June 13, 1776.

SIR: Permit us, the officers of the Fourth Regiment of the New-York troops that have served in Canada, to address you at this time. Our regiment is disbanded—our commissions are in force until revoked by Congress. We have applied to the Congress of this Province, and they refer us to your Excellency for orders in what manner to proceed. We are still willing to exert ourselves in the service of our country, and think the unparalleled hardships that we have undergone in Canada must be a convincing proof that we are disposed to exert ourselves to the utmost in the cause we are engaged in.

Your directions will be acknowledged by your Excellency's most obedient, humble servants,

SAMUEL SACKETT, Captain.

SAMUEL T. PELL, Lieut.

ISAAC VAN WART, Lieut.

WM. MATTHEWSMAN, Lieut.

JAMES DOW, Lieut.

To His Excellency George Washington, Esq., Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army.

THE INTEREST OF AMERICA.

The important day is come, or near at hand, that America is to assume a form of Government for herself. We should be very desirous to know what form is best; and that surely is best which is most natural, easy, cheap, and which best secures the rights of the people. We should always keep in mind that great truth, viz: that the good of the people is the ultimate end of civil Government. As we must (some Provinces at least) in a short time assume some new mode of Government, and the matter cannot be deferred so long as to canvass, deliberately weigh, and fully adjust everything that may hereafter appear necessary, we should leave room to alter for the better in time to come. Every Province should be viewed as having a right, either with or without an application to the Continental Congress, to alter their form of Government in some particulars; and that without being liable to raise a clamour, by some who would be glad to say that it was contrary to the Constitution that they first formed upon; that it was overturning the original plan, and leaving people at uncertainties as to the foundation they are upon, and the like. As the Government is for the people, the people, when properly represented, have a right to alter it for their advantage.

The affair now in view is the most important that ever was before America. In my opinion, it is the most important that has been transacted in any nation for some centuries past. If our civil Government is well constructed and well managed, America bids fair to be the most glorious State that has ever been on earth. We should now, at the beginning, lay the foundation right. Most, if not all, other Governments have had a corrupt mixture in their very Constitution; they have generally been formed in haste, or out of necessity, or tyrannically, or in a state of ignorance; and, being badly formed, the management of them has been with difficulty. But we have opportunity to form with some deliberation, with free choice, with good advantages for knowledge; we have opportunity to observe what has been right and what wrong in other States, and to profit by them. The plan of American Government should, as much as possible, be formed to suit all the variety of circumstances that people may be in—virtuous or vicious, agreeing or contending, moving regularly or convulsed by the intrigues of aspiring men; for we may expect a variety of circumstances in a course of time, and we should be prepared for every condition. We should assume that mode of Government which is most equitable and adapted to the good of mankind, and trust Providence for the event; for God, who determines the fate of Governments, is most like to prosper that which is most equitable; and I think there can be no doubt that a well-regulated Democracy is most equitable. An annual or frequent choice of magistrates, who, in a year, or after a few years, are again left upon a level with their neighbours, is most likely to prevent usurpation and tyranny, and most likely to secure the privileges of the people. If rulers know that they shall, in a short term of time, be again out of power, and, it may be, liable to be called to an account for misconduct, it will guard them against maladministration. A truly popular Government has, I believe, never yet been tried in the world. The most remarkable Government that has ever been, viz: the Roman Republic, was something near it, but not fully so; and the want of it being fully so, kept a continual contest between the Senate and Plebeians.

America must consist of a number of confederate Provinces, Cantons, Districts, or whatever they may be called. These must be united in a General Congress; but each Province must have a distinct Legislature, and have as much power within itself as possible. The General Congress should not interfere or meddle with Provincial affairs more than needs must. Every Province should be left to do as much within itself as may be; and every Province should allow each County, yea, and each Town, to do as much within themselves as possible. Small bodies manage affairs much easier and cheaper than large ones. If every County and Town manage as much business as may be within themselves, people will be better satisfied, and the Provincial Congress saved much trouble. Our Counties and Towns have heretofore been left to manage many of their own affairs; and it has been a great privilege, and their business has been managed to great advantage. Each County should now choose their own officers, which were heretofore appointed by the Crown. These matters may now be adjusted with much ease. Every Province should be allowed such full power within itself, and receive such advantages by a general union or confederation, that it would choose to continue in that union. The connection of the Provinces should be made to be for the interest of each, and be agreeable to each. This will keep them quiet and peaceable; and nothing will tend so much to this, as to let every Province have as much power and liberty within itself as will consist with the good of the whole. Neither the Continental Congress, nor any other number of men, should assume or use any power or office for their own sake, but for the good of the whole. Let America increase ever so much, there must never be any power like a Kingly power; no power used for its own sake, or for the advantage or dignity of any number of men, as distinct from the good of the whole; and while things are thus managed, a general union will be agreeable, and people will not complain.

Notwithstanding every Province should have all possible power within itself, yet some things must be left to the General Congress; as, 1. Making and managing war and making peace. 2. Settling differences between Provinces. 3. Making some maritime laws, or general regulations respecting trade; otherwise one Province might unjustly interfere with another. 4. Ordering a currency for the whole Continent; for it would be best that, as soon as may be, there should be one currency for the whole; the General Congress might order the quota for each Province. 5. The forming of new Provinces. 6. The sale of new lands. 7. Treaties with other nations; consequently some general directions of our Indian affairs.

As we are now to assume a new mode of Government, I think it ought properly to be new. Some are for keeping as near the old form of Government in each Province as can well be. But I think it is entirely wrong; it is mistaken policy. It is probable that some who propose it mean well; but I humbly conceive they have not thoroughly considered the thing. Others who propose it may have self-interest at bottom, hoping thereby to retain, or obtain, places of profit or honour. We must come as near a new form of Government as we can, without destroying private property. So far as private property will allow, we must form our Government in each Province just as if we had never any form of Government before. It is much easier to form a new Government than to patch up one partly old and partly new, because it is more simple and natural. I speak chiefly with respect to Legislature. We should by all means avoid several branches of Legislature.

One branch of Legislature is much preferable to more than one, because a plurality causes perpetual contention and waste of time. It was so in Rome; it has been so in Great Britain; and has been remarkably so in these Provinces in times past. The ever-memorable Congress now in America has done business infinitely better than if there had been several orders of Delegates to contest, interrupt, and be a negative one upon another.

A patched Government, consisting of several parts, has been the difficulty, I may call it the disease, of some of the best civil Governments that have been in the world—I mean the Roman Republic and the Government of Great Britain. Had the Romans been a true Democracy, without a Senate, or body different from the Plebeians, they might have avoided those jars and contentions which continually subsisted between those two bodies. Should we admit different branches of Legislature, it might give occasion in time to degenerate into that form of Government, or something like that, which has been so oppressive in our nation. It might open a door for ill-disposed aspiring men to destroy the State. Our having several branches of Legislature heretofore is an argument against, rather than for it, in time to come, because it is a word that not only has been abused, but in its nature tends to abuse. The simplest mode of legislation is certainly best. The European nations have, for some centuries past, derived most of their knowledge from the Greeks and Romans. The Romans, especially, have been, in a sort, an example, being excellent in many things. We have been ready to view them so in all things. We are very apt to take in, or imitate, the imperfections as well as the excellencies of those that are excellent. Hence, I suppose, it is that most, if not all, the Republics in Europe have a body of Senators in their form of Government. I doubt not it will be an argument with many, that we in America must have something like a Senate, or Council, or Upper House, because the Romans and other Republics have had. But the argument is the other way; it was their imperfection, it was a source of trouble, it was a step towards arbitrary power, and therefore to be avoided. Free Government can better, much better, subsist without it. Different branches of Legislature cause much needless expense, two ways: First, as there are more persons to maintain; and, second, as they waste time, and prolong a session by their contentions. Besides, it is a great absurdity that one branch of a Legislature, that can negative all the rest, should be the principal Executive power in the State. There can be but little chance for proper freedom, where the making and executing the laws of a State lie in the same hand, and that not of the people in general, but of a single person. The Legislative and Executive power in every Province ought to be kept as distinct as possible. Wise, experienced, and publick-spirited persons should be in places of power, and if so, they must be sought out, chosen, and introduced. For this reason there ought not to be a number that are hereditary, for wisdom is not a birthright; nor a number put in place for life, for men's abilities and manners may change. Rulers should be frequently chose to their office. A Provincial Congress is the whole Province met by Representatives; and there is no need of a representative of a King, for we have none; nor can there be need of a Council to represent the House of Lords, for we have not, and hope never shall have, a hereditary nobility, different from the general body of the people; but if we admit different branches of the Legislature, there is danger that there may be in time.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Albany, June 13, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: Your favour of the 6th, enclosing despatches for his Excellency General Washington, I received about six yesterday afternoon. They came in a lucky moment to relieve us from the anxiety we had been thrown into by a letter from General Arnold, of the same date, received two hours before, and which I had just enclosed in one of mine to General Washington, and was on the point of sending off by express, when your comforting letter came to hand.

I am extremely happy to find that the chaos and confusion which has reigned so triumphant in our Army, to the disgrace of our arms, are on the point of being expelled, and that good order, with all its beauties and train of never-failing consequences, is on the point of being established. We already owe you much, my dear General, and hope our debt will daily increase.

Enclosed, you have two resolutions of Congress. I have not much hopes that either will have the happy effect Congress expect. If the Militia will come at all, they will (unless they have had the small-pox) only weaken, rather than strengthen your Army. I wish troops had been sent into Canada, and the Militia employed at New-York. Should any come up, they will be immediately sent unto you; and that no delay may be occasioned by drawing the batteaus over the carrying-places at the north end of Lake George, I have ordered all the batteaus to Ticonderoga, that they may be sent to Skeneborough by the time the Militia may arrive there, or to St. Johns, if you should want them, which I now hope you will not. The number is about one hundred and twenty.

I am this day to meet Mr. Douw and Mr. Edwards, my colleague Commissioners of Indian Affairs, when we shall try to fall upon some measures for engaging the Indians in our cause, although I have not the least hopes of success, as the few friends we have amongst them are threatened by the others, who are actually collecting at Oswego, with an intent to fall on our frontiers—the account of which brought me down here. I have sent Colonel Dayton and his regiment to the German Flats, where a body of Militia is also collected, and am preparing with secrecy to take post at the place where Fort Stanwix formerly stood.

Shoes, shirts, and such other necessities as can be procured, are now collecting, and will be immediately sent up to you.

Four or five French merchant ships are arrived at New-York, and we expect more will soon be in. It is imagined that France and Spain will attack Portugal: if so, it will be a fine diversion in our favour.

Adieu, my dear General.

I am, with great esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To General Sullivan.

NATHANIEL SHAW, JUN., TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-London, June 13, 1776.

SIR: I have a sloop that is outward bound, and have put on board eight carriage-guns, and men sufficient to fight them. The bearer, Stephen Tinker, is to command. It is probable we may fall in with some homeward-bound ships, and, that we might make the most of what should come in our way, I should be glad to have a commission, that we may be entitled to have secure what prizes we may bring in. The vessel is now ready to sail, and, if any bonds are required, will execute them.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

NATHANIEL SHAW, JUN.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esquire, Governour of the Colony of Connecticut, at Hartford.

To the Honourable General Assembly of the Colony of CONNECTICUT, to be convened by special order of his Honour the Governour, on the 14th day of JUNE, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: In this advanced time of life to which I am arrived, and attended with the common infirmities that never fail to a man of sixty-five years of age, together with the arduous task of a military life in this day of trouble, I feel myself, by reason of age and a declining constitution, unable to attend the duties of my office, or command of the Eighth Regiment of the Militia in this Colony, in which I have had the honour and pleasure of serving the publick as a Field-Officer for almost thirty years past. It now appears to be absolutely necessary that men in the military command should have full strength and vigour on their side sufficient to endure the hardships of a most active post in the military department. I therefore beg your Honours to accept this my resignation of my office of Colonel of the said regiment, that the same may be filled up with some person who can better serve in that important command, than your Honours' most obedient, humble servant,

SAMUEL COIT.

Preston, June 13, 1776.

COMMODORE HOPKINS TO CAPTAIN JONES.

Newport, June 13, 1776.

SIR: You are, with the Providence under your command, to go to sea with the sloop, and follow the enclosed directions. You may send any vessels into port, for trial, that you may think are acting detrimental to the interest of the American States.

You are first to convoy the Fly as far westward as Fisher's Island, and any vessels that may be at Stonington back, by Point Judith, or in sight of this harbour.

ESEK HOPKINS.

To John Paul Jones, Esq., Commander of the Providence.

In Marine Committee, Philadelphia, May 31, 1776.

SIR: The Marine Committee have directed Captain John Bradford, in Massachusetts-Bay, their agent, to send to this city from Newburyport one hundred and twenty chaldrons of coal.

You are hereby directed to send one of the armed vessels under your command to that port, to take under convoy and conduct safe into Delaware-Bay the vessel or vessels in which the said coal may be shipped.

JOHN HANCOCK, Chairman.

To Esek Hopkins, Esq.

JOSEPH HAWLEY TO ELBRIDGE GERRY.

Watertown, June 13, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Last week I received your valued and much esteemed favour of the 25th of May, and marked all the contents; and notwithstanding delays and impediments which you mention, I yet flatter myself that your Congress, like the Calvinistick Christian, will go on from one degree of grace to another, till you arrive at perfection. You know that a great part of the pleasure of life arises from surmounting difficulties and overcoming opposition.

You cannot declare Independence too soon; but the Confederation must be formed with great deliberation. When the present House here called, last week, for the instructions of the several towns touching Independency, agreeable to the recommendation of the last House, (which recommendation you undoubtedly saw in the Watertown newspaper,) it appeared that about two-thirds of the towns in the Colony had met, and all instructed in the affirmative, and generally returned to be unanimously. As to the other towns, the accounts of their Members were, either that they were about to meet, or that they had not received the notice, as it was given only in the newspapers. Whereupon, the House immediately ordered the unnotified towns to be notified by handbills, and in a short time undoubtedly we shall have returns from all; and it is almost certain that the returns will be universally to support the Congress, with their lives and fortunes, in case of a declaration of Independence.

Yesterday our Assembly resolved the requisition of five thousand men for New-York and Canada. The House immediately appointed a committee to devise the manner of raising them, and with the utmost assiduity the Court will pursue it till accomplished.

I am your most assured friend and servant,

JOSEPH HAWLEY.

To Elbridge Gerry, Esquire.

To the Honourable the Council and Assembly for the Colony of NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

The Address and Petition of Major JAMES HACKETT:

GENTLEMEN: Permit me to return you my most hearty thanks for the honour you have conferred upon me in the appointment to the chief command of a regiment to be raised in the service of the United Colonies, and to be stationed for the safeguard and protection of this Colony in particular. While I feel myself obliged and honoured by your appointment, I cannot but lament that the chief command was not bestowed upon your former choice, a gentleman of superior skill and military reputation, whose judgment and experience are equal to the important office. My highest ambition would be to serve as second in command under the above gentleman, if the honourable House would think proper to make such an arrangement. I rather urge it, knowing it would be for the benefit of the service, and the honour of this Province in particular. But if, after this my most earnest solicitation in favour of Mr. Darne, you should still think proper to continue me in the chief command, be assured my utmost endeavours shall not be wanting to promote the good of my country in a faithful and diligent discharge of my duty. While I express the warmest inclination for the service, I must at the same time acknowledge myself inadequate to the task. I have had all the hardships of a soldier, without the experience of a General. If I should be found wanting in military skill, I shall hope for your and the public's indulgence. A faithful discharge of my duty, the public good, and the happiness of those under my command, will always be the objects of my peculiar care and attention.

I am, with great respect, gentlemen, your most obliged and humble servant,

JAMES HACKETT.

Exeter, June 13, 1776.

PENNSYLVANIA ASSEMBLY.

Monday, May 20, 1776.

By the Returns of the Sheriffs of the several Counties, where an additional number of Representatives were directed, by an Act of Assembly passed the last sitting, to be chosen, it appears the following gentlemen were duly elected to serve in Assembly as Representatives during the remainder of this year, viz:

For the City of PHILADELPHIA: Samuel Howell, George Clymer, Andrew Allen, Alexander Wilcocks.

For the County of LANCASTER: Thomas Porter, Bartram Galbreath.

For the County of YORK: Samuel Eddie, James Rankin.

For the County of CUMBERLAND: Jonathan Hoge, Robert Whitehill.

For the County of BERKS: Henry Haller, John Leshner.

For the County of NORTHAMPTON: James Allen, Jacob Arndt.

For the County of BEDFORD: Thomas Smith.

For the County of NORTHUMBERLAND: James Potter.

For the County of WESTMORELAND: John Procter.

Mr. Speaker and twenty-seven Members met, pursuant to adjournment, and a quorum not appearing, the House adjourned to to-morrow, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Tuesday, May 21, 1776.

A quorum of the Representatives met this day; but it being too late to proceed upon business, the House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Wednesday, May 22, 1776.

The House met pursuant to their adjournment.

Mr. Speaker laid before the House a Letter received from Charles Moore, Esq., "requesting that he might have permission to resign his office as Clerk to the House, finding it to be inconvenient to him in many respects to continue longer therein."

Petitions from Edward Tilghman and Abel Evans, respectively praying to be appointed Clerk to the House, in the room of Charles Moore, Esq., who has resigned, were presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Protest of divers of the inhabitants of this Province, in behalf of themselves and others, was presented to the House, and read, and follows in these words, viz:

"The Protest of divers of the Inhabitants of this Province, in behalf of themselves and others:

"To the Honourable the Representatives of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA:

"GENTLEMEN: We, the inhabitants of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, in behalf of ourselves and others, the inhabitants of Pennsylvania, conceive it our duty to represent unto this House as followeth:

"That whereas the honourable the Continental Congress hath, by a Resolve bearing date the 15th instant, recommended the taking up and establishing new Governments throughout all the United Colonies, under the 'authority of the people;' and as the chartered power of this House is derived from our mortal enemy, the King of Great Britain, and the members thereof were elected by such persons only as were either in real or supposed allegiance to the said King, to the exclusion of many worthy inhabitants whom the aforesaid Resolve of Congress hath now rendered electors; and as this House, in its present state, is in immediate intercourse with a Governour bearing the said King's commission, and who is his sworn Representative, holding, and by oath obliged to hold, official correspondence with the Ministers of the said King, and is not within the reach of any act of ours to be absolved therefrom: We, therefore, in this solemn manner, in behalf of ourselves and others, do hereby renounce and protest against the authority and qualification of this House for framing a new Government.

"As we mean not to enter into any altercation with this House, we shall forbear enumerating the particular inconsistencies of its former conduct, and content ourselves with declaring that, as a body of men bound by oaths of allegiance to our enemy, and influenced, as many of its members are, either by connections with, or pecuniary employments under the Proprietary of this Province, who is likewise the said King's Representative, it is, to all good intents and purposes, disqualified to take into consideration the late Resolve of Congress, and, as a House, is not within the description mentioned in the said Resolve, as 'an Assembly under the authority of the people' only; and because, likewise, that we have very alarming apprehensions that a new Government, modelled by persons so inconsistently circumstanced, would be the means of subjecting ourselves and our posterity to greater grievances than any we have hitherto experienced.

"In thus protesting against the authority of this House for framing a new Government, we mean not to object against its exercising the proper powers it has hitherto been accustomed to use, for the safety and convenience of the Province, until such time as a new Constitution, originating from and founded on 'the authority of the people,' shall be finally settled by a Provincial Convention to be elected for that purpose, and until the proper officers and Representatives of the people shall be chosen agreeable thereto, and qualified to succeed this House. For which purpose, an application will be made to the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties (whose services, on all occasions, have been applied to the support of the rights of the people) for calling a Conference of Committees of the several Counties of this Province, agreeable to the powers it is already invested with for that purpose, which said Conference of Committees shall issue out summonses for electing by ballot a Provincial Convention, consisting of at least one hundred members, for the purpose of carrying the said Resolve of Congress into execution; as we are fully convinced that our safety and happiness, next to the immediate Providence of God, depend on our complying with and supporting firmly the said Resolve of Congress, that thereby the union of the Colonies may be preserved inviolate.

"Signed in behalf of and by the direction of the inhabitants of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, upon due notification met, Philadelphia, May 20, 1776.

"DANIEL ROBERDEAU, Chairman."

Ordered to lie on the table.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The honourable the Continental Congress having passed a Resolve the 15th instant, recommending to the respective Assemblies and Conventions of the United Colonies where no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been hitherto established, to adopt such Government as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the people, best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general: And it appearing to this House that doubts have arisen concerning the true sense and meaning of the said Resolve, Therefore,

Upon motion, Resolved, That Mr. Andrew Allen, Mr. Clymer, Mr. Wilcocks, Mr. Pearson, and Mr. Ross, be a Committee to take into consideration the said Resolve of Congress, and the Preamble thereto; and to draw up a Memorial from this House, setting forth the different meanings that have been assigned to the said Resolve, and requesting an explanation, in such terms as will not admit of any doubt, whether the Assemblies and Conventions now subsisting in the several Colonies are or are not the bodies to whom the consideration of continuing the old, or adopting new Governments, is referred.

A Petition of Matthew Clarkson, Esq., praying to be appointed Clerk to the House, in the room of Charles Moore, Esq., who hath resigned, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of George Bryan, Esq., to be appointed the officer to superintend the Imports and Exports, and other Naval affairs, of the Port of Philadelphia, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of Jehu Jones, for the office of a Quartermaster to the Troops raising for the service of this Province, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The House being informed that Jacob Young, of Northampton County, a First Lieutenant in one of the Rifle Companies in the service of this Province, had resigned his commission, a Petition of Casper Weaver, of the same place, to be appointed in his stead, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of Andrew Boyd, to be appointed a Third Lieutenant in the Rifle service, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Thursday, May 23, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Upon motion, Resolved, That Mr. Wilcocks and Mr. James Allen be added to the Committee of Accounts.

The Petition of Jehu Jones was read a second time, and referred to further consideration.

An Address of the Committee of Inspection and Observation, for the County of Philadelphia, was presented to the House, and read, and follows in these words, viz:

"To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met:
The Address of the Committee of Inspection and Observation for the County of PHILADELPHIA:

"We esteem ourselves in no small degree happy that we have the satisfaction, in this very critical conjuncture, of expressing our sentiments to the constitutional Representative body of this Province.

"With the deepest concern we have lately observed that the ground on which our opposition to the arbitrary and oppressive measures of the British Ministry was first made, is so totally changed. Instead of our joining hand and heart in forwarding a reconciliation with our parent state, on constitutional principles, which is the object we ought ever to have kept in view, as the only termination of our disputes which can possibly give us happiness and security, a system has been adopted by some persons in the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, which tends immediately to the subversion of our Constitution. When we recollect the declaration of Congress, that they meant not to destroy the union which has so long 'and happily subsisted, and which they sincerely wish to be restored;' when we think of the known instructions given to the Delegates of several Colonies, as well as those of our own,—we are alarmed at the prospect of disunion which must attend the prosecution of a scheme that will, in the end, not only set Province against Province, but (more dreadful to think of) foment civil discords in each other.

"Should our inveterate enemies be so lost to all sense of justice and humanity as to persist in their infernal plan of despotism; should they drive us by their violence, to that last shift, a declaration of Independence, every one will then be convinced of the necessity of such a measure, and we shall be as one man, so united and strengthened by the conviction as to bid defiance to all their attempts.

"The inhabitants of this County, 'in their own native land, in defence of the freedom which is their birthright, and which they have ever enjoyed until the late violation of it, for the protection of their property, acquired solely by the industry of their forefathers and themselves, against violence actually offered, first took up arms, and mean not to lay them down, until hostilities shall cease on the part of the aggressors, and all danger of their being renewed shall be removed.'

"They have, with the greatest alacrity, given a considerable part of their time to qualify themselves in military matters, and are well assured they will be behind none in their endeavours to put an end to the oppression of their country; but it was, at the same time, with a determined resolution to support and defend their Constitution against all oppressions and innovations whatsoever.

"These we know to be the sentiments of the people under whose authority we act, as well as our own; and as such we should be highly wanting in our duty to ourselves and our constituents were we to neglect laying them before you.

"We are not insensible of the difficulties which attend your situation; but trust you will proceed in the weighty affairs now under your consideration with unanimity and firmness, still looking forward to a happy, permanent termination of our calamities, in a constitutional reconciliation with our ancient friends.

To forget injuries, and to forgive those who have offended, is as conducive to happiness as conformable to the rules of virtue; and we make no doubt the most salutary events must result from measures formed and conducted on such principles.

"What we have to offer and advise is, that you will most religiously adhere to the Instructions given to our Delegates in Congress. We consider them our greatest security; and we do further most seriously entreat that you will, to the utmost of your power, oppose the changing or altering, in any the least part of our invaluable Constitution, under which we have experienced every happiness, and in support of which there is nothing just or reasonable which we would not willingly undertake.

"Signed by order of the Committee:

"WILLIAM HAMILTON, Chairman."

Upon motion, Ordered, That Mr. Ross, Mr. Potter, Mr. Haller, and Mr. Arndt, be a Committee to examine the Muster-Rolls returned to this House, and report the number of effective Men, Officers, and Privates, in the pay of this Province.

The House adjourned to to-morrow morning ten o'clock.

Friday, May 24, 1776.

A Memorial of the Committee of Safety of this Province was presented to the House, and read, setting forth that there being only nine Members of the said Committee residing in this City who are not Members of Assembly, and several of the said Committee being frequently out of Town on publick business, it often happens that a Board cannot be got together, by which very important matters are sometimes delayed, to the injury of the publick; and representing the necessity of increasing the number of the Committee immediately, by adding more persons residing in the City.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Resolve of Congress of the 18th instant, and to draw up a Memorial to be presented to Congress, reported an essay for that purpose; which was read by order, and referred to further consideration.

Upon motion, Resolved, That the Commissions of the Field and other Officers of the Military Associators in this Province shall be dated at the time they were respectively chosen, but the rank to remain as settled heretofore for the several Counties; and that the Speaker make out the said Commissions accordingly.

Mr. Speaker laid before the House a Resolve of Congress; which was read by order, and is as follows, viz:

"In Congress, April 6, 1776.

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the Assemblies and Conventions in the several Colonies to appoint proper officers, at convenient places in their respective Colonies, to take bonds, in adequate penalties, for observing the regulations made by the Congress or Assemblies or Conventions concerning trade, and for securing the observation of such parts of the Association as are not inconsistent therewith; and that the obligor shall, within eighteen months after the departure of the vessel, produce to such officers a certificate, under the hands and seals of three or more respectable merchants residing at the port or place where the cargo shall be delivered, that the same was there unloaded; and take manifests upon oath of the cargoes exported and imported, and keep fair accounts and entries thereof; give bills of health when desired; grant registers, showing the property of the vessels cleared out; and sign certificates that the requisites for qualifying vessels to trade have been complied with; and that the fees of the said officers be stated by the respective Assemblies or Conventions: Provided always, That no prosecution upon any of the said bonds shall be commenced but within three years after the date thereof.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

Upon motion, Resolved, That this House will keep, as publick property, the Arms and Accoutrements they have purchased and put into the hands of the Troops in the pay of this Province, and will purchase such Arms and Accoutrements for the publick use as the Troops may have of their own, and which they are willing to dispose of; and that eight pence per month be deducted out of the pay of each soldier for the use of such Arms and Accoutrements.

Resolved, That Mr. Miles be empowered to agree for and purchase such Arms, at the expense and for the use of this Province.

Resolved, That the Commander-in-Chief of the Forces in the pay of this Province, for the time being, shall have and be allowed thirty Dollars per month, besides his pay, for the expenses of his table.

Ordered, That the Clerk write to the absent Members, requesting their attendance in Assembly as soon as possible.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

Upon motion, Ordered, That Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Reed, Mr. Clymer, Mr. Andrew Allen, Mr. Wilcocks, Mr. Ross,

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

and Mr. James Allen, be a Committee to prepare and draw up Resolutions for rendering naturalization, and the oaths or affirmations of allegiance, unnecessary, in all cases where they are required or have been usually taken within this Colony.

The House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Saturday, May 25, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

A Petition of John McGowan, praying to be appointed to a Lieutenantcy in the Rifle service, vacant by the resignation of Jacob Young, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The House adjourned to Monday next, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Monday, May 27, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, with thirty-two Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, the House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, May 28, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

A Petition of Luke Broadhead to be appointed to the office of a Lieutenant in one of the Companies of Riflemen, in the service of this Province, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Memorial of the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, presented to Congress the 25th instant, was laid before the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Memorial of the Committee of Safety was presented to the House, and read, setting forth that, about the beginning of this month, being advised that two of the King's ships lying near Cape Henlopen, infesting the trade of this Colony, were proceeding up the River Delaware, the Committee issued orders to the officers of the armed boats to stop their progress; and that, in the engagements that ensued, some were of opinion it was in the power of the gondolas to have taken the Roebuck, one of the said ships, which was not done. In a variety of opinions respecting the cause of this miscarriage, the commanders of the armed boats have, in a publication, attributed it to the misconduct of the Committee, in not furnishing them with sufficient quantities of ammunition. They request the House will promote such an inquiry as will satisfy the publick where the blame and misconduct is justly chargeable.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of a number of the freemen and inhabitants of the County of Cumberland, was presented to the House, and read, and is as follows, viz:

"To the Honourable the Representatives of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met:

"We, the subscribers, freemen and inhabitants of the County of Cumberland, in the said Province, beg leave to lay before you, at this very important crisis, the following representation:

"The arbitrary and unconstitutional claim of the British Parliament to bind, by its acts, the British Colonies in all cases whatsoever, and the cruel exertions of the British Administration to carry by force that claim into execution, drove America into the present unhappy, but, on her part, just and necessary war.

"To obtain the re-establishment of their rights, and to be restored to the freedom and prosperity which, until lately, they enjoyed, were the declared ends of the Colonists; of those ends we ardently wish to see the full accomplishment.

"But this cannot take place without the concurrence of those who discover no inclination to depart from the destructive system which they have so pertinaciously pursued; necessity, therefore, directs the contemplation of the publick to other objects.

"If those who rule in Britain will not permit the Colonies to be free and happy in connection with that Kingdom, it becomes their duty to secure and promote their freedom and happiness in the best manner they can, without that connection.

"The prosecution of the war may require some measures to be adopted which, beside the purposes more immediately intended to be produced by them, may have a tendency to weaken or even to dissolve the connection before-mentioned.

"To avoid the terrible consequences of anarchy; to prevent the best men from falling sacrifices to the factious and interested views of the worst, it will soon become, if it has not already become, necessary to advise, and to form such establishments as will be sufficient to protect the virtuous and restrain the vicious members of society. Those establishments may be construed to lead to a separation from Great Britain.

"The foregoing considerations induce us to petition this honourable House that the last Instructions which it gave to the Delegates of this Province in Congress, wherein they are enjoined not to consent to any step which may cause or lead to a separation from Great Britain, may be withdrawn."

Ordered to lie on the table.

Upon motion, Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be directed to lay before this House, as soon as possible, an account of the preparations of every kind already made or now making by them for the defence of this Colony.

Ordered, That Michael Hillegas, Esq., Treasurer, lay before this House an account of the Money issued by the Resolves of the Assembly, which has been drawn out of his hands by orders from the Assembly and Committee of Safety, and what sum yet remains unexpended.

Resolved, That the sum of seventeen Shillings per week be allowed to each of the Officers in the pay of this Province for their subsistence in the Recruiting service from the date of their Instructions until the time of their arrival at their proper stations.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Resolved, That the pay of the Officers in the service of this Province commence from the date of their instructions for inlisting men.

Resolved, That John McGowan be appointed Adjutant to one of the Battalions in the Rifle Regiment of the forces in the pay of this Province.

The House, taking into consideration the several applications for the vacancy in the Rifle Regiment,

Resolved, That George Wert be appointed a First Lieutenant in the said Rifle Regiment, in the room of Jacob Young, who hath resigned.

Resolved, That Joseph Jacquet be appointed a Second Lieutenant in the said Regiment, in the room of George Wert, promoted.

Resolved, That Luke Broadhead be appointed a Third Lieutenant in the said Regiment, in the room of Joseph Jacquet, promoted.

The House, resuming the consideration of the Memorial of the Committee of Safety, presented in the morning,

Ordered, That, Mr. Potts, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Rodman, Mr. Wynkoop, Mr. Foulke, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Twynning, Mr. Brown, Mr. Jenks, Mr. Pearson, Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Pennock, Mr. Pyle, Mr. Porter, Mr. Galbreath, Mr. Ewing, Mr. Eddy, Mr. Rankin, Mr. Hodge, Mr. Whitehill, Mr. Chreist, Mr. Haller, Mr. Leshner, Mr. Kachlein, Mr. James Allen, Mr. Arndt, Mr. Potter, with the Speaker, be a Committee to inquire into the conduct of the Committee of Safety respecting the charge made against them by the Captains of the armed boats, and other matters relative to the engagement between the said armed boats and the King's ships in the River Delaware.

Resolved, That Jacob Laverswyler, John Doye, and Fredrick Molineux, be, and they are hereby, appointed Quartermasters to the three Battalions in the pay of this Province.

The House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Wednesday, May 29, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

John Proctor, Esq., this day appearing in the House the first according to his being chosen a Representative, took his seat accordingly.

The House, taking into consideration the Petitions from Northumberland and other Counties respecting the Moneys the Petitioners had taken out of the Loan Office on loan, for which they had given their mortgages, presented to the House at their last sitting,

Ordered, That Mr. Howell, Mr. Clymer, Mr. Wilcocks, Mr. Reed, Mr. Ross, and Mr. Galbreath, be a Committee to prepare and report to the House a Resolution to indemnify the Trustees of the Loan Office in cases where the Mortgagors have been deficient in their annual payments, and the said Trustees have not proceeded against such defaulters as the laws of this Province direct.

Addresses, signed by a number of inhabitants of the City and County of Philadelphia, were presented to the House, and read, and are as they severally follow, viz:

"To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in Assembly met:

"The Address and Remonstrance of the Inhabitants of the City and County of PHILADELPHIA:

"Whereas, to our great affliction, we find that a paper has been presented to the House, styled 'the Protest of divers inhabitants of this Province,' said to be in 'behalf of themselves and others;' the purport of which is to subvert and change the Constitution of this Government, upon sundry allegations which we cannot conceive to be well founded; and whereas we think it an indispensable duty to ourselves and our posterity to claim and support our birth-right in the Charter and wise laws of Pennsylvania, either consented to by ourselves or delivered down to us by our ancestors, as far as may be possible, without injury to the publick cause of America, during the present distressed situation of our affairs,—we do therefore remonstrate against the said Protest, for the following reasons:

"First: Because it holds up the Resolve of Congress of the 15th instant as an absolute injunction for the 'taking up and establishing new Governments throughout all the United Colonies under the authority of the people;' whereas the said Resolve is only a conditional recommendation 'to the respective Assemblies and Conventions of the United Colonies where no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been established, to adopt such Governments as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the people, best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general.' And here it is obvious to remark, that, in this and every other resolve of Congress where Assemblies and Conventions are referred to, it must be intended (and the practice has been accordingly) that wherever Assemblies exist and can meet as the ancient constitutional bodies in their respective Colonies, the publick business is to be carried on by them, and by Conventions only in those urgent cases where arbitrary Governments, by prorogations and dissolutions, prevent the Representatives of the people from sitting to deliberate on their own affairs, or have subverted the Constitutions by abdicating their offices, and levying war against these Colonies; that the Assembly of this Province cannot be prorogued or dissolved; that they have been exceeded by no Province in their noble exertions in the common cause of liberty; that, by the Resolve of Congress, who have never interfered in the domestick police of the Colonies, the Representatives of the people are left as the sole judges whether their Governments be 'sufficient for the exigencies of their affairs' or not; and that our courts of law are open, justice has been administered with a due attention to our circumstances, and large sums of money issued, the credit of which might be shaken, and numberless confusions ensue from innovations hastily or unnecessarily made.

"Second: We remonstrate against the said Protest, as setting on foot a measure which tends to disunion, and must damp the zeal of multitudes of the good people of Pennsylvania in the common cause, who, having a high veneration for their civil and religious rights as secured by our Charter, never conceived, when they engaged, among other things, for the support of the Charter-rights of another Colony, that they would be called upon to make a sacrifice of their own Charter; nor can we now see anything in our situation which requires such an unequal sacrifice, while other Colonies (particularly Connecticut and Rhode-Island, the authority of whose Assemblies is the same way derived by Charter as ours,) continue their ancient forms of Government by these bodies without Conventions.

"That whatever temporary alterations in forms the urgency of affairs or the authority of the people can be conceived to justify or render expedient, that authority is fully vested in our Representatives in Assembly freely and annually chosen.

"Six parts in seven of your body are, by our inestimable Charter, vested with the power of determining in this matter. We look to you as intrusted with the conservation of our rights, and are firmly of opinion that your constituents, in general, will cheerfully be governed by whatever your wisdom may ordain in the present exigency, humbly recommending it to you always to keep in mind that, in times of confusion, every change should be cautiously adopted, and only such made as are absolutely necessary; in which particulars, the Province of South-Carolina (when impelled by necessity) has set a laudable example, regulating themselves with a view towards, and only until 'an accommodation of the unhappy differences between Great Britain and America can be obtained, an event which, though traduced and treated as Rebels, they still profess earnestly to desire.'"

"To the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met:

"Whereas a publication, styled 'A Protest of divers of the inhabitants of this Province in behalf of themselves and others,' hath appeared in the publick papers, addressed to the Representatives of the Province of Pennsylvania, declared to be from 'the inhabitants of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, in behalf of themselves and others,' we, the subscribers, inhabitants of the City and County of Philadelphia, sensible of the many advantages derived to us from our excellent Constitution, and anxiously solicitous that they may be continued to us and our posterity, deem it our indispensable duty to declare that we are not represented in the said Protest, neither have we empowered any person or persons whatever on our behalf to sign it."

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of James Wallace, requesting to be appointed the Officer for the entering in and clearing out Vessels for the Port and District of Philadelphia, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

An Account of Lewis Nicola, Barrackmaster, for repairs of the Barracks, was laid before the House, read, and referred to the Committee of Safety to be paid.

An Account of Captain Spring, for storage of several articles in the Magazine, was laid before the House, read, and referred to the Committee of Accounts for examination.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Michael Hillegas, Esq., Treasurer, agreeable to the order of yesterday, laid before the House an Account containing a list of Orders drawn on him by the Committee of Safety; which was read, and ordered to lie on the table for the perusal of the Members.

A Petition of Frederick Phile, to be appointed to the office of Collector of the Customs for the Port of Philadelphia, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The Committee appointed this morning to draw up a Resolution to indemnify the Trustees of the Loan Office in cases where the Mortgagors have been deficient in their annual payments, &c., reported a Resolution for that purpose; which was read, and ordered to lie on the table for a second reading.

The House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Thursday, May 30, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Petitions, signed by a number of the freemen and inhabitants of the County of Cumberland, were presented to the House, and read, setting forth that, by the stagnation of Commerce, the circulation of money is nearly stopped among them; and that many, who have property sufficient, and are willing to discharge their debts, will be reduced to the greatest distress if sales by the Sheriff are permitted to be made indiscriminately; they therefore pray the House to make such regulations as shall appear best calculated to secure to creditors their just debts, and prevent the ruin of honest debtors.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The Resignation and Representation of Owen Jones, Esq., resigning his office as Provincial Treasurer, was presented to the House, and read.

The Resignation being accepted,

Resolved, That Michael Hillegas, Esq., be, and he is hereby, appointed Provincial Treasurer, in the room of Owen Jones, Esq.

Resolved, That the Officers named in the Act of Assembly, passed the last sitting, remove the Records in their care from place to place, under the restrictions in the said Act, and that this House will pay the expense of such removals.

Ordered, That the Members of the several Counties return to the House a list of the Magistrates in their respective Counties, and that they take into their care a volume of the Laws for, and to be delivered to each of the Magistrates and Board of Commissioners in their Counties; and shall give to the Clerk of this House a receipt for so many as they shall so take into their care.

A Member presented at the table Resolves of Congress, respecting the conduct to be observed to and by Prisoners-of-War; which were read by order, and are as follows:

"In Congress, May 21, 1776.

"Resolved, That all persons taken in arms on board any prize, be deemed prisoners, to be taken care of by the supreme Executive power in each Colony to which they are brought, whether the prize be taken by vessels fitted out by the Continent or by others.

"That such as are taken, to be treated as prisoners-of-war, but with humanity, and be allowed the same rations as the troops in the service of the United Colonies; but that such as are Officers supply themselves, and be allowed to draw Bills to pay for their subsistence and clothing.

"That Officers made prisoners in the land service be allowed the same indulgence.

"That the Officers be not permitted to reside in or near any seaport Town nor publick Post-Road, and that the Officers and Privates be not suffered to reside in the same places.

"That in case the Officers cannot draw or sell their Bills, the Congress will allow for each of them two dollars a week for board and lodgings, to be repaid by said Officers before they are released from their captivity.

"That no Tavern-keepers supply any Officers who are prisoners on the credit of the Continent.

"That the capitulations entered into with prisoners at the time of their surrender be punctually observed.

"That such Officers as surrender prisoners-of-war be put on their parole, unless Congress shall otherwise direct.

"That the form of the Parole be as follows:

"I, . . . . ., being made a prisoner-of-war by the Army of the Thirteen United Colonies in North-America, do promise and engage, on my word and honour, and on the faith of a gentleman, to depart from hence to . . . ., in the Province of . . . ., being the place of my destination and residence, and there, or within six miles thereof, to remain during the present war between Great Britain and the said United Colonies, or until the Congress of the said United Colonies, or the Assembly, Convention, or Committee, or Council of Safety, of the said Colony, shall order otherwise; and that I will not, directly or indirectly, give any intelligence whatsoever to the enemies of the United Colonies, or do or say anything in opposition to, or in prejudice of, the measures and proceedings of any Congress for the said Colonies during the present troubles, or until I am duly exchanged or discharged.

"Given under my hand, this . . . . day of . . . ., A. D. 1776.

"That the said Parole be signed by the Officers.

"That such as refuse to subscribe the Parole be committed to prison.

"That David Franks, Esq., Agent to the Contractors for victualling the Troops of the King of Great Britain, be permitted to supply the prisoners with provisions and other necessaries, and to sell his Bills for such sums of money as are necessary for that purpose.

"And to enable him to do this to the satisfaction of his employers, that a commissioned officer be permitted once a month to visit the prisoners so victualled and supplied, in order to count their numbers and certify the rolls.

"That such of the prisoners as are not supplied by Mr. Franks, be furnished with provisions not exceeding the rations allowed to Privates in the service of the Continent.

"That the women and children belonging to the prisoners be furnished with subsistence, and supplied with firing and other things absolutely necessary for their support.

"That no prisoners be enlisted in the Continental Army.

"That the prisoners be permitted to exercise their trades, and to labour, in order to support themselves and families.

"That the Committees of Inspection and Observation for the Counties, Districts, or Towns, assigned for the residence of prisoners, be empowered to superintend their conduct, and, in cases of gross misbehaviour, to confine them, and report to their respective Assemblies, Conventions, or Committees, or Councils of Safety, the proceedings had on such occasions.

"That a list of the prisoners in each Colony be made out by the Committees of the Counties, Towns, or Districts, where they reside, and transmitted to the Assembly, Convention, or Council, or Committee of Safety of such Colony respectively, who shall send a copy thereof to Congress.

"That the said Assemblies, Conventions, and Committees, or Councils of Safety, be empowered to contract with proper persons for the most reasonable terms for supplying such of the prisoners, their wives and children, in their respective Colony, as are not supplied by Mr. Franks.

"That the said Assemblies, Conventions, and Committees, or Councils of Safety, be authorized and requested to take the Paroles of the Officers, and to cause a strict observance of the terms on which they are enlarged, and also to take especial care that none of those confined by order of the Congress be suffered to escape; also, to advance the allowance of two dollars a week to each of the Officers who cannot draw off sell their Bills, and to draw for the same on the President of the Congress.

"That the said Assemblies, Conventions, Committees, or Councils of Safety, of the Colonies respectively in which prisoners are, or shall choose, or be appointed to reside, be empowered to remove such prisoners from place to place, within the same Colonies, as often as to such Assemblies, Conventions, Committees, or Councils of Safety, it shall seem proper, having regard to the former Resolutions of Congress concerning Prisoners.

"Extract from the Minutes. Published by order of Congress :

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

Upon motion, Ordered, That Mr. Miles, Mr. Gray, Mr. Potts, Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Reed, Mr. Rittenhouse, Mr. Clymer, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Ross, be a Committee to examine the works already made for the defence of this Colony, and report what other Fortifications are necessary, and the places proper for erecting the same; and that they request the favour of the Commander-in-Chief of the forces of the United Colonies, and the other General Officers and Engineers now in this City, to afford them their advice and assistance in this necessary and important matter.

Resolved, That Mr. Howell be appointed on the Committee of Accounts, in the room of Mr. Hillegas, who is appointed Provincial Treasurer, and that Mr. Clymer be added to the said Committee.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

Upon motion, Ordered, That the Speaker commissionate the Field and other Officers of Colonel Kirkbride's Battalion of Militia, in Bucks County, consisting of six Companies.

Resolved, That Michael Hillegas, Esq., shall, before he shall enter upon the duties of his office, become bound to the Speaker of this House, in an obligation, with two or more sufficient sureties to be approved of by this House, in the sum of twenty thousand Pounds, lawful money of this Province, conditioned for the true and faithful performance and execution of the duties and trust enjoined and required by law to be performed and executed by the Provincial Treasurer.

Resolved, That the Committee of Accounts audit and settle the Accounts of Owen Jones, Esq., late Treasurer of this Province.

Resolved, That all persons who, by the laws of this Province, are required to pay Moneys that come into their hands to the Provincial Treasurer, do pay such Moneys to Michael Hillegas, Esq.

Petitions against John Folwell and Henry Lott, Captains in the Militia, complaining that they had received more money for the expenses of their Companies than they ought to have received, were presented to the House, and read. Referred to the Committee appointed to settle the Accounts of the Militia.

The House resumed the consideration of the Resolution reported yesterday for indemnifying the Trustees of the Loan Office, &c.; which, being amended and agreed to, is as follows :

Whereas, by a late Act of Assembly establishing a Loan Office in this Province, the Trustees thereof are to be deemed accountable for all quotas which have been in arrear for twelve months at the time of settlement with the Committee of Assembly, as directed by said act, unless the said Trustees shall have commenced suits, or otherwise proceeded according to the said act for the recovery of such Moneys: And whereas, through the failure of markets for country produce, many mortgagors have been unable to comply with their respective payments, and to proceed to a sale of the mortgaged premises would greatly distress many of the good people of this Province: Therefore,

Resolved, That this House will indemnify the Trustees of the Loan Office from any penalty or charge to which they may be liable at the next settlement of their accounts, by reason of their not commencing suits, or otherwise proceeding, according to the said act, against any persons who have or may make default in the payment of the quotas mentioned in their respective mortgages.

The House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Friday, May 31, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

A Member presented at the table a Letter signed by John Cox and Joseph McIlvaine, two Committee-men for the Borough and Township of Bristol, to the Committee of Safety, respecting some irregularities in the Association in that Township; which was read.

Referred to further consideration.

Addresses from the Grand Jury, Board of Commissioners and Assessors, and a number of the freemen and inhabitants of Chester County, of the same tenour with those presented to the House on Wednesday last from the City and County of Philadelphia, were presented, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

Upon motion, Ordered, That Mr. Gray, Mr. Potts, Mr. Howell, Mr. Clymer, Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Porter, Mr. Montgomery, and Mr. Dougherty, be a Committee to take into consideration the proposals of Thomas Savage, respecting the making Salt, and to report to the House in what manner the manufacture and importation of that article into this Province can be best encouraged and promoted, together with the expense that would probably attend the erecting Salt Works.

The House, taking into consideration the Reports of the Committee made at the last sitting respecting the machines constructed by John Marshall, and Christopher Tully and Joseph Hagey,

Resolved, That the sum of forty Pounds be allowed to the said John Marshall as a premium for his improving and constructing a machine for twisting Thread.

Resolved, That there be allowed to Christopher Tully and Joseph Hagey, each, the sum of fifteen Pounds, as a premium for the Spinning Machine which they have introduced into this Province.

Resolved, That a Spinning Machine be made for and sent to each County in this Province, at a Provincial expense.

Ordered, That Mr. Gray and Mr. Parker procure and send to each County such machines.

The House adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

—
Saturday, June 1, 1776.

Mr. Speaker and thirty-five Members met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to Monday next, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

—
Monday, June 3, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, with thirty-six Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to to-morrow, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

—
Tuesday, June 4, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, with thirty-six Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

—
Wednesday, June 5, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The Speaker laid before the House a Letter he had received from the President of the General Convention of Virginia, enclosing Resolves of the Convention of that Colony; which were read, and are as they severally follow, viz:

“Virginia, May 22, 1776.

“I am honoured with the commands of the General Convention of this Colony to transmit you the enclosed Resolutions, which they have thought it indispensably necessary to enter into at this important crisis; requesting that you will communicate their contents to the Assembly of your Colony, for their consideration.

“I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient servant,

“EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

“Honourable the Speaker of Assembly, Pennsylvania.”

“Votes of the Assembly.

“In Convention, Wednesday, May 15, 1776.

“Present one hundred and twelve Members.

“Forasmuch as all the endeavours of the United Colonies, by the most decent representations and petitions to the King and Parliament of Great Britain, to restore peace and security to America, under the British Government, and reunion with that people upon just and liberal terms, instead of a redress of grievances, have produced, from an imperious and vindictive Administration, increased insult, oppression, and a vigorous attempt to effect our total destruction:—by a late act, all these Colonies are declared to be in rebellion, and out of the protection of the British Crown; our properties subjected to confiscation; our people, when captivated, compelled to join in the murder and plunder of their relations and countrymen, and all further rapine and oppression of Americans declared legal and just. Fleets and armies are raised, and the aid of foreign troops engaged to assist these destructive purposes. The King's Representative in this Colony hath not only withheld all the powers of Government from operating for our safety, but, having retired on board an armed ship, is carrying on a piratical and savage war against us, tempting our slaves, by every artifice, to resort to him, and training and employing them against their masters. In this state of extreme danger, we have no alternative left but an abject submission to the will of those overbearing tyrants, or a total separation from the Crown and Government of Great Britain, uniting and exerting the strength of all America for defence, and forming alliances with foreign Powers for commerce and aid in war:—Wherefore, appealing to the Searcher of Hearts for the sincerity of former declarations, expressing our desire to preserve the connection with that nation, and that we are driven from that inclination by their wicked councils, and the eternal laws of self-preservation,

“Resolved, unanimously, That the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress be instructed to propose to that respectable body to declare the United Colonies free and independent States, absolved from allegiance to, or dependance upon, the Crown or Parliament of Great Britain; and that they give the assent of this Colony to such declaration, and to whatever measures may be thought proper and necessary by the Congress for forming foreign alliances, and a confederation of the Colonies, at such time and in the manner as to them shall seem best: Provided, That the power of forming Government for, and the regulations of, the internal concerns of each Colony, be left to the respective Colonial Legislatures.

“Resolved, unanimously, That a Committee be appointed to prepare a Declaration of Rights, and such a plan of Government as will be most likely to maintain peace and order in this Colony, and secure substantial and equal liberty to the people.

“EDMUND PENDLETON, President.”

A Member presented at the table a Letter from the Chairman of the Continental Treasury Office, with some Minutes of that Board, respecting an account of the number of inhabitants of this Province, to be procured by the Assembly and returned to said Office; which were read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Speaker laid before the House a Letter which he received from the President of the Continental Congress, enclosing a number of Resolves of the Congress, which were read, and ordered to lie on the table for the consideration of the House.

A great number of Petitions from divers inhabitants of this Province, of the same tenour with those presented on Wednesday last from the City and County of Philadelphia, were laid before the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The Petition from a number of inhabitants of Cumberland County, praying that the Instructions given by the Assembly to the Delegates of this Province in Congress may be withdrawn, was read a second time, and, after a debate of considerable length, the question being called for and put by the Speaker, whether a Committee shall be appointed to bring in new Instructions to the Delegates of this Province in Congress?

Carried in the affirmative by a large majority.

Ordered, That Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Morris, Mr. Reed, Mr. Clymer, Mr. Wilcocks, Mr. Pearson, and Mr. Smith, be a Committee to prepare and bring in a draft of Instructions to the Delegates in Congress.

The resignation of Frederick Molineux, who was appointed Quartermaster to one of the Battalions in the pay of this Province, was presented, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

A Memorial of the Committee of Inspection of the County of Westmoreland was presented to the House, and read, setting forth that, from a variety of informations, they are apprehensive of danger from the Ministerial troops at Detroit, and the Indians in that country; that Vann Sweringen, Esq., has raised a Company of effective men at a considerable expense, whom the Memorialists have continued and stationed at the Kittaning, on the Alleghany River, for the protection of the frontier; and praying that the said Company may be continued as long as the House may think proper; and that they may approve of the conduct of the Committee.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Memorial of the Commanders of the thirteen Row-Galleys in the service of this Province, was presented to the House, and read, setting forth that the Memorialists attended yesterday before a Committee of the House, who were appointed to inquire into the conduct of the Committee of Safety, agreeable to an order of the House of the 29th of May last; and that they were there as spectators and auditors only; that they addressed the publick in an appeal, signed with their names, on the 16th day of May last, respecting the actions on the 8th and 9th days of the said month with the Roebuck and Liverpool ships of war in the river Delaware, and alleging that they had every reason to believe that only for the want of ammunition at the time the Roebuck got aground, they would have made a prize of her; that the Committee of Safety, on the inquiry, endeavoured to prove that the Memorialists had a greater quantity of ammunition than they had set forth in the address aforesaid, and that several other facts therein contained were not well founded; all of which the Memorialists are ready to disprove, and to make out the several particulars in their said address, to the satisfaction of the House. They therefore request the House to appoint a short day for hearing them in support of the allegations contained in their said publication, and in answer to the evidence given on the part of the Committee of Safety.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The Committee appointed to prepare and draw up Resolves for rendering naturalization and the oaths or affirmations of allegiance unnecessary, &c., reported a draft of Resolutions for that purpose; which was read, and referred to further consideration.

The House, taking into consideration the Resolve of Congress of the 6th of April last,

Resolved, That George Bryan, Esq., be, and he is hereby, appointed the officer for taking bonds for observing the regulations made respecting trade, and for entering and clearing out vessels in and for the Port of Philadelphia.

Resolved, That Alexander Power be, and he is hereby, appointed Quartermaster, in the room of Frederick Molineux, who hath resigned.

The Resolves of Congress, laid before the House this morning, were again read; and, after a debate of some length, referred to further consideration.

The House adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Thursday, June 6, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

A Petition of Joseph Brownlee, praying to be appointed to a Lieutenancy in Captain Irvine's Company of Riflemen, in the room of Edward Thompson, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of John Hollenback, trader, respecting some goods taken from him in Northumberland County, and some abuses he received in the town of Sunbury, was presented to the House, and read.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The Petition from the Committee of Inspection of Westmoreland County, presented yesterday, was read a second time, and, upon consideration thereof,

Resolved, That the Company of men raised by Vann Swearingen, Esq., mentioned in the said Petition, be increased to the number of one hundred men, officers included, and kept in the pay of this Province.

The Committee appointed to draw up and bring in a draft of Instructions to the Delegates of this Province in Congress, reported an essay for that purpose; which was read by order, and referred to further consideration.

The Committee appointed to examine the works already made for the defence of this Colony, and inquire what other Fortifications are necessary, and the proper places for erecting the same, and for requesting the General Officers and Engineers of the Continental Army to afford them their advice and assistance therein, made a Report in writing; which was read by order, and follows in these words, viz:

We, the Committee appointed to attend the General Officers of the Continental Army, and other gentlemen of skill, on a survey of the shores of the river Delaware, in order to erect some further fortifications for the safety and defence of this Colony, beg leave to report:

That, pursuant to your order, we attended the said gentlemen, who surveyed the shores accurately as far as Billingsport, about eleven miles down the river, and who all concurred in the opinion that it was not advisable to lay out the publick money on works nearer the city than Fort-Island, but that it would be proper to complete the works there on the plan now fixed; and upon a view of the shore at Billingsport, on the Jersey side, they agreed in opinion that it was a strong and favourable post to erect a redoubt with proper faces; the ground being well adapted by nature, and the whole channel within a commanding distance.

They further recommend to your Committee the fixing a boom, or some other obstruction, in the passage; as, with a leading gale and a strong tide, a vessel may soon pass any fortification, however strong, unless prevented by a casual shot.

Your Committee are sorry to add, that the wind and tide being very strong against them, they were unable to prosecute the survey lower down the river, or to get to Chester; from whence they proposed to have come up by land, and viewed the ground between Chester and this city—a measure which they think highly necessary, and recommend to be adopted with all convenient expedition

THOMAS POTTS,
GEORGE GRAY,
GEORGE ROSS,
DAVID RITTENHOUSE,
JOSEPH REED,
GEORGE CLYMER.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The Committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of the Committee of Safety, &c., presented their report in writing to the House.

Upon motion, Ordered, That the Committee appointed by this House to inquire into the conduct of the Commanders of the Gallies in the service of this Colony, during the late engagements of the Gallies with the Roebuck and Liverpool men-of-war, on the 8th and 9th days of the last month; and that John Haney, James Gibbons, John Jacobs, Thomas Smith, and John Proctor, be added to the said Committee.

Upon motion, Resolved, That this House will, on Saturday next, resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole House, to take into consideration the state of this Province.

The House adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Friday, June 7, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

An Address and Remonstrance, signed by a number of inhabitants in Chester County, was presented to the House, and read, setting forth that they are informed a Paper has been presented to the House, styled "the Protest of divers Inhabitants of this Province," said to be in behalf of themselves and others; the purport of which is to subvert and change the Constitution of this Government. They therefore think it their duty to inform the House that they disapprove of the said Protest, the same being gone into without their consent or knowledge; and that they look upon such a change in Government to be of hurtful and dangerous consequences, and which they cannot consent to; but do earnestly desire that the Charter and good Constitution of this Province may be preserved inviolably.

Ordered to lie on the table.

A Memorial of several inhabitants of Northumberland County was presented to the House, and read, setting forth that their grievances, which they represented to the House at their last sitting, still remain unredressed, though they have made application according to the direction of the Assembly. They therefore pray the House to keep in memory their distresses, and grant them such relief as may be thought proper.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The House resumed the consideration of the Instructions to the Delegates of this Province in Congress; and, after a debate of a considerable length, adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

The House met pursuant to adjournment, and resumed the consideration of the Instructions to the Delegates of this Province in Congress; and, having made some progress therein, adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Saturday, June 8, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment; and the Order of Thursday last being read,

Resolved, That this House will on Tuesday next resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole House, to take into consideration the state of this Province.

The House resumed the consideration of the Instructions to the Delegates of this Province in Congress; which, being gone through, and approved of, were ordered to be transcribed.

A Member proposed to the House, and read in his place, a Resolution, as a further Instruction to the Delegates; which, being seconded, was postponed to Tuesday next for consideration.

The House adjourned to Monday next, at eleven o'clock in the morning.

—
Monday, June 10, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, with eighteen Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to four o'clock in the afternoon.

—
Mr. Speaker, with twenty-seven Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

—
Tuesday, June 11, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, with thirty-three Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to five o'clock in the afternoon.

—
Mr. Speaker, with thirty-two Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

—
Wednesday, June 12, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, with thirty-six Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

—
Mr. Speaker, with thirty-six Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

—
Thursday, June 13, 1776.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Proposals of Thomas Savage, respecting the making Salt, &c., reported that they had examined the plan proposed by the said Thomas Savage for making, annually, on the sea-coast, about sixty thousand bushels, and are of opinion the necessary works may be completed in a short time, at an expense not exceeding two thousand five hundred pounds; but, as they conceive this quantity not altogether equal to the consumption of the Colony, they earnestly recommend to the House an undertaking of greater extent, to be put under the direction of some persons of such known activity and zeal as may give a reasonable hope that the publick necessities in this article may be fully relieved, without depending on a precarious supply from abroad, which can only be obtained at an exorbitant rate.

Ordered to lie on the table for consideration.

A Member presented at the table a Letter from the President of the Congress, directed to the House, which, being read, follows in these words, viz:

—
"Philadelphia, June 13, 1776.

"GENTLEMEN: The Congress have just received advice that a number of disaffected persons have got together in Sussex County, in Delaware Government; that there is reason to apprehend those deluded people are supplied with arms and ammunition from the men-of-war of our enemies, and mean to act in concert with them. As it is of the utmost importance that such insurrections be immediately quelled and totally suppressed, the Congress have come to the following Resolution:

"That it be recommended to the Assembly of Pennsylvania immediately to order a Battalion of the Provincial Riflemen, now at Chester, to march to the assistance of the Militia in Delaware Government.

"I doubt not you will see the necessity of an immediate compliance.

"I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

—
"JOHN HANCOCK, President.

"To the Honourable Assembly of Pennsylvania."

The House, taking the above into immediate consideration,

Resolved, That this House will immediately send a Battalion of the Riflemen in the service of this Colony to the assistance of the Militia in Delaware Government.

Ordered, That Colonel Miles issue orders immediately for the marching of one Battalion of the said Riflemen, or a detachment equal to a Battalion, on the above service.

Upon motion, Ordered, That four Companies of the Musket Battalion in the service of this Province be removed from their present station to the City of Philadelphia, for Guards.

The House adjourned to four o'clock in the afternoon.

—
The Speaker, with thirty-six Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and a quorum not appearing, they adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

—
Friday, June 14, 1776.

Mr. Speaker, with thirty-five Members, met pursuant to adjournment.

Ordered, That Mr. Howell, Mr. Rodman, Mr. Pearson, Mr. Slough, Mr. Porter, Mr. Eddy, and Mr. James Allen, be a Committee to examine and report the number of days the Delegates of this Province have attended in Congress this year.

An Account of Charles Moore, Esquire, late Clerk of the House, amounting to one hundred and seventy-six Pounds three Shillings and six Pence, was presented at the table; which being read, and agreed to,

Resolved, That a Certificate be made out, and signed by the Speaker, in favour of the said Charles Moore, Esquire, for the above sum.

A Member presented at the table two Accounts of Mr. Samuel Fairlamb, for Provisions supplied the troops in the pay of this Province. Referred to the Committee of Safety.

The Committee appointed for the purpose, reported the number of days that the Delegates of this Province had attended in Congress; which being taken into consideration,

Resolved, That the Honourable John Morton, John Dickinson, Thomas Willing, Robert Morris, Andrew Allen, Benjamin Franklin, Charles Humphreys, and Edward Biddle, Esquires, be allowed twenty Shillings per diem for their attendance on that service; and that James Wilson, Esquire, be allowed twenty-five Shillings per diem for his attendance on the same service, on account of the increased expense attending his great distance from home.

The House adjourned to three o'clock in the afternoon.

—
Mr. Speaker, with thirty-five Members, met pursuant to adjournment; and Orders to the Honourable John Morton, Esquire, for £80; to John Dickinson, Esquire, for £81; to Thomas Willing, Esquire, for £197; to Robert Morris, Esquire, for £168; to Andrew Allen, Esquire, for £140; to Benjamin Franklin, Esquire, for £166; to Charles Humphreys, Esquire, for £172; and to James Wilson, Esquire, for £381 5s., being made out, agreeable to the Resolve of the forenoon, were signed by the Speaker, to be delivered to the said gentlemen accordingly. An Order to Charles Moore, Esquire, for the sum of £176 3s. 6d., being also made out, was signed by the Speaker, to be delivered to him.

The Instructions to the Delegates of this Province in Congress being transcribed according to order, were signed by the Speaker, and follow in these words, viz:

"GENTLEMEN: When, by our instructions of last November, we strictly enjoined you, in behalf of this Colony, to dissent from and utterly reject any propositions (should such be made) that might cause or lead to a separation from Great Britain, or a change of the form of this Government, our restrictions did not arise from any diffidence of your ability, prudence, or integrity, but from an earnest desire to serve the good people of Pennsylvania with fidelity, in times so full of alarming dangers and perplexing difficulties. The situation of publick affairs is since so greatly altered, that we now think ourselves justifiable in removing the restrictions laid upon you by those instructions. The contempt with which the last Petition of the honourable Congress has been treated; the late act of Parliament, declaring the just resistance of the Colonists against violences actually offered to be rebellion, excluding them from the protection of the Crown, and even compelling some of them to bear arms against their countrymen; the treaties of the King of Great Britain with other Princes, for engaging foreign mercenaries to aid the forces of that Kingdom in their hostile enterprises against America; and his answer to the Petition of the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, manifest such a determined and implacable resolution to effect the utter destruction of these Colonies, that all hopes of a reconciliation on reasonable terms are extinguished. Nevertheless, it is our ardent desire that a civil war, with all its attending miseries, could be ended by a secure and honourable peace.

"We therefore hereby authorize you to concur with the other Delegates in Congress in forming such further compacts between the United Colonies, concluding such treaties with foreign Kingdoms and States; and in adopting such other measures as, upon a view of all circumstances, shall be judged necessary for promoting the liberty, safety, and interests of America, reserving to the people of this Colony the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal Government and police of the same.

"The happiness of these Colonies has, during the whole course of this fatal controversy, been our first wish; their reconciliation with Great Britain our next. Ardently have we prayed for the accomplishment of both. But if we must renounce the one or the other, we humbly trust in the mercies of the supreme Governour of the Universe, that we shall not stand condemned before his Throne, if our choice is determined by that overruling law of self-preservation, which his Divine wisdom has thought fit to implant in the hearts of his creatures.

"Signed by order of the House:

"JOHN MORTON, Speaker."

The Report of the Committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of the Committee of Safety, &c., being again read, was approved of, and is as follows, viz:

"Your Committee beg leave to report, that they have examined into the conduct of the Committee of Safety respecting the whole of their proceedings, and particularly the supplies of powder and ammunition sent on board the galleys before and at the time of their engagements with the Roebuck and Liverpool men-of-war; and, having heard their allegations and proofs, are of opinion that it appears, from incontestable evidence, that before the first engagement the galleys were supplied with thirty-three rounds of powder each, at the proportion of one-third weight of powder to the ball; that during the said first engagement, they received, in cartridges and two kegs of loose powder, the quantity of eight rounds more beyond their first stock, and there was then ready to be delivered, and as supposed delivered to them immediately after the first engagement while the Roebuck lay aground, the quantity of eleven rounds each, besides three hundred weight sent from Wilmington and what remained unexpended in the engagement; that on the day of the second engagement, each galley had sixty-seven rounds of powder, including the supplies sent them in addition to what remained on hand after the first day's engagement. Your Committee are further of opinion that, during both the engagements, the galleys were sufficiently supplied with all other kinds of necessary ammunition; that their not having taken the Roebuck was not owing to any deficiency in the above articles; and that the conduct of the Committee of Safety on that occasion evidenced the greatest zeal and attention to the publick service.

"THOMAS POTTS,	JOSEPH PENNOCK,
"JONATHAN ROBERTS,	BARTRAM GALBREATH,
"WILLIAM RODMAN,	JAMES EWING,
"JERARDUS WYNKOOP,	SAMUEL EDIE,
"JOHN FOULKE,	JAMES RANKIN,
"BENJAMIN CHAPMAN,	JONATHAN HOGE,
"DAVID TWINING,	JOHN LESHER,
"THOMAS JENKS, Jun.,	JAMES ALLEN,
"ISAAC PEARSON,	JACOB ARNDT,
"CHARLES HUMPHREYS,	JAMES POTTER."

A Protest of the Board of Officers of the five Battalions of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, was presented to the House, and read, and is as follows, viz:

"To the Honourable the House of Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met:

"The Protest of the Board of Officers of the five Battalions of the City and Liberties of PHILADELPHIA, respectfully sheweth:

"That this Board address you by the title heretofore used to the honourable House of Assembly, in order to avoid the least appearance of disrespect to the honourable members now sitting; that this Board has received information that the honourable Congress of the United Colonies has recommended to this Colony to appoint two Brigadiers-General to command the Associators of this Province; and we, apprehending that this House may be induced to take upon them to nominate and appoint the said Brigadiers-General without having the authority of the Associators for that purpose, and further apprehending that any nomination made by this honourable House will not give satisfaction to the Associators of the Province, and consequently that they will not act under them,—for these and other weighty and important considerations, this Board do hereby protest against this honourable House making, or attempting to make, the said appointments.

"Signed by order:

"DANIEL ROBERDEAU, President."

Ordered to lie on the table.

Resolved, by the Members of Assembly now met, That they are earnestly desirous of carrying into execution the Resolutions of Congress of the 1st instant; but that, as they despair, after repeated disappointments, of procuring a quorum of the House, they find themselves unable at this time to proceed on the said Resolutions.*

Ordered, That the Delegates of this Colony lay the foregoing Resolution before the honourable Congress.

The Report of the Committee respecting the making of Salt, was taken into consideration, and referred to the Committee of Safety.

The Sergeant-at-Arms not having brought in his Account of expenses in going for the absent Members,

Ordered, That Michael Hillegas, Esq., examine and pay the said Account out of the eighty-five thousand Pounds emitted by the Resolves of Assembly, when exhibited to him for that purpose.

A Protest of the Committee of Privates of the Military Association belonging to the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, was presented to the House, and read, and is as follows, viz:

"To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met:

"The Protest of the Committee of Privates of the Military Association belonging to the City and Liberties of PHILADELPHIA, respectfully sheweth:

"That this Committee, understanding that the honourable Congress has recommended to this Colony to appoint two Brigadiers-General to command the Associators of this Province, do protest against any appointment of said Brigadiers-General to be made by this House:

"Because there is no regular Militia law which obliges the constituents of this House to become Associators, or to send persons in their room, if they decline associating; therefore the Association is not properly Provincial, and, of consequence, this House is not properly constituted to be competent to the business; nor can the appointment come before them as Provincial representation.

"Because many of the Associators have been excluded by this very House from voting for the members now composing it, though this House was applied to on their behalf; and therefore they are not represented in this House.

"Because the Counties which have the greatest number of Associators have not a proportional representation, and therefore cannot be considered as having an equal voice in the nomination.

"Because the Association has been voluntary, and this House choosing, by their resolutions respecting it, that it should remain so, therefore cannot interfere, nor in anywise, consistent with decency, attempt to impose officers upon us not of our choice.

"Because many Members of this House are the Representatives of persons in religious profession, like themselves, totally averse to military defence, and therefore cannot be called the Representatives of Associators; nor do we wish to interfere so much with their religious sentiments as to reduce them to the necessity of quitting their seats, or joining in the nomination.

* There were thirty-six Members present when this Resolution passed the House.

"Because it is well known that there are men in this House who have, ever since our first opposition to Great Britain, refused to concur in any measure necessary for defence; and we have reason to fear that some are disposed to break the union of the Colonies, and submit to the tyranny of Great Britain.

"Because this House is under no oaths of fidelity to their constituents, by which they would be bound to consult their interests; nor are they proper persons to make the oaths which are to bind themselves.

"Because, though the Members of this House who were under oaths of allegiance to the Crown consider themselves absolved therefrom, and have admitted the new elected Members to their seats without taking the said oaths, thereby dissolving the old Constitution, and finally abolishing the Charter; yet effectual care is taken to head the several pages of their Resolves, as usual, with 'Votes of the Assembly. John Penn, Esq., Governour,' without the assent of the people, for this purpose. These things wear such a face of design as renders the intentions of this House suspicious; and we think a House still confessing the King's Representative their Governour, cannot safely be trusted with the appointment of Generals to command us, lest they might give us such as would enable a certain party to make up with the enemy, at the expense of our lives and liberties.

"Because a House which showed itself so unfriendly to the Association at a time when so much depended on their exertions, as, after frequent and repeated applications for justice, to impose no more than three shillings and sixpence fine on Non-Associators for every day of general muster, and that in so lax a manner that it is a question whether it will ever be collected, is not to be trusted with the appointment of Generals to command us, lest they should show as little regard to our interest in the one case as in the other.

"Because, as this House was chosen by those only who were acknowledged the liege subjects of George, our enemy, and derived the sole right of electing this House from that very circumstance, we conceive that the moment they undertook to set aside this allegiance, they, by that very act, destroyed the only principle on which they sat as Representatives; and therefore are not a House on the principles on which they were elected; and having derived no new authority from the people, freed from such allegiance, they are a Representative body on no one principle whatever; and therefore can in no manner undertake to do the business of Representatives further than the people indulge them, without usurping authority and acting arbitrarily.

"Because the Associators have the right of appointing officers to command them, and mean ever to retain it.

"We therefore protest against, and declare we will not submit to any appointment of General Officers to command us, which this House may think proper to go into.

"Nevertheless, that the Resolve of Congress may be fully complied with, we have taken the proper steps to have a number of Associators' Representatives from every Battalion in the Province, collected together as soon as possible, to proceed to the choice of said Brigadiers-General, under whom we doubt not but the Associators will serve with cheerfulness; and they, being the officers of their choice, will have the confidence of the Associators.

"Signed by order of the Committee of Privates:

"SAMUEL SIMPSON, President."

Ordered to lie on the table.

The House adjourned to Monday, the 26th day of August, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

CONNECTICUT ASSEMBLY.

At a General Assembly of the Governour and Company of the English Colony of Connecticut, in New-England, in America, holden at Hartford, in said Colony, by special order of the Governour, on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1776—Present:

The Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour.
The Hon. Matthew Griswold, Esq., Deputy-Governour.
Jabez Hamlin, Esq.,	} Assistants.
Elisha Sheldon, Esq.,
Eliphelet Dyer, Esq.,
Jabez Huntington, Esq.,
William Pitkin, Esq.,
Abraham Davenport, Esq.,
Richard Law, Esq.,
William Williams, Esq.,

An Act for repealing an Act of this Colony entitled "An Act to prevent injustice by the Bills of Credit of the neighbouring Colonies passing in this Colony."

Whereas the continuation of said Act is attended with consequences prejudicial to the Commerce of these Colonies:

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That said Act be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed and made void.

An Act in addition to a law of this Colony entitled "An Act for restraining and punishing persons inimical to the liberties of this and the rest of the United Colonies, and for directing proceedings therein."

Whereas the provisions made in said act relative to the Estates of such persons as are inimical to the liberties of this and the United Colonies, and who absent themselves out of this Colony, is limited to Real Estate only, which is found insufficient to answer all the necessary purposes that ought to be provided for by this law:

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That whenever any person or per- sons shall be possessed of any goods, chattels, or effects, belonging to any person or persons who have or shall join the Ministerial Army or Navy acting against America, and continue to hold and screen themselves under them, or have aided and assisted them, or continue to aid or assist in carrying into execution the present Ministerial measures, it shall be the duty of the Selectmen of every such town, or the major part of them, where such person or persons dwell, who shall be possessed of such goods, chattels, or effects, to exhibit a representation thereof to any Assistant or Justice of the Peace in the same County, who is hereby empowered and directed to issue a warrant thereon, directed to the Sheriff of the County, his Deputy, or Constable, requiring him or them to seize and hold such goods, chattels, or effects, of such inimical person or persons, and make return of such warrant, with his name thereon, to the next County Court in the same County, who are hereby authorized and directed to inquire into the matters aforesaid, relative to the property of such goods so attached; and if the property of the same shall be found to be in any person or persons inimical as aforesaid, such County Court shall render judgment, that such goods, chattels, or effects, shall be sold and disposed of for the use of this Colony, and the avails thereof paid to the Treasurer of this Colony, taking his receipt for the same, and lodge the same with the Secretary of this Colony.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That whenever it shall so happen that any person or persons in this Colony is, or shall be, indebted to any person or persons inimical as aforesaid, either by bond, book, debt, or for rent in arrears, or accountable as bailiff or receiver, it shall be the duty of the Selectmen of the town wherein such debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, dwells, or the major part of them, and they are hereby authorized and empowered, in their own names, and for the use of this Colony, to institute proper suit or suits, as the nature of the case may require, against such debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, for the recovery of such sum or sums as shall be due or owing to any such inimical person or persons as aforesaid, giving a full and plain representation of the facts relative to the matters of the cause to the County Court in the same County where such debtor, agent, factor, or trustee dwells; which County Court shall render judgment in such suit or suits so brought for such sum or sums found to be due and owing by said debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, as aforesaid, for the use of the Governour and Company of this Colony, to be collected and paid to the Treasurer in manner as already provided in this act; and that all recovery or recoveries against such debtor, bailiff, tenant, or receiver, by virtue of this act, and all payments or delivery of goods, chattels, or effects, by such debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, on the requisition aforesaid, shall as effectually discharge such debtor, tenant, bailiff, factor, or trustee, for such sum recovered as aforesaid, to all intents and purposes as though the same had been made or done to the original creditor himself antecedent to incurring the forfeiture aforesaid; and that all contracts made by such debtor, tenant, agent, factor, or trustee, with any such inimical person or persons, shall be construed according to the true intent and meaning of the parties at the time of making the same; and that whenever any warrants shall be issued pursuant to this act, to seize the estate and effects of such inimical person or persons, the officer to whom the warrant shall be directed is hereby ordered to leave a true and attested copy thereof with every person or persons in such respective town as shall be debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, to such inimical person or persons, or has his or their estate or effects in his hands, at least twelve days before the sitting of the court to which the said warrant shall be made returnable; which service shall effectually secure such debt, goods, chattels, or effects, in the hands of such debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, till the same shall be properly inquired into and determined, that so the avails may be applied to the purposes required by this act.

Provided always, and be it further enacted, That in case any such debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, aforesaid, shall freely and voluntarily pay such debt, or sum or sums in his or their hands, to the Selectmen of the town in which he or they dwell, the said Selectmen may receive the same without instituting such suit as aforesaid, and give them receipt or discharge of such debt or demand, which shall be good and effectual in law, to secure such debtor, agent, factor, or trustee, against the original creditor or principal of such sum or sums received as aforesaid; and such Selectmen shall pay such sum or sums so received to the Colony Treasurer, and take his receipt for the same, and lodge it with the Secretary as aforesaid.

And it is further enacted and provided, That such Selectmen shall have and receive a reasonable reward for their service and expenses in and about the premises, which shall be taxed and allowed by the County Court of that County in which such Selectmen reside; and an order or orders shall be drawn by the Clerk of such Court upon the Colony Treasurer for the payment of the same accordingly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That an Embargo be forthwith laid upon the exportation out of this Colony, by water, of the following articles of Provision, viz: Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, Pork, Beef, Live Cattle, Peas and Beans, Butter, Cheese, Bread, Flour, and every kind of Meal; and that no Pork be exported out of this Colony by land or water, except necessary stores for vessels bound to sea; and that his Honour the Governour be and he is hereby desired to issue a Proclamation laying such Embargo, and prohibiting the exportation of such Provisions accordingly, such Embargo to be in force until the rising of this Assembly in October next: Provided, nevertheless, That his Honour the Governour be, and he is hereby, authorized and empowered to grant Permits for the exportation out of this Colony of Live Cattle and Provisions in such cases and to such Ports and places as he shall judge necessary and expedient for the publick service: Provided, also, That his Honour the Governour, by and with the advice of the Council, may discontinue the Embargo, in whole or in part, at any time when they shall judge expedient.

Whereas the King and Parliament of Great Britain, by many Acts of said Parliament, have claimed and attempted to exercise powers incompatible with and subversive of the ancient, just, and constitutional rights of this and the rest of the English Colonies in America, and have refused to listen to their many and frequent, humble, decent, and dutiful Petitions for redress of grievances and restoration of such their rights and liberties; and, turning from them with neglect and contempt to support such claims, after a series of accumulated wrong and injury, have proceeded to invade said Colonies with fleets and armies, to destroy our towns, shed the blood of our countrymen, and involve us in the calamities incident to war; and are endeavouring to reduce us to an abject surrender of our natural and stipulated rights, and subject our property to the most precarious dependance on their arbitrary will and pleasure, and our persons to slavery, and have at length declared us out of the King's protection; have engaged foreign mercenaries against us, and are evidently and strenuously striving to effect our ruin and destruction: these and many other transactions, too well known to need enumeration, the painful experience and effects of which we have suffered and feel, make it evident beyond the possibility of a doubt, that we have nothing to hope from the justice, humanity, or temperate councils of the British King or his Parliament; and that all hopes of a reconciliation, upon just and equal terms, are delusory and vain;—in this state of extreme danger, when no alternative is left us but absolute and indefinite submission to such claims as must terminate in the extreme of misery and wretchedness, or a total separation from the King of Great Britain, and renunciation of all connection with that nation, and a successful resistance to that force which is intended to effect our destruction; appealing to that God who knows the secrets of all hearts for the sincerity of former declarations of our desire to preserve our ancient and constitutional relation to that, and protesting solemnly against their oppression and injustice, which have drawn us from them, and compelled us to use such means as God, in his providence, hath put in our power for our necessary defence and preservation:

Resolved unanimously by this Assembly, That the Delegates of this Colony in General Congress be, and they are hereby, instructed to propose to that respectable body to declare the United American Colonies free and independent States, absolved from all allegiance to the King of Great Britain, and to give the assent of this Colony to such Declaration, when they shall judge it expedient and best, and to whatever measures may be thought proper and necessary by the Congress for forming foreign alliances, or any plan of operations for necessary and mutual defence; and, also, that they move and promote, as fast as may be convenient, a regular and permanent plan of Union and Confederation of the Colonies, for the security and preservation of their just rights and liberties, and for mutual defence and security, saving that the administration of Government and the power of forming Governments for, and the regulation of the internal concerns and police of each Colony, ought to be left and remain to the respective Colonial Legislatures, and also that such plan of Confederation be laid before such respective Legislatures for their previous consideration and assent.

An Act to raise two Battalions to join the Continental Army in CANADA.

Whereas this Assembly have received a requisition from the honourable Continental Congress for Troops to reinforce the Continental Army in different departments:

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That two Battalions of the inhabitants of this Colony shall be immediately raised by voluntary enlistment, to join the Continental Army in the Northern Department; each Battalion to consist of one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, one Major, and eight Companies, with one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and seventy-nine Privates, to each Company, and a Staff, to consist of one Chaplain to said two Battalions, and one Adjutant, one Quartermaster, one Surgeon, and one Surgeon's Mate, to each Battalion, and to be holden in the Continental service until the 1st day of December next; and each able-bodied effective man who shall voluntarily enlist in the said service, and sufficiently clothe himself therefor, shall receive a premium of six Pounds lawful money, and every such man so enlisted as aforesaid, who shall provide for himself a good blanket, knapsack, gun, bayonet, and cartouch-box, to the acceptance of his Captain, shall receive a further premium of one Pound two Shillings therefor, and at the same rate and proportion for so many of the articles aforesaid as he shall furnish himself with as was allowed and granted by this Assembly to the Troops raised for the defence of this Colony in April, 1775, and whilst in service shall be under the same general command, laws, and regulations, and entitled to the same pay, wages, privileges, and allowances, as the Continental Troops are, and shall also receive one month's pay in advance before he marches out of this Colony.

An Act for raising seven Battalions to join the Continental Army in New-York.

Whereas this Assembly have received a requisition from the honourable Continental Congress for Troops to reinforce the Continental Army in different departments:

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That seven Battalions, inclusive of the Regiment or Battalion voted to be raised for the general service by this Assembly in May last, be forthwith raised by voluntary inlistment, to march directly to New-York, and there join the Continental Army in that place; each Battalion to consist of one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, one Major, and eight Companies, with one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Drummer, one Fifer, and seventy-nine Privates, to each Company, and a Staff, to consist of one Chaplain, one Adjutant, one Quartermaster, one Surgeon, and one Surgeon's Mate, to each Battalion, and to be holden in said service until the 25th day of December next, unless sooner discharged. And each able-bodied effective man who shall so inlist into the service, and for the term aforesaid, and sufficiently clothe himself therefor, shall receive a premium of three Pounds, lawful money; and every such man so inlisted as aforesaid, who shall provide for himself a good blanket, knapsack, gun, bayonet, and cartouch-box, to the acceptance of his Captain, shall receive a further premium of one Pound two Shillings therefor, and at the same rate and proportion for so many of the articles aforesaid as he shall furnish himself with as was allowed and given by this Assembly to the Troops raised for the defence of this Colony in April, 1775, and shall receive one month's pay in advance before he marches out of this Colony. And all those who have inlisted as Minute-men, and will lay claim to the forty Shillings given to them as encouragement to furnish themselves, and stand ready as Minute-men, and shall also inlist into the Battalions established by this act, shall be entitled to a further sum of forty-two Shillings, they furnishing and equipping themselves in the same manner as above-said, that they may be on an equal footing with the other Troops to be raised for the same service; and that each Sergeant shall receive forty-eight Shillings, each Corporal forty-four Shillings, each Drummer and Fifer forty-four Shillings, and each Private forty Shillings, per calendar month, for wages during their continuance in said service. And in case any gun, bayonet, or cartouch-box, shall be lost by inevitable providence, the man so providing the same shall be paid the just value thereof; and a particular account shall be taken of all the arms that shall be used, and the same be appraised by indifferent men under oath; and each man so engaging as aforesaid, shall, upon inlistment, be entitled to six Pence per day for billeting money, until he shall march, and shall then be allowed one Penny per mile in lieu of rations for travelling expenses, and one day's pay for every twenty miles between home and the general rendezvous, going and returning.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the sum of forty Shillings shall be given as a further premium and encouragement to each such man as aforesaid, who shall inlist into the Continental Regiment voted to be raised in the last session of this Assembly, and destined to Boston, over and above the sums already promised to them by this Assembly; and all the aforesaid Troops, while in service, shall be subject to the same general command, law, and regulations, and entitled to the same pay, wages, privileges, and allowances, as the Continental Troops are.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the act entitled "An Act for raising and equipping a body of Minute-men to be held in readiness for the better defence of this Colony, &c.," made and passed by this Assembly at their session in May last, so far as it repeals the raising of such Minute-men pursuant to said act, be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed.

Whereas the Troops now raising in this Colony must be furnished with necessary Fire-Arms, Accoutrements, and Utensils for the service: It is therefore Resolved by this Assembly, That Captain Jeremiah Wadsworth and Colonel Jonathan Fitch be, and they are hereby empowered and directed forthwith to purchase a sufficient number of Tin Kettles, if to be had in this Colony, for the use of the two Battalions now raising and destined to the Northern Department, and cause the same to be delivered to the care of the Commissary, to be forwarded with the Baggage of said Battalions to the northward, taking his receipt therefor. They are also hereby directed to purchase suitable Iron Hollow-ware, so far as Tin cannot be had sufficient for the use of the Battalions now raising and destined to New-York, and forward the same to the care of the Commissary-General at New-York, by the cheapest and most convenient carriage, taking his receipt therefor. That the Committee who have procured Fire-Arms to be made in the several Counties be, and they are hereby, directed to make a division of the whole number of those Arms already procured to and among the several Towns in this Colony, according to their respective lists, and certify to the Selectmen of each Town the number of Guns and Bayonets allotted to them, and where they may be found, and give proper orders to them to receive the same; and such Selectmen shall deliver such Arms as they shall so receive to the chief officers of the Troops now raising in such Towns, taking their receipts therefor, which receipts shall be lodged in the hands of the Treasurers of the respective Towns; and such Arms, when returned, shall be lodged with the Treasurers, to be by them kept in constant repair at the cost of such Towns, and fully to equip said Troops.

It is further Resolved, That the Fire-Arms taken from persons belonging to this Colony who are enemies to this Colony, and in the hands of the Committees of Inspection, or others, shall be marked with the initial letters of the owners' names, and appraised by two indifferent men, under oath, and a particular account thereof taken by such Committee, and lodged with the Treasurers of the respective Towns where such owners live, and shall also be repaired, if need be, by order of such Committee, at the expense of the Colony, and when repaired shall be delivered to the chief officers of the Companies raising in the Towns where the owners of such Arms belong, taking their receipts therefor, which receipts, together with the marks and prices of such Arms, and the names of the owners, shall be recorded by the Town Clerks of the Towns where such owners lived when said Arms were taken from them; and a particular account of the repairs of those Arms shall, by such Committee, be laid before the Committee of Pay-Table for adjustment, and they are directed to give order on the Treasurer for the payment; and when such Guns are returned, they shall be lodged with the Clerk of such Committee of Inspection, there to be kept until further orders from such Committee or this Assembly, and in case of loss of any such Arms of inimical persons, the same may be laid before this Assembly for their orders thereon.

And it is further Resolved, That the Selectmen of the several Towns be, and they are hereby, directed to purchase or hire Arms, to furnish such soldiers of any of the Battalions aforesaid as cannot furnish themselves, or be furnished in any of the ways aforesaid, and shall allow to the owner of each Gun so hired the sum of six Shillings, and to the owner of each Bayonet, Belt, and Cartouch-box, so hired, the sum of four Shillings; and if such Arms are lost by inevitable providence, the owners thereof shall be paid for the time according to appraisal to be made thereof by two indifferent men, under oath; and a particular account of all such Arms purchased, or hired as aforesaid, shall be taken by the Selectmen and laid before the Committee of Pay-Table, who shall give orders on the Treasurer for payment thereof, and the cost of purchasing or hiring such Arms. And in case a sufficient number of Arms cannot be obtained in the ways aforesaid, the number wanting shall be impressed from such householders, or others not in the Militia-Roll, by warrants for that purpose from the civil authority; and the owner or owners of such impressed Arms may demand a receipt of the officer who shall impress and receive the same, and be paid the same sums for the use thereof as those from whom Arms are hired as aforesaid, and in case of loss, shall be paid for such Arms according to appraisal, to be made as aforesaid.

And it is further Resolved, That the Captain, or chief officer, of each Company in the Battalion aforesaid, shall take a particular account of all the Arms used in his Company, distinguishing such as belong to the Colony, such as soldiers provide for themselves, such as are purchased, such as are hired, such as are impressed as aforesaid, and such as belong to persons inimical, and transmit the same with the prices and repairs, to his Honour the Governour, that he may know the state thereof.

And it is further Resolved, That the Selectmen and Committees aforesaid who are to procure any Arms to be repaired, shall keep a particular account of the repairs of such Arms, and enter the same distinctly, with the prices of such Arms, in their accounts, to be transmitted to the Committee of Pay-Table for their order for payment; and when such Arms shall be returned to the owners, the cost of repairs shall be deducted out of the premium or hire thereof; and in case of loss of any of the Arms taken up in any of the ways aforesaid by inevitable providence, the value thereof at the appraisal aforesaid, together with said premiums or hire, shall be paid to the owners of such Arms, upon proper certificate thereof made to the satisfaction of the Committee of Pay-Table.

This Assembly do appoint David Waterbury, Jun., Esq., to be Brigadier-General of the Battalions of Militia now to be raised to reinforce the Continental Army in Canada.

James Wadsworth, Jun., Esq., to be Brigadier-General of the Battalions of Militia now to be raised to reinforce the Continental Army at New-York.

Gold Selleck Silliman, John Douglas, Fisher Gay, John Chester, William Douglas, Comfort Sage, Heman Swift, and Samuel Selden, Esquires, to be Colonels of the Battalions of Foot now to be raised in this Colony.

Solomon Wells, John Chandler, Selah Hart, Jonathan Lattimer, William Worthington, James Arnold, William Danielson, and Josiah Starr, Esquires, to be Lieutenant-Colonels of the Battalions of Foot now to be raised in this Colony.

Matthew Mead, John Ripley, Elias Buel, Stilworthy Waters, Phinehas Porter, John Sumner, Giles Russell, and Benadam Gallop, Esquires, to be Majors of the Battalions of Foot now to be raised in this Colony.

Colonel Erastus Wolcott to be Colonel of the Regiment ordered to be raised by the last General Assembly, and stationed at and near New-London, instead of Comfort Sage, Esq., promoted.

Samuel Mott, Esq., to be Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment ordered to be raised by the last Assembly and stationed at or near New-London, instead of Erastus Wolcott, Esq., promoted.

This Assembly do appoint the persons hereafter named to the respective Offices hereinafter-mentioned, to take the command of the two Battalions ordered by this Assembly to be raised to join the Continental Army in the Northern Department; and his Honour the Governour is hereby desired, authorized, and empowered to give Commissions according to the form provided and ordered for each respective Officer, according to his office and rank, and warrants to such as are appointed in the Staff, viz:

First Battalion.

John Douglas, Esq., to be Colonel, William Worthington to be Lieutenant-Colonel, John Sumner to be Major, of the First Battalion.

Aaron Stevens Captain, Isaac Turner First Lieutenant, Moses Dudley, Jun., Second Lieutenant, Joseph Hilyard Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

John Harmon, Jun., Captain, Benjamin Harnden, Jun., First Lieutenant, Nathaniel Pomeroy Second Lieutenant, Joel Adams Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

Ichabod Norton Captain, Amos Barns First Lieutenant, Jabez Brooks, Jun., Second Lieutenant, Jonathan Stoddard Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Ozias Pettibone Captain, George Griswold, Jun., First Lieutenant, Uriel Holmes Second Lieutenant, Simeon Gaynes Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Elijah Robinson Captain, David McClure First Lieutenant, Eliphelet Curtiss Second Lieutenant, Alexander King Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

Josiah Baldwin Captain, Simeon Allen First Lieutenant,

William Corkins Second Lieutenant, Stephen Billings Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

Vine Elderkin Captain, William Tussell First Lieutenant, Abner Robinson Second Lieutenant, Samuel Grosvenor Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

Elijah Sharp Captain, Samuel Robinson, Jun., First Lieutenant, Joseph Burgess Second Lieutenant, Simcon House Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

Second Battalion.

Heman Swift, Esq., Colonel, Joseph Starr, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel, Stilworthy Waters, Esq., Major, of the Second Battalion.

Abijah Rowley Captain, Samuel Tyler, Jun., First Lieutenant, Samuel Hazard Second Lieutenant, Phinehas Grover Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

Thaddeus Lacy Captain, James Reynolds First Lieutenant, Samuel Hurd Second Lieutenant, Abraham Post Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

Stephen Hall Captain, Jehiel Meigs First Lieutenant, Ebenezer Fowler, Jun., Second Lieutenant, David Dudley, 3d, Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Stephen Mathews Captain, Edward Tilley First Lieutenant, Amos Hiccox Second Lieutenant, Gideon Tucker Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Elijah Beach Captain, Benjamin Nichols First Lieutenant, John Carter Second Lieutenant, James Bebee, Jun., Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

Jonas Prentice Captain, Samuel Camp First Lieutenant, Divan Beny, Second Lieutenant, Ambrose Baldwin Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

Jabez Botsford Captain, John Trowbridge, Jun., First Lieutenant, Shadrach Hubbell Second Lieutenant, Clement Botsford Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

Ebenezer Couch Captain, John Ranson, Jun., First Lieutenant, John Bliss Second Lieutenant, Jedediah Durkee Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

This Assembly do appoint the persons hereafter named to the respective Offices hereinafter mentioned, to take the command of the six Battalions ordered by this Assembly to be raised and marched directly to New-York, and there to join the Continental Army in that place; and his Honour the Governour is hereby desired and authorized and empowered to give Commissions according to the form provided and ordered for each respective Officer, according to his office and rank, and warrants to such as are appointed on the Staff, viz:

First Battalion.

Gold Selleck Silliman, Esq., Colonel, John Chandler, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel, Matthew Mead Major, of the First Battalion.

George Benjamin Captain, Wakeman Burr First Lieutenant, Josiah Lacey Second Lieutenant, Daniel Duncan Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

Zalmon Read Captain, Ezekiel Sanford First Lieutenant, Ebenezer Banks Second Lieutenant, Josiah Adams Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

William Gaylord Hubbell Captain, Peter Penfield, First Lieutenant, Seth Abbot Second Lieutenant, Benjamin Hiccox Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Abraham Mead Captain, Simeon Ingersoll First Lieutenant, Henry Warren Second Lieutenant, Thomas Hobby Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Sylvanus Brown Captain, Joseph Webb, Jun., First Lieutenant, Thaddeus Weed Second Lieutenant, Gideon Waterbury Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

Gamaliel Northrup, Junior, Captain, James Betts First Lieutenant, John St. John Second Lieutenant, Ebenezer Olmsted Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

Reuben Bostwick Captain, Isaac Deforest First Lieutenant, Israel Baldwin Second Lieutenant, Lazarus Ruggles Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

Nathan Hurd, Jun., Captain, Elisha Brace First Lieutenant, Noah Judson Second Lieutenant, Elisha Clark Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

Second Battalion.

Fisher Gay, Esq., to be Colonel, Selah Hart, Esq., to be Lieutenant-Colonel, Benadam Gallop, Esq., to be Major, of the Second Battalion.

Gad Stanley Captain, Ambrose Hopen First Lieutenant, John Allen Second Lieutenant, Titus Bunnell Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

Jonah Gillet Captain, Obed Holcomb First Lieutenant, Phineas Drake Second Lieutenant, Samuel Wing Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

Edward Rogers Captain, Nathaniel Hamlin, First Lieutenant, Hezekiah Andrews Second Lieutenant, Joel Harmon Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Stephen Goodwin Captain, Giles Gaylord First Lieutenant, Stephen Scovil Second Lieutenant, Jesse Jud Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Abraham Bradley Captain, Tilley Blakesley, First Lieutenant, Thomas Catlin Second Lieutenant, James Morris, Jun., Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

Simon Wolcott Captain, John Charter First Lieutenant, Hezekiah Wells Second Lieutenant, Aaron Eaton Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

Joseph Mosely Captain, Thomas Hollister First Lieutenant, Matthew Bull Second Lieutenant, Reuben Phelps Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

Epaphras Loomis Captain, John Rockwell First Lieutenant, Abner Wilson Second Lieutenant, Charles Goodwin, Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

Third Battalion.

Comfort Sage, Esq., to be Colonel, William Danielson, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel, Elias Buel, Esq., Major, of the Third Battalion.

James Clark Captain, Elias Bliss First Lieutenant, Ebenezer West Second Lieutenant, Jonah Palmer Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

Hezekiah Parsons Captain, Josiah Converse First Lieutenant, Joseph Booth Second Lieutenant, Nathaniel Chapin Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

Jonathan Birge Captain, Edward Payne First Lieutenant, Nathaniel West Second Lieutenant, George Hubbard Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Joseph Churchill Captain, Jacob Wetmore First Lieutenant, Timothy Clarke Second Lieutenant, Titus Camen Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Edward Eells Captain, David Smith First Lieutenant, Joseph Cornish Second Lieutenant, Oliver Hubbard Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

Jonathan Parker Captain, Ichabod Hinckley First Lieutenant, Timothy Holt Second Lieutenant, Joseph Rider Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

John Green Captain, Daniel Clark First Lieutenant, Josiah Robbins Second Lieutenant, Jonathan Buck Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

John Dixon Captain, William Edmond First Lieutenant, Abraham Shepard Second Lieutenant, John Chamberlin Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

Fourth Battalion.

Samuel Selden, Esq., to be Colonel, Jonathan Lattimer, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel, Giles Russell, Esq., Major, of the Fourth Battalion.

John Willey Captain, Bezaleel Brainerd First Lieutenant, Jonathan Kilborn Second Lieutenant, Jonah Brainerd Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

William Belcher Captain, Benjamin Brewster First Lieutenant, Isaac W. Stanton, Second Lieutenant, Asa Strong Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

Richard Deshon Captain, John Comstock, 2d, First Lieutenant, Edward Gillam Second Lieutenant, Richard Douglas Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Ebenezer Whitter, Jun., Captain, Elias S. Palmer First Lieutenant, Joseph Smith Second Lieutenant, John Williams, Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Abel Spicer Captain, Jonathan Palmer First Lieutenant, Park Avery, Junior, Second Lieutenant, Edward Jeffery Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

Joshua Huntington Captain, Ezekiel Waterman First Lieutenant, John Wheatly Second Lieutenant, Charles Fanning Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

Elijah Bingham Captain, Elisha Wade First Lieutenant, William Raymond Second Lieutenant, Daniel Bill Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

Elisha Chapman Captain, John Hart First Lieutenant, Job Wright Second Lieutenant, Nathaniel Jones, Jun., Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

Fifth Battalion.

William Douglas, Esq., to be Colonel, James Arnold, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel, Phineas Parker, Esq., Major, of the Fifth Battalion.

Nathaniel Johnson Captain, Nathan Parsons, First Lieutenant, Ambrose Hine Second Lieutenant, Charles Norton Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

Edward Russell Captain, Samuel Baldwin First Lieutenant, Stephen Patten Second Lieutenant, Joseph Shaylor Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

Robert Brown Captain, Peter Johnson First Lieutenant, Joseph Mansfield Second Lieutenant, Samuel Newton Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Noah Ives Captain, Jared Robinson First Lieutenant, Jared Hill Second Lieutenant, John Mansfield Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Samuel Peck, Jun., Captain, Jehiel Bryant First Lieutenant, Jesse Goodyear Second Lieutenant, Titus Peck Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

John Lewis, Junior, Captain, James Warner First Lieutenant, Michael Bronson Second Lieutenant, and Joseph Beach, Jun., Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

Nathaniel Bunnell Captain, Hawkins Hart, First Lieutenant, Thomas Lyman Second Lieutenant, Miles Hull, Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

Cornelius Higgins Captain, James Arnold First Lieutenant, Amos Beecher Second Lieutenant, Samuel Scovil Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

Sixth Battalion.

John Chester, Esq., to be Colonel, Solomon Wills, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel, John Ripley, Esq., Major, of the Sixth Battalion.

Israel Seymour Captain, John Barnard First Lieutenant, Samuel Mattox Second Lieutenant, Joseph Bunce Ensign, of the First Company in said Battalion.

Hezekiah Wyllis Captain, John Hurlburt First Lieutenant, Joseph Skinner Second Lieutenant, Andrew Hilyer Ensign, of the Second Company in said Battalion.

Chester Wells Captain, Edward Bulkley First Lieutenant, Benjamin Talmage Second Lieutenant, James Hiccox Ensign, of the Third Company in said Battalion.

Benjamin Clark Captain, James Tyler First Lieutenant, Samuel Marcy, Jun., Second Lieutenant, Daniel Knowlton Ensign, of the Fourth Company in said Battalion.

Stephen Lyon Captain, Josiah Childs First Lieutenant, John Kimball Second Lieutenant, Richard Peabody Ensign, of the Fifth Company in said Battalion.

Asa Bacon Captain, Abner Bacon First Lieutenant, Amaziah Rust Second Lieutenant, Aaron Cleaveland Ensign, of the Sixth Company in said Battalion.

Samuel Thomas Captain, Gershom Barrows First Lieutenant, Daniel Dunham Second Lieutenant, Ebenezer Sessions Ensign, of the Seventh Company in said Battalion.

John Isham, Jun., Captain, Eliphelet Chamberlin First Lieutenant, Asaph Trumbull Second Lieutenant, Joshua Ransom Ensign, of the Eighth Company in said Battalion.

Whereas the General Assembly, holden at Hartford in May last, did appoint John Blackleach to be First Lieutenant and William Hawley to be Second Lieutenant, of the Company of which Elijah Abel is Captain, in the Regiment ordered to be raised for the defence of this and the adjoining Colonies; which is found to be inconvenient;

Resolved by this Assembly, That the said act of the General Assembly in May last, as far as respects the appointments aforesaid, be, and the same is hereby repealed. And this Assembly do appoint William Hawley to be First Lieutenant and John Blackleach to be Second Lieutenant of the aforesaid Company, under the command of the said Captain Elijah Abel, anything in said act contained notwithstanding.

Whereas this Assembly, at their present session, passed an act appointing Nathaniel Pomeroy, Jun., a First Lieutenant in Captain John Harmon's Company, in Colonel John Douglas's Regiment; and whereas this Assembly, at their session held at Hartford, in May last, appointed Thomas Abbe a First Lieutenant in Captain Abel Pease's Company, in Colonel Waterbury's Regiment; and as the exchanging the arrangement of said officers would be greatly to the advantage of the publick service, viz: to appoint the said Nathaniel Pomeroy, Jun., to be a First Lieutenant in Captain Pease's Company, and the said Thomas Abbe to be a First Lieutenant in Captain Harman's Company,

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the aforesaid acts referred to, repealing the appointment of the said Pomeroy and Abbe to be Lieutenants, be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Whereupon this Assembly do appoint Thomas Abbe, of Enfield, to be a First Lieutenant in Captain John Harmon's Company, in Colonel John Douglas's Regiment. This Assembly do appoint Nathaniel Pomeroy, Jun., of Suffield, to be a First Lieutenant in Abel Pease's Company, in Colonel Waterbury's Regiment.

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esq., Governour of the Colony of CONNECTICUT:

"To . . . . ., Greeting:

"I do hereby authorize and empower you, at beat of drum or otherwise, to raise, by voluntary inlistment, a Company of ninety-three able-bodied effective men, including officers, to join the Continental Army in Canada, to be holden in said service until the 1st day of December next, according to an act of the General Assembly of this Colony, at their special session on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1776; and you will publish the proclamation herewith committed to you in that behalf, for the encouragement of those who are inclined to inlist; and the Colonels in the several Regiments in this Colony, and the commanding officers of the Companies in those Regiments, are hereby required to lend you their aid, and muster the Companies under their command, if need be, for the purposes aforesaid."

"In the Lower House the above form of Beating Orders is accepted and approved.

"Test: TITUS HOSMER, Clerk.

"Concurred in the Upper House.

"Test: GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary."

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esq., Governour of the Colony of CONNECTICUT:

"To . . . . ., Greeting:

"I do hereby authorize and empower you, at beat of drum or otherwise, to raise, by voluntary inlistment, a Company, consisting of ninety-three able-bodied effective men, including officers, to join the Continental Army in and near New-York, to be holden in said service until the 25th day of December next, unless sooner discharged, according to an act of the General Assembly of this Colony, made and passed at their special session on the 14th June, 1776; and you will publish the resolve of Assembly herewith committed to you in that behalf, for the encouragement of those who incline to inlist; and the Colonels of the several Regiments in this Colony, and the commanding officers of the Companies in those Regiments, are hereby required to lend you their aid, and muster their Companies under their command, if need be, for the purpose aforesaid."

"In the Lower House this draft is accepted and approved.

"Test: TITUS HOSMER, Clerk.

"Concurred in the Upper House.

"Test: GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary."

"I . . . . ., of . . . . ., do acknowledge to have voluntarily inlisted myself a soldier to serve in a Battalion of Foot, raised by the Colony of Connecticut, for the defence of the United Colonies, to be commanded by . . . . ., Esq., until the 1st day of December next, according to the directions of the Continental Congress.

"Witness my hand, this . . . day of . . . , A. D. 1776."

"In the Lower House, the foregoing form of an Inlistment is accepted and approved.

"Test: TITUS HOSMER, Clerk.

"Concurred in the Upper House.

"Test: GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary."

"I . . . . ., of . . . . ., do acknowledge to have voluntarily inlisted myself a soldier to serve in a Battalion of Foot, raised by the Colony of Connecticut, to join the Continental Army in New-York, to be commanded by . . . . ., Esq., until the 25th day of December next.

"Witness my hand, this . . . day of . . . , A. D. 1776."

"In the Lower House this draft is accepted and approved.

"Test: TITUS HOSMER, Clerk.

"Concurred in the Upper House.

"Test: GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary."

Resolved by this Assembly, That the form for Warrants for Chaplains be as follows:

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esq., Governour and Commander-in-Chief of the ENGLISH Colony of CONNECTICUT, in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA:

"To Rev. . . . ., Greeting:

"Reposing special trust and confidence in your piety, ability, fidelity, and good conduct, I do hereby appoint you, the said . . . . ., a Chaplain of the . . . . . Regiment; and do hereby authorize and empower you to exercise the several acts and duties of your office and station as Chaplain of the said Regiment, which you are faithfully to perform, in a due and religious discharge thereof, according to the important trust reposed in you; for which this is your warrant.

"Given under my hand and seal at arms, in the Colony aforesaid, this . . . . . day of . . . . ., A. D. 1776."

Resolved by this Assembly, That the form for Warrants for Physicians and Surgeons in the forces now raising in this Colony, for defence of the same, be as follows, viz:

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esq., Governour and Commander-in-Chief of the ENGLISH Colony of CONNECTICUT, in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA:

"To . . . . ., Gentleman, greeting:

"I do by these presents, reposing special confidence in your fidelity, skill, and good conduct, constitute and appoint you, the said . . . . ., to be Physician and Surgeon in the . . . . . Regiment, now raised out of the Militia of this Colony, inlisted and assembled for the defence of this and the rest of the United Colonies; and I do hereby authorize and empower you to exercise your said office, in a due discharge of the duties thereof, which you are carefully and diligently to attend as a physician as aforesaid, according to the trust reposed in you; for which this is your sufficient warrant.

"Given under my hand and seal at arms, at . . . . ., in said Colony, the . . . . . day of . . . . ., A. D. 1776."

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Commissions of the Officers nominated and appointed by this Assembly at their session in May last, shall bear date on the 10th day of June, 1776; and his Honour the Governour and the Secretary are desired and directed to sign the same, filled up accordingly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Commissions for the Officers in the several Battalions ordered to be raised in this Colony at their present session, shall bear date the 20th day of June, 1776; and the Governour and Secretary are desired and directed to sign and issue the same accordingly.

Whereas this Assembly have ordered nine Battalions to be raised in this Colony to join the Continental Army at New-York and Canada; and as some of the Officers appointed in said Battalions may fail to accept the trust, and by death or otherwise vacancies may happen:

Resolved by this Assembly, That his Honour the Governour be desired, and he hereby is authorized and empowered, to appoint any Officer or Officers to fill up such vacancies that shall happen as aforesaid, and to commissionate the same accordingly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That his Honour the Governour be, and he is hereby authorized and desired, to appoint the Chaplains, Surgeons, and Surgeons' Mates for the several Regiments raised by order of this and the last sessions of this Assembly, where the same have not already been appointed by this Assembly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That his Honour the Governour be, and he is hereby authorized and desired, to appoint Armourers for the several Regiments now raising in this Colony.

Whereas this Assembly, to encourage and facilitate the inlistment of the Troops to be raised in this Colony, on the requisitions of Congress, has ordered that each soldier shall receive the first month's pay before their march, &c.; and that the same be replaced in the Treasury :

Resolved by this Assembly, That Colonels, or chief officers of each Battalion, shall receive of the Paymasters of the Continental Army the first month's pay of such soldiers, and, when received, pay the same into the Treasury of this Colony, first deducting out what shall be due to each enlisted soldier from the time of his enlistment until the day of his march; and what they shall so deduct shall be by them paid into the hands of the Captains of the several Companies, to be by them paid to the soldiers, according to act of Assembly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Committee of the Pay-Table be, and they are hereby authorized and directed, to order and pay into the hands of the several Captains, or chief officers of Companies, in the several Regiments or Battalions ordered to be raised by this Assembly in their last and the present sessions, the sum and amount of the several premiums and advance pay and wages granted and ordered by this Assembly to them and their respective Companies, to be paid and advanced to them severally and respectively on their undertaking or enlistments, or before their march out of this Colony; such Captains first lodging sufficient bonds, with surety to the acceptance of said Committee, for the faithful discharge of their duty in paying out the same to the soldiers or others enlisted to receive the same, according to the acts of this Assembly respecting their several destinations, and thereof render and settle their accounts with said Committee; for which service said Captains, or chief officers, shall be allowed at the rate of one-and-a-half per cent.

Whereas the General Assembly, held at Hartford in May last, did resolve and enact that the Troops in the pay of this Colony at New-London, New-Haven, Groton, and Stonington, shall be augmented into a Regiment, and should have and receive the same pay and allowances, in every respect, as the Troops raised for the defence of this Colony in April, 1775, had and received, which is found to be inconvenient :

Resolved by this Assembly, That the said Troops now at New-London, Groton, Stonington, and New-Haven, and the additional Troops raised, or to be raised, to augment said Troops into a Regiment, shall have and receive the same pay, wages, and allowances, in every respect, as the Troops raised by order of the Continental Congress for Continental service do have and receive, any act or resolve of this Assembly to the contrary notwithstanding.

And it is further Resolved, That every able-bodied effective man that hath or shall enlist into any of the Companies ordered to be raised to augment said Troops now at New-London, New-Haven, Groton, and Stonington, into a Regiment, shall have and receive a premium or bounty of twenty Shillings, over and above the Continental allowance aforesaid.

And whereas a resolve was made and passed by said Assembly, held here in May last, empowering and directing his Honour the Governour and Committee of Safety, by all proper ways and means, to bring said Companies at New-London, &c., upon the present Colony plan and regulations, in the manner in said resolve particularly pointed out, which being now become necessary :

It is further Resolved, That said act or resolve last mentioned be, and the same is hereby, repealed and made null and void.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Colonels of the several Regiments, ordered by this Assembly to be raised, and to join the Continental Army in New-York, be permitted and allowed to ship or transport to the place of their destination four hogsheads of Rum, two hogsheads of Molasses, and two barrels of Sugar, for each of their respective Regiments, for their present supply; the embargo on West-India goods, laid by this Assembly in their last session, notwithstanding.

Colonel Samuel Abbot, Mr. Hezekiah Lane, Mr. Thaddeus Burr, Colonel Jonathan Fitch, Captain Elisha Child, and Mr. Joseph Hopkins, are appointed, in addition to the former Committee, to procure Fire-Arms and Gun-Locks to be made and manufactured in this Colony, to be purchased and taken up by this Colony, upon the encouragement and according to the resolutions in that behalf.

Whereas there is great reason to apprehend that there will be large demands for the article of Pork for the supply of the forces that have been or may be raised for the publick service, and unless some measures are taken to secure a supply thereof, there may be danger of quantities being clandestinely purchased up and conveyed to our enemies, or engrossed by particular persons, which may occasion both publick and private distress for want thereof: Which to prevent, it is

Resolved by this Assembly, That Jeremiah Wadsworth, of Hartford, John Deshon, of New-London, Jonathan Fitch, of New-Haven, Samuel Squire, of Fairfield, David Trumbull, of Lebanon, and Lynde Lord, of Litchfield, and any or either of them, be, and they are hereby appointed to purchase up for the use of this Colony all the Pork within the same, at the market price as it now is, to be stored and kept in proper stores, to be disposed of and applied, from time to time, for the publick use, according as the exigencies of affairs may require for the use of this Colony, or of the Continental Army, under the direction of this Assembly, or of the Governour and his Committee of Safety; and the Pay-Table is hereby directed to draw on the Treasurer, in favour of either of said Committee, for money to pay for the same. And if any person or persons, who are possessed of any quantity of stored Pork more than sufficient for their own use, shall refuse to sell and deliver such Pork to said Committee, or either of them, on his or their request, and tender of money or bills therefor, at the market price, as aforesaid, where the same may be, such person or persons so refusing shall incur the penalty and forfeiture of the full value of such Pork so by him or them refused to be sold and delivered for the use of this Colony, to be recovered by petition, bill, or plaint or information, in any Court proper to try the same; and either of said Committee is hereby authorized and empowered to prosecute the breach or breaches of this act.

Whereas the article of Lead is wanted in this Colony for the publick use; in order to provide the same, it is

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Selectmen of the respective Towns in this Colony be, and they are hereby empowered and directed, forthwith to purchase such Lead-weights and other implements of Lead, as well as all the bar and old Lead, except sheet Lead on buildings, as also all Shot that shall be found in the hands of particular persons in this Colony, at a reasonable price, for the use of this Colony, and certify the quantity by them obtained, and price agreed on, to the Committee of Pay-Table, who shall draw orders on the Treasurer in favour of such Selectmen for the payment thereof; and the Committee of Pay-Table shall certify the several quantities so obtained in each Town to his Honour the Governour, that the same may be by him and the Council of Safety ordered and disposed of to the several Towns which are deficient, or to publick use, as they shall direct.

And be it further Resolved, That if any person or persons shall refuse to sell and deliver such Lead in their custody to said Selectmen, it shall be the duty of the civil authority, on application made by the Selectmen, to grant proper warrants for impressing the same for the use of this Colony, to be paid for as aforesaid.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Committee appointed to procure Tin Kettles and Iron Hollow-ware for the use of the Battalions of Foot ordered to be raised in this Colony, do likewise purchase two suitable Wash-Kettles for each of the Companies in the Battalions aforesaid, and deliver the same to the Commissary-General, or his Deputy, for the use of said Battalions.

Whereas the General Assembly, holden at Hartford on the second Thursday of May last, did agree with Thomas Bidwell, of the City of Philadelphia, to manufacture Sulphur in and for this Colony; and whereas those persons on whose Estates the Ore of Sulphur may be found may not be willing to permit such Ores to be dug up and raised without difficulty and delay: which to prevent,

Resolved by this Assembly, That Daniel Brainerd, Dyer Throop, and Jabez Chapman, Esqs., or either two of them, be a Committee, with full power speedily to agree with any person or persons in whose lands or estate such Ore of Sulphur may be found, for liberty to dig and use such Ores, for a reasonable rent; and in case they shall not be able speedily to make such agreement, said Committee are authorized and empowered, by writing under their hands, to authorize and empower the said Thomas Bidwell, or his servants, to enter upon such lands or estate, and dig, take, and use such Ore of Sulphur therein found, he allowing and paying such rent for the same as said Committee shall judge just and reasonable; and such writing shall be taken and deemed as sufficient in law to enable the said Thomas Bidwell to use and improve such Ores, or mines of Sulphur Ore, for and during the term therein mentioned, as a lease, in writing, under their hands, of the owner or owners of such estate, would be.

Whereas the General Assembly, holden at Hartford in May last, did appoint Colonel Joshua Porter to procure twenty Iron Pots and Receivers, for the use of Thomas Bidwell, to be used for the purpose of manufacturing Sulphur for the benefit of this Colony, and said Porter being unable to attend to said business:

Resolved by this Assembly, That Major Nathaniel Terry be, and he is, appointed instead of said Colonel Porter, to procure said Pots and Receivers, for the purpose aforesaid, and deliver the same to said Thomas Bidwell.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Joseph Hopkins, Esq., Mr. Isaac Doolittle, Captain Elisha Childs, Colonel Samuel Chapman, and Captain Henry Allyn, be a Committee, severally or in conjunction, to search after Lead Mines in this Colony, and inform his Honour the Governour of any discovery they shall make, that he may state the same to the President of the honourable Continental Congress.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That there be forthwith imprinted the sum of Fifty Thousand Pounds, Bills of Credit on this Colony, equal to lawful money, of suitable denominations, from six Pence, lawful money, to forty Shillings, inclusive, and of the same tenor with the late impressions of Bills of Credit of this Colony, without interest, payable at or before the 1st day of January, 1782, dated the 19th day of June, 1776; and Jabez Hamlin, William Pitkin, George Wylls, Elisha Williams, Benjamin Payne, Thomas Seymour, and Jesse Root, Esquires, or any three of them, are appointed a Committee for the purpose aforesaid, to take care said Bills are imprinted with all convenient speed, and to sign and deliver the same to the Treasurer of this Colony, taking his receipt therefor; and either one of said Committee signing the said Bills of the denomination of six Shillings and under, and any two signing the other Bills, shall be sufficient; and said Committee shall be sworn to a faithful discharge of their trust; and the Treasurer is hereby directed to pay out said Bills according to the orders of this Assembly.

And for providing an ample and sufficient Fund to call in, sink, and discharge the aforesaid sum, to be emitted as aforesaid:

Be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That a tax of seven Pence on the Pound be, and is hereby, granted and ordered to be levied on all the Polls and Rateable Estate in this Colony, according to the list thereof, to be brought in to this Assembly in October, 1779, with the additions; which tax shall be collected and paid in to the Colony Treasury by the last day of December, 1781; which tax may be discharged by paying any of the Bills emitted by order of this Assembly, or Continental Bills, or lawful Money; and the Treasurer of this Colony is hereby ordered and directed to send out his warrants for collecting said tax accordingly.

Upon the Report of the Committee appointed to confer on the differing Votes of the Houses on the Memorial of the Committee of Inspection of the Town of Norwich, concerning the Brig Nancy and her Cargo, brought into Norwich in July last, reporting to this Assembly that the said brig and cargo were the property of one Joshua Winslow, late of Boston, deceased; that the said Joshua was, at the time of his death, a person reputed to be an enemy to this country; that the property of said brig and cargo, on the death of said Joshua, vested in his widow and children, as heirs at law; that the said widow, Hannah Winslow, also has the character of an enemy to this country; that the said brig came into Stonington about the beginning of July last, when she was secured by order of some gentlemen in Norwich, who sent Captain Robert Niles, and he took some others with him, and brought her to Norwich, to prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy then in Boston; that Captain Niles was not then in the service of this Colony; that said brig was laid up in Norwich, and her cargo secured there on the 18th day of July last by the Committee of Correspondence and Inspection in Norwich, where the same are still kept; that Messrs. Israel Dodge and Company, of Salem, having a considerable demand on the estate of said deceased, brought their action for the same in the County Court of New-London, against the administrators of said estate, and served their writ by leaving copies thereof with the persons who have said molasses in possession, and said suit is yet depending in the law, and the administrators are supposed to be gone with the enemy from Boston to Halifax; that said brig is lying at the wharf, and cannot be kept out of a perishing condition, and that the molasses is an article greatly wanted by the inhabitants in this Colony, and is in a perishing condition.

Which Report being accepted and approved as on file,

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Committee of Inspection of the Town of Norwich be, and they are hereby, authorized and empowered, by themselves or such person or persons as they shall appoint, to sell and dispose of the said Brig Nancy and her Appurtenances and Cargo, at the just value thereof, to the best advantage; said Molasses to be sold to householders, or such persons as will dispose thereof to householders, at a reasonable price. Said Committee of Inspection to render an account of sales of said Brig and Appurtenances and Cargo to this Assembly, and deposite the avails thereof in the Colony Treasury, there to be kept, ready to be responded so much thereof to said Dodge and Company as they shall recover for debt and costs on their demand aforesaid, and the remainder to such persons as shall show to this Assembly their just claim or title to the same.

Whereas information hath been made to this Assembly by Amos Barns, Daniel Hill, and James Stoddard, three of the Committee of Inspection in Farmington, that Thomas Brooks, of said Farmington, a Lieutenant of the Nineteenth Company in the Fifteenth Regiment, hath openly professed before said Committee that he could not satisfy himself that the Colonies could be justified in their present measures, and that he could not join with them against Great Britain, or against the King, and that he is unfit to sustain any military office:

Resolved by this Assembly, That Colonel John Pitkin and Colonel Thomas Belden be a Committee to call said Brooks before them, and examine into the matters alleged in said complaint or information, and report make of what they shall find, with their opinion thereon, to this or the next General Assembly, and that in the mean time he be, and is hereby, suspended from the exercise of his office of Lieutenant of the Company aforesaid.

Resolved by this Assembly, That his Honour the Governour be, and he is hereby authorized, and desired to employ a suitable person to ride post from this Colony to Albany, and to any further or more northern place or stage as shall be necessary and his Honour shall direct, to carry and bring letters and intelligence for the year ensuing, or until this Assembly or his Honour and the Committee of Safety shall otherwise order.

This Assembly do appoint Gold Selleck Silliman, Esq., to be Colonel of the Regiment of Horse in this Colony, as established by this Assembly in May last.

Thomas Seymour, Esq., to be Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment of Horse, established as aforesaid.

Captain William Hart to be Major of the First Regiment of Horse, established as aforesaid.

William Hillhouse, Esq., to be Major of the Second Regiment of Horse, established as aforesaid.

Daniel Starr to be Major of the Third Regiment of Horse, established as aforesaid.

Captain Ebenezer Backus to be Major of the Fourth Regiment of Horse, established as aforesaid.

Captain Elisha Sheldon, of Salisbury, to be Major of the Fifth Regiment of Horse, established as aforesaid.

Upon the Memorial of William Brattle, of Pittsfield, in the County of Berkshire and Province of Massachusetts-Bay, showing to this Assembly that, in November last past, he purchased two hogshheads of Rum and two barrels of Sugar in this Colony, and left the same in the store of Justus Riley, of Weathersfield, praying for liberty to transport the same out of this Colony, &c., as per Memorial on file :

Resolved by this Assembly, That the said Brattle have liberty, and liberty is hereby granted to the said Brattle, to transport the said two hogsheads of Rum and two barrels of Sugar out of this Colony to the said Town of Pittsfield, the late embargo passed in this Assembly notwithstanding.

Upon the Memorial of Timothy Scranton, showing that his son came home from the Army and remained grievously sick for the space of twelve weeks, his said son being a soldier in Colonel Ward's Regiment ; that his said son has received no wages during the time of his said sickness, and he was put to considerable expense in restoring him to health ; and praying for relief, &c.:

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Committee of Pay-Table do adjust the account of wages and expenses of the Memorialist's said son, and allow what they may judge just and reasonable, and give order for payment thereof upon the Treasurer of this Colony.

Upon the Memorial of Gershom Clark, of Lebanon, representing that in the battle on Bunker-Hill, 17th of June, 1775, being a soldier in General Putnam's Regiment, he received a shot through his body, by which he was dangerously wounded, and has been and is thereby unable to labour at his trade or otherwise for the support of himself and family, and praying for an allowance towards his support, as per Memorial on file :

Resolved by this Assembly, That thirty Pounds be granted to said Memorialist out of the publick Treasury, and the Treasurer is hereby ordered to pay the same accordingly.

KING AND QUEEN COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee held for King and Queen County, June 14th, 1776, present a majority of Members.

Philip Rootes, who was summoned by a former Resolution of this Committee, as a person suspected to be inimical to the rights and liberties of America, this day appeared, and voluntarily agreed to deliver up his Arms.

William Graham, Benjamin Robinson, and Thomas Corbin, who were summoned to attend this Committee, as persons suspected to be inimical to the rights and liberties of America, this day appeared, and the oath prescribed by a Resolution of the last Convention being tendered to them, they refused to take the same. It is therefore ordered that they be disarmed.

Thomas Metcalfe was summoned to attend this Committee, as a person suspected to be inimical to the rights of America ; which he failing to do, it is therefore ordered that he be disarmed.

Ordered, That the Sergeant of this Committee do wait on the afore-named persons to receive their Arms and Ammunition, which are to be applied as directed by the General Congress.

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Committee do transmit a copy of the above proceedings to Mr. Purdie, with a request to him to publish them in his Gazette.

RICHARD TUNSTALL, Clerk.

E. JOHNSON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Lower Marlborough, June 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: When last in Annapolis, in conversation with one of your honourable members, (Mr. Ramsay,) I said I was informed by some of the inhabitants of this County near to the cliffs, that the cliffs were, in places, full of a saline matter that they took to be saltpetre, in a native state ; and I promised to examine therein on my return. I have been under those cliffs, and find saline matter in some parts in great abundance, of a vitriolick alum in our taste, but have made no experiments therewith yet, from the calls of my profession hindering me ; but on the cliffs at Mr. Holland's, about three miles below this town, on the east side of the Patuxent River, we have discovered a salt quick, and the earth very strongly impregnated with common salt, inso-much that a tub of that earth being put up, and water run through it, as they draw off lye from ashes or nitrous earth, is so rich as to yield, by boiling, a fourteenth part of its quan-

Upon the Memorial of Grace Meigs, of Middletown, praying for the wages of her husband, Return Jonathan Meigs, as a Major in the service of this Colony from the 1st day of September last to the 1st day of June, instant, he being detained a prisoner-of-war at Quebeck, &c., as per Memorial on file :

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Committee of Pay-Table make up and adjust an account of the wages of the said Major Return Jonathan Meigs, until the 1st day of June, instant, and draw upon the Treasurer for the balance that shall be found due thereon, to be paid to the Memorialist accordingly.

Upon the Memorial of Joseph Gilbert, of Glasgow, in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, showing to this Assembly that, in the month of January last, he and one William Thompson, of said Glasgow, purchased at Middletown of Richard Alsop, Esq., since deceased, three hundred and thirty gallons of New-England Rum, and at the same time purchased of one Stephen Ranny fifteen bushels of Salt, with intent to transport said goods to said Glasgow, and praying for liberty to carry said goods out of this Colony, as per Memorial on file :

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Memorialist have liberty, and liberty is hereby granted to him, to transport said three hundred and thirty gallons of New-England Rum and fifteen bushels of Salt from said Middletown to said Glasgow, anything in said act of Assembly notwithstanding.

This Assembly is adjourned by Proclamation, &c., until his Honour the Governour, or, in his absence, the Deputy-Governour, shall see cause to call it to meet again.

tity, good clear fine salt, as you may see by the small sample I have sent you by Mr. Peregrine Fitzhugh.

Various are the opinions how this is produced. Doctor James Bate says, as it is on the east side, and exposed to the most violent heat of the sun in the afternoon, he believes it to be no more than from the spray of the sea meeting this cliff, and the sun exhaling the mere moist, whilst the saline particles are left behind and retained in the earth for about four inches deep. I am of a contrary opinion, as the water of the river is only brackish at that place, none salt ever being there or within twelve miles of it, and think that the earth is impregnated with salt in a native state, which is perpetually oozing, and the sun exhales the moist and fixes the saline particles behind. Be this as it may, it is a valuable discovery, and the tenants on that land can easily get whatever salt they may want, and now only re-pine that it was not discovered early enough to salt up fish with, which are caught there in the spring in great abundance.

The saltpetre manufactory under my supervisorship, I have the satisfaction to inform you, improves much ; and though we were so unsuccessful in the first eight hogsheads of earth we drew lye from as to get nothing when last at Annapolis, other earth has, in the last three weeks, given us between fifteen and eighteen pounds of pure crude nitre ; but expect in a week or two more to have drawn off the lye, &c., from all the earth I have there in a proper state, and shall then proceed to lay in my shed this earth that has been drawn off, trash tobacco, lime, brickdust, &c., as a matrix, to receive more against the fall.

I am, gentlemen, your Honours' most obedient servant,

E. JOHNSON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

BENTON HARRIS TO MAJOR GIST.

In Committee, June 14, 1776.

SIR: We recommend to your favour the bearer hereof, Mr. William Brown, being a person well attached to the common cause of America, and has been very useful to the Militia of this County ; he will make his intentions known to you.

We are, dear sir, your most obedient and very humble servants. Per order of the Committee :

BENTON HARRIS, Chairman.

To Major Mordecai Gist.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO JESSE HOLLINGSWORTH.
[No. 23.] Annapolis, June 14, 1776.

SIR: We have received your letters with regard to the vessels sunk at Whetstone Point; and although you decline acting in your first letter, we are pleased to find you have since accepted of the trust reposed in you by the Council of Safety; and we find by your last letter that you have, in part, executed the same, by raising several of the vessels. You are desirous of having some further instructions about repairing and valuing the vessels after they are raised: we must beg leave to refer you to the proceedings of the last Convention, (page 13,) where you will see what we are directed to do; and also we refer to our former instructions, by which you are requested, after raising the vessels, to cause them to be rigged and put in the same state they were in before they were sunk, as soon as may be; and then you, or any two of you, are to cause them severally to be re-appraised, on oath, by persons you may appoint; to which we shall add nothing further at present, only request you to advise with Captain Nicholson in all your proceedings, and to take care your men appointed be free from any partiality or just objection, and that they make regular returns of appraisement to us. We doubt not you will do what is right, and then the owners cannot complain; or if they do, their unjust allegations will be little attended to, we believe, by the Convention who are shortly to meet.

We are, &c.

To Mr. Jesse Hollingsworth.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THEIR DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

[No. 24.] Annapolis, June 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of the 11th instant, we received at ten o'clock this morning. We have already complied with almost everything you requested, and we wish we had time to collect the fair and uninfluenced sense of our people on the most important point of Independence, before the meeting of the Convention; but as the assembling of that body is already fixed on the 20th of this month, it will be impossible to make the necessary inquiry before that time. We presume the first business of the Convention will be regulating the movement of the Militia, and that, if necessary, in the mean time the several Committees of Observation may be directed fairly to collect the sense of the Province on the subject of Independence, and make report thereof to the Convention. Any mode their Representatives may think proper to point out would be better relished by the people than for us to put them into a violent ferment, in a way that might not be approved of. It is a point of great magnitude, and we think it best (the shortness of the time considered) to leave it untouched until the meeting of the Convention on Thursday next. Mr. Paca, no doubt, is with you before now. Messrs. Johnson and Goldsborough are still with their families, we hear. We wish to have you all down when the grand question is decided. We leave it, however, to yourselves to judge whether you can be spared from Congress, and hope whatever is done will be generally agreed to.

From the Virginia paper we learn that Clinton left Cape Fear with his troops on the 29th of May. This comes to that Colony by express, in a letter from General Lee to their Convention. General Howe's house was burnt, and some of his domesticks ill-treated. No other damage of consequence, says the paper. And Clinton published a Proclamation warning the people of North-Carolina to flee from the wrath that was hereafter to come upon them, and exhorting them to return to duty. Where he is gone, is not ascertained. The paper says that the prevailing opinion is, they are gone to the southward. General Lee writes he thinks they are coming round to Virginia. If they are coming this way, we shall soon hear of them, and will let you know. We are, &c.

To the Delegates for Maryland in Congress.

DELAWARE ASSEMBLY.

In the House of Representatives for the Counties of Newcastle, Kent, and Sussex, upon Delaware, at Newcastle, Friday, June 14, 1776, A. M.:

Mr. McKean delivered in at the Chair a certified copy of a Resolution of Congress, of the 15th of May last, which was, by order, read, and is in the words following, to wit:

"In Congress, May 15, 1776.

"Whereas his Britannick Majesty, in connection with the Lords and Commons of Great Britain, has, by a late Act of Parliament, excluded the inhabitants of these United Colonies from the protection of his Crown: And whereas no answer whatever to the humble Petitions of the Colonies for redress of grievances and reconciliation with Great Britain, has been, or is likely to be given, but the whole force of that Kingdom, aided by foreign mercenaries, is to be exerted for the destruction of the good people of these Colonies: And whereas it appears absolutely irreconcilable to reason and good conscience for the people of these Colonies now to take the oaths and affirmations necessary for the support of any Government under the Crown of Great Britain, and it is necessary that the exercise of every kind of authority under the said Crown should be totally suppressed, and all the power of Government exerted under the authority of the people of the Colonies, for the preservation of internal peace, virtue, and good order, as well as for the defence of their lives, liberties, and properties, against the hostile invasions and cruel depredations of their enemies: Therefore,

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the respective Assemblies and Conventions of the United Colonies, where no Government sufficient to the exigencies of their affairs has been hitherto established, to adopt such Government as shall, in the opinion of the Representatives of the people, best conduce to the happiness and safety of their constituents in particular, and America in general.

"Extract from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

By special order the same was read a second time, and,

On motion, Resolved, unanimously, That this House do approve of the said Resolution of Congress.

Saturday, June 15, P. M.

Whereas it is become absolutely necessary for the safety, protection, and happiness of the good people of this Colony, forthwith to establish some authority adequate to the exigencies of their affairs, until a new Government can be formed: And whereas the Representatives of the people, in this Assembly met, alone can, and ought at this time, to establish such temporary authority:

Resolved, unanimously, That all persons holding any office, civil or military, in this Colony, on the 13th day of June instant, may, and shall continue to execute the same, in the name of the Government of the Counties of Newcastle, Kent, and Sussex, upon Delaware, as they used legally to exercise it in the name of the King, until a new Government shall be formed, agreeable to the Resolution of Congress of the 15th of May last.

Extract from the Minutes:

JAMES BOOTH, Clerk of Assembly.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

SIR: I am extremely happy to have it in my power to assure you that the several matters referred to Congress in your letters, will receive a speedy determination. With great pleasure I shall transmit you the result as soon as I am ordered. I enclose to you at this time sundry important resolves, to which I beg leave to refer your attention.

You will there perceive that Congress have ordered nine thousand dollars to be advanced to Colonel Hand, which you will please to direct to be paid him out of the military chest at New-York. This money is to be stopped out of the pay of the regiment.

The establishing a War Office is a new and great event in the history of America, and will doubtless be attended with peculiar advantages, when properly conducted and inspected. I hope the Committee will be ready in a few days to enter upon the execution of their duty. You will see the outlines of this office in the enclosed resolves. Some further regulations, it is more than probable, will be necessary in the course of time. The Congress have only laid a foundation at present; it still remains, in a great measure, to erect a system of rules and laws that will enable us to carry on military operations with more knowledge, certainty, and despatch.

I have paid Captain Grier six hundred dollars, agreeable to the order of Congress, which you will please to direct the Paymaster to deduct on settlement.

The shameful inactivity of our fleet for some time past; the frequent neglect or disobedience of orders in Commodore Hopkins; the numberless complaints exhibited to the Marine Committee against him, and also against Captains Saltonstall and Whipple, have induced the Congress, in consequence of a representation from the Marine Committee, to order them to repair immediately to this city, to answer for their conduct. I have accordingly written them to set out on the receipt of my letters, and to repair here by land as fast as possible. I hope soon to have our ships on a more respectable footing. No efforts of mine shall be wanting to accomplish so desirable an event.

I have sent the resolves to the Convention of New-York which relate to them. The prohibition on salted beef and pork, I have given orders to be printed in all the papers to the eastward.

The resolves respecting the Indians, I must ask the favour of you to forward to General Schuyler, with such directions as you shall judge necessary.

I am to inform you that the Congress have appointed Ebenezer Hancock, Esq., Deputy Paymaster-General for the Eastern Department. A carriage, with one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the pay of the troops in that department, will set out to-morrow.

June 16.—A wagon, with about twenty-two thousand dollars in silver and a quantity of Continental money, will set out to-morrow morning for Canada. I have given directions to call on you at New-York, and must request you will order a guard to proceed with it as fast as possible the rest of the way.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

I request the favour you will please to give the necessary orders to the commanding officer in the Eastern Department, and to my brother, respecting the payment of the troops.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COMMODORE HOPKINS.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

SIR: Notwithstanding the repeated efforts and solicitations of the Marine Board to put the Continental ships upon a respectable footing, and to have them employed in the service for which they were originally designed, they are constrained to say that their efforts and solicitations have been frustrated and neglected in a manner unaccountable to them; and in support of their own reputation they have been under the necessity of representing the state of their Navy to Congress, and have informed them that there has been a great neglect in the execution of their orders; and that many and daily complaints are exhibited to them against some of the officers of the ships, and that great numbers of officers and men have left the ships in consequence of ill usage, and have applied to the Marine Board for redress. These, with many other circumstances, have induced the Congress to direct you to repair to this city. And in consequence of their authority to me, I hereby direct you, immediately on receipt of this, to repair to the city of Philadelphia, and on your arrival here to give notice to me as President of the Marine Board. The command of the ships will, of course, devolve, in your absence, upon the eldest officer, to whom you will give the command, with this direction, however, that he take no steps with respect to the ships until further orders. And I further inform you that, by this opportunity, I write to Captains Saltonstall and Whipple immediately to repair to this city.

As your conduct in many instances requires explanation, you will of course be questioned with respect to your whole proceedings since you left this city. I give you this notice that you may come prepared to answer for your general conduct. You will bring with you all the instructions you have hitherto received from the Naval or Marine Board, all letters and papers relative to the fleet, and your proceedings, journals, state of all the ships, those in and out of port, state of the stores of every kind, provisions, list of the effective and non-effective men, and, in short, everything relative to the ships under your command.

As your presence is immediately necessary here, I again repeat that, on receipt of this, and as soon as you can prepare, you proceed by land to this city, here to await the further orders of Congress.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Esek Hopkins, Esq., commanding the Continental ships at Newport or elsewhere.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO CAPTAIN SALTONSTALL.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

SIR: The present inactive state of the Navy of the United Colonies, the many complaints exhibited to the Marine Board against some of the officers of the ships, and the daily applications of both officers and men who have left the fleet in consequence of very severe usage, have constrained the Marine Board to make a representation of our Naval concerns to the Congress, which require a speedy reform. And in order that the true and just reasons of this very great uneasiness and inactivity may be fully investigated, it is necessary that the officers against whom complaints have been lodged should be fully heard.

I have it in command, therefore, from Congress, to direct you, immediately upon receipt of this, to repair to the city of Philadelphia by land, and on your arrival here to give notice to me as President of the Marine Board. The command of the ship will naturally devolve upon the next officer. And you are to bring with you an exact state of the ship under your command, the list of the men remaining, what number of effective and non-effective, the state of the stores of every kind belonging to the ship, and everything relative to your ship.

As you will be called upon in general to answer for your conduct since you left this city, I give you this notice that you may come prepared for that purpose. I am to repeat to you that Congress expect your immediate compliance with this order; and am, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Captain Dudley Saltonstall, of the Ship Alfred.

(Same to Captain Abraham Whipple, of the Ship Columbus.)

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO RICHARD PETERS.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

SIR: I am to inform you that the Congress were yesterday pleased to appoint you Secretary to the Board of War and Ordnance, with a salary of eight hundred dollars a year. Should you accept the office, you will please to acquaint me with it; and that you may enter upon your duty as soon as possible, you will apply to the Committee, who will give you the necessary directions. The gentlemen on the Committee are Mr. J. Adams, Mr. Sherman, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Rutledge. The nature and importance of the office are such that the most constant attendance and unremitting application are indispensably required in the execution of it.

I am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Richard Peters, Esq.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Your letter from the honourable President of the Council was duly received. The Delegates of Massachusetts-Bay, you may depend, will pay all the regard and attention in their power to the instructions you are pleased to honour them with.

In my letter of the 4th of June, which I hope came safe to hand, I enclosed you sundry resolves of Congress relative to supplying a part of your Militia for the defence of the common cause in the present critical state of our affairs. On the 11th instant, in obedience to the commands of Congress, I sent a second express to the several Colonies that were to furnish troops for the defence of New-York. This last was sent in consequence of alarming intelligence from General Washington, of an intended attack on that city by General Howe, with all his forces. To the motives suggested in my letter on that occasion, I can only repeat, that it is the only measure that can possibly save us from destruction.

I am extremely sorry to observe that our affairs in Canada are oh so bad a footing. In order, however, to retrieve our misfortunes in that quarter, a most important step will be to supply our troops there with as much gold and silver as we can collect. You will, therefore, be pleased to send by express, immediately on receipt of this, all the hard money in your possession to General Schuyler, or to the Paymaster in Canada, Mr. Jonathan Trumbull, Jun.

I do myself the pleasure to transmit herewith the sum of thirty thousand dollars, in a small box, marked and numbered, which you will please to use your best endeavours to have exchanged for specie; and also the sum of twenty one thousand dollars, in a small box, marked and numbered, for the use of the two battalions to be raised in our Province, which you will please to improve accordingly. There are in this box Massachusetts bills equal in value to two thousand seven hundred and twenty-five and three-fourths dollars, as per list enclosed.

You will also be pleased to procure hard money to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, if possible. For any sum above the thirty thousand now sent which you may collect in specie, your bills on me shall be duly honoured; or should you be so fortunate as to collect even more than one hundred thousand dollars in hard money, your bills on me for such overplus shall also be duly honoured.

Whatever further sum you may collect after you shall have forwarded all now in your hands, you will be pleased to send immediately to Canada, if you should judge it so considerable to be worth the expense of transmitting.

I have the honour to be, with every sentiment of regard, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK.

To the Honourable Assembly of Massachusetts-Bay.

The enclosed resolutions respecting the prohibition on the exportation of salted beef and pork, I request the favour you will be pleased to order to be published in all the newspapers.

I have in charge from Congress most earnestly to solicit your attention to the article of hard money, and to request you will issue such orders as may be effectual for obtaining a considerable quantity, &c. As often as a sum worth sending is in hand you will please to order it by express to Canada.

Your Delegates, from the enhanced price of all articles and the increase of expenses in this city, are reduced to the necessity of acquainting you that their funds are exhausted, and to solicit your attention to them, in ordering them such sums of money as you judge necessary. This is the request of the whole, by whose desire I mention it.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO WILLIAM PALFREY.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

SIR: I received your favour enclosing your weekly Return to the 8th of June.

The Congress having appointed Ebenezer Hancock, Esq., Deputy Paymaster-General for the Eastern Department, it will no doubt give you pleasure to find yourself relieved of so considerable a part of your burden. I forward to him by this opportunity one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, for the use of the troops in that department.

It is my opinion you had better hire a clerk immediately, and run the risk of Congress making an allowance for him. It is scarcely possible at this time to get them to determine the matter for you. A thousand objects infinitely more important press on them, and demand an immediate attention and decision. Thus much you may depend upon, I will do all in my power to prevail with them to make an adequate allowance for a clerk, if you choose to employ one. Should you incline to adopt my opinion on this matter, Mr. Winthrop, whom I expect every hour, will be as fit a person as you can find.

I am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To William Palfrey, Esq.

RICHARD PETERS, JUN., TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

SIR: I am much obliged by the honour conferred on me by the Congress in appointing me Secretary to the Board of War and Ordnance. I accept the office with that diffidence which must naturally strike a person so unacquainted with the business as I am. I am conscious that the "most constant attendance and unremitting application are indispensably necessary;" and these, I am determined, shall not be wanting, however deficient I may be in other respects. I feel myself happy in being under the direction of the gentlemen appointed on the Committee, and shall do myself the honour of waiting on them to take their orders with regard to my duty.

I am your obedient humble servant,

RICHARD PETERS, Jun.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE DELEGATES IN CONGRESS TO MESHECH WEARE.

Philadelphia, June 14, 1776.

SIR: This goes by the person who carries the money, mentioned in a former letter, which was ordered for the advance wages and defraying the charges of raising the regiments to be stationed at Portsmouth. The sum ordered is ten thousand five hundred dollars; five hundred dollars of which William Whipple has taken, which he desires may be replaced out of the Treasury, and charged to him. Ten thousand dollars is in a box directed to you. There is in the same box ten thousand dollars for John Langdon, Esq., which please to advise him of.

We are, with great respect, your most obedient servants,

JOSIAH BARTLETT.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE.

To the Hon. Meshech Weare, Esq.

RESOLVE OF THE MEMBERS OF THE ASSEMBLY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

In Assembly, June 14, 1776.

Resolved, by the Members of Assembly now met, That they are earnestly desirous of carrying into execution the Resolutions of Congress of the 1st instant; but that as they despair, after repeated disappointments, of procuring a quorum of the House, they find themselves unable at this time to proceed on the said Resolutions.

Ordered, That the Delegates of this Colony lay the foregoing Resolution before the honourable Congress.

Extract from the Minutes:

ABEL EVANS, Clerk of Assembly.

CHESTER COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Chester County,
Downingtown, June 14, 1776. }

Present, seventy-four Members. Major William Evans in the Chair.

On motion, Resolved, That the Letter from the Committee of Inspection and Observation of the City and Liberties of Philadelphia, dated the 21st May last, be read.

Resolved, That there is a necessity for a Provincial conference of Deputies from the Committees of Inspection, &c., of this Province: Therefore,

Resolved, That Richard Thomas, William Evans, Thomas Hockley, Caleb Davis, Elisha Price, Samuel Fairlamb, William Montgomery, Hugh Lloyd, Richard Reyley, Evon Evans, Lewis Grono, Sketchley Morton, and Thomas Levis, or any seven of them, be a Committee to represent this County in Provincial Conference, to be held in the City of Philadelphia the 18th instant.

On motion, adjourned till to-morrow, five o'clock, A. M.

June 15.—Met according to adjournment.

Resolved, That the five Resolves of the honourable House of Assembly, of the 6th of April last, for the purpose of collecting the Arms from the Non-Associators, &c., be ordered to be printed in the Pennsylvania Gazette and Packet.

"Extract from the Votes of Assembly, APRIL 6, 1776.

"Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended by this House to all well-affected Non-Associators, who are possessed of good Arms, to deliver them to the collectors; hereafter directed to be chosen, as they regard the freedom, safety, and prosperity of their country.

"Resolved, That the freeholders and freemen of every Township, Borough, Ward, and District, within this Province, qualified to vote for Members of Assembly, shall respectively meet together at some convenient place within their several Townships, Boroughs, Wards, and Districts, on the 25th day of this month, and then and there choose by ballot three persons for collectors of Arms; which persons so chosen shall meet the persons chosen by the next two adjoining Townships, Boroughs, Wards, or Districts; and the said persons, or a majority of them, shall collect and receive all such Arms of Non-Associators as are fit for use, or can be conveniently made so, within their respective Townships, Boroughs, Wards, and Districts, and shall appraise, or cause the said Arms to be appraised, according to the true and real value, which they shall pay to the owners, and then shall deposite the said Arms in some dry, safe, and convenient place in the several Townships, Boroughs, Wards, and Districts, subject to the orders of Assembly, or, in their recess, of the Committee of Safety.

"Resolved, That the said persons so chosen, or a majority of them, shall disarm all disaffected persons before described, and shall appraise, or cause the Arms taken from them to be appraised as aforesaid, and shall pay to the owners the value of such Arms as are fit for use, or that can be conveniently made so, depositing all the Arms in the manner before-mentioned.

"Resolved, That if any Townships, Boroughs, Wards, or Districts, shall neglect or refuse to choose such persons as aforesaid, or if the person so chosen shall neglect or refuse to perform the duties hereby required of them; in such case the Committee of Inspection and Observation, in each County respectively, shall immediately proceed to carry the foregoing recommendation of Congress effectually into execution.

"Resolved, That the persons so chosen shall immediately make returns of all Arms fit for use, or that can conveniently be made so, which they shall take, collect, or receive, with the value thereof, to the Assembly, or, in their recess, to the Committee of Safety, who may draw orders for the amount thereof, in favour of such persons, on Michael Hillegas, Esq., Treasurer, who is hereby required to pay the same out of the moneys directed to be emitted by this House."

Resolved, That the Constables of the respective Townships in this County, who have heretofore neglected their duty, do advertise the inhabitants to meet on Saturday, the 29th instant, to choose suitable persons to proceed agreeably to the above Resolves; and that such person so chosen do make report of their proceedings to this Board at their next meeting.

Resolved, That, for the more ready execution of the said Resolves of Assembly, this County be divided into Districts, as followeth, viz:

Chester, Middletown, Nether Providence, Ridley, Darby, Springfield; Radnor, Haverford, Marple; Edgmont, Upper Providence, Newtown; Willistown, East Town, Tredyffryn; Goshen, East Whiteland, West Whiteland; Charlestown, Pikeland, Vincent; Coventry, Uwchland, East Nantmill; West Bradford, East Bradford, East Caln; Upper Chichester, Lower Chichester, Bethel; Ashton, Concord, Thornbury; Birmingham, West Town, Pennsbury; Kennet, New-Garden, East Marlborough; Londongrove, New-London, London Britain; East Nottingham, West Nottingham, Oxford; Newington, West Marlborough, East Fallowfield, West Fallowfield, Sadsbury, Londonderry; West Nantmill, West Caln.

Moved, That a Letter from the Committee of Safety, dated May last, be read.

Resolved thereon, That the respective Colonels of the Militia in this County be, and they are hereby, requested, without loss of time, to make a return to the honourable Committee of Safety of the number of Associators composing their several Battalions, and their state and condition with respect to Arms and Accoutrements.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM EVANS, Chairman.

ESSEX COUNTY (NEW-JERSEY) COMMITTEE.

Essex County Committee-Chamber, }
Newark, June 14, 1776. }

Whereas there was an order of the former County Committee, of the 12th of February last, that no person should be allowed to move into or settle within this County without bringing a certificate from the Committee of the City, Township, or County, from whence they removed, that they had signed the General Association recommended by the Continental or Provincial Congress of New-Jersey, or adopted by the Committee of the District where they resided, and had in all things behaved in a manner friendly to American liberty: And whereas sundry people have of late removed into this County, some from the Province of New-York, and others from the different Counties in this Province:

Resolved, That all such persons, so as aforesaid removed into this County, be notified to produce their certificates to this Committee by the 8th day of July next; and that upon their non-compliance, they be immediately ordered out of the County to the place from whence they came.

Extract from the Minutes. Published by order of the Committee.

ICHABOD BURNET, Clerk.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 15, 1776. Referred to the Committee of War and Ordinance.]

New-York, June 14, 1776.

SIR: I herewith transmit you copies of a letter from General Schuyler [of the 10th.] and its several enclosures, which I received since I had the honour of addressing you yesterday. From them you will learn that General Thomas died on the 2d instant, and the apprehensions of our frontier friends in this Colony that our savage foes are meditating an attack against them.

I must beg leave to refer you to a paragraph in the copy of General Schuyler's letter to General Putnam, or the commanding officer here, enclosed in mine of the 13th, where he requests a supply of clothing to be sent for the Army in Canada. As there is but little or no probability of getting it here, I shall be glad to know whether there will be any chance of procuring it in Philadelphia; and if it should be sent through the hands of the Quartermaster here, to what account it is to be charged.

I was last evening favoured with yours of the 11th instant, and hope the two battalions which Congress have ordered from Philadelphia to the defence of this place, will come provided with arms; if they do not, they will be of no service, as there are more troops here already than are armed.

From General Schuyler's letter, he has in view the taking post where Fort Stanwix formerly stood. I wrote him I thought it prudent, previous to that, to secure a post lower down, about the Falls below the German Flats, lest the savages should possess themselves of the country, and prevent supplies of men and provisions that may be necessary to send there in future. He says he is in want of cannon and ammunition; but has expressed himself so ambiguously, that I am at a loss to know whether he meant what he has said as an application or not, this being the only intelligence on the subject or the first mention of his want. I have desired him to explain the matter, and wished him, in future requisitions for necessities, to be more certain and explicit as to quantity and quality. In the mean time I shall send him some intrenching tools, and inquire whether there are any cannon that can be spared from hence.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of great esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the President of Congress.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 9, 1776.

(Parole, Amboy)

(Countersign, Brunswick.)

It is strongly recommended to the Officers of the different Regiments to practise the salute with the fusée, and to fall upon a method of being uniform therein, so that all may acquire one and the same mode; and the General desires that when the line is turned out at any encampment, all the Officers keep their arms advanced, and salute only by taking off their hats, until they have attained a more correct method of saluting with their arms.

A Guard of one Sergeant, one Corporal, and ten men, to mount to-morrow morning at Murray's Magazine. Mr. Norward will give directions for placing the sentries, &c.

Lieutenant Jacob Zanck, of Colonel Hand's Regiment, tried at the General Court-Martial whereof Colonel Nixon is President, for "insulting and abusing Lieutenant Zeigler, Adjutant of said Regiment, and for behaving in an infamous, scandalous manner, unbecoming the officer and gentleman." The Court are of opinion that the prisoner is guilty of publicly insulting Lieutenant Zeigler, on the regimental parade, and adjudge that Lieutenant Zanck ask pardon of Lieutenant Zeigler, in presence of the officers of the Battalion, and be reprimanded by the Commanding Officer of the Regiment. The General approves of the above sentence.

Giles Burrow, of Captain Barns's Company, in Colonel Nixon's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "desertion and forging a discharge from the Continental service," is found guilty of the same, and sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes on his bare back.

John Monney, of Captain Stenrod's Company, in Colonel McDougall's Regiment, tried at the General Court-Martial for "desertion," is found guilty; but unfairness having been used in inlisting the prisoner, and his being very ignorant, judge him to be confined seven days on bread and water.

Gustus Seely, of Captain Hull's Company, in Colonel Webb's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "being drunk, and disobedience of orders, and insulting Mr. Webb, Aid-de-Camp to General Putnam," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on his bare back.

The General approves of the above sentences, and orders them to be put in execution at the usual time and place.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 10, 1776.

(Parole, Bedford.)

(Countersign, Cumberland.)

The Brigadier-Generals are requested to make their different Brigades perfectly acquainted with their several alarm posts, and that they pay particular attention to the men's arms, and see that they are in perfect good fighting order.

The Colonels, or Commanding Officers of Regiments, from which men were taken to compose his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief's Guard, are not to include them in their future Returns or Abstracts, after the month of March, they being considered as a distinct Corps.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 11, 1776.

(Parole, Cambridge.)

(Countersign, Dorchester.)

A working party of fifty men to attend at the Laboratory, to-morrow morning, at six o'clock. The Assistant Quartermaster-General will direct them where to work.

Daniel Clafin, of Captain Bolster's Company, in Colonel Learned's Regiment, tried at the General Court-Martial whereof Colonel Nixon is President, for "desertion," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on his bare back.

William Camp, of Captain Moore's Company, in Colonel Prescott's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "desertion," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped thirty-nine lashes on his bare back.

Ebenezer Sawyer, of Captain Moore's Company, in Colonel Prescott's Regiment, tried at the above Court-Martial for "desertion," is found guilty, and sentenced to be whipped twenty lashes on his bare back for the same.

The General approves of the above sentences, and orders them severally to be put in execution at the usual time and place.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 12, 1776.

(Parole, Dublin.)

(Countersign, Essex.)

Colonel Nixon, President of the present sitting General Court-Martial, being to be called upon to give evidence against a prisoner to be tried this day at said Court, is therefore discharged from his duty as President of said Court, and Colonel Parsons (the next Colonel in rotation) is to succeed him as President of said General Court-Martial.

Colonel Nixon, Colonel Varnum, and some other Colonels, in consequence of the orders of the 17th ultimo, having given in a Return of their Arms to the Adjutant-General's office, about the time General Gates set off for Philadelphia, and the same having been lost or overlooked, were called upon the 8th instant for neglect in this particular; the mistake therefore being cleared up, the General does with pleasure acquit them of a breach of duty in this instance, and feels a satisfaction in finding those gentlemen unwilling to labour under a suspicion of neglect of their duty. As nothing but an attentive observance of orders can enable the Commander-in-Chief to govern troops, and preserve that regularity and discipline which is necessary to distinguish a well conducted army from an unruly rabble, it is therefore hoped and expected that officers of every rank and denomination will pride themselves in the execution of the orders which fall within their department to obey.

No sick person is to have leave of absence from camp till the Director-General of the Hospital certifies the necessity of it, and the length of time requisite for such absence, to the Brigadier of the Brigade he belongs to, who in that case is to grant the permission. All persons absent otherwise than this, will be considered as deserters, and those now out, to be recalled.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 13, 1776.

(Parole, Epsom.)

(Countersign, Falmouth.)

The party at King's Bridge to be reinforced with one Sergeant, one Corporal, and twenty men; and a Guard from the above party is to be mounted over the cannon beyond King's Bridge, who are to be exceedingly careful that no damage is done them.

Head-Quarters, New-York, June 14, 1776.

(Parole, Falkland.)

(Countersign, Georgia.)

The great extensiveness of the fortifications and works requiring a greater number of Artillerymen than are at present in the Artillery Regiment, the General, in order to remedy the deficiency and forward the service, directs that four able-bodied active men be pitched upon, in each Company of every Battalion now here, (the Riflemen excepted,) for the purpose above-mentioned.

These men are to leave their arms, ammunition, and accoutrements, in the several Regiments they go from, to supply the deficiency in each Company. They are to join the Artillery Regiment, and do duty in that corps under the command of Colonel Knox, but are to be continued upon the pay and muster-rolls of their respective Regiments.

These additional Artillerymen are to be delivered to Colonel Knox, with their necessities, at the Bowling-Green, on Sunday morning, at six o'clock. The Adjutants of the different Regiments are to attend with the men, and a roll of their names, at the hour above-mentioned.

The Engineers are to take an exact account of all the Intrenching Tools not in the Quartermaster's store in and about New-York, on Long-Island, Governour's Island, Paulus-Hook, and Horne's Hook; they are then to proportion the tools to the different works, and take the receipt of the overlooker at each place for the number delivered, calling upon him once a week regularly to account for them. The overlooker is to receive and deliver the tools regularly every evening and morning, as he will be made accountable for them. The Engineers are to consider this as a standing order, and invariably to pursue it.

All the Carpenters, Ship-Carpenters, and Joiners, in the First, Second, and Fourth Brigades, with a proportion of officers, to parade to-morrow morning, at six o'clock, before the Deputy Quartermaster-General's Office, near the Liberty-Pole in the Common, and there take their orders from the Quartermaster-General.

One Captain and fifty good axe-men, with four days' provisions, to parade at the same time and place, and to take their orders also from the Quartermaster-General.

Lieutenant Chapman, of Colonel Webb's Regiment, under an arrest for "refusing to do his duty," is to be tried by the General Court-Martial now sitting. The Adjutant of that Regiment, and the other evidences, are to attend the Court.

The five Companies of Colonel Wayne's Regiment, on Long-Island, are to be mustered to-morrow afternoon, at four o'clock, near General Greene's Head-Quarters.

To the Honourable the Delegates elected by the several Counties and Districts within the Government of NEW-YORK, in Colonial Congress convened :

The respectful Address of the Mechanics in Union, for the City and County of NEW-YORK, represented by their General Committee :

ELECTED DELEGATES: With due confidence in the declaration which you lately made to the Chairman of our General Committee that you are, at all times, ready and willing to attend to every request of your "constituents or any part of them;" we, the Mechanics in Union, though a very inconsiderable part of your constituents, beg leave to represent that one of the clauses in your Resolve, respecting the establishment of a new form of Government is erroneously construed, and for that reason may serve the most dangerous purposes; for it is well known how indefatigable the emissaries of the British Government are in the pursuit of every scheme which is likely to bring disgrace upon our rulers, and ruin upon us all. At the same time we cheerfully acknowledge that the genuine spirit of liberty which animates the other parts of that Resolve, did not permit us to interpret it in any other sense than that which is the most obvious, and likewise the most favourable to the natural rights of man. We could not, we never can, believe you intended that the future delegates or yourselves should be vested with the power of framing a new Constitution for this Colony, and that its inhabitants at large should not exercise the right which God has given them, in common with all men, to judge whether it be consistent with their interest to accept or reject a Constitution framed for that State of which they are members. This is the birthright of every man, to whatever state he may belong. There he is, or ought to be, by inalienable right, a co-legislator with all the other members of that community. Conscious of our own want of abilities, we are, alas! but too sensible that every individual is not qualified for assisting in the framing of a Constitution. But that share of common sense which the Almighty has bountifully distributed amongst mankind in general, is sufficient to quicken every one's feeling, and enable him to judge rightly what degree of safety and what advantages he is likely to enjoy, or be deprived of, under any Constitution proposed to him. For this reason, should a preposterous confidence in the abilities and integrity of our future Delegates delude us into measures which might imply a renunciation of our inalienable right to ratify our laws, we believe that your wisdom, your patriotism, your own interest, nay, your ambition itself, would urge you to exert all the powers of persuasion you possess, and try every method which, in your opinion, would deter us from perpetrating that impious and frantick act of self-destruction; for as it would precipitate us into a state of absolute slavery, the lawful power which till now you have received from your constituents to be exercised over a free people, would be annihilated by that unnatural act. It might probably accelerate our political death; but it must immediately cause your own.

The continual silence of the bodies which are, by election, vested with an authority subordinate to that of your House, would strike us with amazement should we suppose that, in their presence, your resolve ever was interpreted in a sense that was not favourable to the free exercise of our inalienable rights. But we, who daily converse with numbers who have been deceived by such misconstruction, conceive that we ought to inform you in due time that it has alarmed many zealous friends to the general cause which the United Colonies are defending with their lives and fortunes.

As the general opinion of your uprightness depends in a great measure on your explanation of that matter, and it being self-evident that the political happiness or misery of the people under your Government must be deeply affected by the measures which they may adopt in consequence of such explanation, we trust that you will receive this respectful Address with indulgence, and that all our brethren in this and the other Colonies in the Union will do us the justice to believe that it was dictated by the purest sentiments of unconfined patriotism.

The Resolve which contains the obnoxious clause already mentioned, is, together with the introduction to it, in the following words, to wit:

"And whereas doubts have arisen whether this Congress are invested with sufficient power and authority to deliberate and determine on so important a subject as the necessity of erecting and constituting a new form of Government and internal police, to the exclusion of all foreign jurisdiction, dominion, and control whatever: And whereas it appertains, of right, solely to the people of this Colony to determine the said doubts: Therefore

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the Electors in the several Counties in this Colony, by election in the manner and form prescribed for the election of the present Congress, either to authorize (in addition to the powers vested in this Congress) their present Deputies, or others in the stead of their present Deputies, or either of them, to take into consideration the necessity and propriety of instituting such new Government as in and by the said Resolution of the Continental Congress is described and recommended; and if the majority of the Counties, by their Deputies in Provincial Congress, shall be of opinion that such new Government ought to be instituted and established, then to institute and establish such a Government as they shall deem best calculated to secure the rights, liberties, and happiness of the good people of this Colony, and to continue in force until a future peace with Great Britain shall render the same unnecessary."

We cannot forbear expressing our astonishment at the existence of the doubts alluded to in the introduction just quoted. But when, in compassion to those weak minds which gave them birth, you condescend to declare that "it appertains solely to the people of this Colony to determine the said doubts," you have, in the spirit of the recommendations of the General Congress, demonstrated to your constituents that you will, on all occasions, warn them to destroy in its embryo every scheme which you may discover to have the least tendency towards promoting the selfish views of any foreign or domestick oligarchy. Your enemies never can persuade people of reflection that you fully instructed the most ignorant amongst us, by such a positive declaration of our rights, for the purpose of surreptitiously obtaining our renunciation of them. Human nature, depraved as it is, has not yet, and we hope never will, be guilty of so much hypocrisy and treachery.

We observe, on the contrary, that your Resolve is perfectly consistent with the liberal principles on which it is introduced; for, after having set forth what relates to the election of Deputies, you recommend to the Electors, "if the majority of the Counties shall be of opinion that such new Government ought to be instituted, then to institute and establish such a Government."

Posterity will behold that Resolve as the test of your rectitude. It will prove that you have fully restored to us the exercise of our right finally to determine on the laws by which this Colony is to be governed; a right of which, by the injustice of the British Government, we have till now been deprived; but a forced and most unnatural misconstruction, which is artfully put upon your Resolve, has deceived many who really believe that we will not be allowed to approve or reject the new Constitution. They are terrified at the consequences, although a sincere zeal for the general cause inspire them to suppress their remonstrances, lest the common enemy should avail himself of that circumstance to undermine your authority.

Impressed with a just fear of the consequences which result from that error, we conceive it would be criminal in us to continue silent any longer; and therefore we beseech you to remove, by a full and timely explanation, the groundless jealousies which arise from a misconception of your patriotic Resolve.

As to us, who do not entertain the least doubt of the purity of your intentions; who well know that your wisdom would not suffer you to aim at obtaining powers of which we cannot lawfully divest ourselves; which, if repeatedly declared by us to have been freely granted, would only proclaim our insanity, and for that reason be void of themselves; we beg leave, as a part of your constituents, to tender to you that tribute of esteem and respect to which you are justly entitled for your zeal in so nobly asserting the rights which the people at large have to legislation, and in promoting their free exercise of those rights. You have most religiously followed the line drawn by the General Congress of the United Colonies; their laws, issued in the style of recommendations, leave inviolate in the Conventions, the Committees, and finally the People at large, the right of rejection or ratification; but though it be decreed by that august body that the punishment of death shall, in some cases, be inflicted, the people have not rejected any of their laws, nor even remonstrated against them. The reason of such general submission is, that the whole of their proceedings is calculated to promote the greatest good to be expected from the circumstances which occasion their resolves, and scarcely admit the delays attending more solemn forms.

The conduct of their constituents, in this instance, clearly shows what an unbounded confidence virtuous rulers may place in the sound judgment, integrity, and moderation of a free people.

Whatever the interested supporters of oligarchy may assert to the contrary, there is not, perhaps, one man, nor any set of men upon earth, who, without the special inspiration of the Almighty, could frame a constitution which, in all its parts, would be truly unexceptionable by the majority of the people for whom it might be intended. And should God bless any man, or any set of men, with such eminent gifts, that man or those men, having no separate interest to support in opposition to the general good, would fairly submit the work to the collective judgment of all the individuals who might be interested in its operation. These, it is probable, would, after due examination, unanimously concur in establishing that constitution. It would become their own joint work, as soon as the majority of them should have freely accepted it; and, by its having received their free assent, the only characteristic of the true lawfulness and legality that can be given to human institutions, it would be truly binding on the people.

Any other concurrence in the acts of legislation is illegal and tyrannical; it proceeds from the selfish principles of corrupt oligarchy; and should a system of laws appear, or even be good in every other respect, (which is scarcely admissible,) yet it would be imperfect. It could be lawfully binding on none but the legislators themselves, and must continue in that state of imperfection which disgraces the best laws now and then made in Governments established on oligarchic principles, and deprives them of true legality.

As such is the case with Great Britain herself, it is evident that her Parliament are so far from having a lawful claim to our obedience, that they have it not to that of their own constituents; that all our former laws have but a relative legality, and that not one of them is lawfully binding upon us, though even now, for the sake of common convenience, the operation of most of them be, and ought to be, tolerated until a new system of Government shall have been freely ratified by the co-legislative power of the people—the sole lawful Legislature of this Colony. It would be an act of despotism to put it in force by any other means; which God avert! The people, it is true, might be awed or openly forced to obey; but they would abhor the tyranny and execrate the authors. They would justly think that they were no longer bound to submit than despotism could be maintained by the same violent or artful means which would have produced its existence.

But the free ratification of the people will not be sufficient to render the establishment lawful, unless they exercise, in its fulness, an uncontrolled power to alter the Constitution in the same manner that it shall have been received. This power necessarily involves that of every district occasionally to renew their Deputies to Committees and Congresses, when the majority of such district shall think fit; and therefore without the intervention of the Executive, or any other power foreign to the body of the respective electors. That right is so essential to our safety, that we firmly believe you will recommend to all your constituents immediately to exercise it, and never suffer its being wrested from them; otherwise the sensibility of our Delegates could not allow them to say that they hold their offices from the voluntary choice of a free people.

We likewise conceive that this measure will more effectually, and more speedily than any other, remove disaffected persons from all our councils, and give our publick proceedings a much greater weight than they have hitherto obtained amongst our neighbours.

We never did, as a body, nor ever will, assume any authority whatsoever in the publick “transactions of the present times.” Common sense teaches us that the absurdity of the claim would only destroy our usefulness as a body of “voluntary associators, who are warmly attached to the cause of liberty;” but that it would likewise expose every one of us to deserved derision. At the same time, we assure your honourable House that, on all occasions, we will continue to testify our zeal in supporting the measures adopted by Congresses and Committees in the prosecution of their great object—the restoration of human rights in the United Colonies. And if, at any future time, the silence of the bodies in power gives us reason to conceive that our representations may be useful, we then will endeavour to discharge our duty with propriety, and rely on publick indulgence for any imperfection which cannot affect our uprightness.

Signed by order of the Committee:

MALCOM McEVEN, Chairman.

Mechanicks' Hall, June 14, 1776.

ULSTER COUNTY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In County-Committee, New-Paltz, June 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your much esteemed favour of the 31st ultimo we duly received, and note it covered to us copies of two credentials contradicting each other as to the powers our Delegates were to exercise when in Congress. At present it is out of our power to give the honourable Congress that satisfaction in this matter which they require and we sincerely desire to do. The reason is, our own County Committee is composed of two Members from each Precinct Committee, save Kingston, which claims the privilege of sending four. The Members of the Precinct Committees generally attend County Committee by rotation, for their ease and convenience; of course few of the Members that compose our County Committee give their attendance at the next; such is our situation at present; having only Messrs. Schoonmaker and Robertson, from whom we can receive any information concerning this affair, and which we now transmit to the honourable Congress, together with sundry reasons delivered to this Committee by Colonel Johannes Hardenburgh, our late Chairman, why he signed two credentials, as before recited. This Committee do not think proper to make any remarks either on the reasons given them by Colonel Hardenburgh, or the account of matters given by Messrs. Schoonmaker and Robertson, as they submit both for the perusal of Congress; and have only now to add, for the information of the honourable Provincial Congress in New-York, that it is resolved and ordered in this Committee, by a unanimous vote thereof, that the credentials delivered to Matthew Cantine, Esq., one of our present Delegates—in which credentials the Deputies from this County to Provincial Congress are charged and commissioned to nominate George Clinton, Esq., and use their utmost influence to have him elected one of the Representatives for this Colony to the Continental Congress—be the credentials by which our Deputies in Provincial Congress are to be bound and regulate their conduct.

It gives us pain to reflect that anything transacted in this County should wear the appearance before the honourable Congress as though there was a division among the people, whereas the reverse is the case. We think we may be allowed to boast a little, not only of our unanimity in sentiment, but regularity in practice, ever since we were engaged in the grand contest, and that with as few exceptions as any County in this Province; therefore hope the honourable Congress will judge of this affair as an inadvertency in practice rather than a division among the people.

We have, gentlemen, the honour to be your most obedient and very humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

ROBERT BOYD, Jun., Chairman.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York.

Reasons given by Colonel JOHANNES HARDENBURGH, late Chairman of the County Convention, for returning two credentials to Provincial Congress, transacted at different times, but bearing the same date, pursuant to an order of the honourable the Provincial Congress, to wit:

First. The first credential given to the Delegates, signed by me, was pursuant to the order of the then County Committee, which had then met at the town of the New-Paltz, on the 16th day of April, 1776, and also on the 25th April following, at the house of Mrs. Ann Dubois, as may be seen by their proceedings on the 16th and 25th of April aforesaid, which said credentials were approved of by the said Committee, as may be seen by the said credentials, drawn by order of the said Committees, and signed, to be delivered to one of the Delegates, which I delivered to the Delegate, Colonel Hasbrouck.

Secondly. If the said credential had not been sent to Congress, they could not have had any information from the Committee of their claim to choose a Delegate to represent this Colony in Continental Congress by ballot, which the people at large then claimed to be their birthright. The above is the reason I give to the honourable the Provincial Congress for my signing the first credential, dated the 16th April, 1776; and also for my attending at the town of the New-Paltz, on the 13th day of May, 1776, together with so many of the Committee as were then appointed on the 25th April to meet with me at the town of the New-Paltz on the 13th May, out of each of the Precincts one, as may be seen by the said proceedings of the said Committee, or any six of the sub-Committee, together with the Chairman, to keep the said election at the town of the New-Paltz, by ballot, as was ordered by the said Committee.

Thirdly. There was likewise ordered, that, on the complaint of Colonel Charles Dewitt laid against Colonel Palmer, if there should be a sufficient number of the Committee, to appear on the 13th of May, then to consider the complaint of the said Dewitt, otherwise to refer it to a further day.

Fourthly. Which did not interfere with the sub-Committee to carry on the election by ballot according to the order of the said Committee, on the 25th April.

Fifthly. The reason why the election was not carried into execution was, that there was a division amongst the people then and there present.

Sixthly. The reason for my signing the second credential, on the 13th May, 1776, I very well knew was dated the 16th April, 1776, and signed the 13th May; and I denied to sign the same when it was offered to me, by reason it was drawn on that day, and not on the 16th April, as it was dated; but being Chairman of the Committee, after my denying to sign the same, I was then ordered by the Committee to sign the same; and being under their directions, although against my opinion, I signed the same the 13th May; and who delivered it to the Delegates I do not remember.

Seventhly. Gentlemen, the before-mentioned reasons, with many more, if necessary, I could give to the Provincial Congress, for my signing the two credentials entered by the said Congress. The sub-Committee for holding the election at the New-Paltz was appointed by the whole County Committee, at the house of Mrs. Ann Dubois, on the 25th April, and not revocable by any part of the County Committee on the 13th May, but had a right to proceed on the said business, and there being Members absent who had ordered the first credential and approved thereof.

Lastly. I must observe to this Committee, as also to the honourable Congress, that the conduct of the gentlemen present on that day deprived me of my birthright to elect a person to represent me in Continental Congress by ballot, according to the order of the County Committee.

Produced and signed the above reasons per request of the honourable the Provincial Congress, this 13th June, 1776.

Per me,

JOHANNES HARDENBURGH.

GENTLEMEN: The information I can give you of the proceedings of the County Committee with respect to the two sets of credentials that were delivered to the Deputies of Ulster County in Provincial Congress, viz:

At a meeting of the freeholders and inhabitants of this County, at the New-Paltz, on the 16th day of April, 1776, to choose Deputies to represent this County in Provincial Congress, under the inspection of the Chairman, and such members of the County Committee as was appointed to superintend the same—I at that time being in the New-Paltz, not as a member that was appointed to inspect the election, but as an elector; but as I was a member of the County Committee, in absence of the member that was appointed out of our precinct to attend and inspect said election, I was called in, and had to attend. The election was held and Deputies chosen, after which the 25th day of April was appointed for the County Committee to meet, for the purpose of fixing upon a quorum, and to prepare the credentials for the Deputies.

The Committee met on the said 25th day of April, of which House I at that time had the honour to be a member; and after the House was formed, they proceeded to business, and fixed the quorum, which two Deputies was to be.

Then the Chairman laid before the Committee a set of credentials, which he had drawn at home, and required the sense of the Committee on the same. The Committee, after making a good many alterations, ordered the Chairman to draw a fair copy of the same, and sign and deliver them to the Deputies, or one of them.

At the same time the 13th day of May was appointed for the freeholders and inhabitants of this said County to meet at the New-Paltz, to choose a Delegate to represent them in Continental Congress, where one member out of every precinct, and two out of Kingston, with the Chairman, were appointed to superintend the said election. Colonel Palmer was to be cited to appear before the Committee on said day, to answer a complaint entered against him by Colonel Charles Dewitt, concerning Minute-men; also Captain Drake was cited to appear before the Committee on said day, to answer to complaint entered against him by James Hunter, concerning Minute-men. I was also appointed to superintend the election on the 13th May, on the said day. When I came to the Paltz, it being a little late, the Chairman with the Committee were upon business, and were in a debate concerning the mode of choosing the Continental Delegates; when I came in, after some time, the Chairman offered to the Committee that were then and there present, (of which the most of them were not members that were appointed to superintend the election then and there to be held,) that set of credentials which he had made, and which the former Committee had ordered him to sign and deliver to said Delegates; the Chairman asked the Committee whether it was their pleasure that he should give said credentials to said Delegates, and proceed to the choice of a Continental Delegate or not, which was by the House rejected for several reasons; and that then the House was formed to order and proceeded to business; then a motion was made by Robert Boyd, Jun., viz: He moved that the sense of this Committee be taken, whether or no it is their opinion that the people at large proceed to the choice of a Continental Delegate; was carried in the negative. Further he moved, that the sense of this Committee be taken, whether it is their opinion that the people at large now assembled be desired to instruct their County Delegates for Provincial Congress relative to the choice of a Continental Delegate; was carried in the affirmative. Then two members were appointed to take the sense of the people then and there assembled; which they did, and the majority of the people agreed that they should instruct their Provincial Delegates concerning the choice of a Continental Delegate; and unanimously agreed that George Clinton should be by them recommended and chosen in Provincial Congress for a Continental Delegate, if it lay in their power; upon this, credentials were to be drawn, with the instructions therein; for which purpose a sub-Committee was chosen to draw said credentials; after the credentials were made by said Committee, they were approved of by the people at large, with the Committee, and ordered to be signed by the Chairman and to be delivered to the Deputies; which said credentials he did sign.

CORNELIUS C. SCHOONMAKER.

I do perfectly agree with Mr. Schoonmaker in what he hath related from the 25th of April last. What was transacted before, on the 16th, I was not present at. Witness my hand.

JOHN ROBINSON.

ULSTER COUNTY COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In County Committee, New-Paltz, June 14, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of an order from the honourable Provincial Congress (the date of which we cannot refer to, it being in the hands of Colonel Hardenburgh, our late Chairman) for receiving half a ton of powder from the commanding officer at Fort Constitution for the use of this County; application was accordingly made to Colonel Nicoll, who gave for answer that he had no powder to spare; and if he had, he could not deliver any to our order, as he had no order from Congress for that purpose. We are at a loss to judge what can be the reason for this conduct, unless through hurry of business the honourable Congress has forgotten to give the necessary orders. We must now inform your honourable Board that the good people of this County are very uneasy and in a distressed situation for want of that article; yet would be more particularly so should any disturbances break out on our frontier; we therefore request that, instead of half a ton, as before-mentioned, the honourable Congress will be pleased to order them fifteen hundred or two thousand weight, if it can be spared consistent with the publick safety.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

ROBERT BOYD, Jun., Chairman.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON TO LORD STIRLING.

Fort Constitution, June 14, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP: I did not receive your favour of the 5th until the 11th instant. I had taken the liberty to prevent the persons confined by the Committees from being set to hard labour; and have since sent a copy of the resolve of Congress to the Committees who sent them. Colonel Nicoll quitted this post, and resigned the command on the 11th instant. Ere this reaches your Lordship you will probably see him at New-York.

I remain your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,
HENRY B. LIVINGSTON.

To the Right Honourable the Earl of Stirling, Brigadier-General in the American Army, New-York.

N. B. My respects to General Putnam. I should be happy to see him here.

ALBANY GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Albany General Committee-Chamber, June 14, 1776: Present—

Abraham Yates, Jun., Chairman.

First Ward.—John Barclay, John Price, Myndert Roseboom, John Williams, Jacob Roseboom, Jun.

Second Ward.—Jeremiah Van Rensselaer, Rutger Bleecker, John J. Beekman.

Third Ward.—Dirck Ten Broeck, John M. Beekman, Isaac Van Clernam, Abraham Yates, Jun.

Schenectady.—Cornelius Van Dyck, Harmanus H. Wendell, Cornelius A. Van Slyck, John A. Bratt.

West Side Manor Rensselaer.—Anthony Van Schaick, Philip P. Schuyler, Henry Quackenbush, Cornelius G. Vandenburg, Bastian T. Visscher, David McCarty, Barent Mynderke, Philip Van Vechten, Francis Nicoll.

East Side Manor Rensselaer.—Killian Van Rensselaer, John H. Beekman, James Magee, Rynter Van Alstyn, Frederick Berger, George White, Jacob C. Schermerhorn.

King's District.—Matthew Adgate, John Beebe.

Coxsack.—John L. Bronck, William Van Bergen.

Grote Imboght.—John Van Orden, Goose Van Schaick.

Manor Livingston.—Peter R. Livingston, Walter Livingston, Dirck Jansen, Samuel Ten Broeck.

Getman Camp.—Wessel Ten Broeck, Peter Sharp.

Schoharie.—Johannes Ball, Peter Becker.

Saratoga.—John Taylor, Joseph Row.

Half-Moon.—Rutger Lansing, Wilhelmus Van Antwerp.

Schaghtekocke.—Michael Van Dercook, Lewis Van Antwerp, Nathaniel Ford.

Ballston.—Hezekiah Middebrooks.

Claverack.—Henry J. Van Rensselaer, James Sexton, Stephen Graves.

Hosick.—Jacob Audekerke, Fenner Palmer.

Cambridge.—John Younglove.

Mr. Henry Wendell applied to this Board for their recommendation (in case a new form of Government should take place in this Colony) for the sheriffship of this City and County, and Mr. Matthew Visscher made the same application for the clerkship of the said City and County; and, thereupon, this Board unanimously agree to recommend those gentlemen to the Provincial Congress, as persons, both in principles and abilities, fit for the different offices they have severally applied for.

Extract from the Minutes:

ABRAHAM YATES, Jun., Chairman.

Attest: MATTHEW VISSCHER, Secretary.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

[Hartford, June 14, 1776.]

SIR: Your letter of the 22d ultimo was received with pleasure, and, being read in Assembly, am desired to transmit you the enclosed resolutions; and further to acquaint you that we have altered the form of oaths heretofore used wherein was expressed any duty or obligation to or connection with the King of Great Britain; that the form of military commissions in the Colony are now granted on the authority of the people, in the name of the Governour; and those for the civil department, as well as all processes in law or equity, are henceforth to be issued in the name of the Governour and Company of the Colony.

Whilst we are humbly looking up to Heaven, and our senior sister Colonies, to point out some ways and means to extricate ourselves and countrymen from those unprovoked oppressions and accumulated grievances with which we have been so long exercised, it gives us the most sensible satisfaction to see the ancient and patriotick Colony of Virginia have nobly advanced to authorize and instruct their honourable Delegates to propose in Continental Congress to declare the United Colonies free and independent States, form foreign alliances, and forward a more perfect confederation of the Colonies; in which sentiments and wishes (urged by foreign tyranny and encouraged by this laudable example and invitation) we most cordially concur.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Hon. Speaker of the Convention of Virginia.

MEETING OF COMMITTEE OF HARWINTON, CONNECTICUT.

At a meeting of the Authority, Selectmen, and Committee of the Town of Harwinton, with the advice of the Committee of the Society of Torrington, held at Harwinton, on the 14th of June, 1776—Major Abijah Catlin, Chairman:

Mark Prindle, Jesse Potter, Jonathan H. Colt, Ashbel Porter, and Medad Hall, all of Harwinton, were arraigned before said meeting for inimical expressions against the honourable Continental Congress, and likewise against the honourable General Assembly of this Colony, and were all found guilty; but after making humble acknowledgments, and promising reformation, were all forgiven, except Mark Prindle, who stands bound in a bond of three hundred Pounds, to answer to the allegations at the next Superior Court, at Litchfield, in Litchfield County.

JOHN WATKINS, Clerk of said meeting.

COMMODORE HOPKINS TO LIEUTENANT HACKER.

Newport, June 14, 1776.

SIR: You are to proceed to New-York, and there deliver the cannon agreeable to Messrs. Hollingsworth and Richardson's orders. If you can get any men, you are to take as many as you can enlist. You are to apply to Mr. Jacobus Van Zandt for pig-iron for ballast, or any other necessities you may want.

You may call at New-London as you come back, and take two guns, with a sufficient quantity of shot and cartridges, out of the bomb-brig, and give Mr. Shaw a receipt for what you take; and return to me as soon as possible.

Your humble servant,

ESEK HOPKINS.

To Hoysted Hacker, Esq., Commander of the Fly.

Newport, June 17, 1776.

Last Friday, the 14th instant, arrived here from a cruise the brig Andrew Doria, Captain Biddle, who, about fourteen days before, took two transport-ships from Greenock, in Scotland, having on board each one hundred Scotch troops. Captain Biddle took out the officers, navigators, and sailors, to the number of forty, with all the small-arms and baggage of value, manned the ships with his own men, and kept company with them thirteen days, when, being a little without Nantasket Shoals, they were chased by five vessels, (one a pretty large man-of-war,) upon which he ordered the prizes to steer different courses, and though the man-of-war chased him, night coming on, he soon lost sight of them. We hope soon to hear of the prizes being arrived at some safe port. The prisoners brought in were landed here on Friday evening, who report that they were part of thirty-three sail of transports which left Greenock in company, having three thousand troops on board, bound to Boston.

Last Saturday, arrived here the brig Charming Peggy, Captain Joseph Jauncey, in twenty-one days from Curacoa, having on board twelve carriage and twelve swivel guns, and thirty-five men; she has brought in about fifteen tons of powder, and a considerable quantity of dry-goods. On Thursday, Captain Jauncey spoke with Captain Munro, in a sloop belonging to Providence, from Hispaniola, who, on his passage, had retaken two sloops, which had been taken by the Acteon frigate, and ordered for Jamaica; these sloops were from Cape-Fear, bound to Hispaniola, to which place Captain Munro sent them. On Friday, Captain Jauncey was chased by two sloops, with which he exchanged a few shot; and the next morning, just as it was light, with a fair wind, he passed within about three miles of a man-of-war, which lay at anchor under the east side of Block-Island, who, as soon as they discovered the brig, made all the sail they could after her, and followed her within a few miles of our harbour. Those vessels being seen at some distance off from the heights about this town, the Columbus, Captain Whipple, the Andrew Doria, Captain Biddle, and the Providence, Captain Jones, put out as fast as possible; but as soon as they got within about two leagues of the ship, supposed to be the Cerberus, she made all the sail she could from them, and stood up the western Sound; they chased her till towards night, when the weather coming up thick, they lost sight of her, and returned.

Captain Munro, mentioned above, we are told, is safe arrived at Stonington; and it is reported that the two transports taken by Captain Biddle are arrived at the eastward.

COLONEL HORRY TO JOHN L. GERVIS.

Camp on Haddrell's Point, June 15, 1776.

SIR: You will greatly oblige me if you will order a quantity of salt to be immediately sent to this post; there are now of the Militia here one hundred and fifty-two men, and we have only had one barrel, which was borrowed of Colonel Sumpter's Regiment; and, upon inquiry, I am told that the salt which was intended for us was sent to some other post. However, I am assured you will relieve us as soon as possible, for the men complain that eating beef without salt occasions their having disorders in the bowels.

I am your obedient, humble servant,

DANIEL HORRY.

To John L. Gervis, Esq.

GENERAL MERCER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 24, 1776.]

Williamsburgh, June 15, 1776.

SIR: I had the honour yesterday to receive your letter of the 6th instant, together with a commission appointing me a Brigadier-General in the Army of the United Colonies.

Give me leave, sir, to request of you to present to the honourable the Congress my most grateful acknowledgments for this distinguished mark of their regard.

I was on duty with part of my regiment before Gwynn's Island, where Lord Dunmore has taken possession, when your instructions reached me; in consequence of those, I shall use my utmost diligence, after settling the accounts of my regiment, to wait on you in Philadelphia.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

HUGH MERCER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

Williamsburgh, Virginia, June 15, 1776.

This day arrived in town from Georgia, on his way to the General Congress, George Walton, Esq., one of the Delegates from that Province; also Lieutenants Walton and Pannell, on the Recruiting service. By these gentlemen we learn that the Convention of Georgia have authorized their Delegates in Congress to concur in any scheme which may be proposed for the benefit of the United Colonies, even to a total separation from Great Britain, and that, in the mean while, a form of Government had been established in the Province.

We also learn that the islands upon the coast of Georgia, which abound with live stock, are continually infested by the British Pirates; but that, by the vigilance and activity of the soldiers, and adjacent inhabitants, they have not been able as yet to obtain any supplies, and in the frequent skirmishes the Pirates have always been soundly drubbed—as they ought to be.

MARYLAND DELEGATES IN CONGRESS TO COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, June 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Yours of the 10th instant was delivered to us yesterday. It has happened very well that you have called a Convention on the 20th; though, for the purpose of complying with the resolve of Congress, we think your own powers are fully adequate.

It never was intended that any part of the Militia was compellable to march out of the Province; nor do we know of any power in ours, even though the Convention was sitting, to order the Militia upon service out of the Province. It was intended that the flying camp should be formed by voluntary enlistments of the Militia; and it was supposed that the people of the respective Provinces would readily and voluntarily march to the head-quarters of this flying camp, which was ordered principally to defend the Middle Colonies. It will be necessary, however, to appoint officers, and give directions to the body of Militia when raised, and this may be done by your Council, or the Convention.

We wrote you a few days ago, requesting a call of the Convention to deliberate upon matters of the last importance, and we are glad that an earlier meeting than we expected, will afford an opportunity to our constituents to communicate to us the sense of the Province upon the very interesting subjects mentioned in our letter.

The session will be a very important one; and we wish to attend, though we know not whether it will be agreeable to our constituents to leave the Province unrepresented in Congress, it being a matter of much consequence to keep up the representation at this and all other times. We shall wait to hear from you and them upon this head; indeed, we cannot quit the Congress without leave, which will not be given here unless our attendance in Convention is desired. Mr. Tilghman left us yesterday. Mr. Paca is here. We have nothing new since we last had the honour of addressing you. The Continental proof of cannon is two-thirds of the weight of a ball of powder, and two balls; though this is said to be less powder than is used for the purpose in England.

We are, gentlemen, with much respect, your most obedient servants,

T. STONE,
J. ROGERS.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

P. S. We have sent by the stage four reams of paper, a box of instruments, and a gun-carriage.

GEORGE COOK TO COLONEL PLATER.

Smith's Creek, June 15, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I have sent you by this opportunity the draft of Smith's Creek. I hope it will please, as I have laid it down as correctly as I possibly could; it took me much longer than I expected. I was three days and a half in taking the angles and distance of places, with the soundings in the channel and on the bars, and two days in platting. The three and a half days was obliged to hire two hands to attend me. I am at this time much hurried by a report of part of Dunmore's fleet intending up the bay, expected to land off Lookout. The news is brought by the tender of the Congress; they had it from deserters from the fleet of Dunmore. Excuse haste.

I am, dear, sir, your most humble servant,

GEORGE COOK.

To Colonel Plater.

AMOS GARRETT TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Harford County, Swan Creek, June 15, 1776.

SIRS: Agreeable to the resolves of the Convention, I have been endeavouring, as Superintendent of the Saltpetre Works of this County, to comply with the same, but have met with difficulties in the essay that I did not expect from the several publications thereof. I have got my works erected, and materials collected for going on with it. I have been some time at work, but whether owing to extra wet

M Jervis

Please to deliver M Hall eight days provision for fifty ~~Rations~~ men

Aug<sup>r</sup> 6. 1776

W<sup>m</sup>. Moultrie

J<sup>r</sup>

Camp on Hedwells point 15 June 1776.

You will greatly Oblige me if you will Order a Quantity of Salt, to be immediately sent to this Post, there are now of the Militia here 152 Men, & we here only had ~~one~~ <sup>one</sup> Boat. which was borrowed of Col Sumners.
Regt. - And upon Inquiring I am told that the Salt which was intended for us was sent to some other post, However I am assured you will relieve us as soon as Possible, for the Men Complain that eating ~~Food~~ without Salt, occasion them having Disorders in their Bowels. —

I am Your O<sup>b</sup>l<sup>d</sup> Hum<sup>l</sup> Serv<sup>t</sup>.

John L Jervis Esq

Dan Armstrong

Wilmington, June 15th June 1776.

Sir

I had the honour yesterday to receive your letter of the 6th Inst together with a Commission appointing me a Brigadier General in the Army of the United Colonies — Given me leave Sir, in request of you to present to the Honourable the Congress my most grateful acknowledgements for this distinguished mark of their regard —

I was on Duty with part of my Regiment before Gowanus Island, where Lord Dunmore has taken post, when your Despatches reached me — in consequence of which I shall use my utmost Diligence, after settling the Accounts of my Regt to wait on you in Philadelphia

I have the Honour to be
The Honourable
John Hancock Esq
Yours very much obliged
Hum.ble Servt. Hugh Mercer

season when I raised the earths, or its not rising so plentifully in our flat clayey lands as in those more hilly and dry, I cannot tell, but cannot find the quantities contained in the earths I have tried as has been published. I think I shall now produce six or eight pounds per day, and have hopes of more. I have three boilers—seventy, sixty, and thirty gallons—which we use more or less every day. I have weighed what is made and fit for sending away, this day, and find I have seventy-five pounds, which I hope will be called good. I fear my success is far short of many, but it is all I could well send at this time; my desire to serve is as much as any concerned. I hope failure in quantity will not be attributed to any neglect in me. I shall advise from time to time of my success.

I am, sirs, your very humble servant,

AMOS GARRETT.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

P. S. I have sent a small sample, which your Honours will have to compare with the productions of other Counties. I have now ready, and shall finish this week, fifty bayonets, and shall continue to make.

RICHARD HARRISON TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

St. Eustatia, June 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: My last was of the 18th ultimo, by Captain Calender, enclosing duplicates of the papers sent by the John, Captain Speake, who sailed the 14th, with six thousand pounds of powder and twenty-two barrels sulphur, on your account, which I hope is now safely landed with you. By that opportunity I informed you of my having six thousand more left, four thousand of which I took down with me to this place, expecting a readier conveyance for it than from my own. On my arrival, I found none but the brig Friendship, which Mr. Vanbibber had partly engaged on freight for Virginia. In her I determined to ship also; but finding that I should be obliged to advance money for fitting her out, and every other extra expense, besides insuring her, I concluded it would be more to your interest to purchase her, and receive ten per cent. on the goods I could procure on freight, especially as I could make the payment so convenient to you; accordingly, I have agreed with Captain Martin for her, at nine hundred pounds, Maryland currency; have taken his bill of sale, and given him my two drafts of this date for four hundred and fifty pounds each, on you at ten days' sight, which you will please to honour and pass to my debit, and at the same time credit me with the vessel. This purchase, I flatter myself, cannot but be agreeable to you. She is a fine new vessel, sails fast, and will be well fitted for another voyage, a cruise, or for sale, as you may judge proper. The freight you will have to receive will amount to half the cost; and should you be so unfortunate as to lose her, the damage will be no more than if I had chartered and insured her. I have shipped for you, by this vessel, fourteen thousand one hundred pounds of powder, and twenty-three bales of Holland duck, (which is as much, and rather more, than the remainder of my money would purchase,) amounting to twenty-six hundred and seventy-four pounds seven shillings and four pence, your currency, which you will please to note in my account, invoice and bill of lading therefor being enclosed. With this a letter will be delivered you, signed by Mr. Vanbibber and myself, by which you will find we entered into a copartnership; the motives of it are therein sufficiently explained, also what we have done in consequence; I shall not, therefore, dwell longer upon it in this place.

I intended, by Captain Martin, to have furnished my account current with you, but the unexpected and agreeable intelligence of Captain Conway's arrival at St. Pierre will not permit me to stay and collect an account of the brig's disbursements. He got in on the 10th. I leave this tonight, and hope to see him in three days. Everything is ready, and I shall despatch him immediately, with a valuable cargo. I am, &c.

N. B. Should Messrs. Jenifer and Hooe apply to you for any money on my account, I should be obliged by your furnishing them with as far as five hundred pounds.

Martinique, July 9, 1776.

SIRS: The preceding is a copy of what I had the pleasure of writing you from St. Eustatia, per Captain John Martin;

I have only now to add, that under cover you will find duplicates of the invoice and bill of lading for the goods I shipped by him, also bill of lading and invoice for thirty-four casks powder, now shipped by the Molly, Captain Conway, which closes the purchase made for you on my separate account; and I have therefore sent a copy of my account current; leaving a balance in my favour of nine hundred and forty-eight pounds ten shillings and nine pence, your money. If right, you will please to enter it accordingly, and credit what you receive in future, as already advised.

I am, most respectfully, your obedient, humble servant,

RICHARD HARRISON.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, June 15, 1776.

SIR: By the enclosed resolution of Congress your Excellency will perceive there is an intention of erecting some works of defence at Billingsport, on the river Delaware, under the direction of the Committee of Safety. As they are extremely desirous of rendering that important post as strong as the nature of its situation will permit, a skilful Engineer should be on the spot to view the ground, and furnish suitable plans. Our deficiencies in that respect puts us under the necessity of applying to your Excellency to furnish us with a proper person for that purpose, and we hope the situation of New-York will not be such as to make it improper to comply with our request.

By order of the Board.

I have the honour to be your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

GEORGE CLYMER, Chairman.

To His Excellency General Washington.

PHILADELPHIA COUNTY COMMITTEE.

In Philadelphia County Committee, June 15, 1776.

Resolved, That it be, and it is hereby, recommended to the Townships in this County that have not chosen persons to receive the Arms from the non-Associators, and also those that have chosen persons who neglect that duty, to meet on the 6th day of July next, at some convenient place in their respective Townships, and choose three proper persons in each Township for that purpose, agreeably to a late Resolve of Assembly, and that the Township Committeemen (where such are chosen) are requested to advertise their respective Townships of the place and time of day to meet.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Colonels of the several Battalions of this County to give intelligence to the Committee of Safety, as soon as possible, of the state and condition of their Battalions with respect to their Fire-Arms and Accoutrements.

Extract from the Minutes:

ENOCH EDWARDS, Secretary.

BERKS COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Standing Committee for Berks County, the 15th of June, 1776, ordered, that the following Resolve of this Committee, and the Acknowledgments of John Ebeling, Matthias Rhodes, Jonathan Rhodes, and Henry Kettner, be published in the English and German Papers.

COLLINSON READ, Secretary.

Whereas the honourable the Continental Congress have recommended it to the several Assemblies, Conventions, Councils, and Committees of Safety of the several United Colonies, to cause all persons to be disarmed within their respective Colonies who are notoriously disaffected to the cause of America, or who have not associated and refuse to associate for the defence of these Colonies by arms against the hostile attempts of the British fleets and armies, and that such of the said Arms as are fit for use, or which can be made so, be appraised, as by the said recommendation of the Congress is directed; in pursuance whereof the Assembly of this Province have resolved that three freemen shall be chosen by the inhabitants of every Township in the Province, who shall meet those chosen by the two adjoining Townships, to collect the Arms from the disaffected persons and non-Associators aforesaid; and have further directed that the Committees of Inspection and Observation in each County shall take care that the said recommendation of Congress be effectually put in execution: And whereas some people in Berks County, in contempt of the said authority, have refused to deliver up their Arms to the said collectors, and put the Committee to the disagreeable necessity of taking proper notice of their conduct;—this publick notice is given, as well to the said disaffected persons and non-Associators as to the said collectors in this County, that the Committee will afford all the assistance in their power to the said collectors in procuring the Arms aforesaid; and in case of their neglect or refusal to do their duty, will take such notice of them, and such further measures as will answer the intention of the said resolves.

Whereas it hath been proved before the Committee of Berks County that we, the subscribers, have been guilty of spreading a report that the Officers of the Militia Company of Colebrookdale Township, in the said County, had sold their men to the Colonel of the battalion to which they belong: We do hereby acknowledge our misconduct, and beg pardon of the Officers of the said company for spreading the said report, and do promise for the future to conduct ourselves so as to give no offence to the said company or any other of the Associators of this County.

Witness our hands:

MATTHIAS ROTH,
JONATHAN ROTH.

June 15, 1776.

Whereas I, the subscriber, have greatly abused the persons appointed to collect the Arms of the non-Associators in the Township of Bern, in Berks County, for which I was justly confined by the Committee of the said County; I do therefore beg pardon of the publick for my misconduct, and promise to behave myself for the future so as to give no offence to the publick, or opposition to the measures of the Congress, Assemblies, or Committees, acting by their authority.

Witness my hand:

HENRY KETTNER.

June 15, 1776.

Whereas I, the subscriber, have declared that no person who hath taken the oaths of allegiance to the King ought to be permitted to hold any office in the Militia, and that Henry Christ and Baltzer Geehr, Esquires, were unfit persons to be Colonels for that reason; and whereas I am now convinced that if such an opinion should prevail it would occasion the removal of many worthy officers who have taken the said oaths before the same were dispensed with by the honourable Congress, and promote great disturbances among the Associators: I do therefore hereby declare that I look upon the said opinion as unjustifiable and wrong, and beg pardon of Colonel Geehr for the disturbance my declaring the same hath produced in his battalion; and I do engage for the future not to mention the same, or any other matter which may tend to the disturbance of the Associators, or other persons engaged in the support of the publick measures necessary at this time.

Witness my hand:

JOHN EBELING.

June 15, 1776.

ADDRESS TO THE INHABITANTS OF NEW-JERSEY.

COUNTRYMEN AND FRIENDS: This Province has been requested by the Continental Congress to send, without delay, from their Militia, three thousand three hundred men to New-York, in consequence of authentick information that the grand attack of our common enemy this summer, which will probably prove the decisive campaign, is to be upon that city; and that their force may be expected there in a few days. Your Representatives in this Congress have, with all the despatch in their power, and with the utmost unanimity, prepared an ordinance for raising the number called for, as equally from the different parts of the Province as possible. They have determined to raise the men by voluntary enlistment in the several Counties, in full confidence that in this way they will be raised most speedily, as well as consist of persons of the greatest spirit and alacrity for the important service. Filled with the same zeal for the defence of their country, they apply to you by this short Address, and in the most earnest and affectionate manner entreat you not to sully the reputation acquired on all former occasions; but to give a new proof to the publick of your courage and intrepidity as men of your unalterable attachment to the liberties of America, and the sincerity of your unanimous resolutions from the beginning of this contest. Were there time to draw up a long discourse in this hour of danger, the arguments that might be used are innumerable; and as some of them are of the most urgent, so (blessed be God) others are of the most encouraging and animating kind.

The danger is not only certain, but immediate and imminent. It does not admit of a moment's delay, for our unjust and implacable enemy is at hand. The place where the attack is expected is of the last importance—not only a city of great extent, the interest of whose numerous inhabitants must be exceedingly dear to us, but situated in the middle of the Colonies, and where the success of the enemy would separate the Provinces, and disunite their efforts by land, which are of necessity liable to interruption from the enemy's fleet by sea. It is scarce worth while to add, that this Province, by its vicinity, would then be exposed to the cruel depredations of the enemy, who, happily, hitherto have been able to do us little or no mischief but by theft and rapine. It would seem to carry an unjust suspicion of you to say any more on our own private interest, as we hope every honest man is chiefly concerned for, and will strain every nerve in support of the common cause of the United Colonies.

We cannot help putting you in mind how signally Almighty God has prospered us hitherto, and crowned our virtuous efforts with success. The expulsion of the enemy from Boston, where they first took possession, and begun their oppressive measures, was an event as disgraceful to them as it was advantageous to the publick cause, and honourable to that brave and resolute army by which it was accomplished. It will certainly be no small encouragement to those who shall now proceed to the place of danger, that they shall join with many of the same soldiers who have gained immortal honour by their past conduct, as well as serve under that wise and able leader whose prudence, firmness and attention to his great charge, have procured him the most unlimited confidence, both of those who direct the publick counsels and of those who are in arms under his command.

We must not forget the activity and success of the inhabitants of the Southern Colonies. They ran to arms in thousands the moment they heard of an attack, both in Virginia and North-Carolina. God was pleased, in both cases, to reward their alacrity, for they obtained a complete victory over their enemies, with so little loss of blood, as was not barely wonderful, but scarcely credible. At the battle of Moore's Creek Bridge, there were but a few men killed; and at Norfolk, Great-Bridge, we did not loose a single life.

Time does not permit us to enlarge on the past events of this war, in which the kindness of Providence is so clearly to be seen. We therefore only further observe, that by the preparations in Britain for this campaign, and by all the intelligence received from Europe, it is plain that not honour and advantage only, but absolute necessity, requires us to exert our utmost efforts, for all is at stake. Every one is now obliged to confess what many saw long ago, that entire and unconditional submission is the point to which our enemies are determined to bring us, if in their power; so that nothing remains for us but either the abject slavery of tributary States, or to maintain our rights and liberties by force of arms, and hand down the fair inheritance to our posterity by a brave and determined defence.

We desire and expect that, in such a situation of things, all particular difference of small moment, arising from whatever cause—whether religious denominations, rivalry of different classes of men, scarcity of some articles of commerce, or any other—may be entirely laid aside. The present danger requires the most perfect union. Let every enemy perceive that the Representatives of the Colonies, as soon as they determine upon any measure, are able to bring out the whole strength of this vast country to carry it into execution.

That you may be under no apprehension, either of inequality in the burden, or that our own coasts will be left unguarded by the destination of this brigade, we have thought it best to inform you that the Continental Congress have amply provided for the defence of this Province, and have made such an arrangement of the Continental Army for the ensuing campaign, as lays an equal burden on the inhabitants of the different Colonies; in particular, that a flying camp of ten thousand men is now forming for the protection of the middle Colonies, which, we are credibly informed, is to have its chief station in this Province. We add no more, but that we trust and hope that while every Province is making the most spirited efforts, New-Jersey, in its place and duty, will be second to none.

Signed in name, and by appointment of Congress, at Burlington, June 15, 1776.

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 15, 1776.

SIR: The Congress acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 13th instant, respecting the retention of salted provisions by some persons on Long-Island.

I am directed by the Congress to inform you that, by a resolution of yesterday, a copy whereof was furnished to the Commissary-General, they depend that he will obtain the provisions desired; and that the Congress have in contemplation some more general and effectual measures for securing the live stock in certain parts of the Colony for the benefit of the Army.

Enclosed is a copy of some information obtained from Mr. Abraham Livingston, of a stock of cattle in an exposed situation in New-Jersey, of which a copy will be forwarded to the President of New-Jersey Congress, or Committee of Safety.

I have the honour to be, most respectfully, sir, your very humble servant.

By order: NATHANIEL WOODHULL, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

COLONEL McDUGALL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

New-York, June 15, 1776.

SIR: All the necessaries for soldiers' clothing are so very high, and the pay of the Middle Department so much below the Eastern establishment, that my soldiers are kept bare of necessary clothing and other articles: a common soldier's shirt costing from seventeen to twenty shillings currency, which is half a month's pay. The most of the levies made in great cities are generally induced to enter the service from the sole consideration of pay; they are therefore uneasy when it is not punctually paid, and often insolent, which provokes to correction, and this to desertion—at this crisis very injurious to the service and publick safety. There is now one month and a half pay due to my regiment. For these reasons I pray the General would order the regiment to be paid to the first current, which would advance the service and give ease and peace to the officers. I would, on this and other occasions, have made a personal application to the General, but judged this mode would be more agreeable to you, as it causes no interruption of business of more moment, and you could choose your time to determine on the subject. These reasons, I hope, will apologize for this and the other letters I have taken the liberty to write you on publick business.

I have applied to the Convention to know whether I am to continue to recruit any company of my regiment which may become incomplete by death or desertion; but they would not decide upon it, and desired me to take the General's direction, which I beg to be favoured with.

I have the honour to be your Excellency's very humble servant,

ALEXANDER McDUGALL.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO JOSHUA WENTWORTH.

New-York, June 15, 1776.

SIR: I received yours of the 1st instant, and am to inform you your letters of the 15th and 22d of April, advising of the capture of the brig Elizabeth, by Commodore Manly, were put into the hands of Mr. Moylan to answer; but by some means or other were not, nor can they be found. It will be, therefore, necessary to acquaint me again with the contents, if you esteem my answer to them material.

I have, agreeable to your request, transmitted you copies of such resolves of Congress respecting your department as are in my hands. They will point out the line of conduct to be observed in general cases, which, I apprehend, must be pursued. But if there is anything particular in the capture you mention which is not provided for, it will be proper that it should be forwarded me, in order to my referring it to Congress for their opinion.

It is likely the Memorial you mention, if presented, has already occasioned them to determine upon the matter. If they have not, and I find it necessary, I shall transmit them such a representation of the circumstances of this capture as you may send me, not intending to point out any rule of decision not authorized by Congress.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Joshua Wentworth, Esq., Portsmouth.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, June 15, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: By Captain Goforth, who arrived this morning, I am honoured with your Excellency's favour of the 9th instant, and by Mr. Watts with that of the 10th.

The resolutions of Congress for a further supply of money to be sent here, I received on the last ultimo, and despatched it by express to Canada, together with the other resolutions that were transmitted me by the same conveyance.

I am happy that your Excellency approves of my conduct in leaving Colonel Dayton in Tryon County. It is more than probable, from the intelligence I have sent your Excellency in my several letters since my return to this place, that he will, of necessity, remain in that quarter for some time at least, if not during the whole campaign.

When I begged your Excellency for a reinforcement to keep up the communication, &c., I think I observed that if any came up, and they were more than sufficient, I would forward on Van Schaick's. The exchanged prisoners arriving, I immediately sent Major Curtis, and four companies of Van Schaick's, to Canada, and have since ordered the prisoners back, agreeable to a request of General Sullivan, signified to me by Major Sherburne, and am now forwarding the provisions and garrisoning Fort George and Ticonderoga with part of the remainder of Van Schaick's, and four companies of Wynkoop's, two being in Tryon County, and two upon duty and in batteaus here.

Part of what General Sullivan has informed your Excellency respecting Van Schaick's, Wynkoop's, the wagoners, batteaumen, and wagonmaster, is very true, and I doubt not but the whole of his information would have been so, had he been truly informed, which, I presume, nay, I am sure, he was not; to evince which, I enter into a detail, because my feelings induce me to do justice to every man, whatever his station in life may be; and when I censure and applaud, it is always from the heart.

The raising of Colonel Van Schaick's Regiment was, in the first instance, left to the New-York Provincial Congress. They requested me to take it in hand, and sent up the money Congress had advanced to them for that purpose. Lest the service should suffer by the delay which would necessarily be occasioned by my refusal, I applied to the Committee of this County, and entreated them to recommend such persons out of the several districts as were most likely to raise the men speedily. This was done, and I think the warrants for inlisting were granted on the 15th of February. And although I incorporated Curtis's,* McCracken's, and Mills's companies, to whom I had given inlisting orders in November last, for the winter service, yet the regiment is far from being complete, as your Excellency has seen by Colonel Van Schaick's return; since which several are deserted.

When General Sullivan was at Albany, Van Schaick's Regiment had left it, and was disposed of at the various posts, from Half-Moon to Crown Point included. Hence they could not furnish "a man for guard, or any other duty." But I suppose General Sullivan was informed that Van Schaick's Regiment was there, because he was, as he is still, and likely to remain, as I must have somebody here in my absence, whom I can depend on; and it is only a piece of justice due to him, when I assure your Excellency that I believe the Army affords few better Colonels.

* Curtis is promoted, Mills dead, Van Rensselaer and Mason have succeeded.

The raising of Wynkoop's Regiment I had nothing to do with; it was an affair deferred by Congress to the Convention at New-York; and so little was I informed of what they were doing, that your Excellency may recollect that you and I both conceived the few that were here belonged to Clinton's Regiment. As fast as they came up I employed them, and furnished such with arms as I could find arms for, although that, too, was the business of the Convention. I cannot here, for want of my papers, determine the exact time when the two companies in Tryon County were furnished with arms. However, I am certain they were furnished as soon as they could be. It is true that all the companies are very deficient in numbers, but none so low as eleven men. When General Sullivan was at Albany, part of O'Hara's company (which is, however, the completest in the regiment) was there, and amounted to the exact number of eleven. These were supposed to be a company; the remainder being by your Excellency's, General Putnam's, or the orders of the Convention, either at New-York or the Highlands; and they have so lately joined, as only to have crossed Lake George on the 4th or 5th instant.

What General Sullivan says of tapping the pork barrels by the wagoners is undoubtedly a fact with respect to some of them; but much of the pork comes up in so bad a condition that it is obliged to be pickled here, and hence the blame ought not, by any means, to be general, and lay on the wagoners that have carried up pork without pickle.

As to the batteauxmen, I believe I know when men work to advantage, as well as any man (excepting your Excellency) in the service; and I do, upon my honour, declare, that a better set of batteauxmen I never knew than what were at Albany when General Sullivan was there, (except some of the troops who were employed as such,) and I have employed thousands of them, and can, consequently, speak from experience. But the fault did not lay with the batteauxmen: it lay with the troops that were marching up. The first regiment was ordered off at six o'clock in the morning: their baggage did not come down till twelve; at two, the officers complained that they could not find the batteauxmen; they were answered, "Here some of us are—we have been here all day; the rest are gone up to their dinner." I was present, reprimanded the officers, and afterwards meeting General Sullivan, I expressed my dissatisfaction at the tardiness of the troops. He immediately ran to push them off, and, I suppose, the officers, to excuse themselves, faulted the batteauxmen, as they did when I was there. But, to cut the matter short, the batteauxmen were obliged to make a trip to Half-Moon every day, and they did it, when the troops would permit them, which was not often the case, although they sometimes forced them back without suffering them to eat a mouthful, until the batteauxmen (tired of the ill usage) all threatened to do what some actually did—leave the service and forfeit their wages, rather than to be ill treated as they were. And nothing prevented it but my coming in the very moment when they were swinging their packs; and by promises to prevent such ill usage for the future, I prevailed on them to stay.

Nor were the wagoners that carried baggage treated one whit better. As soon as I can get to Fort George I will send your Excellency copies of my orders on the occasion, which, I think, were pointed, clear, and reasonable, and which, however, did not prevent a repetition of abuses; for Colonel Irvine and others, in direct defiance of those orders, which he saw at Albany, and which were shown him on the road by one of the Assistant Quartermasters, took away the stationed wagoners from the portages, without provender for their horses, provisions for themselves, or a blanket to cover them. Nor could those escape who had discharges to return home to recruit their horses worn out in the service. For this conduct, which deranged my affairs, and threatened a total stop to transportation, I put Colonel Irvine and another officer under arrest, until the matters were settled with the wagoners.

As to the wagonmaster, he is an industrious, active, and, I believe, an honest man. But it is not in his power, nor any man's whatsoever, to procure wagons at all times; and at that time it was peculiarly difficult, both on account of the scarcity of forage, the badness of the roads, and the extravagant abuses the wagoners had met with from some of the troops that preceded General Sullivan's Brigade.

But, my dear sir, nothing is more common than for some officers, when they have neglected their duty, to impute it to others; and I suppose, when General Sullivan reprimanded the officers and spurred them on, which he certainly did, they flew to that unjustifiable and ungenerous subterfuge.

I am well aware, my dear General, of the truth of your observation, that men, uninfluenced by principles of honour and justice, will abuse their trust. From a full conviction of this truth, which it is necessary for every man in business to know, I have made it the invariable rule of my conduct to watch every man's conduct with attention; and by making the most of every moment I find time to do it too.

I have already observed to your Excellency, in mine of the 10th, that I had taken measures for forwarding flour; a sufficient quantity for the present is, I hope, arrived.

As to fortifying Ticonderoga and Fort George, and opening the road by Wood Creek, it is utterly impossible with the men I have now left; they are so fully employed in the batteaux, &c., that I do not believe there is now a relief at Fort George for a subaltern's guard.

I have not a prospect of procuring an Engineer in this country. I have a relation, of a mathematical turn and very ingenious, but he wants activity; besides him, I know not another in this quarter.

Your Excellency may depend upon it that no prisoners shall be sent by me by the way of New-York. Permit me to remind you that Dundee was ordered from Ulster County before I received your Excellency's letter of the 21st ult., and that I took notice of it in mine in answer. I shall write to every Committee agreeable to your orders.

I am really at a loss to what place to send the prisoners that are in Ulster County. Connecticut will be much burdened; sixty at least are going there in a few days that were lately sent here from Tryon County and apprehended in this, and I expect a considerable number from Canada.

I have already given your Excellency an account of the number of batteaux, and of their disposition.

Your Excellency has great reason to be surprised that you have had no particular account of Bedel's affair, and you complain with the highest justice of not receiving returns, which are certainly essentially necessary. As to the first, I have not had a line upon the subject from any person whatsoever in Canada, nor have I seen any account of it other than that in the letter from the Commissioners, which was left open for my perusal, and which I left open for your Excellency, if you should have returned to New-York by the time it reached that place; and your Excellency may be assured that, as I have never yet neglected to give you copies of any letters of the least consequence that were sent to me, I shall not now begin to be guilty of such an improper conduct; and I give you my honour that I have had intelligence from Canada conveyed to me by the New-York newspapers, which I think ought to have come immediately to me. As to returns, I have already informed your Excellency, in mine of the 11th and 12th instant, that I never had any except the one from General Wooster, which I then sent you. But I dare say I shall soon have the pleasure of transmitting you one, as General Sullivan promised me, before he left Fort George, that he would do all in his power to have them regularly transmitted; and as he now commands, I think we can depend upon having them.

I have long since given orders for a sufficient supply of provisions. I have mentioned the number of barrels of pork and flour that was necessary; none or a very trifle of pork is to be procured here. I shall again immediately draw an estimate of what is wanting, and transmit it to Mr. Trumbull.

I am fully convinced that your Excellency intended me all possible justice on the subject of the complaint preferred against me; and since you think it so absolutely unnecessary for any inquiry to be made, I shall rest satisfied, contenting myself with giving your Excellency's opinion of the matter whenever it may be necessary.

By the enclosed your Excellency will see what progress has been made on the Resolution of Congress of the 3d instant. Whether your Excellency and Congress will approve of our mode of raising these Indians, I know not; or whether I shall be justified in issuing warrants for the money; but all present agreed that we should not be able to get any to the eastward on better terms. What our success will be to the westward, I cannot guess; I fear not much, as even the Oneidas, who are our best friends, do not choose to leave their own country.

It is the general opinion of the people in Tryon County and here, that whilst Lady Johnson is kept a kind of hostage, Sir John (who can, by means of the Mohawks, receive intelligence from her as often as she may please to send it) will not carry matters to excess, and I have been entreated to keep her here. But as it was a matter of delicacy, when Mr. Watts delivered me your Excellency's letter I proposed that security should be given that Lady Johnson should be forthcoming when called upon; and besides the above reasons, I was the more induced to this request, as I was informed, from good authority, that she exults in the prospect she has of soon hearing that Sir John will ravage the country on the Mohawk River. Mr. Watts declined giving any security, and soon after wrote me a note, (a copy of which I enclose with copy of my answer,) and afterwards a second, which I also answered, as you will see by the enclosed.

I find that since it has been hinted that she is a good security to prevent the effects of her husband's virulence, she is very anxious to go down, and which induces me to wish to keep her here.

The villain that murdered Colonel Parsons's brother is here. The Colonel desired me to send him to New-York. I wait your Excellency's directions.

I am, dear sir, with every friendly wish, and every respectful sentiment, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

MR. WATTS TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Mr. Watts's compliments to General Schuyler, informs him he leaves Albany this evening with Captain Van Buren. If want of time prevents him being particular, Mr. Watts will mention to General Washington the reasons why General Schuyler does not comply with his request for Lady Johnson to go to New-York.

Saturday, June 15, 1776.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO ROBERT WATTS.

Albany, June 15, 1776.

SIR: I have received your note, and shall take the earliest opportunity of advising General Washington of the reasons which induce me not to permit Lady Johnson to leave Albany on any other terms than what I proposed to you. You will therefore please not to give yourself the unnecessary trouble of giving General Washington my reasons.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Mr. Robert Watts.

ROBERT WATTS TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Albany, June 15, 1776.

SIR: As you will not consent to Lady Johnson's going to New-York without giving two gentlemen as securities, I shall take it as a favour if you will let me know as soon as possible, by a line, what engagements they are to be under, as I cannot apply to any gentleman until you inform me.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

ROBERT WATTS.

To General Schuyler.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO ROBERT WATTS.

Albany, June 15, 1776.

SIR: You cannot fail of recollecting what engagements I expected the gentlemen should enter into who might become securities; but as by your former note of this day's date you seemed altogether to decline entering into such a measure, I have since again given my sentiments to his Excellency General Washington on Lady Johnson's situation, in a fuller manner than I did in my former letter to him; and I shall therefore not proceed any further until I receive his commands.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To Mr. Robert Watts.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. VI.

At a meeting of the Commissioners for transacting Indian affairs for the Northern Department, held at Albany, on Thursday, June 13, 1776—Present: General Schuyler, Volkert P. Douw, and Timothy Edwards, Esqs.

General Schuyler laid before the Commissioners a Resolve of the honourable Continental Congress, transmitted to him by his Excellency General Washington; which being read, is in the following words, viz:

"JUNE 3, 1776.—Resolved, That the General be empowered to employ in Canada a number of Indians, not exceeding two thousand."

"A true copy,

GEORGE WASHINGTON."

The Commissioners, after having duly considered the same, came to the following Resolutions:

1. That two Companies, to consist of one Captain, two Lieutenants, three Sergeants, three Corporals, and seventy-five Privates, be raised out of the Mohekanter and Connecticut Indians, with all possible expedition, and march, without further orders, to Lake George, by the way of Albany, where they will receive provision, and the billet money will cease.

2. That if such a number cannot be raised out of the said Indians, that the Companies be completed with white men living in the vicinity of said Indians, and accustomed to the woods; provided that the white men do not exceed in number the one-third part of the Indians.

That the pay, provision and billet money be the same as is now given to the troops in the service of the United Colonies.

That such as cannot furnish their own arms, will be supplied out of the publick stores, paying for the same out of their wages.

That the Committee of Stockbridge and Mr. Edwards be requested to appoint such officers, either of white men or Indians, for the Stockbridge Company, as they shall deem best qualified for the service.

That one month's pay be advanced them, and that the same be paid into the hands of the Committee of Stockbridge, to be by them and Mr. Edwards disposed of for such necessaries as the Companies may immediately stand in need of; and that for the remainder of each person's advance pay, if any there be, the said Committee account with the Indians, or any persons authorized by them to receive it.

That if the Company should not be complete, the advance pay for such deficiency to be by the said Committee returned to Jonathan Trumbull, Junior, Esq., Deputy-Paymaster General.

That General Schuyler be requested to grant a warrant on the said Paymaster in favour of Timothy Edwards, Esq., for the said advance pay.

That the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governor, &c., of the Colony of Connecticut, be requested to appoint such officers, either of white men or Indians, for the Connecticut Company of Indians, as he shall deem best qualified for the service.

That the like advance pay be given as to the Stockbridge Indians, to be paid, disposed of, and accounted for, by his Honour Governor Trumbull, or any person or persons he shall please to appoint for that purpose, in like manner as is mentioned with regard to the Stockbridge Company.

That General Schuyler be requested to lodge a credit with the Deputy Paymaster-General, to enable his Honour to carry into execution what is requested of him.

That a letter be written to his Honour Governor Trumbull and the Committee of Stockbridge, apologizing for the liberty the Commissioners take in making the above request, and to entreat his Honour and the Committee of Stockbridge to afford their assistance in this important business.

General Schuyler informed the Board of Commissioners that, having received intelligence by the Rev. Mr. Kirkland and others, of the hostile intentions of some of the Western Indians, he had found it necessary, to prevent delay, to despatch a Message to the Six Nations, inviting them to a conference at the German Flats, to be held on the 1st day of next month; which Message being read, was in the words following:

"Brothers, Sachems and Warriors of the SIX NATIONS:

"We, your brothers, the Commissioners of Indian affairs, appointed by the Thirteen United Colonies, have been ordered by our Great Council, convened at Philadelphia, to desire that you will meet us with all possible despatch.

“Brothers: As the matters we have in charge to communicate to you are of the greatest importance, we entreat you to rise immediately, and to meet us on the 1st day of next month, at the German Flats, where you will be in no danger of taking the small-pox; for which reason we have pitched upon that place to open the Council Fire.

“Brothers: As the business is of great consequence, we desire that the meeting may be full, and that none that love us may be absent.” A Belt.

Resolved, That the Board approve of said Message; and that letters be written to Colonel Francis and Colonel Wolcott, requesting their attendance if possible.

Resolved, That a letter be written to the honourable Continental Congress, advising them that daily expenses incur in the Indian Department, for which money must be immediately paid; and that, as no fund is established to pay the necessary and contingent expenses, they will be pleased to lodge a credit with the Deputy Paymaster-General of the Army for such sum as that honourable body shall deem meet, to be drawn but by warrant from the Commissioners, or any three of them.

A true copy. Attest.

Return of the Continental Forces in CANADA, JUNE 12, 1776.

REGIMENTS.	Commissioned Officers.											Staff.		Non-com'd.	Effective Rank and File.						Wanting to complete.		Alterations since last Return.				STATIONS.
	Colonels.	Lieut. Colonels.	Majors.	Captains.	First Lieutenants.	Sec'd Lieutenants.	Ensigns.	Chaplains.	Adjutants.	Quartermasters.	Surgeons.	Mates.	Sergeants.	Drums and Fifes.	Present, fit for duty	Sick, present.	Sick, absent.	On command.	On furlough.	Total.	Sergeants.	Drums and Fifes.	Rank and File.	Inlisted.	Dead.	Discharged.		Deserted.
Colonel Reed's .....	1	1	1	6	5	5	5	-	1	1	1	-	29	15	230	100	59	50	-	439	-	1	-	-	-	-	-	At Montreal.
Colonel Stark's .....	1	-	1	3	2	3	2	-	-	1	1	-	18	12	280	44	60	26	1	411	-	1	229	-	2	-	4	10	At Sorel.
Colonel Poor's .....	1	1	1	6	8	8	8	-	1	1	1	1	28	11	277	209	10	39	-	535	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	At St. Johns.
Colonel Paterson's .....	1	-	-	2	3	2	3	-	-	1	1	1	33	14	200	35	156	80	6	477	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	At Montreal.
Colonel Groaton's .....	1	1	1	2	2	3	1	1	1	1	1	1	32	16	-	305	23	26	-	359	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	At St. Johns.
Colonel Bond's .....	1	1	1	8	5	5	4	-	1	1	1	1	20	6	230	18	25	42	-	316	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	{ At Berthier and other places.
Colonel De Haas's .....	1	1	1	9	8	9	6	-	1	1	-	1	24	7	368	11	40	117	-	556	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	At Sorel.
Colonel Maxwell's .....	1	1	1	7	6	8	6	-	1	1	1	1	22	10	324	42	44	73	-	483	10	6	117	-	12	-	12	At Sorel.
Colonel Wins's .....	1	-	1	7	7	6	6	-	1	1	1	-	23	14	357	26	23	15	-	428	3	2	217	-	-	-	-	At Sorel.
Colonel St. Clair's .....	1	1	1	8	6	6	7	-	1	1	-	1	25	5	334	28	36	9	-	437	6	9	203	-	-	1	1	At Sorel.
Colonel Wayne's .....	1	-	-	3	2	3	2	-	1	-	-	1	11	3	146	16	1	56	-	219	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	At Sorel.
Colonel Porter's .....	1	1	-	5	3	3	1	-	1	-	1	-	13	3	108	11	-	67	-	186	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	{ At Sorel, Cham- bly, &c.
Colonel Burrel's .....	1	1	-	1	1	1	2	-	1	1	-	-	7	2	86	17	93	369	-	565	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	{ At Sorel, Ber- thier, &c.
Colonel Irvine's .....	-	1	1	8	6	8	7	1	1	1	1	-	27	14	493	31	3	93	-	620	-	-	-	-	1	-	3	At Sorel.
Colonel Bedel's .....	-	1	-	2	1	2	1	-	-	-	-	-	10	1	106	38	15	13	-	172	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	{ At Berthier and places unknown.
Stanton's Independent Company	-	-	-	1	1	1	-	-	-	-	-	-	3	2	12	24	2	-	-	38	-	-	-	-	-	-	-
Total .....	13	11	10	78	66	73	61	4	14	12	9	8	325	135	3,591	955	595	1,075	76	241	19	18	766	2	13	5	26

Artillery Regiment: Captains, 2; Captain-Lieutenants, 2; First Lieutenants, 4; Second Lieutenant, 1; Lieutenant Fire-worker, 1; Sergeants, 8; Corporals, 8; Bombardiers, 8; Gunners, 15; Drums, 3; Fifes, 2; Matrosses, 67; Sick, 3.

The scattered and confused state of the troops when General Sullivan arrived in Canada has rendered it impossible to make an accurate Return. Even the Colonels of some Regiments cannot tell where some part of their Regiments are, they have been so harassed and dispersed to different posts. I have as nearly ascertained the state of the Army here as lay in my power; the totals are nearly right, but the distributions are somewhat erroneous. Some of those returned on command (Colonel De Haas, Colonel Maxwell, Colonel St. Clair, Colonel Wayne's and Colonel Irvine's) are either killed or taken prisoners at the Three Rivers—how many, are as yet unknown; and as some of them are daily returning, hope great part will recover our camp. Those of Colonel Paterson's, returned on command, and a greater part of Colonel Bedel's Regiment, not mentioned in the Return, were taken at the Cedars. Those returned sick are chiefly confined with the small-pox. As General Sullivan is using his utmost exertions to introduce order and regularity in the Army here, a true Return, with the casualties, will be forwarded very soon. Near two hundred Canadian volunteers this moment returned, but no return from Colonel Hazen.

ALEXANDER SCAMMEL, Deputy Adjutant-General.

A Return of the Regiment of Foot in the service of the United Colonies, commanded by Colonel CORNELIUS WYNKOOP.

COMPANIES.	OFFICERS PRESENT.												RANK AND FILE.					Wanting to complete.	Alterations since last Return.
	Commissioned.						Staff.				Non-com'd.
	Colonel.	Lieutenant-Colonel.	Major.	Captains.	First Lieutenants.	Second Lieutenants.	Ensigns.	Chaplain.	Adjutant.	Quartermaster.	Surgeon.	Mate.	Sergeants.	Drums and Fifes.	Present, fit for duty.	Sick, present.	Sick, absent.	On command.	On furlough.	Total.	Sergeants.	Drums and Fifes.	Privates.	Inlisted.	Dead.	Discharged.	Deserted.
Captain Cornelius Van Sandtvoordt..	1	1	.	1	1	1	.	.	.	.	.	.	2	32	32	1	.	.	.	37	.	.	.	.	.	.	.
Captain Samuel Van Vechten.....	.	.	.	1	1	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	4	2	25	3	3	4	2	45	.	.	.	.	1	.	18
Captain John K. Wendell.....	.	.	.	1	1	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	3	2	23	4	2	11	1	48	.	.	.	.	.	.	9
Captain Henry O'Hara.....	.	.	.	1	.	1	.	.	.	.	.	.	3	3	61	3	1	4	7	83	.	.	.	.	1	1	14
Total.....	1	1	-	4	2	2	-	-	-	-	-	-	12	6	141	11	6	19	10	213	-	-	-	-	1	1	41

Sick of several Regiments, in the Block House at the Mills, of the small-pox, besides those returned above, - - - 38

Joined Captain Wendell, of Captain Cochran's Company, one Sergeant and six Privates, - - - 7

Six Officers absent of Captain Van Vechten's, Wendell's and O'Hara's Companies, recruiting and after deserters, but included in the number on furlough and command.

Sailmakers, Bakers, Carpenters, Smiths, &c., exclusive of those in my Regiment, - - - 11

269

The above is an exact return of part of my Regiment, except Captain Sandtvoordt's, who has several men absent and deserted, but has made no return of them. Can make no return of four Companies, being on command in Albany and Tryon Counties, and have had no return from them as yet.

By order of Colonel Wynkoop:

PHILIP CORTLANDT, Lieutenant-Colonel.

TICONDEROGA, June 20, 1776.

A Return of Colonel GOOSE VAN SCHAICK's Regiment of Forces of the United Colonies, in the Colony of New-York, for the service in CANADA.

COMPANIES.	OFFICERS.												RANK AND FILE.					Wanting to complete.	Alterations since last Return.
	Commissioned.						Staff.			Non-Commissioned.
	Colonel.	Lieutenant-Colonel.	Major.	Captains.	First Lieutenants.	Second Lieutenants.	Ensigns.	Chaplain.	Adjutant.	Quartermaster.	Surgeon.	Mate.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Drums and Fifes.
	Present, fit for duty.	Sick, present.	Sick, absent.	On command.	On furlough.	Total.	Sergeants.	Drums and Fifes.	Privates.	Unlisted.	Dead.	Discharged.	Deserted.	Total.
Captain McCracken's.....	1	1	-	1	1	1	-	-	1	1	-	4	4	1	33	8	1	19	-	61	16	-	-	-	7
Captain Finck's.....	-	-	-	1	1	1	-	-	-	-	-	4	4	2	30	4	-	22	-	56	20	-	1	-	10	11
Captain Hicks's.....	-	-	-	1	1	1	-	-	-	-	-	4	4	2	39	1	1	14	1	56	20	-	-	-	8	8
Captain Wright's.....	-	-	-	1	1	1	-	-	-	-	-	4	4	2	24	7	7	1	-	39	37	-	-	-	7	7
Total.....	1	1	-	4	4	3	-	-	1	1	-	16	16	7	126	20	9	56	1	212	93	1	-	32	33

Of Captain McCracken's Company, one Lieutenant and fourteen Privates are on command at Crown Point, one Private at St. John's, one at Ticonderoga, one on command at Albany, and one Sergeant and two Privates at Fort Edward.
Of Captain Finck's Company are on command, one Lieutenant, one Sergeant, two Corporals, and twenty Privates, at Saratoga; and two Privates at Fort Edward.
Of Captain Hicks's Company are on command, one Sergeant and eleven Privates at Fort Meller, one Private at Fort Edward, and one Sergeant and two Privates on command at Albany.
Of Captain Wright's Company, the Captain, one Sergeant, two Corporals, and Fifer, sick in quarters, and the Ensign on recruiting service.
One Company of the above Regiment is at Ticonderoga, three are gone on to Canada.
The above Return is made from the Returns of each Company of the 18th, transmitted me yesterday by Colonel Gansevoort.
ALBANY, June 20, 1776.

For His Excellency General Washington.

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

GENERAL WARD TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Boston, June 15, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: As the enemy are driven out of this harbour,* I would submit to your consideration whether it might not be proper to station a large ship in Nantasket, with a broad pendant, as a decoy to the enemy's vessels, who may fall in, not knowing the men-of-war are gone. The transport-ship lately brought into this port I think might answer for this purpose, if the General Assembly should think proper to adopt such a measure, giving security for the ship to the agent for the Continent.

Mr. Cushing desired my opinion with respect to the cannon which we have in and near this town, whether any of them could be spared for the defence of other sea-port towns; in answer to which, I informed him that I did not apprehend we could, with safety to this town and harbour, spare any of the cannon now in our possession, as it is of vast importance to the whole Colony, and to all the United Colonies, to have this place well secured, and a safe retreat for ships.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,
ARTEMAS WARD.

To the Honourable Council of Massachusetts.

* BOSTON, Thursday, June 20, 1776.—Last Thursday the inhabitants of this town were made acquainted, by beat of drum, that an expedition was to be undertaken against our enemy's ships in Nantasket Road, and for erecting proper fortifications in the lower harbour. Accordingly, detachments from the Colonial Regiments, commanded by the Colonels Marshall and Whitney, and battalion of Train, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Crafts, were embarked on board boats at the Long Wharf, together with cannon, ammunition, provisions, intrenching tools, and every necessary implement, and proceeded for Pettick's Island and Hull, where they were joined by some Continental troops and sea-coast companies, so as to make near six hundred men at each place; a like number of the militia, from the towns in the vicinity of Boston harbour, with a detachment from the Train and some field-pieces, took post at Moon Island, Hoff's Neck, and Point Alderton. At the same time, a detachment from the Continental Army, under the command of Colonel Whitcomb, with two eighteen-pounders, one thirteen-inch mortar, with the necessary apparatus, intrenching tools, &c., were embarked for Long-Island to take post there. The troops did not arrive at their several places of destination till near morning, occasioned by a flat calm; notwithstanding, such was the activity and alertness of our men, that they had the cannon planted, and a line of defence hove up on Long-Island and Nantasket-Hill in a few hours, when a cannon shot from Long-Island announced to the enemy our design; upon which a signal was immediately made for the whole fleet, consisting of eight ships, two snows, two brigs, and one schooner, to remove and get under way. The Commodore (Banks) bore our fire, and returned it with spirit, till a shot from Long-Island pierced the upper works of his ship, when he immediately unmoored or cut his cables and got under sail; and happy for him that he did so, for in a small space of time afterwards a shell from our works fell into the very spot he had but just before quitted. Unhappily, our cannon did not arrive at Pettick's Island and Nantasket as soon as might have been wished, but the fire from the latter place, being properly pointed against the Commodore's ship, who came to in the Light-House channel, is apprehended to have done considerable execution. In short, the enemy were compelled once more to make a disgraceful, precipitate flight; and we have it now in our power to congratulate our readers on

MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

In the House of Representatives, June 15, 1776.

Whereas, by reason of the difficulties raised through the wicked designs of the enemies of our liberties, an interruption took place in the administration of civil distributive justice in this Colony; and, by a necessary act of the General Court for the removal of all officers from their offices, many civil suits, which had been before commenced in the several Counties of this Colony, and were pending at the Superior Court, and other actions, which had been appealed from the respective Inferior Courts in the several Counties, have not been prosecuted to final judgment, and much injury will happen if an adequate remedy is not provided:

It is Resolved, That all causes which were pending at the Superior Court, in any of said Counties, and on which judgment has not been given, shall be brought forward at the next term of said court for each respective County, and the same proceedings had thereon as though such causes had been regularly continued to such term from the term where the same were pending when such interruption took place; and in any causes appealed from any Inferior Court, and not entered at the Superior by reason of said interruption, the appellants may have liberty, if they see cause, to enter our being in full possession of the lower harbour of Boston; and had the wind been to the eastward, we are confident we should have had the much greater pleasure of giving them joy on our being in the possession of many of their ships. Through Divine Providence, not one of our men was hurt.

It is worthy of special notice that the 14th of June, 1774, was the last day allowed for trading vessels to leave or enter the port of Boston, through the cruelty of a British act of Parliament; and that the 14th of June, 1776, through the blessing of God upon the operations of a much injured and oppressed people, was the last day allowed for British men-of-war, or Ministerial vessels, to remain or enter within the said port but as American prizes. Thus has Providence retaliated.

We hear the Independent Battalions in New-York are taken into Continental pay, and are beating up for volunteers, to make their complement of men complete; their number is to be twelve hundred and sixty for the City and County. Their Delegates in Continental Congress have informed their Provincial Convention that the question of a Declaration of Independence will soon be agitated there, desiring their opinion.

Last Sunday night two transports, (a ship and a brig,) from Scotland, with two hundred and twenty Highlanders on board, were chased by three or four of our Privateers into Nantasket, where, instead of finding protection from British pirates, they were both obliged to strike to the American flag. The ship, mounting six six-pounders, with about one hundred and thirty soldiers, besides sailors, maintained an engagement of several hours, in which she had about seventeen killed and wounded. Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, and a considerable number of other officers, all belonging to the corps of Highlanders, are among the prisoners. Major MacKenzie, of the same corps, was killed in the engagement. His remains were interred here with military honours the day following. Four men on board the Privateers were wounded, one or two of them, it is feared, mortally, but not one killed.

On Tuesday last another Scotch transport-ship, with one hundred and twelve Highlanders on board, was brought into Nantasket by our Privateers. She was taken a small distance from the Light-House, and made no resistance.

their said appeal at the next term of the Superior Court to be holden in each respective County, as though the appeal had been originally to the same term; and if any appellants shall neglect to enter their appeals as aforesaid, the appellees in such case may, if they see cause, enter their complaints, and the judgments of the Inferior Court shall be affirmed thereon, as though said complaints had been entered in due time: Provided always, That no execution or writ of possession shall issue on any judgment given in any of the cases aforesaid until three months after such judgment; and where any causes were tried by a jury, the Justices of the said Superior Court in such causes shall, and in all others where it shall appear to them to be expedient may, continue the same, and cause the absent parties to be notified of the suits against them; and where any of the parties shall be out of the County, and in the Continental or Colonial service, they shall have liberty to bring forward their suits at the next Superior Court held in said County after their return, and no action or complaints shall be entered against them while such person continues in said service, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sent up for concurrence.

J. WARREN, Speaker.

In Council, June 15, 1776.—Read and concurred.

JOHN LOWELL, Deputy Sec'y, P. T.

Consented to by the major part of the Council.

Attest: JOHN LOWELL, Deputy Sec'y P. T.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COLONEL ROBERDEAU.

Philadelphia, June 16, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The Continental troops having left this city for New-York, I am laid under the necessity to request you will be so obliging as to order a guard of six men, with an officer, of your battalion of Associators, in whom you can confide, to attend a wagon of money from hence to New-York, on its way to Canada; your guard to be relieved at New-York by a guard which General Washington will appoint immediately on their arrival at New-York. I should be glad the guard might be at my house by nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

I am, with much esteem, sir, your very humble servant,
JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable Colonel Roberdeau.

CAPTAIN WICKES TO SECRET COMMITTEE.

On board the Reprisal, June 16, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I received your orders and instructions by Mr. Bingham, the 13th instant, but the shallop with the provisions did not arrive till this day. We have now got all the provision on board, both from the Wasp and shallop. You may depend on my best endeavours in your service to prosecute this voyage with the most expedition and advantage in my power. My people, all but two, are in good health, and the officers are well satisfied with this cruise, hoping thereby to render their country an essential service, as well as themselves. There is now one two-decker, two frigates, one twenty-gun ship, and a sloop of war lying in Old Kilm Road, and we are waiting an opportunity to get out by them with impatience; so you may depend upon our embracing the first favourable opportunity of getting out and proceeding on our intended cruise.

From, gentlemen, your most obliged humble servant,
LAMBERT WICKES.

To the Honourable Committee of Secret Correspondence, Philadelphia.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read June 18, 1776. Referred to the Board of War and Ordnance.]

New-York, June 16, 1776.

SIR: I do myself the honour to transmit Congress a copy of a letter, covering copies of other papers, which I received yesterday evening from General Sullivan. The intelligence communicated by him is pleasing and interesting, and such as must afford the greatest satisfaction, if the conduct the Canadians have discovered since his arrival among them is ingenuous and sincere. This account is contrasted by General Arnold's letter to General Schuyler, of which a copy is also transmitted.

General Sullivan mentions his having given commissions to some of the Canadians, as a measure founded in necessity, and requests my approbation of it; but not considering myself empowered to say anything upon the subject, it may not be improper for Congress to give him their opinion in this instance.

I have also enclosed copies of General Schuyler's letters, received at the same time. They contain accounts respecting the Indians variant from what were reported by Mr. Kirkland, but amounting to the same thing—the probability of the savages attacking our frontiers.

By last night's post I had information of a capture made by our armed vessels of one of the transports, with a company of Highlanders on board, bound to Boston. The enclosed extract from General Ward's letter to me will give you the intelligence more particularly. There are accounts in the city mentioning other valuable prizes, but as General Ward has said nothing of them, I fear they want authenticity.

I beg leave to mention that a further sum of money will be wanted for our military chest by the time it can be sent. The enclosed note from the Paymaster-General shows the necessity for it; and, I may add, beside his estimate of drafts to be made, there are the claims of the Eastern troops at Boston for three or four months' pay, not included, and now due.

Colonel Magaw has arrived with part of his battalion, and by Wednesday evening the whole, both of his and Colonel Shea's, will be here, as I am told.

As it is, and may be of great importance to have a communication with the Jerseys and Long-Island, I have had several flat-bottom boats built for the purpose, and have thoughts of getting more for Passaick and Hackinsack rivers, where they may be equally necessary for transporting our Army, or part of it, occasionally, or succours coming to or going from it.

I have the honour to be, with sentiments of the greatest respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, President of Congress.

NEW-YORK, June 10, 1776.

A Return of the disposition of the Cannon, and of ten Companies of the Continental Regiment of Artillery, and one Colony Company of Artillery, commanded by Captain HAMILTON, in and about the City of NEW-YORK.

GRENADEER'S BATTERY.—Captain Perkins and part of Captain Bauman's.—Three 12-pounders, garrison carriages; two 8-inch mortars, proposed.

JERSEY BATTERY.—Captain Perkins and part of Captain Bauman's.—Two 12-pounders, travelling carriages; three 32-pounders, garrison ditto.

OYSTER BATTERY.—Captain Newell's.—Two 32-pounders, garrison carriages; three 12-pounders, ditto.

FORT GEORGE.—Part of Captain Hamilton's.—Two 12-pounders, garrison carriages; four 32-pounders, ditto.

GRAND BATTERY.—Captain Pierce, Burbeck, part of Captain Hamilton's, and part of Captain Bauman's.—Thirteen 32-pounders, garrison carriages; one 24-pounder, ditto; three 18-pounders, ditto; two 12-pounders, ditto; one 13-inch brass mortar; two 8-inch iron mortars, and one 10-inch iron mortar, proposed.

WHITEHALL BATTERY.—Captain, Lieutenant, Sergeant, and twelve men, of Captain Pierce's Company.—Two 32-pounders, garrison carriages.

A BARRET BATTERY NEAR THE SHIP-YARDS.—At present Captain Dana.—Two 12-pounders, garrison carriages.

SPENCER'S REDOUBT.—At present Captain Dana.—Two 12-pounders, travelling carriages, and four field-pieces, travelling carriages, proposed.

BAYARD'S HILL.—Captain Morton.—Eight 9-pounders, garrison carriages; four 3-pounders, travelling carriages; and six royal and cohorn mortars.

LONG-ISLAND.—At the Redoubts no Artillerymen.—Two 12-pounders, garrison carriages; two 9-pounders, travelling carriages; and four 3-pound brass field-pieces, with fifty rounds of case shot each.

FORT STIRLING.—At present only Lieutenant Randall and twelve men.—Four 32-pounders, and two 18-pounders, garrison carriages; thirty rounds each.

RED HOOK.—Captain Foster.—One 3-pounder, and four 18-pounders, travelling carriages; seventy-five rounds each.

GOVERNOUR'S ISLAND.—Captain Craft's; but wants more.—Four 13-pounders, and four 32-pounders, garrison; fifty rounds each, but proposed to have seventy-five.

PAULUS HOOK.—Proposed to send Captain Dana.—Two 12-pounders, travelling carriages; three 32-pounders, garrison carriages; and two 3-pounders, iron field-pieces.

THE PARK.—As a Reserve, Captain Drury.—Twelve 6-pounders, eight 3-pounders, and one 24-pounder, brass field-pieces; three 3-pounders, and nine 12-pounders, iron field-pieces.

Intended to be run where the enemy shall make their greatest effort. Implements complete to the whole. Above one hundred rounds of case shot fixed with flannel cartridges for each of the field-pieces. More than thirty rounds of cartridges made up for each of the heavy cannon.

HENRY KNOX, Colonel Reg. Art.

Summary of the within Return.

Thirty-two-pounders,.....35	Nine-pounders,.....10
Twenty-four-pounders,.....2	Six-pounders,.....12
Eighteen-pounders,.....13	Three-pounders,.....22
Twelve-pounders,.....27	Total,.....121

Mortars, most of which are mounted, the rest mounting:

3 cohorn mortars, 10 royal mortars, 2 8-inch mortars, 1 13-inch mortar; brass—16; 2 8-inch mortars, 1 10-inch mortar—3; total 19.

Your Excellency will please to observe by the above summary, that there are now mounted and fit for action in this city and the neighbouring posts, one hundred and twenty-one heavy and light cannon. To each cannon it will be necessary to have ten men, including the mortar and containing services. This would make twelve hundred and ten men. We have in the regiment six hundred, officers included; of these, about forty are on command at distant posts, and about as many more, perhaps, sick or unfit for service. This would reduce the number to five hundred and twenty; of these about fifty are officers. If your Excellency should think it proper that all the artillery should be manned at the same time, we shall want six hundred men more. It is usual in the British service to draught men from the battalions as additional artillerymen for such time as the Commander-in-Chief shall think necessary. As most of the battalions now in the service are considerably deficient in arms, a draught might be made without any prejudice to the strength of the regiments, and that part of the Army which will be of no use in action put upon a service of the utmost importance; the men who may be draughted to be mustered and paid by their respective Colonels. As the corps of Artillery is always more on detachments than any other corps, an additional number of officers will be necessary.

The above is most respectfully submitted, by your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

H. KNOX.

New-York, June 10, 1776.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Sorel, June 5, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I have the pleasure to inform you that I arrived here at a very critical moment with my brigade. General Thompson was left but with very few men to defend this important post, the troops being scattered about in a most shocking manner. I had issued orders for all the well men to follow me, as, upon departure of General Wooster and the death of General Thomas, the command devolved upon me. Having given these orders, I proceeded with the troops I brought with me, to join General Thompson, who was in the greatest distress. As General Carleton's fleet had passed the Sorel, and was coming up the river with a fair wind, (as was reported on all quarters,) a retreat seemed in all parts to be agreed upon; and the heavy baggage and most of the artillery were removed to St. Johns and Chambly. This caused the Frenchmen to curse our cowardice, and lament their folly in favouring a cause which we had so poorly defended; but upon my coming with a large force, ordering all the troops to follow, and the cannon to be returned, I found joy in every countenance except some very few Tories. It really was affecting to see the banks of the Sorel lined with men, women, and children, leaping and clapping their hands for joy to see me arrive; it gave no less joy to General Thompson, who seemed to be wholly forsaken, and left to fight against an unequal force or retreat before them. Upon my arrival I was surprised to hear that, notwithstanding all we have read about the Sorel, our people had not thrown up as much work as I could do with a hundred men in two days, and that extremely ill done; there were three cannon, and three only, mounted in all the works. I sat all the men at work, and have this day almost enclosed the encampment, and completed a battery on the north side of the river, with three cannon. General Thompson says, and I believe with great truth, that more work was done here this day than has been done in Canada since the surrender of St. Johns.

June 6th.—This morning two expresses arrived from Three Rivers, which were sent to observe the motions of the enemy; one of them was a friendly Canadian, who lived at Three Rivers, and passed among the fleet, the other one of our officers. They agree that the number of vessels are as follows, viz: one ship, one brig, and eight sloops and schooners. They both say that the troops there amount to no more than three hundred, who are intrenching themselves at the Three Rivers. I have detached General Thompson, with about two thousand of your best troops, to attack them. A copy of his orders are enclosed, which I hope will be approved by your Excellency.

Our affairs here have taken a strange turn since our arrival. The Canadians are flocking by hundreds to take a part with us. I am giving them commissions, agreeable to the enclosed form, which I hope will not be thought an unnecessary assumption of power. I really find most of them exceedingly friendly. I have sent out for carts and teams, &c. They have come in with the greatest cheerfulness; and what gives still greater evidence of their friendship is, that they have voluntarily offered to supply us with what wheat, flour, &c., we want, and ask nothing in return but certificates. They begin to complain against their Priests, and wish them to be secured; I shall, however, touch this string with great tenderness at present, as I know their sacerdotal influence.

I really find, by the present behaviour of the Canadians, that the only reason of their disaffection was because our exertions were so feeble that they doubted much of our success, and even of our ability to protect them; but the face of our affairs seems to be changed; and, in the midst of our pleasing prospects, an express arrives from General Schuyler with sixteen hundred and sixty-two pounds one shilling and three pence, Pennsylvania currency, in specie, with the spirited resolves of Congress. This gives new life to our Canadian friends, and added spirit to our troops.

I was extremely happy to find that I had anticipated the wishes of Congress, and had, through every embarrassment, pressed downward toward the important posts they wished; for it was my fixed determination to gain post at Deschambault, which I mean to fortify so as to make it inaccessible. This commands the channel, secures the country, destroys the communication, and affords a safe retreat, if we are obliged to make one. General Thompson was embarking for that purpose when the resolves arrived. The ships are now above that place; but if General Thompson succeeds at Three Rivers, I will soon remove the ships below Riche-lieu Falls, and after that approach towards Quebeck as fast as possible; and according to the present appearance of affairs, may exceed in number the Hanoverians, &c., which we are threatened with. I have no doubt of the general attachment of the Canadians, though I suppose some unprincipled wretches among them will always appear against us; but a vast majority will be for us, and perhaps as many, according to their numbers, are really in our favour as in some other Colonies upon the Continent; many of them are with General Thompson in this expedition, and great numbers are here, ready equipped, waiting my orders.

I may venture to assure you and the Congress that I can, in a few days, reduce the Army to order; and, with the assistance of a kind Providence, put a new face to our affairs here, which a few days since seemed almost impossible. General Thompson and the Baron de Woedtke have done everything in their power to assist me. General Arnold has not joined me, being, as you may see by his letter which I enclose you, much engaged at Montreal, upon affairs of importance. The post at La Chine, which he mentions, I can by no means consent to afford such a large body of men to defend against a petty number of savages, little less than a mob; I have therefore ordered a small fortification to be thrown up by Colonel De Haas's party, consisting of about nine hundred men, and made inaccessible, at least to savages, and garrisoned it with two hundred men, the rest to return to me, as all our operations ought to be down the river, where, if we are successful, the insurrection there will die of course. I have ordered a month's provision to be lodged there, lest an excuse of surrendering for want of provision before we can relieve it, should take place, as at the Cedars. I do not think it a post of great importance, or, indeed, any in our rear except St. Johns and Chambly, which will ever secure a retreat, and to these I will pay particular attention.

I hope, dear General, to give you, in a few days, some agreeable intelligence; while I remain, with the most profound respect, your Excellency's obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. I shall soon obtain proper returns of our scattered Army, and will forward them with return of stores, &c.; after which you may expect them weekly. I have, for your diversion, enclosed you one which is similar to what the other Colonels must make if called upon. I enclose your Excellency a letter from Colonel Duggan: I have appointed a Court of Inquiry into the accusation against him. I am informed by General Thompson, Mr. Bromfield, and others, that the accusation is false, and that he is a very useful man. He has, at my request, since he wrote the above letter, raised and armed upwards of two hundred men for us.

I have the honour to be your Excellency's most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

As I have not time to write the Congress, beg your Excellency to forward them a copy of this.

J. S.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR GENERAL THOMPSON.

Sorel, June 6, 1776.

DEAR SIR: You are to march as soon as possible, with Colonel Irvine's and Colonel Wayne's Regiments, together with those of Colonel St. Clair, now remaining at this place, and join Colonel St. Clair at Nicolette, and take command of the whole party; and unless you find the number of the enemy at Three Rivers to be such as would render an attack upon them hazardous, you are to cross the river at the most convenient place you can, and attack them; you will pay particular attention to the preservation of your batteaus, keeping them at a convenient distance above the shipping, which lies at or near the Three Rivers. I would by no means advise to an attack if the prospect of success is not much in your favour, as a defeat of your party at this time might prove the total loss of this country.

Sir, as I have (without flattery) the highest opinion of the bravery and good conduct of yourself and the officers you command, I forbear attempting particular instructions, being well assured that neither prudence nor resolution will be wanting to answer the great purpose we have in view. I have the highest opinion of the bravery and resolution of the troops you command, and doubt not but, under the direction of a kind Providence, you will open the way for our recovering that ground which former troops have so shamefully lost.

Wishing you the greatest success and safety, I am, sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To General Thompson.

To FRANCIS GUILLOT, of River Dahoup, Gentleman:

Reposing especial trust and confidence in your friendship, zeal, and attachment to the cause of liberty, and relying upon your exertions to oppose and frustrate the cruel designs of a wicked Ministry, formed against the lives, liberties, and properties of the inhabitants of the Thirteen United Colonies of America, which, if carried into execution, must, in its operation, prove as fatal to this and the other American Colonies as to those which have already united in opposition to the wicked designs of Administration,—I do, by virtue of the power and authority delegated to me by the honourable the Continental Congress, appoint you, the said Francis Guillot, to be Captain of an Independent Company of such brave French Canadians as you already have, or may hereafter enlist, to act in concert with the American Troops, in opposition to the Ministerial Army in Canada. You are from time to time to receive and obey such directions as you shall receive from the Commander-in-Chief or other your superior officers. The pay of yourself, your under officers and soldiers, to be the same as any other troops sent here under the command and direction of the Continental Congress.

Given at Head-Quarters, at Sorel, the 6th June, 1776.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Montreal, June 5, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I have complied with your orders, as far as in my power, respecting the destination of the troops. I intended setting off this day for Sorel, but have been much hindered by taking the goods in town. Every possible obstacle has been thrown in my way; however, I shall secure many articles much wanted by the Army. Yesterday Colonel De Haas, with his detachment, set out for Sorel. Last night and this morning I have received intelligence of four or five hundred savages and Canadians being on the Island, with intention of attacking our post at La Chine; and as the garrison is so weak, we can spare few men from it, I have thought proper to order Colonel De Haas to return. I think it absolutely necessary some effectual methods should be taken with the savages immediately, or we shall be obliged to keep up a large force here, and shall be continually harassed with them. This affair will prevent my joining you at Sorel as soon as I could wish. It will not be in my power to take an account of the goods and send them off this three days.

I believe the enemy below will not advance very suddenly. I make no doubt you will have time to prepare for them, and that we shall be reinforced in time to secure this part of the country.

I have ordered Colonel Bedel, his Major, and Captain Young, to Sorel, for their trial.

An express arrived here from Three Rivers yesterday. I must refer you to General Thompson for the advice he brought. We have only two pieces of cannon here, and no matrosses.

With great esteem and affection, I am, dear General, your obedient, humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To General Sullivan.

Returns of the forces here, at Longueil, and La Prairie, will be sent you as soon as possible.

J. DUGGAN TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

St. Johns, June 5, 1776.

HONOURABLE SIR: I beg leave to introduce the bearer, Theodore Chartre, to your Honour, as an honest worthy man, and well attached to the cause. He has great influence among the Canadians and Indians; and were your Honour to give him authority, would raise one or two hundred men directly, and march down to Sorel to join the Army. The men, by his information, are daily deserting from Colonel Hazen; and should we be unfortunate, he has reason to think they would be against us, and that there is some foul play going on there. I should be much obliged to your Honour for an answer. As to myself, I think I cannot, consistently with my character as a man of honour, take upon me any commission to raise men until that unjust aspersion on my character by Colonel Hazen is cleared up. I applied to his Honour General Thompson for a Court of Inquiry, to inspect into my conduct; and, notwithstanding the General's orders, I could not get him to attend the said court, to make good his accusation against me. The bearer, by order of General Woedtke, drew provision at Chambly while the General staid here, but as soon as the General was gone, he was deprived of that privilege; as he is a man that, by his good conduct and behaviour, is very deserving of that benefit, what Colonel Hazen's reasons were for not obeying the General's order I cannot tell.

As to my character, from the first of the war, I should be much obliged to your Honour to inquire of any person who knows me, particularly Colonel Campbell. Till that point respecting Colonel Hazen's accusations is cleared up, I cannot, in honour and common decency, take any part in the present affairs.

I beg leave to acquaint your Honour that there are one thousand pounds sterling offered by General Carleton for my head. I promised your Honour to return to Sorel to day, but the extreme hurry of business here at present will deprive me of that honour to-day, but will if possible wait on your Honour to-morrow.

I have the honour to be, sir, your obedient humble servant,

J. DUGGAN.

To General Sullivan.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, June 12, 1776—4 o'clock P. M.

DEAR SIR: The letter which I had the honour to write you yesterday I delivered to General Wooster, who sailed this day.

I have, within this half hour, received a letter from General Arnold, of which the enclosed is a copy. I fear the next will announce the evacuation of Canada by our troops, probably with loss, as I fear that not a sufficient attention has been paid to a recommendation of mine to bring all the batteaus that could possibly be spared from Sorel to St. Johns. I shall immediately despatch an express to Fort George to send batteaus to St. Johns; but after all, the number will be very small, for want of men to navigate them; I suppose one hundred and twenty at least are at Lake George.

I am not under the least apprehension that the enemy will be able to cross Lake Champlain, provided that our Army is able to retreat into that Lake, that ammunition is speedily sent up, and a further supply of pork forwarded without delay to this place.

Your Excellency will perceive that General Arnold informs me that the enemy have the frames, &c., for gondolas on board. We should therefore build a number of these vessels with all possible despatch; one is now on the stocks, but we want people that understand the construction of them. I have some time ago begged Congress to send one express; let me entreat that some more capable persons may be sent up, and twenty shipwrights with them.

As I fear the saw-mills will not be able to saw a sufficient number of plank, I wish to have a dozen of whip-saws and files sent up with all possible despatch.

I shall order all the batteaus that do not go to St. Johns out of Lake George to Ticonderoga, that they may be ready at that place to be sent to Skenesborough, to convey the Militia, should they be sent up.

I am, with every respectful sentiment, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant, PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, June 12, 1776.

